ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Most Delightful Entertainment of the Year.

MESSRS. J. MAYS, E. W. MARLETT, AND E. C. LINDLEY THE WINNERS.

They Will Represent the U. of M. in the Michigan-Northwestern Inter-Collegiate Debate, to be Held in this City.

The final preliminary oratorical contest to decide who should represent the U. of M. in the contest with the Northwestern University, April 6th, was held in the law lecture room, Friday evening, March 2nd. The question for debate was, "Resolved that the policy of the federal government ought to be to bring about the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands," the contestants being, affirmative—J. Dearborn, G. E. Leonard, J. H. Mays and E. W. Marlett; negative—E. W. Newton, B. H. Kroeze, C. F. Kimball and E. C. Lindley.

The first speaker of a question, by reason of being upon the affirmative, always has the fine advantage, and upon this occasion Mr. Dearborn was singularly fortunate in being the first to take up the thread of discussion. Beginning with the geographical location of Hawaii, he gave the relative distances of all the great governmental centers of the world, adducing with vigorous clearness the financial advantages to be gained by the acquisition of this, the "hub of the commercial wheel of the universe." Mr. Dearborn stood with his hands behind him and made no attempt at oratorical features, yet he spoke with clearness and precision, his reasoning was logical, and the fund of information he afforded his hearers in relation to the commerce of the Pacific, valuable and instructive.

The first speaker for the negative, Mr. Newton, was evidently not prepared for such an array of financial speculations as had been presented by his opponent, as his line of argument was principally emphatic assertion, rather than deductive reasoning. He also spoke too rapidly to persuade, yet his remarks evinced ability and earnestness, and his friends have every reason to be gratified with his effort.

The third speaker, and second for the affirmative, Mr. Leonard, took the audience fairly by surprise, so ably did he present his argument, so thoroughly familiar was he with all the technical political points involved in the knotty question. His gestures were graceful, his oratory excellent, his thought and research forceful and convincing. His appearance too, was most pleasing, while his debate as a whole was one of the best of the evening. Notwithstanding the fact that the majority of the judges did not recognize Mr. Leonard's ability, and therefore his claim to third rank on the list of winners to which he was justly entitled, nevertheless, he should have had the award. But he is young yet and can afford to wait. Charles Sumner truly said, "It is not a man's business to secure success in this world, but to deserve it."

The fourth speaker, and second for the negative, Mr. Kroeze, handled the subject in a fearless manner and presented the best argument for the negative of any speaker of the evening. His gestures were easy, facts, figures and date at ready command, syntax smooth and delivery masterly. In truth, if one were to offer a criticism upon the style of this speaker it would be that his earnestness was too intense for the debate, almost tragic at times. The province of the debater is to persuade, not to electrify. Still Mr. Kroeze is a man of superior powers and will prove an able exponent of the profession he has chosen.

Following Mr. Kroeze, came the fifth speaker of the evening and third for the negative, Mr. J. H. Mays, in whom the audience quickly discovered the hero of the hour. Calm, dignified, self-possessed, handsome in person and scholarly in manner, he had all the finer gifts that win and hold the sympathies of the audience. His style was enriched with all the highest graces of composition, his diction copious and varied, his phraseology felicitous and well defined. His vast fund of information too, was of itself a treat, and showed that the memory had been so thoroughly trained that what had been wrought out in his private study could be easily commanded in public at a moment's notice.

The true secret of argument is to convince and yet to please. By the subtle power of his eloquence, the charm of his personal grace and the profundity of his logic, Mr. Mays was enabled to sway his audience as if by the touch of a magic wand.

The fact that the contestants were all young men of such superior abilities, made his own splendid talents shine forth with resplendent luster, and it is not too much to predict, that the day is not far distant when the halls of congress will be ringing with his eloquence. The sixth speaker and third for the negative, Mr. Kimball, had the most difficult position of the evening, following as he did, the most eloquent orator. By sharp contrast, also, Mr. Kimball is an aggressive debater, while his figures and data had not been sufficiently memorized to enable him to present his argument with clearness and precision. He is an earnest reasoner, however, and certainly will do good work in the future.

The seventh speaker, and the last for the affirmative, Mr. Marlett, commanded rapt attention from the first moment he appeared upon the platform. His style was heavy, even ponderous at times, yet his reasoning was so clear, his diction so varied, his fund of information so valuable and instructive that one forgot the labored effort involved.

Mr. Marlett closely adhered to the principles of true oratory, rounding out his argument with a climax, and the tumultuous applause that broke upon the room as he left the stage was but a forerunner of the judges' decision.

The last speaker, Mr. Lindley, had the advantage of summing up for the negative, which ought to have enabled him to have presented some strong defense for his colleagues, yet his discussion afforded little that was new.

Personally, Mr. Lindley is a young man of superior abilities, but native powers alone, should not have been a passport in this case. His manner upon the stage of walking back and forth was criticised by many.

These criticisms are pointed out because they are beneficial and because it is justice to Mr. Leonard.

The judges were, Mr. T. A. Bogle, Mr. Geo. Pond, editor of the Courier, Rev. J. M. Gelston, pastor of the Presbyterian church, A. J. Sawyer and Louis J. Lisemer.

The task of making the decisions was a most difficult one, all of the contestants being such able debaters. Still, to the majority of those present, it seemed incomprehensible that a majority of the judges should favor Mr. Lindley instead of Mr. Leonard. But two of the judges, Mr. Bogle and Mr. Lisemer, stood for Mr. Leonard.

In judging upon a debate of this nature, inherent ability is only one of the many characteristics to be considered. Thought, argument, rhetoric and oratory, as well as personal ability, have to be taken into consideration.

The mistakes were trivial, it is true, and yet the most critical attention could discover no flaw in the rhetoric or syntax of Mr. May's. The only excuse that can be offered for the judges in not considering the violations of the rules of rhetoric, and general oratory by one speaker, is that they were too limited in time. With an impatient audience awaiting the decisions there was not time for mature deliberation. Evidently, only the general impression had been retained of the last speaker. Furthermore, there was the consideration that the negative was entitled to recognition. Upon this basis and no other can the decision of the judges upon the third winner be looked upon with commendation.

As a whole, the contest was one of the most delightful entertainments of the entire year. Too much praise cannot be given the contestants for the time and labor expended in study and research. Every line of argument showed that the speaker was familiar with his subject. It was an intellectual feast and the University of Michigan may well be proud of these, her gifted sons.

Pastor and People.

The First Presbyterian church at Pontiac celebrated its 70th anniversary on Tuesday, the 27th ult. Among those who responded to toasts were Rev. J. M. Gelston, of this city, who responded very appropriately to the toast, "Pastor and people." Having served the church about fourteen years, very acceptably, who could better respond to the sentiment given him? He tenderly alluded to the happy relations which existed between pastor and people, the prayerful and liberal support given him, and did not forget to credit much of his success to the self-sacrificing devotion of his most excellent wife. He realized many had crossed over the river and allusion to the departed loved ones was tender and pathetic. The presence of Mr. and Mrs. Gelston was an added inspiration to the occasion.

New Trial Granted.

Judge Kinne has granted Wilfred Thompson a change of venue to the Calhoun circuit in the case brought against him by Kate L. Moore for false imprisonment. The case has been tried twice in the circuit, the jury in the first trial disagreeing, and giving a judgment of $2,500 to Miss Moore on the second trial. The case will be tried a third time in Calhoun county. A. J. Sawyer was attorney for the complainant and B. M. Thompson conducted the case for the defendant.

SOMETHING NEW.

The Vibrometer in Use at the University.

People who are afflicted with deafness will be rejoiced to know that Dr. D. A. McLachlan, of the University of Michigan, is now giving a treatment that restores the hearing in scores of cases where the deafness is caused by catarrhal inflammation.

This new and wonderful scientific device which Dr. McLachlan is using with such gratifying success, is called the "Vibrometer," and is not used by any other professor in the University. The principle involved is that of applying the system of massage for the cure of the deaf, and for the benefit of the unformed, it may be further explained that "massage is the application of motion to disease."

In most cases persons who are deaf do not hear ordinary sounds because the drum of the ear does not vibrate. The function of the vibrometer is to restore vibration, and when this is accomplished, and other existing causes, such as inflammation of the mucus membranes, unnatural growth in the nostrils, etc., are removed, the hearing is often, times fully restored.

A professor in the University, who had been pronounced beyond help by an eminent physician of Boston, Mass., has recently been taking this treatment under Dr. McLachlan and his hearing is now almost wholly restored.

Many other cases might be cited, notably that of one of the teachers of the Detroit schools, who spent her vacation here last summer, and had her hearing entirely restored by Dr. McLachlan.

Physicians affirm that the ear is the most difficult of all the organs of the body to treat. Viewed from this standpoint alone, the vibrometer is a triumph in the scientific world and will be hailed with delight by the thousands of people all over the land who are afflicted with deafness.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Of Nathan S. Drake at the Cook Hotel Thursday Morning.

N. S. Drake, who died last Thursday morning, carried $2,000 insurance with the Knights of Honor. He joined the order Feb. 12, 1878, and his first assessment was No. 33 and his last No. 393, making a total of $432 that he paid in the sixteen years. THE REGISTER called attention to the death of this well-known citizen in its last edition. The cause of Mr. Drake's death was heart disease, from which he has been suffering for many years. At the time of his death he was seated behind his desk conversing with Roy McClure, the manager of the Cook Hotel, when he suddenly threw up his hands, fell to the floor and expired immediately. The deceased was one of Ann Arbor's well-known citizens. He located in this city in 1855 or 1857 and acted as clerk of the old Franklin Hotel, which occupied the site of the present Masonic Temple. Soon after he married Miss Wildt, of this city, and opened up a restaurant business, which he sold out about six years ago. He then accepted the position of clerk in the Cook House, which position he held up to the time of his death. He was 65 years old. Mrs. Drake and two daughters are left to mourn his loss. He was a member of Golden Rule lodge, No. 159, F. and A. M., Washenaw Chapter, No. 6, R. A. M., and Athens lodge, K. of H., of Ann Arbor.

The funeral services were held at his late residence on E. Huron-st. Saturday afternoon and were very largely attended by old friends. Rev. Henry Tatlock, of St. Andrew's church, officiated at the house and Masonic fraternities at the vault in Forest Hill cemetery. The floral offerings were unusually numerous and beautiful, the casket being perfectly embowered with flowers.

Jumped to His Death.

Henry Waters, a young man about twenty-two years old, of Ypsilanti, started for Ann Arbor last Saturday night with a companion. Rather than walk they boarded a M. C. freight. As this particular freight had orders not to stop at Ann Arbor, the young men jumped off just west of the depot. Waters seemed to have miscalculated and was caught under the cars and instantly killed, his body being horribly mutilated. His companion succeeded in jumping from the train without injury and was the first to discover the fate of Waters. Coroner Clark ordered the body sent to O. M. Martin's morgue, where a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above facts. The body was on Monday removed to Ypsilanti for burial. No blame in anyway can be laid to the railroad officials, who, of course, knew nothing about the two men being aboard.

Mrs. Killilea, of Milwaukee, Wis., is visiting her mother Mrs. Dr. Hartley, Mrs. K. is accompanied by her little daughter. Her husband is one of the leading lawyers of the Wisconsin bar.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

The Electric Street Cars Must be Running April 10th.

At the meeting of the common council held Monday evening all of the aldermen were present, President Watts, City Attorney Norris and Marshall Wheeler ditto.

The petition of Jerome Freeman, administrator of the estate of George W. Henry, for $5,000 damages for the latter's death in the sewer, was referred to the city attorney.

The finance committee recommended bills to be charged to the following funds: Contingent, $1,064.45; sewer, $2,937.97; street, $27.40; bridge, culverts and crosswalks, $73.81; fire, $471.90; police, $165; poor, $257.65; water, $62.05; total, $4,960.23.

Alderman Prettyman objected to the bill of $62.05 for raising the hydrants. Ald. Schairer to the bill of $102.08 for rent of city offices, and Ald. Martin to the bill of $25 for sixth ward janitor. After these three bills were taken out, the report was adopted and warrants ordered drawn.

The bill of the janitor of the sixth ward was finally allowed, as was also the bill of Clay Greene.

Alderman Manly was allowed $75 for 75 maps of city property.

Prof. Chas. E. Greene's bill for $500 came before the meeting again and considerable discussion was indulged in. The bill was lost by the following vote: Yeas—Ald. Schairer, Wagner, Martin, Prettyman, Kitson and Pres. Watts—6; nays—Ald. Herz, Snow, Wood, O'Mara, Ferguson, Taylor and Manly.

The street committee reported against allowing the vacation of an ally for the use of the Ann Arbor Gas Co.

Ald. Wagner, of the lighting committee read a report and recommended that the city offer the Electric Light Co. $73 per light per year, midnight lighting schedule, as a compromise, which was adopted.

The poor superintendent's report showed an expenditure of $339.48, as follows: first ward, $36.31; second, $28.30; third, $106.40; fourth, $93.06, fifth, $90.84; sixth, $14.57. The marshal reported having made six arrests.

Elmer Davenport was engaged as janitor for the ensuing year at $75.

Ald. Manly moved that notice be given the Ann Arbor Electric Street Railway Co. that unless it runs cars at intervals of 20 minutes between the hours of 6:30 A. M. and 11 P. M. after April 10 their franchise will be declared void. Passed unanimously.

ENTERPRISING HOTEL MEN.

Changes in the Personnel of the Cook House.

E. T. McClure, the enterprising landlord of the Cook House, has leased the Whitcomb House at St. Joseph, Mich., for a term of years. St. Joseph is situated on the shore of Lake Michigan, about 60 miles from Chicago, and is the shipping center of the great fruit belt which extends many miles along the coast and far into the interior of the state. Mr. McClure will fit up the Whitcomb, which is a large hotel with 400 rooms, in modern style, and will strive to cater to the wants of the traveling public, which he understands so well. He will give the house his entire attention, while his son, Mr. Roy C. McClure, will manage the Cook Hotel, and will be assisted by James D. Murnan, as clerk, he having been a faithful employee of the McClures for a number of years. Under their management the Cook House now takes rank among the first-class hotels of the state, which is highly appreciated by the traveling public. Every room in the large structure has been newly papered, carpeted and furnished with new furniture throughout. THE REGISTER wishes continued success.

GLADSTONE RETIRES.

The Queen Accepts the Grand Old Man's Resignation.

She Selects Lord Rosebery to Fill the Vacant Premiership—Speculation Regarding Other Cabinet Positions—Rosebery's Career.

OUT OF OFFICE.

LONDON, March 5.—It was officially announced late Saturday evening that the queen had accepted the resignation of Mr. Gladstone, and that her majesty had summoned Lord Rosebery and offered him the post of prime minister in Mr. Gladstone's stead.

At last the step so long expected has been taken. William Ewart Gladstone, for years the ruler of British politics and the most unique figure in the public life of the age, has made his final exit from the stage of action, and the grand old man of England will now retire to the enjoyment of his remaining years of distinguished honors.

WILLIAM E. GLADSTONE.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to Earl Rosebery congratulating him upon his accession to the premiership. In his letter Mr. Gladstone promised to aid the new prime minister whenever his assistance was asked. It is understood that Earl Rosebery's communication to Sir William Vernon Harcourt has resulted in the latter consenting to retain his position as chancellor of the exchequer and in his accepting the government leadership of the house of commons. Lord Rosebery has been the recipient of many congratulatory letters and dispatches.

Congratulates His Successor.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to Earl Rosebery congratulating him upon his accession to the premiership. In his letter Mr. Gladstone promised to aid the new prime minister whenever his assistance was asked. It is understood that Earl Rosebery's communication to Sir William Vernon Harcourt has resulted in the latter consenting to retain his position as chancellor of the exchequer and in his accepting the government leadership of the house of commons.

LORD ROSEBERY.

Regret Gladstone's Retirement. Hundreds of letters and telegrams expressing regret because of his retirement from office were received by Mr. Gladstone. The ex-prime minister attended church twice Sunday. He looked remarkably well. The nationalists propose to present to Mr. Gladstone an address in recognition of the great service that he has rendered to the Irish cause.

Cheers for the Ex-Premier.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone left Windsor at 3 o'clock on the same train as returning cabinet ministers. The route from the castle to the railroad station was thronged with people who heartily cheered Mr. Gladstone. It is stated that Mr. Gladstone will shortly leave England for the continent, and that he will remain abroad until the end of spring.

Lord Rosebery.

Lord Rosebery is now in his 47th year and has held the earldom since 1868. He first spoke in public at the opening of parliament in 1871, when Mr. Gladstone marked him out as a man of extraordinary promise. He was chosen president of the social science congress of 1874, and lord rector of Edinburgh university in 1880. In 1889 Mr. Gladstone appointed him secretary of state for foreign affairs, but he resigned the portfolio to accept the chairmanship of the London county council. He is foreign secretary in the present cabinet.

FREE FROM DEBT.

The Lehigh Coal and Iron Company Is Once More on Its Feet.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The Lehigh Coal & Iron company, which went into a receiver's hands in April, 1893, has been declared restored to solvency. In his chambers at Milwaukee Saturday Judge Jenkins of the United States circuit court entered an order discharging the receiver and directing that the estate be returned to the corporation. Duplicate copies of the order will be filed to-day in the United States circuit courts in this city, Madison, Wis., and St. Paul, Minn. Immediately thereafter checks to the creditors for the full amount of their claims will be sent from President Doty's office, and this action will relegate to history a failure which, both in its extent and the celerity with which the intricate complications growing out of it were settled, will, it is said, stand out prominently for a long time to come.

WORLD'S FAIR FINANCES.

Reports of the Auditor Presented by Congressman Dockery.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The financial history of the World's Columbian exposition is fully outlined in the report of the auditor to the board of directors, which was presented to the house Friday by Representative Dockery of the joint committee to investigate the expenditures of the fair. WASHINGTON, March 2.—The public debt statement, issued Thursday, shows that the net increase of the public debt during February was $40,064,215. The interest-bearing debt amounted to $625,872,000, which is an increase of $40,831,910 during the month. The debt on which interest ceased since maturity decreased $13,610 and the debt bearing interest increased $1,395,189. The cash balance shows an increase of $54,580,265. The interest bearing debt is shown to have been $625,872,000, the debt on which interest has ceased since maturity $1,871,020, and the debt bearing no interest $379,612,925, making a total of $1,007,356,015 of interest and non-interest bearing debt. The total cash in the treasury was $787,075,834. The amount received on the new issue of bonds to date is $57,427,906.

SKINNED ALIVE.

Terrible Fate of a Kidnaper at the Hands of Lynchers.

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., March 3.—It is reported from Harlan county that Len Tye, the negro who murdered Miss Bryant near Williamsburg about a year ago, has recently visited Harlan county, where he kidnaped a farmer's daughter and kept her secreted in the woods for some time until a party of hunters found her. They waited for his return, when they caught and tied him and proceeded to skin him alive and before he was dead the girl built a fire on his head and he was roasted alive. It is said he confessed the murder of Miss Bryant and said that he had taken three other victims in Kentucky and Tennessee, and kept them in the same manner he had the Harlan county girl, until they died for want of shelter and protection.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 3.—Eight thousand railroad men, who have been working seven days a week for years, will get a holiday to-morrow. The attitude of the democratic party continues threatening. Its policy is, and always has been, such. In a word, its policy is the leveling down of the condition of American laborers to that of the ignorant, half-starved, half-clothed masses of the countries of Europe and Asia. It means that the wheels of progress shall stop; that the prosperity we have enjoyed under republican rule shall be destroyed.

The sympathies of the republican party are with the great army of laborers. The party that is constantly endeavoring to make the agricultural and laboring classes dissatisfied with their condition, and which seeks to array them against the manufacturing and wealthy classes, is not the true friend of the farmer and the laborer. There will not be—there cannot be—in this land of ours a general distribution of the wealth of the country per capita. The government is never going to issue money for gratuitous distribution. There never will come a day when wealth will cease to be the product of labor usefully employed. The prosperity of every class of our citizens is intimately connected with the prosperity of every other class. A blow aimed at the manufacturing classes will fall heaviest upon the agricultural and laboring classes. The disastrous effect of threatened free trade legislation has not been confined to manufactures or the particular interests directly affected by legislation or threatened legislation. All the industries of the country are inseparably connected, and all have suffered and will suffer alike; and if mills and factories are closed by tariff legislation, the idle operatives will crowd into other employments, producing competition and over-production, low wages and low prices. If the manufacturer is forced to take small and continually decreasing profits upon his investments, investors in all other industries will receive smaller profits. If laborers in manufacturing industries are forced to submit to reduction of wages, laborers in all other industries will be compelled to submit to a similar reduction.

THE PUBLIC PULSE.

"The spring elections are at the door," said a citizen a few days ago. "It is rather quiet I must say, compared with other years. The reason for this, in my opinion, is that the Democrats have little or no hope of electing their mayor or any of their city officials this spring. Public opinion, which has been so effectively pronounced in the elections held during the last few months and the last few weeks, has also demoralized our home Democrats to such an extent that they have very little ambition left to enter the political arena. Like whipped game cocks they are doing no crowing at present, but are in the corners brooding over their former glory. Their trainers have shown poor management from headquarters at Washington and they keenly feel that the battle for offices, which have also been carelessly, poorly managed, will end in defeat."

"The man most prominently spoken of in Republican ranks as a leader for the mayoralty, is Chas. E. Hiscock. The only obstacle in the way of Mr. Hiscock's triumphant election to the position, is his extreme modesty of allowing his name to be used in connection with any public office. He could have been mayor long ago, but when the chieftains tendered him the position of leader, he always smiled and softly said, 'No.' Great fear is again entertained by the faithful that if the leaders now make their wants known, that Charlie will smile again, and again softly say, 'No.'"

"I am told in confidence, however, that the faithful will not consult the modest Charlie this time, but will take charge of affairs themselves, nominate him and elect him. Politicians say that the idea of first consulting a champion and nominating him afterwards, is the old style of warfare, introduced when wooden hulls were used in naval warfare. But since the new armor plated men-of-war plow the ocean, the new idea has permeated political warfare on the land. Nowadays, the chiefs hold a council of peace, decide on a leader, nominate him in convention assembled, and take chances on electing him. This the leaders contemplate doing with Mr. Hiscock."

"Despite the demoralizing condition of affairs in democratic headquarters, the party of retrogression will, of course, place a ticket in the field, and, to be sure, it must have a head. There is one man in that party of 'turn backward, turn backward, O Time, in thy flight,' who has a great many admirers among all classes and conditions of men, to whom eager eyes are turned for comfort and words of good cheer, but I seriously question if Mr. Bogle can be induced to make the run for the mayoralty. Like Hiscock, he is too busy in his office to tamper with affairs foreign to business conducted in his office. Bogle is not a politician and has no smacking for the intrigues of municipal politics. The politicians know this, and for this reason their eyes are turned to the law office over the Savings bank. Singular, isn't it, gentlemen, that the Savings bank has so much attraction in these days. In the words of the great Webster, 'we shall see what we shall see!'"

"At last, gentlemen, at last, the main sewer is completed," said a citizen in the City Hall yesterday. "I believe the Board of Public Works has succeeded in carrying out its promises to the letter. Capt. Schuh has given the elephant his undivided attention and the other members of the board ditto. Of course, everybody deprecates the sad accident which befell two of the laborers employed in the construction of the sewer, but this is certainly no fault of the men who supervised the construction of the sewer. Accidents will happen in the best regulated families."

"I was speaking with Jim Bach and other real estate agents a day or two ago," said a citizen in the opera house yesterday, "and they assured me that considerable real estate will change hands in the next few months. Quite a number of wealthy men and women from Detroit and the larger towns and cities of the interior of the state have been in the city with a view of permanently locating in the Athens to educate their children. They all agree—these men and women from abroad—in saying that the Athens is truly a garden spot—an ideal home. Good building property and choice lots will be in demand. Wonder if the Business Men's Association has given the subject of issuing 'A Picturesque Ann Arbor and University of Michigan' any thought? The Business Men's Association is the most deliberative body in the world. All of its deliberations seem to consist in deliberations, the election of officers and the passing of resolutions. Adjourned."

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

A benefit for the Athletic association will be given by the Glee and Banjo clubs on Saturday evening, March 17th, at University hall. New songs and dances are promised and the program is an elaborate one. Let everybody turn out and aid the ball team. Admission 50 cents.

Joe Shiplock and Chas. Wyatt stole a $25.00 robe from Phillip Duffy's buggy last Thursday afternoon. A few hours later they were gathered in by Officer Collins and Deputy Brenner. They had sold the robe for $1.50. Shiplock pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 20 days in jail.

On Sunday evening next the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Davies, D. D., Bishop of the diocese of Eastern Michigan, will make his annual visitation to St. Andrew's parish. At that time he will celebrate the rite of confirmation to a large class and will also deliver the sermon incident to the occasion. The services will commence at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss C. Sager is erecting two brick stores on Williams-st. near State-st. There is a growing demand for stores in that part of the city, and it is whispered on the streets that a few more will be built soon. Down town business men should see to it that street cars are put in operation if they wish to hold their Sixth ward trade. The State-st. business men are hustlers, and where enterprising business men are, there others will go.

A. L. Noble, proprietor of the Star clothing house, while crossing a street in New York City on Saturday last, was run into by a vehicle and had a leg broken. Mrs. Noble, who was informed of the accident by telegraph, left for the city immediately to administer to her husband's wants. From last reports Mr. Noble is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances. THE REGISTER hopes our enterprising merchant will soon be with us again.

The Dexter bank robbery has been solved. Orla C. Gregory, the assistant cashier, confessed Tuesday that the story of two masked men having surprised him while he was alone in the bank last Thursday morning and of their having, at the point of two revolvers, compelled him to give up $3,162.55, was false. He admits that he committed the robbery himself. All of the money has been received. Gregory has been arrested. His confession has paralyzed his friends.

The lecture by Prof. McClintock, dean of Chicago University, before the Inland League next Monday night will be one of special interest. The subject, "Macbeth, or the Natural History of a Sin," is one to which Prof. McClintock has given a vast amount of work. It is considered one of the professor's best efforts, which speaks very highly for this lecture as he has an enviable reputation in the lecture field. This lecture will doubtless be the best of this popular series of entertainments.

At their meeting Tuesday evening the Young Men's christian league reorganized into a Young Men's christian association, and twelve directors were elected. State Secretary Clark, of Detroit, was present and assisted in the reorganization. Prof. A. B. Stevens has been secured to give a stereopticon entertainment in the rooms of the association, Thursday evening of this week; a male quartette will furnish music for the occasion. The young men of the city are cordially invited to be present.

Mr. Lisemer, of the Ann Arbor Democrat, having been chosen a judge at a University contest, requests of the Press "that if it should ever in this natural life have occasion to speak of us, and honor us with our proper title, it should not spell it with a little j." Certainly not. The Press always capitalizes the Deities and Dignitaries. Sir, to you Judge!

Mrs. Rebekah Packard, grandmother of Mrs. Ethlyn Clough, of the Brooklyn Exponent, is still frisking about, at the age of 99 years and since her 98th birthday has pieced a quilt, containing 1432 pieces. A cut of the venerable lady appears in the Exponent. Her serene, kindly face shows that her nerves have never been racked with the excruciating yell of the office imp, calling for "copy."

A burglar at Lodi, got $125 in cash at the house of C. F. Hill, and started for the barn to steal a horse. Hill and sons followed the old man, let drive a couple of shots, but missed. The burglar then took his "innings" and sent a ball into the works of the watch carried by one of the boys. This was an unlooked for "stem winder" and the Hills all took hold and helped each other and let the burglar go.

A question box has been placed in the lobby of the Dexter Congregational church, into which are dropped questions intended for the pastor. Here is ours: When the donation is held at your house, elder, and the gross receipts are $50, how much do you usually have left, after buying a new carpet, in the place of the one spoiled, getting the piano repaired, house cleaned, and wife's doctor bill paid? And are you very thankful? Answer from the pulpit, please.

In order that his pupils might never forget to remember the Father of his Country, a Scio Center pedagogue on Washington's birthday loaded his class into wagons and took them to the University, where they visited the museum and afterward were photoed in a group. While the pupils were examining the skeletons of the gorillas, some of the professors passed through. The children inquired who they were, and the kindly young pedagogue, who had not observed them, supposed the specimens were meant, and answered that they were fossil remains, dug up in Burneo, and were probably thousands of years old. He was proceeding to explain the nature and habits of those animals, and how they would sometimes attack the human race with great ferocity, when the professors passed hurriedly from the room.

 (Monday, March 12.)

There was a new play presented at H. R. Jacobs' Theatre last night, and a large audience gave it a cordial reception. "Side Tracked" is a comedy drama in which the absurdities of tramp life on the rail are humorously set forth. Jule Walters, as the tramp, held the audience in an uproar throughout the performance. It has its full share of mechanical effects, but the comic interest predominates, and the comedians engaged in exploiting it were eminently satisfactory, judging from the amount of laughter they evoked.

ANN ARBOR.

SKETCHES OF OUR CITY.

Outlines and Incidents of Ann Arbor's Founding and Growth. Written Expressly for The Register by Prof. A. Ten Brook.

XXII. ST. ANDREWS CHURCH.

The Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States originated in the Church of England, which extended its ecclesiastical jurisdiction over those of the American colonists who had been of its communion in the mother country. The colonial church was at first subject to the See of London and remained so until after the War of Independence; it was in 1784 that the Reverend Samuel Seabury, of Connecticut, was ordained a bishop of the American daughter of the Anglican body; but there being some obstacle to his consecration in England, this was performed by several bishops in Scotland. It may have grown out of this, though I do not know, that the Reverend William White, of Philadelphia, has been deemed the father of the American branch of the Church; but he and Reverend Samuel Provost, of New York, having been as early as 1785 elected to their respective places, were consecrated in Lambeth Palace, London, in 1787, from which date onward the church has been living its independent life, and advancing with the movement westward.

It was in the year 1821 that Rev. Alanson Welton came to Detroit as the only representative of this ecclesiastical body in Michigan. Mr. Welton died after a few months of service, which event seems to have suggested the sending of a pioneer missionary to the territory. Rev. Richard Cadle was sent in 1824 and in the same year founded St. Paul's Church in Detroit. It was as early as 1825, or 1826 that he first visited Ann Arbor, and in 1827 organized a mission church in the place, which is thought to have been the first in the territory outside of the metropolis. The organization is supposed to have taken place in the house of Mrs. Clark, the mother of General Edward Clark and Mrs. James Kingsley, both well known to the older people of Ann Arbor.

There is connected with this event a piece of archeological tradition which may be of interest to the reader. Mrs. Clark had in her possession as an heirloom a silver tankard without its cover, this latter having descended in some other branch of the family. This vessel was used in the early Eucharistic service of the church. Tradition traces it from one John Harpin, of the ancestral line, of whom it further says that he was placed as a boy on board a ship in France, with instructions to the effect that he was to receive his education on board, never land in France, and on the attainment of his majority be placed on shore in America at such point as he might choose to make his home. The story suggests a method sometimes resorted to for disposing of an incorvener heir. The event is most likely to belong to the reign of Louis XIV. Mr. Harpin became a physician in Connecticut, from which state this Clark family migrated westward. The tankard is now in the hands of Mrs. Chapin, widow of the late Charles Chapin and daughter of James Kingsley.

The name—St. Andrew's—taken by the church seems to have been suggested by the fact that one, Andrew Cornish, stood well with the people and so the name of the Apostle Andrew was bestowed upon the church. Mr. Kingsley used to read sermons to the assembled body. A young candidate for orders named Huxford read the church service. Some—Miss Lucy Ann Clark, for instance, on her marriage to Mr. Kingsley—had the marriage service read by a layman in addition to the sanctions of a justice of the peace; thus giving the event a more sacramental character in her mind.

The church edifice was not ready for occupation until November 18th 1838, at which date it was consecrated by Bishop McCoskry. Previously, private and school houses, and the court room had been used for the services. While the first building was in process of completion, its basement, described by the Rector, Rev. Mr. Marks, as filled with shavings, boards and brick-bats, was the place of assembly. The rectors of the parish up to the time of my settlement in Ann Arbor were Rev. Messrs. Silas W. Freeman, John P. Bausman, Samuel Marks, Francis H. Cuming, D.D., and Charles C. Taylor, which last named settled in the place about the same time with myself. A further notice of the influence of this body I reserve to a later date.

AWARDED HIGHEST HONORS WORLD'S FAIR.

Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

HON. EX-SPEAKER NOYES.

Our Statesman Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura.

THE GREAT SENATOR AND REPRESENTATIVE RECOMMENDS DR. GREENE'S NERVURA BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY TO THE WEAK, NERVOUS AND AILING. IT IS THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE TO TAKE.

PROBABLY more depends upon the character of the recommendation than on anything else. If a person you personally know tells you that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured him, you take his word. Here is Massachusetts' greatest and foremost statesman whom all our readers know, Hon. ex-Speaker Noyes, of the House of Representatives, who tells you what this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, has done for him, and advises you to take and get well, if you are sick, weak, nervous, sleepless, debilitated or run down in health. He assures you that it cured him and he is positive that it will cure you.

and experiencing its very beneficial results in accelerating my recovery by imparting a healthy tone to my whole over-wrought nervous system, I write that others needing a like restorative may have a like advantage.

"It seems to me nothing could have contributed so much to invigorate and recreate as it were, my severely taxed nerves and debilitated vitality as did this excellent remedy. And to all needing some invigorating and permanent restorative to mind and body overburdened in business or other cases, I desire to offer my testimony in behalf of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as the very best medicine within my knowledge or observation. I am willing that the best possible use should be made of this note to bring the matter to the attention of others suffering as I was. CHARLES J. NOYES, Equitable Building, Boston, Mass.

HON. EX-SPEAKER CHARLES J. NOYES.

The newspapers say of Hon. Mr. Noyes: "No citizen of Boston stands higher in public estimation than he. A lawyer of the greatest eminence and highest ability, he is a representative citizen, one of the most popular and best known men in the United States."

"He was elected a Senator and was eight times returned to the House of Representatives. It shows in what high estimation he is held by the people that he was five different years elected Speaker of the House of Representatives. Gov. Long made him a Justice, knowing that he is of unquestioned integrity, superior ability and great conscientiousness. A man of majestic brain, he is a great statesman and has few equals as an orator. He was at one time a candidate for Leut. Governor and he nominated Alger for President, in the National Convention."

Such is the eminence and standing of the gentleman who writes the following for the public welfare:

"Having used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy during my convalescence from a severe rheuma-

Hon. ex-speaker Noyes is and always will be a boon to his fellow men, and in thus giving his advice to the suffering, and the weight of his high standing and eminent reputation to his indorsement of the wonderful curative virtues of the great medical discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, he is proving himself a benefactor to those who are sick, weak, nervous and ailing. It is a fact that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cures. The sick need it to make them well. Those who do not call themselves exactly sick, but who are ailing, out of order and do not feel just right, should take it, for it will put them in perfect health and strength. Everybody needs it now when a spring medicine is necessary to maintain health. It is the best spring medicine possible to take.

Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, its discoverer, is our most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Society News.

Undoubtedly the greatest event of the past week in University and society circles, was the final interstate debate held in the law lecture building on Friday evening last. The large room was filled with young men and young women who had come to witness a grand contest for supremacy between young champions in debate. All of the contestants are young men of ability, who will not fail to climb the ladder of fame in the realm of literature, or as champions on the rostrum or at the bar. No one will have cause to blush when Mays, Leonard, Marlett, Kroeze, Lindley, Dearborn and Newton arise in any assemblage to speak an leading questions of the day. We must admit that we never spent a more delightful evening, and never witnessed a better oratorical contest than the one we had the pleasure of attending on Friday evening. We hope the U. of M. will win in the Michigan-Northwestern intercollegiate debate. If Mr. Marlett is allowed to open the contest, with Mr. Mays to follow, Mr. Lindley third, and Mr. Mays to close the same, the U. of M. cannot lose.—Almost daily students are arriving in the city to enter the University School of Music, which is destined to make the Athens of the West a great musical center, as it is now one of the great educational centers in the New World.—Miss Volland, Miss Davis and Mr. Long rendered some fine selections at the oratorical contest in the law building Friday evening last. Miss Davis' singing was enjoyed very much and Miss Volland and Mr. Long are artists of promise.—A number of pleasant dancing parties were given by several young society ladies of the Athens during the past week. Friends of THE REGISTER are so kind to acquaint us with the dates when such parties are held, for which favors we heartily return thanks. The Misses Cora Allmendinger and Mollie Seabolt gave one of these pleasant dancing parties last Friday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gintner, of Jackson ave.—In musical circles it is hoped by many that Prof. Stanley will soon favor lovers of music another instructive and interesting lecture like the one delivered by him several days ago on "Wagner." Few great musicians and instructors can talk so entertainingly on the masters as Prof. Stanley of the School of Music.—We are informed that the 50th anniversary of the Alpha Nu Society of the U. of M. held on Saturday evening was a grand affair and was one of the great society events of the past week. Prominent members responded to toasts which were interesting and which were much enjoyed by all present.—Some of our citizens have left the city on business trips, while others have gone on a tour of pleasure and recreation, or to visit relatives in neighboring cities or in neighboring states. Strangers, and such as are not strangers, are honoring the Athens with a visit and will make a long or a short stay. Of such society happenings we are enabled to chronicle the following:

Mrs. M. Cook is very ill.
 Mrs. E. Sumner is seriously ill.
 S. P. Kyes was in Lansing last week.
 A. Allmendinger was in Owosso last week.
 Miss E. Bower was in Detroit last Saturday.
 Judge T. M. Cooley returned from Florida Saturday.
 J. A. Jacox has been in Alpena, Mich., on business.
 Franklin J. Gelett, of Sharon, died Monday of diabetes.
 A. J. Sawyer left for Kalamazoo yesterday on a business trip.
 Prof. F. M. Taylor was called to Albion yesterday by the illness of a brother.
 Edward Watts, of Syracuse, N. Y., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Watts.
 Elizabeth S. Goodale, of Hamburg, Mich., called on Ann Arbor friends Saturday.
 Dr. A. Kent Hale has been called to Adams, N. Y., by the serious illness of his mother.
 R. C. Barney was in Kalamazoo last week on business in connection with his marble shop.
 Mrs. B. J. Conrad left last week for a two weeks' visit with her parents at Albion, Mich.
 Paul Schlanderer, who has been in the city since his mother's death, has departed for home.
 Mrs. S. W. Clarkson left Saturday last for Plymouth, Michigan, for a short visit with friends.
 Mrs. Anna Nichols Wood, of Pittsburg, is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. P. Nichols, of N. Ingalls-st.
 W. H. Bearle, of Detroit, formerly connected with the Detroit Journal, was in the city during the week.
 Rev. F. Ohlinger was in attendance at the Students' Valunteer convention, held in Detroit last week.
 Mrs. E. S. Potter, of Niles, Mich., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. A. Moran, left for home yesterday.
 Miss Purdy, chief assistant to Miss Bower, great record keeper of the L. O. T. M., spent Sunday and Monday in Port Huron.
 Rev. G. Easterbrook, pastor of the Baptist church at this place, has been detained in Boston, Mass., by the illness of a member of his family. Dr. N. S. Burton occupied his pulpit in the morning and evening.
 Mrs. Glon V. Mills left for Owosso, Mich., to insist her husband in completing a directory of that enterprising little city. It will be issued from the presses of the Register Printing and Publishing Co.
 Walter C. Mack is in New York this week attending a great sale of imported dress goods brought about by the fall-ure of a large importing dress goods firm. A telegram to his firm announces large purchases at very favorable prices.

 Fred Wilkinson, who was one of the boys in Ann Arbor some thirty years ago, and who is now editor of the Chicago Call, was in the city during the past week, visiting his sister, Mrs. Hannah Price, of South 5th ave. Mr. Wilkinson has been enjoying a pleasant visit among many of the old pioneers in and about Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Fred Laubengayer, of Lodi, celebrated her 74th birthday Saturday last. A large number of relatives and friends congregated at the residence of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. T. Laubengayer and extended their congratulations. THE REGISTER heartily joins her friends in wishing her a pleasant journey down the pathway of life.

The genial utterance of M. M. Steffey was seen on the streets Monday. Mr. Steffey is connected with the Grand Rapids Evening Express. He will soon sever his connection with the Express and accept a position with the Louisville Courier Journal. Success to you, Mr. Steffey, wherever you may go, or in whatsoever business you may engage.

Edward Prettyman, of Chicago, who has been the guest of his brother, Alderman Prettyman, for several days, left for the Windy City Sunday. He says that the Athens has undergone a very noticeable change during the last two or three years, many beautiful residences having been erected, and several palatial edifices having been built on the campus.

A UNITED STATES MARSHAL Levies on About 40,000 Acres of Land in this County.

Deputy United States Marshal of Detroit has levied on about 40,000 acres of land located in this city and county. The value of the property will aggregate several hundred thousand dollars.

About sixty years ago Elijah W. Morgan, a lawyer and real estate agent of this city, in company with others formed the Ann Arbor Land Co. and came into possession of considerable real estate. One by one the members left the company and in due time Morgan had almost entire control of the property.

In 1873 he put all of his property out of his hands, deeding it to his wife, who died about twelve years ago leaving a estate value at $500,000 to Franklin L. Parker, a relative, who died last month, and to other members of his wife's family.

Among other creditors of Morgan was George Lamb, Sr., of Evansville, Ind., who got judgment against him twelve years ago in the Washtenaw circuit court for about $10,000. About three years ago he sued his judgment over again in the United States circuit court. Morgan died while the case was pending, and a contest followed in the Washtenaw probate court over the administration of his estate. Morgan's heirs and Mr. Lamb joined in asking to have Capt. Manly appointed administrator. The executors of Mrs. Morgan's will contested Manly's appointment and asked that an administrator of their choice be named. The probate judge humored both parties by appointing Capt. Manly and Leonard Gruner joint administrators.

Land and the heirs appealed to the Washtenaw circuit court, and then had the case transferred to the Wayne circuit court about a year and a half ago. One year ago last December the Wayne circuit court reversed the order appointing Gruner and confirmed Manly's appointment, leaving him sole administrator. Meanwhile the Land suit was revived against Manly as administrator. Last June the case was tried in the United States circuit court, and Judge Swan rendered judgment in favor of Land. The court ordered an execution against the estate of Elijah W. Morgan last summer, but it was returned unsatisfied. Deputy Marshall Wallace will levy on 40,000 acres of village and farm land, all over the county, and the courts will decide who owns it.

Our Organs are Known Abroad.

Last week the Ann Arbor Organ Company made another shipment of organs to London, England, this time only 24 organs.

Sufficient drays were procured and these organs, with six others, for local shipment, were photographed before taken to the station.

The news was quite a little excitement as the imposing procession passed through the streets, and very few people actually realized the extent of business done by our local factory until they saw it then.

That the Ann Arbor organs are known in foreign countries is amply proven by the numerous shipments to other countries and the constant inquiries received from different parts of the globe.

True merit, first-class workmanship, and the very best selected material will win every time. We congratulate the Organ Co. on their extensive trade and feel sure that Ann Arbor has a factory of which it can justly feel proud.

OPERA HOUSE.

The Tuesday Evening Recorder, N. Y. City, March 28, 1893.

(Monday, March 12.)
 "Side Tracked," a drama of realism, appeared at Jacobs' and with its many exciting climaxes won the favor of the very large audience present. The mechanical features were particularly well applauded. Mr. Jule Walters, as Horatio Xerxes Booth, won the hearts of every one present. As a pleasing contrast to all this excitement a number of new specialties were introduced in the third act.

WHY "No. 9" ARE HEELER & WILSON'S SEWING MACHINES POPULAR?

BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than wear out, and seldom need repair. We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurate fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

THE CHARITABLE UNION.

THE 26TH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY.

Election of Officers. - Change in the Name of the Organization. - Interesting Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer.

The 26th annual meeting of the Charitable Union was held March 1st. Mrs. Celia Jaycox was elected president; Mrs. Steele, 1st vice-pres.; Mrs. A. T. Butts, 2d vice-pres.; Mrs. M. L. D'Ooge sec.; Mrs. Philip Bach, treas. The ward committees were constituted as follows: 1st ward, Mrs. Jaycox, Mrs. Bach; 2d ward, Mrs. Bach; 3d ward, Mrs. Wetmore, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Rathbone, Mrs. Junius Beal; 4th ward, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Parker, Miss Fleming, Mrs. R. A. Beal; 5th ward, Miss Brown, Mrs. Cushman, Mrs. John Miner; 6th ward, Mrs. Butts, Mrs. Steele.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were as follows:-

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The months pass quickly and we are surprised to find that again the time has come for us to pause and review the work accomplished during a year. We have had but eight meetings, since in June there was no quorum and, in July, August and September meetings are never held, though the ward committees as usual make and receive visits. The average attendance at the meetings has been the same as last year, namely eight, and it need hardly be said, it is the same eight ladies who have come. Of course, in order to obtain any very clear idea of the work accomplished by the Union, and of its needs, it is necessary to attend, at least occasionally, the monthly meetings and to hear the reports of the ward committees. Yet, we cannot feel that Ann Arbor as a whole has no interest in the work of this organization. Indeed, we have had very substantial proof to the contrary and from various sources. First, the thanksgiving offering received at the union service of the churches, and at St. Andrew's was, as usual, entrusted to us. The Ann Arbor Light Infantry sent us 20 per cent. of the net proceeds of theirazaar. The Catholic church placed $20 at our disposal and the large contribution for the poor raised at the Mills' meetings was given to us to disburse. Contributions of cotton cloth, of comforters, of cloaks and of underwear, amounting in value to between 60 and 70 dollars have been received from Mr. E. F. Mills, Mr. Schairer, Mr. C. W. Wagner and Mr. Haller, 100 lbs. of flour was also donated by Mr. Frank Allmendinger. From the Christmas gift entertainment of the Congregational church, we received for distribution among our beneficiaries vegetables, groceries and clothing amounting in value to $16, and also $7.60 in money. We have received special gifts from Prof. Walter and Mr. Martin Haller, and the children of the 2d ward school had a penny contribution in our behalf. Through the kindness of many friends we were enabled to provide 66 families with Thanksgiving dinners. Thus we have had abundant means with which to meet the unusually large demands made upon us, and we desire to express to all who have helped to make this possible, our own most hearty thanks, and also the thanks which we feel sure many a poor family would gladly utter through us. We realize the great responsibility placed upon us in receiving so valuable donations for distribution, but to the best of our ability we have faithfully discharged the responsibility. Our ward committees are always most conscientious in investigating all calls for aid and strive earnestly to give only to those really in need. Since we are the only organization which does systematic charitable work in the city, we can but feel that we know better than others where the greatest need is, and are better fitted to render assistance. Unorganized charity work, it is generally admitted, often does more harm than good. Clothing of all kinds has been distributed by us to the destitute, fuel has been supplied, medicines have been bought for the sick, nurses' wages have been paid and assistance given in defraying funeral expenses, bedding also has been furnished and rent paid. Various have been the needs, but all, when genuine, have been met. We seek also, when possible, to give assistance in such a way that it may enable the recipients to help themselves. With this in view, we have during the past year considered the advisability of establishing a day nursery, thinking that thus some poor women, now confined at home by their little children, might be enabled to go out to work by the day. In each ward the visiting committee made a careful canvass to see whether this would be the case, but it was found that for the present there is no need of anything of the kind.

So far as figures can show what our work has been, they are as follows:

192 visits have been made by the ward committees and 160 have been received by them. 50 families have been assisted. Donations of new and second-hand clothing, valued at $143.60, have been distributed and in the sewing school, garments, sheets, etc., valued at $15.

We wish to thank the city papers for their kindness in always publishing our communications free of expense. At the beginning of the year, the name of the Union was changed from "The Ladies' Union" to "The Women's Charitable Union."

We have been glad to welcome once again to our monthly meetings, at this time last year, we much feared would hardly be able again to meet with us.

Such, in general, has been the history of the Union's work during the past year, a work quiet and unobtrusive, but in its results far reaching and preventive of much suffering. While we will rejoice if the need for this work decreases, so long as it continues, we trust that in the future, as in the past, we may be enabled to meet the demands made upon us.

MARY W. D'OUGE, Secretary.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

CHAPTER VI.

Eric's voice, however, struck reassuringly on his ear.

"Yes, my dear Alonzo, it is the king. I had no idea that he would pay us this honor. But he is so exquisitely gracious that one never knows what new act of kindness he will commit. The persons who surround him are quite harmless beings, I assure you. They perhaps possess all the native ill-breeding of high-bred aristocrats, but are well aware that the faintest act of discourtesy toward anyone whom Clarimond favors would promptly end in their exile from the court. I pray you have not the least sense of awkwardness. The king never permits it to live in his presence. He has a really wonderful gift—that of destroying idle ceremony. Do not address him as 'your majesty.' He greatly dislikes that form, so separate and so constantly reminiscent of his royal rank. I am sorry enough, dear Lonz, that you should see him so soon. I had wanted that we should talk for hours about him together before you and he were brought face to face. He is so remarkable, so preeminently distinguished. I am sure there was never a king like him in all the world before. I sometimes think there has never been a king either so great or so good, though that, of course, is saying much. But if our century is productive of anything interesting and extraordinary it should be her kings, which are both anomalies and absurdities. I think Clarimond plainly realizes this fact. I could have consumed hours in talking of him to you before you and he met, if it had not been for his caprice to come and greet you as he has done. He has just left the palace, you know. You can get a good view of it yonder on the spur of the mountain, now that the sun has sunk. I called it my bee in the bonnet, that palace, until it was quite finished. Do you care for it?"

"Care for it, good Heavens, Eric."

Alonzo felt his blood beat, as only the blood of an artist can when he gazes upon work that seems to him noble and grand. The faded daylight had now brought out new tints, dark and rich, in sward and foliage. From a slope of the dim and majestic mountain towered King Clarimond's abode. As a masterpiece of building it was no less delicate than sublime. Wrought entirely of white marble, it loomed against the undulant lawns and terraces that compassed it in an intricate maze of turrets and spires. It was enormous with respect to the space that it covered, and yet so lace-like in its ethereal proportions that you might have named it the very filament or cobweb of architecture. To Alonzo that king's deep regard for Eric was instantaneously plain. Such commingled airiness and solidity and flower-like blossoming in stone, such frost-like beauty and grace blent with dignity and power, could be but the work of genius alone. It flashed through the gazer's mind that perhaps Ludwig, of Bavaria, mad though he possibly was, admired and revered Wagner no more than Clarimond, of Saltravia, admired and revered the creator of this enchanting edifice.

"It's a magnificent bee to have had in one's bonnet, my dear Eric," presently murmured Alonzo. "In this light, seen as we see it now, its loveliness appears miraculous."

"Those are words that drop right down into my heart's core," said Eric. And now as the group of people drew nearer, one figure quietly parted itself from the others.

"The king," whispered Alonzo's friend, and with an outstretched hand and a face that seemed to radiate sunshine, Clarimond, of Saltravia, advanced.

"You are most welcome," he said in very fluent and perfect French. "You see," he continued, "I do not wait to be presented to you, but take the liberty, like this, of claiming your acquaintance." This form of phrase from royalty might well have been called graciousness, not to say condescension. But the young king who now spoke somehow contrived to make it appear like neither. His voice was rich and sweet, his manner affable without the vaguest trace of patronage, and his person irresistibly charming. Alonzo quickly felt that he could not be called by any means a man physically faultless, and yet in his tall, compact figure, his wavy golden locks and his radiant gray eyes, dwelt a world of attraction.

Almost before he knew it the stranger found his sense of strangeness oddly vanishing. Clarimond made him acquainted among the ladies and gentlemen of his little court with no more seeming difficulty than by a wave of the hand, a happy sentence, or even a fleeting smile. The manners of those who composed his train were certainly an aid to this easy method of introduction. Indeed, as the minutes now slipped by, Alonzo began to have the sensation that he had entered within a circle of delicious sorcery where human nature, like that of other nature which towered and undulated so picturesquely on every side of him, teemed with only the fairest lures. He soon found himself walking in the direction of the palace, solely accompanied by the king. All the others, including Eric Thaxter, had drawn a little backward, and their gay conversation floated so buoyantly and fearlessly on the scented evening air as to dissipate every hint of that austerity which we are told usually surrounds a monarch.

"You have been away but a short time from America?" asked Alonzo's companion, regarding him softly, and yet with what he suspected to be veiled keenness as well.

"Yes, monseigneur," replied Alonzo, wondering if Eric's English veto as regarded "your majesty" might be thus translated into French.

But the title failed to please. Immediately Clarimond placed his hand on the speaker's arm. "Let it be 'monsieur' between us," he said. "I like that better. But you were in Paris for a little while coming here, as I think Eric told me," ran his next words. "And you like Paris? Or are you in that one respect un-American?"

"I like it beyond all other places," Alonzo answered. And then he added: "Except Saltravia."

"Saltravia is perhaps the most opposite place to Paris," smiled Clarimond, "that the world contains. Besides, you do not know it yet."

"Ah, but I have been able to see how beautiful it is."

"That is because your friend has made it so."

"These airy villas are his work, monseigneur, no less than your astonishing palace?"

"Nearly all are his work. As soon as I felt how remarkable was his genius for architecture, I said to him, in so many words: 'Transform my little kingdom for me.' And he has done so."

"But surely with great expedition."

The king laughed, shrugging his shoulders. "Our Eric declares himself lazy. Is it not absurd? True, I have assisted him with large funds and hordes of workmen. But he has labored with fine industry."

"A labor of love, surely."

"Of art, which never succeeds in its achievements unless love spurs and guides it. One can do nothing well without loving to do it—or so I imagine. This particular sweep of country represents Eric's masterpiece of effort. Westward are the homes of people who have neither the fortunes nor the culture to live artistically. And on the further side of the palace Saltravia assumes an aspect which is inevitably more commonplace. There are the two large hotels, the four celebrated springs and the casino. Eric improved rather than rebuilt all that. It is more populous, far less rural than the prospects which now greet us, and may remind you of certain places like Carlsbad, or Homburg, or Baden. Eric has his own little abode, however, in which I believe you are to inhabit a suite of chambers. It is near the palace, and commands a view of just these heights and dells for which you have already declared a liking. In a short time we will reach it, and there, monsieur, I will venture to leave you. To-morrow, after you and your old friend have had time for a memorial chat, and when a few hours of refreshing slumber have followed the excellent glass of wine which I am sure you will get at dinner, I shall be greatly pleased to receive you at the palace. We will walk through the picture galleries, talk a little over what is there already, and then ask one another what sorts of unsecured canvas would prove the most desirable. Eric tells me that he trusts no one's perception of thorough worth in art so implicitly as he trusts your own."

Alonzo felt himself reddening with doubt of self. Here, in this incomparable spot, almost under the shadow of that glorious marble poem which filled him with new regard for the soul from whence it had sprung, to hear words of expectant confidence in his own powers of aesthetic insight! It seemed almost like a merciless mockery. He shook his head, and in very faltering tones responded: "My dear friend has overrated me to a sad degree, monsieur, I assure you."

"Fush," said the king, with a gesture of playful unconsciousness. "If you want me to respect your abilities you must not begin by depreciating Eric's critical gifts. Remember that I have reason to swear by them. And if you doubt your own capacity to dive into the big European sea of art and fetch me up some of the finest pearls that lie there, such lack of faith will merely increase my own in yourself, since it is never hard to associate distinction with modesty. But here we are, almost at Eric's very doors. You are doubtless tired, and I have come to meet you, I am well aware, with a kind of pitiless unexpectedness."

As the king paused he put his hand about that of Alonzo, letting it rest there with a transient yet earnest pressure. Nothing could have been more simply royal than the way in which he performed this quiet act, while standing at the arches and ivy-muffled gateway which led to Eric's monastic residence of dark gray stone. To Alonzo his departure and that of his merry court were as graceful as had been their coming and their salutations but a brief while since. When they had all passed away toward the grand approaches of the neighboring palace, he turned to Eric with an agitated sob in the throat.

"For a poor devil like myself, old fellow, such goodness is positively painful." Eric kindly took his arm and they walked together below the Gothic gateway up toward the little round towered medieval abode which rose just beyond. "My dear Lonz, this is one of the happiest moments I have ever known since I came to Saltravia, and saying that certainly is saying much. But for you to call yourself a 'poor devil'—you, whom I once envied as the luckiest of mortals, with your talents, your good looks and your millions! It's like dreaming a grisly dream."

"I never had any real talents, Eric. Like my good looks, they're something you've dreamed."

"Preposterous! You're slow, I'll admit."

"Slow? I'm the merest plodder."

"But some day you might produce a masterpiece. And some day I believe you will. As it was, all that wealth stood in the way of it. Now your luxury slips from you like a purple robe, and below it is the dress of plain taffetas than an occasional paint stain will rather adorn than harm. Besides, you will have another potent incentive."

"You mean—"

"Leisure. Most men who lose their money are in a turmoil of distress about their butcher's bills. But, after all, though the salary allowed you by the king is not precisely enormous—"

"He is exceedingly liberal, Eric."

"Still, for Saltravia, it can't be called meager. And you will find, dear Lonz, that it possesses one pungent charm—you can so often draw it with an entirely guilty conscience."

"I see. You mean that I shall not have much to do."

"You will have a great deal to do in one sense, little in another. The king, you know, is enormously rich, and has (notwithstanding his many charities) a passion for purchasing and possessing what is beautiful in art. He will require you at the end of every three months or so to show him a certain proof of faithful stewardship."

"I quite understand, Eric. I must account to him for the sums of money that I have expended."

"Good heavens!" cried Eric, giving one of his laughs which smote the bland evening air with an almost flute-like sweetness, "you must do nothing of the sort. If you fail to convince Clarimond that you have made your purchases with avoidance of all rash and reckless economies—that you have, in other words, been prudently and discreetly extravagant—I am not at all sure what adverse views he may adopt regarding your proper endowments for the position you have assumed. He would prefer to take for granted that you have brought him treasures of art which have been rather chosen for their excessive ideal value as bits of true beauty than because fashion or false tradition had touched them with any vulgar spell. But I babble on, and you are fatigued. You long for your bath, for a change of linen, and then for a quiet little dinner, at which you may wash down more of my inanities with some really choice wine, a gift from the king himself."

They presently passed within doors, but before they did so Alonzo begged to linger a few moments on the terrace which they had now ascended. The huge hills had deepened from violet to the mellowest azure and the hard white roads glimmered below a heaven whose crystal was but newly invaded by the silver shyness of earlier stars. Lights had begun to shine in the palace casements and in those of the glooming villas besides. From the heart of the dimmed sunset beamed a pale pool of sky that the two sable mountains flanked like coasts, and midway between either, like a water lily of throbbing fire, burned the evening star. Freshing each instant with the advent of darkness, a breeze played at so brisk a speed along the valley that you might wonder how it could bear such heavy odors of pine, of garland flowers and of wild flowers as well, in its viewless but devious clasp.

The dwelling of his friend, as Alonzo soon found, was in no way suggestive of being habitated by a king's petted idol. Sobriety and simplicity prevailed everywhere, yet the cloister-like somberness never became too heavy, and now and then it revealed bursts of refreshing brilliance in a fall of rare tapestry or a stretch of blazoned windows. While the two friends tarried late that evening in the groined dining-room with its tall wax candles (having been left to their cigars, coffee and Burgundy by a servant of perfect training) they talked of many things. But chief among these topics the recent troubles of Alonzo stood forth. He told all which had passed between himself and Kathleen, finally adding:

"I don't altogether approve my own conduct, now that I look back upon it."

"Approve it!" exclaimed Eric. "My dear boy, you are delicious. Why, it's just as if Caligula should declare to-day that he thought he had behaved a trifle impolitely yesterday."

"Really, Eric, I was not prepared—"

"To be called cruel? Of course you were not. You expected to have me agree with you that you've been a martyr."

"I have been—to that horrible Mrs. Kennard."

"But by your own showing you quite defeated her. Kathleen was willing to defy her authority."

"Willing—yes."

"And you wanted the poor girl to prostrate herself before you in an ecstasy of submission. Of course you did. All lovers, in like circumstances, do. Don't bite your lips and glare at me, dear Lonz. It shows in you a new spirit of rebellion for which I am totally unprepared. Always before this you have recognized my right to scold you when you deserved it."

"But you've never before scolded me unjustly, Eric. Let us talk, however, of something else. How is it that you, so sapient in the ways of lovers, have found no wife among all these charming ladies of Saltravia?"

"I marry a Saltravia lady!" broke from Eric, while he nearly spilled the glass of Chambourtric that he was lifting to his lips. "You might as well talk of my marrying some celestial creature who had lately arrived here from the planet Mars."

"What do you mean? I thought they adored you."

"Some of them detest me, my dear Lonz."

"Ah! Jealousy of the lung?"

"Partly. But there's another cogent reason. Many of them look upon me as a hideous vandal."

"A vandal—you?"

"Yes—and it's so odd when one thinks of it. A vandal of culture! I swooped down on their dear valley and shattered (at Clarimond's command) its immemorial ugliness. Talk of the romance of the past! Adobe huts are scarcely dismaller than were some of their ancestral lodgments. Oh, yes, I've been to them, as it were, a very barbarian of civilization."

Dancing and Gymnastics.

Instructors and students of the physical education of women were quick to see that the various forms of dancing which have taken public fancy had value as gymnastic exercises. Certain modest modifications of the style of rhythmic motion have been introduced into the gymnasiums, with excellent results. Young people soon get tired of the inanities of wands, wooden dumb bells, and mechanical movements to the strumming of an asthmatic piano. The more there is of a dancing movement to calisthenics, therefore, the better the exercise is liked and the more useful it becomes. The dancing academy is the best of gymnasiums, if it is properly ventilated and the pupils properly dressed and under intelligent control. The most feasible thing will be to inoculate our gymnasiums for girls and women with more of the dance movements. Our youth would not only gain strength, agility, gracefulness and health but would learn to distinguish what is beautiful in dancing movements from that which is coarse and vulgar.—N. Y. Med. An Unseen Enemy

Is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That subtle and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenacious grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against its insidious attacks with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of miasma in the system, and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malarious attack, avoid poisoning your system with quinine, and use instead this wholesome remedy, unobjectionable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

His Reasons.

"People sometimes ask me why I spell my name with two n's," said Representative Hermann. "When I was a student in Maryland years ago, I got the idea into my head that I would follow the fashion and eliminate the extra letter. I started in by writing to my father, a respected and prominent physician in Baltimore, and signing it in the improved way, 'Your affectionate son, Binger Herman.' My father quickly detected the change, and back came a letter whose earnest reproaches I have never forgotten.

"He pointed out that the name stood for one of the greatest heroes of antiquity, Armanius, the Hermann of Tacitus, who stood like a bulwark against Roman lust of conquest, and to whose leadership the ancient Germans owed the preservation of their nationality, their language and their freedom. He said that name was given me by those who alone had the authority to confer it, and with their consent the name should never be altered, even in respect to a letter. The rebuke I received so impressed me that I concluded if the name was good enough for my father it would be good enough for me."—Washington Post.

WATCH DISEASES.

SOMETHING LIKE THOSE OF THE HUMAN MECHANISM.

A Jeweler Calls the Ailments of a Watch Consumption, Rheumatism and Heart Failure and Explains the Analysis in Each Case.

"That's the twenty-third today—we're going to have an electric storm," remarked a down town jeweler as he was handed a watch having a broken mainspring for repair.

"How do you make that out?" inquired the customer.

"Why, by the number of broken mainsprings, to be sure," was the reply. "There is a regular epidemic to which watches are subject, much as humanity is to smallpox and cholera. It is produced by certain electric conditions of the atmosphere. The mainspring becomes magnetized and more brittle, and a slight shock will break it. Occasionally it will snap with no apparent cause whatever. I have had it happen to watches lying in the showcase or upon the rack there. You know, of course, that such atmospheric conditions frequently disturb telegraph and telephone lines and even prevent communication. That might be expected, as they are operated by electricity, but the effect on watches is singular. Frequently even a severe thunderstorm will produce it, but an auroral display, which seems to be an electrical disturbance, is sure to result in many broken watch springs, and no better term could be applied to the trouble than epidemic.

"No, there is no reliable protection against it, though many things have been tried and many thousands of dollars have been spent. Attempts have been made to temper the springs by electricity, a sort of inoculation against the disease. Then a small plate or disk of soft iron placed within the case to absorb the magnetism, a disinfectant, so to speak, has given some good results. "Do you know," he continued in a discursive tone, "that a watch is similar in many ways to a human being? It has its diseases and decays, its epidemics, old age and finally dissolution. Yes, and each watch has its individuality and special characteristics, and the finer the watch the stronger this personality, if it can be so called, exactly as culture develops and strengthens individual character among mankind.

"Now, in this epidemic this watch feels the atmospheric condition as you do before a thunderstorm, only more acutely, as does a gouty or rheumatic person, being specially susceptible to such influence, and, perhaps having an inherent weakness at one point in the mainspring that snaps, fractures a vital organ. 'Heart failure' it might be termed, for the mainspring of the watch is its heart, its driving force. True, we can replace the mainspring, which cannot be said for the human heart, but there is no telling how soon surgery will attain that result.

"Then there's the hairspring of the watch, equivalent to its brain. It is affected by proximity to a strong localized electric force—for instance, the generator or dynamo of an electric plant. It becomes magnetized and stops—a sort of paralysis. The nonmagnetic watches have hairsprings made of a composition metal, tin, zinc and other varieties. The soft iron plate or disk I mentioned before gives protection to the hairspring as well as the mainspring by absorbing the magnetism. A few years since a number of railroad companies had these iron disks applied to the watches of many of their employees, but they are by no means a complete disinfectant.

"The lever of a watch also is subject to electric influences, and when polarized, having a forked end, it becomes a regular horseshoe magnet and first retards, then stops the hairspring—a sort of spinal meningitis, you see.

"The jewels and bearings are its joints and processes and are subject to sprains and dislocations as well as inflammation or too much friction. Any severe shock may result in a sprain or even dislocation to these joints. The latter will stop it and probably have immediate attention, while the sprain may remain unnoticed, but will render its movement irregular and eventually cause far greater injury than an actual breaking of the joints. At seas on the approach of a storm the ship's chronometers, of which three are usually carried, are put to bed, as it is called, being packed in pillows to prevent injury by sudden jar from the ship's violent motion. A few minutes' error in the time of making observations might throw a vessel many miles out of its course.

"Then a watch has a kind of rheumatism. The oil with which its joints are lubricated dries and forms corrosion, which irritates and cuts the pinions and bearings, creating friction or inflammation.

"Dirt to a watch, like biliousness to humanity, is its most frequent, disagreeable and least dangerous ailment. It comes from all sorts of things—small fibers from the pocket, fine dust, microscopic matter from many sources, work through into the case and collectively disturb, retard and finally prevent motion altogether. The system becomes clogged, and a thorough cleaning out is the only corrective. In both these latter diseases atmospheric conditions materially influence the patient's condition, dry, dusty weather hastening the development and rendering the attack more acute. Rust or consumption is as deadly to a watch as to humanity, and after it reaches a certain stage is incurable. Once in the system its effects are never wholly eradicated, and a warm, moist atmosphere may at any time induce a return of the disease."—Chicago Tribune.

Castoria. "Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. Osmond, Lowell, Mass. "Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves." Dr. J. F. KINCHLOE, Conway, Ark. "Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it." THERE IS NO BETTER ADVERTISING MEDIUM THAN Golden Days, AND THE RATES ARE MODERATE. Subscriptions to "GOLDEN DAYS," $3.00 per annum, $1.50 per six months, $1.00 per four months, all payable in advance. Single numbers, six cents each. We pay postage on all United States and Canada subscriptions. All communications, business or otherwise, must be addressed to JAMES ELVERSON, Publisher, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE title of GOLDEN DAYS was an inspiration, and the paper itself has been a revelation. Our golden days are childhood and youth, when all nature is bright and the future shows no cloud. It is the period when the mind is formed for good or evil, and, in many respects, is the most important period of life. Its broad and generous pages, coming every week all the year round, contain more reading than any other periodical in America. That is one reason; but the other and better reason is, that all the reading is just what the boys and girls want. To keep GOLDEN DAYS up to this standard, to make it bright, breezy, and abreast with the times, requires writers who understand boy-and-girl nature; and it has them. Hundreds of thousands of boys and girls all over the world do not need to be told anything about their favorite paper, and we feel sure that GOLDEN DAYS will commend itself to many new readers in whose hands it may fall. Every number of GOLDEN DAYS contains liberal instalments of four serials, together with Stories of Adventure, Articles on Science and Natural History, Our Letter Box, Puzzles, Humorous Miscellany, Illustrated Sketches, and other interesting matter, and there is not a dull or common place line from the first page to the last. Send your address or a postal card and you will receive a specimen copy of GOLDEN DAYS.

LITERARY NOTES.

One of the two serials now running in Littell's Living Age is entitled "Manette Andrey, or Life during the Reign of Terror," by Paul Perret, the brilliant and versatile Parisian Novelist.—Pub. weekly by Littell & Co., Boston, Mass.

The February Century will contain an article on "The Tramp at Home," by the young man who writes under the name of "Josiah Flynt," and who has already contributed several articles on tramp-life to The Century. The Century Co., New York.

Under the sarcastic heading of "Beauties of the Income Tax Law" a number of the inconsistencies of this bill are pointed, and other objectionable features duly condemned. "Tammany and Republican Bosses," is the title of another article sure to please lovers of civil service reform.—The Nation New York.

The January Overland Monthly contains several noteworthy articles. One by Millicent W. Shine bears the novel title "Some Comments on Babies" that with the large number of attractive illustrations is sure to interest all. Jacob Voorsanger writes on "A Modern Jewish View of Jesus of Nazareth." A number of clever stories besides biography, poetry, etc., complete this most pleasing initial number of the New Year, Cleveland Pub. Co., San Francisco, Cal.

The March number of the Atlantic Monthly opens with the third installment of Mrs. Deland's "Philip and his Wife." Charles Egbert Craddock's "His Vanished Star" appears for the last time before its publication, as now completed, in book form. The Rev. Walter Mitchell's "Two Strings to his Bow" is also included—in its second part. The remaining piece of fiction is a fanciful, pathetic tale of New England, "The Fore-Room Rug," by Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin.—Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, Mass.

What effect will the Wilson bill have on the business interests of the country? This is a question which is uppermost in the public mind. The Presidents of the Chambers of Commerce at New York, Boston, San Francisco and New Orleans have set forth their views on the subject in a timely and important symposium entitled "Home Industries and the Wilson Bill" that will appear in the March number of the North American Review.—North American Review, N. Y. City, N. Y.

The latest number of this exceptionally first-class attractive home magazine is one of the best ever published. The leading article, entitled "Scenes in the Snake River Valley," by Professor S. Frederic Wright, of Oberlin College, is an account of a trip taken for scientific purposes through nearly the whole length of this strange and desolate region. Mrs. Livermore's serial, "One of the Forty-niners," gains steadily in interest. Another interesting paper of historical value, is that relating to "The Fate of Aaron Burr's Daughter." The short stories, essays and poems are exceptionally good.—A. D. Worthington & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The personality of a famous man can, at times be brought delightfully close to us, and this is particularly true of the picture we get of Nathaniel Hawthorne in his youngest daughter's description of "My Father's Literary Methods" in the March Ladies' Home Journal. Many mothers will cause to Mrs. Burton Kingsland before she finishes her series of articles on the wisest training of "A Daughter at Sixteen," the first article appearing in this issue. The Rev. Lyman Abbott writes vigorously and critically of the different relations of a church to its choir, and Mrs. A. D. Whitney gives the second of her delightful "Friendly Letters to Girl Friends." Published by The Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia for one dollar per year.

Scribner's Magazine for March opens with the second article by Joel Chandler Harris on "The Sea Island Hurricanes"—this one dealing especially with the great relief work which is being conducted by Miss Clara Barton and the Red Cross Society.

Two articles of very practical interest to dwellers in American cities are entitled "The High Building of Its Art," by Barr Ferree (one of the editors of the Engineering Magazine), who speaks with the authority of a skilled architect, and "The Cable Street-Railway," by Philip G. Hubert, Jr. author of "Inventors."

A travel article of particular interest at this season is a description of "Subtropical Florida," by Charles Richards Dodge (of the Agricultural Department), who has made a number of interesting tours in the Southern part of the peninsula of Florida, where few travelers go. The illustration by Chapman, from a fine collection of photographs, are unusually attractive.—Scribner & Sons—N. Y. City, N. Y.

DANGER AHEAD.

HEED THE WARNING.

A Simple Case of Piles the Forerunner of Incurable, Fatal Rectal Troubles.

An ordinary case of piles is one of the commonest afflictions of humanity. While they are extremely annoying, yet men and women will endure them for months and years, off and on, because they are not immediately fatal, and as long as they can get around and perform the daily duties of life they suffer on in the hope that in some way or other the trouble will pass away of its own accord, without any other treatment than a little salve or ointment occasionally. Now, in the very nature of the disease this will never happen.

It is absolutely certain to grow worse, passing away for a time and returning, until before you are aware of it, an ulcer has formed and the beginning of the much dreaded fistula has been made and then, what was at first a simple case of common, everyday piles, becomes an even chance between life and death. A surgical operation, with all its attendant horrors, uncertainties and danger to life, becomes necessary.

Although the Pyramid Pile Cure is just as valuable in the advance stages of rectal disease, yet the time to use it is at the beginning. A single package will then affect a complete cure in nearly every instance, in fact, two or three applications often do the work. The Pyramid Pile Cure is well known to be a certain cure for Piles in every form, but we take pleasure in publishing the experiences of sufferers, especially when such commendation is entirely unsought by us. Mr. H. H. Hoffman of Huntington, W. Va., writes:

I have used your Pyramid Pile Cure and consider it a perfect remedy for Piles. If you want an agent write me your terms and I can do some good work for you as everybody here knows how badly I suffered and they also know I am now entirely cured.

From Mrs. S. E. Deitzer, Union Deposit, Pa.: Please accept thanks for your Pyramid Pile Cure. It has done me such great good in so short a time and at so little expense.

From Mrs. Nancy W. Shaw, La-Crosse, Wis.: I am more than pleased with the benefit I have received from the Pyramid Pile Cure, I need but one package. I shall write you again soon.

From R. Witherell, Shoreham, Vt.: The package of Pyramid Pile Cure I received last November has entirely cured me of itching piles, I have tried various remedies for over forty years. I shall always keep a package of this splendid remedy on hand. There are others I think would be glad to try it when I can see them and tell them what it has done for me. Accept my heartfelt thanks.

Letters like this are daily received received by the Pyramid Pile Co., of Albion, Mich., who manufacture this remedy. It is sold by druggists everywhere and every druggist has a good word to say for it as they know better than anyone else the satisfaction it always gives to their customers.

Five Famous Etchings.

The Passenger Department of the New York Central has just issued a series of five beautiful etchings, which artistically outrank anything of the kind ever issued by a railroad company, while the absence of any advertising feature renders them suitable for hanging in your office, library or home.

No. 1 is "Washington Bridge," which spans the Harlem River at 151st street one of the finest bridges in the world, and a marvel of engineering in the distance is High Bridge, the Croton Viaduct in the foreground a characteristic river scene that will be recognized by any one at all familiar with the locality.

No. 2—"Rock of Ages, Niagara Falls," from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A view that has been admired by every one who has seen it. The soft tones in which it is printed add greatly to the effect of the falling waters and spray.

No. 3—"Old Spring at West Point," also from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A romantic scene recalling memories of summer days at the famous military academy.

No. 4—"999 and the DeWitt Clinton." The famous Empire State Express engine "999," which occasioned such widespread comment at the World's Fair, occupies the top-half of the card, and below appears the old "DeWitt Clinton," affording a truly remarkable example of the progress of railroad science in the past fifty years.

No. 5—"Rounding the Nose, Mohawk Valley." One of the handsomest railroad pictures ever made. The scene is just below Little Falls.

These etchings are all printed on fine plate paper, 24x32 inches, suitable for framing. Copies may be procured at the office of W. B. Jerome, General Western Passenger Agent, 97 Clark Street, Chicago, for fifty cents each, or will be mailed in stiff tubes, secure from injury, to any address, for 75 cents each, or any four of them will be mailed to any one address for $2.50, or the entire set of five will be mailed to any one address for $3.00 in currency, stamps, express or postal money order by GEORGE H. DANIELS, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

Every parent and guardian should see to it that their children start with No 1, and keep it up to the end, and every young man or woman, who has a desire to master a knowledge of book keeping, should take advantage of the offer of a life time. Read the advertisement in another column and then bring or send to this office the coupons with 10 cents. No extra charge for copies sent by mail.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I had lost the sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did; my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh.—Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Redrill, Perry Co., O.

Bay State Etiquette.

Wingate—It must be a queer kind of etiquette they teach at that boarding school Miss Flynne has just graduated from.

Walker—Why so?
Wingate—Oh, nothing. Only I kissed her in the hallway in the dark the other night, and she said "Thanks!"—Somerville Journal.

Don't Put It Off.

The necessity of a spring medicine is universally admitted. This is the best time of year in which to purify the blood, to restore the lost appetite, and to build up the entire system, as the body is now peculiarly susceptible to benefit from medicine. The great popularity attained by Hood's Sarsaparilla, owing to its real merit and its remarkable success, has established it in the very best medicine to take in the spring. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all humors, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaints, catarrh, and all affections caused or promoted by the state of the system or impure blood. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good.

West Virginia.
West Virginia, with less than 800,000 inhabitants, has but three cities and is essentially a rural and half settled region. In spite of her enormous wealth in timber and mines also, many of her counties number only a handful of people. No West Virginia county has 50,000 inhabitants, and only 10 have more than 20,000, while 19 have less than 10,000 and two less than 5,000. In many of the mountainous counties the conditions of life are simple to the last degree, and the people are far removed from the great currents of national life in spirit as well as in distance and time.—New York Sun.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy I have ever used. I have never seen a case of Catarrh that failed to be cured by it. I have not felt so well for a long time. I had to be troubled with it for two or three months.—J. A. Alcorn, Agt U. P. R. R., West Virginia.

SAILED THE SEAS 38 YEARS.

One of His Experiences.

For thirty-eight years Capt. Lodholz followed the sea, most of that time as master of a vessel, and upon retiring from the water was appointed by the Secretary of the United States Treasury to superintend the seal fisheries in Alaska, which position he held five years. He relates one experience as follows:
"For several years I had been troubled with general nervousness and pain in the region of my heart. My greatest affliction was sleepless rest; it was almost impossible at any time to obtain rest and sleep. Having seen Dr. Miles' Remedies advertised I began using Nervine. After taking a small quantity the benefit received was so great that I was positively alarmed, thinking the remedy contained opiates which would finally be injurious to me; but on being assured by the druggist that it was perfectly harmless, I continued it together with the Heart Cure. Today I can conscientiously say that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure did more for me than anything I had ever taken. I had been treated by eminent physicians in New York and San Francisco without benefit. I owe my present good health to the judicious use of these most valuable remedies, and heartily recommend them to all afflicted as I was."
—Capt. A. P. Lodholz, Hampden, Me.
Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, express prepaid. They are free from all opiates and dangerous drugs.

A MOST MYSTERIOUS VISION.
An Uncanny Dream in Which Major Andre's Fate was Depicted.
The following instance may serve to strikingly justify Colquhoun's theory that there is an original spiritual energy expressed in dreams which has nothing to do with the state of the body and is beyond the power of the soul when it has been reabsorbed by the material organization on awaking.

Prior to his embarkation for America at the outbreak of the Revolutionary war Major Andre went to visit a friend, Miss Rebecca Steward, who lived in Derbyshire. During his stay it was arranged that they should ride over to view the wonders of the famous Peak. It was also Miss Steward's desire to introduce the major to some friends in the neighborhood, including a Mr. Newton and the curate of the parish, Mr. Cunningham. She had given both these gentlemen notice of her intention, and while awaiting her arrival Mr. Cunningham took occasion to tell Mr. Newton the circumstances of a dream he had had the night before, which affected him so that he could not shake off the recollection of it.

He said that he was standing in the midst of a forest that was entirely strange to him. After gazing listlessly around him for a few moments he perceived a horseman approaching at great speed. As the latter came opposite the spot where the dreamer stood three men who seemed to have been lying in ambush sprang from their place of concealment, and seizing the bridle of the horse ordered the rider to dismount. They then carefully searched his person and led him away. The face, figure and bearing of the horseman made so deep an impression upon Mr. Cunningham's mind that he awoke, but falling asleep again presently dreamed that he was one of a throng of spectators near a great city; that he saw the same person he had seen seized in the wood brought out between files of soldiers, who marched him to a gallows and there hanged him. When Major Andre and Miss Steward arrived, Mr. Cunningham was horror struck to discover in the person of Miss Steward's friend the very man whose seizure and execution he had witnessed in his dream.

Here was an accurate anticipation of events that actually happened within 12 months from the date of the dream. The capture of Andre, the search of his person for documents that convicted him for acting the part of a spy and his public execution constitute one of the most dramatic episodes of the contest with the mother country. How is it imaginable that so definite a vision of coming events could arise from the influence of any physical condition on the mind of the sleeper? What possible state of the body could confer upon the soul the power to describe future occurrences with such exact fidelity to details?—New York Times.

THE REINCARNATION THEORY.
A Beautiful Explanation That was Painful in Its Final Application.
Landlord Allan is always looking for a good thing and always recognizes it when he sees it. This he found in a Washington paper, and the local application makes it the more interesting.

If there is a good story born in Washington, it is a two to one shot that its cradle will lie in the back parlor of John Chamberlin's. Dr. Edward Bedloe came over from Philadelphia one night and sat therein entertaining a choice group of friends with tales of the far east. In the edge of the group sat a man from Pennsylvania, who had come over from Pottsville on some government contracting business. He was all ears and eagerness. His name was Strauss. Finally the restraint became too intense, and he broke loose.

"Doctor," said he, "what is dot new relichan I hears off about China? My wife has got it ferry bad, and I don't understand it."
"Tell me the name," said Bedloe. "Is it Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Shintoism, Taoism, Confucianism or what?"
"Oh, it is no isms, but der name is like a tramp's migrashun of der soul, ain'd it?"
"Oh, you doubtless mean transmigration of the soul."
"Yab, dot's it. You dell me about dot."
"Certainly. Transmigration of the soul is a very pretty poetic doctrine of metempsychosis which our friends of the Theosophical society have borrowed from the far east."
"Here, here, toctor! Tell me vot dot means, so I can understand what you vos talking about."
"All right, I will tell you in plain language. Take yourself, for instance. You live to the allotted age of three-score years and ten, and then you pass away. Your soul goes into the body of a bird—a canary, we'll say—and from your gilded cage you fill a lady's boudoir with the melody, living a life of luxury and fed from the dainty fingers of beauty."
"Oh, dot is peautiful, peautiful! I like dot!"
"And then you die again, and your soul goes into a lovely flower in a garden, and you fill all the air with your fragrance and delight the eyes with your exquisite color and delicacy of petals."
"Ah, dot is fine! I like dot relichan."
"As I was saying when you interrupted me, you live the life of a flower, until one day a donkey gets into the garden, and attracted by your loveliness he eats you, and your soul passes into the donkey."
"Yah, yah."
"When some former acquaintance comes along, strokes your long ears and says: 'Why, Strauss, is it you? How little you have changed!'"—Pottsville (Pa.) Republican.

In his story of the last moments of Lincoln Horatio King relates that Stanton, when the attending physician, with his finger on the great martyr's pulse, announced that the end had come, said with deep feeling, "He now belongs to the ages."

COSTA RICA.
The Resources of This Little Central American Republic.
Costa Rica's name indicates her richness. Everything will grow within her 23,333 square miles of territory. The favored people number 214,000. Costa Rica is the great banana country. The cultivation of the banana has increased greatly to meet the demand from the United States. Wheat and other grains are produced. The forests abound in valuable timber. Rare woods for cabinet work and medicinal and oleaginous plants are found, as well as rubber, textile plants and dye woods. Costa Rica, according to the latest statistics, has 250,000 head of cattle, 50,000 horses and other animals. She is also rich in gold, silver, coffee, zinc, nickel, iron, lead and coal. Manufacturing has made some headway. There are breweries, iron and tool foundries and a distillery in Costa Rica. The principal articles that country buys are silk, wools, linen and cotton goods, toilet articles, wines, liquors, flour, refined sugar, wearing apparel and leather goods. The total foreign commerce of that country amounted last year to nearly $13,000,000. The United States has recently superseded England in the commercial good graces of Costa Rica. Last year the United States sold to Costa Rica more than one-fourth of her total imports, and took from her 40,000 tons of bananas, 45,000 sacks of coffee and altogether nearly $3,000,000 worth of goods and bullion.—Chicago News.

Politest Man in Washington.
We must all do good in the world according to our natural endowments and the opportunities afforded us. The other day I was riding in a comfortably filled street car when there entered three young women dressed in the narrow sheath skirts of the period. A jolly, portly old gentleman got up to give one of the pretty girls a seat, which she took with a gracious acknowledgment. She seemed rather lost, however, in the generous space vacated by the Pickwickian frame of the old gentleman, so she moved along far enough to let one of her companions share the benefit. Now, whether the passengers crowded together imperceptibly or whatever may have happened, the two slender young women did not take up the whole seat, and the third blushing squeezed into what was left of it. By this time the other people in the car were too much amused to conceal their smiles, and the old gentleman himself was one vast glow of satisfaction. "It isn't all of you who are fitted to perform such a wholesale act of gallantry," said he, in a low tone, to a friend in the corner of the car.—Kate Field's Washington.

Sunflower-Seed Oil.
In 1842 a Russian farmer named Bokareff conceived the idea of extracting oil from the seed of the sunflower. His neighbors told him it was a visionary idea and that he would have his labor for his pains. He persevered, however, and from that humble beginning the industry has expanded to enormous proportions. To-day more than seven hundred thousand acres of land in Russia are devoted to the cultivation of the sunflower. The area devoted to the crop has nearly doubled in five years. Two kinds of sunflowers are grown, one with small seeds, which are crushed for oil, and the other with large seeds, that are consumed by the common people in enormous quantities, very much as people eat peanuts in the United States.

All of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the south door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county, that being the place of holding the circuit court for the said county of Washtenaw, on Saturday, the 21st day of April, 1894, next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day.
