CLEAN THAT RESERVOIR.

THE COMMON COUNCIL SO ORDER
THE WATER CO.

A Deceitful Serenity.—Alber Voted $250 to Quit.—Times too Hard to Build Sidewalks.—President Watts Says Some Things About the Water Co.—So Does Chief Siple.—Ditto Ald. Manly.—Proceed Forthwith.—Commissioners on Yellows Appointed.

The council last Monday evening showed no particular symptoms at first of being on the war path. It was not until Pres. Watts let off a war whoop of a verbal report on the water works and Ald. Wagner touched off a cannon cracker of a resolution on the same topic that the belligerent nature of the meeting became obvious. Then breathings of threatening and slaughter were heard on every side and dim visions of a scapless water company seemed to appear to the startled imagination.

The mayor, city attorney, ex-city attorney Lawrence, a few citizens, brand new alderman Wood and all of the regular members of the council except Herz, Schairer, O'Mara, Kitson and Pretzman were present. Ald. Wood was installed and got in his first vote on the subjects of paying Alber $250 and compromising his suit against the city instead of fighting it out in the courts. Alber ran a blacksmith shop in the triangle now formed between the embankments of the M. C. R. R., Detroit-st and the Huron. The damage done him was caused by building the high grade embankment for crossing the railroad. Mr. Lawrence stated that the city was technically liable probably; it would cost $250 to try the case and besides defeat would be expensive. He advised accepting Mr. Alber's offer to compromise for $250. The City Attorney and Mayor gave similar advice, and the Council concluded to adopt it.

Wm. Biggs and others petitioned for a sidewalk grade out Geddes ave; and H. Bannister and others petitioned for a years respite before building certain sidewalks out Seventh-st on the ground of hard times.

Alderman Wood was appointed third member of the committees on finance and licenses and fifth member of the committee on sidewalks.

The board of public works asked for $500 to build a stone culvert on 5th-st and $75 to change the water course on Church-st from Washtenaw Ave. to Willard-st.

Various committees reported. The sidewalk committee asked that 21 different pieces of sidewalk be ordered built. Ald. Snow asked where that electric light was that was to be placed at junction of Catharine and Main streets; but he found it not. Then arose the sensation of the evening. Pres. Watts for the special water committee reported slight progress. He said that a very satisfactory conference had been had with the Water Co. but that the performance of the promises there made had been very unsatisfactory. The cleaning had made no perceptible improvement. The offer to blow out the mains had been made when there was no water to do it with, and had not been done. In the reservoir the pavement was not good. It looked as though a lot of stones had been dumped in, not as though paved. Mud and slime still present. The Superintendent of Water Co. had reported the cleaning as complete but he couldn't see it.

Chief Siple was called on to report on the test Monday afternoon at the court house. He stated that six streams were set going through 100 ft. of hose, with an indicated pressure of 60 lbs. at the engine house. The maximum height reached was 65 ft., and during the test the pressure declined to 40 lbs. Later a single stream through 50 ft. of hose, pressure 15 lbs., was sent to a height of 25 ft.

Chief Siple then read a report of the readings of the water gauge at the engine house for a week. It showed a startling array of variations from 60 lbs. to 0. When the pressure is down to 15 lbs. they fire up on the engine. This record is to be a permanent feature of the fire department and made the basis of settling future accounts with the Water Co.

Here an interruption occurred long enough for Ald. Martin to introduce a resolution calculated to make City Engineer Key hustle around a little livelier about his reports on grades, and Ald. Snow made an effort to get the outer edge of the sidewalk on Ann-st opposite the court house evened up to a 12 foot line.

Then Ald. Wagner came at the situation with the following resolution: Whereas, it appearing on inspection that the Water Company has failed to obey the order of this council in the matter of cleaning its catch basins and reservoir, therefore,

Resolved, that said company be and is hereby ordered to forthwith complete the work within one week, draw off the water from its catch basins and reservoir and thoroughly clean and cleanse the same, that said work be done under the direction of the water committee of the council and the said committee be and is hereby ordered to superintend the same and report to the council at their next meeting, and that the city clerk do deliver a copy of this resolution to the superintendent of the Water Company as soon as practicable.

Ald. Manly gave a graphic description of how he scooped up an immense handful of mud from the alleged clean reservoir and how prolific it was in frogs, crayfishes, sunfish, and he also declared that a fine black bass roamed those placed deaths.

Chief Siple was again called on to answer for fire protection during the cleaning process. He declared in favor of water and plenty of it, through the present dry time, at all hazards, and let the cleaning-up go till a wetter time.

Pres. Watts and others stated that the reservoir pressure had been off for some time and would so remain. The pumps are sending by direct pressure to the city, and consequently the reservoir is not of any use to the city at present and might as well be cleaned. The resolution was adopted.

Ald. Manly moved that the justice docket of Mr. Bennett be allowed, but the motion was lost. He stated that he had investigated the matter and now believed it all right for the city to pay for it.

Mrs. McCollum of the Fifth ward found it uneasy living in her house with the sign "Kellogg street" tacked to it, so the council agreed to have the sign moved across the street.

Ald. Taylor then introduced a resolution making C. C. Clark, Leonard Gruner and Jacob Ganzhorn the city's commissioners under the new peach yellows law for the enforcement of said law.

Then after a brief speech from the new alderman, the council adjourned for one week.

At the special council meeting last evening the Mayor advocated filling the large reservoir with 2½ million gallons of water immediately for fire protection. Meanwhile have people stop sprinkling for three days. Then let the catch basins be cleaned. The reservoir should be kept till October, then emptied, cleaned and paved.

A Dreadful Death.

Last Saturday morning Mrs. Arthur Crawford, of 58 Fuller street, undertook to assist the fire in her cook stove with a little kerosene oil. An explosion followed and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. She at once rushed for her husband, throwing her arms about him and setting him on fire also. She also snatched at a child, which fortunately escaped. When the flames were finally extinguished, Mrs. Crawford was so badly burned that her death followed as a matter of course, being delayed by the care of the physicians, Drs. Sudworth and Darling, until the next day. Mr. Crawford was severely burned about the legs.

The house was saved by the prompt action of some M. C. R. R. section men, who happened to be near. Mr. Crawford runs a barber shop on North Main street.

The New Professor of Materia Medica.

Dr. Arthur M. Cushing who has received the appointment of professor of materia medica and therapeutics is a graduate of Aberdeen College, Scotland, where he received the degrees of A. M. and M. D. He graduated with such high honors that he received the Thompson traveling scholarship. He spent one year in Bern, Switzerland, with Prof. Kronecker. For the past two years he has been assistant to Prof. Schindler, professor of materia medica and therapeutics at the Strasburg University, Germany. Dr. Cushing has made his mark in original research; his most important work being upon Chloroform, Ether, Gelsemium and Strychnine. His appointment is believed will be quite an acquisition to the medical department.

Set the Dog On Him.

One day last week while Mrs. John Brown was busy with her household duties a colored tramp called and ordered her to get him something to eat. She being alone in the house refused to do this and told him she would set the dog on him if he didn't clear out, whereupon he threatened her and said he was not afraid of her or the dog either. The dog was called and told to take him and when Mr. Brown went out the gate he left the bosom of his pants for the dog but his dogship not being satisfied with that for a meal again pounced upon the tramp and when a few rounds from the house neighbors had to take the dog off or there would have been one less tramp.—Belleville Enterprise.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

Peach Yellows and Black Knot.—The New Law.—Revision of the Fruit List.

"Peach Yellows and Black Knot" was the topic announced for discussion at the August meeting. The secretary read the new yellows law which is similar in its provisions to the old law except that it provides for the appointment of commissioners in cities and villages as well as in townships. In discussing the prevalence of these diseases in this locality several members gave instances where the yellows is found within the city limits of Ann Arbor in close proximity to and liable to infect orchards located in Ann Arbor township. The secretary was instructed to call the mayor's attention to the matter and urge the appointment of yellows commissioners in the city.

President Bird by request then gave a description of peach yellows. The disease, he said, usually appears first in the fruit, which ripens prematurely and is more highly colored than usual, this color extending into the flesh. Small yellow-leaved twigs appear upon the lower branches and in the course of a few years the tree dies.

Mr. Ganzhorn said that he had tried the experiment of cutting off a branch found to be affected with yellows in the hope of thereby saving the tree. Next year, however, the tree was still further affected and was likely to die. Mr. Crozier told of other persons near Ann Arbor who had tried this experiment with the same result. The only way to check the disease is to remove the whole tree. A member called attention to the experiments of the government agent, Dr. Smith in the use of various fertilizers is a remedy for the yellows. After extended trials no beneficial results were seen and experiments on that line had been discontinued.

The society then took up the discussion of the black knot. Mr. Baur said that some one had reported in a Detroit paper that Washtenaw County had more black knot than all the rest of the state. It was agreed that the disease was very prevalent here and several members declared plum growing to have become a failure on account of it. Mr. Williams was one who said that he used to grow plums successfully when the country was new, but that of late years the knots had become so abundant that growing this fruit was no longer profitable. He had heard it stated that plum trees under cultivation were less liable to become affected by the knot than those left in grass, but he could see little difference. Mr. Dipple and one or two others had rid their trees of the disease by cutting off the affected limbs and twigs whenever the knots appeared. The presence of other diseased trees in the neighborhood was the only obstacle to the permanent success of this remedy. The black knot attacks not only the plum, but sometimes the cherry also. It is occasionally found upon the wild cherry in the woods. Mr. Bird stated that at Stratford, Canada, cherry growing had been given up on account of the abundance of black knot.

Mr. Baur then presented a request from Professor Taft of the Agricultural College that the society assist in the revision of the fruit list of the American Pomological society, a copy of which was sent for the purpose. An hour was then devoted to that work. Following are a few points brought out:

Apples. Baldwin, liable to winter-kill on low ground. Ben Davis succeeds on low ground but grows too small on high land. Northern Spy is hardy and desirable. Little Roman bears well and hangs late upon the tree. Jonathan is unproductive with ordinary care. Hubbardston is a general favorite, hardy and prolific. Spitzenburg is failing in this locality. King is tender and a shy bearer.

Among blackberries Snyder is still the favorite. Mr. Bird had found Taylor to be tender and too prolific to bring its fruit to perfection.

Of currants Prince Albert was a valuable late variety though of poor quality. The white currants lacked vigor and Fay did not grow sufficiently upright.

Rogers hybrid grapes were more inclined to rot than most other varieties. Delaware and Niagara were highly spoken of but the former must not be allowed to overbear while young Vignes was commended for its late keeping.

Under peaches Mr. Ganzhorn stated that he had a number of Early Crawford seedlings fully as good as that variety. Mr. Bird reported a Hill's Chili seedling larger than that variety and of better foliage. Mr. Ganzhorn also had a promising new black cap raspberry. The Marlboro was highly commended, though inclined.

The Regents.

A special meeting of the Regents was held last week, Regents Barbour, Kiefer, Cocker, Cook and Whitman being present. As usual all their business was done in executive session. Dr. Vaughan, Dr. Herdman and Prof. Demmon were called before the board presumably for consultation about appointments in their various departments. At the close of the executive session Secretary Wade kindly gave out the following information.

The resignation of Dr. J. C. Wood of the Homeopathic College was accepted. Dr. Arthur R. Cushing was appointed professor of materia medica and therapeutics with a salary of $2200 to succeed Dr. Abel. An appropriation of $50 was made to publish the hospital reports for the current year. Mr. Blair, Dr. Herdman's assistant of last year, was re-appointed with a salary of $900. It was decided to have the Waterman gymnasium floored and the inside iron work and roof boards painted.

As soon as the plans for the new recitation and administration buildings are completed, Secretary Wade was directed to advertise for bids and after they are received to call the board together.

The bids for the addition to the anatomical laboratory were opened but not acted upon. The matter was postponed and probably no action will be taken until next year. In the departments of English, Botany and Animal Morphology, authority was given to appoint in each a resident student as assistant with a salary of $300. The duties will consist largely of the reading and correction of essays.

No action was taken on any appointments for the practice court of the law department. It is suggested that possibly a regent may be the lucky man.

So far as could be ascertained nothing was said at the meeting about the Homeopathic and Dental muddles. They probably will come up at the September meeting.

Michigan Crop Report.

LANSING, AUGUST 7, 1893.—The estimates and statements in this report are based on more than 1,200 returns received since August 1.

The average yield of wheat per acre as estimated on the first of this month is, in the southern counties 14.08 bushels; in the central counties 14.09 bushels and in the northern counties 13.77 bushels. These figures are the averages of all the estimates from each section, and the estimates are based on the total acreage sowed, as returned by supervisors, and on examinations made when harvesting and stacking.

The present estimated yield is, for the southern and northern counties, about one bushel per acre higher than the estimate of July 1, while for the central counties the two estimates are not materially different. The estimates point to a total crop in the state of about 22,240,000 bushels, or about 1,345,000 in excess of the July estimate.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in July is 541,757. The total number of bushels reported marketed in the twelve months, August—July, is 14,302,347, which is 2,447,568 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year.

Wheat is of an excellent quality,—only an occasional report mentions damage from any cause.

Oats are estimated to yield 29 bushels per acre in the southern and central counties, and 27 bushels in the northern counties.

Compared with vitality and growth of average years, the average condition of corn August 1, was 91 in the southern and central counties, and 101 in the northern counties, and the average condition of potatoes in the southern counties was 86, in the central 89 and in the northern 97. These figures indicate that both crops were in much better condition than on August 1, 1892. But at the time the reports were made a drought was prevailing that had begun to tell on both crops, and since then there have been no general rains, only scattering showers in the state. Corn and potatoes are at this date—August 7—in great need of rain, and have quite generally been greatly injured.

The hay crop in the state has been secured in excellent condition and is a full average in quantity.

The apple crop of the state will be very light. The figures this month are 21 per cent in the southern counties, 35 per cent in the central, and 61 per cent in the northern, comparison being with an average crop. These figures by our regular correspondents are fully confirmed by letters from a large number of fruit specialists.

IN EXTRA SESSION.

The Fifty-Third Congress Meets and Organizes.

New Members Take the Oath of Office in the Senate—Crisp, of Georgia, Re-elected Speaker of the House—Other Proceedings.

READY FOR WORK.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—At noon yesterday the Fifty-third congress assembled in extraordinary session in response to the proclamation of President Cleveland. It will be a milestone in American history, as it brings together for the first time in thirty years a congress that is democratic in both branches, supported by a democratic president. The president's message would have been sent in had it not been for the early adjournment of the senate out of respect to the late Senator Stanford.

THE SENATE.
The senate was called to order at noon. After the president's proclamation convening congress in extra session was read, the oath of office was administered to Senators Quay (Pa.) and Pasco (Fla.) and a communication was read from Senator Beckwith (Wyo.) announcing that he had placed his resignation as senator in the hands of the governor. The communication was placed on file. The usual resolution to notify the house and president was adopted, and then the death of the late Senator Stanford, of California, was announced by Senator White, of that state, and as a mark of respect the senate adjourned until today.

THE HOUSE.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The house was called to order by Clerk Kerr, and the president's proclamation having been read the call of the states and the names of their members was first in order. Three hundred and thirty-six members responded to the roll-call, and a quorum was declared to be present.

Nominations for speaker were next in order. Mr. Holman (Ind.) nominated Charles F. Crisp, of Georgia; Mr. Henderson (Ill.) named Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, and Mr. Kern (Neb.) nominated Jeremiah Simpson, of Kansas. After the roll-call the result was announced as follows: Charles F. Crisp, 214 votes; Thomas B. Reed, 132 votes, and Jeremiah Simpson, 7 votes. "Charles F. Crisp, a representative from the state of Georgia," said the clerk, "has received a majority of all the votes given, and he is duly elected speaker of the house of representatives for the Fifty-third congress."

The following democratic caucus nominees were elected:

Clerk, James Kerr, of Pennsylvania; sergeant-at-arms, Herman W. Snow, of Illinois; doorkeeper, A. B. Hurt, of Tennessee; postmaster, Lycurgus Dalton, of Indiana; chaplain, S. W. Haddaway, of Maryland.

The committee was then appointed to notify the president and the senate that the house was ready for business. Mr. Grosvenor (O.) announced the death of his colleague, Mr. Enoch, and, as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the house adjourned till today.

A RESERVOIR BURSTS.

Four Persons Lose Their Lives in a Flood at Portland, Me.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 7.—The great reservoir of the Portland Water company on the eastern promenade burst Sunday morning, letting loose 20,000,000 gallons of water in the space of about fifteen minutes. The immense mass of water thus suddenly loosed dashed with mighty power upon the two houses occupied by the families of Michael Lappen and Dennis M. Conley. The buildings were crushed as if they had been made of cardboard and four persons lost their lives. They were: Mrs. Dennis M. Conley, Miss Agnes Conley, Miss Mamie Conley and James Mosely.

RAISED THE BLOCKADE.
The Ports of Siam Again Free to Ships of All Nations—A Battle Reported.

BANGKOK, Aug. 5.—The blockade of this place was formally raised by Admiral Humann Thursday. The return of M. Pavie, the French minister, to Siam, is expected daily. The provinces are in a disturbed state. The Saigon papers say there was some severe fighting between the Siamese and French July 20 on the Mekong river. It is said that 300 of the Siamese were killed, while the French losses were slight. The latter have occupied several more islands.

BREAKING AWAY.

Clouds in the Financial Sky Dispersed by Gold Imports.

Trade Shows a More Healthy Tone—The Coming of Gold Brings a Feeling of Relief to Monetary Circles—Business Situation Reviewed.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—R. G. Dun's review of trade says:
"Demoralization in the speculative markets has been followed by a more healthy tone, and heavy imports of gold inspire hope that the monetary troubles may abate. The week has been one of surprises. Enormous liquidation in wheat brought the lowest prices ever known Tuesday. The crash of the pork ring took nearly $10 from the nominal price of that product in an hour and caused several millions for millions cash. Extraordinary depression in stocks and a slaughter which included some of the best were quickly followed by a bear panic and sensational advances."

MONEY MARKET RELIEVED.
"Meanwhile in the money markets there has come a singular sense of relief, notwithstanding an actual increase in present embarrassments, almost amounting to a paralysis of exchange between the chief commercial cities and of many industrial works because 2 per cent for currency fails to secure what is needed for the payment of wages. Imports are nevertheless fixed on the ships bringing over $11,000,000 gold across the sea and on the extra session of congress, which will begin Monday."

RAIDERS BRIGHT SIGHT.
"Several of the largest and boldest operators at Chicago have been crushed under pork barrels, but the instant increase of foreign purchases convinces the market that the disaster has brought a certain measure of relief. The monetary stringency which at last crushed speculation in wheat and hog products had been caused in part by their prevention of exportation and their absorption of enormous capital in carrying unprecedented stocks of production which, if sold in time to foreign consumers, would have brought gold enough to avert much evil."

WHEAT AND PORK HIGHER.
"Wheat has recovered about four cents and pork two dollars or more at Chicago, and orders for exports have caused a sudden advance in ocean freights. With a great surplus of wheat brought over from previous years, the country will be able to meet all demands, even though the crops prove small enough to justify a considerable advance from previous prices. With a great crop of corn almost assured, the usual accumulation of pork and hog products would be sufficient on the ocean than in Chicago warehouses and more helpful to the country."

THE STOCK MARKET.
"Stocks at the lowest point of the week averaged a little more than $41 per share, but it is a long way down to the prices of 1877, averaging at the lowest $23 per share, and the contrast between the condition and earnings of railroads now and then is greater than the difference in price. Railroad earnings continue fairly satisfactory, though they show a recent decline, and a reduction of rates for world's fair travel. For good stocks some recovery from such a fall as that of last week was inevitable, and its rapidity indicated how many stocks had been absorbed by investors here and abroad."

FINANCIAL DISASTERS.
"Bank failures have been almost as numerous this week as for either of the two preceding weeks, but few have been of more than local importance. The western states show greater distrust or weakness than other sections. Out of 169 banks failed since March 5 were in eastern cities, 48 in southern and 131 in western states. The failures of national banks numbered 58; of state banks, 79, and of private banks 67. In anxious efforts to fortify themselves banks throughout the country would look up a large amount of currency and the depositors who have drawn their accounts are also keeping out of use many millions. As the entire circulation of bills of less than $5 each is but $71,000,000, while the depositors in savings banks number nearly 5,000,000, the withdrawal, or the mere withholding of accustomed deposits by a considerable proportion of them would put the market money of the small notes. The demand for these has been so great that shipments of silver in many cases have been gladly received, and the difficulty of getting currency for paying employees causes a premium for currency, in many cases ranging as high as 2 per cent."

TEMPORARILY CLOSED.
"Closing of shops and works for lack of orders is the overshadowing fact. Yet many shops and pages are open for a few weeks, unless circumstances should lead managers to extend them, and it is believed that the consuming demand has not been reduced to the point of the present decrease of production, so that better orders may presently enable many works to resume. Most of the large carpet mills have closed; so have a large share of the carpeting, men's woollen, and many of those producing dress goods, flannels and knit goods. Prices are weak and yet so low that much decline seems unlikely."

"The tar and oil and some other iron works have almost ceased producing, and yet the demand grows no further stimulus, though prices in this line also are so low that makers prefer to stop than to make lower. In boot and shoe shops the situation is nearly the same, eastern shipments falling off about a quarter."

STAND THE STRAIN WELL.
"Full accounts from many places show how well banking and mercantile interests are sustaining the extraordinary strain and prove that the volume of retail business is nowhere restrained as yet in proportion to the curtailment of wholesale trade. Gold imports may help to revive the credits upon which a great share of business depends. The volume of domestic trade, indicated by railway earnings, is but 6 per cent smaller than last year, and clearings at the chief cities show a decrease of 16 per cent outside New York."

THE FAIRER RECORD.
"While the failures of the week number 450 against 100 last year, a great proportion of them are at the west, and it is cheering to note that comparatively few of importance occur except in connection with speculative operations. The west contributed most largely to the number of failures, 237 being reported from that section. In the east there were 133 and in the south 120. There were no failures of a million or more—two at Chicago, due to the break in the pork deal, and one in New York city."

FIVE MEN SHOT.

A Mob Undertakes to Lynch the Conrad Brothers.

Their Fire Upon Their Assailants—Four of the Latter Killed and One Fatally Wounded—The Boys Are Suspected of Parricide.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.
CORDON, Ind., Aug. 7.—Boone township, not far from here, was the scene of a terrible tragedy early Sunday morning, four men being killed and one fatally wounded. The dead are all farmers, as follows: Edward Houston, Isaac Howe, John Timberlake and William Wiseman. William May, also a farmer, was fatally injured.

CAUSE OF THE BLOODSHED.
Four months ago Samuel and William Conrad, farmers, aged 27 and 21, living in Boone township with their mother and sister, were suspected of killing their father, who was found in a field with his head crushed and a bloody club lying near by. After a short time the boys were arrested and charged with the crime, the supposition being that they put their father out of the way in order to get his property, the old man being pretty well off. There was a good deal of excitement at the trial, the court room being crowded at every sitting, but the state could get no proof and the prisoners were discharged. This angered the farmers in the community where the Conrads lived and it was determined to raise a body of men and try the young fellows in the court of Judge Lynch.

QUIETLY WAITED.
But the neighbors had misjudged the metal of the suspected brothers. The latter said nothing when they heard that a mob was proposed, but quietly loaded up their shotguns and waited. About midnight Saturday 100 men or more assembled at a small school-house not far from the home of the Conrads and marched to the house, reaching there about 1 o'clock in the morning. Some of the members of the mob were masked and others made no attempt at concealment.

FIRE FROM BELOW.
After the Conrads had received warning of the visit they hid themselves under a porch on the front part of the house. They had made several auger holes in the flooring of the porch, through which the muzzles of the guns could be thrust and fired at close range with deadly execution. When the gang approached the house and stepped on the porch they demanded admittance. At that moment the Conrads fired. The contents found lodgment in the bodies of the mob and two men fell dead on the porch. Two others were found several hours later a few hundred yards from the house stone dead. It is also reported that Mrs. Conrad was injured in the fight.

THREE RIDERLESS HORSES.
CORDON, Ind., Aug. 8, 3 a. m.—The white caps of Boone township burned the house of the Conrads during the night. Monday three riderless horses owned by three white caps—John Kendel, William Fish and William Hubbel—were found. It is thought that their owners have been killed by the Conrads, who say they have three more men to kill. It is thought they are in hiding in the woods. Harrison county is excited as it never was before. The murderers are in ambush and everybody is going armed. The Conrads are asking relatives to help them, and a bloody battle is expected in the next twenty-four hours.

DEATH BLOW TO WHITE CAPS.
One thing is certain, the Conrads have frightened the white caps of Harrison county, whose strength has been heretofore in numbers, into the palsy. Good citizens are praying that the Conrads have struck the death-blow to the reign of the grim "night riders." It is plain that the sympathy of the people in general is with the Conrads. The sheriff of Harrison county, it is thought, will make no attempt to arrest them, for, as one old farmer put it, "they have done nothing but defend themselves right smart." Even men who are known to be themselves white caps dare not defend the action of the night riders.

Nemitz Goes Free.
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—H. B. Nemitz appeared in Justice Porter's court at Hyde Park to answer a charge of embezzlement. Consul Holinger, the prosecuting witness, did not press his case and Nemitz was discharged. The defendant was accused of misappropriating jewelry and money, the property of the Swiss exhibit at the fair. He was brought back from Canada to answer charges, but prosecution was dropped.

The Democrats have assembled in Washington with unlimited rope. They will now proceed to hang themselves completely and finally.

What the country is suffering from, is not scarcity of money, but scarcity of credit. The contraction is not in money, volume, but in confidence in debtors' ability to pay their obligations. When confidence is restored, there will be money enough.

THE FARMERS SHOULD GET EVEN.

The frenzied free silver men are said to be ready "to wade in blood up to their horses' bridles" to secure unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. That is to say, they insist that the government of the United States shall buy all the silver now in existence or to be produced at $1.25 an ounce. If the people of the United States are hoodwinked into submitting to this outrageous demand, let the farmers promptly begin a campaign to make Uncle Sam buy up all their wheat at $2 per bushel, their corn at $1.50, their oats at $1 and so on.

THE DIFFERENCE.

What difference is there between a silver miner taking silver bullion, product of his labor, to a mint and getting it made into coin at the public expense that will purchase twice as much as it would before coinage; and the government's raising money by taxation to make that man a present of a dollar for every dollar his labor actually produces? This is the difference. In the first case, the silver miner collects the increased value of the product off the first man that he induces to sell him something for his coin. The man who gets the coin has bought it at its nominal not its real value and thus makes nothing when he spends it in his turn. In the second case, the whole community suffers the loss so that there will be less injury to individuals.

SAVE THE WATER.

The spirit of getting one's money's worth out of the Water Company is abroad in the city. Consequently many people sprinkle their lawns and wet down the road as freely as though water cost nothing and was of unlimited quantity. It would be well however if people would remember these facts. In many parts of the city the water will not penetrate at all through the pipes unless there is considerable pressure. The people on the higher ground are thus deprived of every particle of water long before sprinklers and faucets cease to flow in the central and lower portions of the city. The water supply is very limited. Not much more than enough for household purposes can be obtained from the flowing wells at present, and maintain a reasonable fire pressure at the same time. The river is so low that the task of raising the water the additional 22 feet up to the surface of the catch basin is said to be more than the present pumps can accomplish. This being the situation the people who are trying to get their money's worth out of the Water Co. are doing so at the most serious necessary inconvenience to many of their fellow citizens. The Common Council have taken the matter in hand of securing better service both in quantity and quality of water in the future, and it is to be hoped that their labors may be fruitful. Meanwhile it behooves people to be considerate of each others necessities and postpone getting even with the water company until it can be done without injury to others in the same boat with themselves.

What Congress Should Do.

Dr. H. C. Adams of the University in a recent number of the Review of Reviews gives a valuable opinion on the work to be done by the present session of Congress. It is as follows: It is much easier to say what the extra session of Congress ought not to do about currency than to suggest a plan which will meet the demands of the present exigency and at the same time lead to a sound monetary policy. This Congress ought not to repeal the 10 per cent tax on the note issues of state banks. I appreciate fully the changes which have taken place since 1890 and the argument in favor of free banking based upon those changes, but I have no confidence in state banks of issue, nor can I avoid the conclusion that should they again be established state legislatures will again endeavor to build up local industries by providing lavishly for "local capital." Commerce is national and the instrument of commerce should be national also. Again Congress ought not at present to assume the burden of the world's silver. Whatever the ultimate results of such a policy, its immediate effect would be widespread commercial disaster. Nor, on the other hand, should the extra session of Congress formally recognize the universal dominion of the gold standard. The immediate effect of this might be advantageous to all but the silver mining interest; but the universal abandonment of silver either as standard money or as the basis of issues would inaugurate a period of gradual and persistent contraction. This, of course, means ruin. What, then, ought Congress to do? Answering the question categorically I would say: First, in view of the present exigency, Congress ought to repeal the silver purchase clause. Second, holding in mind the future, Congress ought to create a commission which should take into consideration the establishment of a general banking system under the control of federal law. Third, having done this, Congress ought to adjourn.

Program of the Farmer's Picnic.

The 15th annual picnic of the farmer's of Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties to be held on the fair grounds at Ann Arbor Wednesday Aug. 16, 1893 will proceed as follows:

1. Reception at the Cook House from 11 A. M. to 12 M.
2. Procession with music from the south side of Court house to fair grounds at 1 P. M.
3. Meeting called to order by president at 2 P. M. Music.
4. Address of welcome by Mayor Thompson. Music.
5. Presentation of Orator of the Day. Music.
6. Address by Gen. Jas. B. Weaver.
7. Election of officers for ensuing year.

The trouble with the farmers of the United States is that for the past fifteen years they have been too benevolent. The give away from one third to half their cash value of all the products sold from the farms. Let us council together and see if it is not a Christian virtue to have charity first commence at home. Then after Betsy and the baby are well provided for we will extend a helping hand to those in need. Cheap rates on railroads that day from Detroit and Jackson to Ann Arbor also from Toledo and Howell to Ann Arbor. The exercises will close with a grand dance in the evening for the young folks at the palace rink.

The Acme of Physical Comfort.

The very acme of physical comfort is reached when traveling upon the New York Central Roads, and nowhere upon the face of the globe can more beautiful scenery be found than that disclosed by these varied routes. One never tires of the Hudson River, and the Mohawk region, so loved by poets, is always a feast to the eye and a delight to the soul. Then as we go on and keep our eyes open we come upon some of the loveliest sheets of water on top of the earth—Cayuga Lake for one, and farther on, Canandaigua Lake uniquely and blissfully situated.—Eleanor Kirk.

Baking Powders Before Congress.

The Pure Food bill before Congress would be a righteous measure for the people, and should become a law. The public want pure food, and in order to protect themselves must know what is adulterated. All adulterated preparations should be so branded, including Baking Powders containing Ammonia or Alum. Then if people want to dose themselves with "Absolutely Pure" Ammonia or Alum, they will do it knowingly. The public have been looking up the composition of Ammonia and Alum and they don't like the idea of eating either in their hot biscuit.

P. S.—ODD PANTS AT RUINOUS PRICES.

day evening netted ten solid dollars, and notwithstanding it was a very warm night, everybody went home feeling frigid—too much ice cream.

Farmers talk of holding their grain until after the extra session of congress, hoping the money market will be relieved and thus making a better demand with stronger prices for cereals.

In the grove on Thursday at the Macabee picnic, a rifle was accidentally discharged, the ball entering the arm of Chas. Moss below the elbow and being extracted at the wrist by the doctor. It made a bad, but not necessarily dangerous wound.

Explanation.

On Saturday, June 17th, '93, four of the Board of Directors of the Farmers' Picnic Association of Wayne, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties met at the Clifton House, Whitmore Lake, for the purpose of making arrangements for their 15th annual picnic. The call had been made several days previous to this date, according to custom, by the sec'y, each one of the 20 members being notified by mail. A sense of discouragement on account of the apparent lack of interest, was felt, by the four members, who had sacrificed the day, and some money in the interest of the association. After several minutes conversation, however, in which two or three gentlemen of Whitmore Lake took part, the conclusion was drawn that it would be wise to go on with the work, as the smallness of attendance might possibly not be through lack of interest, but, on the other hand, a disposition to let the "other fellow" do the work. Be it said to their credit there was public spirit enough among the four to undertake the thankless job. The committee on location, with the help of Tobias Holmes, made a canvass of the town to raise funds, and the few who happened to be at home responded nicely, ($23), yet not sufficiently to warrant holding the picnic at the Lake. The Lake people, some of them thought, however, that in a few days' time they could raise enough to bear all expenses, so the Committee on location promised to leave the matter open for a week that the canvass might be more thoroughly made. At the end of a week, this gentleman drove about 20 miles to ascertain the state of the finances and scarcely one half the needed amount ($20) was promised, and the idea of holding it at the Lake had to be abandoned. Ann Arbor then responded so generously that the Committee felt justified in locating it at the Fair Grounds, as they had a big enough subscription to build an annex to the grand stand, shaded with enormous awnings, so that the seating accommodations will be far superior to any that would be arranged in a grove.

The street car line goes to the gates and the accommodations for teams are big. The buildings will all be thrown open and a good supply of drinking water has been assured. This explanation has been made, not alone to advertise the picnic, but that farmers and others interested might understand that the work has been regularly done by the proper authorities and with unselfishness on the part of the workers.

It might be well to further state that the Committee on speaker communicated with the Chautauque Lecture Bureau, seeking for a man of national reputation. Senator Stewart, of Nevada, was promised and Saturday, the 19th of August, was selected as the day.

In the mean time, Congress was called and the bureau withdrew Senator Stewart's name, and offered in his stead Gen'l James B. Weaver and Wednesday, August 16th, had to be substituted as the day to comply with Gen'l Weaver's dates. The change of date was not made to frustrate the plans of the Farmers' Reunion, which had evidently been purposely billed to take place on the same day.

Where Kalamazoo Has the Bulge.

A Kalamazoo man who had never been out of Michigan went to the world's fair, and there he met a Detroit man whom he knew.

"Chicago is a wonderful city," said the Detroit man as they walked along State street in the evening.

"Yes," assented the Kalamazoo man, as if he did not want to be rustically enthusiastic.

"In some respects the most wonderful in the world," went on the Detroit man.

"Still, we have one thing in Kalamazoo," said the cautious visitor, "that they don't have in Chicago."

"And what is that?" inquired the Detroit man in astonishment.

"Fewer people," and the Detroit man was really pleased by the Kalamazoo man's round about way of paying a compliment.—Detroit Free Press.

The Hand of Fate.

"Mary Jane," exclaimed the editor of the Bluegrass Indicator, rushing hurriedly into the house, "put me up a little lunch as quick as you can! Where is my valise?"

"In mercy's name what is the matter, Jared?"

"Matter?" he shouted, diving into the bureau drawer for clean shirts and other things necessary for a journey, "nothing's the matter, only I wrote last night that 'we noticed Col. Allgore riding about the city this morning at a comfortable jog,' and it came out in the paper this morning 'comfortable jag'! I start for the world's fair, Mary Jane, in ten minutes if I'm still alive!"—Chicago Tribune.

This Is a True Story.

Yarnspun—Talk about grit. I never saw the real article till I went west. It was in a little mining camp that had been terrorized for months by a professional terror. Everybody was afraid of him. One day a little, white, delicate tenderfoot came into the camp and the big bully went for him—

Chorus—And the tenderfoot did him up!

Yarnspun—Oh, no; the bully whipped him in thirty seconds.

Chorus—Then where did the grit come in?

Yarnspun—Why, the tenderfoot had the grit to admit that he was licked.—Chicago Record.

The Code.

Caller—Why are you waving your handkerchief so wildly?

Murilla—Since papa has forbidden Jack the house, we have arranged a code of signals.

Caller—What is it?

Murilla—When he waves his handkerchief five times, that means: "Do you love me?" and when I wave frantically in reply, it means: "Yes, darling."

Caller—And how do you ask other questions?

Murilla—We don't. That's the whole code.—Harper's Bazar.

Not Exactly a Lexicographer.

"What became of that bright son of yours that you sent to college? Was he graduated?"

"Oh, yes. He is at present interested in dictionaries."

"Hal! Become a lexicographer?"

"Well, not exactly a lexicographer. He is soliciting subscriptions for a dictionary."—N. Y. Press.

What We Know About War

We make no pretensions about our superior knowledge of war—What we know goes but a little way in comparison with the knowledge of those who have really "been there."

What We Know About Pianos

Is a different matter. We have advanced beyond the primer of the piano business. We have the actual experience as manufacturers, jobbers and retailers. Have visited for the purpose of better informing ourselves every prominent piano factory in New York, Baltimore, Boston and Chicago. Our knowledge of pianos is more than theoretical.

Can You Ever Expect to "Know it All"

You employ the physician when sick, the dentist when you have defective teeth, the watchmaker to repair your watch—because of their knowledge. A certain amount of confidence too must be reposed in them. You trust to their knowledge, judgement, experience and honesty.

Why Not Buy Your Piano the Same Way

We have at all times the Steinway, Mehlin, Chickering Bros., Ivers & Pond, Boardman & Gray, Braumuller and Erie Piano to show you—Each selected as the best of its class.

You have full opportunity for examination and comparison and in addition the benefit of our honest opinion and advice. Is not this an advantage worth considering when buying.

Then "Talking About Price"

A good article is worth its price—quality, especially in music goods—is of first importance. Our price is ready for your consideration—we have no doubt in its power to please.

What we want is a chance to show you our goods and to quote you our prices.

The Peach Yellows Law.

One of the many valuable laws passed by the recent Republican legislature concerned the two contagious diseases, yellows and black knot which infect "peach, plum, cherry, prune, almond, apricot and nectarine trees."

The former law was so drawn that it was impossible to reach diseased trees in villages and cities. The new law makes it compulsory for the owner of a tree with the yellows to totally destroy it. Commissioners are to be appointed in every city and village whose duty it shall be to see that all diseased trees are dealt with according to law. They are to notify the owner as to what the case demands, and if he refuses to act promptly they may do the work for him and the owner is liable to a fine of $100.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1893.

LITERARY NOTE.

The August number of Harper's Magazine contains a large amount of fiction. Besides a story by Richard Harding Davis, called "His Bad Angel", and a one-act play by Mr. W. D. Howells, entitled "Bride Rose", there are short stories by Herbert Ward, F. Mary Wilson and Mrs. E. Levi Brown. The last-named writer, who is the wife of a colored minister in the South, has constructed a tale of unusual power.

The subject of Animal Speech, which is now attracting much attention in the scientific world, will be treated by Prof. E. P. Evans in the opening article of the August Popular Science Monthly. Prof. Evans gives much striking evidence to show that animals communicate among themselves by vocal sounds, and that many of them learn the meaning of human speech.—D. Appleton & Co., New York, N. Y.

The August Century will be, as usual, the midsummer holiday number. Its chief feature will be "Phillips Brooks' Letters to Children," which will include a great number of delightful letters written from abroad by the late Bishop Brooks to the children of his brothers' families. They present a little-known and most interesting side of the life and character of the great preacher.—The Century Co., New York, N. Y.

Harper's Weekly for last week contains an extensively illustrated article on the great National Yellowstone Park. There are four full pages of illustrations. Other timely subjects are the silver question in Colorado, with a portrait of Governor Waite, and a page of illustrations from photographs; a page of portraits of leading German politicians in the German Reichstag who have been closely connected with the discussion of the famous Army Bill; and pictures relating to the recent trouble between France and Siam.—Harper Bros., New York, N. Y.

The Atlantic Monthly for August contains an article by Professor Nathaniel S. Shaler of Harvard University entitled "Relations of Academic and Technical Instruction." The author proves by arguments drawn from history and from his long experience as a teacher that the technical school to be successful, that is to do the best for its students, must be a part of a university. In the September number General Francis A. Walker, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will have a paper entitled "The Technical School and the University." These two articles by men of high authority, representing both sides of this important question, should be of the greatest value to all teachers and others interested in education.—Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, Mass.

Gamaliel Bradford, Esq., of Boston, the well-known writer on city government, is the author of a paper on "Our Failures in Municipal Government," which has been issued as No. 88 of the Publications of American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia. The author compares the city government of Birmingham, England with that of Quincy, Mass. The latter city recently adopted a plan of government containing many novel features.

In concluding his paper Mr. Bradford says that the main point to be discussed is whether reform in city affairs is to be sought through improved machinery for bringing public opinion to bear, just as we should do with the force of steam or electricity, or whether we are to accept as final the methods which have come down to us in the last hundred years, and limit ourselves to manipulation of the methods of voting.

The July New England Magazine is a bright summery number, the very thing to while away the tedium of railroad travel or to complete the luxury of recreation at the seashore or in the mountains. The editors have put it together with due regard to the season, and it is one of the best of the midsummer magazines. There is more fiction than usual, and it is of the highest quality, and deals with unacknowledged subjects. Among the contributors are Rev. Julius H. Ward writing on "A Frontier Army Post"; Henry Lambert on "Forests and Forestry"; Walter Blackburn Hart on "The Common and Human in Literature"; Oscar Fay Adams, "In the Footsteps of Jane Austen," a description of the homes and haunts of the author of "Pride and Prejudice" and "Northanger Abbey"; and Zetella Cooke, "The Mocking Bird."—Pub. at 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

A valuable contribution to the New Political Economy is a monograph on "Cost and Expense" by Professor Simon N. Patten. It is published by the American Academy of Political and Social Science Philadelphia. This paper, which will prove of great interest to all economic students, is in the nature of a continuation of Professor Patten's monograph on "Cost and Utility," issued some time since by the Academy.

The purpose of the present paper is explained as follows by the author: "The relation of cost to utility cannot be fully understood until the relation of cost to expense is explained. In the theory of value, the use of the terms cost and expense is such that two distinct concepts of production are confused with each other, and hence these terms are often used as synonyms, when they should have distinct ideas attached to them. A contrast of these terms and of the ideas they should convey must be made before the theory of prosperity can be clearly distinguished from a theory of value. I shall therefore complete my argument by presenting the subject anew from this point of view."

People entertaining at their country homes will welcome with delight the full accurate description of the receiving and entertaining of a household of guests which Mrs. Burton Kingsland gives in a practical article on "Entertaining in the Country," in the August Ladies' Home Journal. The magazine is made still further interesting because of the publication of the music and words of the beautiful song, "My Star," by Kate Llewellyn Fitch—one of the famous young prize compositions for the encouragement of American musical composition. Mrs. Hamilton Mott contributes a valuable article on "Sending a Girl to Boarding-School," replete with information on every point connected with boarding-school life. Younger mothers will find Doctor Powell's timely article on "Children at the Seashore," and Miss Scovill's on "Children in the country," full of seasonable and useful suggestions on the care of their little ones during the summer outing. Edward W. Bok discusses the question of modern housekeeping and its effect upon women. Palmer Cox with his inimitable "Brownies," Eben E. Rexford with his valuable "Midsummer in the Garden," Miss Parloa in "Everything About the House" and Miss Hooper in "Home Dressmaking," all contribute to make this August Journal, with its exquisite cover, designed by Frank O. Small, particularly attractive, and worth many times its modest price of ten cents.—The Curtis Pub. Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Ten cents per number or one dollar per year.

The contents of late numbers of The Living Age exhibit the usual wide range of subjects and nice discrimination in their selection, characteristic of this leading eclectic magazine.

Foremost in value and interest is an article entitled "Literary Discoveries in Egypt." The article gives full account of numerous clay tablets, some of them made of Nile mud, covered with cuneiform inscriptions, unearthed within a few years at Tell el-Amarna, and which prove to be a correspondence between certain kings of Egypt who lived in the 15th century B. C., and their contemporaries and dependents. From these letters the reader will gain a fair insight into the social life of that time in Syria, Babylon and Palestine.

Prominent articles of the issues of the present month are "The Chatham Islands and Their Story," by Henry O. Forbes; "Aspects of Tennyson, Tennyson as a Nature-Poet," by Theodore Watts; "Our First Ambassadors to Russia," by Julian Corbett; "Fontainebleau and St. William of Norwich," by Augustus Jessop. Scarcely second to these in interest are many others, notably "The Journal to Stella," by Austin Dobson; "The Influence of Climate on Race," by J. W. Fortescue; "Is the Universe Infinite," by Sir Robert Ball; "Addiscombe: The East India Company's Military College," by W. Broadfoot; "Some Thoughts on Pascal," by A. Walk in Alexandria," by Alfred E. P. Raymond Dowling; and "Romance of the National Gallery," by Emily Constance Cook.

These numbers contain also some short stories and poetry.

The subscription price of The Living Age is $8.00 a year, postpaid.—Littell & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Bass of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

How We Grow Old. The thread that binds us to life is most frequently severed ere the meridian of life is reached in the case of persons who neglect obvious means to renew failing strength. Vigor, no less the source of happiness than the conditions of long life, can be created and perpetuated where it does not exist. Thousands who have experienced or are cognizant—including many physicians of eminence—of the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, bear testimony to its wondrous efficacy as a creator of strength in feeble constitutions, and debilitated and shattered systems. A steady performance of the bodily functions, renewed appetite, flesh and nightly repose attend the use of this thorough and standard renovant. Use no local tonic represented to be akin to or resemble it in effects in its place. Demand the genuine, which is an acknowledged remedy for indigestion, malaria, nervousness, constipation, liver and kidney complaints and rheumatism.

It Is Strange That people suffering from Piles will endure them for years or submit to dangerous, painful, cruel and expensive surgical operations, when all the time there is a painless, certain lasting cure, which gives instant relief and costs but a trifle. It is called the Pyramid Pile Cure and can be found at all drug stores. Any druggist will get it for you if you ask them.

William—Handshaw, the detective, is dead. He died very suddenly this morning. I saw him last night, and he told me he was sure to get well. Henry—And he died in a few hours? William—Yes. Henry—Well, he was consistent to the last—was on the wrong clew.—Boston Transcript.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or impure hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A Surgical Operation. For the cure of Piles is always painful, often dangerous and useless, and invariably expensive; on the other hand there is a new certain cure, perfectly painless, gives instant relief and permanent cure and costs but a trifle. It is the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is a more certain cure than a surgical operation, without any of the intense pain, expense and danger of an operation. Any druggist will get it for you.

Mrs. De Fashion—Perfectly dreadful! We'd have to stay at home this summer.—N. Y. Weekly.

Ask Your Friends Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. One has been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia; another finds its indispensable for sick headache, others report remarkable cures of scrofula, still others will tell you that it overcomes "that tired feeling," and so on. Truly, the best advertisement which Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of the army of friends it has won by its positive medical merit.

Sheer Vanity. "How did Fred come to get so horribly round-shouldered?" "He isn't. He humps himself that way because he likes to look like an athletic bicyclist."—Chicago Record.

What Did She Want, Anyways? "She's only a fussy old maid after all."

Mamma—What's wrong now? Johnnie—Well, teacher told me not to speak out loud, and then kept me in for whispering.—Boston Globe.

Decidedly Shaky. A trembling hand, an uncertain step, fidgetiness, indicated by restless shifting from one place or posture to another, usually mental annoyance at unexpected noises, are among the indications of extreme nervousness. These seem trifling, but the health of men and women in this condition is "decidedly shaky," liable to be overthrown disastrously by causes which the vigorous might defy. To fortify the nervous system, general vigor must, through the medium of reinforced digestion, and a renewal of an impaired power of sleeping at night, be raised to a healthful standard. A guarantee of this Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which re-establishes digestion, life secretion and the habit of body on a permanently regular basis, thus renewing that bodily equilibrium, which is followed by a grain of strength and nerve tranquility. For kidney complaint, rheumatism, neuralgia, and as a preventive of the first attack or subsequent return of malarial disorders, this medicine is without a peer. Thrice daily take a wineglassful.

THE TROLL'S DAUGHTER

tender girl and this month on Main Come, let us do as we have been requested—you, too, count."

The old man took up what his visitors laid aside and concealed every article under the slab on the floor. He then commenced his invocations, but all at once he appeared disturbed and stood still.

"Count, you still have some article of steel about you," said Toini.

The count in great confusion drew from his bosom a small steel poniard, which he had kept concealed there.

"This gentleman has not given up all the steel he has either."

"What! I?" exclaimed Guillemot.

"Yes," replied Toini dryly.

In fact, Guillemot had retained his corkscrow.

When the troll had thus succeeded in getting these obstacles out of the way, he flung himself headlong into the depths of his inspiration, and the young girl faithfully interpreted the sublime words which leaped from his soul.

"My spirit bears me away," he cried; "my desire rises in my thought; I wish to begin the runes [Finland ditties]; I wish to sing—"

"O ye strangers who are listeners to me, what would ye of me? Has anguish gnawed your flesh or grief and mortification broken your spirits? Have ye lost immense riches or are ye pursued by implacable enemies? Speak, for my father has taught me the words of power, the creative words, the ways divine. At the sound of my voice the brazen gates open wide, the battlements of hissi [the devil] crumble, the uprooted pines whirl about like sand in the eddies of the tornado.

"I know the origin of the world, the source of life, the birth of iron. I know the silent tracks of the ants as they wind over the bark of the birch trees. Before me the spirits of the dead take flight, and the bear forgets his fierceness. I master all the ills of earth, and bury them in the mountain of Wounds [The Finland mythology recognizes several goddesses who preside over pains and sufferings], under a stone of 9 fathoms' width, where terror dwells—where anguish has fixed its abode. Speak, then, O strangers; wisdom is ready to gush from the depths of the marshes, and from the broken flanks of the mountains, covered with snow, will be heard voices that will make the spirit of autumn leap along the banks of the great world sea."

"Seer," then said the Duke of Orleans, "I have a mother, and that mother is France. She is ill. Treacherous physicians are plotting her death. Tell me what is to be her destiny."

The aged Toini, whose accents up to that moment had been full of calm and melancholy, suddenly became excited.

His diction grew loud and impetuous, his gesticulation convulsive, his eyes sparkled with a wild fire, his whole being was transformed. It was plainly evident that the spirit of tietaja had taken possession of him. Thereupon the travelers, who until then had listened to him with a smile of incredulity, could no longer banish a species of religious terror.

On her immediate lap, who was in more immediate sympathy with the troll, also allowed herself to be overcome by his enthusiasm. She was panting and disheveled, and in that moment might readily have passed for one of those evil spirits of which the sagas of the south recount the frenetic ardors and circular paroxysms.

"Thy mother is ill!" replied the wizard; "how great thy audacity, O sickness, in having attacked her! Who art thou? Whence comest thou? Comest thou from the sepulchers of kalma [region of the dead] or from the depths of manala [hell]? Comest thou from the dust of the marshes or from the moving sands? Comest thou from the abyss of waters or from the snow of foam? Hast thou been wafted by the winds or driven by the tempest?"

"Whence dost thou spring, O cruel scourge—O vilest plague? How hast thou been able to touch her? Comest thou from the bosom of the rocks or of the trees or of the antique regions? Hast thou descended from the mountains, or crept up from the stalks of the straw-berry plant, or issued from the sanctuary of the wise, or from the rivers of hairy men, or from the sootier marshes, or from the hills of savages, or caverns of fierce dogs, or the dens of untamed bears, or regions where the foxes bark and where the conies gather?"

"Prodigy of horror, flee far from me; scourge of the earth, abandon my dwelling."

"My father, my old father, has never been the slave of wizards; he has never corrupted the Laplanders by his presents; he drove away calamities and dispensed every evil."

"If I have not that power, I will invoke the son of Ukko, the god of thunder, who reigns over the clouds, who scatters the storms. I will invoke his aid; I will cause the succor of his arm to come down from the heights of heaven to the low places of the earth. Crushed by poverty, I will lift up my voice through the entrails of the earth, the six respondent vaults and the nine heavens."

"O Ukko, thou who retest on the axis of the earth, thou who inhabitest the cloud whence comes the thunder, bring hither thy glaive of fire that I may strike the cruel one who torments me, that I may forever drive away my enemy!"

"Goddess of the waves, arise from out the abyss! Raise from the bosom of the waters thy blue tresses, from the depths of the fountain thy light garments, from the moist spray thy bright visage! Come to my succor, come to deliver me, to protect me, to console me in this terrible travail, in these overwhelming sufferings."

"O forest, come with thy magnificent animals, come with all thy people! Perkele, come with all thy house! Lake, come with the sons of thy race! Oh, may a hundred warriors arise with their glaives; may a thousand heroes rush to the rescue of the weak, of the unfortunate!"

"But that be not enough, what other power shall I yet invoke? Is it in the world of men, children of the hoary ages, eternal men? Arise from the earth, O mother of the earth; arise at once, O everlasting lord; rise all ye who wear the warlike brand, all who mount proud coursers, come hither to break the sorrow that crushes me, come hither to subdue my anguish!"

As Tuisko progressed with his invocations his voice became louder and wilder, his gestures more vehement. He beat with his foot; he smote his hands together; his hair stood erect upon his head, and his mouth foamed. At length he fell exhausted on the stone floor; his eyes closed; his limbs grew stiff; any one might have thought him dead only that from time to time his pale lips muttered some words which Toini alone could understand.

"Thank heaven!" exclaimed Guillemot, as if relieved from a suffering weight. "At length he is quiet. Beelzebub rests. I will wager now that he is going to swell himself up until he bursts. While he was in the midst of my frenzy I was looking for him every moment to toss around my most Christian person. Monseigneur, would there not be some way of throwing this ranter and roarer out of the cabin? The snow would do him good, and might perhaps put him in the notion of departing to rejoin his lord and master."

"Silence, Francois!" said the duke. "Have you never seen those insects that feign death, and when one approaches them suddenly spring up full of life? Would you now venture to touch that motionless specter?"

"I will pick him up, if you desire it, with my curling irons."

"Hist! There he is moving."

"I perceive a far," said Tuisko in a deep but broken voice. "I perceive a region resplendent with verdure and beauty. There are tufted woods, lofty mountains and plains rich with fruit and corn. What splendid cities rise on all sides! But, alas, the rivers that bathe them are red with blood—the rivulets, the springs are red with blood."

"A black smoke enwraps the castles and palaces. The men are armed with axes and cutlasses. What is that sinister crowd advancing? Arms clash on arms, and the pale horse of death gallops from rank to rank. Oh, horror, horror! But I perceive a young man whose brow shines like the fire of the stars. He rushes forward; he scatters under the feet of his charger the crowd envious of so much glory. And now behold him on his throne, beautiful, divine! Again the thunder peals. The jewels of his diadem are shattered, and the serpent that lay hid among them is preparing to sting the hero to the heart."

"Fire is devouring the earth. The north is in commotion. Hideous vultures pursue the conquering eagle even into his palace of cloud, and he falls from it pierced with a thousand blows, like a globe of flame quenched in the tempest. And now the earth grows green again, and the rivers put off their garments of red to reassume their former attire; but their bosoms are bestrewn with the feathers of the fallen eagle—wonderful feathers. New men get possession of them, and with them write a history, an immortal history. And yet the fatal sea has still other storms. A throne is toppled down—an old man flies for his life."

"A young prince, he whom I see there before me, advances on the wings of destiny, like the genius of the peace of the world. It is he who will replace in heroes' hands the feathers of the mighty eagle, that they may continue the great history that had been interrupted. But how! the storm begins again, the clouds rain blood and the young child waves his innocent arms from the summit of the throne, and the air is obscured by the black wings of immense carrion crows? What means that sign? But mists gather over my mind—my senses desert me. Strangers, adieu!"

And the old man was silent, and again fell back insensible on the floor, from which he did not arise until after some hours of convulsive slumber.

Three weeks after the scene that we have just described we once more find the illustrious travelers of Karesuando. The Count de Montjoie was murmuring a host of noxious oaths against so prolonged a detention, and Guillemot by no means let slip the opportunity of seasonally what his companion had to say with some imprecations of the plebeian school. The prince smiled at the impatience of his followers. "Do you not find this place charming?" he said to them. "We would do well to await the conclusion of the thaw." But at heart he would not have been sorry to know that the thaw would never be over.

"I am not surprised," said Guillemot aside, "that monseigneur enjoys himself so much here. He is of a race whose exploits among the beau sexe are universally known. What evil star has thrown this siren in our way? I am perfectly bewitched myself. The devil disports and laughs in her eyes, and my master feels all her influence, I am sure. Since that night—that horrible night, when old Beelzebub gave us his piece of acting—he cannot get away from her. Morning and evening he must visit her in her hovel. She has taught him to drive the reindeer and to walk in suksi [a kind of land pattens used by the Fins and Laplanders in descending mountains]. I would like to know of what use all these fine accomplishments will be in France to monseigneur, the Duke of Orleans."

Meanwhile the strangers had found in the neighborhood a lodging much more comfortable than the cabin of the troll. The duke, however, made frequent visits to the hovel, humble as it was. He was often seen rambling with Toini among the mountains.

One lovely evening in April they were both wandering on the banks of the Muonio, and the descendant of that royal house which reigned for nine centuries over the most gallant people on earth was talking to a poor Finland maiden and saying:

"I love you."

At this avowal Toini shook her head. "Monseigneur is jesting with his servant."

"No, I swear it, but does not my wild dove return a little of that love?" "Monseigneur well knows that I love him."

"Why do you always call me 'monseigneur'? Ah, cannot a prince find true love even in a wilderness?"

"Must I then tell you? I have seen you surrounded by all the splendors of your rank, and during the 12 years that have elapsed since then I have loved you!"

"You are dreaming, my child! Your life is full of mysteries. I am burning with eagerness to hear its history narrated, but you always hesitate to tell me it."

"My life, alas, is that of an unfortunate, and my mother counseled me never to satisfy the whim of any who should ask to know it. We were born in near neighborhood to each other, however."

"You are French, Toini, and, what is more, Parisian. I guessed that long ago from the language you speak and your pronunciation, which is so pure and so distinguished in its expression. But, tell me, how is it that the name of Antoinette is so often on your lips?"

"It was my name. It was given me after that of the queen, for—"

"For—oh, continue, I beseech you! I am impatient to know who you are."

"For the queen was my godmother."

"Oh, heaven! Whom, then, do I meet here in this desolate attic where these savage wastes? Destiny, how cruel is thy sport!"

"Less cruel than men, monseigneur. My mother was a lady of honor to Queen Marie Antoinette. She was beautiful. You must have remarked that exquisite clear and fair complexion and that indefinable expression of nobility which is met with only among the old families of Normandy. A prince of the blood conceived a passion for my mother. She loved him in return and had the weakness to yield."

"One day the prince, entering her apartments abruptly, said: 'Adelaide, the secret of our love is discovered; your interest and your honor require you to marry. I have selected the Count d'Aras as your husband. The queen has been fully informed of this and gives her consent. Your betrothal is to take place this very evening, but our love shall not perish.' Ah, monseigneur, know you what the Count d'Aras was?—an old worn out debauchee of 60! My mother swooned away, but a few weeks later she was the Countess d'Aras."

"Your mother must have been very wretched!" exclaimed the prince, moved at this recital.

"Oh, yes, monseigneur, as much as any poor woman can be who is united to a man without a heart. My birth came to console her. But her lot was soon again overcast. The prince sought to be loved by her as he had been before her marriage. 'Never,' said he, 'before to him, never, while I am bound to another.' Exasperated at this, the prince wrote her three words, 'Love or vengeance!'"

My mother fled, for the count was already preparing a horrible plot against her."

"I know it! Arras!"

"My mother did not go far. The abbe of the Ursulines at Montmartre was a relative. She concealed us in her convent during seven long years. There, under the shade of the beech trees, I grew up in quiet and peace. I had never stepped outside of the holy retreat when, one day, I persuaded a nun who was going to visit some sick people to take me with her. What delight I experienced in traversing those brilliant streets, those superb boulevards, which make your capital the queen of the world! However, the whirl of men and vehicles made me somewhat nervous. I recollect the scene as though I had witnessed it but yesterday."

"Suddenly the crowd separated to let four gentlemen on horseback pass. Never had I seen anything as beautiful or as richly ornamented as the chargers they rode. You, my prince, were one of those cavaliers. At that time only 10 years had rolled over your head. A gust of wind carried off your hat and bore it to my feet. I restored it to you with a trembling hand; but, oh, with what a gracious smile you thanked me."

"Another cavalier among those who rode with you advanced toward the nun who accompanied her, and in a strange manner asked her who I was and where I lived. Alas! on the morrow my mother received a note containing these threatening words, 'Love or vengeance!'"

My mother turned pale as death, and without losing any time fled with me to Havre, whence she wrote to the abbe of the Ursulines. But before she received a reply a second note reached her. It was sealed with black and held only the same words, 'Love or vengeance!'"

"What infamy! Did your mother keep those letters?"

"You will never see them, Antoinette," said my mother to me. "We must quit France. We never can be happy on this soil! Come, let us go to the harbor and embark on the first vessel that will receive us. An honest skipper gave us passage without asking our names or the object of our journey, and a few weeks later we landed on a shore which had never heard mentioned. We were in Finland at Uleaborg."

"And the notes, the notes?"

"Vengeance did not pursue us into this land of eternal snows. Our lives were here permitted to roll on in peace. The aged Tuisko by his extraordinary prophecies won our confidence."

"And what extraordinary prediction has he then made?"

"I ought not perhaps to tell you. He predicted to me a glorious visit—a visit such as no man has ever received upon this earth."

"And did he foretell truly—you blush! What else is there to say?"

"Two words," he added, "will destroy your happiness."

"The notes! Speak, for heaven's sake!—the notes!"

"Why constantly exclaim the notes? My beloved mother has for four years past been sleeping her eternal slumber in the cemetery of Uleaborg. And I, poor child—the good Tuisko took me, consoled me and in the midst of these deserts of snow has supplied the place of a father."

"Oh, good Toini, come, weep upon my bosom! Return with me to France, the land of thy mother! I will surround thee with all the splendors due to thy birth; I will restore to thee the happiness of which a wretch has robbed thee. But give me, I beseech you, give me a pledge of love, that I may believe your words."

"Take this medallion, my prince. It is the only inheritance I have received from my mother. It is my greatest treasure; it contains a piece of the true cross. As long as you wear it above your heart you need fear neither water nor fire nor air nor balls nor the assassin's poniard."

"Thanks, my child; this dear locket shall not quit me for one single moment of my remaining life. But let me press upon your lips one kiss, pure as the embrace of angels. Oh, my God! those letters!"

"Why such sudden pallor, my prince? Here are the letters you so greatly desire to see. I always carry them about me. They inclose a lock of my mother's hair—my poor mother."

The Duke of Orleans took the packet of letters and opened it with convulsive eagerness.

"Oh, misery! unhappy child! We are brother and sister!" he cried, with an accent of surprise and inexpressible anguish. "This is my father's handwriting!"

The fate of Toini had remained unknown, nor was it ever discovered what became of Tuisko. Both disappeared without leaving any trace to indicate whether they had gone. One man only, living in the village of Karesuando, could still furnish some authentic particulars of their history. Should he who translated what the reader has just been perusing ever return to those distant regions he will make it a duty to finish the story of "The Troll's Daughter."

THE END.

They Didn't, Indeed.

A couple of tramps had sat down under a tree by the roadside to rest.

"Wasn't you in the war?" asked Willie Walk.

"I were," responded Turnpike Walker.

"N' why don't you turn a pension?"

"I tried to, but it wouldn't get, somehow."

"Why not?"

"They said I was capable of manual labor."

"Did they, indeed?"

"They did, Willie," sighed Turnpike, disconsolately.

Willie brushed a tear from his weather-beaten eye.

"My boy," he murmured, "they didn't know you; they didn't know you."—Detroit Free Press.

Last Friday, A. P. Ferguson, road cart manufacturer, was compelled to capitulate to hard times and file a trust chattel mortgage to John R. Miner to secure claims aggregating about $10,700. Before this one, four other chattel mortgages were filed; to D. S. R. Underwood for $9,153, due in 30 days, Mrs. C. M. Fillmore, $1,253, A. W. Gasser $827, due in 30 days, and American Varnish Co. $231, due in 30 days. If the claims are not paid in 30 days Mr. Miner may take possession.

Monthly meetings will be held, the first one being called for Sept. 30 next at the Ann Arbor High School. The officers are as follows: President, M. J. Cavanaugh; vice-president, Wm. W. Wedemeyer; secretary, Miss Emilie Neuburger, Chelsea; treasurer, Miss Amida Parks, Chelsea; committee on exhibit, Miss Alice Quackenbush, Ypsilanti, Miss Nellie Doane, Salem, Miss Allie Shuart, Dixboro, Miss Carrie Wright, Ypsilanti; committee on program, Miss Josephine Hoppe, Chelsea, Miss May E. There is a lady in the Sixth ward who has the quality of generalship highly developed. It being the time of day convenient for her to sprinkle her lawn and also lay the dust in the road before her premises, she went forth and in a brief space of time had the water gushing merrily. But it was out of hours and suddenly there hove in sight the agent of the water company, equipped with the long iron wrench; he came near, poised the wrench for action, then halted, hesitated and was lost. The lady stood calmly and immovably, right upon the spot where the wrench must be inserted into the ground to connect with the deeply-buried valve. The wrenchman looked, the lady sprinkled. He advanced, she selected a new dry place and wet it down carefully; he halted, she didn't. He waited, she made selection of a new arid region. This was too much and he beat a retreat, she smiled, and that smile has proved to be as contagious as matrimony in June.

Good for the Gym.
The resolution of the Regents to have the Waterman gymnasium floored is to be considered quite an important step forward. There is not enough money on hand to finish the building, but with it floored the students will be able to get much use out of the building as it now stands. They can use the running track and in inclement weather when not too cold it can be used for many exercises. It is ardently to be hoped that some generous friend of the University will come to the rescue and help the students with sufficient funds to complete the building and the co-ed annex.

The Last of Long Lake.

A write up of the deserted village of Long Lake was given in the Manton Tribune last week. All that remained of this once flourishing lumber burg was destroyed by fire only a few days ago. Five or six years ago the place contained two large saw mills, a number of good business places and many quite fine residences. It claimed a population of several hundred inhabitants and when it first sprung into existence bid fair to make a flourishing village. But the pine was soon exhausted, the mills were removed and with them went the inhabitants, until not a family was left. For several years the buildings stood to mark the spot where pleasant homes were once located, but the forest fires of 1893 have now completed the wreck by wiping the whole thing from the face of the earth.

Picnic at Ann Arbor.

The 15th annual harvest festival and basket picnic of Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland, and Livingston Counties will be held on the fair grounds at Ann Arbor on Wednesday, Aug. 16, '93.

Gen. Jas. B. Weaver will deliver an address on the "Economic Questions of the Day."

In a land of plenty we've got a money famine; our lay-makers seem to be powerless to devise ways and means to stop the famine. So let us meet together at Ann Arbor, the 16th of August, and see if we can agree on some plan that will drive this curse of a want of a medium of exchange, with which to do our business, in a nation where it only costs Uncle Sam (the people), two mills (2) and three-fifths of a mill (3-10) to make a one dollar full legal tender treasury note. Is it right, is it just, that the people should suffer for the want of this tool (money) to do our business with? We ask the business men to meet with us, and we will counsel together—our interests are identical. Perhaps you think when the farmers take our wheat, wool, etc., to market and are compelled, on account of the money famine, to sell our products from thirty-five to fifty per cent. less than the cost of production, it's a huge joke on us farmers. This is a serious problem with you business men, as well as it is to us farmers. So to speak we are the geese that lay the golden eggs that you in your business gather in from day to day. You financially kill us and soon the sheriff will have a notice on your houses of business, closed on execution, assignee sale, etc. We ask the business men on that day to meet with us farmers, and we'll unite on some plan that by force of numbers and power of public opinion we may drive this curse of a money famine from this once happy people. This is not politics but patriotism, love of country and its free institutions, and should be endorsed by all American citizens. So all come and hear this grand old man, Gen. Jas. B. Weaver, tell you what this people should do to be saved from this curse, worse than war or pestilence—a money famine.

A reception will be given from 11 A. M. to 12 M. at the Cook House. The address will be delivered from the grand stand, on the fair grounds at 2 o'clock P. M.

Entrance to fair grounds and grand stand free.
