Last Saturday night or early Sunday moraing burglars succeeded in entering the store of Bowdish & Matteson on State-st. Access was gained by prying open the basement door in the rear. the lock going into the store above. They exercised good judgment as to the selection of goods. Silk handkerchief's, patent leather shoes, kid gloves, jewelry, silk umbrellas, and the most expensive ties were carefully selected. The robbers then proceeded to the barn of Mr. J. H. Nickels and helped themselves to a horse and sleigh with which to carry off the plunder, some three or four hundred dollars worth having been selected. The first discovery that was made was Sunday morning about nine o'clock when Stafford Nickels went to the barn and discovered the theft of his horse and cutter. He at once traced the same to Bowdish & Matteson's store where he saw what had been done there. MORE CORRESPONDENCE.

Cleveland has sent to congress the dispatches which arrived February 10 at regard to the minister's attitude showing an intention to use force. In part

'In view of the above a reply to your last sommunication may not be necessary, nor would one be made, except from the desire of my government to have the good will and friendship of the people for whom you speak, which result will, in my opinion, be advanced by an explanation of several matters herein re-

Rumors of an Attack.

"November 15 S. M. Damon, minister of mance, notified me in person that there were rumors of an attack that night or the ensuing night upon the executive building. I remarked: "The Japanese consul general, the Euglish minister and other foreign representatives have already called to say that their people are apprehensive of mob violence and asked are apprehensive of mob violence and asked me, as the only representative whose government has war vessels now in port, to protect their people. The friends of the queen are also apprehensive as to her after. I do not wish to interfere in any way with your domestic affairs, except with your approval. If you do not object, however, I will sublictly announce that the United States will cooperate to prevent mob violence. I will also state that there will be no communication to your government from the president of the your government from the president of the United States for several weeks.'

Damon replied thanking me for the offer and saying that he could see no objection what yeer, that such an unconnerment would so very far toward allaying excitement and relieving general anxiety. The following morning you called at this lexation, and on being informed of the preceding facts you expressed your satisfaction and approval of what had occurred. The representatives of the foreign governments and many prominent citizens expressed themselves to the same effect. The action taken was mean and understood at the time as in the intercet of peace, humanity and good order, and will after this explanation no longer, I hope, be considered an evidence of hostility.

GOOD ADVICE.

Every patriotic citizen should give his personal effort and influence to increase the circulation of his home paper which teaches the American policy of Protection. It is his duty to aid in this respect in every way possible. After the home paper is taken care of, why not subscribe for the AMERICAN ECONOMIST, published by the American Protective Tariff League? One of its correspondents says: "No true American can get along without it. I consider it the greatest and truest political teacher in the United States."

The robbers made their escape with several strong boxes belonging to the Wells Fargo Express company, containing currency and half a dozen sacks of gold. None of the pas-sengers, so far as known, were injured. The robbery was the most daring and cruel piece of work done in the west in years, and it is believed that Chris Evans and Morrell, the ontlaws for whom California officers have been searching for months, planned and executed the crime. It is impossible to tell at present how much money the robbers secured, but as the express shipments were unusually large it is certain the gang got away with a rich baul. #### RETURNED THE VISIT.

Emperor William Calls on Prince Bismarck at Friedrichsruhe.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, Feb. 20.—Another link has been forged in the chain of reconciliation between Emperor William and Prince Bismarck. Emperor William left Berlin at 2:20 Monday afternoon and arrived here shortly after 5 o'clock. In spite of the request by the emperor that there should be no demonstration upon the occasion of his arrival here the railway station and the village were gayly decorated.

At 9 o'clock his majesty took his departure. The ex-chancellor accompanied him back to the station and he and the emperor shook hands several times before parting. On the way to the station from the Bismarck residence the cheering of the crowds was incessant and the emperor repeatedly saluted.

The reconciliation is now complete and Bismarck's influence will soon be felt again. But he never again will be chancellor, although he could be tomorrow if he wished to. The emperor will probably create an entirely new

> SOME THINGS ARE OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE TO YOU.

This Will Tell You Just What You Most Need and How to Get it.

In the spring changes always take place in our systems which require at. tention. There is a tired, languid feeling, a depression, the digestive organs become deranged, the blood is bad, causing the complexion to become affected and the person feels an inability to work.

At such a time a spring medicine is absolutely necessary. It will overcome all these conditions. It will invigorate the blood, regulate the digestive organs, clear the complexion and make you feel strong and well. The following letter written by Miss Nettie Fraser, of Paterson, N. J., will interest you.

"Since my childhood I have been extremely nervous, easily excited and at times suffering with extreme nervous prostration. A year ago last June I was so bad that the attacks were almost hysterical, and my appetite and digesion were in a terrible condition. I also suffered with great mental depression.

"I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and the first bottle had a wonderful effect subjects the past three Sundays have on my condition. You want to get up in the morning and feel like dong a good day's work, do you not? And vou want your children to feel strong ind vigorous. don't you? Woman Suffrage Again.

To the Editor of the Time I think I shall interest your readers and throw some light on the very living subject of equal suffrage for women and men if I state two or three facts, and especially if I make a few brief quotations from some distinguished men and women who have examined this subject with care, and whose judgment ought to weigh at least as much in favor of woman suffrage as the opinion of Mrs. or rather Mr. Grundy against it.

With the above as an introduction

Mr. Sunderland in a communication to The Times, proceedes to give the facts and quotations which he thinks will 'throw some light"on the subject, whi h of late, has received some special attention in Ann Arbor due to the equal suffrage convention lately held here and to the sermon recently preached by Rev. Mr. Bradshaw. Mr. Sunderland does not pretend to go into the logic of the question, but gives, as he says, some facts and opinions showing which way public opinion on the equal suffrage question is tending, which facts and opinions will, he thinks, be of special interest just now. In reply to this The Times editorial writer makes the following remarks. One need only to read them to see their utter absurdity as applied to what Mr. Sunderland's says. "In another column the Times prints a communication from Rev. J. T. Sunderland on the woman suffrage question. Mr. Sunderland's article contains no single argument in favor of the extension of the elective franchise to women It contains only some statements that various men beleived it would be a good thing, that it is sure to come, etc. Mr. Sunderland is sufficiently acquainted with logic and has been engaged in argumentive fields long enough to I new that an empty opinion or staten ent with nothing to back it up is absolutely valueless. In his position as a Unitarian minister it is 'ur. Sunderland's par ticular mission to attack beliefs which have no material evidence behind them and to question all the evidence offered in the closest nanner possible in order to estimate fully its value, all questionable evidence being rejected. Under these circumstances the Times is much surprised to find that gentleman ad-vancing as argumentive evidence mere opinions and beliefs, which under other circumstances, he would ridicule as being the last defense of a lost cause."

Mrs. Sunderland's Sunday noon Bible class at the Unitarian church, which is making a comparative study of the different Christian denominations, has now a regular attendance of over 150. The the next three Sundays will be the Bap-Methodist and Universalist the first church organization was effected in Ann Arbor. It was Presbyterian in form and took place in a log school house on the North-west corner of Main and Ann streets, Reverend Noah M. Fashions of the Ainus.

A description of the clothing worn in cold weather by the hairy Ainus, those strange little inhabitants of farther Siberia and a part of Japan, is as follows: The only material of which they ever have a complete suit is fishskin. Such a suit is sometimes elaborately though coarsely embroidered. The resemblance between this embroidery and that of the North American Indians is remarkable. How the fishskin is prepared is still a puzzle to me. Though pretty thin, it is very tough and has more pliability than might be thought possible. Shoes even are made with it, but not exclusively of

it. It generally forms the lining of the uppers.

The thicker clothing is grotesqueness itself. For medium garments, especially for the covering of the back and chest, birch bark is used, other materials being stitched to it. For the coldest weather the clothing is much like that of the Eskimos and the Kamchatdales. The grotesqueness of it arises not so much from its shape as from the variety of the materials.

In one of these Joseph's coat dresses were mixed patches of sable, bear, deer and foxskins, including the tails, in haphazard fragments, while behind and before there was underneath all these a large piece of birch bark. The bark, I afterward found, was intended incidentally as a protection against accidental shots from poisoned arrows which the Ainus use more in winter than in summer in their hunting excursions .-Youth's Companion.

A Legal Puzzler. Curious comments by a judge, even in the presence of the prisoner, though extremely rare, are not unprecedented. Mr. Justice Maule once addressed a phenomenon of innocence in a smock frock in the following words: "Prisoner at the bar, your counsel thinks you innocent; the counsel for the prosecution thinks you innocent; I think you innocent. But a jury of your own countrymen, in the exercise of such common sense as they possess, which does not seem to be much, have found you guilty, and it remains that I shall pass upon you the sentence of the law. That sentence is that you be kept in imprisonment for one day, and as that day was yesterday you may now go about your business.

The unfortunate rustic, rather scared, went about his business, but thought law was an uncommonly puzzling business .- London Tit-Bits.

Disappearing From Spain.

Naturalists have noticed the gradual disappearance from Spain during the last half century of certain mammalian fauna which have long been familiar to the Iterian peninsula. The porcupine, which was common in Andalusia and twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other Estramadura 50 years ago, has now enwas the great favorite of all Spaniards before the introduction of the domestic cat, is now extremely rare. The Barbary ape, too, which is now only to be found in Gibraltar, where it is maintained with the greatest difficulty, was once very common in Spain.-London Globe.

Train and Cannon Ball Compared.

If you will sit down and figure on the subject a little while, you will express less wonder when you hear of how the next "head end collision" smashed things up. A train running 75 miles an hour moves along at the rate of 110 feet per second and exerts an energy equal to 400 tons. In other words, the energy exerted is nearly twice as great as that shown by a 2,000 pound shot fired from a 100 ton Armstrong gun!-St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Where Cold Snaps Are Eare.

Whenever a cold snap visits Fort Myers, far down in subtropical Florida, the inhabitants, who have no method of heating their houses, come out into the streets and keep warm by sitting around great fires of wood. The cold snaps are rare, but when they come everybody, even the the northern visitor, is thoroughly uncomfortable, and poor folks, with few and thin garments, really suffer.-Chicago

How an Eccentric Lecturer Got His Mer and Then Pounded Them.

Some years ago an eccentric genius, the Rev. Thomas P. Hunt, used to give temperance lectures. One night he an-nounced that he would lecture at a certain Pennsylvania town. Now, temperance was not in favor among the male Mr. Godbepraised said: portion of that burg.

The benches were pretty well filled with women, though, and Hunt commenced. But instead of temperance he took them to task about the vanities of dress, etc. They wore great stuffed feather sleeves then. They-the sleeves-caught it, then Hunt a regular humbug. He announced he would lecture at the same place the next night. Long before the time appointed the people began to arrive, and when Hunt hobbled down the aisle the building was completely filled with men. The old fellow looked about, chuckled and said in a low voice, "Hogs, I've got you now!

Talmage Was Thankful. The following is told by Boniface De Witt of the Riggs House:

"Dr. Talmage was preaching at Belleville, N. J., some years ago, and one week he made up his mind to go into the pulpit the next Sunday without notes or memoranda of what he was going to say. He memorized his sermon and believed he had it completely at his tongue's end. So Sunday night he went to the church pretty well fortified with confidence

"In those days in that section of Jersey churches and hotels and many private residences were equipped with private gas machines, and the church where Talmage was to hold forth had one too. When he got into the pulpit after conducting the preliminary services all right, he gave out his text. Then he was horrified to find that he couldn't think of a thing to say. He repeated the text a second time, and yet his ideas failed to come. He was in agony and began slowly and impressively to announce his text a third time. As he reached the last word and the perspiration of dread and shame was beginning to start, the gas went out and plunged the place into utter darkness. There was no other means for lighting the edifice, and when it was announced that the gas machine had broken down hopelessly Dr. Talmage pronounced the benediction, and I have heard him say that he never did so before or since with greater fervor or thankfulness of spirit."-Washington Two Daily Solid Trains of Coaches

Certain Analogies.

Molting has its analogy throughout the animal kingdom. We indeed molt invisibly, are continuously shedding our scales, but there are some animals that get through this process even more quickly than do birds-as, for instance, the shedding of the skin as a whole by the newt, eft and snake.

Sir James Paget has noted that some people have a few extra long hairs growing out from the general mass of the eyebrows. The few long hairs are representatives of a permanent condition in the chimpanzee and some baboons. They grow out separately from the general hairy mass over the superciliary ridges.

Darwin notes as a significant fact that the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet of man are quite naked of hairs, like the inferior surfaces of all four extremities in most of the lower animals.

Something about the ear: The lobule of the ear is peculiar to man. There is, however, a rudiment of it in the gorilla. Happy gorilla-and man!

About the brain of man and apes: The whole comparison is one of degree, and in the case of the bushman's brain with that of a well developed ape the comparison becomes nearly equal. In truth. there are no specific distinctions between the brain of the ape and that of man .-Gentleman's Magazine.

Persevering.

Of the 36 women who, under the leadership of Miss Annette Daisy, made a run into the Cherokee strip when it was opened last September, 22 have persevered in their undertaking and are now hauling the lumber themselves for a house of 15 rooms, which they will occupy. Their section of 480 acres is well watered and timbered. They already have three teams, two cows, chickens and other stock, and, neatly dressed in short skirts that come just below the knee and are met by heavy woolen leggings that cover the legs from knee to ankle, they appear ready for all the farming operations their pioneer enterprise involves .-Chicago Times.

Hear Both Sides.

Never condemn your neighbor unheard, however many the accusations which may be preferred against him. Every story has two ways of being told, and justice requires that you should hear the defense as well as the accusation, and remember that the malignity of enemies may place you in a similar predicament. -New York Lodger.

THOMAS GODBEPRAISED.

1 Mos Who Bears That Peculiar Name Tells How It Originated.

The register of the Girard House recently recorded the arrival in the city of Thomas Godbepraised of Barrow-in-Furness, England. Being approached upon the subject of the oddity of his surname,

"Yes, I suppose the name does sound The women, however, were all for the very odd to Americans, although such "pledge," and consequently on Hunt's names are not altogether unusual in first visit not a man showed himself. The ladies went home nearly mad, told their husbands about it and voted old Charles Elliot and took the inspired one of Ezekiel Godbepraised.

"There is quite a romance connected with this ancestor of mine. He fell in love with the only daughter of a Colonel Fielding in the Cavaliers' army, and not being able to obtain her father's consent to their marriage Ezekiel abducted her and for two years kept her hidden in a dreary house that stood near the little and carried her off to old Furness abbey. In the hurry the child was left behind, meant by saying, 'Hogs, I've got you but as a result of the mother's pleading now! and I'll tell you. Out west the one of the brothers returned to Formby

"In the meantime Ezekiel had discovstrap under his body and hitch him to a ered his loss and removed the child. Then the followed the brother back to Furness abbey, but arrived too late. The brother and sister had set sail from Barthe old hogs gather around to see what row beach for the isle of Man. A storm came up, and Ezekiel arrived just in time to see the boat founder. He returned to his child more bitter against the royalists than ever and brought the child up with the same sentiments.

"At the close of the war Ezekiel adopted the trade of a weaver and settled in Barrow-in-Furness. Thus the name was perpetuated, the stern commands of the father forbidding the son to throw off the fanatical nickname when the heat of Puritanical zeal had given away."-Philadelphia Times.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys,

When I see you, Lonz, I'm so strong! All doubts of our future vanish. I can't help, you know, being her daughter. There are times I've told you of them when she seems to govern me against my will. And then she's my mother, and I love her. -CHAPTER V.

He had received a frightful blow, and what made it all the bitterer was a nascent conviction that it had been half of his own giving. Still, he must forthwith face the irreparable. He had played into the hands of Mrs. Kennaird just when the game had begun to go dead against her. Perhaps, like a mad fool he had done this, and now life held no mitigant sorceries that could reverse his doom. Pride had assumed in him an abnormal tyranny; he had expected of Kathleen preposterous things. Of this he would assure himself one minute, denying it the next. "Had I been in her place and she in mine," he would passionately argue, "would I have talked of being 'able to bear it all?" Good Heavens, what had she to 'bear?' Not owning a peck or two of diamonds. having three or four pairs of gloves at a time instead of twelve dozen? And she called this loving! Why, if she were really true to me, really worth having for a wife, I'd love the feeling of starvation while I kept bread from my ewn mouth to put it in hers." His sister, Mrs. Van Santvoord, who now and then dropped in upon him with woebegone face and a voice which had lately acquired several new bleating notes, happened to be present, one morning, when he spoke aloud just such

"If it hadn't been that you're at heart an honorable woman, dear," he softly broke in. "Oh, I know, Kitty, you've had your temptations, what woman hasn't had them, treated as you've been by such a beast as your husband?" Kitty sighed. It seemed to her such a shame that this brother, in whose force and worth her superior knowledge of him had always taught her to believe, should not be able more speedily to divest his heart of a passion which could not but swell the tide of disaster overwhelming him. For to poor. weak, money-worshiping Kitty he had come out of trial with such a splendid grace and strength. Yesterday a sybarite, with his valets and his scented baths, his princely wardrobe and his dainty despotisms as a virtuoso, his effeminate caprices and his pranks that now trenched on silliness, now might have wrung smiles (you would think) from a bronze Dante, he was to-day not merely full of serious reflections and aims but mentally sinewed by the will to work and the philosophy that flouts despairing collapse.

"If she saw how brave he is," mused Mrs. Van Santvoord, "she would feel a pang of astonishment, not to speak of shame.

But she had already felt her pangs, had Kathleen, and writhed under the sudden scourge of conscience wielded during those intervals when resentment fell to napping. News of his quiet fortitude had reached her, and of the stanch honor with which he had treated debts that another might excusably have shirked. For a good while she had hoped that he would write her the sort of letter which might at once destroy and reconstruct. But no such letter came, and constantly it occurred to her that the sole cause of its not coming was her own frigid farewell. The terms of that farewell were stern as though written in the blood of a dying passion. He must have felt this; and yet on his own side had he not called forth harshness by intolerable exactions?

"Let it be understood," Kathleen at length said to her mother, "I shall now never marry." She spoke with extreme hardness and bitterness; it was a tone which Mrs. Kennaird had of late learned to respect, just as some sovereign, in times of altering popular tradition, might begin to hold more and more perilous the surly grumbles of the proletariat.

"My dear," was the reply, "marriage is such a strange affair. If all roads lead to Rome, then it should be called the Rome of human experiences; for it is approachable by countless different

HOW THE VORLD WILL END. Our Planet Will Die Not by Accident, but

a Natural Death. According to a'l probability, notwithstanding all the circumstances which threaten it, our planet will die not of an accident, but a natural death. That death will be the consequence of the extinction of the sun in 20,000,000 years or moreperhaps 30,000,000-since its condensation at a relatively moderate rate will give it, on one hand, 17,000,000 years of existence while on the other hand the inevitable fall of meteors into the sun may double this number. Even if you suppose the duration of the sun to be prolonged to 40,000,000 years, it is still incontestable that the radiation from the sun cools it and that the temperature of all bodies tends to an equilibrium. The day will come when the sun will be extinct. Then the earth and all the other planets of our system will cease to be the abode of life. They will be erased from cemeteries, around an extinguished sun.

Will these planets continue to exist even then? Yes, probably in the case of Jupiter and perhaps Saturn. No, beyond a doubt, for the small bodies, such as the earth, Venus, Mars, Mercury and the moon. Already the moon appears to have preceded us toward the final desert. Mars is much further advanced than the earth toward the same destiny. Venus, younger than us, will doubtless survive us. These little worlds lose their elements of vitality much faster than the sun loses its heat. From century to century, from year to year, from day to day, from hour to hour, the surface of the earth is transformed. On the one hand, the continents are crumbling away and becoming covered by the sea, which insensibly and by very slow degrees tends to invade and submerge the entire globe. On the other hand, the amount of water on the surface of the globe is diminishing. A careful and reasonable calculation shows that by the action of erosure alone all the land on our planet will be covered by water in 10,000,000 years.—Camille Flammarion in Astronomie.

There exists a general and deeply rooted idea that direct current dynamos of very high potential are not at all practical. The actual historical and practical facts are that the high potential direct current machines were more extensively and successfully operated when the dynamo first came into general use about 1880 than any other type, either direct or alternate. Furthermore, their number and size have largely increased, and the voltage at which they can be practically worked has been steadily raised until we now have 60 light dynamos as the standard size of large machines, generating about 3,000 volts and 10 amperes. Arc dynamos of 90 light capacity are also regularly made by several manufacturers, and 120 or even 125 light machines are built and used. I happen to know of one station where there are four arc dynamos rated at 125 lights each which run every night with a load of short a time that my son-in-law, Capt. from 100 to 105 lights. These machines must generate about 5,000 volts each. No great practical or other difficulty is found in operating arc machines, except that of danger to persons, but this is merely due to the high potential and does not depend very much upon the type of machine or character of current.-Cassier's Magazine.

He Lost His Case.

His opponent, whose name I have now forgotten, saw that the spell had to be broken in some way, or his case was lost. Arising slowly to his feet, and in a voice of deep solemnity, and with slow deliberation, he said, 'Gentlemen I sh each week a number of such le ters of the jury, let us continue these solemn exercises by singing the one hundred and fifteenth psalm.' A roar of laughter followed from the audience, and Judge Emerson lost his case."

A Little Learning.

We have been often told that "a little learning is a dangerous thing," and we may be just as well assured that a little bread is not the safest of all things. It would be far better to have plenty of both, but the sophism of those who use this argument is that they represent the choice between little and much, whereas our election must be made between little and none at all. If the choice is to be made between a small portion of information or of food and absolute ignorance or starvation, common sense gives its decision in the homely proverb, "Half a loaf is better than no bread."-New York Ledger.

The Oldest Dressmaker's Bill.

Most likely the oldest dressmaker's bill in the world has been discovered on a Chaldean tablet, dating 2800 B. C. It has an entry of '92 pure vestments for the priests." Among the items are '10 white robes of the temple, eight robes of the house of his lady, 10 collars of the house of his lady, 10 pair of gold collars, two white robes and four scented size of the city is determined by the area robes." Also "two winders," probably under the operation of the metropolis scarfs for binding about the waist .-

CASTORIAN

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea-the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children.'

Da. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quek nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it." # A HOME MISSIONARY.

JOSEPH ADDISON HALLOCK (Octogenarian.)

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT.

AN OLD MAN WITH PROGRESSIVE IDEAS AND HIS DE-SIRE TO ENLIGHTEN THE PUBLIC.

HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE

The winter of 1884-85 was my first experience with rheumatism. I was travel-ing as a home missionary, and with great difficulty and suffering I reached my appointments. It was located in my hips and back. From that time to this year of grace, 1891, I have suffered more or less under the grip of that disease. About three years later, liver complaint, and the calo-mel taken to cure it, fastened upon the walls and organs of my chest, a rheumatic affection from which I was never wholly free, and at times even a breath was a cruelty. Yet, in a general way, my health has been as good, perhaps better than the average of men. During the last days of the late year, I bought of Dr. Owen two of the Owen Electric Belts. One I have worn, the other a daughter has worn. In either case the remedial has been satisfactory. The rheumatism of my chest and hips I can no longer find. A limited case of varicocele, of more than thirty years standing, after two weeks' use of the Belt, has diminished to a mere lump, and a few days later could not be found. A nasal catarrh of years had so affected the substance of the nose that a friend in jest twitted me of brandy. My nose is itself again, and other symptoms of nasal and throat catarrh are fast disappearing, carrying my dudied sleet years with them.

LITERARY NOTES.

Edward Bok's successful article in the January "Cosmopolitan" on "The Young Man in Business" has been reprinted in a tasteful and handy booklet form at ten cents by The Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia. To this ing in your office, library or home. reprint Mr. Bok has added some 14 pages of editorial matter answering ing "Three Uncertain Young Me 1."

Among the illustrated articles in The Popular Science Monthly for February will be one entitled Notes from a Ma- the locality rine Biological Laboratory, by Prof. William S. Windle. It describes the laboratory of John Hopkins University, now located in Jamaica, with characteristic views of its surroundings. In another illustrated paper, Dr. Sidney J. Hickson, describes the Physical Conditions of the Deep Sea; and in still another, James E. Humphrey tells Where Bananas grow, showing by the pictures how the fruit is gathered and shipped. -D. Appleton & Co., N. Y. city, N.Y.

The name of Oliver Wendell Holmes in the list of contributors to the Februthe Autocrat's unbroken connection if the Mose, Mohawk with the magazine. Francis Parkman Valley." One of the handsomest rail-valley." One of the handsomest rail-Holmes. A valuable portion of the same number is devoted to H. C. Merwin's article on Tammany Hall,-a clear, dispassionate statement of the great political machine's methods and achievements. "The educational Law of Reading and Writing," by H. E. Sender, carries out the Atlantic's purpose of giving its readers from time to time papers of special interest to teachers in schools and colleges.-Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, Mass.

The Electic Magazine for February has a varied and interesting table of contents. Among the principal articles we note: "The Origin and Evolution of Property in Land;" Prof. Jowett;" "The Origin of Mankind;" "Education and Industruction," by Lord Colerigde; "Constantinople in 1893," by Max Muller; 'Prof. Tyndall," by Prof. Huxley; and "Recollections of the Commune in Paris." Other articles are as follows: "The Indictment of Dives," by W. S. Lilly; "The Queen of her First Prime Minister;" "A South Sea Island and its People;" "Some Thoughts on Rousseau;" "Insect Gods:" Aberdeen Student of To-Day;" "The Expedition to the West Indies, 1655;" "Old Edinburgh Inns;" and the usual departments of "Foreign Notes" and "Miscellany."-Pub. by E. R. Pelton, 144 Eighth-st., New York.

The secret of the great success of The Cosmopolitan is not hard to find, if one looks carefully over the number for February. A story by Valdes, the famous Spanish novelist, the first from his pen to appear in any American magazine, is begun in this number. Arthur Sherburne Hardy's story. "A Rejected Manuscript," is charmingly illustrated by L. Marold. A profusely illustrated article on the designing and building of a war-ship appeals to the interest taken by all in the new navy, and a thrilling description of a naval combat under the aignificant title: "The Meloban and the Pentheroy" describes a possible him.-Judge. sea-fight, the outcome of which is watched by the entire naval world. Of the Superior Court writes: From tors men famous in both continents.-The Cosmopolitan, N. Y. City, N. Y.

The methods of an actress are always interesting, and they are particularly so when an actress of such renown as Adelaide Ristori consents to tell them as she does in the February Ladies' Home Journal. The "Aberdeen Waltzes," by Mrs. Frances J. Moore, to which was awarded the first prize in "The Journal's Musical Series" of last year for the best waltzes, are given in the full piano score and are as melodious as they are 'danceable." The concluding paper of Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's series of "How Fauntleroy Really Occurred" will be read with ming el pleasure and "Fauntleroy" has given here. The quaint "Pomona" continues her European tra els and writes in her charaeteristic manner with Frank Stockto .'. assistance. Altogether this midwinter number, with its dainty illustrated cover by Henry Sandham, and its attractive table of contents, is worth many times its price of ten cents, and Jacky.-Harper's Young People. no woman can afford to be without it. Costly Meals.

The costliest meal ever served, as far as history shows, was a supper given by Aelin Verus, one of the most lavish of the latter day Roman aristocrats. The supper was only intended for a dozen persons, yet its cost was 6,000 sestertia, which would amount to £48,000 in English money, or nearly a quarter of a mil-

The celebrated feast given by Vitellius, a Roman emperor of those degenerate days, to his brother Lucius cost a fraction over $200,000. Luetonius says that this banquet consisted of 2,000 dif-ferent dishes of fish and 7,000 different fowls, besides other courses in proportion. Vitelius, fortunately for the world, did not reign very long; otherwise the game preserves of Libya, Spain and Britain would have been exhausted.

It may not be out of place to mention here that it is recorded as a curious point of history that a single dish on the table of the Emperor Heliogabulus was worth $200,000 .- St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Lights Went Out.

His royal highness the Prince of Wales was present at a noble lord's once together with all fashionable London, and after dinner the best musicians, both vocal and instrumental, were preparing to display their talent, when suddenly out went the light, and performers and audience were left in total darkness. As the light was electric and was supplied from a private engine which had chosen this inopportune moment to go completely wrong, there was nothing for the giver of the feast to do but to collect all the available bedroom candlesticks and empty bottles and stick candles all over the place. The effect was most comical and seemed to cause amusement to everybody but the host .- San Francisco Argo-

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an espesially attractive department of science, as it the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organized of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disoriers of the nerve centers. Its wonderful successine oring these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

A WONDERFUL TOWN

ITS NAME IS WAYNE, AND IT IS NEAR PHILADELPHIA.

Founded by Anthony J. Drexel and George W. Childs-A Place of Quiet Residence, Away From the Marts of Trade-Police-

About a dozen miles from Philadelphia, on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, is the wonderful town of Wayne. The wonderful town of Wayne is a product of the philanthropy of George W. Childs, who, together with Anthony J. Drexel, planned to bring it into existence for the benefit of such Philadelphians as yearned for more suburban life than was afforded by the shady thoroughfares and placid highways of their native city, and as Mr. Childs and Mr. Drexel had unlimited capital with which to carry out the plan for an ideal suburban settlement Wayne was founded on the firmest of foundations and has flourished in a manner calculated to cause the proverbial bay tree to wither with envy.

The inhabitants of Wayne number several thousand and are all inordinately proud of being Wayneites. They are proud with the pride which flushes the obsequious head salesman of the suspender department when the firm recognizes his worth and promotes him to the dizzy altitude of second floorwalker in chief, and their pride is a thorn in the sides of all the surrounding settlements and less ostentatious suburban stations. Most of them-that is, most of the males-are worthy clerks under middle age and blessed with wives and rapidly accumulating olive branches, and if they are not worthy clerks they are worthy in some other line, for none but worthy persons have ever found a foothold in Wayne, and the breath of scandal has never smirched the polish of its purity. Their wives are as typical of the quiet middle class Philadelphia women and girls as they themselves are representative of the average spotlessly conventional Philadelphia masculine being.

Physically regarded, Wayne is as fair to look upon as it is from a moral standpoint. It is an exposition of the essence of Queen Anne in architecture, tempered with the colonial and the other popular forms of rural residence design which have in the last decade run riot throughout the length and breadth of the land. There are dark red houses and bright red ones, there are those which are red and green, and pink and green, and canary and green, and there are orange and white ones, and there are pearl colored types with dove tinted trimmings. And there are just as many unconventional designs in shape as there are in color, and altogether the wonderful town of Wayne is a most satisfying spectacle to any one who seeketh the beautiful, the odd or the abnormally hideous in inexpensive but conspicuous dwellings.

Naturally such a settlement is above reproach in its government. It has broad roads, perfectly laid, tine, broad sidewalks, a waterworks and splendid drainage, all of which were provided by Messrs. Childs and Drexel, and it has a president and council, a fire engine equipment, an athletic club and ground for both sexes, a debating society, a series of winter dances, a sewing circle, a whist club and a lot of other such attractions provided by the residents themselves, and all these things are managed without a hitch or a jar, and peace reigns supreme from Jan. 1 in any given following 81st of December.

Wayne has no stores of any kind, and of course a saloon is as foreign to its confines as a snowstorm would be in au equatorial jungle. On the other side of the railroad there is also a Waynean old fashioned Revolutionary times Wayne—named after the American general who was known as Mad Anthony Wayne, and there may be found shops and stores and saloons and business offices, but in the new and beautiful Wayne such things are unknown and must ever be unknown unless the laws of its organization be ruthlessly shattered and the dictates of its title deeds ig-

Nor has it any police, but then why should it have? No one is bad, no one is other than faultless, the very dogs don't bark at night, the cats remain indoors after sunset, and a policeman would be as much out of place in Wayne as a prizefighter at a little girls' paper doll party. But the sweet sense of security which pervades the place is not without its insurance clause, so to speak. Even Wayne might be invaded by a reckless tramp bent on securing a square meal or (horrible as the thought is to the Wayneites) by a nocturnal prowler seeking to enter and rob a happy home. And then, too, the business hours of the day find its adult male population away in the city, and the women have not their natural protectors at hand. Therefore each family has a huge tin horn on which a mighty blast can be sounded as an alarm when aid is needed to repulse a tramp or to fight the fire fiend. At first the alarms were frequent, excause the children could not resist testing the tin horns at unseemly hours, but a meeting of the council fixed a fine of $5 on false alarms, and now, through the agencies of repeated spankings and also of hanging the horns too high for the children to reach, no more false

Wayne came very near being called Mentone, which was to have been pronounced Me-'n-tony as a pleasant recognition of the intimate friendship between Mr. Childs and Mr. Drexel, but the idea was abandoned. As it stands now it is an enduring monument to both these men, and it has not only fostered their fame, but increased their fortunes as well .- New York Mail and Express.

Caught.

Maud-I think it is very rude to turn around and look at people. When Tom passed me today, he kept turning and staring back for a long time. Nelly-Indeed! How do you know?-

Even to Modern Science. That a cat can come home in the face of almost incredible difficulties is perfectly certain. Thus, to take a fact as an instance, a cat was carried from a town on the northeast coast of Fife to a house near Perth. It went in a basket by train to Leuchars, where it changed for Dundee, and at Dundee changed for Perth. Next day, about 7 in the morning, this cat was observed to run down the avenue of its new home with a purposeful air. On the third day it appeared at its old home. Now, how did that cat achieve its journey? Did it take a bee line across country, and, if so, how did it know its direction? Or did it run to Dundee, cross Tay bridge (the railway bridge) and so along the line to Leuchars, negotiating the Eden at Guard bridge? We can hardly suppose that it swam the Tay. Or did it go round by the head of Loch Tay-a long rough journey by the Killin, where a cat might meet many dangers and temptations? The perils of a cat on the road are innumerable. Every collie dog chases it, every gamekeeper has a gun for it, every boy is ready with a stone. Indeed we never see a cat on its travels. No doubt it runs by night. There is the hypothesis that the cat came by train, changing at Dundee, and achieving the difficult maneuver at Leuchars, wherein many men have failed, going back to Dundee or getting to Cupar, though not one of them was like him 'that will to Cupar." This method of transit, which needs agile acuteness of reason in any man, may not be beyond the powers and intelligence of a cat.

They Are Mysterious and Unfathomable

But all conceivable ways, from the bee line across country and over rivers to the course round Loch Tay, are full of perplexities. That the cat simply rode on a broomstick behind a witch is an hypothesis which brings us into unfriendly contact with modern ideas of progress. Somehow the thing was done, and done in 48 hours. A dog spoken of by Mr. Romanes ran from Vienna to Mentonne, but died of fatigue. The cat was as well and sound as usual. We may speak of instinct and inherited aptitude, but to find its old home is of no use to a cat in the struggle for existence. Cats, much more than dogs, are independent of a home. They can take to the heather, the forest or the back green. Thus the cats which fortuitously developed the power of "homing" would be no better off than other cats and not more fitted to survive and bequeath their accomplishment to their progeny.

In face of these facts our boasted science is dumb. We know little about cats, but cats know a great deal about us. Faculties of this kind made the cat a mysterious power in the middle ages. He was roasted alive that his unknown protector might come and rescue him by uttering words of prophecy. This very fact proves the existence of a feline secret society which nobody studies, for we are all apt to neglect the facts which underlie and inspire the truths which are called superstitious. Cats have very probably "an underground railway."-London Saturday Review.

He Apologized.

A western judge was listening to an attorney who had a mean habit of interpolating remarks into the proceedings of the court. What he said was scarcely ever heard by any one, as he mumbled rather than spoke and would never repeat a remark. One day he said some thing which nobody heard except the year until the hour of midnight on the judge, who at once became exceedingly angry. Turning to the court bailiff, he thundered out, "Adjourn this court!" Then, as soon as the bailiff had done his duty, the judge stepped from the bench, beckoned to the lawyer to follow him and entered the clerk's office. The lawyer went along. So did two or three other people.

As soon as the judge got fairly into the room, he seized a lawbook, and turning upon the lawyer he fairly screamed: 'I was on the bench awhile ago, and you insulted me. I was a judge then. I am a man now, and the man will have an apology for the judge, or he will take it out of your hide. You might make an apology to the judge, but you would not mean it. Now, however, the case is more serious, and unless you give me what I ask I will smash your head." The lawyer made a most abject apology, which the judge accepted, and then the party went back to the courtroom and resumed business.—San Francisco Argo-

A Relentless Hyena.

A well known Austin gentleman found himself in a very embarrassing position. He had left his money at home, and not a nickel or a car ticket could be find in his clothing. He was about to leave the bobtail car when a gentleman, a real gentleman, with a sinister cast of countenance, tendered him a nickel. He gladly accepted it and dropped it into the box. The grateful party then shook his un-known benefactor's hand, thanking him for the confidence and accommodation, and asked his address so he could return the money.

"Never mind," responded the generous man, "it's a counterfeit anyhow. The street car company will make that hound of a driver redeem it. I've got no spite at you. He is the scoundrel I am after. He has trifled with the affections of a female relative of mine, but this will show him what kind of a relentless hyena I am when my blood is up. Hal"-Texas Siftings.

Memory of Sleep Walkers.

The memory of sleep walkers is extraordinary, not to say phenomenal, especially when under the peculiar impulse of the disease which prompts their movements. Moritz gives an instance of a poor basket maker who was unable to either read or write; yet, strange as it may appear, when in one of his somnambulistic vigils he would preach fluent sermons, some of which were recognized as having formed parts of discourses which he was accustomed to hear when he was a child attending his parish church, 40 years before.
