A NEW SCHOOL.

ALL THE OTHER IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE WEEK.

A New School-An Important Announcement - Doing Business-The Michigan Central Arms Its Men-Board of Regents-Public Building in Ann Arbor, Etc., Etc.

Next week Prof. H. L. Willett and Clinton Lockhart will begin work in giving biblical instruction, in Ann Arbor, under the auspices of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions of the Disciples' church. This board is one of the strongest organizations of the kind in the country, and, though they are starting the work in biblical instruction here in a somewhat limited way those who know best the disposition of the ladies at the head of this organization are especially confident that the work which will be quietly organized next week will, in the near future, grow into a strong and prosperous seminary. The two men who have been assigned to inaugurate the work here, though young, are men of both ability and experience.

Prof. H. L. Willett took his A. B. at Bethany college in 1886, his A. M. in 1887, and then did graduate work at Yale. For several years he was pastor of the Disciple's church at Dayton, Ohio, one of the largest and most successful churches among the Disciples. From 1887 to 1892 he was professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Literature in Bethany College. Prof. Willett comes here directly from Chicago University, where he has been pursuing special work under President Harper. Prof. Lockhart took his A. B. in 1888 and his A. M. 1889 at Kentucky University. He pursued graduate studies at Yale college from 1889-1891, and was President of Columbia college in Kentucky 1892-1893. During the past year Prof. Lockhart has been Superintendant of the American Institute of Sacred Literature for the Disciple's church.

In addition to the work done by these two men a number of special lecture courses is being arranged for and will be announced later.

The instruction to be offered is intended to meet the needs of (1) students of the University who desire to pursue studies in Biblical Literature, a familiarity with which is now more than ever requisite for a liberal education; (2) young men and women preparing for religious work, to whose the Bible essential, but likewise familiarity with religious movements and thought, and methods of Christian work; (3) persons interested in the sub-University or not.

The departments of study herein proposed are necessarily outside the lines of instruction which the University offers, yet their need has been felt by many students, and has been partially met by lectureships and Bible classes under the direction of the various churches of the city, and by the work carried on through the Students' Christian Association, all of which have been most helpful. It is with the hope of supplementing and assisting these excellent agencies of Christian instruction that these Chairs are es-

The courses of study will embrace the following:

- I. History of Israel.
- II. Prophecy. III. Hebrew Psalmody.
- IV. The Life of Christ. The Apostolic Church.
- VI. Paul and the Epistles. VII. Methods of Christian Work.

VIII. In addition to the above courses of instruction, a series, of lectures is proposed, covering such subjects as Evidences of Christianity, The Ministry, Missions and Missionaries, Relation of Christianity to Judaism and other religions, The Jurisprudence of the Jews, Applied Christianity, Present-Day Problems, Social Questions, etc. These lectures will be delivered by competent speakers of this city and elsewhere. Announcement of subject and lectures will be made later. will be made later.

Arrangements have been made for the present year to have the classes meet in Newberry Hall.

A Narrow Escape.

A rear end collision took place on the Michigan Central at Kalamazoo about 3 o'clock last Tuesday morning, ing the platform and washroom on the rear car of the Detroit night express. press was an hour late and a brakenight express, but did not get far enough back before the heavy train came thundering around the curve. There were several Ann Arber people on the train.-Times.

Michigan Central Arms Its Men.

The Michigan Central Railroad Company has equipped all its express trains throughout with "riot guns" for the reception of train robbers. Every employe has one of the guns on the trains. They will shoot seventy-two buckshot in three seconds and tear an eight-inch hole through anything.

On Sept. 12, the day after the train robbery in Indiana, President Ledyard of the Michigan Central system called James R. Dutton, the purchasing agent of the road, into his private office and instructed him to buy enough Winchester shotguns to arm all the express trains of the system. Mr. Dutton at once placed a special order. The order was filled on Sept. 15 and the guns were immediately placed on the express trains as fast as they arrived in the city. The last train was equipped last Friday.

The guns were secured through the Fletcher Hardware Company, on Woodbridge street. They are of a special pattern and were made expressly for the Michigan Central Railroad. Their barrels are only twentytwo inches long, so that the guns can be handled with ease in close quarters. Each gun contains six cartridges, and all six can be fired in a very short space of time. They are considered the fastest rapid-firing guns extant, known as the 1893 Winchester model.

Each charge contians twelve buckshot, 34-100ths of an inch in diameter. The conductor, the brakeman, the engineer, the firemen and the expressman of every express train are armed with these weapons, with express instructions to utilize them in a case of an attempted robbery. The railroad company ordered 500 rounds of charges for each and every gun purchased. The trains have all been furnished with racks, and every employe knows where his Winchester can be got at a minute's

The people who sold these guns said that the twelve buckshot in each charge would spread over a space of eight inches within ten feet after leaving the muzzle, and would not spread over ten inches fifty feet from the muzzle. The charge from one of these guns would cut a hole from eight to ten inches in diameter through any

"The railroads have got to begin and arm their men," said Mr. Dutton yes terday. "We hope we will not have occasion to use the 'riot guns,' but if we do, our men will shoot to kill, every equipment is not only knowledge of one of them. The guns can be fired off as fast you can turn your left hand. I think that if any train robbers give our men half a chance there will be some without any heads at all. The jects to be considered, Sunday School pay car has been equipped with the guns teachers and students, and Christian in addition to all the express trains workers whether connected with the of the system, and the pay car men are also fitted out with revolvers. There are six men on our pay train armed with 'riot guns' and revolvers, and every employe on our express trains has a 'riot gun.' We began to put the guns into service on the trains a week ago, as fast as the trains came in, and the last train was equipped last Friday.-Detroit Tribune.

The Board of Regents Meet,

The meeting of the board of regents last week was not a specially important one. The following persons were favored with an increase in salary. Dr. Breakey increased $200, Prof. Taylor 400, Dr. L. P. Hall $300, Dr. Budge $200. Dr. Cushing was granted an allowance of $400 for current expenses in the course in materia medica. The trouble between Dr. Dorrence and the other members of the dental faculty was referred to the medical committee with power to adjust the same. Dr. Roberts was appointed assistant in histology. The letting of contracts for the recitation and the administration buildings were taken up but only one contract was let, that for the recitation building to Detrich Bros., of Detroit, for $25,550. The various bids on the administration building were referred back to the building committee for further action.

The School of Husic.

Registration in the School of Music is progressing finely. The indications are that a very lrrge number of students will avail themselves of the opportunity offered of studying with teachers who have had the finest training for their work, who are accomplished artists and who have won good reputations. Important Announcement.

It is with considerable pleasure we announce that with the next issue of THE REGISTER we shall begin the publication of a series of sketches of the early history of Ann Arbor. We have engaged Prof. Ten Brook to prepare a series of articles on this subject. and we can promise our readers some of the most interesting sketches which have ever appeared in an Ann Arbor paper. Prof. Ten Brook is eminently fitted to write a series of articles of this kind, having lived in the city since 1844 and having been personally acquainted with every person of any prominence who has ever resided in the city or vicinity. In addition to drawing from his own vast fund of information, the professor will also draw from the recollections of many of the pioneers with whom he is well acquainted. The articles will embrace an account of the founding and rise of the city's public schools, churches, state university, and other institutions. An account of the various churches and schools, including some interesting bits of history of the University, with occasionally an article or sketch partly devoted to a brief history of some honored pioneer who has passed away, or some well known character who. though still living, has retired from active life, will help to make these articles especially interesting. These sketches will very likely continue for the most part of the coming year. If you are at all interested in who founded Ann Arbor, and how it came to be what it is and to whom is due the larger part of the credit of the city's growth and reputation, you will find much that will be of interest to you in these articles. Tell your friends, if possibly any of them do not already take THE REGISTER, and have them subscribe at once if they wish to secure the entire series of these papers. Remember that they begin next week and will continue right along for the larger part of the coming year.

A Public Building at Ann Arbor.

The following from Sunday's Free Press will interest Ann Arborites, excepting those who, two years ago, signed a petition asking congress not to erect a government building in Ann Arbor: "Representative Gorman this afternoon introduced a bill for the erection of a public building at Ann Arbor to cost $75,000. Mr. Gorman introduced the same measure in the last Congres, and made a gallant fight to secure its adoption. If a single public building bill had been passed by the Fifty-second Congress there can be no doubt that Ann Arbor would have been one of the fortunate cities, but the policy of the old committee on public building and grounds was against additional buildings. It is unerstood that the policy will be changed in the present Congress, and that the House will revert to the earlier practice of passing a limited number o public building bills."

Doing Business.

The affairs of the Register Publishing Company were, last Monday, put in the hands of a receiver, Mr. W. B. Phillips being appointed to that position by Judge Kinne. Mr. Phillips will conduct the business as usual, and will, in the near future, be able to begin settlement with the creditors of the company, now that all discordant elements have been removed. There can be no question that the business of the company will enable the present manager to do this. Mr. Phillips is a practical printer of wide experience and has, during the past year and a half which he has resided in Ann Arbor, shown himself a thorough business man and a first-class

A New Enterprise. Robert Hunter has fitted up one of the floors of his buildings on W. Huron-st, for a laundry, and will, next Monday, open up one of the best equipped establishments of the kind in this part of the state. Mr. Hunter thinks that the large amount of this work which is now sent out of town should be left at home, and he says that he proposes to do such excellent work that there will be no excuse for people sending laundry work away. Mr. Hunter is a pusher and he will, no doubt, build up a good trade in this new line of work which he has undertaken in addition to his regular business as a machinist and founder.

Sued For $5,000.

A Webster father and his son had a dispute over the question of wages due the boy. The latter sued for $5,000 and finally compromised on $260.25. Evidently the boy does not "hanker" after a law suit, or else did not have unounded faith in his claim for $5,000

A Good Week.

There has been a red letter week for for "THE REGISTER" so far as the advertising business is concerned there having been just twenty-seven contracts made for new advertisements, and with no special effort being made either. People in Ann Arbor know through what medium they can best reach the public. If you want to reach the largest number of the best citizens of Ann Arbor and vicinity THE REGISTER is the medium through which you can do it most successfully and for the least money.

Made the Trip on His Wheel. Elmer Stofflet arrived Thursday noon from his bicycle trip to Chicago and the World's Fair. It will be remembered that he left with a party of four on Sept. 1. He was detained in Chicago a few days longer than the rest. Tuesday night he left Chicago by boat to Benton Harbor, which place he reached at 7 a. m. Wednesday. A day's run on his wheel brought him to Albion. Leaving there at 6 o'clock this morning he reached Ann Arbor at noon. This is one of the few fast runs accomplished by wheelmen over bad roads.-Times.

A Correction.

Mr. H. B. Finley wishes us to state that we were in error two weeks ago when we said that he was formerly owner of "Uncle Tom," who made a record of 2.191/2 at Chicago recently. It is true that Mr. Finley owns May C, the dam of "Uncle Tom" and two half sisters to him. "Uncle Tom," however, was bred and is still owns by Sutherland and Benjamin, of The Saginaw Stock Farm. Mr. Finley says that Ann Arbor has not yet produced a four-year old which has made a record of 2.27 in his first race and then won a third and fourth heat in 2.20 and then within a week won a race and a record of 2.191/2 all within two months.

Was Seen on Our Streets.

A disgraceful scene was enacted last Monday afternoon on South Fifth-ave. A young couple came in on the noon train on the Ann Arbor road and were taken to one of the hotels. A little later they started out evidently to do the city. The woman was so intoxicated that she could not begin to walk alone. When they reached Williams street the young man was not able to keep his companion on her feet. He then called a passing wagon and with the help of the driver loaded the woman in and they were driven away. The young man was a former Ann Arbor boy. It could not be learned who the woman was.

Unity Club.

The Unity Club is out again this year with a course of twenty lectures, concerts and other entertainments equaling, if not excel ever given by the Club before. The course includes lectures by Mrs. Chant, Rev. M. J. Savage, B. B. Nagarkar, Dr. Charles Fluhrer, Judge Cooley, and many others of equal note. Prof. A. A. Stanley, Mr. E. N. Bilbie and others will provide for the concerts. The course will be given for the usual

Miss Gertrude G. Caruthers. Miss Gertrude G. Caruthers, who has been studying for the past two years the Delsarte philosophy of the art of expression, with the artist, Mrs. Florence James Adams, of Chicago, is to take up classes of expression in Ann Arbor. The methods that she has been studying are the most advanced of that line of study, being those used in the French Conservatory of Dramatic Art, in Paris, and comprising the best principles of the most progressive schools of expression. Her classes will receive physical training, deportment work, and voice work. Though done in classes, the work will be personal and individual, having as its chief aim the preserving and developing of perthe preserving and developing of personality. The physical work does not consist in gymnastics for developing strength of muscle, but in training the body in the best and most natural way of breathing, walking, sitting and standing, for the greatest endurance and grace. The whole body is trained to act at the control of the will, and to express naturally and freely the mental to act at the control of the will, and to express naturally and freely the mental conception. Principles of social etiquette for the street, at home, at receptions, or in public, are practiced in the class room until they become easy and natural. An observing genius says there are some curious things about corn, and one is, where do the red ears and the speckled ears come from when you don't plant any but white ears? And another is, why don't we find an ear with an odd number on it? You can find a four-leaf clover, but we have never found the odd row on an ear of corn yet. It is always 14, 16 or 20, o some other even number, and it would be interesting to understand what corn knows about mathematics and what objection nature has to odd numbers.-

VERY MYSTERIOUS CASE.

Strange Death of Richard W. Barron.

HE WAS UNCONSCIOUS WHEN FOUND

The Deceased Had Been Despondent for Some Time on Account of Reverses In Business-Believed to Have Committed

DETROIT, Sept. 27.—The milkman with whom Richard W. Barron of 223 Putnam avenue, dealt, on calling at the latter's house about 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning found him seated in an angle at the rear of the building. He spoke, but Mr. Barron returned no answer. On looking closely the milkman saw that his patron was evidently stupefied, so he aroused Mrs. Barron at

Mr. Barron was carried into the Mr. Barron was carried into the house and efforts to restore him to consciousness were made. As this seemed useless, J. D. Richards, who lives next door, summoned Dr. D. L. Walmsley of 1136 Third avenue, S. H. Knight of 14 Willis avenue west, and R. A. Jamieson of 147 Park street. When the dectors arrived a few minutes later. doctors arrived a few minutes later they found that they could do nothing for the patient. He was breathing faintly, but his pulse had all but stopped beating, and he died soon afterward.

The doctors are stated as

The doctors suspected as soon as they saw Mr. Barron that he had been poison ed with opium or morphine. His breathing was not stentorious, neither were there any other indications of apoplexy. The pupils of his eyes were much contracted, his breathing was labored and he presented all the ap-pearances of a victim of opium.

Mrs, Barron furnished a clew to the mystery. She said that her husband had been despondent for some time on account of some ill-luck he had met in business and because he had failed to obtain a sum of more he had been obtain a sum of money he had been expecting. He had never said anything to her, however, which would lead her to suspect that he had taken his own life. He had gone away in the morning as usual and she had seen nothing of him from that time until he was found dying. She could not even im-agine where he might have spent the said from the symptoms as stated by the defense Mrs. Fogelsong's death did not occur from strychnine poison, but from disease of the spinal column. In answer to a question propounded by the prosecution, he said the symptoms given by them indicated death from strychnine poison.

Damaged by Fire.

CORAL, Sept. 27.—The business por-tion of Coral has been swept by a fu-rious fire, and not much of it is left. The fire department was powerless in coping with the flames, which spread with great rapidity. The loss will reach up into the thousands. The fire was first discovered in the drug store of A. Geister at 2 o'clock a. m. Before half an hour had elapsed five other buildings, lining both sides of the street, were on fire. People came flock-ing from every direction, and worked hard, but it was a onesided battle, there being no fire protection except buckets of water. The entire business portion of the town was destroyed. A. burned about the arms and chest.

A Babe's Peril.

DETROIT. Sept. 27.—Anthony Ma-odowski, 29 years of age, who lives at 959 Orleans street, is a raving maniac. Sunday he grabbed his child by the legs and tried to tear it asunder, say-ing the Lord had ordered him to do so. His wife fought desperately and got the child away from him.

The insane man's brothers notified the police and he was locked up at the Chene street station. It took two strong policemen to manage him and at times he would almost overcome them. Since his arrest he has been kept chained in a cage, but he raves like a wild animal. He will be taken to an insane asylum.

Fatal Accident.

DETROIT, Sept. 27.—Willie Black-burn, a 6-year-old son of John T. Black-burn, a painter living at 635 Bagg street, was playing on a truck that had stopped in front of his father's house when the horses attached to the vehicle became frightened and ran away. The little fellow was thrown off the truck at the corner of Bagg and Twelfth streets, and struck against a curbstone. He was taken to Emergency hospital, where he died five minute later.

SMALL ATTENDANCE IN THE SENATE

Senator Stewart Presented Resolution Favoring an Investigation of the Ouestion Whether Senators Are Owners of National Bank Stock-The Repeal Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 .- In the absence of the vice president the senate was presided over by Mr. Harris (Dem., Tenn.). The attendance of senators was so small that even before the journal was read a call was demanded. It resulted in a quorum (or one over) being found present. Mr. Stewart Nev.) presented resolutions adopted at a mass meeting held in Cleveland, favoring an investigation into the question whether senators are owners of national bank stock. He expressed the hope that the investigation would be made, and that the prevalent rumors as to the ownership of national bank stock having had anything to do with the demonstration of silver would be set at rest. The suggestion was made by Mr. Hawley (Rep., Conn.) that it shall be ascertained exactly how much each senator is worth and whether the fact that he is not a pauper has anything to do with his votes. has anything to do with his votes.

The resolution offered Monday by Mr. Peffer (Pop., Kan.) calling for information was laid before the senate and Mr. Sherman (Rep., O.) spoke against it as causing a great deal of un-

After further discussion the resolution, on motion of Mr. Quay (Rep., Pa.), was laid on the table—yeas, 27;

nays, 29.

At 12:10 the repeal bill was, on motion of Mr. Voorhees, taken up. There was some question as to what had become of Mr. Stewart's resolution of which he spoke Monday and the presid-ing officer (Mr. Harris) ruled that on the objection of Mr. Washburn the resolution had gone to the calendar. Then Mr. Stewart informed Mr.

Then Mr. Stewart informed Mr. Washburn that the objection would not prevent him renewing the resolution and going on with his remarks. Mr. Quay, having indicated an objection to giving Mr. Stewart an opening to reopen his attack on the president of the United States, "I was discussing the conduct of the president," was Mr. Stewart's amendation of Mr. Quay's phrase. He had the floor now, but was willing to yield to the senator from California, Mr. Perkins, who desired to address the senate. The question of the right of a senator to "farm out the floor" in that way was read by Mr. fine right of a senator to "farm out the floor" in that way was read by Mr. Faulkner and the chair ruled in that sense. Mr. Perkins (Rep. Cal.) then took the floor and addressed the senate in favor of the repeal. Mr. Stewart then resumed the floor and when he had finished the senate went into expect the senate went the senate we ecutive session and at 6 p. m. adjourned.

House Proceedings.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Notwith-standing Tuesday was expected to inaugurate in the house a debate, which in partisan bitterness would equal, if not exceed, any debate that has taken place since 1876, the attendance was unusually small on both sides of the chamber when the rap of the gavel called the members to order at noon. n the second morning hour (the being unproductive of results) Mr. Tal-bott (Dem., Md.) moved that the house go into the committee of the whole for the consideration of the bill to remit the penalties of the designers of the "Vesuvius," but by consent the bill was laid over until Oct. 11.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the federal elections repeal bill, and was addressed by Mr. Tucker (Dem., Va.), who opened the debate. He said that the statutes, which it was proposed to repeal, were unconstitutional and that congress had right to confer the power th done upon supervisors of elections. The right of suffrage was a right pre-served to the states and granted specially in the legislation, the right of suf-frage granted in the states of the union, he planted himself on the ground that the right of a citizen to vote was a right given to him not by the legislation of the United States, not by the federal states, but by the right provid-ed in the state and recognized by the

Mr. Brosins (Rep. Pa.) complimented the gentleman from Virginia on his able speech and he desired to emulate his example in one place. He would be glad to discuss the measure from a nonpartisan point of view. He be-lieved that underneath the fretting stream of our politics there was pa-triotism, and to that patriotism he ap-pealed. He then spoke against the proposed repeal.

Mr. Lapham (Dem. R. I.) from the committee on military affairs reported a resolution calling upon the secretary of war for the authority by which United States troops were permitted to shoot down settlers in the Cherokee strip. A quorum not being present the house adjourned at 4:40 p. m.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lest the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 105 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort set and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. DISCOURAGING REPORT.

Prince Otto Von Bismarck Seriously Ill.

IN A VERY CRITICAL CONDITION.

The Prince Anxious to Be at Friedrichs ruhe, but the Princess Opposed to Removing Him-Correspondence Between Emperor William and Bismarck.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Herr Alers, an anarchist who is a close friend of the Bismarck family, arrived here from Kissingen Tuesday evening. He gives an unexpectedly discouraging report of the prince's condition. The most formidable of Bismarck's maladies, he says, has been acute pneumonia. The disease was not discovered by the physicians until Bismarck's condition had become critical. The physicians and family are exceedingly anxious and watch Bismarck constantly, as, although convalescing, he is very weak. and quite liable to a relapse, which must prove fatal. According to Herr Alers' report the old man seems like a wreck. His splendid frame has shrunk and his flesh has fallen off until his clothes hang in folds. He appears as if fully a head shorter than before his sickness. The princess is strongly opposed to removing him to Friedrichs-He, however, is anxious to go Tuesday evening it was possible for the first time to obtain the text of Emperor William's telegraphic cor-respondence with Prince Bismarck. From Guens the emperor sent on Sept. 19 the following message to Kissingen: "I have, to my great regret, only just learned that your highness has gone re cently through a somewhat serious ill ness. At the same time I have received the news, thank God, that you are now making steady progress toward recov ery. I beg to express to you my great satisfaction with this encouraging development. Being anxious to assist in thoroughly completing your recovery and establishing your health, I beg your highness in view of the unfavorable climate and location of Friedrichs ruhe, as well as Varzin, to take up your quarters for the winter in one of my castles in central Germany. After con-ferring with my court marshal I shall communicate to your highness the name of the castle most suitable to Prince Bismarck's reply to this dispatch was: "With the deepest respect I thank your majesty for the gracious expression of your sympathy with me in my illness and your satisfaction with the more recent improvement of my health. I thank your majesty no less for your gracious desire to assist in furthering my recovery by providing for me a residence under the most favorable climatic conditions. My re spectful gratitude for your majesty's gracious intents is in no way diminished by the conviction that should it be God's will I regain my health, my recovery would be quicker within my family circle and in the surroundings to which I have been so long accus-

"My complaint being of a nervous nature, I share the opinions of my doctor that if I pass the winter in my present surroundings and occupations, my mode of life will be most likely the means of promoting recovery. I agree with the doctor also in the opinion that the disturbance of my nervous system, which might result from a sojourn in strange surroundings and new associ-ations, such as would be designated by your majesty's gracious wishes, is in view of my advanced age, to be avoided. Dr. Schwening will take the first op-portunity to put in writing these opin-

The Neuste Nachrichten in Munich says that on Monday Bismarck sent 10 dispatches to the emperor and that the hopes of the German people for a reconciliation are likely to be fulfilled. Little else is discussed in the newspapers.

Mines Being Reopened In Washington

and the Men Are Jubilant. SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 27.—Operations have been resumed at the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines in the Cœur d'Alene district under the terms offered by the company-$3 50 per day for miners and $3 for carmen and shovel-The force will be increased as ers. The force will be increased as rapidly as possible until a full force of 400 men is secured. The Gem, Helena and Frisco mines at Gem will resume work within a few days, employing 300 men, at the same wages. All the other mines in the Courr d'Alene are expected. to resume under this arrangement, the Knights of Labor miners and the Miners' union having sanctioned the action of the men in returning to work. Within a week over 1,000 men now idle will be at work. A jubilee is in progress in several of the mining towns.

Pandemonium Reigned. PERU, Ind., Sept. 27.—Diamond, the 10-ton elephant of Wallace & Company's circus in winter quarters near this city, broke loose from his chains, and butted down the heavy doors of the building. He crashed through everything in his way, wire and other fences proving no obstacle. Farmers everything in his way, wire and other fences proving no obstacle. Farmers cutting corn along his line of march fled for their lives, and pandemonium reigned for many hours. Patsey Fore-paugh, his keeper, with the assistance of 20 men, finally managed to subdue the brute after much damage was done, and he was returned to his quarters.

Everything Amicably Arranged. NEW YORK, Sept. 27.-Lord Dunraven met the cup convention at the New York Yacht clubhouse Tues-day. The hour for the races, the ar-rangements for the start and finish and other details were fully gone over, and after two hours discussion were amicably arranged. For some reason the committee decided it would be injudicious to make them public at present.

Hunting for Anarchists.

Madrid, Sept. 27.—The police continue the search for anarchists. Tuesday afternoon they found an infernal machine and two pieces of tubing loaded with dynamite in the lodging of a workingman. They went directly from his room to the factory where he worked and arrested him. Some men suspected of being anarchists have left suspected of being anarchists have left the city to escape arrest.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN. Weekly Report of the Condition of Field

Products. Washington, Sept. 27 .- The weekly crop report of the weather bureau says pasturage has been in good condition in New England and has greatly improved all over generally. Tobacco cutting is also being rapidly pushed in Maryland, Virginia, Tennesee and Kentucky.

Pennsylvania-Much tobacco is still in the field; the week has been generally favorable for fall plowing and seeding, and this work having been much retarded by previous drouth, is being rapidly caught up and has been com-Pleted in some sections.

Nebraska—The drouth remains unbroken, and fall plowing and seeding has been suspended, and in Wisconsin while beneficial rains have fallen, the ground is still too dry for seeding. Illinois—Rains have put ground in good condition for fall seeding and have revived meadows. Corn cutting is progressing and winter wheat will be

Indiana-Corn and wheat seeding are finished in most localities; corn is safe from the frost; husking continues; clover is much better, rains have im peded conditions of pastures, advanced seeding and plowing, and given early sown wheat a start; corn cutting nearly completed; buckwheat a poor crop millet in good condition; clover threshing completed.

Michigan—Pastures and late crops improved by recent rains in central and northern sections; ground in shape for plowing, except in southern section; corn all cut.

Decision by Judge Coffey. INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—The Indiana supreme court has decided in the case of the Portland Natural Gas and Fuel company against W. W. Keen of Jay county that the gas company must furnish gas to patrons who have property on the street traversed by the gas mains. The opinion was by Judge Coffey. It held that where the occupants or owners of property make the necessary arrangements for the gas it is the duty of the company to furnish the fuel. When the company refuses, it can be compelled by mandamus to furnish gas.

Odd Fellows at the Fair. CHICAGO, Sept. 27 .- Thirty thousand Odd Fellows took possession of the world's fair Tuesday. The Daughters of Rebekah celebrated independently, holding receptions and meetings in Recital hall. Competitive drills of the Patriarchs Militant were held in the stock pavilion. The public exercises of the Odd Fellows were held in Festival hall, where Mayor Harrison and Director General Davis delivered welcoming addresses. coming addresses. A meeting of the sovereign grand lodge was held later.

Barges Collide. AMHERSTBURG, Ont., Sept. 27.—The barge Schilde, in tow of the tug Jessie, going up, collided at the mouth of the Detroit river Tuesday with the barges Skylark and Land, in tow of the tug Haight, going down. The Skylark and Schilde were so badly damaged that they had to be brought to this port. The Land was injured some, but was able to go on. Both the Sky-lark and the Land had their fore parts torn away.

Work of Train Robbers. GREENCASTLE, Ind., Sept. 27.—An attempt was made to wreck the Cincinnati express on the Vandalia line near Staunton, Clay county. On Her Way Home. LONDON, Sept. 27.—The American racht Navahoe sailed for the United States today. RIO AGAIN BOMBARDED.

The Rebel Fleet Causes Destruction and Death In That City.

MONTEVIDO, Sept. 27.—The rebel fleet which has been so long blockading the harbor of Rio Janeiro has again bombarded the city. Under Admiral Mellos' orders the firing was very severe, and the damage done exceeds that of the first bombardment. Several women and children were killed, but the extent of the damage and loss of life is not yet known, as no news is permitted by the government to be sent direct from Rio Janeiro. Part of Mellos' fleet is still keeping up a vigorous blockade of Santos.

Copies of Admiral Mellos' proclamation have been received here. The leader of the revolters declares that President Poixoto with the aid of corrupt members of the senate and venal deputies, has over-ridden the restrictions put upon their powers by the constitution Peixoto, he asserts, is trying to place Brazil under the rule of an absolute tyranny. "If by my aid," the procla-mation continues, "in making this stand for liberty our cause shall triumph, I shall hand over the govern-ment to the charge of those honorable men who gave freedom to our nation

Four members of the Brazilian congress on board the rebel cruiser Acquidaban have signed an address to the public. They say President Piexoto and the members of his cabinet have been stealing the public funds, destroy-ing the autonomy of the states and fo-menting a national war in order to serve their own personal ends.

The acts, the address says, together with the dictatorial conduct of both the president and vice president, compe the signers, as representatives of the national will, to make the present solemn fight for freedom.

TROUBLE IN ARGENTINA.

The Naval Force Expected to Join the Enemies of the Government.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 27 .- The newspaper La Nacion of this city has made itself offensive to the government, and an official order has been issued suspending the publication of the paper

The telegraphic service to and from the interior has been stopped and the wildest sort of rumors consequently gain credence. One rumor to the effect that the telebraph lines have been cut by the rebels, in order to prevent the government communicating with its forces in the field, but as this presupposes that the insurgents have got in the rear of the national army it is not generally credited here.

Another report and a far more serious one, is that the naval forces are likely to declare in favor of the rebels. Should this be the case the situation of the government would be greatly complicated.

Senor Cane, an ex-member of the cabinet, has been appointed minister of posts and telegraphs in place of the previous incumbent, who is a Radical. It is believed that Senor Cane is responsible for the cutting off of tele-graphic communication to the interior of the republic.

Wanted to Commit Murder.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 27 .- John O'Brien, a nonunion ironworker who was dis-charged from the Lockhardt iron and steel works when the strike was de-clared off and the old men taken back, procured a bulldog revolver and went to the works to kill General Manager George Tatlin. He was disarmed by two deputy sheriffs who were still on duty, and lodged in jail, charged with carrying concealed weapons. O'Brien was angry because he had been displaced by a striker.

WHATEVER may be ultimately done in regard to free coinage of silver, nature's free coinage of products will not be disturbed. Plow your fields and plant your crops, and you will not be restricted by law to the number of bushels of corn and potatoes you can raise per acre. Brains and brawn will be the bi metallic currency of the farmer, and the bank of nature will take them on deposit and pay big interest regardless of the usury laws.

THE weary, wordy, aimless discussion of the repaal of the Sherman builion purchase bill still continues in the U. S. Senate. Such men as Stewart and Teller are consuming three or four days in a speech that does not say a new thing or add a new ray of light, The representatives of the people spoke promptly in the House of Representatives, but the "American House of Lords," like its British prototype, has assumed the work of obstruction. The overwhelming majority of the people of this nation wish this question settled and settled quickly. The country wishes a vote that it may know what to depend upon. It wishes a vote in order that this repeal matter may be out of the way, and steps may then be taken at once to bring about an adjustment of the relations between gold and silver. The country desires both metals as a part of its currency system, but believes that legislation is necessary to determine what should be their ratio in view of the vast increase in the product of silver, and also to place silver on the proper basis as currency. The long-winded speeches in the Senate are not only injuring the business of the country and adding to the sufderings of the unemployed, but are delaying this settlement. Yet the strangest of all facts is that none of those who are speaking against the repeal of the Sherman law are friends of that law.

THE rush has been made, the promised land entered, and a great multitude by this date have settled where, in their own minds, it is a land of milk and honey. A week ago last Saturday at 12 meridian the signals announced that the Cherokee Stripe was open to settlement and many tens of thousands, estimated orm 40,000 to 70,000 rushed across the border, yelling, shouting, on horseback, on bicycles, in wagons, on a railroad train, engaged in a mad chase as if for life. In two hours selected town sites with only a government shanty and dag grew to be cities, before night the available land of the Strip was claimed, thousands were disappointed, some killed, and thousands more enduring hunger, thirst, and intolerable heat and dust to hold their claims. A few will draw prizes, some will build up contented homes, but nine out of ten of the "boomers" had done far better to remain where they were, or to seek some of the cheap lands that can be secured in abundance without a contest. Yet it was thus when Oklahoma was opened, and will be when the next Indian reservation has its barriers removed. A glittering prize that gives one chance in a hundred of success, will have more attractions for the crowd than the slow but sure reward of less aventurous toil.

THE Chinese question of this country is in an anomolous condition. Leading constitutional lawyers assured the Chinese that the Geary law was unconstitutional and the Chinese entitled to registration declined to register in the belief that it would be decided unconstitutional. That there was some ground for this belief is shown in the fact that nearly half the judges of the Supreme Court decided against the law, and it was sustained by a bare majority. A United States Judge in New York sitting on the case of a Chinaman who had no certificate, though he had been in this country twenty years, held that the law decreed his expulsion but failed in that it had not provided the manner and means of its own execution. A California United States Judge sitting in a similiar case decided that the Chinaman must be expelled and that the United States officers must carry out the law In the meantime Californians, probably European foreigners, are engaging in anti-Chinese riots, and Congress man Everett has introduced a bill to give the Chinese nearly a year longer for registration. As a result of nego diations between the Government and the Chinese Minister to the United States, it is said that a bill will be presented to Congress for the modification of the worst features of the Geary law. The chinese Government intimates that if this country discriminates against Chinese, China will have to discriminate against Americans in China. In the meanwhile, pendiing legislation, it is announced that the enforcement of the Geary law will be deferred a few months.

ONCE in a great while the editor of ial columns that is really sensible. His delivery last Friday in regard to Company was not one of these happy exceptions. In speaking of the petition of the editor of THE REGISTER to have the sale of the plant postponed, and the assignee bounced, as it were, the Times man, with his limited knowledge of the true status of affairs, takes it upon himself to say that the debts of the company are as large as the appraised value of the whole business. The Times man knew well enough when he made this statement that he did so on the basis of reports of parties who were especially interested inmaking the amount of the debts appear as large as possible while they wished to make the plant seem to have as little value as possible. The facts in the case are that the appraisement made week before last, under the direction of the assignee who was absolutely ignorant of the business, and who was appointed to the position because he was the paid attorney of those who appointed him, and who supposed he would be their tool, was a stupendous farce. In the first place the appraisers were never informed by the assignee what belonged to the company, or instructed to make any effort to find out just what constituted the property of the company. As a result the appraisers, who meant to do what was right, included in the list of articles appraised, some fifty-seven or more items, none of which do or ever did belong to the company, while they omitted some of the most valuable parts of the company's belongings. Certain copy-rights owned by the company, which could be sold any day for a large cash consideration, were appraised at the cost per pound of the avordupois weight of the 25c. per lb. paper on which they were printed! Yet the editor of the Times says the appraisement, the farce that it was, is high. A man arguing in this way, would also necessarily reason, in case he wished to employ a man to write his editorials, that avordupois was the only thing to be taken into consideration, and that it would make no difference whether the weight was in his head or in his feet. It seems very much as if the person who wrote the Times editorial, referred to above, was a person with the latter qualification. In regard to The Register Publishing Co.'s affairs the facts in the case are that the plant, books, copy rights and good will of the company before lits reputation and standing were seriously impaired by the trouble which has been stirred up, were worth fully twenty-eight thousand dollars. The debts, less some four thousand dollars of collectible accounts, would leave about eleven thousand five hundred dollars indebtedness. This taken from the value of the plant would leave between sixteen and seventeen thousand dollars worth of proper-

A THRILLING STORY MOST PLAIN. LY AND GRAPHICALLY TOLD.

Did You Ever Read Anything of Great-

The following communication from Mrs. Minnie Miller, who resides at 5 Guthrie Street, Fort Wayne, Ind., explains itself:

the Times has something in his editor-"For many years I was troubled with indigestion and constipation. Three the affairs of The Register Publishing | years ago I became so weak and nervous that I was a complete physical wreck. I had dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart and numbness of my hands and feet.

"These attacks came often and each time worse. My life was a burden to me and a trouble and worry to all my friends. I expected to die. At times I thought I should loose my mind. My stomach was in such a condition that I could eat nothing but a very little of the lightest kind of food. Sleep was impossible. Every little noise would startle me and I would feel faint. "No one can amagine the agony I suffered but those who are afflicted with nervousness. I cannot describe the feeling in half its horrors.

"At last I saw Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised and read the testimonials of cure of some of those who had been afflicted as I was, so I thought I would try it. Wonderful to relate the first bottle helped me so much that I had faith in it. I took two more bottles and oh! I feel so took two more bottles and oh! I feel so much better. I can sleep soundly and the nervous feeling has almost left me. I can eat with a good appetite and have gained seven pounds.

It's Short; Read It.

If you wanted a sack of flour and KNEW where you could buy it much less than usually sold for, you would lose no time in buying.

If you did not need it today, but knew you would need it next week or next month, you would be just as anxious to buy NOW and save your money.

NOW WHY NOT

Use the same reason in the piano business? A piano is merchandise (in a commercial sense). Its price depends on its cost and the added profit. If a dealer wants money badly enough to lose his profit to get the cost, he can do it just as well on pianos as on flour.

We have pianos-lots of them and good ones. In ordinary times we sell them at a profit; now its a question of how to get our money out of them.

If you will not use your business judgement in the piano business you will say, "Oh, that's newspaper talk." If you use reason, you will BUY YOUR PIANO NOW.

Difficulty of Sailing a Boat. Watched from the wharf, a sailboat seems an easy sort of craft to manage. The wind appears to do everything. The casual guest of a skilled skipper likewise is apt to think that as his host takes things so easy it cannot be so very diffi-cult to handle a sailboat after all. He regards the warning of experience as based on the jealousy of competition. Let him who thinks sailing a science which its followers try to represent as hard to learn because they want to keep it to themselves take a trick at the helm

It looks easy to keep the boat on her course. Your friend who takes you out sailing barely touches the tiller once in awhile. Some day he asks you to take the tiller while he goesforward. He tells you to keep that spire and that tall chimney in line. You take the helm; you do what you think you have seen him do. The chimney and the steeple act as if they were bewitched. They positively will not come into line. You observe in a knowing tone, "She doesn't seem to mind her helm." But she is minding her helm, and pretty soon you find out what

Most of the fatalities of summer sailing are due to the errors of the man who thinks sailing is easy, who is confident that he knows all about it. In reality many a sea captain who can handle a big ship without difficulty does not feel at ease in command of a sailboat. Boat sailing is a course at the Naval academy in which the cadets undergo arduous training under the most skilled instructors.-Boston Transcript.

The Boston Globe says: The Grand Opera House was crowded last night by an enthusiastic audience, assembled to witness the return of that realistic melo-drama, "Lost in New York." The play was excellently staged, and the acting through the entire piece was "Lost in New York" is one of the best productions from the pen of Mr. Leonard Grover, who, in this work, has dealt with almost every phase of life in a metropolis like New York, not neglecting, of course, the thrilling and sensational elements, so much enjoyed by a good proportion of theatre-goers.

The play needs no introduction to a Boston audience, as it has been presented here several times, but it is doubtful if the realistic features have

LITERARY NOTES.

The translation of Windelband's "History of Philosopy" by Prof. Tufts of the University of Chicago, formerly assistant Professor of Philosophy at University of Michigan, will be published about the third week of September by Messrs Macmillan & Co. The advance sheets now ready indicate that the work will prove a valuable addition to available English records of the nature and human life. It will be published in one volume of about six hundred pages.-McMillan & Co., New York, N. Y.

? The following are some of the principal features of the Magazine of Art for September. "The Salons," "The Champs Elysees," by Claude Phillips. "Our Graphic Humorist," "Lindey Sanbourne," by M. H. Spielmann. J. W. North, Painter and Poet, by Prof. Herbert Herkomer, and "Sir John Gilbert's Gift to the City of London." The whole number is especially rich in illustrations of great value and excellence while the usual departments are all well sustained .- The Cassell Pub. Co., 104 and 106 4th Ave., New York, N. Y

The September Electic offers its readers a great variety of interesting articles among which each reader will be sure to find one or more of especial importance to him. Among the many the following might be mentioned: The Argument for Belief, National Review; The Recent Solar Eclipse, Fortnightly Review; Life and Labor; New Review; Preachers and Sermons; Temple Bar; The Barometric Measurements of Heights; The Future of Education; Gentlemen's Magazine; Nineteenth Century-Ethics and the Struggle for Existence; Contemporary Review; The Brain of Women; New Review .- Published by E. R. Pelton, 144 8th-st., New York.

The leading feature of Harper's Weekly for September 23d is the first half of a two-part serial by Charles Egbert Craddock, entitled "The Moonshiners at Hoho-heebee Falls." The attractive department of Music and Drama, edited by Reginald De Koven, is resumed; yachting receives a due share of attention in illustration and text and T. de Thulstrup and W. A. Rogers contribute striking full-page im pressions of the World's Fair. The methods of looking after the unemployed in the West, San Francisco's coming Midwinter Fair, and the great athletic meeting in Chicago are subjects which also enrich and diversify an unusually attractive number.-Harper Bros., New York, N. Y.

Littell's Living Age is appropriately named. It is a true representation of "the living age,"-the vast complexity tions, imaginations, knowledges, retrospections, of the contemporary world. Its weekly issues for September, among other excellent papers, contain the following: "A Visit to Prince Bismark," by Geo. W. Smalley: "A Group of Naturalists," by Mrs. Andrew Crosse: "Amelia Opie": "A French Study of Burns": "The Religion of Letters, 1750-1850": "Reminiscences of William Makepeace Thackeray," by Francis St. John Thackeray: "Chapters from some Unwritten Memories-Mrs. Kemble," by Annie Ritchie: "The Fetish-Mountains of Krobo, by Hesketh J. Bell: "The Lives and Loves of North American Birds," by John Worth: "The Wonderings of the North Pole," by Sir Robert S. Ball: "The Abbe Gregaire and the French Revolution": "Ethics and the Struggle of Existence,"by Leslie Stephen: "Whitlock's Swedish Embassy," by Charles Edwards: "Old | Fashioned Children," by Frederic Adye, etc., besides several delightful short stories by such noted writers as Augustus Jossopp, Lucy Clifford, Edward Laws, etc., etc., and some excellent poetry.

The Epidemic of Liberty.

The idea embodied in American institutions is the most radical that ever took the concrete shape of legislation. We may say, without being charged with a boastful spirit, that we have on the whole the best government on the planet. That is to say, the government which offers the largest opportunities and produces the greatest amount of contentment and prosperity.

It is a good thing for 100,000 of our citizens to visit Europe every summer in order to compare the condition of affairs abroad with that enjoyed at home. And it is safe to assert that no man can travel in England or Germany or Russia or Italy without reaching the proud conclusion that the American flag represents more popular rights and a more advanced political economy than any other strip of bunting that floats in the breeze. The of thoughts, interests, aims, specula- tourist who reaches Sandy Hook after a three or six months' journey in foreign lands without having his pulse jump into the nineties ought to have been born in Nova Zembla or Timbuctoo.—New York

Harmony and Erudition. There is a popular fallacy among parents that harmony means erudition, and erudition of so abstruse a nature as to be quite beyond the reach of the every day child and to be reserved for the later years after he is grown up, if undertaken at all, and then chiefly when the youth or maiden has what is called "talent." Ah, the much abused word! How gladly would all artists banish it from the vocabulary and from the ears of the American child! Harmony is only gram-mar, and grammar of such an entertaining kind that if rightly presented it is fascinating, and of a nature so essential that the musical nonpossessor of it, young or old, is crippled.—Harper's Ba-

What Your Great Grandmother Did. She betcheled the flax and carded the wool, and wove the linen, and spun the tow, and made the clothes for her bus-band and ten children. She made butter and cheese, she dipped tallow candles, to light the house at night, and she cooked all the food for her household by an open fire place and a brick oven. Yes; and when she was forty years of age, she was already an old lady whose best days were over. Her shoulders were bent and her joints enlarged by hard work, and she wore spectacles and a cape. Her great grand daughter, with all the modern conveniences for comfort, refinement and luxury, may be as charming and attractive at 45 as at 20. Especially is this true if she preserves her health and beauty by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which wards off all female ailments and irregularities, cures them if they already exist, keeps the life current healthful and vigorous, and enables the woman of middle age to retain the freshness of girlhood upon brow and cheek, the light of youth in her eyes, and its elasticity in her step. A young lady said the other day that she hated oranges because one had come between her and her lover. He had called on her one evening, and after sitting awhile had produced a couple of bright Florida oranges out of his pocket and suggested that each eat one. She now says that she cannot drive out of her mind the sight of his nose, cheeks and chin dripping with juice, and he has been whispering something horribly simA ROUMANIAN FOLK SONG.

He whom I loved so well
Is in his long, long sleep.
Yet I lament him not,
For he told me not to weep. More dear to him the grave

Than I could ever be, For though I go to him, He does not come to me. I envy not the grave

What yesterday was mine, But bow my head and say, "Keep him, for he is thine.

But keep not, grave, my youth, Which cannot profit thee.

My smile and my light step—
Oh, give them back to me,"

But the grave answered, "No.

For these things still are dear,
Since he, deprived of them,
Would be too lonely here."

Then to the dead I pray,
"Restore my youth to me,
That when we meet again'
I be not old to thee!" But he nor hears nor sees
For his eyes like mine are dim.

So to his grave I come To get them back from him. For only in the grave
Are tears no longer shed
And the living happy made
Beside the happy dead,
—R. H. Stoddard in Harper's.

Mistakes of Missionaries. Come behind the curtain with me while I whisper into your ear a few of the mistakes made by missionaries, who talk so much about the mistakes of the heathen. One evening an English missionary in Peking took a friend who was visiting him to a regular Chinese theater. It happened that the play for that evening was a burlesque on foreign preaching A Chinaman dressed up to represent a foreigner came upon the stage with his arms full of books, attended by his Chinese servant. He began to preach a mock sermon, making the mistakes in talking which a foreigner is likely to make These mistakes were received with bursts of laughter from the audience, to whom the books were distributed. The fun came to a climax when the preacher, after delivering a sentence particularly full of laughable mistakes, turned to his servant and said: "How did I speak? Did I do pretty well?" and the servant replied with great gravity: "The foreign teacher speaks the Chinese language exceedingly well. No mistakes at all were made."-New York Independent.

An Invention For Steamships, An English mechanical genius has devised a method of indicating and stopping a leak by the use of compressed air.

He divides a ship into airtight compartments, fitted with doors provided with packing material and connected by tubes with a room on deck called the "switch room." In this room is a junction chest supplied with compressed air from fixed or portable compressors and so arranged that the air can be delivered to any of the compartments. Other tubes lead from the compartment from which water san be forced out when required, and electric indicators are also connected with the switch room to indicate the accumulation of water in any of the compartments. Should the vessel "spring a leak" the indicator will show which com partment is affected, so that the com pressed air may be forced in to drive the water out.—Boston Journal.

Swinging Around The Circle

Of the diseases to which it is adapted with the best results, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a family medicine, comprehensive in its scope, has never een thrust upon p the guise of a universal panacea for bodily ills. This claim, daily arrogated in the columns of the daily press by the proprietors of medicines far infer-ior to it as specifics, has in a thousand instances disgusted the public in ad-vance by its absurdity, and the pros-pects of other remedies of superior qualities have been handicapped by the pretentions of their worthless predecessors. But the American people know, because they have verified the fact by the most trying tests, that the Bitters possesses the virtues of a real specific in cases of malarial and liver disorder, constipation, nervous, rheumatic, stomach and kidney trouble. What it does it does thoroughly, and mainly for this reason it is indorsed and recommended by hosts of respectable medical men.

Altogether Too Familiar,

Dr. A. T. Pierson, in some pithy, practical hints on pulpit oratory, says that to be winning is to be wise, but it must not be overdone. He has a friend, an evangelist, who got into the habit of calling his audience "dear souls." Inadvertently he would say as he passed from place to place, "Dear Belfast souls," "Dear Dublin souls"—and before he knew it he was saying, "Dear Cork souls," which convulsed his Irish audience.-London Tit-Bits.

Two Strange Brothers.

It had always been the habit in the Ward family if two relatives differed strongly to arrange not to be on speaking terms. Dr. William G. Ward was once asked how much he had known of his father's first cousin, Sir Henry Ward. He replied quite gravely: "I only saw him twice—once as a boy, when he came to see my father, and then again I had an interview with him about a matter of business soon after I came into my property. We arranged at the end of it not to be on speaking terms," quite a super-flous arrangement, as Sir Henry Ward lived at that time in Ceylon, of which he was governor, and in fact never came again to England for a prolonged visit. Dr. Ward and his brother Henry had been estranged for a year or so, and one night they met at the Haymarket theater. Each of them had for the moment quite forgotten the quarrel, and friendly greetings passed, and they had a talk about the play. Next morning came a letter from Henry Ward:

DEAR WILLIAM—In the hurry of the moment tonight I quite forgot that we had arranged to meet as strangers, and I write this, lest you should misunderstand me, to say that I think we had better adhere to our arrangement, and I remain, dear William, your affectionate brother.

I send my love a fragile china cup.
With purple violets painted round the rim.
Empty it is, but sweet thoughts fill it up

Upon a saucer fashioned like a heart Of palest tint my dainty cup is set.

"S'POSE IT'S SATAN."

It was only the ground on which the 150 boys of Dr. Kellar's school disported themselves. But besides the boys present there were at least 150 demons and angels of ambition, enwy, loyalty, perfidy and truthfulness.

The doctor himself, in a new suit of tweed, seemed to the boys to be far more approachable here in the midst of their sports than when in academic cap and gown he cast gloom through their ranks by stalking along with that searching eye of his well turned on the discomfiture of evildoers. However, even at these grewsome times, the boys admitted among themselves that Kellar was a gentleman, and that they'd rather take a hiding from him than punishment drill from a cad any day.

For they were proud of Kellar's, loyal to the school, and ready to battle to the bitter end against any common foe who dared to asperse it in the slightest de-

A little lad of 10 had just run light heartedly on the ground when the aforesaid searchlight fell on him, and simultaneously the head master shouted out: "Colville two, I thought you had de-

Colville two, a redheaded, merry faced boy, smiled cheerfully, as if detention were a good joke to which he was well accustomed, and replied with pleasant promptness:

"So I have, sir." "Then what brings you out here?"
"I s'pose it's Satan. He's always do-

'Doing what?" "Making me naughty," said Colville two, with pathetically fearless frankness. Then Kellar's little daughter went up and kissed him. Twelve years later the battle of Tamai was being fought, and Colville two was in the thick of it. He had been slightly wounded in an attack that had been made upon McNeil's Zareba a few days previously, and his colonel had mentioned him in despatches and recom-mended him strongly for the "V. C."

for personal gallantry.
On the strength of this Lieutenant Colville had written to the girl he was engaged to, who was at Cairo with her mother, telling her that he would not wait to marry her a day after he had got his company.

"Tve always been a lucky fellow, though I've been in no end of scrapes all my life," the boy wrote, "and now the crowning luck of all is that I shall win you and the Victoria cross at the same time. Heaps of fellows deserve it just as much as I do, only I happened to be in front, you see, and was lucky enough to be able to make myself a target for to be able to make myself a target for the concealed enemy, who had been picking off our men like ninepins. The that the less demonstration they trabs turned their fire on me, and our fellows were able to see where the beggars fired from. I must bear a charmed life, I think, for the ground was riddled all around me. Bob (Bob was her brother) and I fought shoulder to shoulder for hours, and we shall again many a day, I

The girl who got this letter was worthy of the gallant, light hearted boy who wrote it, and she sent him pages of such loving, proud, encouraging words as only a proud, loving woman can

"I wish I were your wife that I might go to the front and dress your wounds myself, my own love. Even as it is I am capable of dressing as a boy and going to the camp. I quite understand Constance de Beverley's bowing her pride and riding for three long years in Lord Marmion's train. Only, Jack, there would be no bowing of pride in my case. I should be prouder than ever if I could only do something to show the whole camp, the whole world, how dearly I love my boy."

Then she went on to tell how regularly she wrote to his mother, keeping her posted up in all that Jack was doing and suffering and winning. "She is my beloved mother, and only she can fully understand how dearly I have loved you ever since that day when I went and kissed you because you said you 's'posed it was Satan made you naughty.'" Violet Kellar had fought a hard fight before she had gained her father's consent to become engaged to penniless Jack Colville. The girl's brilliantly good looks, attractive manners and general cleverness had brought far more eligible men to her feet. But she had been faithful to her first love through it all.

"I hate poverty, but I love Jack," she would say, when her father pointed out to her how far more sensible it would be of her to marry a man who could give her a good establishment in which he could stay at home in ease with her than to link her lot with that of a mere subaltern in a marching regiment. "Probably after they have settled this disturbance in Egypt his regiment will be sent off to India for three or four years, and as he can't marry on his pay you will be 'eft behind to meditate on your folly in having engaged yourself." "I shall marry him as soon as this affair is over in Egypt, papa, and if he can't give me bread and water enough to support me I'll beg it from some one I want Jack, and I mean

The boy always got what he wanted mfound him," her father grumbled good temperedly, and when he said that liolet knew that her case was won. Her mother, after the manner of mothers, sympathized with the young people's romance and hopefully assured her that Jack would win promotion in some miraculous way without seeing much dangerous service.

So when Violet said: "Mother, dear, I don't want a swell wedding. I don't even want a wedding dress-Jack likes me in sailor serge better than anything, but I do want to go out and be as near him as I can. Take me to Cairo and let the chaplain marry us as soon as the fighting is over." Mrs. Kellar agreed to do so, and all their acquaintances declared that the mother was as great a fool as the daughter.

Violet's letter was keeping his heart warm this day at Tamai. He was feeling unaccountably happy and light hearted, as after a sharp tussle with half a dozen Arabs, three of whom he killed with his revolver, he was allowed breathing time for a few minutes, during which he cut the word "Suakin" on the little black pipe that had been his inseparable companion during the whole of the cam-

Suddenly just as he had lighted and returned smoking it, he heard a frantic shout, and glancing up he saw young Kellar dash forward and fire at some one behind him (Jack). Simultaneously he felt a sharp agonizing pain in his back and knew that he was struck by a poisoned spear. An Arab, who had been concealed in a bush, had crept out and stabbed him before young Kellar could intervene He had staggered and then fallen on his face, and they thought that he was dead for a minute. But when they lifted him and were carrying him away a faint flicker of the old fun came into his fading blue eyes as he said:

"I wanted Violet and the 'V. C. so much. S'pose 'twas Satan"-Before he could finish the sentence the fading light went out, and the blue eyes closed forever in this world. Who shall tell her? The whole regiment knew the story of Jack's love, and not a man in it but felt heartsore for the girl who had loved and been so proud of her young hero.

"It will break my heart to go to Violet with such a tale," her brother moaned. "I'd rather take a revolver and blow my own brains out than have the task.'

"You shall not have it," his colonel promised. "Til go to her myself with as bitter tidings as I've had to convey." Colonel Branksholme's mouth twitch-ed, and his steady, fearless gray eyes filled with tears as he spoke. But this was more for the fine young soldierly life which had been cut short in its glory than for the desolate girl who was left to mourn it. However, he fulfilled his task so sympathetically that Violet soon found her greatest comfort in talking of her lost lover to his gallant chief.

"Time treads on the grave of affection!" Kind, merciful Time! Two years after Jack fell at Suakin, Colonel Branks-holme, who had been away on leave for a month, telegraphed to the second in command of the regiment, "My wife and I will be back tonight."

"We'll give them a grand reception. Have the band to meet them, take the horses out and drag the carriage along the parade," some of the more enthusiastic of the juniors declared. But on the occasion of her joining the better. Jack's memory was too green with them still for them to give her anything but a silent and rather sad welcome.-Montreal Star.

A Chinese Proverb's Origin.

"'He'll steal your shoes' is an expression which in China is used to describe an arrant knave and pilferer," says ex-Consul Edward Bedloe. "The expression is hundreds of years old and is based on an adventure perpetuated through the medium of decorated crockery ware. A wealthy Chinaman, whose gorgeously embroidered shoes were the envy of the community, was, according to the leg-end, despoiled of his pride in the following manner: A rascal one day rushed up, gave the rich man a hearty blow on the back, and seizing the astonished gentleman's hat pitched it upon a high wall. The next moment the fellow seemed to discover that it was not an old friend he was greeting so enthusiastically and apologized profusely.

"'How shall I get my hat?" inquired the man with the beautiful shoes. "'Jump on my back and you can reach it,' replied the schemer. "The suggestion was carried out, but while the hatless an was reaching for his head covering the rascal slipped off the handsome shoes and made away, leaving the simple minded millionaire clutching the wall." Squire Osbaldestone's Ride.

Squire Osbaldestone's undertaking to ride 200 miles in 10 hours, which he accomplished so successfully on Nov. 5, 1831, is one of the most remarkable feats of endurance in the saddle and has the merit of freedom from cruelty. The squire rode his race on the Newmarket race course, changing his horse every fourth mile.

Mr. Osbaldestone used 16 horses for his task and rode standing in his stirrups like a jockey, while he kept his mount at full speed from start to finish of its four mile heat, having quite a "set to" with his pacemaker at the end of each. The squire was a hardy man and in good training, so suffered no bad effects from his exertions.-Chambers'

MAGIC IN THE EAST.

I have intended to tell the story of little Akli before. I don't know why I haven't done so, unless it has been because- But I will tell the story this

I had been journeying through Egypt in company with my friend, Harry Kellar, the magician. We were stopping at the quaint old town of Boolak, which is situated on the right bank of the Nile, at the divergence of its Pelusiac branch, one mile northwest of the historic city of Cairo, of which it forms a suburb. Our host was an Egyptian grandee, whose fine country place overlooked the shipping from just outside the more densely populated part of the town.

One day we were strolling down near the landings when an old Egyptian market woman besought us to purchase some of her tamarinds, naming an exorbitant price.

"Why, my good mother, do you sell these tamarinds at that low figure?" exclaimed Kellar in mild surprise, addressing her in her own tongue. "They are worth much more than that, I am

She looked surprised; so did our host. "Yes, I was sure of it," Kellar continued, and he broke one of those that he had taken up and drew a small copper coin of the country from its center.

For a moment the woman was too startled to do more than regard the coin with wonder. Then, however, her natural avarice asserted itself, and she snatched the bit away from Kellar's unresisting hand.

"Ah! I see you are a fakir," our host said smilingly as we moved on. "It was well done. Now I know that you and my other esteemed friend here will more than ordinarily enjoy the slight diversion I have to offer for your entertainment after coffee today. Perhaps, too, you may have the keenness—though it is not in me to explain the performance to divine how little Akli can survive the marvelous act Abalani forces him to do, and to discover how Abalani can perform his part of the strange entertainment.

But about the old market woman: A servant told our host later that she had hurried directly to her rude cot on our departure, where she had carefully opened every tamarind in her basket to find the copper bit in its center. The disappointment she suffered on not finding a single bit of money and the loss of the spoiled fruit served her right for attempting to impose upon the supposed ignorance of strangers. But Kellar was too large hearted to allow the lesson to be one that should make her the poorer. and the servant was dispatched directly to the old peddler's home with more than twice the worth of the fruit in cop-

That evening Abalani, the fakir, arrived at our host's house.

He was a small, wiry little man, whose age was about 45, if you were to judge it from the dark, clear eyes with which he quickly summed you up. They seemed to pierce me through and through as he made a deprecatory bow before me, his thin arms and palms extended toward me in the attitude of benediction.

His only garments were a light breechcloth of a dark red' shade and a flowing silk mantle, dark yellow in color. The only ornament he wore was a dark copper ring hanging from his neck by a greasy looking piece of leather or cord. I looked for Akli, the little boy with whose assistance he performed the tricks we expected to witness. But Abalani was alone.

I then looked for the coil of rope which I had heard played a part in the strange spectacle.

I said to myself that we were to be disappointed, and that the little weazen limbed fakir bad come to make excuses for his inability to amuse us this time, and I could see that Kellar thought the

But our host retained his wonted good nature as though nothing was wrong, and it was not the place of either Kellar or myself to show disappointment. Meanwhile the little fakir led the way to a smooth bit of ground not far from the house.

Here we almost unconsciously formed an expectant circle about him. He spoke few words, and we maintained a perfect silence under the spell the little fellow seemed to throw around him. But this was not the sensation of gazing upon a serpent that one experiences when witnessing the performances of so many of his class.

"My masters, you wish to see Akli climb?" he said in a crackling, restrained

"They do," our host answered for us. The man clapped his thin palms together twice smartly.

As he did so a small boy appeared by his side like a flash where there had been no one the moment before. Kellar started forward with an involuntary exclamation on his lips. I, too, was greatly startled. The fakir had thrown aside his silk mantle and stood before us clothed only in his breechcloth. The boy, a handsome lad of apparently 10 or 12, was similarly clothed. At my request he took my hand and gave it a friendly pressure.

"I must have a rope-must have a rope!" exclaimed Abalani nervously, and he gesticulated in the air quickly with his right arm, his actions seeming to fascinate me.

"Ah!" He ceased the action, and lowering his arm displayed a large coil of native rope in his hand that it would have been impossible for him to have concealed about his person. Then, with a quick motion, he pitched one end of the coil straight up into the air, keeping the other end in his grasp.

The line seemed to catch up there in the atmosphere. It staid there dangling down between us. Abalani ordered Akli to climb up, hurrying him with a word of impatience and stamp of his foot. -Akli shook the rope with one hand, as if to see if it were quite secure, and then did as he was requested.

op, up, up, ne clambered, higher and higher, gradually growing smaller and smaller as he ascended until he actually disappeared from view. Yet we could tell that he was still climbing away up there, for the rope before us trembled with the motion that he made. Abalani did his best to study it. Then suddenly the fakir clapped his hands and sprang to one side. We heard the rushing sound of a body falling through the air, and then the form of Akli landed upon his feet before us unhurt and smiling. Another clapping of Abalani's hands, and rope and boy both disappeared. The fakir stood alone before us. Kellar and I were mystified. He asked that Abalani perform the trick again. When it had been done a second time, Abalani left us as perplexed as before.

For my part I gave the whole riddle up. I had seen many a strange feat of jugglery, but this one completely nonblused me. Kellar was determined not to leave Boolak until he had satisfied himself as to how the trick, or feat, had been performed.

A week passed. Our host enjoyed Kellar's quandary keenly as a boy, and joked him about it. However, Kellar joined us on the porch one afternoon with a certain amused expression upon his face that made me feel reasonably sure that something interesting was up.

"I should like to see little Akli climb just once more this afternoon," he said, dropping into a low steamer chair with more satisfaction than I had noticed him evince for the past week, "Con and I should be leaving tomorrow or the next day at the latest."

To make known a wish there was to have it gratified. After coffee that afternoon Abalani came walking gravely up the shaded path, his slight figure clothed as before—in the flowing mantle and scanty breechcloth—that dark copper ring, a shade lighter in color than the breast it hung against, his only decoration. As before, he was alone. There were the same low salaams, his whiteness of mine being stretched over us. Few words were spoken. The man could not have been more deferential But at the same time I thought that I detected a gleam of egotistical challenge in his dark eyes that made me hope Kellar would succeed in detecting his trick and increased my desire to know how it was performed. We moved down to the place in the garden where we had witnessed the act before, Kellur slipping into the house a moment first. Little Akli appeared as bright and smiling as when we had first seen him. The rope appeared, Akli had climbed it, when I heard a slight, sharp "click!" on the side where Kellar was standing. When little Akli had clam bered out of sight, Abalani clapped his hands twice. We shuddered as we heard next moment he was gone. Kellar hurried me into the house and to our room. The room had a dark closet, and soon Kellar was hold up a dripping 4 by 5 plate from his camera for me to view by the dim light of our ruby lantern.

I could see our host, arms akimbo, looking up wonderingly. I could see Abalani—showing up white in the negativehis thin arms raised above his head, his feet braced widely apart, as they had been when steadying the rope for little Akli to climb when I had heard the shutter of the camera snap. But where was no little Akli to be seen anywhere, nor any rope, for that matter.

Abalani had mesmerized our host, Kellar and myself, but it was beyond his fakir skill to mesmerize our detective camera.—Conyers C. Converse in New York Herald.

The Owen Electric Belts and Appliance Co.:
Dear Sire:—I now am able to say, after having purchased one of your No. 4 Electric Belts with Spinal Appliance about one year ago, that I thank God I have found relief from my terrible suffering through the wonderful healing influence of your wonderful body Belt. August 29, 1891, at which time I was a great sufferer, and had been for more than four years, from extreme nervous prostration, so much so that, on the least excitement, my whole nervous system would be all of a tremble from head to foot, and unable to control myself in the least, and would affect me to tears like a little child. I am a farmer by profession; in the fields, or at work on the farm, or at any excitement, it had the same effect. I could not lift the weight of five pounds. It so continued with increased suffering until I was unable to help myself, and foreight long months my suffering was intense. My stomach was so earness and persistent that I finally consented to send for a No. 4 with spinal appliance, I will say here that I did, at a cost of $30.00, which is your rice for No. 4 and spinal appliance. I will say here that It is the best $30.00 investment that I ever made in my life in the way of doctor's remedies or anything else, as I had spent dollars, up into the hundreds, but could get no relief too, and unable to early excitement, it had the same effect. I could not lift the weight of five pounds. It so continued with increased suffering until I was unable to help myself, and foreight long months my suffering was intense. My stomach was so wask that I could not take any food but crackers and warm water for the above time. My kidneys were so weak that I could not take any food but crackers and warm water for the above time. It was very distressing, so much so that I had to be lifted in and out of my bed for several months? The doctors could do me no good whatever, and I had made up my mind that there was no help for me this side of the grave. My limbs would become numb and cold, seemingly as ice, and I would try with hot bricks, rubbing and all other methods to restore the circulation and natural feeling, but all to no effect, and then it would pass off. Then again another attack would occur which would leave me helpless, and so continued periodically, and I could get no relief. The doctors told me that I must not do any work, and that it would be three years at least before I would be able to work. Agreed with them, for I could not, nor did I ever expect to again. The whole world seemed to me ablant, and my vital forces all had left me, and my life was fast ebbing away from me through the loss of my life fluids, which doctors were unable even to check. I had given up all hope of ever getting help, and death in all its terrible forms stared in the face, from which there seemed to be no avenue of escape from this living horror, of which no living person is able to know or feel, except his suffering and agony I continued until about one year ago now I met a friend who, on seeing my helpless condition, advised me to try one of the Owen Electric Belts. Mrs. Dick Johnson, of Ypsilanti, tells a strange story. Her maiden name also was Johnson. When she was 3 years old her mother eloped with a Mr. Dickinson, taking the child with her. She was always told that Dickinson was her father. A few days ago a man named Johnson came to Ypsilanti. He and Mrs. Johnson met, and by dint of recalling incidents and remembering a mark on Mrs. Johnson's arm the stranger proved that he was her long-lost father. The elopement happened 45 years ago.

William Bird, a young fellow with negro blood in his veins, ran away with Dora O'Connor, the 14-year-old daughter of a farmer near Ypsilanti. They got a license at Ann Arbor somehow or other and were married. After a honeymoon in Canada they quarreled and returned to Michigan, he settling on a farm, she going to her parents. But William, it seems, pined for his girlwife, so one day he and a party of friends took her away from her parental homstead. Papa then stepped in and had William arrested on a charge of enticing a young girl under the age of 15 for the purpose of marriage, etc .-Evening News.
