

THE UNIVERSITY FUNDS.

THEY ARE NOT INVOLVED IN THE ST. JOHNS FAILURE.

Ex-Senator Ingalls at University Hall.—Death of Prof. Emil Baur.—A Great Fake.—Gregory an Imbecile.—Death of William Wallace Bliss.

Developments prove that the transactions of the Michigan Mortgage Co., of St. Johns, which recently assigned, covered some remarkable financial mismanagement, if not fraud. About $70,000 of the liabilities of the company consists of money paid by mortgagors who supposed that their mortgages had been discharged. As a matter of fact, these mortgages were not discharged, and neither was the money so received turned over to those holding the mortgages. This money was used by the company in various ways, leaving the mortgagors to believe that their mortgages were still outstanding, and the mortgagors to believe that their mortgages had been discharged.

This loss of $70,000 will therefore fall on those who invested their money and not on those who borrowed. A further liability is the lump sum of $20,000 of borrowed money.

Its plan of operation has been simple. It first started years ago under the title of Cutler & Walker, who were simple money loaners. About 1883 this firm was succeeded by Walker & White, who conducted the same business, and in August, 1889, this firm merged into the Michigan Mortgage Co., limited. The limited part of the firm's title indicates that it cannot be held liable for a greater amount than its capital stock paid in.

The company started out with a nominal capital of $75,000, but only $67,000 has been paid in, the latter amount representing what the stockholders are liable for in gross sum. The company's purpose was to act as an agent for those who desired to invest their money profitably. That is all the object it had, except, of course, to make money in the shape of commissions for its services.

Prof. A. H. Pattengill, professor of Greek in the University, is a stockholder to the extent of $3,000. He has been a considerable investor in the securities of the company, the extent of which cannot be stated, except that the aggregate is to the extent of very many thousand dollars. A number of members of the faculty of the University have been investors, but are not believed to be involved in the company embarrassment at the present time.

The late Prof. Olney, of the University, bequeathed $5,000 to the Kalamazoo college, which was invested by him in the Michigan Mortgage Co., limited.

Walker says that the alumni funds were not involved in the failure, but had been kept separate. Walker asked to have a committee of the alumni audit his accounts as treasurer, but it has not yet been done. The officers of the Alumni association are Solicitor-General Maxwell, of Cincinnati, president; W. J. Stewart, Grand Rapids, vice-president; Prof. George Hempf, Ann Arbor, secretary; E. E. White, St. Johns; A. P. Jacobs and E. S. Sherrill, Detroit, directors. Only three University professors are stockholders. Many others hold mortgages.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS OF KANSAS.

He Delivers a Great Lecture at University Hall.

Ex-Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, addressed an audience of nearly 2,000 people at University Hall, Friday evening on "Hard Times; Their Cause and Cure."

"One of the main causes of hard times," said the speaker, "is the indifference manifested by the educated and enlightened classes to the great questions of the day." Among these questions are wages and the common school system. There is a growing element, which questions the right to levy a tax to support the schools, the right to read the Bible in them and even the right to recognize the existence of the Almighty being.

"The cry is heard about cuckoo congressmen and a senate composed of millionaires, but you will find that the cuckoo congressman has a cuckoo constituency behind him and the senate likewise. The election of a judge in New York last fall shows that the people can do what they want to. If the educated and intelligent people would watch the primaries there would be less chance to complain.

"The people of this country," continued Mr. Ingalls, "have as good a government as they are entitled to. When I was here two years ago the country was prosperous. Since that time seventy-five railroad companies have become insolvent and there are 2,000,000 citizens out of employment, while one-fourth of the people are in want of daily bread."

Mr. Ingalls ridiculed the theories of over-production and over-population advanced by the political economists of today, but said that he agreed with them on one point and that was on the over-population of the foreigners.

"I am a protectionist and if I had my way I would not have an article brought here at less than it can be manufactured for, but I would also protect the American laborer as well as American labor. Hard times will go far toward being cured in this country when we have laws that will keep our foreign population on the father shores and that no man shall be allowed to deposit a ballot unless he can read, write and speak the English language."

DEATH OF PROF. E. BAUR.

Found in an Unconscious Condition in a Woodshed.

Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock Willie Baur found his father, Prof. Emil Baur, lying on the floor of a wood shed in the rear of his residence in an unconscious condition, but still breathing. He expired soon after. A few minutes before entering the woodshed, the deceased was seen conversing with his neighbor, Mr. Bucholz. He had been suffering for a long time from heart disease and had just recovered from a severe attack of the grip. The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at his late residence on Dexter ave. Rev. Henry Tatlock, of St. Andrew's church, officiated at the house; and Rev. William Hanson, of Detroit, at the grave. Herman Baur, of St. Louis, Mo., Miss Clara Baur and Paul Baur, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Rev. Herman Herzer, of Berea, Ohio, and Rev. Gustav Herzer, of Nashville, Tenn., were in attendance at the funeral.

Prof. Baur was born in Wurttemberg, Germany, in 1830. He came to the United States in 1852, settling in Detroit where he was pastor of a German M. E. chapel. In 1857 he married Miss Bertha Herzer, of Grass Lake. In the same year he, with others, founded a colony called Ora Labora, near Caseville, Huron county. It was aided by the Economy Society, of Pittsburg, Pa., which after the colony was abandoned, took the land off the colonists' hands and appointed Prof. Baur its agent. In the year 1861 he came to Ann Arbor and purchased his home on Dexter ave., where he died. He received the appointment of teacher of German in the High School, which he held some years. He was a very active member of the Washtenaw Horticultural Society and took great interest in all fruit growing. He was a writer of note, contributing to many German and English papers. His widow and seven children, five sons Bertrand, Emil, Herman, William and Arthur, and two daughters, Bertha and Wanda, survive him.

THE BATTLE OF LIFE OVER.

William Wallace Bliss Has Fought His Last Fight.

William Wallace Bliss died at Pontiac Sunday evening. His remains were brought to this city for burial, and the funeral services were held from his residence, No. 20 E. William-st., Wednesday afternoon. His wife, one son, George, and two daughters, Mamie and Ida, survive him.

The deceased was a musician in the 20th infantry during the war. He witnessed many terrible engagements of blood and carnage. He saw many brave boys in blue fighting in defense of the Union, in defense of the honor and integrity of our flag. He saw them fall. He heard their last cry on earth, "Hurrah for the Union!" and he saw them die, while he aided in cheering on to battle by playing his instrument in a dance of death. The war is over and the old hero is dead. He has gone to join his comrades with the great army which is gathering on the distant shore. For him the battles and storms of life are over, and the old soldier rests in his grave. A monument of stone will mark his grave, and its inscription will inform passers by that a here lies buried here. Years will come and pass into eternity, when Time, the Great Destroyer, will leave his marks on his monument of stone, when it, too, will fall and crumble, and the sleeping soldier will be forgotten. Such is life and such is death!

The New Washtenaw Post.

Mr. Helber's German paper, the "Neue Washtenaw Post," made its appearance Friday last. The new Post is a large nine-column quarto, and is filled with city and county news. The advertisements, of which the new paper has a large number, are very artistically "set" and arranged, giving the Post a very handsome appearance. In his salutatory announcement, Mr. Helber says the New Post will be independent in politics, that it will not attempt to interfere with any party or person too severely, but will rather aim to praise the good and beneficial wherever found. THE REGISTER congratulates the publisher on the handsome appearance of his paper and wishes success.

Rev. Dr. McLean spoke in Newberry Hall Thursday on "The Success of Missions."

A GREAT FAKE.

The Story of the Morgan Levy Humbug.

Judge E. D. Kinne, one of the executors of the Lucy M. Morgan estate, says that the story published by the newspapers of the state that the title to a vast tract of land in this city and Washtenaw county was involved in the affairs of E. W. Morgan, deceased, is a fake.

"The whole story has not even the merit of being a fake," said the Judge to a reporter of a Detroit newspaper. "Many years ago Mr. Lant, of Indiana, obtained a judgment for some $10,000 against Mr. Morgan. No attempt was ever made to collect it until Mr. Morgan became an imbecile, and Mrs. Morgan was dead.

"Since those events an effort has been made to compel the estate of Mrs. Morgan to pay her husband's debt. Levies have been made long ago upon the property of the estate of Mrs. Morgan, sufficient to pay the debt several times over. I am one of the executors of the estate of Mrs. Morgan. It is my duty to protect her property and see that it is distributed according to her wishes. I do not believe her estate should pay the debts of her husband. But however that may be, no other property in this city or anywhere else is involved, except the present estate of Mrs. Morgan and the property that may have been conveyed to Mr. Parker.

"This omnibus levy upon the property of others is not only the veriest humbug, but is a personal outrage upon the parties interested. My only reason in speaking is that our silence might not be misunderstood by the public."

LECTURES IN NEWBERRY HALL.

By a Life Long Worker in Missionary Enterprises.

Mr. A. McLean, Secretary of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society of the Church of Christ, delivered a series of lectures during the past week under the auspices of the Bible Chairs in Newberry Hall. On Sunday morning, March 4th, he addressed the Students' Christian Association on "The Heroism of Missions", where in the most interesting manner and with a large fund of material drawn from the study of missionary work, he described the heroism of the men and women who have given their lives in distant lands to the spread of the Gospel. On Monday evening at five o'clock, he began a series of lectures under the auspices of the Bible Chairs, speaking on four successive days at five P. M. upon the themes, "The Gospel for all Nations", "The Missionary Idea in the New Testament", "The History of Missions" and "The Success of Missions." Those who listened to these addresses expressed themselves as greatly entertained and instructed. Mr. McLean is a life long worker in missionary enterprises and is conversant with the best literature and information on the subject.

GREGORY AN IMBECILE.

His Mind Has Left Him and He Recognizes It.

Orla C. Gregory, who robbed the Dexter Savings Bank, is an imbecile. Drs. Vaughan, of this city, and Chase, of Detroit, have been attending him. They say it is doubtful whether he will recover. After he was taken home on the morning of the robbery, his mind left him, and since that time he has never recovered sufficiently to recognize his parents and wife who have been his attendants.

Orla C. Gregory's grandmother, on his mother's side, Mary Paul, hung herself at Auburn, N. Y., while insane. The belief is that Orla Gregory, who was a favorite of his grandfather, Hon. C. S. Gregory, has brooded over the fact that nothing was left to him by his will, until his mind had become unbalanced.

It is not probable that Gregory will be arrested, as the bank officials are showing a disposition not to prosecute as they believe he acted on an insane impulse.

Ann Arbor Banks Sue O. M. and O. F. Barnes for $36,919.21.

The Mason News says: In the Circuit court during the past week judgments by inquest, for large amounts, have been taken against O. M. and O. F. Barnes and their Iron and Engine Works and Lansing Wheel Co. as follows: For First National Bank of Ann Arbor, five judgments amounting to $23,749.75; for Farmers' and Mechanics Bank of Ann Arbor, $5,355.72; for Ann Arbor Savings Bank, $7,812.74, making a total of $36,919.21.

Looks Like Tally.

Fitzgibbon, the able staff correspondent of the Detroit Evening News, in reporting the Stonewall J. DeFrance trial at Ka'amazoo writes: DeFrance's sister, Mary DeFrance, came from her home in Mercer, Penn., last Monday and his brother, Powell De France, of Cincinnati, who looks like Robert G. Ingersoll and also like Stonewall, but not nearly so much like the latter as does a well-known Washtenaw county editor, got here a few days ago. Wonder who it is?

Right or Wrong?

In these times a merchant may just as well plant broomsticks and expect blossoms as to try and build a business on mere "buncombe." The fellow who follows this fallacy may think he is plucking Apples of Gold from the Gardens of Hesperides—but he isn't. When the public "get on to him" they do it with both feet and—

THE TARIFF BILL

Senate Committee Makes Changes in the House Measure.

Synopsis of the Principal Ones—A Duty on Coal, Iron and Sugar—The Income Tax Feature Retained.

REPORTED THE BILL.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The tariff bill as amended has been reported to the senate finance committee and given to the public. It represents the deliberations of five weeks. The chief changes in the bill by the senate committee are in the sugar, whisky, iron and lead, the duty on the first two being advanced and the last two being taken off the free list and put on the dutiable list.

The New Amendments.

The changes and comparisons with the bill as it came from the house follow:

Iron ore, including manganese iron ore, also the dross or residuum from burnt pyrites, 30 cents per ton.

Iron in pigs, iron kettles, spigotless, ferro silico, 25 1/2 per cent ad valorem.

All iron in slabs, blooms, loops or other forms more advanced than pig iron and less finished than iron in bars, 25 per cent ad valorem.

Beams, girders, joists and all other shapes of iron or steel, whether plain or punched, or fitted for use, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Boiler or other plate or steel, except saw plates heretofore provided for, not thinner than No. 19 wire gauge, sheared or unshaped, and skip iron or steel, sheared or rolled in grooves, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Forgings of iron or steel, or forged iron or steel combined, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Hoop, band or scroll iron or steel, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Railway bars made of iron or steel, and railway bars made in part of steel, rails and punched iron or steel flat rails, 25 1/2 per cent ad valorem.

Coal, bituminous and shale, 40 cents per ton; coal or slack or culm, 15 cents per ton; coke, 15 per cent ad valorem.

In paragraph 118 the proviso that the reduction provided for as to sheets of iron or steel thinner than No. 25 wire gauge shall take effect on October 1, 1894, is stricken out, as is also a like proviso in paragraph 121 relating to tin plates, terms of sale and "layers" tin.

Boiler or other tubes, pipes, flues or stays of wrought iron or steel, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Cast-iron pipe of every description, 20 per cent ad valorem.

In paragraph 123 shears and scissors are added to the list of articles on which a duty of 45 per cent is levied.

Wood, screws, 30 per cent (Wilson bill, 35). Gold and silver leaf, 30 per cent (Wilson bill, 25).

On webbings, gorings, suspenders, braces, bindings, brads, galleons, fringes, gimps, cords, cords and tassels, dress trimmings, laces and embroideries, head nets, buttons or barrel buttons, or buttons of other forms for tassels or ornaments, made of wool or of worsted, 35 per cent ad valorem.

The provision in the Wilson bill to the effect that "on all rates of duty the wools schedule, except in carpets, there shall be a reduction of 1 per cent ad valorem, to take effect July 1, 1894, and thereafter of a like amount on July 1, 1897, 1898, 1899 and 1900 respectively," is stricken out.

Lead Ore.

Lead ore and lead dross, three-fourths of 1 cent per pound. Provided, that silver ore and all other ores containing lead shall pay a duty of three-fourths of 1 cent per pound on the lead contained therein, according to sample and assay at the port of entry.

Pens, metallic, except gold pens, 30 per cent ad valorem.

Manufactured articles or wares, not specially provided for in this act, composed wholly or in part of any metal and whether partly or wholly manufactured, 30 per cent ad valorem.

In the internal revenue section is a new provision directing the president to immediately notify the Hawaiian government that the United States will terminate in twelve months the treaty with Hawaii made in 1857.

No change is made in the rates fixed by the Wilson bill on imported tobacco.

Wool and Manufactures of Wool. Paragraph 279—"On wool of the sheep, hair of the camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals, in the form of roving, roping or tops," the Wilson bill is changed so as to make only one rate of 35 per cent ad valorem.

A like change is made in the paragraph relating to wools and worsted yarns made wholly or in part of wool, worsted, the hair of the camel, goat, alpaca or other animals, and the whole put at 30 per cent ad valorem.

On wools or worsted cloths, shawls, knit fabrics, not specially provided for in this act, 35 per cent ad valorem.

The paragraph relating to blankets, hats of wool, and flannels for underwear and felt for paper-making and printing machines is changed so as to make only one classification where the valuation is more than 30 cents per pound and the duty for all is left at 30 per cent ad valorem.

On women's and children's dress goods, coat linings, Italian cloth, busting and goods of similar description not specially provided for in this act, 35 per cent ad valorem.

On clothing, ready made, and articles of wearing apparel of every description, felt not worn and finishes and other pile fabrics and imitations of fur, 40 per cent ad valorem.

Sugar Schedule.

The portion of the bill repealing the sugar bounty is left intact and the following provision is inserted:

"All sugars, tank bottoms, sirups of cane juice or of beet juice, melado, concentrated molasses, molasses, molasses testing by the polariscope not above 80 degrees shall pay a duty of 1 cent per pound, and for every additional degree of fraction of a degree above 80 and not above 90 degrees shown by the polariscope shall pay a duty of 2-100 of a cent per pound additional; and above 90 and not above 95 degrees for every additional degree on fraction of a degree shown by the polariscope, test shall pay a duty of 2-100 of a cent per pound additional; and above 95 degrees by polariscope test shall pay a duty of 1-10 of a cent per pound; molasses testing not above 55 degrees by the polariscope shall pay a duty of 3 cents per gallon; molasses testing above 55 degrees shall pay a duty of 4 cents per gallon. No other changes are made."

Income Tax Retains.

The income tax section retains the rate of 2 per cent on the amount of income over $4,000, as prescribed in the Wilson bill. The classes of income are broadened by adding to rents, profits, salaries, etc., the words "or from any source whatever." The persons to whom the tax applies are: "Every citizen of the United States and every person residing therein."

In taxing salaries of employees of corporations the house bill makes it the duty of the corporations to pay the tax of their employees and then deduct it from their salaries. The senate bill relieves corporations from becoming the taxpayers for its employees and compels the latter to make direct payments to the collector.

The time when returns on income taxes are made is changed from the first "day" of March to the first "Monday" of March.

Cards and Cigarettes.

Business a tax of 2 cents on every pack of playing cards, similar to the provisions in the Wilson bill; a tax on all tobacco, cigars and cigarettes weighing over three pounds per 1,000 $5 per 1,000. Paper cigarettes weighing less than three pounds per 1,000 pay $1 per 1,000 and of those wrapped in tobacco 50 cents per 1,000.

Whisky Tax Increased.

The sections governing the tax on spirits are now throughout and are a substitute for the house section stricken out. A tariff of $1.10 is imposed and the bonded period is extended from three to eight years.

Collectors of internal revenue are made the officers in charge of the collection of income taxes instead of the deputy collectors, as provided in the Wilson bill. The right of appeal against imposition of unjust taxes is retained, but the final decision rests with the secretary of the treasury, as provided in the house bill.

Changes in the Free List.

The free list is not so much changed as had been supposed it would be, and the articles taken from it are far more numerous than the additions. The date when the free list shall go into effect is changed from June 1, 1894, to June 30, 1894. Articles of all kinds are stricken from the free list and placed on the dutiable list, as are also beef, mutton and pork, and bone charcoal, suitable for use in decolorizing sugar.

Bituminous coal, shale, coal slack and coke are transferred to the dutiable list, leaving anthracite coal on the free list. Cocoa fiber is made dutiable. Diamonds and other precious stones, rough or uncut are added to the free list. Floor matting is made dutiable. Dates, coconuts, Brazil nuts and peanuts are also taken from the free list. Cod oil is made free of duty. Iron ore is taken from the free list, and also olives and orchids, azaleas and palms and other plants used for forcing under glass or cut flowers. Double and twisted silk or silk advanced in manufacture and any way is to pay a duty. Sugars are to be moved to the dutiable list. There is a touch of reciprocity in a proviso attached to the paragraph admitting plows, harrows, harvesters and other agricultural implements free, the proviso being to the effect that all the articles mentioned in this paragraph "when imported from any country which lays an import duty on like articles coming from the United States shall be subject to the duties existing prior to the passage of this act."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

A Tendency Toward Lower Prices—Confidence in the Future is Weak.

NEW YORK, March 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Evidences of present improvement in business multiply, but confidence in future improvement does not seem to increase. There is more business and a larger production by industries, for the season has arrived when greater activity is necessary if dealers' stocks are to be replenished, and those who cannot make calculations beyond a few months are the more anxious to crowd as much trade as they safely can into those months."

"In some branches of distribution, however, there are indications of a diminishing demand for goods and the evident preference for medium and low-priced articles, with the known reduction in wages and family expenditures, leads many to feel somewhat less confident that business will soon recover its former volume. Undertakings reaching beyond a short time are not made with greater freedom and in spite of a larger present demand prices of manufactured goods tend downward."

"Failures are growing less important and somewhat fewer also. For the week ending March 5 the liabilities thus far reported were only $2,937,824, and for four weeks in February $14,886,991, of which $5,732,515 were of manufacturing and $7,697,127 of trading concerns. The number of failures during the last week have been 248 in the United States, against 193 last year, and 93 in Canada, against 32 last year."

HEAVY FAILURE IN IOWA.

J. R. Morin Company of Cedar Rapids Forced to Suspend.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 12.—The J. R. Morin company, with a capital stock of $90,000, extensive egg dealers and owners of six creameries near here, has failed, a local bank securing an attachment for $8,000. The total local liabilities are $14,000, assets $65,000. The failure is due to the inability of the stockholders, who live in Boston, to furnish more money. The firm recently lost $20,000 by damage to eggs in storage. It is reported that the liabilities may aggregate $200,000, involving Morse, Smith & Co., of Boston, which firm owns the entire stock of the Morin company.

Immigration in 1893.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A statement has been prepared by the immigration bureau showing that the total number of immigrants which arrived at the ports of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore from foreign ports during the calendar year 1893 was 431,712. These, it is said, represent at least four-fifths of the whole number which arrived at all American ports.

Elections in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., March 13.—Returns thus far received from the charter elections held in the villages of Michigan Monday indicate republican victories in the majority of instances where party tickets formed the issue. In many instances the tickets were citizens', people's, etc., and the elections quite largely turned upon local issues.

Were Not Killed by Hippolyte.

NEW YORK, March 13.—All doubts as to the fate of the steam yacht Natalie and her crew were set at rest on Monday by the arrival here of her commander, Capt. Antonio Salinas. Capt. Salinas laughed heartily at the story of himself and his crew being shot by officers of President Hippolyte.

Tragedy at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—Jacob Stoldt, a carpenter, shot and killed another carpenter, Charles Wuensch, and then turned his weapon upon himself, inflicting a wound which will prove fatal. Wuensch had discharged Stoldt for neglect.

Bound to Get Married.

BELLEVEUE, O., March 10.—C. M. Gates, aged 75 years, and Mrs. Caroline Sawyer, aged 72, eloped from here and were married in Cleveland. Opposition from the married daughters of Mrs. Sawyer caused the elopement.

Voorhees' View.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Senator Voorhees said Monday that he had no idea that the tariff bill would become a law before the middle of July and it might not be until August.

For Breach of Promise.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The suit of Miss Madeline M. Pollard against Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, for breach of promise, began in this city yesterday.

Put It on the North Pole.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Explorer Wellman was given a silk flag yesterday by the National Capital Press club and requested to hoist it at the north pole.

Minister Thurston to Wed.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 13.—Harriet W. Potter, of this city, will soon wed Hawaiian Minister Thurston, whom she first met at the way's fair.

Work of Our Lawmakers in the Fifty-Third Congress.

The Progress Made in the Senate and House on Various Measures of Importance—Daily Proceedings Briefly Recited.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The house bill appropriating $45,000 for the rescue of the armament and wreck of the Kearsarge was passed in the senate yesterday, and the silver seigniorage bill also passed its third reading.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The resignation of Senator White, of Louisiana, was announced in the senate yesterday. The Bland seigniorage bill came up as unfinished business, but a vote was postponed for one day. The bill for the sale of unsold portions of the Umatilla reservation in Oregon was passed.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator Peffer introduced a resolution in the senate yesterday for an investigation into the charges of senatorial sugar speculation. The house bill authorizing a bridge over the East river between New York and Long Island was passed. The seigniorage bill was discussed, and it was decided to postpone voting on the measure until the 15th. Adjourned until the 13th.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Senator Peffer's resolution for an investigation as to whether senators had been speculating in Wall street was defeated in the senate by a vote of 33 to 27 yesterday. Newton C. Blanchard was sworn in as senator from Louisiana to succeed E. D. White. Senator Peffer introduced an independent tariff bill amending the McKinley law in various particulars. The seigniorage bill was further discussed.

The House.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—After five days of debate the pension appropriation bill, carrying $151,000,000, was passed in the house yesterday without division.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The president transmitted some additional Hawaiian correspondence to the house yesterday. The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was presented and agreed to. The bill abolishing the office of commissioner and assistant commissioner of customs in the treasury department was passed.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 13.—Mrs. M. A. Wells, living at Savannah, 10 miles east of here, entered a closet Monday morning, carrying with her a can of kerosene. Locking the door on the inside she poured the oil over her clothes and on the woodwork, then she set fire to her dress. Her screams alarmed the neighbors. They were compelled to break down the door, but did not succeed until the woman's screams had ceased. When they finally reached her she was dead. Mrs. Wells was assistant cashier of the State bank at Savannah, and owing to the illness of her husband, who was cashier, had been doing all the work. The strain of overwork and the anxiety caused by her husband's sickness unsettled her mind.

Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, writes: "Catarrh—I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic over it. The good sisters speak most warmly of their own relief, it being held in inches from my ear. I look upon it as a positive cure for deafness and have recommended its use to many of my friends and can say I have never heard of a case where it has failed to relieve."

COUGHLIN IS FREE.

The Jury Says He Did Not Murder Dr. P. H. Cronin.

End of One of the Most Famous Criminal Cases Known in the World's History—Exciting Scenes in Court.

"NOT GUILTY."

CHICAGO, March 9.—Daniel Coughlin, with his wife clinging to his arm, walked out of Judge Tutthill's court a free man Thursday afternoon.

Court convened at 10 o'clock, and Judge Tutthill at once began his charge to the jury. Coughlin's pale face became even paler as the judge's words showed he was nearing the end.

Shortly after 4 p. m. word was sent by a bailiff to Judge Tutthill that a verdict had been reached.

DANIEL COUGHLIN.

to the judge's order it was packed with people eager to be present at this important period of the great trial.

Read the Verdict. Judge Tutthill took his seat upon the bench and court was called to order. The jury filed in amidst the utmost silence.

How It Was Received. When the verdict of not guilty was read out in court Thursday Coughlin shot up from his chair as though a powerful spring beneath him was released by the word "not."

Stunned by His Good Fortune. Joseph B. David, Daniel Donahoe's partner, threw himself across the table which stood between him and Coughlin and grasped Coughlin's hand.

A Young Girl Sentenced. DEADWOOD, S. D., March 13.—Judge Plowman sentenced Mary Yusta to three years and seven months for killing Maggie McDermott last December.

Bodies of Entombed Miners Reached. WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 13.—The bodies of the men entombed in the Gaylord mine have been reached.

Navigation on the Mississippi Open. DUBUQUE, Ia., March 13.—Navigation on the Mississippi was opened Monday by the arrival of a steamer from the mouth.

Wild Scene in the Courtroom. Coughlin finally broke away from the surging mob which carried him from one side to the other, and, starting with Juror Benson, went down the line, grasping the hand of each of the men who had set him free.

Meets His Wife. Just as Coughlin reached Juror Bruce another commotion began. It started at the door and was indicated by a sudden opening in the crowd.

Wheat and Corn. WASHINGTON, March 11.—According to the government report farmers have reserves of 114,000,000 bushels of wheat and 589,000,000 bushels of corn.

Indiana Talk Prohibited. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—Mayor Denny has ordered the arrest of labor leaders who indulge in incendiary speeches to the unemployed.

is it true, is it true?" she sobbed, as he threw both arms around her.

Coughlin Talks.

Before leaving the jail Coughlin said to a reporter:

"The wrong is righted at last. I wish that every judge and prosecuting attorney would be sent to jail for six months, and then they would not be so anxious to send innocent men there. The case against me was all perjury. It's all over now, though, and what might as well let it drop. I don't know what I shall do at present. I am going to visit Hancock, Mich., my old home, with my family, and then I am coming back to Chicago to live."

Concerning the murder of Dr. Cronin, Coughlin vehemently declared that he knew nothing whatever. He continued:

"I hired that horse for the use of a country friend. It was simply an act of courtesy; yet it was against me in the terrible charge for which I have been twice tried and which has brought suffering to myself and family. The only time I ever had anything to do with Dr. Cronin and his connection with the united brotherhood was nearly ten years ago. In 1883 charges were preferred against the doctor for falsely reporting some matters of interest to the brotherhood. A committee of five, of which I was a member, was named to hear the charges and pass upon them. Cronin then willingly admitted the truth of the charges, and suitable action was taken by the committee, which was unanimous in the decision presented. It was a district trial and all members were interested, and knew of the trouble. Although pleading guilty, Cronin never again spoke to me."

Cost of the Trial.

The expense of the trial to the state was about $25,000. To this amount should be added the cost of keeping the jury and the salaries of the bailiffs. The Revere house has a yearly contract with the county for keeping juries, and the bailiffs are paid an annual salary. Over $50,000 was expended by the defense.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

TAX TITLES NOT GOOD.

Defect in 1887-'88 Makes Trouble for Michigan Purchasers.

In the case of Miller vs. Truax the supreme court filed an opinion which, in effect, invalidates every tax title covering property sold for taxes in 1887 and 1888. It appears that the tax records for these years were prepared in the auditor general's office and were uniform for every county in the state.

The court set aside a sale for the taxes of 1887 because these tax records showed the amount of the tax, amount decreed against the property, amount for which it was sold, expenses, etc., in figures only and without the dollar sign, the word dollar, or other mark to make it appear that these figures represented money.

During the last six weeks hundreds of descriptions returned for the taxes of the years mentioned have been sold to tax title speculators, who thus find themselves with a lot of practically worthless deeds on their hands. The error was evidently discovered in 1889, as the blanks for that year are all right.

RESULT OF HARD TIMES.

How the Business Depression Affected Labor in Michigan.

The state commissioner of labor has made public the result of his investigations into the effect of the business depression on the laboring population of the state. He says that during five months ending February 1 in 2,096 factories inspected employees lost a total of 1,768,000 working days of ten hours, and 48,752 men were laid off. Besides this loss there was an average reduction in wages of 9 3/4 per cent. Of the total number of factories inspected 377 were wholly shut down, 574 were run on short time, resulting in a loss to labor of 36,637 hours a week in short time factories.

Suicide of a Mad Physician.

Dr. Robert McKillop disappeared from Wolverine February 10 and was found dead near Vanderbilt. It was an evident case of suicide. He severed an artery at the heel, cut the arteries of both legs above the knee, stabbed himself in the breast and then cut his throat. McKillop was a clever physician. He was unmarried. The night before he disappeared he called upon some of the citizens and said persons were after him for the purpose of taking his life. Circumstances show that he was deranged.

Health in Michigan.

During the week ended March 8 reports sent in by fifty-seven observers in various portions of the state to the state board of health indicated that typhoid fever and pneumonia increased and scarlet fever decreased in area of prevalence. Typhoid fever was reported at eleven places, diphtheria at twenty-three, measles at fourteen, scarlet fever at fifty-three and smallpox at Crystal Falls, Menominee and Otsego township.

He and his wife recently celebrated the sixty-third anniversary of their marriage. They have six children, twenty-three grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Rich Young Japanese Kills Himself.

Chikanaora Tomohira, a young Japanese chemist employed in the laboratory of Frederick Sterns, committed suicide in Detroit by taking poison. He was 22 years old, rich, handsome and apparently happy. No cause for the deed is known. His father is a general in the Japanese army, is rich and treated the boy handsomely.

At Detroit the bail of Frederick Marvin, the bank cashier held for embezzlement, was reduced from $30,000 to $10,000.

It was decided at a meeting of the Inland Lloyds to remove the quarters from Detroit to Cleveland, O.

Bacon Bros' livery barn at Boyne City was destroyed by fire and eight horses burned to death.

Sigfred Volkenant, aged 60, was buried alive while digging out an old well at Mount Clemens, the earth caving in upon him.

The plate mill of the Euroka Iron & Steel company at Wyandotte was burned by an incendiary. Loss, $100,000.

Two tramps, one of whom had sworn vengeance against Fred Rul, of Kalamazoo, stole his 11-year-old boy.

Mrs. C. B. Hubbard, of Marysville, who recently attempted suicide, is believed to be insane. She was formerly stage-struck and now thinks herself an actress.

Egg Sucking Boston Girls.

There is a new fad in Boston. It has its origin among young women—mostly of the genus known as the matinee girl. It is drinking raw eggs at the soda fountain in "ladies' lunch" places and similar innocuous resorts. The girls stop, ask for an egg and swallow it from a glass without blinking.—Providence Journal.

Modest.

Writers of comic plays said to have, as a rule, a very good conceit of themselves. But one of them objected nevertheless when an ardent admirer compared him with Shakespeare.

"You mustn't do that!" said the dramatist. "Why not?" "Well, Shakespeare had his way of writing, you know, and I have mine."—Youth's Companion.

The visible shrinkage in values since the coming into power of the Democratic party, is nearly $3,000,000,000.

The public debt was increased $40,000,000 in February. It will soon be in order for the Cleveland administration to make another $50,000,000 loan.

The Hillsdale Leader says that just at present the democratic party is split into two parts—those who swear by the Wilson bill and those who swear against it.

The cry of the Democratic party months ago was, "Give Grover a chance!" The people took chances and gave him a chance. Moral—never take chances again.

The Owosso Press says the Republican organs place party above state and the party's interest above everything else. What do the Democrat organs do? Is it different with them?

The faithful of the Democratic party had a love feast. Thursday evening and consulted each other as to who in the rank and file would be the most available man to lead to the slaughter in the mayoralty fight.

The city and village elections held throughout Michigan show large gains for the Republicans. If a state election were to be held tomorrow, Michigan would give a Republican majority of over 100,000 votes.

Among the numerous changes made by the senate in the Wilson bill, is the extension of the bonded period on whiskey from three to eight years. This act will make the South solidly Democratic—it pleases Democrats.

The best local newspaper in the state is the semi-weekly Coldwater Republican. Miss Alice Kellar is the Republican's local reporter, and the large amount of local items the lady succeeds in gathering each week is truly wonderful. THE REGISTER'S localizer sends greeting, Miss Kellar.

Under the head, "Who for Congress?", the Ypsilanti says that by actual count there are 21 candidates for Congress, all worthy men, in Ypsilanti, while in Ann Arbor the entire check list shows not more than 25 or not candidates. Ann Arbor has only one candidate for Congress on the republican ticket, while the democratic party has more—by actual count.

The New York Sun says in a long editorial that Don M. Dickinson is a candidate for the presidency in 1896. Dickinson, when seen by a reporter, declined to be interviewed on the subject. He would neither deny nor affirm the Sun's statement. The great Don M. is as easily defeated as anybody whom the Democrats may select as their standard bearer. So what is the difference? Ann Arbor Democrats are very reticent in expressing an opinion. The postoffice candidates, however, smile and say Don is all right. Go it, Don!

How is this, Democrats? Read and ponder: "Washington, March 5. The majority of the senate committee on finance gave the entire day yesterday to senators who advocate changes in the Wilson bill as amended by the senate subcommittee on tariff. Senator Hill was the first of the senators of this class admitted. He pleaded for protection for the manufacturing interests of the New England states as well as for New York, as none of those states are represented in the senate by Democratic senators." A great Democrat and a candidate for the presidency in 1892 was Senator Hill! Think of it!

THE Stockbridge Sun thinks that the ship canal across Lake Michigan will be dug, and that it will run through the country between Stockbridge and Grass Lake. The editor of the Sun is a prophet. He prophesied that prohibition would be submitted to the people to vote on—it was submitted. He prophesied that the amendment would carry—it did carry. He has prophesied that no distant day be blessed with woman suffrage—it surely will. Now the good brother has issued another proclamation. The great canal will be dug. Let us honor the prophet of Stockbridge and may the Sun continue to shine!

SKETCHES OF OUR CITY.

Outlines and Incidents of Ann Arbor's Founding and Growth. Written Expressly for The Register by Prof. A. Ten Brook.

XXIII. THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The records of the Baptist church in Ann Arbor for the first ten years are lost. The substantial facts, however, can be given. The so-called Covenant Meeting, at which this people are accustomed to make a statement of their religious condition, with an avowal of their purpose still to live on together in the bonds of Christian love, began to be held in the township of Ann Arbor as early as February 1827, and is supposed never to have been interrupted to this day. The custom is to hold them once a month. The Rev. Moses Clark, Pastor of the church at Farmington, and said to have preached the first sermons in both Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, settled on land near what is now Geddes Station, on the Central Railroad, probably organized in his own house the meetings referred to, the same being deemed a branch or mission of the Farmington church. In June 1828, the members here banded together, having been dismissed from the Farmington body, and were organized into a church, the council acting in the matter consisting of delegates from all the Baptist churches then existing in the territory—those of Pontiac, Stony Creek, Troy, Farmington and Detroit. The meetings at this time were held in Mr. Clark's barn. Little further is known of this pioneer pastor beyond the fact in his domestic history that on going to the woods where his eldest son was supposed to be at work, he found the body of the young man lying crushed under a log, life already extinct.

The church passed into a new stage in 1832, having been then transferred to Ann Arbor village. Its meetings were first held in a school house on the jail lot, which was bounded northward by Liberty street and lay between Fourth and Fifth. They removed thence to an upper room over Brown's store in the Lower Town. In 1832, Daniel B. Brown was baptized into the church and on the day of his baptism was elected a deacon, and now survives, this honorable title still adhering to him. His brother, Anson Brown, whose enterprise did most to make the Lower Town what it became, seemed in a fair way to transfer the chief business to the north side of the river, died of cholera in 1834. He already had the post-office. He had indicated the lot he would give for the church building and the amount of his own subscription, but died without having executed the conveyance of the lot, or made his subscription. His executors, who were his business partners, refused to convey the lot. But they had a large note about to mature at a bank in Detroit, Daniel B. Brown was the endorser and refused to renew his endorsement until the church had their title for the lot. So the ground was secured; but the money, which would have been half enough to put together such a box as the church entered about the year 1835, they did not obtain.

This was, on the whole, a creditable work, resting as it did chiefly, if not wholly, on Mr. D. B. Brown. Before this building was erected the worship had been driven from the loft of the brick-block and had taken refuge in a carpenter shop, used every day of the week except Sunday for its mechanical purpose, and in hours of worship not in a condition suggestive of religious thought. The little structure that grew out of this worthy effort may still be seen on Wall street in the fifth ward. It is now a Methodist mission. Its original size may be learned by conceiving all that extends on either side beyond the bonds in the roof to be lopped off. These additions were made while it was still the property of the Baptist church.

Of the original members of 1832, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Brown survive. The pastors of this little flock up to 1844—I give them in the order of time—have been Rev. Messrs. Moses Clark, J. S. Twiss, W. L. Brown, Harvey Miller, A. A. Guernsey, O. C. Comstock, and Marvin Allen.

Mr. Clark is said to have been the second Baptist minister who settled in the territory. Mr. Twiss was probably drawn to the place by the settlement here of relatives. His wife was sister of Mrs. Fuller, the mother-in-law of Anson Brown, the founder of the Lower Town, and of Judge Lawrence. Mr. Miller was a man of talents, and after leaving here about 1838, served the rest of his life as pastor in Meriden, Ct. where he died about seven years ago.

Both he and Mr. Twiss were men of unbounded wit, and the latter made free use of this talent against the institution of slavery. Mr. Comstock was by profession a physician, but left this calling for service, first in politics and then in the pulpit. He served in Congress two terms in the administration of Madison. While in Congress, he began to preach and most of his labor thereafter was in the ministry. He was also Superintendent of Public Instruction in this state. He was the father of one of our most esteemed missionaries in India. Mr. Allen was for a time a highly valued and useful member of the Board of Regents of the University.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S HERO

COL. WM. SILLOWAYE, WHOM SECRETARY STANTON CALLED THE GREATEST HERO OF THE WAR, CURED BY DR. GREENE'S NERVURA BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY.

There was a time when so many of our great and prominent persons have been cured by one and the same remedy, as has been reported in the papers of late, cured by that wonderful medical discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Hon. Ex-Speaker Charles J. Noyes, of the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives, has been cured by this remarkable medicine, and now we report the extraordinary cure of the illustrious Col. Wm. A. H. Sillowaye, one of Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I bought a bottle and when I had taken two-thirds of it I began to improve. "I kept on taking it, improving all the time. I now weigh 130 pounds and feel like my old self again. You can put it in your paper that I attribute my good health to nothing but Dr. Greene's Nervura. I am perfectly satisfied that it saved my life. I am 75 years of age, but, as you can see for yourself, I am as active as a man of 40 and can do a good day's work, as people here well know. My friends in Boston, New York and other places are surprised at my recovery. Indeed, I am surprised myself to be so well. I advise anybody afflicted to buy and try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at once."

Such an astounding cure as this in so prominent a personage as Col. Sillowaye, the most noted officers of the war, of whom Secretary Stanton and Secretary Welles said in conference with President Lincoln: "Col. Sillowaye saved President Lincoln's life, and we consider him as great a hero as any in the service."

COL. WM. A. H. SILLOWAYE.

Col. Sillowaye resides at 8 Pine St., Boston, Mass., where in an interview with him he talked very interestingly: "On the 19th of April, 1861, I enlisted in the Army of the North. I enlisted 162 pounds. After serving four years and eight months in the Army and Navy, and suffering from wounds and rheumatism, I was discharged. I weighed the day I was discharged 109 pounds. Every year I had attacks of nervous prostration; shortness of breath and the loss of appetite were not the least of my misfortunes. I tried numberless things. Nothing did me any good. "While employed in Boston I was compelled to resign my position on account of ill-health. I consulted several eminent physicians, and took their medicine. No use—I grew weaker day after day. They told me I could not live. I could not walk alone in the street without falling or clinging to the railings. At times I would shake and twitch. Had spells of falling down in the office and on the street. "In the house I had to lie down or drop down; several times I believed I was at death's door. I had been commander of three different G. A. R. Posts, and my comrades advised me to try Dr.

the personal friend of the President of the United States, Secretary Stanton and Secretary Welles, of President Lincoln's Cabinet, is the highest and strongest recommendation which any remedy could possibly have.

It is a fact that this wonderful medicine is doing more good all over the land than any other known remedy. Everybody who has used it speaks in the highest terms of it. It is strengthening the weak, building up broken down constitutions and curing the sick and suffering everywhere.

Everybody requires a spring medicine and this is just what you need. Thousands of people, while not exactly sick, are out of order, weak, nervous, run down or ailing in some way. Many SECRETARY STANTON, people at this season do not eat or sleep well, wake mornings tired, with bad taste in the mouth, dull feeling head and without strength or energy to take hold of their work. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will cure all this; it will make you well. It is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

AWARDED HIGHEST HONORS WORLD'S FAIR.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

For the first time in many years Ann Arbor seems likely to have a congressional candidate. At least the friends of our well-known townsman, Hon. J. T. Jacobs, are urging him for that place, and are sanguine of securing the nomination for him, well knowing that with the democracy on the run, as it is this year, and with Mr. Jacobs' popularity, a republican nomination is equivalent to an election. Mr. Jacobs' friends care to see that his interests are well taken care of, which, they declare, practically means that he will capture the plum. As a strong point in his favor Mr. Jacobs' friends contend that he has always stood by his party, and has many times yielded to others when thereby harmony could be preserved. The next congress should be composed of men who are there for business and not merely for the purpose of killing time by long-winded speeches. What we want is a business congress, and THE REGISTER hopes that the republicans of this district will do their share towards helping to make it such.

MISSIONARY LIBRARY.

Efforts Being Made to Secure One for Newberry Hall.

An effort is being made by students and citizens in the churches of the city to secure a valuable missionary library. The books will be placed in Newberry Hall under control of the Students' Volunteer Band. They will form a reference and circulating library free to everybody. Any one who wishes may either pay the price of a new book, or give a book he now possesses, and have his name placed in it as donor.

There is at present no adequate missionary library in the city. The need of such a library is evident since it is the only practical source of information concerning the character, the customs, the faiths, and the needs of the vast majority of our fellow men.

By united efforts, a valuable collection may be placed within the reach of all. If you desire to help, consider one of the following persons concerning the matter: Miss Lou E. LaTourrette, 97 S. State-st.; Miss Bertha Sherron, 23 S. 5th-ave.; W. W. Parker, 26 Thompson-st.; N. D. Meronen, 22 W. 2nd-st.; Miss Johanna Neumann, 63 S. 4th-st.; Miss Belle L. Otis, 4 Mary-st.; Melvin P. Porter, 25 Maynard-st.

ROAD MEETING.

Addresses by Hon. E. P. Allen, of Ypsilanti, and Others.

The annual road meeting of the Washtenaw Horticultural Society last Saturday afternoon was addressed by Hon. E. P. Allen, of Ypsilanti. President Palmer, who was expected, failed to put in an appearance but sent a telegram of regrets. Mr. Allen endorsed the new road law of Michigan passed by the last legislature, as the first step in the right direction. It provides that the board of supervisors may submit to the people the question whether the new law shall be put in operation in a new county. Taxation under the new system would be spread upon the whole taxable property of the county. Most of the other speakers were satisfied with our present law. They believed the new method would cost more and secure no better results. Among those who favored the present system, or criticized the new law, were H. D. Platt, Fred Braun, Sec. Mills, Andrew Campbell, Geo. A. Peters and Benjamin Smith.

After recess, the society made arrangements for being suitably represented at the funeral of its former secretary, Emil Baur.

Society News.

The greatest event in society and university circles during the past week was the great lecture by ex-Senator Ingalls of Kansas, at University Hall. Many young men and young women, who have come here to this great seat of learning to acquire knowledge, to acquire power, which is to aid them in the fierce conflict of life, were present to listen to the scholarly, the polished, the able statesman of our land on leading questions of the day. All classes of society from town and gown flocked to hear the great student of political economy.—Mr. and Mrs. Ross Granger, we understand, will give a beautiful Easter party on Wednesday evening, March 28, in their academy, where so many grand entertainments are given by its management and by various societies of the city. We understand that Mr. Granger will have charge of the fancy dance to be introduced in Pinafore, which will be rendered by the Lyra Singing Society and U. of M. Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. R. H. Kempf, which promises to be a great society event and one of the most delightful entertainments of the year.—Prof. Stanley again gave one of his masterly lectures at the School of Music building a few evenings ago. He chose "The Violin" as his subject and treated it as only few men in the musical world can treat topics of the kind. It was a rich treat to everybody present, who will remember the evening as one of the pleasantest evenings in musical circles of the entire year.—On the evening of March 29th the Ann Arbor Guitars and Banjo Clubs will give one of their delightful entertainments, which everybody enjoys so much, as the announcement of the giving of a concert by the clubs is always welcome news to lovers of the guitar and banjo.—The art recital given by Prof. T. C. Trueblood in Memorial Hall on last Saturday evening was in every way a most successful affair. The very excellent program which was given by pupils of Prof. Trueblood was enjoyed very much by all present.—In church and society circles the very able and convincing sermons by Rev. Dr. Coburn on amusements of the day have been considerably commented on. The large church has been filled to overflowing with attentive listeners to hear the able divine discourse on theater-going, card playing, dancing, etc.—Of personal society items in and out of the Athens, we have learned the following:

Newton and C. H. Leonard.

The University correspondent of the Detroit Evening News writes to that paper: A remarkable operation in laparotomy occurred recently in Dr. Nancrede's clinic. The patient was a woman rather past middle age. The first incision bared the immense tumor, when suddenly it burst under the relieved pressure, sending a jet of corruption full in the surgeon's face. The poisonous discharge also poured into the cavity of the body of the patient about the tumor. Dr. Nancrede halted for an instant to pass a handkerchief over his face, and then worked like "lightning." As a further complication, the immense sack was found attached in three different places. Moments dragged like hours and great beads of sweat stood on the surgeon's brow, when at last he paused and turned over the last simple arrangements to his assistants. And now the woman is comfortably convalescing and is regarded as wholly out of danger.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

In justice to Dr. D. A. McLachlan THE REGISTER wishes to state that the article which appeared in its columns last week in relation to the vibrometer was written by a patient, who has been benefited by the treatment, and wholly without Dr. McLachlan's knowledge.

An Ann Arbor lady has located in Adrian, a young chap who skipped out, leaving unpaid a $30 board bill, and $12 rent. She will request her Johnny to settle or answer to the law for the disregard of an honest debt. The factory where he works will be notified of the claim unless he settles soon.—Adrian Press.

The first Baptist church of Ann Arbor must be deficient in people or else it recognizes that Coldwater Baptists are first-class. At a recent meeting of the Baptist Union of the above named church Ralph Powell was elected president, Ned Hodgman choirster and Georgia Starr, corresponding secretary.—Coldwater Republican.

Mr. A. A. Crozier has been appointed a professor at the Agricultural college at Lansing. He will have charge of the field experimental department. Mr. Crozier has written books on agricultural subjects and was several years employed in the agricultural department at Washington. A better appointment could not have been made.

Mrs. J. E. Summer, a very estimable lady, departed this life Friday morning. She died of peritonitis. The deceased had a very large number of kind and warm friends, who admired her for her gentle disposition and her desire to please and to do good. The funeral was held on Sunday, when the last of earth of this noble woman was carried to the grave. Her husband survives her to mourn her loss.

Elias S. Yovtcheff will lecture in the M. E. church Friday evening, March 16th. Mr. Yovtcheff was born in Bulgaria in 1850, and was educated in the common schools there until '67, when he entered the missionary school at Philadelphia. Two years later he came to America, working his passage over, and, in the eight years that followed, paid his own way through Whitetown (N. Y.) Academy, class 1873, and Hamilton College, from which he was graduated with high oratorical honors in 1877. During his college course he captured two oratorical prizes, tutored many of his college mates in elocution and devoted much of his time to public lecturing.

J. F. Schuh, one of the members of the board of public works at Ann Arbor, says that the public sewer is finished. It cost less than $29,000, while the appropriation was $30,000. This is in marked contrast with the sewer put in here in Manchester when the cost of construction was a third more than they estimated it would be.—Manchester Enterprise.

Capt. Manly's new maps of the city are very accurate and present a very neat appearance. It will be necessary, of course, for the city assessor to compare the descriptions of property, which accompany them, with his books, which will require a great deal of time and labor. It will be impossible for Mr. O'Hearn to complete the work by the time he makes his tramp about the city.

Ann Arbor Commandry, No. 13, K. T., elected the following officers at a meeting held recently: P. W. Carpenter, eminent commander; A. C. Nichols, generalissimo; W. W. Watts, captain-general; C. E. Hiscock, treasurer; J. W. Bennett, recorder; Rev. M. R. Goodwin, prelate; J. R. Bach, senior warden; A. A. Moore, standard bearer; J. F. Hoelze, sword bearer; L. Stevens, warden; Thomas Taylor, sentinal.

Milo L. Marsh, the Michigan state agent of the department of agriculture at Washington, reports that horses are so very cheap that few colts are being raised for farm use. They are a drug on the market and many are being turned loose in the yards without special care. Farmers are agitating the question of eating horseflesh as a solution of the horse question. Milch cows, hogs and sheep are increasing in numbers.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York, offers a package of 20 varieties of flower seeds free by mail to any school teacher who will apply for same and agree to arrange with the scholars to plant them and report results to the named firm at the end of the season. Applications should be sent at once, endorsed by one director of the school and should give the state, county and township name with number of school district. Address, Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, Ill.

G. W. Thompson, son of Prof. Thompson, and S. W. Curtiss, business manager of the Argus, have been canvassing the lawyers of Detroit for the last week concerning the advisability of starting a weekly paper, devoted to the legal interests of Wayne county and the decisions of the supreme court. They have met with considerable encouragement, and the paper will be known as the Wayne County Legal News. The first issue will probably appear April 25.

We were very much pleased to be honored by a visit from Brother Smithe, of the Ypsilanti Commercial, Tuesday last. The gentleman is an experienced newspaper man and a writer of great ability, as many of the able articles in the Commercial conclusively prove. We were sorry to learn during our pleasant visit with the Brother that Mrs. Smithe is quite sick with the grip, which has kept her confined to the house for many weeks. THE REGISTER sincerely hopes the lady will soon recover. Call again, Brother Smithe.

The temperance people of Ann Arbor will observe Neal Dow day at the Christian church, Tuesday evening, March 20th, at 7:30 o'clock. The following will be presented: "Life of Neal Dow," Judge N. W. Cheever; "Character of Neal Dow," Prof. Willett; "History of the Prohibition Movement," O. R. L. Crozier; "Michigan Amendment Campaign," M. L. Clawson; "Polyglot Petition," Mrs. Lucy Moorehouse, Neal Dow, author of the famous "Maine Law," will be ninety years old on March 20th. Similar observances of this anniversary will occur in many cities and villages.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures Good Health.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "About one ago, I was in very poor health and had no appetite. I could not work, for I did not have any energy. I was suffering with neuralgia and the pain was intensified by my being kicked by a horse. Altogether I was very miserable and had fallen away so that I only weighed ninety pounds. I took doctor's medicine, but it did me no good. Perchance I noticed an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the Christianian Advocate. I sent at once for a bottle of the medicine. When I had emptied the bottle my appetite was quite good and I was

OUR BUSINESS MEN.

Messrs. Goodyear & St. James make their bow to Register readers this week and will continue to do so from week to week for the next year. These gentlemen have, since locating in Ann Arbor, had a steadily increasing business. Even during the past year they report a large increase in the volume of their trade notwithstanding the hard times. This certainly speaks well for this firm. We invite the attention of our readers to their advertisement this week and every week for the next year.

Messrs. Moore & Wetmore have something to say this week to the readers of THE REGISTER on the subject of wall paper and house decorating. This firm carries good goods and employs the best of workmen, so that there patrons may be sure of satisfaction in every respect and are as low as is consistent with first-class work.

Messrs. Bowdish & Matteson, the State-st. outfitters, had an opening day last Saturday. Everybody coming into their store was presented with a beautiful button hole bouquet. This will account for the large number of people who appeared on the streets Saturday decorated with bouquets. The firm opened up their spring stock of hats, shoes, gloves, etc., and had one of the finest display windows ever seen in the city. Both members of the firm are young business men, but they are wide-awake and rapidly taking the lead in the line of gentlemen's furnishing goods and shoes. If you want anything in the latest style in either of these lines you will find it at Bowdish & Matteson's.

Geo. Wahr is, as usual, in the field this spring for business in the line of wall paper and house decorating. His advertisement on the first page of this week's paper invites your attention. Mr. Wahr has won a reputation for reliable work and the use of good material. His prices are as low as are consistent with first-class work.

Goodyear & St. James offer a book of 49 magnificent World's Fair views with every three dollar purchase made at their store.

The Attraction to See.

If there is a man, woman or child in this city who can afford to see but one attraction during the year outside of Barnum's show, let it be Charles A. Loder, in the great comedy novelty, "Oh! What a Night," and the management will refund your money if you are not perfectly satisfied that you saw the right one. They do not claim to have the best singer, tragedian, comedian, dancer or strongest company in the world, nor the best scenery or costumes, etc., but they do claim to have the best company procurable to produce one of the funniest and most novel comedians on the road, and give an evening's entertainment that will please everybody.—Saturday evening, March 17.

WHY "No. 9" ARE WHEELER & WILSON'S

SEWING MACHINES POPULAR? BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair. We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best other machines receiving only complementary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

Send for our illustrated catalogue. We want dealers in all unoccupied territory.

DON'T NEGLECT

A COMMON CASE OF PILES.

It May Lead to Serious Results.

When people generally understand that all such fatal diseases as fistula, ulcer of the rectum, fissure, etc., almost invariably begin in a simple case of Piles, they will learn the wisdom of taking prompt treatment for the first appearance of trouble in this quarter. The Pyramid Pile Cure will certainly cure every form of piles, itching, bleeding protruding or blind piles, and hundreds of lives have been saved by using this cheap but effective remedy right at the start, because at such a time a single package will effect a cure, while in old chronic, deep seated cases, several packages are sometimes necessary before a lasting cure is effected. Physicians are using the Pyramid Pile Cure in preference to surgical operations and with uniform success. The remedy is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co. of Albion, Mich. For sale by druggists everywhere.

This firm receive hundreds of testimonial letters from cured patients and publish a fresh list every week. This week we take pleasure in presenting the following: From Mr. M. A. Wilson, Peabody, Kansas: Your Pyramid Pile Cure received and I have received more benefit from two applications than from all other medicines I have ever tried. I have been troubled with piles for 30 years. They would come down every day and have to be worked back, but have not been down since the first application of the Pyramid. I am a convert to the merits of the Pyramid Pile Cure.

From C. D. Edgerton, Atty. at law, Northfield, Vermont: Send me two packages of your Pyramid Pile Cure. My father, who has had piles for 40 years, says your remedy is the best he has found and he has tried everything. From W. H. Goodman, Greenville, Texas, Gentleman:—I have had wonderful relief from the Pyramid Pile Cure. I would not be without it. From Ira Shockey, Long, W. Va.: The Pyramid Pile Cure has cured me. I have been waiting to see the result before writing and I can honestly say I am well of the piles and feel under many obligations to you.

Fresh letters will appear from all parts of the United States, all testifying to the wonderful effects which invariably result where this splendid remedy is used. It is the cheapest, safest and most effectual pile remedy ever placed before the people and if you are subject to piles in any form this remedy will remove them.

It is on sale at all drug stores, each package also contains a treatise on the cause and cure of piles, which will interest and benefit anyone so afflicted.

COLORADO'S BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

[From the North American Review, February, '94.]

The statement of Governor Waite in the January Review that "the annual production of 27,000,000 ounces of silver cut off by the closing of the mines has deprived Colorado of about $25,000,000 per annum," is one which will not bear examination. The official figures just published in the annual review of the Denver papers show that in 1893 the silver product of the State was 23,017,089 ounces, against 26,542,135 ounces in 1892. The product for the past year sold for $17,797,890. The slight loss in quantity was unnecessary and was wholly caused by the needless shutting down of certain rich mines for three or four months. The loss in value was about 17 per cent as compared with the prices obtained the previous year. Even this was a relative and not an actual loss, because the shrinkage in the average of all commodities which are purchased by the sale of silver has been fully as much, if not more, and the cost of labor in the mines has been reduced almost precisely as much as silver has fallen. At this moment all the smelters worth mentioning have resumed, and nearly all the silver mines which have pay ore are producing. It is certain that the output for the coming year will be within a few millions, more or less, of the previous average.

Intelligent Colorado business men believe that silver mining is not only as permanent an industry as iron or coal mining, but they are not convinced that the purchasing power of an ounce of silver bullion is more permanent than that of the unit of any other commodity produce in the world. It will purchase about as much of the staple commodities like wheat, cotton and iron now at 68 cents as it would purchase before demonetization at 129 cents, at par with gold. By this tremendously important fact we prove that the purchasing power of gold has doubled during the life of any debt that is twenty years old, and that the "honest" lender receives, besides his interest, twice as much as he loaned to the "dishonest" borrower. To the objection that this cannot be so, because labor has not fallen, we reply that labor's decline has been offset by modern inventions which increase the value of its product.

All of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the south door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county, that being the place of holding the circuit court for the said county of Washtenaw, on Saturday, the 21st day of April, 1894, next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

"But this was the king's tyranny, not yours."
"They imagine that I have put all these atrocious refinements into Clarimond's head. They realize that he is that anomalous and unprecedented person, a nineteenth century king; but they blame me, at the same time, for aggravating his fallacies."

"Then they think it is a fallacy to believe in surrounding oneself with beauty?"

"They prefer to surround themselves with memories. And they had many. Saltravia, you know, is ridiculously old. After all, it was a very stern demolition. I probably tore up hearthstones that were eight or nine centuries old. I was quite pitiless."

"Pitiless as Caligula?"

"Ah, Lonz, you're angry at me!"

"No."

"Well, well, persevere in your grudge and you'll make me apologize." Here Eric looked with melancholy at his half consumed cigar. "An apology, you know, is the murder of a prejudice. And I'm so fond of my prejudices! They're my cherished children. I spend half my time in training them to live thrifty, reputable lives. Besides, we're not to begin our bachelor days together by even the semblance of a quarrel."

Alonzo started. "Are we to live here together, you and I?" he asked.

"Not unless you desire it."

"Oh, Eric! And Alonzo's eyes filled with tears. "In this lovely castle!"

"A castle pour vous, my friend."

"But—but Eric! It's too infernally sweet of you."

"Infernally sweet is just what I want to be called. It reminds me of the fin de siècle art. It makes me think of Leconte de Lisle's poetry. Baudelaire (as that wonderful sayer of happy things, Oscar Wilde, not long ago declared, when he dropped into Saltravia and spent a few days in the palace with Clarimond) is chiefly great as a poet for having discovered the beauty in ugliness. Nothing except that is left us now, in this unacademic age. The moment that one is classical nowadays he is denounced as commonplace."

But Alonzo was not listening. If his wounded life needed any balsamic touch it was just these tidings that here in this lovely valley, in this choice abode, he should secure a lasting home with the friend of his heart.

"It is too kind, too generous of you, Eric," he at length found voice to say; "and when I make my trips here and there about the continent you have decided that I am always to return to—yourself?"

"Unless you are very bored. Then you will be frank and tell me, and then we shall certainly quarrel. For the instant I become conscious that I have bored anybody my egotism will leap forth like a tiger. It's a crime of which no one has yet had the audacity to accuse me. I keep a jeweled eastern dirk ready to plunge into any such offender; for when he commits his offense I wish my crime as an assassin to possess at least the saving grace of picturesqueness."

"Oh, Eric, how good you are, how good you are!"

"Crime," continued Eric, pouring himself another glass of Burgundy, "was never so disreputably prosaic as now. That reminds me, dear Lonz, I shall speak to the king to-morrow on this particular subject. I shall ask him if he will not kindly punish any new act of assassination at which the weapons used have been of an inferior and vulgar sort, with something prettily sixteenth century in the way of torture previous to the actual infliction of death."

"I am back with you again in Paris," smiled Alonzo, "while listening like this to all your serious absurdities. But are you sure that if I don't take the place of any Saltravian bride I shall not stand in the way of one with a different nationality. You tell me that the hotels off yonder by the springs are often peopled by American residents."

"Oh yes. They come here in summer, though they have not yet fully found out the marvelous quality of the springs. You see, before the unexpected accession of Clarimond to the throne Saltravia had been for years in desuetude. The old king, his kinsman, ill and half blind for nearly twenty years, had a loathing of foreigners, and resisted even the request of so august an authority as the emperor himself that the hotels should be redecored and made attractive to a wholly new order of guests."

"And Clarimond has changed all that. He opens his arms to Americans. And you? Don't you open yours to anyone, feminine American in particular?"

Eric answered at first with a shrug. "My dear boy, I've been so horribly busy. Besides—"

"Ah, there's a besides?"

"Oh, a very commonplace one. If you recall, I staid on in Paris for a good while after you left." His voice fell, and for an instant there were tears in it. "Some day I'll tell you just what happened. Only, don't ask me until I offer to tell you, Lonz; and that may be never." He suddenly tossed his large, virile head, and gave his yellow beard a quick, nervous pull. In another moment he was the old radiant trifer, with not a hint of that hidden sorrow which it occurred to his hearer that he might possibly never learn. "Frankly, as I've now made up my mind, I could never marry an American woman unless she were a mute."

"Eric, what do you mean?"

"The voice of the American woman, my dear Lonz, is a horror!"

Alonzo laughed. "Why except the American man?"

"I don't. But one doesn't marry the American man."

"True. One doesn't. But I've known not a few American girls whose voices—" "Of course you have. So have I. Oh, yes, those exceptions are vocally enchanting. But the ordinary girl of my own country always reminds me, when she is charming, of a splendid full blown thistle. There are few lovelier flowers than the thistle when seen in perfection. It has unique perfume, and a symmetry that repays the closest observation. But try to pluck it and you are sure to recoil."

"Bah," replied Alonzo, laughing; "it's the same affair with a moss-rose."

Eric frowned with a great gloom. "Lonz, you have done the most scandalous injury. I can pardon the man who smites me on the cheek or who robs me from the person. But for him who wantonly spoils one of my smiles I can only cherish a Borgian hatred."

Then they both broke into a laugh, their eyes meeting in amical joyance under the wax lights that beamed on their fruits and wine. "I won't admit your hatred to be quite Borgian," urged Alonzo, "for I am sure this velvet Burgundy hasn't been poisoned."

"You poison it with your own sarcasms," returned Eric. Then, after a slight pause: "There will be a late moon to-night. Shall we watch it for a minute from the terrace?"

They were presently standing together on the stone walk outside, feeling their temples fanned by a breeze that seemed to blow straight from the ruddy moonrise at which they gazed. The moon herself moved through a lair of stagnant ebon cloud, edging it with spectral fire; but her light flooded the hollow of a great gorge in the mountain just below her, and stole from its coverts of clustered leafage shapes that were mystic enough for the pictured thoughts of a darkened soul. Alonzo had some such fancy as this, and had just lost himself in the easy witchery of it, when his friend's voice roused him with a faint, impatient cry.

"What is it?" he said, starting as if from a real dream.

"Look—the palace," replied Eric. "It's fairly ablaze with lights."

Alonzo turned and saw that this was true, and that throngs of shadowy shapes were gathered in the grand courtyard before the wide-ung, illumined doors. Suddenly the crackings of whips were heard, and three or four vehicles that might have been coaches of state rolled into momentary distinctness, and then were swallowed again by the gloom.

"She has crossed the frontier once more, after numberless threats," muttered Eric. "Intolerable woman, to come at such a time as this! But so like her—so like her! It has all been premeditated, just to cause talk and to give trouble. Hark! they are cheering her."

Alonzo listened, and heard a volume of sound by no means deafening. "Is it not absurd?" pursued Eric. "It's like an opera bouffe with grand chorus of Saltravian citizens, you know, about two dozen strong. And what's absurder still, she's horribly unpopular here; they quite detest her."

"Of whom, pray, are you speaking?" asked Alonzo, with evident interest.

"Of the princess of Brindisi, mother of the king, and the most insolent and arrogant woman in Europe."

CHAPTER VII

It was indeed true that King Clarimond had abruptly received tidings which told him his mother had just crossed the Saltravian frontier. Between the princess and himself relations of a most frosty character had existed for several years. Few people, however, remained long on good terms with the princess. Her disposition was now merely overbearing; it brimmed with all the worst bigotries of the dark ages, and to say of her that she believed in the "divine rights of kings" would have been mildly to express her mental savagery. The course of her son and only child, Clarimond, had almost maddened her since his accession to the throne. She had detested his father, her first husband, the Archduke Conrad, and in Clarimond she saw the paternal traits accentuated, made more hideous, more nauseating. Conrad had presumed in her presence to air his loathsome republican doctrines, and his early death had seemed to her like a heavenly vengeance for such audacity. Marrying soon afterward an old Italian prince of great wealth and extreme conservatism, she again became a widow before it even vaguely entered her head that the son whom she had left with his tutors and guardians in Saltravia stood the remotest chance of ever being king. The princess adored Italy, and shrank from the cares of motherhood. Besides, were not Conrad's people taking charge of the boy and his enormous fortune? But, suddenly, when the sick old king lost his heir by a lightning stroke of disease, and when only two other lives could be counted on between himself and the succession, Hildegarde, princess of Brindisi, began to feel her spirit dilate with a haughty hope. For those two other heirs, had they not been sickly from their cradles, and was not one of them a fragile girl with a pulmonary ill of stubborn menace?

The girl died within a year after her brother, and the old king, who deeply loved her, became almost an imbecile through this double bereavement. Then tidings were brought the princess in Naples that her son might soon inherit the rule of Saltravia, as both the reigning monarch and his last left child were at the point of death. It was now that she hurried to her own child, whom she had seen only at intervals, and in a bored, perfunctory way, during the past decade.

But Clarimond, taking the reins of government at an age when his wrists were quite sinewy enough to hold them, had no sympathy with his mother's dictates and desires. To the princess his views, his tendencies, his avowals, were a mingled amazement and disgust.

"I am covered with remorse and shame," she would say to her intimates, "that this rebel against all the most sacred customs and precedents of royalty should actually be my son! He will bring Saltravia to the verge of ruin; he will infuriate the emperor; he will compromise himself past remedy and plunge me into untold embarrassments."

Her new position had caused her to surround herself with a suite of ladies and gentlemen in waiting. There are always people ready to play sycophants for those on whom a throne has cast its shadow, and if she had chosen to organize a political party in opposition to her son the task would not have been difficult. But in spite of her indignant disapproval she shrank from such a course. After all, though a cousin twice removed of the emperor whom she professed to venerate, her own greatness had come to her from Clarimond alone. For a good while she remained in Saltravia, treated with faultless though somewhat sarcastic deference by the son whom she had so long neglected, and then, angered into hysteria by his new intimacy with a young adventuring American architect who was to demolish all the old time-hallowed structures and rear horrible brand-new ones in their place, she gathered her little household about her and fled to her beloved Italy.

The king, who had remained courteous as he was obdurate, simply shrugged his shoulders at her departure, and breathed a long sigh of relief. "She is incorrigible," he said to Eric, "and I find her as hard to argue with as if she had been a figure that had stepped forth from one of my precious bits of antique tapestry, coif on head and hawk on wrist. I shall continue to act just as if she had never annoyed me by her curious worm-eaten prejudices and I shall write her regularly, once a month, letters full of the most dutiful filial sentiments."

This resolve Clarimond faithfully carried out. The princess, meanwhile, though she had retreated, had not given up her battle. She was secretly agitated by a dread that her son would make some terrible democratic marriage; for he had already shocked her by asserting that he thought morganic unions revolting and even criminal, and there was no written law in his little realm against a sovereign marrying whomsoever he chose. Repeatedly of late months the princess had written her intention of coming to see the new palace. Her son had given courteous assent to this arrangement, while inwardly groaning at the parade of ceremony and punctilio which it would be certain to engender. Now, at last, after many false alarms, a telegram had abruptly come to him stating that she had reached a small town about three miles distant, and there awaited his presence. It was then a little after nightfall. The king, who was just seating himself at dinner, gave a despairing sigh. There seemed to him the most studied kind of mischief in this entire proceeding. But of course her entrance into the kingdom, after so long an absence, must be greeted with due and prompt honors. As for honors military, these, at such an hour, were next to impossible. A cortege of royal coaches and a fairly copious escort the annoyed Clarimond soon caused to be prepared. But as a consequence of what she chose to consider his mortifying rudeness, the princess was driven to the palace in one of her most supercilious furies.

At first, during the homeward drive, she would scarcely speak to her son. Beside her sat a beautiful young girl of a very pronounced blonde type named Bianca d'Este, allied to the illustrious race who bear that name. The princess had recently induced this young lady to become her chief companion, and with what motive it was only too plain. In one of her recent letters to Clarimond she had openly written:

"I have added to my household the most charming of girls, Bianca d'Este. In lineage she is your equal, for her blood is not merely royal, but very ancient as well. I should love to see her seated at your side on the throne of Saltravia; and it is high time you married, as you must surely admit." Clarimond was not the man to be either coerced or counseled on matrimonial questions. He had never yet seen the woman whom he would have taken any great joy in making his wife, but he had seen at least four or five who might, even to his fastidious taste, have worn the crown of queenly consort with satisfying distinction.

As he now let his eye rest on Bianca d'Este's plump, yet dignified, figure and creamy, pink-and-white face, he felt no stir of interest whatever. She was undoubtedly a handsome girl, but behind such a look as hers there could not lie the intelligence which alone makes woman's beauty otherwise than a mere pastime of the senses to men; and our young king was a man who had never shown his senses very much respect, a fact which something in the silvery gray of his eyes and in the lines of his clear-molded chin went strongly to prove. Meanwhile, as the great state carriage rolled onward through the mellow summer darkness, and by the rays of the outside lamp which illumined it he could distinctly view this young Italian lady, he told himself, almost with weariness, that if his mother should insist and importune, after that fashion of doing both in which she so notably excelled, he might yield to her and let the cherished nuptials really take place.

The princess of Brindisi was a woman who rarely kept silent, even from sultriness, longer than ten minutes at a time.

Before the journey had been half accomplished she broke in upon a civil commonplace which her son was addressing to Bianca. So filled with bitterness were her words that Bianca's mild waxen eyelids lowered themselves as if in gentle sorrow.

"The king heard and bit his lips. 'I might have had a larger guard of soldiers to greet you,' he said, 'if your coming had not been so precipitate and unexpected.'"

"Precipitate! Unexpected!" echoed the princess, with the tips of her lips. "And a king speaks that way to his mother! One might fancy Clarimond, that some member of the petite noblesse—no, of even the common, vulgar herd itself lately raised to power—had presented this piteous excuse!"

"I did not mean it for an excuse," came Clarimond's cold answer and he threw himself back against the cushions of the carriage, disheartened, disgusted.

MILAN LEADER.

Charles Robinson has closed his school in the Barnes district, and will return to Agricultural College next Monday.

The house of Frank, surnamed Robinson, is now in possession of an heir to succeed to the title and honors of the estates, chattels, and incumbrances thereunto as hereuntofore and thereafter described to-wit: viz: A boy, weight 8; three days old, up to date.

CHELSEA STANDARD.

There is some talk of organizing a life saving crew at this place, for the purpose of rescuing pedestrians who unwittingly try to cross the streets. There is need of something of the sort.

Orman Clark celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday, Thursday, March 1st, by entertaining twenty-four of his friends at his home in Lyndon. An enjoyable time was had by those participating. The friends from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. N. Howell and daughter Belle, of Eaton Rapids, W. Lathrop and wife, of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. E. Hill of Mason.

CHELSEA HERALD.

Mr. Geo. Webster and Mrs. Wm. Judson will attend the Sunday School convention at Ypsilanti, March 13-14, as delegates from the Congregational Sunday School.

Died, Saturday, March 3, 1894, Miss Cora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilsey, aged about 11 years. The funeral was held from the house last Tuesday, Rev. W. W. Whitcomb officiating.

THE YPSILANTIAN.

Fred Fisher's dogs received one second and two-third prizes at the bench show now in progress in Detroit.

One of the best cartoons in a recent issue of the Winkler, a humorous paper published in Ann Arbor, was the work of George Damon.

Some people we are told have been very nervous over the prediction of a cyclone which was to occur yesterday and have scarcely slept nights because of fear. These people should remember that these wild-eyed prophets know no more about the future than anybody else, and their predictions are not worth a minute's thought.

DEXTER LEADER.

Geo. A. Peters, of Scio, who is an extensive peach grower, says that all peach buds on all young trees in his orchard are killed, but on the old trees a few buds are left.

The stringency of the times is illustrated by the fact that if you owe a man fifteen cents or so he will be after you before breakfast, while if he owes you he won't be seen for three months.

Township treasurer Keith was in Ann Arbor last Friday, making his returns to the county treasurer. The amount of state and county tax returned was $4,100; township tax $6,88; dog tax $7,00; personal $30.55; rejected tax $6.55; whole amount paid less delinquent tax $5,004.67.

During the recent fire in Chelsea, the Congregational bell fell and was broken and the pieces carried away by relic hunters. Now out come the trustees with a card stating that the metal is valuable and threatening to prosecute all possessors of large pieces unless they fork them over.

SALINE OBSERVER.

Henry Paul, on the John Koch farm north-east of town, met with quite a loss by fire Tuesday. While away from home from some cause fire started in his shop, destroying it, and from there it caught in the granary which with about a thousand bushels of grain were burned, the fire then caught in the end of a large barn which was saved by vigorous work by the neighbors who saw the flames and hastened to the rescue.

A. J. Robinson, of Manchester, has been doing quite a wholesale business west of town in do-horning cattle. About a week since he went into the herd of J. M. Gross, and performed the act upon thirteen of his cattle, all of which stood the operation well and Mr. Gross believed the idea a promising success. A new patent is used in the work which is almost instantaneous and is said to work like a charm. Less than an hour's time was consumed in de-horning the thirteen for Mr. Gross. While in the neighborhood, Mr. R. clipped several for Fred Gross, William Walker, Fred Walker, Emanuel Paul and G. Bauer.

MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE.

Two females who looked as if they might be returning from a visit to prince Michael's heaven at Jackson, passed through here yesterday. They had a tie pass on the railroad.

Our citizens were shocked on hearing of the sudden death of Frank Gillett, one of Sharon's best citizens, on Monday afternoon. Only the week before he was in town and but few of his most intimate friends knew that he was ailing.

Asyke AND June Clover Seed! JUST RECEIVED AT K. J. ROGERS, Farm, Implement & Feed Store

26 and 27 DETROIT ST., Ann Arbor, Mich'gan.

The remains of Mrs. S. W. Dorr were brought here from Hillsdale for interment in oak grove cemetery yesterday. Mrs. Dorr was one of the pioneers of this county and lived in this township until two years ago. The funeral was held at her old home southwest of the village.

One year ago the village had a balance of $801.11 in the treasury, now it has $50.32 and a number of bills are yet to be paid. It is estimated that the new council will begin with an indebtedness of about $300. The only thing the village has to show for the money expended is the sewers in the east part of town, and they cost a large sum more than they should, and are not what was needed for the best interest of the village. They have improved some streets and drained a low, wet place in the village however, and we suppose that we ought to be thankful.

An Unseen Enemy

It is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That suitable and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenacious grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, biliousness, dumb ague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against its insidious attacks with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of miasma in the system, and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malarious attack avoid poisoning your system with quinine, and use instead this wholesome remedy, unobjectionable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

Count Primoli's Camera.

Count Primoli is a familiar figure in Parisian society, spending a portion of the season each year at the hospitable house of his aunt, Princess Mathilde, in whose salons he formed the acquaintance and acquired the warm friendship of the popular novelist, Paul Bourget. He is noted as being, with the possible exception of the Duc de Morny, the most successful amateur photographer in Europe, and has spent enormous sums on various perfected apparatus connected with this particular fad.—New York Herald.

Warranted the most wonderful Bleemish Cure ever known. Sold by H. J. Brown, Druggist, Ann Arbor.

A Good Son Is This.

An interesting story of filial devotion is told of a Deuring citizen who, as a young man, followed the sea and visited many foreign lands, settling down at home some 30 years ago, never having slept out of his own house but 10 nights since that time. During all these years he has never failed every day to call at the neighboring house of his aged parents in the early morning before going to his work in Portland and on his return at night. He always finds his father and mother ready to greet him. He always says "Hello" in his cheery voice, and the old man replies, "We're here, John." That is all, but 30 years of that every day is vastly more filial companionship than falls to the lot of most fathers, and fortunate indeed is the mother whose fond heart never looks in vain for the daily visit of her son!—Lewiston Journal.

A Railroad Through the Sea.

An interesting experiment is about to be carried out at Brighton in the shape of the construction of a marine railway for the purpose of connecting Brighton with the four villages of Rottingdean, some three or four miles to the eastward. The rails will be laid on the solid rock with concrete and at high water will be covered by the sea, which, however, will not affect the carriages, the latter being supported on a framework that keeps them high and dry. At this part of the coast the cliffs are high, and the beach is practically inaccessible, so that no boating traffic will be interfered with. The cars will be moved by electricity, like those now in use along the eastern foreshore of Brighton.—London News.

THE KING HAS PETS.

THIS REFERS TO THE LION AND LITTLE ANIMALS HE LOVES.

A Professional Trainer of Wild Animals Tells Some Interesting Incidents—The Fearlessness of Pigeons Among the Kings of Beasts.

The way lions treat the tiny creatures of animal life is a study. It may be that there is some animal language, and that the legend of the little mouse which saved the lion's life by gnawing the net has become known to the denizens of the jungle and handed down as animal folklore, or it may be that the king of beasts has a positive contempt for anything extremely small, but it is nevertheless a fact that lions will not attack tiny animals when they are put together. Professor Edward Darlington, than whom there is no more profound student of a lion's life and character in the country, has made many curious experiments with his five big beasts.

"I never saw a lion kill a rat or a mouse," said Professor Darlington, "and I have had many of them put in the cage with my five lions. My attention was first drawn to this when I was on my way from London to Batavia, in Java, on the ship Rotundo. I had my five lions with me, and in the quarter of the ship in which they were housed were many cats. One day I saw Leo, my favorite lion, lying down and holding between his paws very loosely a monster ship rat. I thought perhaps that the cat instinct in the lion had made him catch it and that he would probably play with it awhile, then eat it, and so I watched. Imagine, however, my surprise when I saw him loosen the rat, and the rat made no attempt to get away, but ran up and over his gigantic paws and played with him.

"We were a long time making a trip, and every day this ship's rat went into Leo's cage, and the two played together as gently as two little children. I made several attempts to capture the rat, hoping that perhaps I might take it ashore with me, but I could not succeed, and I promise you that old Leo did not like at all my attempting to interfere with his pet. When we got to Java, we had to take the lion out, and Leo had to lose his pet. He could have killed that rat a thousand times, but he never did it.

"There was another instance subsequent to this where Leo had a pet rat, which makes me believe that the lion has a real fondness for the rodent. It was in 1881 in Calcutta. We were playing at the Maidan, one of those gigantic places in far India, and when I went in to see my pets one morning I saw that Leo had found another rat for a pet. My five lions were all together, but this rat would play only with Leo. There were many other rats in the place, but the other lions would not look at them. It seems to me to be a fact that the lions consider these little animals too small to be touched. I have known of rats being found dead in a lion's cage, but I believe that they were simply killed by the lion rolling on them or stepping on them through carelessness, but lions never eat them.

"In Hamburg once I knew a case of a sick tiger to whom it was deemed necessary to give some fresh, warm blood to tone up his system, and to further this end a live rabbit was put in the cage with the tiger. One would naturally suppose that the tiger would have killed it instantly, but such, however, was not the case. The tiger played with the rabbit for days before he would touch it. He finally killed and ate it.

"Now, my theory is this: A lion, or a tiger, or in fact any wild animal kept alone, grows very lonesome. In their natural state wild beasts always run in pairs. They love companionship, and when put alone they become so lonesome that when another animal, even though it is a rabbit, is put in the same cage with them, they refrain from killing it so as to have its companionship. We have heard of many instances of men being alone—shipwrecked, if you like—making strange friends. Why not a lion? It always made me feel rather bad to think of this tiger in Hamburg killing his little friend. Still even men at times turn on their friends.

"Now, there is another peculiar thing about this which is rather difficult to explain. To my mind it argues that a lion is not brutal in his instincts. Savage he undoubtedly is. Fierce at all times, but fierce with justice. I believe every one of my lions has a conscience. I know every one of them knows the difference between right and wrong. They know their wondrous power and are charitable. They would never attempt to injure something which in no way could do them harm. The study of a lion—his habits, character and capabilities—is one of the most interesting I know. It offers a field as yet comparatively unknown, but the more one goes into it the more time one takes to find out just what a lion is and the more he is convinced that he has rightly been named the king of beasts."—New York Tribune.

TRADE MARK. DR. A. OWEN.

A STATEMENT UNDER OATH.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO., August 15, 1892. Dear Sirs—I now am able to say, after having purchased one of your No. 4 Electric Belts with Special Appliance about one year ago, that I thank God I have found relief from my terrible suffering through the wonderful healing influence of your wonderful Body Belt. August 29, 1891, at which time I was a great sufferer, and had been for more than four years, from extreme nervous prostration, so much so that, on the least excitement, my whole nervous system would be all of a tremble from head to foot, and unable to control myself in the least, and would affect me to tears like a little child. I am a farmer by profession; in the fields, or at work on the farm, or at any excitement, it had the same effect. I could not lift the weight of five pounds. It so continued with increased suffering, until I was unable to help myself, and for eight long months my suffering was intense. My stomach was so weak that I could not take any food but crackers and warm water for the above time. My kidneys were so weak that I could not retain my urine, it would pass from me continually, and I was under the necessity of leaving my couch from six to eight times a night to void my urine, which was very painful. I was also troubled with severe constipation and piles, so that I was obliged to use injections to produce evacuations of the bowels. It was very distressing, so much so that I had to be lifted in and out of my bed for several months. The doctors could do me no good whatever, and I had made up my mind that there was no help for me this side of the grave. My limbs would become numb and cold, seemingly as ice, and I would try with hot bricks, rubbing and all other methods to restore the circulation and natural feeling, but all to no effect, and then it would pass off. Then again another attack would occur which would leave me helpless, and so continued periodically, and I could get no relief. The doctors told me that I must not do any work, and that it would be three years at least before I would be able to work. I agreed with them, for I could not, nor did I ever expect to again. The whole world seemed to me a blank, and my vital forces all had left me, and my life was fast ebbing away from me through the loss of my life fluids, which doctors were unable even to check. I had given up all hope of ever getting help, and I was in all my terrible fears started in the face, from which there seemed to be no avenue of escape from this living horror, of which no living person is able to know or feel, except his sufferings be as mine has been. In this state of suffering and agony I continued until about one year ago now I met a friend who, on seeing my helpless condition, advised me to try one of the Owen Electric Belts. For several weeks I doubted his statements about what he told me of the wonderful healing properties of it, but he was so earnest and persistent that I finally consented to send for one. He advised me to send for a No. 4 with spinal appliance, which I did, at a cost of $30.00, which is your price for No. 4 and spinal appliance. I will say here that it is the best $30.00 investment that I ever made in my life in the way of doctor's remedies or anything else, as I had spent dollars, up into the hundreds, but could get no relief whatever. As soon as I received the Belt and Appliance, I had it charged and adjusted and put it on, and in a short time after putting it on I began to feel wonderful soothing and gentle currents of its healing power passing and through me, clear to the end of my toes and fingers, a prickling sensation like thousands of needles. Many were the sleepless nights I had passed, unable to sleep but from one to two hours through the whole night for months. On the third night after wearing the Belt, I slept until morning and awoke greatly refreshed. I was not disturbed, nor had I to void my urine once through the night, and I have not been bothered in that way since. All the drains upon the system have ceased, and constipation and piles all have left me as if by magic. My nerves have regained their former strength, my eyesight and mind have become clear, and I have gained in weight about 15 pounds, and I feel like a new man. My stomach has got back its power of digestion, and I can eat almost any kind of food that my appetite craves, without pain or distress. I am gaining daily and I feel better and weigh more than I have for the past ten years, and it seems I have a new lease of life. I cannot say enough in favor of your wonderful Electric Body Belt. It is far superior to all medicines compounded for the relief and cure of chronic and complicated diseases and broken down constitutions. I would not take $2,000 for my Belt if I could not get another like it. There is nothing like it for relief and cure where all other remedies fail. I can not praise your Belts enough, for what it has done for me words can not express. I will say here that I recommend the Owen Electric Belt to all suffering humanity who fail to find relief from other remedies. It is the messenger of quick relief and certain cure of all nervous debility and other nerve troubles. I know it will cure all diseases which you advertise it to cure. This you may publish to let suffering humanity know there is relief and cure to be found in your wonderful Belt and Appliances. DANIEL J. HOPKINS, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of August, 1892. D. E. LYON, Notary Public.

The title of GOLDEN DAYS was an inspiration, and the paper itself has been a revelation. Our golden days are childhood and youth, when all nature is bright and the future shows no cloud. It is the period when the mind is formed for good or evil, and, in many respects, is the most important period of life.

Its broad and generous pages, coming every week all the year round, contain more reading than any other periodical in America. That is one reason; but the other and better reason is, that all the reading is just what the boys and girls want.

To keep GOLDEN DAYS up to this standard, to make it bright, breezy, and abreast with the times, requires writers who understand boy-and-girl nature; and it has them. Hundreds of thousands of boys and girls all over the world do not need to be told anything about their favorite paper, and we feel sure that GOLDEN DAYS will commend itself to many new readers in whose hands it may fall. Every number of GOLDEN DAYS contains liberal instalments of four serials, together with Stories of Adventure, Articles on Science and Natural History, Our Letter Box, Puzzles, Humorous Miscellany, Illustrated Sketches, and other interesting matter, and there is not a dull or common place line from the first page to the last.

Send your address or a postal card and you will receive a specimen copy of GOLDEN DAYS.

LITERARY NOTES.

The March Century will contain another unpublished lecture by James Russell Lowell, in which he discusses "The Imagination."—The Century Co., N. Y. City, N. Y.

Dr. Washington Gladden contributes to the March Century on article on the Anti-Catholic Crusade which will be apt to attract considerable attention. He criticises severely some of the methods of the American Protective Association in their endeavors to stir up feeling against Roman Catholics.

The Forum will begin this seventeenth volume with an innovation which it is hoped, will prove very useful to serious students of current problems. At the end of articles of such subjects as "The Income Tax," "The Programme of the Nationalists," and other kindred discussions, there will be published a brief list of the most instructive books and articles bearing on both sides of these discussions, so that a reader may follow his studies further than any Review article can take him.—The Forum, N. Y. City, N. Y.

Since the death of Mr. Jay Gould, and the revelations concerning the magnitude of his estate and the amount of current taxes paid thereon, there has been a revival of the discussion of the propriety of some form of pursuing legislation which should prevent escape from public burden from rich men, or which at least overtake them at death, if not before. Mr. R. T. Coburn, who has devoted much time to the study of this question, has evolved a plan which will do this, and sets forth his plan in his recent essay on "Taxation of Large Estates," issued in the series of Publications of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.—Philadelphia, Pa.

The Track of Progress.

In all the scientific advancement which has been made there is nothing which has attracted more attention and certainly nothing which is of more vital consequence to all than that which has been made in the treatment of disease. There are thousands of sick persons and invalids all over the country who have until recently been unable to avail themselves of the most scientific medical aid.

Through the thoughtfulness and kindness of that great benefactor of mankind, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York, all those who are suffering from any form of disease may avail themselves of this great system of treating and curing disease all over the land through letter correspondence. People can consult him by letter absolutely free of charge. Dr. Greene is the most successful specialist in curing all nervous and chronic diseases; he is the discoverer of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. He gives most careful and explicit attention to all letters received by him and writes the patient a full description of the case. The doctor uses nothing but harmless vegetable remedies and has had wonderful success in curing disease through letter correspondence. Send for one of his symptom blanks and he will write you a full description of your disease and give you advice in regard to its cure, free of charge.

Shuffleboard.

Shuffleboard is popular enough in England and Scotland and used to be popular here, but it is doubtful whether it ever penetrated to this country as far as Buffalo or Pittsburg. It obtained here in drinking saloons run by Scotchmen, and the last of the boards are now to be found in one such place in Brooklyn and a very few in this city. It is the same game as that which is played on shipboard, and in reality both are forms of the old Scotch sport of curling. Shuffleboard as it is played most commonly is played with one pound weights on a long thick board kept well sanded. It requires skill to slide the weights to just the right place, and it requires more skill for the other fellow to knock them off after they get there.—New York Sun.

A little boy, being asked if he was the oldest in the family, replied, "No, mum; my granny is."

He finds it "A wonderful cure for a bad cough" Mr. Wm. F. Anderson, 341 Water St., New York City, N. Y., gives this endorsement: "I have found Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup the wonderful cure it is reputed to be. It is just the thing for a bad cough."

THE OLD VALENTINE.

A souvenir of the bygone years, Breathing old odors faint as musk Which roses spill in dew and daisy; Its blazoned pages dulled by tears; Its faded Cupid drooping low. With broken wing and rusty bow; A leaf of life turned old and sear; Yet still she holds it sweet and dear, For love embalms each simple line Of that old, faded valentine.

She pores upon the cherished page— A lily past her morning glow, But fair as in the long ago. To such as she what matters age, Whose love is ageless, and whose truth Makes in her soul eternal youth? Still unforgetten kisses thrill With rapture her swift pulses; still She cries: "How bright this world would be Could you, O Love, come back to me, As once my own and only mine, My bonny knight and valentine!

"The fault was mine—oh, blameless fate!— To learn our needs and hopes too late, When prayers and tears cannot atone For wrong and sorrow dealt our own!" But, lo, a tread of eager feet Prosees something strange and sweet! He comes, forgiven, to forgive! "Sweetheart, to love that is to live, And love like ours can never die!" Nor need to voice her heart's reply: More eloquent the dumb, dear sign Of that long treasured valentine. —New York Ledger.

Catarrh in the Head

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrh. Catarrh sometimes leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.

Sensitive Horses.

Harsh treatment, though it stop short of inflicting physical pain, keeps a nervous horse in a state of misery. On the other hand, it is perfectly true, as a betted but intelligent stable keeper once observed to me, "A kind word for a horse is as good sometimes as a feed of oats." A single blow may be enough to spoil a racer. Daniel Lambert, founder of the Lambert branch of the Morgan family, was thought as a 3-year-old to be the fastest trotting stallion of his day. He was a very handsome, stylish, intelligent horse, and also extremely sensitive.

His driver, Dan Mace, though one of the best reinskmen in America, once made the mistake, through ill temper or bad judgment, of giving Daniel Lambert a severe cut with the whip, and that single blow put an end to his usefulness as a trotter. He became wild and ungovernable in harness and remained so for the rest of his life.

In dealing with a horse more than with most animals one ought to exercise patience, care and above all the power of sympathy, so as to know if possible the real motive of his doing or refusing to do this or that. To acquire such knowledge and to act upon it when required is a large part of the ethics of horse-keeping.—Youth's Companion.

To My Friends.

As you are well aware that I would not recommend that which I did not believe to be good, I desire to say to all who need a good, reliable, family medicine, that I believe one bottle of Sulphur Bitters will do more good than any other remedy I ever saw.—Rev. Cephas Soule.

Fast Colors.

A useful point is made by a writer in The Economist in regard to the term "fast colors," as applied to printed and woven cottons. The rule is laid down that the more delicate in shade a dye is the more difficult it is to fix it in the cotton fiber, but even the crudest colors will fade if goods are imperfectly treated in the laundry. Any of the goods, in fact, that are sold as fast colors, whether of domestic or foreign manufacture, are practically fast, but when subjected to the powerful chemicals of which many of the washing soaps are composed, or when hung out for hours on a clothesline and exposed to the bleaching influences of sun and air, the colors must necessarily fade to a greater or less extent. It is well known that the chemicals contained in washing soaps and similar compounds are in many cases as powerful as those employed in the process of bleaching muslins. In not a few instances, too, they are probably of a greater degree of strength, the result being that they weaken the cloth to an extent that the bleacher would not be disposed to risk.

Mrs. Fannie Dignam, 141 Mott St., New York City, makes a miraculous cure of her rheumatism. She writes: "I owe unspeakable and never to be forgotten gratitude to Salvation Oil. It made a miraculous cure for my rheumatism."

Abrogating the Fees.

Mrs. Pigg, a very charming and vivacious widow, called recently on a legal friend of hers to consult him on a matter of interest to her.

"You know, sir," she said to him, "that when the late Mr. Pigg died he left me all his fortune, much to my satisfaction, of course, but he handicapped me with the name of Pigg, which I must say I don't like."

"Well," ventured the attorney, "I presume a handsome woman isn't especially complimented by being left a Pigg."

"I should say not," she laughed. "Now, what I came to see you about was whether or not I must apply to the legislature to get it changed."

"Um—er," he hesitated as if wrestling with a great legal problem, "um—er—yes, but an easier way is to apply to a person, and I'll pay all the expenses myself."

It was sudden, but a widow is never caught napping, and she appointed that evening for another consultation.—Detroit Free Press.

An Acrobatic Shine.

The man was tall and lank, with keen blue eyes, looking over a nose like a parrot's beak. A shaggy growth of uneven whiskers sprouted in patches from his face, and he wore a long drab ulster, which partly covered a huge pair of mud covered topboots, into which were stuffed the ends of a varicolored pair of overalls. With a badly worn carpet gripstick in his hand he leaned against the wire fence beside the register's office and called a bootblack.

Two Italians responded, and each claimed the customer. After a volley of Mulberry street expletives each grabbed a foot and set to work. The man eyed them closely and clutched his grip a little tighter. In a moment the bootblacks renewed their dispute, and in their anger yanked the man's feet in the air. For a moment he poised, balanced on the wire, and then with a whoop fell backward upon the withered grass plot. A crowd collected, and the Italians scampered off. Their victim, with one bootshined and the other muddy, wiped himself up slowly.

"Gosh," he muttered, "maybe them 'ere fellers knowed 'pt bills in my boots, or else they were durned hard up for work." He ascended the steps to the bridge and was soon swallowed in the crowd.—New York World.

Royal German Dinners.

A characteristic of all dinners given to the court and military officials by the emperor and empress of Germany is that there is always provided a dish of sweetmeats, which holds as well pictures of the royal pair and their children, each bobbin having a likeness painted upon it. And when the hosts retire there is something approaching a scramble among the dignified officers and functionaries for one of these much valued souvenirs to take home to equally eager wives and daughters.—New York Times.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I had lost the sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did; my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh.—Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Rendell, Perry Co., O.

"What's the matter with it?" "Prices too low. Unless a customer takes a shampoo or something, it doesn't pay to shave or hair cut. Poor Jim! African Ants.

Dr. Sharp gives the following extract from Dr. Livingston's "Narrative of an Expedition to the Zambesi":

"We tried to sleep one rainy night in a native hut, but could not because of attacks by the fighting battalions of a very small species of formica not more than one-sixteenth of an inch in length. It soon became obvious that they were under regular discipline and even attempting to carry out the skillful plans and stratagem of some eminent leader. Our hands and necks were the first objects of attack. Large bodies of these little pests were massed in silence round the point to be assaulted. We could hear the sharp, shrill word of command two or three times repeated, though until then we had not believed in the vocal power of an ant. The instant after we felt the storming hosts over head and neck."—New York Ledger.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY! A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut.

The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers, they endeavor to cure the disorders arising therefrom by the use of the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of several treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

THE GENTEEL POOR.

"OH, THE PITY OF IT!" ONE EXCLAIMS WHEN CONSIDERING THEM.

Straining to Maintain a Position Beyond Their Means—An Anecdote About People Who Manage to Get Along and Get Along by Managing.

Do you know that there is a class of people who suffer and of whom the world never hears? I mean those whom we are apt to call the genteel poor. They are always with us. In my life I have listened to a great many queer stories about them, and they are really to be pitied. They are, many of them, single women of uncertain age, who are obliged to live on infinitesimal incomes and with an amount of style. They can't bring their ideas down to the level of their fortunes. They have always been used to certain things, and they must have or at least appear to have them. They can live only in a particular part of town, no matter if the rent consumes the biggest part of their funds, and they must do other things in just proportion. How do they do it? Why, with an amount of ingenuity that would be valuable in a better cause.

The "manage." That is the word. The genteel poor "manage" to get along and get along by "managing." Take a case that I happen to know about. They were a pair of sisters who rented apartments.

I am not afraid to assert that they lived on samples. They went from one grocer to another and collected, little by little, almost all the things they needed for their meager menage.

Sample cans of soup furnished their table at many a midday meal. Their cracker jar was a wonderful mixture of different brands. They did so like a variety, they said. Their bonbon dish was replenished in a way that seemed little short of calling. They would make periodical stalls at various confectioners and at each take a bit of candy from the piles that were exposed to view. Hidden in a bag, or in a muff if it was winter, the aggregate of this booty when taken home formed quite a respectable and helped out at their afternoon receptions, which, in accordance with their ideas of hospitality and the traditions of their family, they always gave during the season.

I used to wonder how they felt when they knelt on Sundays before that gorgeous shrine which they affected and gave the response to that solemn admonition, "Thou shalt not steal," but I fancy they thought it was perfectly legitimate.

They always dressed in black, and I am sure I don't know how they "managed" their wardrobes. I suppose the bargain counters helped them out, and I fancy their gowns were sometimes made by a very swell dressmaker whom years ago they employed as a seamstress and introduced to their wealthy friends. By this the woman was enabled to get a footing, and no doubt gratitude prompted her to give them some help in the reconstruction of their wardrobes.

But this was long ago. I wonder if the younger sister, who now occupies a position as the wife of a wealthy man, is aware that I know all about the gown she wore when she met the man who emancipated her from the thralldom of petty economy. I doubt it, but I do, and I am going to tell you.

The two women had been invited to a dinner given by a swell friend. The elder could not go on account of ill health, but the younger must. Then came the question of what to wear. Everything had been exhausted, and there was no money for a costume. At last, in despair, the younger woman opened a trunk filled with clothing from the rectory—their childhood's home.

She had it! Within its depths there was the black silk robe that her father had worn. It was heavy and of beautiful texture. Its ample folds would make a short skirt and part of a waist. While in a quandary as to what would fill out the deficiency she saw beneath the velvet pall that had covered her father's coffin. It had been the last loving tribute of a sick parishioner. Here were the train and another part of the waist.

Did not thought of its association with the dead man or remembrance of the solemn service return to her, you ask? Not a bit of it. Beneath it, crumpled up in many creases, was the crape that had draped the altar. Behold what a costume was evolved! A long train of velvet over a skirt of heavy black silk trimmed with folds of crape, whose somber blackness served to make still whiter the neck displayed beneath the décolleté corsage. She was elegant indeed, and at the dinner she played her cards so well that she captured an extremely eligible bachelor, and her struggles were over.

But think of it! I know you'll say, "Oh, the pity of it!" You have often heard the saying: "God help the rich. The poor can beg." I say the Lord's poor will be taken care of, but pity, oh, pity, the genteel poor!—Boston Herald.

A Real Swell. The tramp had called at a house where there had been a party the night before and had been given a very good meal at the kitchen table, with the lady of the house superintending the feast. She was a good hearted woman, and thinking the wanderer might appreciate a dainty she had added a dish of ice cream to the menu. She put a spoon beside it, and in a minute or two he was ready for it and she stood by to note his enjoyment.

"I beg your pardon, mum," he said as he picked up the spoon, "will you be kind enough to give me a fork to eat this cream with?" and the good woman almost collapsed.—Detroit Free Press.

His Planets. A young gentleman was passing an examination in physics. He was asked, "What planets were known to the ancients?" "Well, sir," he responded, "there were Venus and Jupiter, and"—after a pause—"I think the earth, but I am not quite certain."—London Punch.

MORPHINE'S NEW ANTIDOTE.

Dr. Moor Tells How He Made the Discovery and of His Experiments.

Dr. William Moor, whose discovery of permanganate of potassium as an antidote for morphine poisoning has made him famous, has written a paper upon the subject which has been published in a well known medical periodical. In this he treats the subject almost altogether, as might be expected, in a technical manner. He tells, however, of the investigations that led to his discovery in the following words:

"After some trials I found that the best way of administering it was to have it made up in pills with cacao butter and talcum of kaolin, and to direct the patient to drink very slowly a glassful of water just one minute after taking the pill for the latter begins to disintegrate in one minute at the temperature of the body. By using this method I successfully combated the extremely disagreeable odor in a case of cancer of the stomach.

"About that time I treated a well known actor suffering from acute pleurisy. This gentleman was addicted to morphine, and as I had taken much interest in him I earnestly sought the best plan to break his habit. The idea occurred to me that perhaps permanganate of potash might decompose morphine, the latter being an organic substance, and that by making use of a certain method I could eventually break his habit without restricting him from taking his morphine. My patient, however, started on a professional tour just when I began to put my idea to a test. This circumstance did not prevent me from continuing my researches as to the effect of permanganate of potassium on morphine, and today I am permitted to offer to the profession what I consider to be the antidote 'par excellence' for morphine."

Then considering in detail the peculiar effects of the antidote when differently administered Dr. Moor continues: "Having gained the knowledge of these facts, it is not surprising that I could swallow with impunity toxic doses of sulphate of morphine followed in a few moments by a corresponding amount of the chemical body which I was justified to consider the antidote par excellence for morphine. Thus on one occasion four hours after a full dinner, at a time when the stomach must have contained a great amount of soluble peptones and other organic matter, I took two grains of the sulphate of morphine in about half of an ounce of water, followed in one minute by three grains of its antidote—for safety's sake one grain more than necessary—dissolved in four ounces of water. In another instance three hours after a light supper I took in the presence of several colleagues belonging to the staff of the West Side German clinic of this city three grains of the sulphate of morphine, followed in about 30 seconds by four grains of permanganate of potassium, both in aqueous solution. I was perfectly confident that the antidote possessed such a wonderful affinity for the morphine that it would select it instantaneously from among the contents of the stomach.

"In case of poisoning by any of the salts of morphia 10 to 15 grains of the antidote dissolved in six or eight ounces of water should be administered at once and repeated at intervals of 30 minutes three or four times, or even more often. Permanganate of potassium as well as the salts of manganese are comparatively harmless, even if given in large quantities."

Dr. Moor continues: "In cases of poisoning by the alkaloid itself or by tincture of opium (laudanum), also by opium, it is advisable to acidulate the antidotal solution with diluted sulphuric acid, or in the absence of this with some white vinegar—not red vinegar—by which the insoluble morphia will be at once converted into the soluble sulphate of acetate. I have strong reason to believe that the administration of permanganate will be of beneficial effect even after absorption of the morphia has taken place."

Ages of Stone and of Bronze. The transition from the stone age to the bronze age can be read in the disclosures of the lake dwellers of Switzerland. This wonderful people lived through the stone age and for long ages continued on until they lapped over into the bronze age. Some of their settlements disclose only stone implements, while others of a later date show the bronze chisel, the bronze winged hatchet, the bronze knife, the hexagonal hammer, the tanged knife of ornamental design, the socket knife and the bronze sickle. They show also the bronze fishhook, barbed and in exact similitude of our present device. The ornamental hatpin as now used, together with other articles of utility and ornamentation, is plentiful. The stone mold for casting the copper or bronze hatchet is of exceedingly ancient date, but probably the use of sand was far more common, and hence we have less traces of that method.—Hardware.

The Height of Obliviousness. Yesterday I met a worthy gentleman whom years ago I used to see in the Paris salons. A few rapid words of greeting were exchanged between us. "Madame is quite well, I hope?" "Quite well, thanks, I hope?" Here my old acquaintance suddenly bethought himself and added: "Beg pardon, no—nothing of the kind. I forgot for the moment that I lost her six months back."—Etoile.
