SAID AT A WAKE.

ECHOED ELOQUENCE FROM THE MICHIGAN CLUB BANQUET.

Isolated Republicans not Safe.-Canada Needs Us and We Must Have Her. -A Feeling Tribute to Blaine.Death, Decomposition, Damnation.-Value of Disinfectants. - We Can Stand Our Licking.

"We expect that the United States will have the same experience as we have had in Michigan. We had just a little Democrat government, and have been trying ever since to get the taste out of our mouths."—P. L. Van Tile.

"The depressing effect of the Demoerat administration of one year ago and the blighting results of the Miner law now no longer exist. To-day, with a single exception, Michigan is governed by Republican state officers and a Reby Republican state officers and a Republican legislature, and the legislature has given an earnest that it appreciates the popular will by repealing the Miner law, which degraded our state for one election too many. We have demonstrated that the Republicans are in a majority in Michigan whenever they see fit to exert themselves."—Gov. J. T. Rich.

"It is especially, at a time like on the eve of a transfer of the national gov-ernment to the Democrat party, that it ernment to the Democrat party, that it becomes a patriotic duty for all true Republicans to meet together in friendly harmony, and renew their pledges to the principles that have made their party great, and the leader during the past generation in all that tends to the progress of the human race, to the development of our country and the glory of our flag. Moreover, in these days, when the Democrat tiger is seductively extending its velvet paw to entice Republicans from their allegiance, it is well for Republicans to get together in sufficient numbers to repel these insidious advances. Who can tell what great Republican President-elect Cleveland Republican President-elect Cleveland may yet be scheming to capture for service in his Cabinet? Isolated and alone no Republican is safe."—J. M.

"No President ever turned over to his successor such opportunities as Benjamin Harrison will hand to his Benjamin Harrison will hand to his successor. The train is now going at such a speed that it can't be stopped, and it remains to be seen whether the conductor has enough nerve to keep his breath or will whistle for brakes and jar the passengers by attempting to bring the cars to a standstill. I hope the new administration will succeed. We want the American flag in the van no matter whose hands bear the van, no matter whose hands bear it up—The administration of President Harrison has been so wonderfully prosperous that other states are knocking and asking that they mingle their stars in our grand constellation."—John At-

"Had Canada been from that date (1783) an integral part of the great republic her population instead of being 5,000,000 would have been 20,000,000, if not 30,000,000, her enormous resources, instead of slumbering untouched in the bowels of the earth, would have been developed or developing, and a happy and contented people would have been sharing to the full in that great wealth and prosperity.

"Today they do not grow. Trade and manufacturers are stagnant. Agriculture is depressed and Canada has become a mere breeding ground for the the United States. The natural increase of their population flows over to us, while the immigrants whom they so laboriously gather, make Canada but a way station and ultimately settle on this side of the border."— Anthony

"The American market is the object of the wonder, the envy and the covetous attack of every other country in the world. With it as a weapon, under the direction of that great lead-er whom a sorrowing people has just laid away, we have broken down the tariffs erected by Germany and France against our farm products, we have en-larged our trade with South America, and have laid the West Indies at our feet."—Anthony Higgins.

"The only permanent and enduring basis of Canadian prosperity is in polit-ical union with the United States. Continental union alone can afford a settlement of all the various vexed questions and subject matters of dis-pute that now exist between the two

With that what is known as the fisheries question would disappear. Ca-nadian fishermen would freely sell their catch in the American market and the hardy sailors of Marblehead and Gloucester would freely fish on the Canadian bank and get their bait and cure their fish on the Canadian shore. The Bering Sea and seal question would disappear and the seals be not destroyed by poachers but he preserved as an interesting and valuable industry. Opium and Chinamen would not be smuggled contrary to the policy of our laws. All smuggling along 4,000 miles of border would cease for the border itself would disappear."—Anthony

"I know it will touch every heart when I mention one magnetic name. The first citizen of America fell to sleep when James G. Blaine drew his sleep when James G. Blaine drew his last breath. He was the target of bitter hatred, but did not know hatred himself. He was the most genial of friends a broad and cultured diplomat. He was looked upon and branded as a narrow partisan. He was hounded and hooted and barked at, and prayed at, and hissed at, but never for an instant and hissed at, but never for an instant did he descend from his lofty and shining height of inborn chivalry. He was master of every weapon in the arena but vituperation."—Rev. Howard

"The only virtue of third parties is their ability to entice weak-kneed Re-publicans to their ranks, thus enabling us to rid ourselves of the weeds which often times destroy the beauty of the flower itself. That they represent all (Continued on Fourth Page.)

A Slick Forger.

A fellow described by the editor of the Waterloo, Ia., Courier as the "smoothest man that has undertaken to make hay in Iowa" has been traveling in that state wearing the name Chas. E. Hiscock and representing himself to be the secretary of the Michigan Furniture Company of Ann Arbor. He is so refined and gentlemanly in his appearance and demeanor that when he presents certified checks to bank tellers they can hardly induce themselves to take even the usual precautions with strangers. No less than six checks signed Chas. E. Hiscock and certified to by W.W. Case or J. J. Muir, two fictitious cashiers, a regular stamp being used, have appeared in Ann Arbor within the last ten days, sent on for collection by banks that have been bitten.

In Waterloo, Ia., he appeared in the role of seeking a new location for the Michigan Furniture Co. and tried to get $350 on a certified check "to use in binding the bargain" he alleged. The cashier to whom he applied telegraphed to the Ann Arbor Savings bank, and received a prompt reply that the man was a forger and to arrest him. But he had gone, and within a few days worked off a $350 check in Des Moines and a $450 check in another city. Officers are after him, and he will be run down very shortly in all probability.

The World's Congresses.

In connection with the Columbian exposition there will be held a series of World's Congresses upon a great variety of subjects. A World's Congress Auxiliary has been organized and authorized by the directory of the exposition to conduct this series, and the Board of Lady Managers have selected committees to act with the corresponding committees of the auxiliary. It is intended in this way to secure the proper presentation of the moral and intellectual progress of the world, and by bringing all departments of human progress into harmonious relation, secure the formation and adoption of better and more comprehensive plans to promote the prosperity, unity, peace and happiness of the world.

Nineteen special congresses are being arranged as follows: In May-Woman's Progress, the Public Press, Medicine and Surgery; in June - Temperence, Moral and Social Reform, Commerce and Finance; in July-Music, Literature, Education; in August-Engineering, Art and Architecture, Political Science, General Department, Science and Philosophy; in September-Labor, Religion and Missions, Sunday Rest; in October-Public Health, Agriculture-Each congress will have general sessions and be subdivided for special

W. C. T. U. in Salem. Through the efforts of department work in the Salem W. C. T. U., new and approved series of temperance physiologies were introduced into the school of district No. 3, one year ago. Mrs. Roben's card of Michigan Temperance School Law has been piaced in the school room. A tobacco pledge has been neatly arranged and hangs upon the wall containing names of those who, having learned from the textbooks the terrible nature and effects of tobacco, are willing to sign it. Miss Clara McCormick, the teacher, faithful in this branch of study as in all others, closes her winter term of school March 10. She proposes to have at the close "a half-day with temperance." Exercises will consist of essays by some of the larger scholars, dialogues, single recitations and songs, and an oral review in each class of physiology. Even the litlittle ones will be able to express intelligently the nature and effects of alcohol and kindred narcotics upon the human system, having been thoroughly taught oral lessons from Child's Health Primer. Miss McCormick extends an invitation to visit her school on that day especially to the W. C. T. U., and patrons of district. Mrs. Altha Comstock, Supt. Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. Florence Ross, Supt. Narcotics.

Inter-University Debate,

The preliminary debate between the four literary societies of the University, held to choose representatives for the U. of M. vs. U. of W. debate March 31, took place last Monday evening in the law lecture room. The contestants were eight in number, two from each society. Four speaking in the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that the U. S. should adopt the policy of subsidizing the mercantile marine," and four on the negative. The debaters were Messrs Falknor, Jefferis, Best and Troy of the law department, and Reddick, Purdy, Lipson and Kilbride of the literary societies. The Freshman Glee and Banjo Club furnished the music. The judges were Rev. C. M. Cobern, and Prof. H. C. Adams. The marking was on the scale of 600, the winner and their marks

The Fredericksburg Campaign.

At the last meeting of Welch Post, G. A. R. Feb. 17, Robert Campbell read an essay giving a personal reminiscence of the Fredericksburg campaign and battle, from the field of Antietam to the close of Gen. Burnsides' command of the Army of the Potomac. He spoke of the favorable opportunity which he had while engaged upon special staff duty for witnessing and taking notes upon some of the chief and greatest battles of the Rebellion, having had three summers of campaigning in the Army of the Potomac; also of meeting Abraham Lincoln, Gen's. McClellen, Burnside, Hooker and other celebrated men; but most especially he gave in detail the movement of the union troops as one column after another assaulted that terrible stronghold upon Marye's Heights, where the soldiers were hurled back or cut down in what has been called the "useless slaughter pen of Fredericksburg." It was voted that the essay be filed with the records of the post.

$15 in His Inside Pocket.

Fred Roehm, employed at Besimer's, was arrested last week on the charge of larceny in the day time. A student named Louis Vermandez was the complainant. He stated that he dropped three five dollar bills on the floor in Deans & Co.'s store, and Roehm was seen to pick up some money there. Mr. Vermandez identified his three bills from among those that Roehm had in his possession. Roehm admitted picking up the money but claimed that it dropped by accident from his own pocket. He waived examination before Justice Pond and was bond over to the circuit court. His bond was fixed at $500.

Mistakes Corrected.

The rumor that natural gas had been struck near Ann Arbor arose from the taste of the city water this past week. It was a false alarm.

It is not true that a company is supplying Ann Arbor with crude oil for fuel by piping it about the city. The oil has too much water in it for burning

The rumor of a collusion between the brewery company and the water company to drive the people to hard drink proves unfounded; the oily condition of the water was unintentional.

Nature's Surest Ally.

Carrots, 1 to 2 hours.

If nature did not struggle against disease, even in weakly constitutions, swift indeed would be the course of a malady to its fatal termination. While nature thus struggles let us, lest worse befall us, aid her efforts with judicial medical help. Experience must be our guide in battles with disease, and that "lamp to our feet" indicates Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a safe tried and thorough ally of nature. If the blood be infected with bile, if the bowels and stomach are inactive, if the kidneys ar the natural outlet, a course of the Bitters is the surest reliance of the sur ferer, one, moreover, that is sanctioned by professional indorsement and use for nearly half a century. No Ameri-can or foreign remedy has earned greater distinction as a remedy for and pre-ventative of chronic liver complaint malaria, constipation, kidney and rheu matic trouble and debility.

How to Make a Lap Writing Tablet. Get a board half an inch thick, fourteen inches wide and twenty-six long. Cover it on the upper or right side with felt of some dark shade, folding the edges under the boards and tacking them on. A cambric covering is sewed or tacked on the under side of the board. Cut out felt pieces-two to hold various sized paper, one for envelopes and one for postal cards. These are tacked down flat on three sides. A safety inkstand can be nailed on also, or else a wooden piece with a circular hole, into which the inkstand can be set. In the center, reaching almost across the board, lay a sheet of blotting paper, with triangular corners of felt to hold it in place. A strip of felt is tacked down in loops, in which pencils, pens, knife, etc., can be inserted. Last of all, tack a calendar flat on the board, and, if desired, a penwiper and a stampbox.

How to Treat a Lamp.

1. Never turn it down. When lighting, leave the wick low a short time, and when the flow of oil through the wick is established and the chimney is heated it can be turned up to make a strong flame. If after this the wick is turned low, the burning surface is decreased while the supply of oil is not lessened. That which is not consumed becomes an unpleasant and unhealthful gas which vitiates the air. 2. Keep every part of the lamp clean, especially the chimney and burner. If the perforations of the latter become clogged with dust or oil, the lamp smokes. Once in a while boil the wick tubes in soda and water.

HOW TO HAVE A FAIR SKIN. Practical Hints on the Care of the Com-

There is no such flesh tonic as a morning hand bath of cold salt water for all but those weaklings who find the effect too severe. For an oily skin a little camphor in the wash basin or rubbing the face with a cloth instead of the hands will prove beneficial.

Sunburn may be removed by either the white of one egg and the juice of a lemon heated (not boiled) together for a half hour, or two cups young, fresh let tuce mashed and mixed with one cup of boiling mutton tallow, left to boil up, then strained, perfumed, beaten till cold and packed for use in a covered jar.

Moist starch or hot water will remove the discoloration from a bruise.

The use of a handful of bran, tied in a cloth and dipped in tepid water, will help to smooth a roughened skin. A few drops of benzoin in a little water, rubbed over the flesh after a bath, imparts a de lightful, violetlike odor to the body.

For freckles use either of these mix tures: Two-thirds lemon juice to one third Jamaica rum, or one ounce lemon juice, 14 drams borax, one-half dram sug ar, left bottled several days before using The lips may be bathed with alum water occasionally and then rubbed with camphor ice, or with this preparation if they should be chapped: One cup of peeled and grated ripe cucumber stirred in one cup of clarified boiling mutton tallow and beaten till cold; then perfumed and packed in a covered jar. Beautifiers pure and simple are the following, to be used as washes: 1. The extracted milk of freshly grated cocoa nut. 2. One pint Pond's extract and two ounces glycerin added to one quart of boiled water and applied with a soft cloth. 3. Flowers of sulphur mixed with milk, which is poured off after an hour or two, and rubbed on the face with a cloth. Steaming the face before going to bed is likewise recommended. It is said that the habit of regularly sleeping upon either side brings wrinkles about that eye, to prevent which it would be as well to lie on each side for part of the Bathing the face frequently with very hot water is sometimes enthusiastically advised. It is certain that it thoroughly cleanses the skin, which otherwise less often done than one cares to consider. But it may be doubted whether a multitude of the tiniest lines and wrinkles do not follow its persistent use. So cold water certainly roughens the face, and soap causes it to shine unduly. Perhaps the most reasonable alternative is the careful appliance of nothing except warm water, and a thorough washing once a day, followed by rinsing, with some good soap. This course cannot possibly harm; more than possibly it may help.

He took hold of the figure's shoulder and shook it.

Still no reply. Turning Souri over he at once recognized the face of the "mulatto girl."

In an instant he saw through the ruse that had been practiced. Without stepping to interrogate her, he rushed from the room past the sentinel at the door and out to the guardhouse. There he gave the alarm, and in a moment the whole guard was in motion.

Souri hoped that the sentinel at the door would join in the chase, in which event she intended to go to Jakey's room, get him out and attempt to escape. But the soldier only went as far as the door at the head of the long staircase. Then, remembering that he would doubtless be punished for letting one prisoner escape, and that there were several negroes in the "black hole" for him to guard, he went no farther.

In five minutes Souri heard the barking of hounds without. No word was sent to headquarters regarding Mark's escape till the hounds had followed the scent to the river and there lost it. Then one of the guards was sent in to report the whole affair. Being an infantryman, he was obliged to walk, which took time. Cavalry was the only arm of the service capable of following the escaped man with a chance of success, and cavalry must be ferried across the river or ordered from Dallas. on the other side, ten miles above. The latter course was chosen, and two squadrons were directed to proceed at once, the one to throw a chain guard across the neck of Moccasin point, the other to scour the river bank for a distance of several miles below. Had there been any cavalry nearer, Mark would have had a very slender chance to get away. As it was, he barely escaped one of the squadrons.

About noon of the day after Mark's escape the military authorities began to relax their efforts to recapture him. as they had other matters of importance to attend to, but they induced the country people, by hope of a reward, to continue the search within a radius of ten or fifteen miles from Chattanooga. The provost marshal sent for Souri and Takey with a view to gaining from them whatever he might concerning Mark's identity and his mission. Souri, whose only clothing was that left her by Mark, begged Mrs. Triggs to get her more suitable apparel before being taken out of the jail. Had the old woman any excuse, indeed had it not been for the presence of the guard at the door, there is no telling what she might have done to Souri. To have been thus duped put her in a towering passion. She went into Souri's cell and berated her with her tongue and shook her fist in her face, but refrained from touching her. When Souri asked for a woman's dress she at first flatly refused, but fearing she would incur the displeasure of the provost marshal still further than she had if she should send a girl to him not properly dressed she selected an old calico frock of her own and gave it to her.

Souri and Jakey were led to the marshal's office, followed by a crowd of curious people, who were aware that they had been the means of the escape of a spy, but when they arrived the crowd were left outside.

Never was a man more puzzled what to do with prisoners than the marshal in the case of Souri and Jakey. He saw a simple, modest, poor white country girl, apparently not out of her "teens," and a stupid looking boy, who was not very far into them.

"Who are you?" he asked of Souri not unkindly. "Missouri Slack." "Where do you live?"

"On the Anderson road, not far from

"And this boy?"

"He's my brother." "When did you come from home?"

"Three days ago." "What brought you, or how did you know that the prisoner was here and in

'Jakey sent me word."

"This boy?"

"How?"

"He sent me a silk hankercher what I give t'other un.' "How did you send it, boy?"

"Niggers."

"Well, you two are pretty young to be engaged in such mischief."

The officer looked at them with interest and vexation mingled. He had lost a prisoner for whom he was responsible, but he could not but wonder at such a dull looking boy achieving so difficult a task as sending the communication, and could not but admire the sacrifice made by the girl.

"What do you think I ought to do with

"Reckon y' mought gimme back my gun," said Jakey.

The officer could not repress a smile. "What gun?"

"Th' one yer tuk t'other day." "Go and get the boy's gun, orderly," ne said to a soldier on duty at the door. The gun was not to be found then, but was recovered later, and Jakey was happy in receiving it. 'Do you know what you've been doing?" the officer resumed, addressing "I can't stay here and compromise

"I have a plan. This evening I will watch for an opportunity for you to go down stairs. You can introduce yourself as a guest, and though you will be every minute in danger you will be safer than here.'

"And, in case I am discovered, will not be caught like a rat in a trap."

"You can appear as a traveler. You must have a hat. I will bring you one. At the first opportunity after dark I'll come to the trap and knock. Follow me down stairs. I don't think any one will recognize you in these clothes. They have been packed away since my brother went to Virginia a year ago. Mamma only saw you, when you were here before, after dark on the veranda, andwell, I think there will be a very good chance for you to play guest without detection."

"The servants?" "They would never betray a Yankee, They think you are all coming down to free them, and they'll have nothing to do but lie in the sun."

"Not an unpleasant occupation on a pleasant day," said Mark irrelevantly. "Should anything happen, I only fear mamma. And, after all, she is a woman," she added significantly.

"Which you pretend not to be." "If all goes well you will be assigned a room-the guest chamber perhapsand if it is not safe for you to be down stairs, you may feign to be ill and keep your apartment.'

Mark was better pleased with the plan than remaining where he was. He did not expect to remain in the house longer than till the next night, when he hoped those who were seeking for him would become tired of the hunt and give him a chance for his life.

"I'll do all you suggest," he said to Laura, "and whether you wish it or not I am very grateful."

She lowered her eyes under his look of gratitude and then went below.

As soon as it grew dark Mark listened for the signal. It came a few minutes before nine o'clock. Mrs. Fain had remained in the parlor up to that moment when she went up stairs to get some article necessary to a piece of work she was doing. Laura followed her, turning out the lights by the way and keeping on up

Within a few seconds after her knock Mark was descending the stairs and in a twinkling was in the parlor. Not half a minute elapsed between the signal and his arrival there.

It was not long before Mrs. Fain was heard groping about up stairs in the dark, wanting to know who had turned out the lights and calling on a servant to relight them. When she entered the parlor she was surprised to see her daughter in company with a stranger, who was standing, hat in hand, as though he had just come in from without.

"Mamma," said Laura, with her heart in her throat, but with the most assured of innocent tones, "this is a gentleman who-Mr."---

"Rhett," supplied Mark.

"Mr. Rhett, of"-"South Carolina."

Any old Virginia or South Carolina name was quite enough to insure a wel-come from Mrs. Fain. Without waiting to hear what he might say further or an account of how he came to be there so suddenly, she said:

'I'm pleased to see you, sir; are you related to the Rhetts, of South Caro-

"We all came of the same main stem. madam," said Mark, assuming the tone of a southern gentleman.

"Mr. Rhett is traveling, mamma. He says that-that"-"I am looking for mines, madam.

You may not know it, but you are in the center of a rich mineral region." It is pleasant to hear that fortune may come soon, and Mrs. Fain was evidently much pleased at the informa-

"Indeed!" she said calmly.

"Yes, madam, I have been looking for ore. I presume I need not say whether in government interest or not; we must have cannons, you know." "Government officers are not bound to disclose their identity or their objects,

"I have been prospecting, madam, and am separated from my party owing to the stupidity of the driver of the vehicle which contains my crucibles and chemicals. I appeared at your door and your daughter was kind enough to ask me in-not surprising, considering your far famed Tennessee hospitality."

"You are quite welcome, sir." Mark bowed low, with his hand on his heart, like a South Carolina gentleman of the old school.

"Have you supped?" asked Mrs. Fain. "Yes, madam; I succeeded in getting a meal by the way. A poor one, indeed a very poor one, with burned beans for coffee. But since the abolition Lincoln government has violated all rules of civilized warfare by this cruel blockade -intending to starve us into subjection -I suppose we must take what we can get. I repeat it, we must take what we can get, madam.' Mark's eyes flashed with well feigned

"It is our duty to bear our depriva-tions cheerfull," said Mrs. Fain. "We shall gain our independence at last, and that should be an incentive."

"It should, madam, and let me tell you we are about to see stirring times and great successes. This region has become of especial military importance. Our forces will be in front of Nashville, perhaps Louisville, very soon, while General Lee can't fail with such noble men as he has in his army-the very flower of the south-the flower of the south, madam-he can't fail, I say, to drive the Yankees out of Virginia!"

"It will not do for you to stay here much longer," she said. "My mother has already become suspicious that I have something on my mind, and I fear "You are very hopeful." While Mark was thus performing, being detected carrying these meals. I dare not tell her all, and I dare not risk Laura stood with downcast eyes, and if her mother had not been so interested in the hopeful words of the garrulous South Carolinian she would have noticed "It will be sure capture for you to go, a slow heaving of her daughter's bosom, with here and there a slight spasmoone

"And now, madam," said Mark, "may I beg a night's lodging? I fear it is too late to find my party." "Certainly, sir. Call Miranda, my Miranda was summoned and directed to show the gentleman to the guest chamber on the second floor in the front of the house.

Mark went with the servant and remained in his room long enough to have made a toilet and then sanntered down stairs. At the door of the parlor in which Mrs. Fain and her daughter were sitting, he paused, as if waiting for an invitation to enter. This was given him, but he did not stay long. For a hot blooded South Carolinian, he seemed not to bear the heat well, and manifested a desire to get out on to the veranda. Indeed he had a wholesome dread of the light. Besides he desired to be where he could converse with Laura.

"If I may beg you to excuse me, la-dies," he said, "I will go out for a little night air myself." "Do you think it essential, mamma?" "Certainly I do. South Carolinians are especially particular about the entertainment of their guests, and I wouldn't have it go back to Charleston that we had been remiss for the world."

Laura obeyed her mother and joined the guest on the veranda.

Mark lifted his hat respectfully to her, "The moon is rising," he remarked. "I see the waxing light. If you will come this way," going to the end of the veranda, "you can see it better." Laura followed him to the position, where they were out of hearing The relief from keeping Mark concealed in the garret, the success of the imposition of the spurious South Carolinan on her mother, Mark's talent for playing his part, all combined to place Laura Fain in an exhilarated frame of mind. Like most women she admired daring, and like most women appre-

tent of the danger attending it. "You are safe for the present," she said, her eyes glistening in the moonlight and a bright spot on each cheek. "Thanks to your courage and ingenu-

"Oh, no; no! That's absurd! For you to speak of my courage! Do you know that the recklessness with which you put your neck into a halter is as unintelligible to me as mathematics would be to one of our servants."

"For the cause," said Mark, "one ought to"-

"Nonsense! The cause! You love these dangers."

"There is a fascination in them, I admit. So long as there is one chance for me, no matter how many there are against me—so long as I have an arm or a weapon to fight with I am a man. When cornered and taken I am the veriest coward in the world. While in prison in Chattanooga I moaned and whined like a frightened child. The truth is that danger is fascinating only either before it is encountered or after it has passed. When I am in it I want to get out of it; when I am out of it I want to get in it again."

"I don't believe you know the meaning of the word fear."

"Indeed you are mistaken. If I did not feel fear there would be no fascination in danger.

Then you have a way with making people do what you like. When you were here before you fascinated all the servants. You completely captivated Uncle Daniel, who has talked of no one

"You are Mephistopheles. You come here and compel me to harbor you. You are seeking to injure the cause I favor, and I give you my brother's clothes when that brother is fighting for that cause. Why do I not send for some one to come and take you?"

THE Democratic editors of this state met in Grand Rapids last week and organized an association. The Republicans organized about three years ago. It takes all of that time for a Democrat to recognize an improvement and get ready to imitate it.

MAYOR PINGREE, of Detroit, in his official capacity is engaged in a lively fight with certain corporations in that eity. These organizations of capital are making it warm for his honor in every way possible. Of course his adversaries will be more active and enterprising than his friends and he is probably doomed to political decapitation at the hands of the very people whose interests he is attempting to secure.

THE SUBURBAN TRAIN.

It seems quite possible that the M. C.R. R. will put on an extra train making two round trips a day between Ann Arbor and Detroit. They are rather compelled to do this in order to relieve the through trains of the local traffic thrown upon them since the F. & P. M. trains no longer run into Detroit over the Central tracks. It has also been suggested that commutation tickets be sold, making this new train really suburban in character. This suggestion has met with considerable opposition on the part of some of our business men. They have felt that easier communication with Detroit would seriously injure the business interests of Ann Arbor, by subjecting them to Detroit competition. These fears are not wholly groundless. Of course with a cheap rate to Detroit the number of people who would take advantage of it-to do certain kinds of shopping in that city might be considerably increased for a time. But it would not last long. Those of our merchants, who would be affected are perfectly able to compete with Detroit and win. They have many advantages of positien, and are as keen business men as any in the city of the straits. They might feel it very slightly, while the cheap rate was a new thing, but they would more than make it up. Such a connection with Detroit promises well for Ann Arbor in all other directions, from the start. Our city possesses a powerful attraction for Detroit people in our University and public schools, and is a wonderfully clean, beautiful city for residence purposes. It is almost absolutely certain that hundreds of Detroit people will make Ann Arbor their home when the cost of traveling back and forth shall have been reduced to a reasonable figure, and with this increase in population prosperity in every direction.

SAID AT A WAKE.

the deplorable elements of our political system and are a menace to our country's peace and progress is told in the story of bleeding Kansas, which seems to be the great American menagerie of political freaks and frauds."—James

"Mugwumps have no place in our ranks. I know now and then a man in our party gets so filled with self-con ceit, so stuck on his own purity and ability that he leaves us and calls himself an independent. You have few of them in the West. We have quite a sprinkling of them in the East, not a few in New York City. There their habits have been studied and their peculiarities classified. They hold their garments high and talk about purity and honesty and nonpartizanship nearly up to the day of election and then they tumble over each other in their strug-gle to get to the polls and vote for Tammany with all its corruption and rottenness."—Roswell G. Horr.

"I surely thought that the conduct of that party (the Democrat) during the war would kill and bury it forever. So it should have done. Such conduct, according to all the known pulse of mortality should have been rules of mortality, should have been followed by death—decomposition—and damnation."—Roswell G. Horr.

"I would have every Republican stand by his guns When any law is proposed that he feels sure will injure the country there should be no ambiguous work on his part. His utterance should instantly be one of warning and defiance. 'Pass such a law if you will, but in your route to its enactment you must pass over my prostrate form. What there is of me will be found opposing your scheme at every step and by all methods known to honorable men.' And whenever the Democrat party shall propose a good measure turn in and help them pass it and thus show that we are patriots first, and partisans afterward.

"Holding this view I did not carp at the appointment of Gresham to head Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. He has been Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. He has been a Republican so long that his features are somewhat set. He will do the decent thing many times from mere habit. His associations have been good, If he can stand the Democrat party, can afford to be called a part of it, we can surely endure it as well with him in it as we could stand it free from any disinfectants."—Roswell G. Horr.

"They (the Democrats) must now assume the responsibility of actual legis-lation. Heretofore their task has been an entirely different one. To find fault with existing laws and to propose and vote for measures that they knew would never be tried has been easy. To originate plans and fix upon a policy that must stand the crucial test of actual exercises it is business. tual experiment is business. To rant about things as they are and not to prophesy milleniums that will follow the adoption of some beautiful theory is not difficult. The shallow and the visionary can do that. To replace the visionary can do that. To replace the old with something new that is better, to formulate laws that will meet great emergencies and prevent financial disasters requires deep thought, business experience, courage and honesty of purpose. Wind is the distinguishing feature of the demagogue, wisdom is the crowning glory of the statesman. "No one can tell what the Morrison or Mills bills would have been had their authors expected them to become of Mins would have been had their authors expected them to become laws. It is one thing to shape a measure to 'yawl' about, quite another to frame one that is to be applied by actual test to the workings of our great industries."—Roswell G. Horr.

"There is an element high in the councils of the Republican party and potential in its guidance, who having either never been Republicans in their convictions or who have not had the courage of their convictions. We have been cursed by an element which was apparently too sensitive for man and without sufficient vertebra for angels. They have never been able to withtand the sneers and carnings of their Democrat opponents. Ofttimes they have been carried forward by and with the Republican party to victory. Immediately that victory has been secured and the fighting men of the Republican party have retired for needed rest from the heat and burden of the fray, those white-souled sensitive plants have begun to conciliate the vanquished by apologizing for the errors and rudeness of the victors. There never has been a great victory of principles by the Republican party the effect of which these gentlemen have not lessened, if not nullified, by their subsequent concessions to the clamors and the sneers of the Democracy.—Stephen A.

"The man who cannot stand a lick-The man who cannot stand a licking is not worthy of the name of man. The man or party which changes its principles because of a licking is beneath the contempt of all men. No great principle has ever been finally established without intervening temporary defeat. No great good has ever come to mankind whose coming or whose pathway has not been marked by something of sorrow, something of tears. The men whose lives have brought blessings to this nation, whose names are written upon the pages of its history in letters of everlasting light, are not the men who never enountered difficulty or met temporary defeat, but are the men whom difficulty did not deter nor defeat daunt, men who never knew when they were whipped.—Stephen A. Such a nature makes glad the heart; it makes happy the time.

ness, any or all these, it is impossible for her to be light-hearted and happy.

And in the spring these feelings are very prevalent because of the torpid condition of the system after the winter. She must be cured first, and, with re-turning health, her old-time spirits will come back.

If women will follow closely the advice and example of our bright and attractive correspondent, Mrs. Elmer Craig, of Le Roy, Ill., they can easily attain both health and good spirits.

Before I used this wonderful medicine the nerves in my area were so affected. the nerves in my eyes were so affected that I feared that I would lose my sight. I would get so nervous and weak sight. I would get so nervous and weak I could not walk across the room without terrible palpitation of the heart. I had not taken one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, before my head and eyes were cleared of their dull aching, and I am growing stronger every day. FOOD ADULTERATION.

CALL THINGS BY THEIR RIGHT NAMES.

Michigan Needs a Food Commissioner With Plenty of Power and Assist-

At a recent annual meeting of the State Horticultural Society, Mr. A. Tucker, of Ann Arbor, read a very able paper on the adulteration of food products and the necessity of a food commission. Lack of space permits but a few extracts:

"Distilled vinegar is always water-white, being entirely devoid of color-ing matter unless artificially added, while fermented vinegar is always more or less highly colored according to the product from which it is made. Distilled vinegar includes what is general ly known as white wine vinegar, whisky vinegar, and that sometimes called corn vinegar, and all made from low wines, and in its natural state is the color of water. Cider vinegar has always and everywhere been regarded as the standard, not only more palatable but more healthful, and costing more than twice as much to produce as the distilled vinegar of equal strength. If these two classes of vinegar were both left in their natural coior, both brand-ed and sold true to their name, each standing or falling upon its merits, no injustice would be done to the manu-facturer or dealer in either class of vinegar, and the consumer would get what he paid for. As it is now done, and has been since the repeal of the national revenue law in 1879, relating to the tax apon low wines manufactured and used or the making of vinegar, this distilled vinegar is artificially colored to resem-ble o'der vinegar, and is branded "pure fruit" or "cider" vinegar, and the consumer, because of its color, and being branded pure cider or fruit vinegar, and very conscious that he has paid the price of cider vinegar, supposes he has what he paid for.

"Who is injured by this fraud? Every man who grows fruit is robbed of his market for his cull fruit, which means, in an average year in Michigan a loss to the fruitgrowers, in their cull alone, of a good round mil Now, who is benefited? Some two or three manufacturers of distilled vinegar in the state, together with the dealers, who mutually share in the profits of this gigantic swindle. But, says some one, if the distilled vinegar is cheaper, and is not unwholesome, is it not to the interest of the poor and laboring classes that this should be tolerated? There would be a plausibility about this if the consumer got his vinegar cheaper by reason of this com-mercial fraud. But he does not. He pays the price of cider vinegar, and it is for the purpose of obtaining this price that the distilled vinegar is thus artificially colored and branded, and the extra profits resulting therefrom are shared by the manufacturer, the jobber, and the retailer, and the poor consumer is the victim. "What is true of vinegar is also true of butter. Some two or three many-times millionaire corporations of Chicago, by the manufacture of oleomar garine or butterine, have driven thousands of cows out of Michigan as well as other dairy states, thereby greatly crippling a very profitable farming in-dustry, resulting in the deterioration of farm lands, forcing dairy farmers to produce other commodities with which the market is already surfeited. Hog products are also depressed by counterfeiting lard with cottonseed oil; and here, again, the farmers are the losers, to the full extent of the profits gained by a few large packing-houses Buckwheat flour is compounded with poor, musty, low-grade wheat and corn. The hulls of buckwheat are used to adulterate ground black pepper. Coffee in the berry is modeled out of a paste composed of flour, beef liver, and chickory. Maple syrup is compounded with glucose. Jellies labeled "pure fruit" are made from glucose, acids, and gelatine, matter so filthy that no manufacturer of them would think using them for himself or family. Fruit jams are made from pumpkins or squash for their base, fixed up with glucose and acids, flavored with fruit extracts, and seeds are supplied by using timothy or clover seed to suit the flavoring extract and the label on the

"What is the remedy? I answer create the office of food commissioner in Michigan, with at least two assistants and a state chemist who shall anallyze all products of food or drugs submitted to him by the food commis-sioner; and supply sufficient funds to enable this officer to do efficient work. Clothe the food commissioner with power to enter a man's place of business and inspect, and extreme cases to seize, in case of harmful and unhealthful products; to prosecute offenders without unnecessary delay by post-ponements and adjournments and the like means, by which the ends of justice are so often defeated; and if laws and penalties as now upon the statute books of the state are not sufficiently books of the state are not sufficiently explicit and strong to enable the food commissioner to stamp out this nefarious business, see to it that they are so amended and strengthened as to render them efficient. I would let every man make and sell anything he saw fit, if not unhealthful, but compel every manufacturer and vender to brand and sell true to name under heavy pearly sell true to name, under heavy penal-ties, and so provide for the enforce-ment of all laws relating to adulterations that their execution shall be swift and sure.

"If a citizen of Michigan wishes to eat oleomargarine or butteroine,or pre-fers distilled vinegar to pure cider vinegar, he should have those goods as cheaply as competition in their manufacture and sale can produce them, and should not be compelled to pay the price that should be paid for the genuine goods. On the other hand, if a citizen of our state wants pure cider vin-egar or pure butter, and pays the price for it, he should have it; and those manufacturers and venders wno practice these commercial frauds should be made to feel the force of the law and public censure by a public exposure.'

I bethought myself the other day to visit the Ypsilantian who prophesied an "open winter" but found the untrodden "beautiful" piled in a mountainette before his door and upon solicitous inquiry was given to understand that his neighbors turned the cold shoulder upon him, also addressing various freezing remarks to his family all of which together with his undersized stock of coal caused him to flee to the land of oranges and alligators where he is busily shaking with the chills he forgot to leave in Michigan. ROOT AND BRANCH, the poison in your blood, however it may have come or whatever shape it may be taking, is cleared away by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Dis-covery. It's a remedy that rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses and invigorates the whole system. Salt-rheum, Tet-ter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Car-buncles, Enlarged Glands, and the worst Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, are perfectly and permanently cured by it.

Farm Notes.

The value of Alsike Clover is fast gaining great popularity. It is perennial, and the most hardy of all clovers, on moist, rich soil, it yields an enormous quantity of hay. The best results are obtained by mixing it with other clovers and timothy, when thus mixed they are a help to each other; the Alsike being a native of a cold climate winter does not kill and also protects the red clover. The timothy and red clover being both upright growers lift up the more slender Alsike with its numerous branches and prevent its "lodging." The heads are globular, fragrant and much liked by bees, which obtain a large amount of honey from them. The seed is much smaller than the Red Clover, consequently about one-half the usual quantity is sufficient for sewing, and is obtained from the first cutting. It can be bought in any quantity at K. J. Rogers Farm Implement and Seed Store, 25 and 27 Detroit-st, Junc. 5-ave., Ann Arbor, Mich.

SEVENTEEN MILLIONS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. - Secretary

Mr. Foster's Estimate of the Surplus in the Treasury.

Foster, of the treasury department, was before the ways and means comnittee of the house for nearly two hours explaining the condition of the treasury. The hearing was conducted with closed doors. The statement of Secretary Foster was to the effect that there was no occasion for fear of a bankrupt treasury, but he admitted that the situation was one demanding serious consider-ation and that his estimates of the available cash in the treasury at the close of the present fiscal year would need to be scaled down to some extent. Mr. Foster thought that there would be a surplus in the treasury July 1 next of nearly $17,-000,000. His estimate in the report heretofore sent to the committee on the condition of the treasury fixed the surplus at $20,000,000.

The probabilities for the fiscal year 1894 were that in the absence of some change in the situation there would be a deficit in the treasury on July , 1894. He believed that $50,-000,000 more revenue should raised and put into the treasury in order to make everything safe and the conditions favorable for a proper administration of the affairs of the government. He offered no suggestions as to whether this amount should be raised by a loan or by additional taxation.

In explanation of the reduction in his estimated surplus for the close of the current fiscal year Mr. Foster said that the payment of the Choctaw claim had not been estimated when he placed the surplus at $20,000,000. Its payment would take about $3,000,000. The receipts had also fallen somewhat below his estimates and at the close of the fiscal year would probably be less than he had estimated.

A FEARFUL DEED.

Two Young Women in Georgia Shot Dead

by Their Sister. ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 27.-Miss Julia Force shot and killed her two younger sisters. Florence and Minnie, Saturday afternoon at the residence of her brother, A. W. Force. The murderess is 38 years of age, while her victims are 30 and 25 respectively. Shortly after the killing Julia entered police headquarters and gave herself up, saying to Capt. Wright: "I have committed a crime and want to get the protection of the law." was immediately taken into the office of the chief of detectives. She thought to be insane, which is the only plausible explanation of the deed.

A small crowd soon gathered in front of the residence on Crew street. At first nobody save the officers were ad mitted. Mr. Force himself answered the knocks at the door. He explained to them all that his two sisters were dead and that the other sister was in the hands of the police.

Mrs. Force, mother of the girls, was down town when the tragedy occurred and soon afterward returned to the house to find two of her daughters dead and the other in the hands of the law. The murderess is still in the city prison where she refuses to talk to anyone. The Force family is one of the highest in the south. It is re lated to leading families throughout South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi.

Prospects of Hawaiian Annexation Doomed for the Present.

Commissioner Thurston Says Nothing Further Will Be Done Until the New Administration Assumes Control of the Government.

WON'T BE CONFIRMED.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The chances of annexing Hawaii during the present session of congress are at an end. This can be announced on the authority of Commissioner Thurston, who is at the head of the Hawaiian delegation. Mr. Thurston was seen by a correspondent with a view to ascertaining what steps would be taken during the coming week to push the treaty to confirmation.

For the first time Mr. Thurston admitted that all hope of confirming the mitted that all hope of confirming the treaty had been abandoned. Said he:
"No further steps will be taken until President Cleveland's administration has begun. It will be useless to push the subject further during the present administration, as the effort would have fallen short of securing a confirmation of the treaty, and it might have increased certain antagonisms. There is reason to believe that some of the opposition is due to a feeling that a subject of this magnitude ought not to be undertaken by an administration on the eve of its retirement. This opposition is not against the treaty itself. For that reason it is best to let the matter rest until after Mr. Cleveland's administration begins, as it will dissolve the opposition." dissolve the opposition.

Commissioner Castle was with Mr Thurston at the time the foregoing statement was made, and fully coincided with it. They made it clear, also, that they were not expressing a mere opinion as to what would be done, but were speaking from positive information as to a programme fully agreed upon. Under the new arrangement the entire subject goes over to President Cleveland and his secretary of state. It is probable that the treaty will be withdrawn and the subject presented to congress anew by Secretary Gresham, as the senate would no longer be subject to the recommendations of a president who is out of office. This course would be pursued even though the views of Mr. Cleveland and Judge Gresham were known to be the same as those expressed in the communica tions already laid before the senate. The treaty itself will probably be reexecuted, in order to give it the additional prestige of an act wholly performed by Mr. Cleveland's administra-

A NARROW ESCAPE.

John W. Mackay, the California Bonanza

King, Shot by an Iusane Man. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25 .- John W. Mackay, the famous Bonanza millionaire and president of the Postal Telegraph company, lies in bed at the Palace hotel with a bullet hole in his back just below the shoulder blade W. C. Rippey, the man who shot him, is at the receiving hospital with a bullet wound in his chest, self-inflicted and probably mortal. It was a case of attempted assassination. The intended victim will surely recover and the shooter will almost as surely die.

There is only one conclusion as to the motive, and that is that Rippey was practically insane through losses in mines and mining stocks, and that his mania, assuming the homicidal form, was directed against John Mackay as the author of his misfortunes. As far as can now be learned Mackay did not know Rippey, and, in fact, the two men had never met. It was simply a bit of marvelous luck that saved the millionaire from death or injury that would have made him a cripple for life.

Mackay is the richest man on the coast. His fortune is variously estimated at $30,000,000 to $50,000,000. Mrs. Mackay, his wife, is famous all over Europe in a social way and on account of the royal manner in which she entertains.

WIND'S FATAL WORK.

The Walls of a Burned Building in Chicago Fall.

They Crush Another Structure in Their Descent - Ten Persons Buried in the Debris, of Whom Eight Lose Their Lives.

CRUSHED TO DEATH. CHICAGO, Feb. 28 .- By the falling of the north wall of the gutted John York building, Nos. 765 and 781 Halsted street, at 1:15 o'clock this morning, the two-story frame building adjoining was crushed and two families wiped out of existence. In all ten persons were buried, as follows:

buried, as follows:

John Kunze, jeweler, crushed beyond recognition: Mrs. Kunze, horribly mutilated, body almost torn in two: Frank Kunze, son, slightly hurt: John Smith, saloonkeeper, skull crushed; Mrs. Smith, body crushed, taken out unconscious: Dolly Smith, crushed: Faith Smith, body crushed; Hattle Smith, body crushed; Pauline —, servant; George —, bartender.

The wall was shaken by the high winds during the night, but, no danger winds during the night, but no danger was felt until after midnight, when the cracking was heard by persons on the street, but no alarm was given. When the fall came the frame buildings were crushed and covered by the debris and those within had no chance to escape. The crash roused everyone on the block, and, as the ruins took fire at once, a 2-11 alarm was turned in and ten engine companies began the work of attempted rescue. The ruins were crushed through to the basements and now lie even with the sidewalk. It was impossible to get into the debris to attempt the work of rescue and the firemen were compelled to throw water on the smoking ruins. knowing that their work might be ending the life of some unfortunate lying half dead in the wreckage.

In the building No. 763 was the family of John Kunze, who keeps the jewelry store on the ground floor. The family consisted of the father, mother and son Frank, who is associated with his father in the store. To the former the night of death succeeded in a breath that which brought cessation from the day's labor. The weight of the wall, which came down with the velocity of a shot, demolished the little frame structure, and Mr. and Mrs. Kunze died in their beds without a sign.

The building No. 761 was occupied on the ground floor by the saloon of John Smith. With his family he occupied the second story. In this structure, which received the weight of the top of the wall, and which now lies in a heap in the basement, leveled with the street, the greatest lost of life occurred.

The family consisted of John Smith and his wife, their three children, Dolly aged 12 years, Faith aged 10 years, and Hattie aged 4, the servant Paulina, and the bartender George. All were crushed when the building became a mass of splinters, mingling with the brick and mortar of the ruined struc-

The fire which broke out from an overturned stove as soon as the wreck occurred showed through the ruins in tongues of flame and masses of smoke, betraying the destruction beneath. So hot was the blaze that it was impossible for any one to get close enough to discover the extent of the damage or do anything in the way of rescue. After a time the fire was gotten under control and the work of rescue began.

Kansas Populists Decide to Abandon Their House Organization.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 28.—After a heated caucus discussion lasting from 8:30 Monday morning until 6 o'clock p. m. the populist members of the legislature decided to go into the republican house, which the supreme court had declared to be the legal body. The governor visited the members of the caucus and pledged himself to abide by the caucus decision. The populists will enter representative hall in a body this morning and qualify. The only legislation that will now be attempted during the few days of the session remaining will be the passing of appropriation bills, thus preventing an extra session. The appeal against the decision of the supreme court will be made at the gen eral election two years hence. In going into the house the populists have asked no concessions and the republicans have granted none.

A REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY TROUBLE WHICH WORKED WONDERS, AFTER EVERY OTHER REMEDY, INCLUDING A "SWEAT" TREATMENT WITH THE INDIANS FOR A YEAR, HAD FAILED TO RELIEVE.

A STATEMENT OF THE CASE.

CROOK CITY, S. D., Jan. 22, 1892.

The Owen Electric Belt and Appliance Co., Chicago, III.:

GENTLEMEN—I have been for some time considering the propriety of writing to you a few lines, relative to my experience with the Owen Electric Belt and Appliance obtained from you about eighteen (18) months ago. Justice to your company, and a desire on my part to make known to others who may be suffering from a similar affliction the relief I obtained from your institution, prompt me to send to you a voluntary

I am a gold miner by occupation, and have been for many years. I crossed the plains to California in 1852, and since then have been in most of the prominent mining camps in the then territories of Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, and at present in Dakota. Leading the rough and exposed life incidental to my occupation, caused me to fall a victim to rheumatism which finally utterly prostrated me in Helena, Mont., in "65." I was under the best medical treatment obtainable in Montana for one year, with but slight improvement, and was finally advised to live among the Indians, and subject myself to their "sweat" treatment. This I did and remained with them about a year, obtaining only temporary relief live among the Indians, and subject myself to their "sweat" treatment. This I did and remained with them about a year, obtaining only temporary relief.

Since that time I have been a chronic sufferer—suffering pain and torture indescribable almost continually. It would be useless to attempt to describe my sufferings. It must be sufficient to state that I suffered from rheumatism in its worst form. I had spent large sums of money, changed climate, visited Hot Springs, lived alternately in high and low altitudes, and employed the best medical advice obtainable, hoping to alleviate, if not cure my complaint. It was all to no purpose, and I had about despaired of ever recovering fully my shattered health, when my attention was called to the Owen Electric Belt by a fellow miner, Mr. J. C. Johnson, of Creek City, who was also suffering from rheumatism, and who claimed to have derived great benefit from a belt obtained from you. I had tried so many remedies that I was fairly discouraged and skeptical about obtaining relief from any source, but finally determined it was my belt obtained from you. I had tried so many remedies that I was fairly discouraged and skeptical about obtaining relief from any source, but finally determined it was my duty to give your appliance a trial. I will also state right here that, since coming to the town, I have also suffered greatly from kidney disease.

At last I sent for one of your belts, and applied it carefully, according to the printed directions accompanying the same, and can now truthfully say, as I now do to you, that I am no longer troubled with my kidneys, that I am entirely free from rheumatism, and I consider my health as perfect. All this I consider is owing to your valuable and priceless Owen Electric Belt, and I feel I am only performing a duty and paying a deserved tribute to Dr. Owen in sending this unsolicited statement of my case for his information.
