permanent officers of the society:

President, J. J. Goodyear.

Prof. Perry and Mrs. Ward were elected to fill vacancies on the executive committee. M. C. Peterson was chosen the executive officer of the society. Mr. Peterson was instructed to notify the various liverymen in the city that overdriving would not be permittet in the future. Miss Bower and Mrs. Skinner were appointed a committee to draft and publish as a resolution of this society a request that the patrons of the various liveries be ready when called for on reception evenings thus avoiding the hands of proper persons stationed any necessity of overdriving. The question of riding bicycles on university walks was also discussed, and the president of the society was instructed to look up the matter and ascertain what could be done. A committee of six were appointed to solicit membership for the association, as follows: Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Goodyear, Mr. Hull, Mrs. Chute, Mrs. Beakes and Miss Bower. On the suggestion of Rev. Mr. Sunderland an educational committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Sunderland, Mrs. Wetmore, Mrs. Moran, Mrs. Beal and Prof. Perry.

A COMMITTEE OF OPERATORS AND MINERS AGREE.

MM seting at Columbus Results in a Scale Being Decided Upon to go into Effect June 18-Ohio, Pennsylvania and South-

Columbus, Or The joint committee on scale, composed of operators and miners, after working three days came to an understanding. Each side expressed a feeling that circumstances elsewhere had placed an agreement here in jeopardy, but each would try to effect an agreement if possible. On the third day at the close of a long executive session, the scale committee announced that an agreement had been reached. The compromise was on a basis of 60 cents for Ohio and 69 for western Pennsylvania. The agreement to take effect June 18, the miners desiring to have a week to submit the matter to the various districts, mit the matter to the various districts, as much opposition to the compromise is expected and the miners will have to be prepared to accept it.

The latter were not altogether off their guard and a party of their scouts met the advancing deputies. The scouts at once retreated and quickly gave the alarm to the miners' garrison. A party of 15 deputies while approaching Bull Hill on their way from camp to Cripple Creek, Cal., were fired upon from ambush by 20 miners. The deputies, being unprepared for battle, retreated without returning the fire. General Brooks called out snough milita to surround the miners and arrested them.

The conference of the miners and operators of Southern Illinois to discuss the coal situation in that district and attempt a settlement was held at East St. Louis, Ill., with a fair representation on both sides in attendance, but no agreement could be reached. The miners made concessions, but the operators would not concede anything.

A HOT BATTLE.

Strikers Kidnap Four Workmen and a Fight with Deputies Follows.

Four Americans who had been working in the Frick Coke company's works at Valley, Pa., went to New Haven to take the cars for a visit to their homes at Uniontown. A mob of strikers—all Slavs and Huns—from the works about New Haven, discovered who the men were and surrounded them, beating them unmercifully. Tags bearing the inscription "blacklegs" were fastened on their backs and their clothes were covered with chalk marks. The strikers then marched their captives around to the different works and held them up as samples of

The four prisoners were subjected to all manner of insults and indignities and were especially ill-treated when their captors marched them to their homes, where the women and children slapped and spat upon them and called them vile names. The women at every plant they passed were the most vio-lent in their abuse of the "scabs" and the little children screamed "blacklegs" at them and struck them with their tiny fists.

The Frick company heard of the perilous position their workmen were in and called on Sheriff Wilhelm to re-lease the men from the custody of the mob. Deputy Matt Allen and six men were sent to New Haven. They were misled by false information, the friends of the strikers baffling them at every turn, but they followed every clue they could find and were scouring the country all night and at daylight they arrived at Lemont almost exhausted. Very early hundreds of strikers assembled on the commons and when the deputies came up and demanded the release of the kidnapped workmen the mob raised a howl and surrounded the seven officers. Allen warned the mob to keep back, but the reply was a vol-ley of stones and one shot was fired full at Allen's heai. Allen called upon his men to fire, and the battle was on. The deputies retreated slowly to the end of the grounds and made a stand. Three strikers went down and the mob recoiled; the deputies did not continue the fight, although their forces were reinforced by the arrival of 13 more officers. Fully 60 shots were fired on each side, beside a wagon load of stones and clubs, yet none of the deputies were seriously hurt. Unbiased testimony cannot be told.

as they were carried away the number

The deputies identified six of the more active strikers in the fight and It was thought that the strikers of deputies were at once by the strikers in revenge.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

SENATE.-145th day-Among minor bills passed was the House bill which grants certain passed was the House bill which grants certain lands known as the Dearborn arsenal to the village of Dearborn. Mich., for public purposes. Mr. Blackburn reported favorably a resolution from the committee on rules for the appointment of a special committee of five Senators on the existing public distress, to whom should be referred the petitions of Morrison I. Switt and others (Coxevite petitions) bearing upon this subject. It was adopted without division. When the Senate took up the consideration of the tariff bill Mr. Jones asked leave to witndraw the "compromise" amendment of the tariff schedule which made the rate on leaf and unstemmed $1.50 and $1.25 respectively. and restore the House amendment, in which the rates are $1 and $1.25 respectively. This move was a surprise to Senators on both sides, as by the agreement the "compromise" paragraph was adopted pro forma, with the understanding that the subject shall be considered later. The other Jones amendments to the tobacco schedule were adopted. The next schedule was "agricultural products and provisions." Mr. Doiph, of Oregon, gave the last installment of his speech which he commenced some two months ago against the bill. The live stock schedule was discussed. In fact the whole of the time was spent in discussion and no action. House.—After disposing of some minor matters the bill to repeal the tax on state banks was taken up. After a number of repsesentatives had aired their views on the question the vote was taken on Mr. Cox's amendment, which was lost on a aye and nay vote, 102 to 170. The affirmative vote was cast by 88 Republicans, 75 Democrats and nine Populists. A viva voce vote on the bill was them taken and the bill was defeated. At 2:45 o'clock amid loud applause the House went into committee of the whole to consider the Indian appropriation bill.

The main feature of the debate was an attack on the Catholic church, made by Mr. Linton, of Michigan, in which he argued against the contract Indian schools, saying that under this system the largest share of the appropriation for educating the Indians went to the Catholic Indian schools. A resolution was adopted before adjournment calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to the enforcement of the immigration and contract labor laws, and another authorizing the committee on to visit Ellis Island for the purpose of studying the operation of the laws.

SENATE.-147th day-Mr. Hoar's resolution to set at rest the claim of the United States against the estate of the late Leland Startes against the estate of the late Leland Stanford was laid before the Senate. Mr. Teller suggested that the resolution be modified so as to confine the inquiry to be made simply as to the advisability of releasing the Stanford estate, without in any way touching the validity of the claim in order not to affect other claims which the government might have. Mr. Hoar agreed to the modification, but the resolution was tabled. When the tariff bill was resumed Mr. Cullom delivered a speech on the general historical phases of the tariff question. Mr. Washburn suggested that as the debate was proceeding slowly that for the remainder of the schedule the 5-minute rule be applied. The plan was agreed to unanimously. Fair progress was made with the agricultural schedule and although the Republicans fought hard to maintain some of the McKinley bill teatures they were knocked out every time. House—The day's proceedings in the House were enlivened by Mr. Walker's (Rep. Mass.) complaint of the poor ventilation of the House and the incapacity of the architect of the capitol, and by Mr. Wendock's (Dem. Mich.) reply to an attack of Mr. Linton on the Catholic church. There was also considerable business of minor importance transacted.

The entire cotton schedule, ten pages of the bill, was finished in 30 minutes. The Republicans made no opposition to the amendments proposed to this schedule, maintaining that the rates, though reduced, were so arranged as to make the cotton schedule the most "scientific" ever prepared. This brought the work up to the wool schedule, where it stopped, as both sides know there will be a warm fight on that. House—There was an air of languid listlessness apparent in the House and it was evident that the members were not in a working humor. It was District of Columbia day, but while several bills were considered, no action was reached on any of them on account of a lack of a quorum. wines, cotton and flax, jute and hemp manus.

Forest Fires in the Upper Peninsula Al most Destroyed Two Towns and Burned Bridges - Maccabees Celebrate Their Thirteenth Anniversaay-Items.

Destructive Forest Fires.

Specials from Ishpeming: A general panic is in progress in this region due to the depredations of forest fires. Sidnaw, a lumbering town situated on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, is terribly scorched, and Hubrailway, is terribly scorched, and Hubbell's extensive saw mill plant is completely wiped out. The greedy flames were seen advancing upon Nestoria, and the little village at the junction only escaped certain destruction by a favorable turn of wind. Two bridges immediately west of Nestoria have fallen prey to the flames thus suspending all freight traffic on that branch of the road, and a number of cars were also burned.

Clowrey, on the estension of the Chi-cars were also burned.

Clowrey, on the extension of the Chicago & Northwestern, is being surrounded by a veritable lake of fire. All cars have been switched out by the road and preparations are being made for the worst. J. C. Fowles' lumber output for the past season remains stacked in large piles at Clowrey and it seems doomed to go up in smoke. The loss of property already aggregates thousands of dollars and the fire shows no signs of abatement.

about $2,000 worth of shingles and ties.

The timber is very dry and the grass burns like tinder. Dense clouds of smoke hang over the hills and darken the sun excepting at midday, even this distance from the fire, but in its immediate neighborhood the sun's rays have not been seen for days. If heavy rains do not soon fall the loss of property will be enormous and in some places even life is in imminent danger.

The lumbering town of Rubicon, Ontonagon county, was partly destroyed by fire. A store and five dwellings were burned, including the telegraph office. The wind changed in time to save the mill and other dwellings.

The Knights of the Maccabees and the Ladies of the Maccabees turned out about 4,000 strong at Detroit to celebrate Maccabee Day, which commemorated the thirteenth anniversary of the order. The celebration was held on Belle Isle, and was a fitting one for a young order that has grown so lustily.

The sensational investigation of the death of Mrs. W. H. Thacker, of Ben-CONDENSED NEWS FROM ALL burial because of the suspicious incidents previous to her death, makes a strong case against the husband. Thacker was enamored of a former servant girl and she had at one time been the cause of very strained rela-tions between Thacker and his family. During Mrs. Thacker's last hours she developed the strongest symptoms of arsenical poison and the only thing she had eaten was a bowl of graham mush prepared by her husband. These incidents taken together caused the citizens to talk and as a result the body citizens to talk and as a result the body was exhumed and an analysis by Prof. Gomberg, of Ann Arbor, revealed arsenic in the stomach, liver and brain. The coroner's jury after hearing the testimony rendered a verdict that: 'The said Anna Thacker came to her death by arsenical poison administered by her husband, W. H. Thacker, at her home in said township of Benzonia."

Belmont county is almost entirely in the hands of the state troops. They have simply taken possession of all the the hands of the state troops. They have simply taken possession of all the coal mining districts, driven the miners from their places of rendezvous and are now masters of the situation. The miners are changing front. They say that if any of the miners are found guilty of helping injure railroad property they will be expelled from the miners' organization and blacklisted. At a big meeting at McClainsville resolutions were passed denouncing Sheriff Matthew M. Scott, of Belmont county, for calling on the governor for troops. They also denounced the governor in the most scathing terms. Under the protection of the military the trains have all been running regularly despite the reports of the alarmists to the contrary. New York.—Bradstreet says: Nearly all the unfavorable business conditions of the past three weeks continue to exercise an influence. The few exceptions, where improvement is noted are of practically local importance. Retail trade at many centers has been interfered with by unfavorable weather and by futher restriction of the purchasing power of thousands of wage-carners by further industrial trouble or by shrinkage in production. Business failures do not increase materially in number or importance. The see-saw of prices tips in opposite diffection this week, most strikingly in cerealis; oats, wheat, corn and potatoes are all higher; bar iron and pig iron are up sharply at St. Louis, and live stock at Kansas City. Lard is fractionally tigher. Conspicuous decreases in prices of staples reported are in leather and wool, due to heavy receipts of new crop. Coffee is of also. At large eastern centers there is no improvement in general business.

Is It Correct.

The Outlook quotes Mr. Howells as saying that such phrases as "seeing you in the window, I stopped to call," are not English. He maintains that what one should say is: "I saw you and stopped," and that the other form is one of the most common errors. Mr. Howells is an able writer, and an elegant scholar, but most people, when they stop to talk, prefer to do so through the means of ordinary colloquialisms, rather than standing up on learned stilts and spouting to a friend in the stiff and classic English of the Elizabethan era.

lies. That sort of a man writes lying advertisements. They may pay temporarily, but no permanent success was ever built on a foundation of humbug.

Most advertisers are honest. At least, they mean to be. Often each one of half a dozen dealers will insist that he has "the biggest and best stock in the city." Of course they can't all be right, but that is merely a form of words. Really it doesn't mean much of anything, either to the writer or the reader, and so does no harm-except that it wastes valuable space in the pa-

THE MOTORMAN'S LOT.

His Job Looks Easy Enough, But It Is Not All "Cakes and Ale."

To one who has never tried it nothing seems simpler than running an electric car. There are a good many simpler things, however, and as a matter of fact some men who railway have to give up because they cannot learn to handle the car. In the first place, considerable strength is required to manipulate the brake properly, and in the next place there is a peculiar motion turning the brake handle one way and the crank for shutting off the power the other way at the same time that is not easy to learn. The local railroad has no aspire to run electric cars, but they have a regular system of teaching the recruits the business, and every new man has to go through a certain line of training before he is allowed to take charge of a car.

When a man applies for a position as motorman he is placed on the waiting list, says the Boston Transcript, and when the company begins to get a little short of men and his turn comes round he is sent for and put on a car with one of the experienced men. Outlines and Incidents of Ann Arbor's Founding and Growth. Written Ex-A. Ten Brook.

OF HIGHER SCHOOLS.

The first school in Ann Arbor above the lowest grade already described was opened in the Goodrich block by Thomas W. and Moses Merrill, in 1829. It was soon removed to a brick building standing where Eberbach's drug store now stands. As to the amount of material for schools to work upon at that The U. of M. It was under the direction of the Reverend Samuel made. Hair.

For the foregoing account of Mr. Thompson's academy and its passing into the Manual Labor School, I have the authority of Mr. Thompson's own admirable paper read before the old pionear society in Detroit in January, 1873, and republished in the Detroit Free Press in May of the present year. I am inclined to think, notwithstanding what Mr. Thompson says, that the school started in the old academy building erected in 1835 on the corner of Fourth ave. and William street, rather than the manual labor institution, was the real continuation of Mr. Thompson's academy. This wooden building stood there at least until some time in the fifth decade of the century.

The county history fixes the opening of the Manual Labor School in 1835. and the same aothority makes Luke Parsons to have opened in 1835, a but society should take a more charithigh school at the corner of Huron st. and Fourth ave., the cite of Cook's Hotel. This says also that the Misses Page opened at about the same time a female seminary in the back part of the Leonard house on Huron street, which this authority says continued two or three years. I do not personally know at what date this school was opened; but I know very well that it was still in a somewhat flourishing con-

The school in the building now remembered as the Old Academy was first taught by Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, and was a fair continuation and perhaps an advance upon that of Mr. Thompson. In the Lower Town, schools began as in the Upper. As early as 1838 Thomas Holmes, now known as Rev. Dr. Holmes and living in Chelsea, taught a school in the Baptist church on Wall st. In the following year this became the district school, was taught by the same and continued in the winter following ters no industry so much as it does that in the new brick school house on Traver-st. Later Mrs. Mudge, who afterwards became the wife of Prof. C. K. Adams, taught the district school of the Lower Town.

The private school of longest continuance and best known was that of the Misses Clark. The prominent families of the time remembered it long because they contributed to the erection of the somewhat imposing edifice which | Siftings.

OPENING AND PROGRESS conceive her as heading the procession of her girls, some of them from other parts, in botanical explorations. Miss Chloe was the home matron of the estabishment. It died a natural death, the last in Ann Arbor of its type of schools. The building is now a tenement house.

Let Him Speak.

This is the season of the year when the college graduate dons a white tie and a frock coat and proceeds to enlighten an admiring throng as to the proper methods of managing the earth, says the Grand Rapids Eagle.

By a system of deductions known only to the young man who is about to receive his diploma, he proves that if certain things had not happened, other things would not have followed, and that if it had not been for the intervention of certain things, certain other things could not possibly have taken place. All of which is very gratifying to himself and pleasing to his father who footed the bills.

There is a tendency in the present irreverent age gently to "josh" the commencement day opinion of the graduable view of the young man who runs the universe for one day only. He is harmless and when he learns more he almost invariably becomes an honored citizen and a valuable member of

The trouble with him is that at the close of his collegiate career, he is the proud possessor of too much information that is misinformation, and knows too many truths that are untruths or only half untruths at best.

But let the graduate deliver his commencement day oration in triumph. It's the proudest moment of his life. He does not hurt anybody and he'll never know so much again. Let him enjoy it.

It is suspected that some crooked work was done somewhere within a hundred miles of Milan Wednesday night. The house is opposite Harrison street and is not ences in the state are coming to be the nature of Donnybrook fight.—Washington Cor. Detroit Free Press. A Donnybrook fight would not be in it if Gorman should show up in Chelsea and some of his former friends should get that all the outer blinds are tightly closed and even the front door is double barred with a great green shutter. Some eighteen years ago, says the Brooklyn Eagle, the house had an air of activity about it; its doors and its windows were not closely barred. John Snitzpann, a widower, lived in it, with his only daughter. He had built the house and had lived in the neighborhood for a number of years. He was regarded by his neighbors as somewhat peculiar in manner, but no one in the neighborhood was more generally liked, in spite of his eccentricity. But his daughter had tired of the neighborhood. Her companions and friends lived in more stylish localities and she longed for the day when her father would sell or rent the house on Court street and locate in a more fashionable neighborhood. Yet her father would never listen to her. Snitzpann died and left a will giving all his property, both personal and real, to his beloved daughter Katharine, but with the stipulation that the house, 255 Court street must neither be sold or rented by her or her heirs; that she must either occupy the house or let it remain idle. When Miss Snitzpann heard the will she said nothing, but her face wore a determined look. As soon as she

DERELICT FOR SIXTEEN YEARS. A Lumber Laden Craft Which Finally

Landed at Iceland's Capital. In 1881, when C. H. Hill, now of the Brazilian navy, was on the Jeanette relief expedition to the Arctic regions, sent out by the government, his ship for a time was laid up at Reykjavik, the capitol of Iceland. While there, says the Northwestern Lumberman, he saw a derelict float ground that his offence did not come in and strike the wharf. It was at once made fast, and proved to be The matter of finishing the sewerage | loaded with yellow pine lumber. The of the old craft that for years by tide and wind had been driven hither and thither was the Jamestown. The inhabitants of the capital thought that a great prize had fallen into their hands. Everybody turned out and took a hand in unloading. The lumber came out in good condition, Dr. Price's Baking Powder Receives and the Reykjavikans estimated that there was enough of it to last them forty-five years. But, alas! what a world this is as a hope-crusher! tles, purity and general excellence the World's Fair jury decided that Dr. After the people had unloaded and piled the lumber, the Denmark government stepped in and confiscated it and started a lumber-yard of its awarded a first prize or a diploma. All own. On the return of the Jeanette the baking powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive exquiry about the Jamestown and learned that she was loaded in Pensacola, Fla., in 1865, soon after the close of the civil war. Thus for sixteen years the lumber-laden vessel had floated as a derelict on the high seas.

> A Bridge Built by the Devil. Near Aberystwith, on the west coast of Wales, where the Monk river flows through a black, yawning abyss, there is a single arch bridge of unknown antiquity. The popular legend says that it was built by the devil, and far and near it is known as "The Bridge of Devils" or "The Bridge of the Evil Man." British antiquarians are united in the beliet that it was built by the early monks. but that fact does not affect the popular legend in the least, "Old Harry's" part in its erection being never questioned by the inhabitants of Cardinganshire. Grose says that "the bridge is an honor to the hand that built it, whether that hand be Satan's or that of some monk."-St. Louis Republic.

Necessary on Board a Flagship. The flags of the United States navy are made of American bunting, thoroughly tested for strength and soaked in salt water and dried in the sun for colors. There may, according to the Outlook, be some hundred and sixty flags on a United States war ship-say twenty-five foreign flags (according to the station on which she will cruise), twenty American ensigns, eleven pennants, four union jacks, twelve rear admiral's flags (if a flagship), twenty inter-national signals, and the remainder signal and miscellaneous flags. Ensigns, stars and stripes, of course, run in eight sizes, from that used on vessels with very long spars, such as the new Brooklyn and Minneapolis will have, and which is nineteen feet on the hoist and thirty-six feet on the fly, to the little 2.37 by 4.50 foot boat dag, too small to sport more than the original thirteen states in its union. The No. 1 union jack is the 10.20 by 14.40 foot union of the No. 1 ensign, and the other jacks conform similarly to the unions of the corresponding ensigns. In a recent story two friends are described as sitting out one summer evening looking over the Thames, and the writer goes on to say: "By this time the young moon had arisen, and its cold light shimmered over the misty river." "It's so tough I can't eat it." "You'll eat that or nothing," she said in a tone which almost shoved him under the table.

He picked up the knife again, resignedly.

"I'll eat the beef." he replied, "for I'm dead sure nothing is tougher than it is," and as he sawed away at it once more the lady looked at him curiously and wondered if he hadn't said something that somehow wasn't just what it ought to be.

"Namby-Pamby."

The term "namby-pamby," which has come to be applied to a person of vacillating character, as well as weak literary productions, was originated by the poet Pope. He applied it to some puerile verses that had been written by an obscure poet—one Ambrose Phillips—addressed to the children of a peer. The first half of the term is meant as a baby way of pronouncing Amby, a pet nickname for Ambrose, and the second half is simply a jingling word to

A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's afe will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which flutered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled esit up in bed and belch gas from my stomsch until I thought every minute would be ny last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting: but, thank lod, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken lifterent so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband cought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I welghed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130½ its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs Harry Starr. Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $I per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent opecialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

THE HOLY OFFICE.

Religious Body Composed of Many Octobrated Roman Theologians.

There are two different tribunals Rome to which is intrusted the indgment of books, pamphlets, ar-Beles, and other writings referred to them as liable to a charge of endanzering faith and morals. One of these is the congregation of the holy office, or inquisition, and the other s the congregation of the index. The very name of the former of shese-will cause a thrill of horror in the minds of those whose knowledge of the inquisition is derived from the calumnies and exaggerations that have been heaped upon it by its enemies, says the Nineteenth Cen-

It is not my business to defend it m my present paper. I would only remind the reader that it is most enfair to impute to the Roman inquisition the cruelty and injustice of the Spanish tribunal, against which the popes again and again protested. The Spanish inquisition is now happily defunct, and the Ruman congregation of the inquisi-tion alone survives. It is a permagent committee chosen from the car-Minalitian body, and holds its meetings always within the precincts of the holy city. It was instituted in the year 1542 by Paul III. by the constitution beginning with the words "Licet ab initio," and had for Its chief object to arrest the progress of the doctrines of Luther.

The congregation of the holy office, or inquisition, holds the first place among Roman congregations. Its members are some dozen cardinals, more or less, selected by the pope on account of their knowledge of theology and canon law, and their skill and energy in the transaction of ecclesiastical business. It has jurisdiction over a field of greater importance than any other tribunal whatsoever, for it has intrusted to it the guardianship of the purity of faith and morals throughout the Christian world.

Alone of all the Roman courts it has for its official president the pope himself, although in point of fact his multimudinous duties rarely permit of his presence at its meetings, and his place is taken by one of the cardinals chosen by him, who has to report to the holy father the same evening all that takes place during who acts as president there is a secretary, who is usually the senior cardinal present; a commissary, whose business it is to decide what quesmons shall be referred to the consultors for their opinion, and who is always a Dominican a promotor fiscalis or public prosecutor, who conducts the case, and an advocatus reorum or counsel for the defendant, who seeks to clear the writings of the charge of false doctrine.

In addition to the cardinals who compose the tribunal there is attached to it, as I have said, a number of consultors, and of these a certain number are selected, under the name of qualificators, for what is the most difficult and delicate part of the work entrusted to them. The consulters include the most celebrated of the Roman theologians, secular and regular.

The foundation of municipal honor in England undoubtedly springs from ever take it into his head to pay the Guildhall, London, which justly claims to be accounted the most ancient of our municipal halls, seeing that the lord mayor of the last eighteen centuries are with justice assumed to have their prototypes in the Roman prefect and the Saxon Fortreye or Portgrave.

For a considerable number of years the robes of the lord mayor, the court of aldermen, and the common councillors have been settled with a precision that none, save the most reckless of inventors, would presume to disturb. The lord mayor himself has his "gold" robe for the occasion of the annual Guildhall banquet and the times when he proceeds in state either to the new law courts or to the houses of parlia-The aldermen have their scarlet gowns, the sheriffs their distinctive and very handsome robes and chains, while the common councillors rejoice in gowns called "mazarines," it being generally understood that mazarine is a term for a particular dark-blue color, although according to some lexicographers, mazarine also means a drinking vessel and an old way of dressing fowls.

Then, again, when the sovereign comes into the city the lord mayor is bound to don a robe of crimson or. purple velvet, trimmed with ermine. At the time of his investiture, he wears a massive gold chain; but when he is honored by re-election at the expiration of his term of office he wears two chains. The mace of silver-gilt, surmounted by a royal crown and the imperial arms, is carried before the mayor by the authority of the charter of Edward III. while the city possesses no less than four swords, one called the "Pearl," presented by Queen Bess when she opened the first royal exchange, and so-called from its being richly set with pearls. This sword precedes the chief magistrate on all occasions of rejoicing and festivity. A Metal Corpse.

A workman named Moriarity was engaged in casting metal for the manufacture of ordnance at Woolwich arsenal, when he lost his balance and fell into a huge ingot containing twelve tons of molten steel. The metal was at white heat, and, of course, the unfortunate man was utterly consumed in less, time than it takes to tell it. The English respect for the dead is praiseworthy enough, but in this instance it was carried to a ridiculous extreme. The solemn old fogies of the war department held a conference and decided not to profane the dead by using the steel in the manufacture of ordnance, and that enormous chunk of metal was actually interred, and a Church of England clergyman read services for the dead

When Arrayed in Robes of State His A Colored Woman Laises the Snowy- Herald, which is probably published Furred Creatures for Love.

If the Pied Piper of Hamelin should Washington a visit, he would find that he had a rival already installed there, and the field fully occupied. The rival in question is Sarah Baker,a colored woman, who lives in Georgetown, near the junction of Congress street and the canal. She raises white rats, not for sale or profit, but merely for the love of the rats. Her room where she and her four-footed, longtailed proteges reside, is a queer apartment, filled up with cages, piled one over the other, and scores, if not hundreds of the pink-eyed, snowyfurred rodents, making up such a ratful vision as would ruin the trade of the best saloon in Washington, if the customers had to pass through it on their way after a drink.

The rats are all the descendants of two or three pairs, and were given to the woman a year or two ago. They multiplied and increased, and, declin ing to kill any of them, Mrs. Baker provided new cages, as the rats filled up their old quarters, until now it takes her the better part of her spare time to feed and attend to the wants of her file-tailed family.

The rats all know her, and will come to the front of their cages and take food from between her lips, or if given the liberty of the room, some of the corpulent old fellows will sit upright in the palm of her hand and wash their faces and comb out their whiskers with the gravity of a burgo-

A Good Appetite

Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The loss of a rational desire for food is soon followed by lack of strength, for when the sup bly of fuel is cut off the fire burns low he system gets into a low state, and is liable to severe attacks of disease. russastic Tired Wheels.

Pneumatic tired wheels of ordinary size are now made for use on various kinds of vehicles. The first vehicles so equipped appeared in Dublin in the fall of 1893—a brougham and a jaunting car. The tires of the brougham were three inches in diameter. A jaunting car with pneumatic tires made in New York has tires three and a half inches in diameter, which do not look at all out of place on a vehicle of that weight and description. These tires are inflated at a pressure of 100 unds to the square inch. -N. Y

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders or asiringents, because they are irritating, do not thouroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures.
A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm. Your druggist has it.

Queer Effect of an Earthquake.

The correspondent at Atlanti of the London Times has visited Chalcis, the capital of the northern part of the island of Euboea, which island was greatly affected by the recent earthquakes. A most peculiar inci-dent noticed by him was the action of the lofty Venetian tower in the center of the town. It swung to and fro so violently that it knocked down an adjoining wall, though it remained standing itself and sustained no damage.

Thousands of new patrons have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla this season and realized its benefit in blood purified and strength restored.

The Monkey as a Pottery Maker. According to the North China by some imaginative American, there is a tribe of monkeys in China, inhabiting the country adjacent to the great wall, which is well along in the arts, making their own wine and receptacles for holding it. Dr. Mac-Gowan, an English resident of Le Cheun, quotes from an old Chinese writer in evidence of the above: " * * On a certain day the people prepared a feast for the monkeys, placing the viands near their caves. Upon discovering it they all retired to their dens and each returned with a queer-shaped earthen jug. The villagers seeing this, scared the monkeys away and captured their jugs,

The conductor understood it all. The little half-starved waif was running away from some brutal woman, possibly a cruel step-mother. It was only after he had promised not to send her back that she relaxed her hold on his neck. The conductor fixed her up a nice bed with his overcoat and left her happy, chatting with dolly about "mamma," but two tears rolled down his cheeks as he left the car and saw his little deadhead passenger sleeping peacefully, hugging dolly to her breast.

The Beggars of Cairo.

When the late Prince Frederick Charles visited Cairo, som ten years ago, he was told that he did very wrong in giving alms to beggars in the street. "The fellow to whom you threw five francs to-day insulted your royal highness in the grossest manner," he said. "In what way," inquired the prince. "Why, he inquired the prince. "Why, he called you one of the dirtiest names the Arabic tongue knows of," said the Egyptian. The prince had the words spelled out for him, and the next day, before going for a walk. slipped a heavy riding whip up his sleeve. Pretty soon a number of fellahs surrounded the stranger, praying at the top of their voices that the distinguished foreign "son of a gun" bless them with a penny. No sooner had the prince heard the obnoxious term than he grabbed one of the offenders and whipped him until his arm was tired. His promptness and dispatch in delivering castigation obtained the Red Prince a great name among the beggars of Cairo. - Argonout.

What May It Cost in the End?

The servant girl problem is being worked out in the New Haven courts. Mrs. Hendee heard her domestic complaining about her hard work and discharged her on the spot, offering her $2, the balance of wages to the end of the week. The girl de: manded a week's notice or a week's pay and refused the $2. Mrs. Hendee tucked the bill in the girl's dress and pushed her from the house. A justice has given judgment against the housekeeper for $25 and an appeal is pending.

In the first year of his practice, Judge Royce, of Vermont, was called to prosecute in a justice suit, and, fresh from Chitty, filed a plea in abatement, which he duly discussed. The justice, in deciding the case, said: "The young lawyer has filed what he calls a plea in abatement; now the plaintiff seems to be a very ignorant man, and his lawyer about as ignorant as he is, and his writ doesn't seem to be a very good writ, and it doesn't resemble one much more than it does a hog-yoke; but the plaintiff seems to be an honest man, and if he has a just claim against this defendant, he shall have judgment " Whereupon, Judge Royce, elated at the result, but somewhat disgusted with the remarks of the justice, arose, and, making a very profound bow, said to the court: "I thank you, d-n you."-Argonaut.

SHE WANTED TO KNOW. A Pretty Girl Who Has Only Heresay

Evidence That She Is Married. She was in appearance about 19 years old, says the Albany Express. and wore a becoming dress and but-terfly cape saque, which set of her form to good advantage. Besides being the possessor of a form perfect enough for a sculptor's model she had a pretty face and luxuriant brown hair. This pretty girl occupied a seat in the police court and as she waited her turn to borrow Judge Stephens' ear she nervously wiggled her fingers and an ordinary observer could tell at a passing glance that a question of momentous importance to her at least was weighing heavily upon her mind. When Judge Stephens had disposed of his last case the young woman walked shyly up to the desk and "I want to know if I am really married?

"Eh! What! You want to know if you are married? Well, I wasn't present at the ceremony, and besides I should think you would be able to answer the question yourself,"replied

"Well, I'm not, and I came here to see if I was," replied the girl.

She then told the now interested judge her story. She said her name was Maggie Hale, and that she lived in the south end. Several evenings ago Maggie went to a party and met one of her male acquaintances. They both drank more than enough wine. which rose to their heads. They became hilarious, and not late in the evening left the house and took a walk. During the walk, Maggie says, the young man says they called at a minister's house and were married. Having completed her narrative the woman said:

"Now, judge, I want you to decide whether I am married or not; for this young man insisted as late as this morning that I must live with him. I again ask you. judge, am I a married woman or a single girl?"

Judge Stephens has run up against tough questions of law and struggled with deep and difficult technicalities, but this was too much for him. He thought a moment and then said:

"That is too hard a conundrum for me to solve. You had better call a jury of women to render the proper verdict. However, if the young man wants you and you like him, I don't see any reason why the ceremony, whether one was performed or not, could not be said

She left the court in better spirits. it is supposed with the intention of seeing the young man and demanding a ceremony which she will be able to remember afterward

SPOKE MONKEY LANGUAGE. A Man Who Conversed With Them as Far Back as 1857.

In 1857 Jules Richard had occasion to visit a sick friend in a hospital, where he made the acquaintance of an old official of an institution from the south of France who was exceedingly fond of animals. He claimed also to be perfectly familiar with the languages of cats and dogs and to speak the language of apes even better than the apes themselves. Jules Richard received this statement with an incredulous smile. whereupon the old man, whose pride was evidently touched by such skep-ticism, invited him to come the next morning to the zoological garden.

I met him at the appointed time and place, says Mr. Richard, and we went together to the monkeys' cage, where he leaned to the outer railing and began to utter a succession of gutteral sounds, which alphabetical signs are scarcely able to represent
- "Kirru, kirruklu, kirriklu"-represented with slight variations and differences of accentuation. In a few minutes the whole community of monkeys, a dozen in number, assembled and sat in rows before him, with their hands clasped in their laps or resting on their knees, laughing, gesticulating, and answering. The conversation continued for a full quarter of an hour to the intense delight of the monkeys, who took a lively part in it. As their interlocutor was about to go away they all became intensely excited, climbing up the balustrade and uttering cries of lamentation. When he finally departed and disappeared more and more from their view they ran up to the top of the eage and, clinging to the frieze, made motions as if they were bidding him good-by.

Why Not?

Frank Lockwood, the witty English lawyer, having been invited to stay for a couple of days at a friend's country-house, decided to accept the invitation if his host was willing to extend his hospitality for an additional two days. He therefore tele-graphed, "May I make it four days?" male, wanted and the message was duly delivered every where. Household articles. Sells shillings for its delivery, replied: "Yes, of course, but don't telegraph." Toward evening the mounted telegraph messenger again reappeared. and once more demanded a further six shillings for his services. The telegram when opened read as follows: "Why not?" - Argonaut.

Many Forms of Macaroni.

Persons accustomed to see only one form of macaroni on their domestic tables are astonished at the many varieties shown by macaroni dealers. There are at least forty forms of the article, some of them interesting and artistic, as the macaroni and egg, in which the paste has a yellow hue, is formed into discs two and a half inches in diameter, and stamped with various ornamental devices. This retails at ten cents a pound. There are half a dozen others quite as dis-

HOW AN AX IS MADE.

Numerous Processes Between the Furnace and the Emery Wheel.

On entering the main workshop the first step in the operation which is seen is the formation of the ax head without the blade, says the Philadelphia Record. The glowing, flat iron bars are withdrawn from the furnace and are taken to a powerful and somewhat complicated machine, which performs on them four distinct operations, shaping the metal to form the upper and lower parts of the ax, then the eye, and finally doubling the piece over so that the whole can be welded together. Next the iron is put in a power ful natural gas furnace and heated to a white heat. Taken out, it goes under a tilt hammer and is welded in a second. This done, one blow from the "drop" and the poll of the ax is completed and firmly welded. Two crews of men are doing this class of work, and each crew can make 1,500 axes per day. When the ax leaves the drop there is some superfluous metal still adhering to the edges and forming what is tech-nically known as "fin." To get rid of the fin the ax is again heated in a furnace and then taken in hand by a sawyer, who trims the ends and edges. The operator has a glass in front of him to protect his eyes from the sparks which fly off by hundreds as the hot metal is pressed against the rapidly revolving saw. The iron part of the ax is now complete. The steel for the blade, after being heated is cut by machinery and shaped. It is then ready for the welding department. A groove is cut into the edge of the iron, the steel of the blade inserted and the whole firmly welded by machine hammers. Next comes the operation of tempering. The steel portion of the ax is heated by being inserted in a pot of molten lead, the blade only being immersed. It is then cooled by dipping in water and goes to the hands of the inspector. An ax is subject to rigid tests before it is pronounced perfect. The steel must be of the required temper, the weight of all axes of the same size must be uniform, all must be ground alike, and in various other ways conform to an established standard. The inspector who tests the quality of steel does so by hammering the blade and striking the edge to ascertain whether it is too brittle or not. An ax that breaks during the tests is thrown aside to be made over. Be fore the material of the ax is in proper shape it has been tested five times, including the tempering pro cess, and the ax, when completed has passed through the hands of about forty workmen, each of whom has done something toward perfecting it. After passing inspection the axes go to the grinding department, and from that to the polishers, who finish them upon emery wheels.

Supterranean London.

It gives an impressive idea what subterranean London is fast becoming to learn that on emerging from the river the new City and Waterloo line will, in its passage up Queen Victoria street, run for a part of the way underneath the low level main sewer, which in its turn runs along beneath the District Underground railway. So that at this point in the city we shall have first a busy main thoroughfare, below that a steam railway, then a huge metropolitan sewer, then an electric railway. reaching its terminus at a depth of sixty-three feet below the streets, and here it will communicate with another line-the Central Londonwhich will lie at a depth of eighty

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the
