..$29.223 20 The bonded indebtedness of the district is $12,000, as follows:

...$ 4,000 00 ... 4,000 00 ... 4,000 00 $12,000 00 The increase of enrollment in the Primary departments for the past three years has been at the rate of 100 more within the past year In consequence of this, at the last annual meeting the District authorized the Board of Trustees to issue bonds to the amount of $6,000 for the erection of such building or buildings as might be deemed necessary for the accommodation of the schools.

The proper location for a new building was not an easy matter to determine, as it was necessary to relieve Wards 1, 2 and 4 of a pressure of large then made: numbers of pupils. It was thought desirable to find a location somewhere in the district bounded by Main, Huron, Fifth and Liberty-sts. But when the conditions of play-ground and proper surroundings were considered, this was found to be impossible. It was then decided that an addition to the first or second ward building was the best thing to be done. The first was selected because its location would relieve the fourth ward much better than if placed in the second. An addition to the second ward would seem necessary in the near future. The addition now being built in the first ward will add two first-class rooms to the working capacity of the schools. The addition is made larger than the one on the north side in order to furnish more cloak room-a convenience greatly needed, as the building hereafter will have eight school rooms. The new rooms are to be finished in first-class ctyle and will be heated by Smead furnaces. The satisfactory Work done by these furnaces so far as they have been used in this building, seems to justify the Board in continuing this method of heating and venti-

The Board has authorized the expenditure of several hundred dollars for fitting up chemical and botanical laboratories. We have endeavored to avoid all extravagance in the use of funds for the district. But we assume that the sentiment of the community is strongly in favor of keeping the the best that are found in other High the old High School Building by dithe best method that can be applied to

Board were authorized by vote of the District to raise upon bonds $1,000 for that purpose. The Board have held the bond for some eight years but have not used it. We trust that by careful investigation the Board will now find the best scheme and so be able to properly discharge its responsibility in this matter. It may be proper to say that the Board, in the appointment of teachers, endeavors to act with the greatest caution, after the most intelligent investigation in each case. The only principle that is permitted to rule their decisions is the quality of applicant, and the good of the schools. Also the same care is applied to candidates for positions as cadets. The purpose is to appoint no one to cadetship who does not seem likely to make a good teacher. We believe our schools are in excellent condition, that they are in the hands of skillful and upright teachers, and that they are working for the best interest of the patrons and the whole com-

September 4th, 1893. CHRISTIAN MACK, W. W. WHEDON,

Secretary. School Election.

The school election called out a larger vote than usual this year. The nearly one hundred ladies who voted account somewhat for the increase. There were two tickets in the field. One was made up of the names of L. Gruner, J. T. Jacobs and W. B. Smith. The other was the same except in place of Mr. Jacobs' name that of Mrs. Prof. Perry was substituted. The voting had not proceeded far when Mrs. Perry withdrew her name and that of Mrs. Olivia B. Hall was substituted. The result of the vote was as follows: L. Gruner, 407; W. B. Smith, 399; J. T. Jacobs, 344; Mrs. Perry, 40, and Mrs. Olivia B. Hall, 26.

The annual meeting he'd after the polls closed was very slimly attended Evidently the people have great faith in the Board of Education. The few present at the meeting voted thousands of dollars for school purposes for the next year with unusual unanimity. Twenty-nine thousand two hundred and fifty dollars were voted as salaries for teachers and other current expenses. One hundred dollars were voted for the library. The question of the naming of the various school buildings came up. The committe had asked and had been given more time so that no report could be made.

The Board of Regents met last Friday morning at the usual hour. Dr. Gatchell's resignation was handed in and accepted. In his resignation the Doctor took occasion to reiterate his belief that the charges against Dean Obetz had been fully sustained notwithstanding the action of the board to the con-

City engineer Key was allowed a salary of $150 per month while the work on the sewers was in progress. Mr. Schuh and the city engineer were impowered to act in the matter of purchasing iron pipe for outlet into the river and for use under the railroad

He Drew a Knife.

There was an exciting row in William Herzog's saloon on E. Liberty-st night before last. Godfrey Berger, a butcher, was having some unpleasantness in the saloon when Officer Tice appeared and tried to make peace. The U. of M. at the World's Fair. The Free Press last Friday gives the following account of U. of M. day at the World's Fair. "Jackson Park and Midway Plaisance were captured tonight by graduates and students from Michigan University, and a jollier yet more orderly crowd never made the welkin ring with college songs and yells. The University alumni have preempted old Vienna on the Plaisance and there they may be found every Wednesday night enjoying themselves as only college boys can. Tonight was a state occasion, for an unusual number of Ann Arbor men were in town, and it was felt that a genuine lark was in order. At 6 o'clock something like a hundred University men gathered at the Michigan building and held an informal reunion. Several speeches were made and then a splendid quartette sang a number of songs, the company joining in the choruses with a vigor that awoke the echoes up among the rafters of the handsome structure. Then they sallied forth to do the Plaisance and soon were the main attraction of that remarkable thoroughfare. Arrived at the Parisian theatre they were kindly invited inside by the urbane door-keeper, who, much to their surprise, levied tribute of a dime on each of his guests. The lady who pounds the piano in this resort struck up "Comrads," another lady sang it on the stage, and the University men bore down on the chorous with all their might. Forming in regular ranks outside the theatre, the visitors marched in lock-step to the street of Cairo and were soon on excellent terms with the Arabs, Turks, Americans and Tunisians, who joined in the procession and escorted them through the place and followed them out through the Plaisance and left them at the big Ferris wheel with protestations of eternal friendship.

Eastward down the midway and south of the administration building the boys proceded, singing college songs and occasionally giving the college yell which was responded to by other yells from college men of Northwestern University, the University of Wisconsin and other institutions of learning. Boats were taken at the lagoon and for an hour the banks were lined with thousands listening to the songs that floated shoreward from the gondolas and launches. Then the marrymakers scrambled ashore, and after a series of yells that unnerved the Indians in Buffalo Bill's encampment, went their respective ways, well pleased with the jolly celebration. Michigan visitors are coming to the city in regiments. Five registers are required in the state building to receive their names and 3,000 signatures are inscribed in them daily. One register is set apart for Detroit people and at the present rate another will soon be Another Ann Arbor Lady Gone.

A very pretty wedding occured at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lentz, in this city at noon yesterday, the contracting parties being their only daughter, Olga Amalie, and Mr. Albert E. Gebhardt, a young attorney of Portland, Oregon. The ceremony took place in the presence of only the relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride was beautifully dressed in an elegant cream colored silk en train with veil, carrying in her hand a lovely boquet of roses. The groom was dressed in the conventional black. Miss Mina Chamberlin acted as bridesmaid. They were remembered with a large number of beautiful presents. Miss Lentz was one of Ann Arbor's best and most accomplished young ladies and leaves a host of well wishing friends. The groom is a graduate of both the literary and law departments of the University, and is now located at Portland, Oregon. After a sumptuous wedding dinner the happy couple left on the afternoon train for Chicago, where they will spend some time seeing the Fair and other attractions of the Windy City, after which they will resume their journey to their fan distant western

TO FREEZE OUT THE ASHLEYS.

Foreclosure Suit Brought Against the Ann Arbor R. R.

The Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., of New York, have begun suit to foreclose the mortgages on the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad and to oust Wellington R. Burt from the receivership. The plaintiffs say the road has refused to pay the interest on $10,000,000 of general bonds. These bonds cover several issues for the construction of the road. John C. Craig, who holds a judgment against the company for the Lake Michigan car transports, is also made a defendant. The objects of the bondholders appears to be to bring about a complete reorganization, with the Ashleys not in it.

Suit was instituted last week by The Register Publishing Company, or really

by two members of the board of direc: ors, against the third member. In the bill of complaint nearly every charge that could be conceived has been made The defendent, S. A. Moran, denies emphatically and explicitly each and every charge, and will be ready at the proper time and place and in the proper manner to prove to the entire satisfaction of every fair minded person that in no case has any act or deed of his been inspired by any but perfectly upright and honorable motives. Why such charges should have emanated from such a source, and been made in such a way, is a question which the public, now that the matter has been brought into the courts, has a right to ask. Our reply will be published in due time, when every charge will be fully and completely answered. In the mean time we ask our friends to withhold judgement. We assure you that it will not take seven months, the time it required the complainent to concoct the charges, to answer fully and completely every allegation made. We will, however, make one statement. It is, so far as we are able to ascertain, firmly believed, by every body who is familiar with all the facts in the case and who is not directly interested in the scheme of the two complainants, that the charges were gotten up for the specific purpose of diverting the attention of the public from the actions of the aforesaid directors in their efforts to take advantage of the present stringency of the times, when a business like this would not, upon a forced sale, bring ten cents on the dollar, and of a technicality of the law which gave them the power, to gain possesion, at their own figure, of a busi ness worth from $25,000 to $30,000, and in which neither of the complainants now has, or ever has had, an interest of more than a few hundred dallars. It appears as if, in order to make sure after having made an assignment, so as to force the business to a sale during these hard times, that only certain persons would bid upon it, the property was, at the same time it was assigned, burdened with an expensive lawsuit, which would naturally repel prospective purchasers. We wish also to say that THE REGIS-TER, notwithstanding the attempt of the complainants to suppress its editor by an injunction will, under the same management as heretofore, thanks to the court for refusing to grant the vital points sought in the injunction asked, make its appearance regularly every week, giving all the news and continuing to be the best advertising medium in Washtenaw county.

The Question of a Salary.

The matter of city engineer Key's salary, an increase of which was recommended by the board of public works, gave the city fathers matter for profound debate at the council meeting last Monday night. They talk salary and then do a little business in accepting bids on certain contracts and then revert to the overshadowing question of the evening, viz. the salary of city engineer Key. Like Banquo's ghost it would not down. Again the council is switched off from the important subject of the evening and orders Miss Prescott to lay a stone walk in front of her property on State-st, and also allows a bill of $12 for justice court dockets. Then again the question of salary bobs up. It was quite evident that the majority of the council had been to the World's Fair and have learned to grasp great questions and have lost all fear of tackling problems of great magnitude, hence the ease with which the all absorbing question of the evening pressed itself to the front. But it was too much for a single evening and so the council adjourned in order to give more time for reflection, and allow Ald. Prettyman to learn how to rise to such occasions by going on a visit to the great Exposition. There was a few other matters up at intervals during the evening, but in comparison with the old absorbing topic they were not given the prominence and attention they otherwise might have received.

Death of Mrs. Harkins.

Margaret, the widow of Bernard Harkins, died last Saturday morning after only a few days illness, aged 77 years. The funeral services were held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at her late residence, No. 73 N. Main-st.

The deceased was born in Ireland, and when five years of age settled with her parents at Syracuse, N. Y. She was married about the year 1836 and came with her husband to Ann Arbor about the year 1841. Mr. Harkins was engaged in business, his store being about where the present post office is located. Eight children survive her, Mrs. A. J. Smith, of Williamston, Mrs. John Schumacher, Mrs. Marian Goodale, Maggie, Mary, John, Bernard and James Harkins, of Ann Arbor.—

Timely Arrival of Police In all Probability Prevented Trouble-Sergeant Hanrahan With Fourteen Guardians of the Peace Succeed In Clearing the Corridors.

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—For a short while Tuesday it seemed there was imminent danger of a riot at the city hall. Early in the morning the corridors were crowded with men who had come to the office of the board of public works to demand employment.
When Patrolman Hally, who guards

the municipal building by day, arrived at his post shortly after 7 o'clock, he found the place fairly packed with sunbrowned, stolid laborers who gave way grudgingly to let him pass. President McVicar of the board of public works arrived shortly afterwards and on Mr. Hally's advice telephoned to police headquarters for more officers.

Before the reinforcements arrived, City Engineer Ludden tried to force his way into his office. He succeeded in reaching the third story pretty well used up in the struggle, but there he found further progress hopelessly blocked by a barrier of inert humanity, or which he could make no impression. on which he could make no impression. He was compelled at last to go out upon He was compelled at last to go out upon the front balcony and walk thence along a narrow ledge to one of the windows of the public works offices. Commissioner Guthard, who has the muscles and figure of a Greco-Roman wrestler, seized those who stood in his way and refused to move and thrust them right and left with a force that gained him a good deal of respect, even though it excited some anger.

Sergeant Hanrahan arrived presently with 14 men and set to work at clearing the corridors and stairways. Men could not have been treated with more consideration than he showed them, yet consideration than he showed them, yet many met his requests and remon-strances with declarations that they would not move or with half-mumbled threats. The great majority gave way however, and those who seemed bent on causing trouble were quietly and good naturedly hustled out.

SESSION OF UNITED FRIENDS. Reports of Officers Show a Very Gratifying

Growth In Membership. SAGINAW, Sept. 6.—The supremc com-mandery of the United Friends of Michigan began a two days' session in the A. O. U. W. hall Tuesday. The supreme officers and about 100 delegates were in attendance. After organizing for business the commandery spent most of the time listening to the reports of officers, which were exeremely gratifying to members. Supreme Commander W. H. Andrews in his report reviewed the work, showing that dur-ing the past two years the order had paid death and disability claims amounting to $80,600 and that a paper for the order had been established 14 months. On the growth of the order in general the following is of interest: 'During the two years we have organized 30 commanderies, with 726 mem bers at the time of organization. The same commanderies have added to June 30 542 more, making a total of 1,268 members admitted in the new com-manderies. This shows a much better manderies. FOUND IN THE RIVER. The Body of a Well Dressed Man Near Grosse Isle. TRENTON, Sept. 6 .- A floating body was found in the river this side of Grosse Isle. It was that of a man about 30 years old, with dark complexion and dark mustache. He wore a black coat and black and drab striped trousers. There was a mark on the coat indicating that it had been made by Wettlaufer & Son of Detroit. On the third finger of the left hand was a large seal ring. It is thought the man had been in the water a week or 10 days.

The River Claims Another Victim. Detroit, Sept. 6.—George Neff, 17 years of age, was drowned at the foot of Second street Tuesday afternoon. He came here from Germany about seven months ago, and has been boarding with J. G. Gutekunst, at 203 Larned street west. After dinner he invited his brother down to the river to see him swim. George undressed and see him swim. George undressed and sat on a post with his back toward the river for a few moments and then suddenly dropped into the water. The shock apparently stopped his heart, or else his head struck something which stunned him, as he never came to the Highwayman Shot.

Jackson, Sept. 6.—Early Tuesday morning an officer saw two highway-men in the act of holding up a third in a dark alley near the haymarket. He made for them and the two attempted to escape. He shot one in the calf of the leg and succeeded in capturing him. His pal made his escape. The man gave his name as Frank Jones and claims to live in Battle Creek. He would not disclose the name of his companion. The man they were holding up also made his escape, but the police have been informed that his name was Thomas Clark, a farmer residing north of the city.

The Ordinance Legal. ADRIAN, Sept. 6.—The ordinance regulating the running of streetcars in the city was passed upon by Justice Westerman. He declared it to be legal. James Miller, the violator, who was ar rested to test it, was fined $5 or in default sentenced to spend 10 days in jail. The fight is now on in earnest and papers will be served upon another employe to test another phase of the ordinance. It will probably be fought up to the supreme court. JONESVILLE, Sept. 6.—The alarm of fire was sounded for the east part of the village, at the home of A. B. Daniels, but the fire was put out before the department could get there. M. Warren was called and said that he thought it would be fatal.

Fifty-Eighth Session GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 6.—The Fifty-eighth Michigan Methodist conference met in this city today. The clergymen began arriving Tuesday, and there are already over 200 here. Bishop Bowman of St. Louis is presiding, and all indications point to an easy task for him. CALUMET, Sept. 6.—The coroner's jury has not yet placed the responsibil-ity of the murder of John Salo and Irvin Paralla, the two Finns, early Monday morning. The Nevada Senator Speaks on the Sherman Repeal.

REVIEWS LEGISLATION SINCE 1873.

Senator Peffer Introduces a Bill For a Department of Education and Asks For an Appropriation of $800,000,000 In Aluminum Coins.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Mr. Stewart (Rep., Nev.) addressed the senate in op-position to the repeal bill. He began his speech with a history of the closing of the European and American mints to the free and unlimited coinage of silver; of the conference held at Paris to consider the unification of coins, weights and measures, at which conference the United States was represented by Samuel B. Ruggles. If any particle of interest existed in the mind of any senator in connection with the legislation of 1873, by which the silver dollar was dropped out of the coinage (remaining out until the passage of the Bland-Allison act), he had an opportunity of learning from Mr. Stewart every incident bearing upon it, before, since, and at the time of its enactment

Mr. Stewart's version of that old history, differed from the version given by Mr. Sherman last week. Little attention was paid to Mr. Stewart's speech, and at one point of it he complained that the senators were in the dark rooms and not in the chamber. A call of roll anichly scorned a governm. Mr. of roll quickly secured a quorum. Mr. Stewart declined to Permit Mr. Hoar to interpose some remarks and Mr. Aldrich (Rep.) met similar treatment, his interference being called "aggravating."

He occupied the floor over three and a half hour's delivering his speech from typewritten sheets and having finished the senate went into executive session by a vote of 35 to 28.

The resolution changing the hour of meeting from noon to 11 a. m. was offered by Mr. Voorhees (Dem., Ind.) and is to be called for action today. A concurrent resolution for a joint select committee on finance (seven senators and seven representatives) was intro-duced by Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) and is also to be called up today. The most remarkable proposition of the day was a bill introduced by request by Mr. Peffer for a department of education and for an appropriation in aluminum coins of $800,000,000.

The senate adjourned at 4:30.

BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH

Single Story of a Detroit Mo der-A Terrible Battle Which Lasted Months-One of the Remarkable Incidents Bordering on the Romantic.

Thomas Hagan was seated in a comfortable rocking chair at his cosy home, 1289 Russell-st, yesterday morning, when a visitor was announced. The gentleman arose and greeted the new comer with the grace of a diplomat, and as he opened up a conversation it was evident that Mr. Hagan was a person of more than ordinary intelligence. To his visitor the remarkable changes and peculiar career of this man was a source of much interest. The wonder-ful transformation in his appearance within the past two years is itself worthy of the study of a scientist. Mr Hagan, a couple of years ago, was so weak and emaciated that to-day he does not seem the same individual. Rheumatism was the cause of his terrible sufferings.

He is a Detroiter by birth, having first seen the light of day in this city 36 years ago. When quite a boy he was apprenticed to the molder's trade, and ever since he has followed this avoca tion. He is quite a prominent member of the local Stovemolder's Union, and can be found nearly every Saturday night in attendance at the meeting of the order. About two years ago Mr. Hagan became seriously affected with rheumatism, the result of working in draughts of cold air.

"The shooting pains of rheumatism are actually, I believe, the most hor-rible penalties that can be inflicted on mankind. I can not begin to tell you of the agony I suffered. I had a thorough experience in the art of torture and no matter what I used to ease the pain, it seemed as though I was doomed to greater suffering. I had a number of friends who took great interest in my case, and recommended numerou edies, which I tried without avail Nothing seemed to do me any good. I was under the care of several wellknown Detroit physicians, but their services were absolutely without fa-vorable results. I was bedriden Why, I could not move from one chair to another without assistance. Some days I would feel a little brighter than

"But presently another attack of that infernal rheumatism would strike me, leaving me a veritable wreck on the barren shores of humanity.

"By accident I read two years ago a Canadian paper containing a remark-able story of a miracle at Hamilton, Ont. It was that of a man who was tortured to death by rheumatism. He was induced to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He was immediately cured. I doubted the truth of the matter at first, but thought I would the matter at first, but thought I would try it. I had my people hunt all over town, but they could not find the pills at any of the drug stores. The only place they were then sold at was over in Windsor. Well, my relatives went over there and purchased a few boxes. Great Christopher! but my mind goes back in ecstasy to the change which back in ecstasy to the change which immediately came over me after using the Pink Pills. I began to improve, and in a few weeks rheumatic pains left me, and in a short time I was able to be out and around. From that time I have been at work.

"It was not long after I secured the pills over at Windsor that I found they were for sale here in Detroit, at Brown & Co.'s, corner of Woodward and Congress, Michell's and Bassett & L'Hom-medieu's, Woodward-ave. I purchased them for fifty cents per box. I guess you can buy them now at almost every drug store in Detroit.

"I have recommended the Pink Pills to several of my friends around town and although their cases were similar to mine, they have all been cured There is nothing on the face of God's earth equal to them for rheumatism and other diseases. Until my dying day I will praise the pills for being the cause of my present happy and contented condition."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is usually understood, but are a scientific preparation successfully used in general practice for many years before being offered to the public gen-erally. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases depending upon vitiated humors in the blood ing upon vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. work, or excesses of whatever nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the

Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont., and are sold only in boxes bearing the and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50cts. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers a substitute in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

A Provision In a Doctor's Will. A Philadelphia physician who died the other day left a will containing some queer provisions, including this one: "If my family never settled with Mr. Foster concerning the dog, I wish and want them to give to the boy Foster who was bit the sum of $10, but if they have settled with the said Foster, then they are not to pay any money to said boy. This is in fulfillment of a promise I made to them when I was in trouble concerning

An Old Carpet Worth $5,500.

The longer a carpet is used in the coiners' department at the United States mint the more it is worth. Wear and tear do not diminish its value. Yesterday a thick woolen carpet that has been on the coiners' floor for seven years was taken up and carefully cremated. The precious ashes were scrupulously gathered together, as if they were the relica of some departed saint, and by an elaborate refining process the government recovered 279 ounces of gold, worth over $5,500. The metal had been deposited there by the infinitesimal abrasions and disintegrations of the yellow metal while being converted from bullion into coin.

Even the heavy gloves of the men who handle bullion are incinerated, and the gold is brought back to Uncle Sam's coffers. Even the smoke from the furnaces used for melting the metal is made to redeliver the treasure with which it is trying to escape, and from the soot in the chimney cunning little bars of the vellow stuff are secured. - San Francisco Examiner.

One of His Experiences.

For thirty-eight years Capt. Loud followed the sea, most of that time as master of a vessel, and upon retiring from the water was appointed by the Secretary of the United States Treasury to superintend the seal fisheries in Alaska, which position he held five years. He relates one experience as follows:

"For several years I had been troubled with general nervousness and pain in the region of my heart. My greatest affiliction was sleeple sness; it wasalmost impossible at any time to obtain rest and sleep. Having seen Dr. Miles' remedies advertised I began using Nervine. After taking a small quantity the benefit received was so great that I was positively alarmed, thinking the remedy contained oplates which would finally be injurious to me; but on being assured by the druggist that it was perfectly harmless, I continued it together with the Heart Cure. Today I can conscientiously say that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure did more for me than anything I had ever taken. I had been treated by eminent physicians in New York and San Francisco without benefit. I owe my present good health to the judicious use of these most valuable remedies and heartily recommend them to all afflicted as I was."—Capt. A. P. Loud, Hampden, Me.

BOYS IN BLUE PARADE.

Years Ago They Marched to the Same Strains.

VIEWED BY ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS.

The Entire Line of March Decorated With Beautiful and Elaborate Arrangements of Flags and Other Patriotic Devices.

Bands of Music by the Score. Indianapolis, Sept. 6.—The stronghold of Hoosierdom has capitulated to the boys that wore the blue. With flying flags and keeping step to the same strains that led them through valleys and over mountains three decades ago, the veterans marched like a victorious army up and down the principal streets Tuesday amid the plaudits of a multitude of enthusiastic spectaamphitheater 400 feet long with seats in it for 2,000 people. In the center ex-tending out into the street like a bow window, was a gorgeously decorated reviewing stand from which the com-mander-in-chief and his staff saw and were cheered by the marching thou-sands. As the hour for the parade approached the crowd became greater and thronged every spot from which a sight was possible. Not one house along the entire line of march was undecorated, and on the most of them were elaborate and beautiful arrangements of flags and other patriotic devices.

The great column began forming early in the day at the corner of Meridearly in the day at the corner of Meridian and Seventh streets, with the various detachments extending many blocks on all the adjoining streets. The line of march was down Meridian street to New York, west to Pennsylvania, south to Market, east to New Jersey, south to Washington, west to Washington, past the reviewing stand fronting the courthouse to Tennessee, where it was dismissed. it was dismissed.

The parade was over a distance of three to four miles. It was headed by Major General Carnahan. The rear of the column was brought up by the de-partment of Indiana, which comprised nearly one-half of the entire number of veterans in line. There were bands of music by the score, flags and banners too numerous to count. Indianapolis had promised at Washington to "do itself proud" if it was given the national encampment, and it more than redeemed the pledge.

Seen from the reviewing stand the parade was replete with interesting features. The Illinois division was led by a carriage occupied by four crippled veterans who were among the earliest founders of the order.

Drawn by six big bays the naval float of Illinois came next in the procession. It was the mimic Monitor inscribed with the famous saying of the old admiral: "Damn the torpedoes, go

Pennsylvanta's department was led by two women dressed in Columbian costumes on bicycles. They are "The Daughters of the Regiment. They were followed by two nickleplated miniature howitzers, drawn by ponies.

Comrades of the Ohio department turned out in force. Ex-Speaker J. W. Keefer marched with Post 45 of Springfield. William H. The White Cruiser Chicago at Dublin. The stars and stripes are as familiar to Irish eyes as the flag of green, but not often is the symbol of the United States of America seen on an American battleship in Dublin bay. A warship is regarded as a part of the territory of the state to which it belongs, and therefore the Chicago may be looked upon as the part of the great country in which so many of our people have found a home, and not a few of them have found fame and fortune. It was only natural, therefore, that her advent to our shores should have stirred Irish hearts, and that the flag flying above her should have conjured up visions of battle days when side by side with it was carried the flag of green. Ireland gave Barry to the American navy, and the blood of Old Ironsides coursed through the veins of Charles Stewart Parnell, and the Irish nature would have ceased to be Irish if our warmest affections were not successfully appealed to by the sight of part of the armed force which the genius of Barry helped to create and of the flag under which the grandfather of the Irish leader served and fought.—United Gentlemen Who Aspire to Be Flunkeys. With the exception of Lord Carrington (who did very well indeed) the official actors in the ceremonial at the duke's wedding appeared to be very imperfect in their parts, and it is a wonder that no accident took place. It was odd indeed to see a number of aristocratic personages walking backward with the appearance of being saturated with the most slavish servility, but even more grotesque and remarkable were the constant and profound bowings and scrapings of all the courtiers.

Lord Palmerston once remarked to Lord Dalling, who repeated the saying to Charles Lever, "What a happy arrangement it is that in an age when our flunkeys aspire to be gentlemen there are gentlemen who ask nothing better than to be flunkeys," and he never said a better thing.-London Truth.

The Unfortunate Occurrence of Her

AN HOW IT CAME NEAR MAKING HER EXISTENCE UNHAPPY.

Her Mother Tells a Story Which Will Greatly Interest All.

Stories of children are always interesting. Parents often vie with each other in seeing which can tell the best story or most interesting anecdote about their children.

But there is a story told by one mother which, while it may awake echoes of sadness in the minds and hearts of some parents, will be to others a message fraught with hope and joy.

The child whose short history of mingled sorrow and gladness is here given is the daughter of the wellknown Mrs. J. Learmonth, who resides at 776 Broadway, South Boston,

"At ten years of age," said Mrs. Learmonth, "my daughter became affected with a nervous condition which soon developed into St. Vitus' dance. It was pronounced by the attending physician to be a severe attack.

"The mouth would be drawn spasmodically far to one side, the hands and arms were restless and constantly twitching. Her limbs also were weak; her ankles bent under her so that it was almost impossible to walk.

CORA LEARMONTH

"She was so nervous that she would scream almost like a maniac and then have fits of crying. After two months' treatment without a cure, I concluded to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"Three bottlefuls entirely cured her. She is now thirteen years old and has been well ever since and today is a picture of health."

Children are prone to have weak nerves and delicate health. Neglect of a nervous condition, a pale look, a disordered digestion or a general lack of health and vigor in a child may result in fits, St. Vitus' dance, or some other nervous disease.

Give your infants and children this glorious children's remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the beginning of the disease—when you see them nervous, restless, wakeful, pale spiritless, without appetite, or with appetite irregular and bowels constipated. It will make their nerves strong, their blood pure, their sleep sound, natural and refreshing. In fact it will make them well and strong and strong.

It is purely vegetable and harmless and all druggists sell it for a $1.00. It is the discovery and prescription of a physician, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, well-know as the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Bob Vorus hates an alligator. The uncanny appearance of the big ugly saurian is sufficiently forbidding to most people to make them despise him, but Bob has a better reason than that-they destroy his fish and pigs. He and his 10 boys have been occupying the dull summer months in killing them. They bring into town two and three every week for

Last Monday they brought up the biggest one yet. It measured 9‡ feet in length and weighed somewhat under 400 pounds. It was 47 years old by the rings on its tail and had already begun to store away pine knots for the winter's supply.

His appetite seemed not to be confined to geese and lightwood knots, for an autopsy discovered in his capacious cold storage reservoir a pair of No. 11 bro-gans and a pipe. That accounts for the missing negro who went fishing there about three weeks ago.-Lumpkin Inde-

It's Short; Read It.

If you wanted a sack of flour and KNEW where you could buy it much less than usually sold for, you would lose no time in buying.

If you did not need it today, but knew you would need it next week or next month, you would be just as anxious to buy NOW and save your money.

NOW WHY NOT

Use the same reason in the piano business? A piano is merchandise (in a commercial sense). Its price depends on its cost and the added profit. If a dealer wants money badly enough to lose his profit to get the cost, he can do it just as well on pianos as on flour.

We have pianos—lots of them and good ones. In ordinary times we sell them at a profit; now its a question of how to get our money out of them.

If you will not use your business judgement in the piano business you will say, "Oh, that's newspaper talk." If you use reason, you will BUY YOUR PIANO NOW.

Denman Thompson's celebrated play, "The Old Homestead," stands at the head of the long line of dramatic work as the most wonderful entertainmen that has ever been offered. That it ha taken a firm hold on the m asses of peo ple who have seen it during its run New York City-its fourth consecutiv season there—is evidenced by the enor

The plot is a simple moral story, just the same as a father and mother exper ience with their children every day, and is a thread holding together the mov-ing panorama of city and country life. Is it any wonder that people flock to see a play which so cleverly carries them back to "old times," and which their children enjoy just as much now as they themselves used to? The most remarkable feature of its success is the remarkable feature of its success is the fact that it draws among its patrons many prominent clergymen who have never before darkened the doors of a theatre, and who, in turn, have from their pulpits paid it the highest tribute possible by saying that the play taught a high moral lesson, as strong and powerful as any they could preach. LITERARY NOTES.

Scientific Cooking is the subject of an essay by Miss M. A. Boland, instructor in Cooking in the Johns Hopkins Training School for Nurses, which will be published in the September Popular Science Monthly. It is "a plea for education in household affairs," pointing out the dangers of improperly prepared food, and the need of systematic instruction in cooking .- D. Appleton & Co., New York, N. Y.

As an illustration of the money paid to writers as soon as they acquire a repntation, the September Cosmopolitain contains less than eight thousand words for which the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty-six dollars was paid. Ex-President Harrison, Mark Twain and William Dean Howells are the three whose work commands such a price.

The September number has more than one hundred illustrations, giving the chief points of interest in the Columbian Exposition, and the Fair is treated by more than a dozen authors. -The Cosmopolitan; $1.50 a year; New York, N. Y.

The September Harper's Magazine, published August 22, contains a brilliant account of "A General Election in England," by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by W. Hatherell; "An Albert Durer Town," a description of Rocamadour, by Elizabeth Robins Pennell, with twelve illustrations by Joseph Pennell; "Texas," a narrative of stirring events in the State's history, and a description of its resources, by ex-Senator Samual Bell Maxey; "The Letters of James Russell Lowell," by Charles Eliot Norton. The fiction of the Number is agreeably varied .-Harper & Bros., New York, N. Y.

The Atlantic Monthly for September contains a reply to Professor Shaler's "Relations of Academic and Technical Instruction" which appeared in the August number. It is by General Francis A. Walker, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is a most able defense of the system of the independent technical school.

There are also two timely articles of great interest; "Edwin Booth," by Henry A. Clapp, the able dramatic eritic; and "Wild-cat Banking in the Teens" by J. B. McMaster, the distinguished historian .- Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, Mass.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the series of "English Classics for Schools" now being issued by the American Book Company. They are in uniform style of binding, although some books are considerably thicker than others, and are very neat in appearance, being in light and dark brown, with cloth backs and paper sides. Few volumes have been received: Sohrab and Rustum by Matthew Arnold; Marmion and Ivanhoe by Sir Walter Scott. The Sir Rogers de Coverley Papers from The Spectator; Shakespeares' Merchant of Venice, Twelfth Night, and Julius Cæsar Ten Selections from the Sketch-Book by Washington Irving, three essays, The American Scholar, Self-Reliance, and Compensation by Ralph Waldo Emerson, and the second essay on the Earl of Chatham (William Pitt) by Lord Macauley. The introduction of each volume contains biographical and critical matter sufficient to give the reader a good idea of the author and his times, as well as a literary estimate of the work under consideration. There are copious foot-notes to explain allusions in the text and when necessary a glossary is supplied at the back of the volume. We can most cordially recommend to teachers and parents the purchase of standard literature in this convenient and economical form .-The American Book Company, New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, Boston, Atlanta.

To Be Buried Alive.

The mind reader, A. J. Seymour, is generally known in Illinois, and his proosed attempt to be buried and remain in the ground while a crop of barley is grown on his grave creates interest throughout the state. Dr. E. C. Dunn of Rockford has been selected by Seymour as manager. Dr. Dunn says:

Remarkable Cures by Faith.

At the Christian alliance camp meet ing nearly 200 persons personally testi-fied to having been cured by faith and twice as many more stood up at the close of the meeting when their leader, Dr. Simpson, asked all in the audience who had been healed by divine power to arise. Mrs. Welcome of Yarmouth was one of those who claimed to have been cured of lung disease without the aid of a physician, Mrs. W. M. Davis of Bonny Eagle had been relieved of a spinal trouble of long standing; Mrs. M. J. Ames of Portland neuralgia of the heart and pleurisy; Miss J. O. Thomp son of Portland has been cured of a tumor, and Miss Jennie M. Benwick of the same city had seven teeth extracted without suffering any pain. Mrs. F. C Clark of Tyngsboro, Mass., who suffered paralysis of the optic nerve, which nearly robbed her of her eyesight, was led to the camp ground, became anointed and her sight was restored. Mrs. C. F. Uran of Lowell, Mass., was cured of an internal cancer.

H. K. Smith of New Britain, Conn., said that he had been cured of a cancer without the aid of a physician. Mrs. M. J. Clark of New York gave testimony that a few years ago she fell in a church door and broke her wrist. Neither medicine nor bandage was applied, but the Lord united the broken bones. Another New York lady said she was thrown from a carriage not long ago, and her right ankle was dislocated. The Lord set the dislocated bone. The Rev. A. S. Orne of Haverhill, Mass., said that for seven years he had employed no physician in his family. In that time one child had been cured of the croup and another of pneumonia without the use of medicine. An infant had died, but Mr. Orne declared that its death was due to a broken heart.-Old Orchard Cor. New

Of the diseases to which it is adapted with the best results, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a family medicin-comprehensive in its scope, has never een thrust upon public attention the guise of a universal panacea for bodily ills. This claim, daily arrogate in the columns of the daily press the proprietors of medicines far infer ior to it as specifics, has in a thousand instances disgusted the public in ad-vance by its absurdity, and the prospects of other remedies of superior qualities have been handicapped by the pretentions of their worthless predeces sors. But the American people know because they have verified the fact by the most trying tests, that the Bitters possesses the virtues of a real specific in cases of malarial and liver disorder onstipation, nervous, rheumatic does it does thoroughly, and mainly for this reason it is indorsed and recom mended by hosts of respectable medi-

This Happened In Chicago. A little Chicago 5-year-old (everything happens in Chicago this summer) was, according to a raconteur on a suburban piazza last week, at one time bidden by her mother to be very good on a certain evening when the pastor and his wife were to take tea with her parents.

"You must not speak unless you are spoken to; if you really want anything you must ask for it very prettily and properly," was the off repeated injunction of the mother, and the child sat down at the table with a crushing sense of the importance of the occasion.

A HOME MISSIONARY.

HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT. AN OLD MAN WITH PROGRESSIVE IDEAS AND HIS DE-

SIRE TO ENLIGHTEN THE PUBLIC. The winter of 1834-35 was my first experience with rheumatism. I was travel-ing as a home missionary, and with great difficulty and suffering I reached my appointments. It was located in my hips and back. From that time to this year of grace, 1891, I have suffered more or less under the grip of that disease. About three years later, liver complaint, and the calomel taken to cure it, fastened upon the walls and organs of my chest, a rheumatic affection from which I was never wholly free, and at times even a breath was a cruelty. Yet, in a general way, my health has been as good, perhaps better than the

JOSEPH ADDISON HALLOCK (Octogenarian.) average of men.

During the last days of the late year, I bought of Dr. Owen two of the Owen Electric Belts. One I have worn, the other a daughter has worn. In either case the remedial has been satisfactory. The rheumatism of my chest and hips I can no longer find. A limited case of varicocele, of more than thirty years standing, after two weeks use of the Belt, has diminished to a mere lump, and a few days later could not be found. A nasal catarrh of years had so affected the substance of the nose that a friend in jest twitted me of brandy. My nose is itself again, and other symptoms of nasal and throat catarrh are fast disappearing, Carrying my deafness of seven years with them.

I have studied electricity in its bearings upon mental and physico mental phenomena for fifty years, and have seen its wonders in these directions, and, thus prepared, my attention was easily turned to its efficiency in controlling the nerves, muscles and motions of the living, as galvanism does those of the recent dead.

I have no wish to undervalue any appliance which carries a real electric current from a genuine battery to human nerves with a gentle, a genial force; but I do wish to do my utmost to disarm public fears as to the well-ordered Electric Belts.

Qui n'a plus qu'un moment a vivre N'a plus rien a dissimuler. -Quinault-Atya

Of my country and of my family I have little to say. Ill usage and length of years have driven me from the one and estranged me from the other. Hereditary wealth afforded me an education of no common order, and a contemplative turn of mind enabled me to methodize the stories which early study diligently garnered up. Beyond all things, the works of the German moralists gave me a great delight, not from my ill advised admiration of their eloquent madness, but from the ease with which my habits of rigid thought enabled me to detect their falsities.

I have often been reproached with the aridity of my genius, a deficiency of imagination has been imputed to me as a crime, and the Pyrrhonism of my opinions has at all times rendered me notorious. Indeed a strong relish for physical philosophy has, I fear, tinctured my mind with a common error of this age-I mean the habit of referring occurrences, even the least susceptible of such reference, to the principles of that science. Upon the whole, no person could be less liable than myself to be led away from the severe precincts of truth by the ignes fatui of superstition. I have thought proper to premise thus much, lest the incredible tale I have to tell should be considered rather the raving of a crude imagination than the positive experience of a mind to which the reveries of fancy have been a dead letter and a nullity.

"Almighty God! see! see!"

After many years spent in foreign travel, I sailed in the year 18— from the port of Batavia, in the rich and populous island of Java, on a voyage to the archipelago of the Sunda islands. I went as a passenger, having no other induce-ment than a kind of a nervous restlessness which haunted me as a fiend.

Our vessel was a beautiful ship of about 400 tons, copper fastened and built at Bombay of Malabar teak. She was freighted with cotton, wool and oil, from the Lachadive islands. We had also on board coir, jaggeree, ghee, cocoanuts and a few cases of opium. The stowage was clumsily done, and the vessel consequently crank.

We got under way with a mere breath of wind, and for many days stood along the eastern coast of Java without any other incident to beguile the monotony of our course than the occasional meeting with some of the small grabs of the archipelago to which we were bound.

One evening, leaning over the taffrail, I observed a very singular isolated cloud to the northwest. It was remarkable as well for its color as from its being the first we had seen since our departure from Batavia. I watched it attentively until sunset, when it spread all at once to the eastward and westward, girting in the horizon with a narrow strip of vapor and looking like a long line of low beach. My notice was soon afterward attracted by the dusky red appearance of the moon and the peculiar character of the sea. The latter was undergoing a rapid change, and the water seemed nore than usually transparent.

Although I could distinctly see the bottom, yet heaving the lead I found the ship in 15 fathoms. The air now became intolerably hot and was loaded with spiral exhalations similar to those arising from heated iron. As night came on every breath of wind died away, and a more entire calm it is impossible to conceive. The flame of a candle burned upon the poop without the least perceptible motion, and a long hair held between the finger and thumb, hung without the possibility of detecting a vibration. However, as the captain said he could perceive no indication of danger, and as we were drifting in bodily to shore, he ordered the sails to be furled and the anchor let go. No watch was set, and the crew, consisting principally of Malays, stretched themselves deliber-

I went below-not without a full presentiment of evil. Indeed every appearance warranted me in apprehending a simoom. I told the captain my fears, but he paid no attention to what I said and left me without deigning to give a reply. My uneasiness, however, prevented me from sleeping, and about midnight I went upon deck. As I placed my foot upon the upper step of the compan-ion ladder I was startled by a loud, humming noise, like that occasioned by the rapid revolution of a mill wheel, and before I could ascertain its meaning I found the ship quivering to its center. In the next instant a wilderness of foam hurled us upon our beam ends, and rushing over us fore and aft swept the entire decks from stem to stern.

The extreme fury of the blast proved, in a great measure, the salvation of the ship. Although completely waterlogged, yet as her masts had gone by the board she rose after a minute heavily from the sea, and staggering awhile beneath the immense pressure of the tempest found myself upon in between the stern ost and radder. With great difficulty gained my fact, and looking dizzily around was as first struck with the idea of our being among breakers, so terrific, beyond the wildest imagination, was the whirlpool of mountainous and foaming ocean within which we were engulfed.

After awhile I heard the voice of an old Swede who had shipped with us at the moment of leaving port. I hallooed to him with all my strength, and presently he came reeling aft. We soon discovered that we were the sole survivors of the accident. All on deck, with the exception of ourselves, had been swept overboard. The captain and mates must have perished as they slept, for the cabins were deluged with water. Without assistance we could expect to do little for the security of the ship, and our exertions were at first paralyzed by the momentary expectation of going down.

Our cable had of course parted like pack thread at the first breath of the hurricane, or we should have been instantaneously overwhelmed. We scudded with frightful velocity before the sea, and the water made clear breaches over us. The framework of our stern was shattered excessively, and in almost every respect we had received considerable injury, but to our extreme joy we found the pumps unchoked, and that we had made no great shifting of our ballast.

The main fury of the blast had already blown over, and we apprehended little danger from the violence of the wind, but we looked forward to its total cessation with dismay, well believing that in our shattered condition we should inevitably perish in the tremendous swell which would ensue. But this very just apprehension seemed by no means likely to be soon verified. For five entire days and nights-during which our only subsistence was a small quantity of jaggeree, procured with great difficulty from the forecastle-the hulk flew at a rate defying computation before rapidly succeeding flaws of wind, which, without equaling the first violence of the simoom, were still more terrific than any tempest I had before encountered. Our course for the first four days was, with trifling variations, southeast and by south, and we must have run down the coast of New Holland. On the fifth day the cold became extreme, although the wind had hauled round a point more to the northward. The sun arose with a sickly yellow luster and clambered a few degrees above the horizon, emitting no decisive light. There were no clouds apparent, yet the wind was upon the increase and blew with a fitful and unsteady fury.

About noon, as nearly as we could ruess, our attention was again arrested by the appearance of the sun. It gave out no light, properly so called, but a dull and sullen glow without reflection. as if all its rays were polarized. Just before sinking within the turgid sea its central fires suddenly went out, as if hurriedly extinguished by some unaccountable power. It was a dim, silverlike rim, alone, as it rushed down the unfathoma-

We waited in vain for the arrival of the sixth day. That day to me has not arrived-to the Swede, never did arrive. Thenceforward we were enshrouded in pitchy darkness, so that we could not have seen an object at 20 paces from the ship. Eternal night continued to envelop us, all unrelieved by the phosphoric sea brilliancy to which we had been accustomed in the tropics. We observed, too, that although the tempest continued to rage with unabated violence there was no longer to be discovered the usual ap pearance of surf or foam which had hitherto attended us.

All around were horror and thick gloom, and a black, sweltering desert of ebony. Superstitious terror crept by degrees into the spirit of the old Swede, and my own soul was wrapped up in silent wonder. We neglected all care of the ship as worse than useless, and securing ourselves as well as possible to the stump of the mizenmast looked out bitterly into the world of ocean. We had no means of calculating time, nor could we form any guess of our situation. We were, however, well aware of having made farther to the southward than any previous navigators and felt great amazement at not meeting with the usual impediments of ice.

In the meantime every moment threatened to be our last-every mountainous billow hurried to overwhelm us. The swell surpassed anything I had imagined possible, and that we were not instantly buried is a miracle. My companion spoke of the lightness of our cargo and reminded me of the excellent qualities of our ship, but I could not help feeling the utter hopelessness of hope itself and prepared myself gloomily for that death which I thought nothing could defer beyond an hour, as with every knot of way the ship made the swelling of the black stupendous seas became more dismally appalling. At times we gasped for breath at an elevation beyond the albatross-at times became dizzy with the velocity of our descent into some watery hell, where the air grew stagnant and no sound disturbed the slumbers of the kraken.

We were at the bottom of one of these abysses when a quick scream from my companion broke fearfully upon the night, "See! see!" cried he, shrieking in my ears, "Almighty God! see! see!" As he spoke I became aware of a dull, sullen glare of red light which streamed down the sides of the vast chasm where we lay and threw a fitful brilliancy upon our deck. Casting my eyes upward I be-held a spectacle which froze the current of my blood. At a terrific height directly above us, and upon the very verge of the precipitous descent, hovered a gigantic ship of perhaps 4,000 tons. Although upreared upon the summit of a wave more than a hundred times her own altitude, her apparent size still exceeded that of any ship of the line or East Indiaman in existence. Her huge hull was a deep dingy black, unrelieved by any of the customary carvings of a ship. A single row of brass cannon protrud-

ed from her open ports and dashed from their polished surfaces the fires of innu-By what miracle I escaped destruction merable battle lanterns which swung to

Etunned by the | and fro about her rigging. But what mainly inspired us with horror and astonishment was that she bore up under a press of sail in the very teeth of that supernatural sea and of that ungovernable hurricane. When we first discovered her, her bows were alone to be seen as she rese slowly from the dim and horrible gulf beyond her. For a moment of intense terror she paused upon the giddy pinnacle, as if in contemplation of her own sublimity, then trembled and tottered and-came down.

At this instant I know not what sudden self possession came over my spirit. Staggering as far aft as I could, I awaited fearlessly the ruin that was to overwhelm. Our own vessel was at length ceasing from her struggles and sinking with her head to the sea. The shock of the descending mass struck her consequently in that portion of her frame which was nearly under water, and the inevitable result was to hurl me with irresistible violence upon the rigging of the stranger

As I fell the ship hove in stays and went about, and to the confusion ensuing I attributed my escape from the no-tice of the crew. With little difficulty I made my way unperceived to the main hatchway, which was partially open, and soon found an opportunity of secreting myself in the hold. Why I did so I can hardly tell. An indefinite sense of awe, which at first sight of the navigators of the ship had taken hold of my mind, was perhaps the principle of my concealment. I was unwilling to trust myself with a race of people who had offered to the cursory glance I had taken so many points of vague novelty, doubt and apprehension. I therefore thought proper to contrive a hiding place in the hold. This I did by moving a small portion of the shifting boards in such a manner as to afford me a convenient retreat between the huge timbers of the ship.

I had scarcely completed my work when a footstep in the hold forced me to make use of it. A man passed by my place of concealment with a feeble and unsteady gait. I could not see his face, but had an opportunity of observing his general appearance. There was about it an evidence of great age and infirmity. His knees tottered beneath a load of years, and his entire frame quivered under the burden. He muttered to himself in a low, broken tone some words of a language which I could not understand and groped in a corner among a pile of singular looking instruments and decayed charts of navigation. His manner was a wild mixture of the peevishness of second childhood and the solemn dignity of a god. He at length went on deck, and I saw him no more.

A feeling for which I have no name has taken possession of my soul-a sensation which will admit of no analysis, to which the lessons of bygone time are inadequate, and for which I fear futurity itself will offer me no key. To a mind constituted like my own the latter consideration is an evil. I shall never—I know that I shall never-be satisfied with regard to the nature of my conceptions. Yet it is not wonderful that these conceptions are indefinite, since they have their origin in sources so utterly novel. A new sense, a new entity, is added to my soul.

It is long since I first trod the deck of this terrible ship, and the rays of my destiny are, I think, gathering to a focus. Incomprehensible men! Wrapped up in meditations of a kind which I cannot divine, they pass me by unnoticed. Concealment is utter folly on my part, for the people will not see. It was but just now that I passed directly before the eyes of the mate; it was no long while ago that I ventured into the captain's own private cabin and took thence the materials with which I write and have written. I shall from time to time continue this journal. It is true that I may not find an opportunity of transmitting it to the world, but I will not fail to make the endeavor. At the last moment I will inclose the MS. in a bottle and cast it within the sea. An incident has occurred which has given me new room for meditation. Are such things the operation of ungoverned chance? I had ventured upon deck and thrown myself down without attracting any notice among a pile of ratlin stuff and old sails in the bottom of the yawl. While musing upon the singularity of my fate, I unwittingly daubed with a tar brush the edges of a neatly folded studding sail which lay near me on a barrel. The studding sail is now bent upon the ship, and the thoughtless touches of the brush are spread out into the word "Discovery."

I have made many observations lately upon the structure of the vessel. Although well armed, she is not, I think, a ship of war. Her rigging, build and general equipment all negative a supposi-tion of this kind. What she is not I can easily perceive; what she is I fear it is impossible to say. I know not how it is, but in scrutinizing her strange model and singular cast of spars, her huge size and overgrown suits of canvas, her severely simple bow and antiquated stern, there will occasionally flash across my mind a sensation of familiar things, and there is always mixed up with such indistinct shadows of recollection an unaccountable memory of old foreign chronicles and ages long ago.

I have been looking at the timbers of the ship. She is built of a material to which I am a stranger. There is a eculiar character about the wood which trikes me as rendering it unfit for the surpose to which it has been applied. I mean its extreme porousness, considered independently of the worm eaten condition which is a consequence of navigation in these seas, and apart from the rottenness attendant upon age. It will appear perhaps an observation some what overcurious, but this wood would have every characteristic of Spanish oak, if Spanish cak were distended by any unnatural means.

In reading the above sentence a curious-apothegm of an old weatherbeaten Dutch navigator comes full upon my recollection. "It is as sure," he was wont to say when any doubt was entertained of his veracity, "as sure as there is a sea where the ship itself will grow in bulk like the living body of the sea-

About an hour ago I made bold to trust myself among a group of the crew. They paid me no manner of attention, and although I stood in the very midst of them all seemed utterly unconscious of my presence. Like the one I had at first seen in the hold, they all bore about them the marks of a hoary old age. Their knees trembled with infirmity. Their shoulders were bent double with decrepitude. Their shriveled skins rattled in the wind. Their voices were low, tremulous and broken. Their eyes glistened with the rheum of years, and their grey hairs streamed terribly in the tem-Around them, on every part of the deck, lay scattered mathematical instruments of the most quaint and obsoete construction.

I mentioned some time ago the bending of a studding sail. From that period the ship, being thrown dead off the wind, has continued her terrific course due south, with every rag of canvas packed upon her, from her truck to her lower studding sail booms, and rolling every moment her topgallant yardarms into the most appalling hell of water which it can enter into the mind of man to imagine. I have just left the deck, where I find it impossible to maintain a foot ing, although the crew seems to experience little inconvenience. It appears to me a miracle of miracles that our enormous bulk is not swallowed up at once and forever.

We are surely doomed to hover continually upon the brink of eternity, without taking a final plunge into the abyss. From billows a thousand times more stupendous than any I have ever seen we glide away with the facility of the arrowy sea gull, and the colossal waters rear their heads above us like demons of the deep, but like demons confined to simple threats and forbidden to destroy. I am led to attribute these frequent escapes to the only natural cause which can account for such effect. I must suppose the ship to be within the influence of some strong current or impetu-ous undertow. I have seen the captain face to face and in his own cabin; but, as I expected, he paid me no attention. Although in his appearance there is to a casual observer nothing which might bespeak him more or less than man, still a feeling of irrepressible reverence and awe mingled with the sensation of wonder with which I regarded him. In stature he is nearly my own height—that is, about 5 feet 8 inches. He is of a well knit and compact frame of body, neither robust nor remarkable otherwise, But it is the singularity of the expression which reigns upon the face-it is the intense, the wonderful, the thrilling evidence of old age, so utter, so extreme, which excites within my spirit a sense a sentiment, ineffable. His forehead, although little wrinkled, seems to bear upon it the stamp of a myriad of years. His gray hairs are records of the past, and his grayer eyes are sybils of the fu-

The cabin floor was thickly strewn with strange, iron clasped folios, and moldering instruments of science, and obsolete, long forgotten charts. His head was bowed down upon his hands, and he pored with a fiery, unquiet eye over a paper which I took to be a commission, and which at all events bore the signature of a monarch. He muttered to himself—as did the first seaman whom I saw in the hold-some low, peevish syllables of a foreign tongue, and although the speaker was close at my el-bow his voice seemed to reach my ears from the distance of a mile.

The ship and all in it are imbued with the spirit of Eld. The crew glide to and fro like the ghosts of buried centuries their eyes have an eager and uneasy meaning, and when their figures fall athwart my path in the wild glare of the battle lanterns I feel as I have never felt before, although I have been all my life a dealer in antiquities and have imbibed the shadows of fallen columns at Balbec and Tadnor and Persepolis until my very soul has become a ruin.

I have seen the captain face to face and in his own cabin. When I look around me, I feel ashamed bled at the blast which has hitherto attended us, shall I not stand aghast at a warring of wind and ocean, to convey any idea of which the words tornado and simoom are trivial and ineffective? All in the immediate vicinity of the ship is the blackness of eternal night and a thaos of foamless water, but about a eague on either side of us may be seen, indistinctly and at intervals, stupendous ramparts of ice towering away into the desolate sky and looking like the walls of the universe.

As I imagined, the ship proves to be in a current—if that appellation can properly be given to a tide which, howlng and shrieking by the white ice, thunders on to the southward with a velocity like the headlong dashing of a cataract.

To conceive the horror of my sensations is, I presume, utterly impossible. Yet a curiosity to penetrate the mysteries of these awful regions predominates even over my despair and will reconcile me to the most hideous aspect of death. It is evident that we are hurrying onward to some exciting knowledge-some never-to-be-imparted secret, whose attainment is destruction. Perhaps this current leads us to the southern pole itself. It must be confessed that a supposition apparently so wild has every probability in its favor.

The crew pace the deck with unquiet and tremulous step, but there is upon their countenance an expression more of the eagerness of hope than of the apathy of despair.

In the meantime the wind is still in our poop, and as we carry a crowd of canvas the ship is at times lifted bodily from out the sea. Oh, horror upon horror!-the ice opens suddenly to the right and to the left, and we are whirling dizzily in immense concentric circles round and round the borders of a gigantic amphitheater, the summit of whose walls is lost in the darkness and in the distance. But little time will be left me to ponder upon my destiny. The circles rapidly grow small—we are plunging madly within the grasp of the whirlpool-and amid a roaring and bellowing and thundering of ocean and tempest the ship is quivering-O God! andgoing down!

Note—The "MS. Found In a Bottle" was originally published in 1801, and it was not until many years afterward that I became acquainted with the maps of Mercator, in which the ocean is represented as rushing, by four mouths, into the (northern) polar gulf, to be absorbed into the bowels of the earth, the pole itself being represented by a black rock towering to a prodigious height. THE END.

Entertained a Stranger. A factory hand, who occupies a little story and a half house on the edge of a mill town, said: "I had a queer experience today. A man knocked at my door at 6 o'clock this morning, and asked me for something to eat. He said he had been walking all night-preferred to walk nights on account of the heat. I was just sitting down to breakfast, so I asked him to join me. We hadn't anything fancy, but he pitched in with a good appetite, thanked me, asked how far it was to Springfield and went on. He was dressed better than I can dress, had a plug hat, a gold watch and an ebony cane, and didn't look like a tramp, but he must have been one or he would have gone to a restaurant just above my place."-New York Sun.

Greeting One's, Lawyer.

As Lawyer Fitzgibbon was walking down Main street the other evening with a companion, he was accosted by a woman of perhaps 30, who before he could speak threw her arms around his neck and clung to him, exclaiming how glad I am to see you!" This rising member of the Hampden bar finally tore himself from the feminine grasp and explained to his companion that this was one of the maidens whom he defended in the police court a few days ago. She was very drunk and seemed delighted to see Tom, but he didn't reciprocate for a cent.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

Joy Killed In a Jolly Row.

Particulars have been received of a fatal family row at Japonica school house, 14 miles from Kerville, in western Texas. Alexander Jolly became involved in a row with Shelby Joy, his brother-in-law, in which Joy knocked down a pounger brother of Jolly. Jolly then sprang at Joy with a knife, severing one of the arteries in the neck, from which he died in a few minutes. After hiding out in the brush for sometime Jolly surrendered to the sheriff and was committed to the Kerville jail. Both participants were only 22 years of age. - Cor. Chicago Herald.
