ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1894.

WHOLE NO. 1018

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

DEMOCRATS SELECT DELEGATES TO THE STATE CONVENTION.

Gorman Referees Outnumbered and Outfought.—M. T. Woodruff, a Compromise Chairman. — No Ringing Resolutions Adopted. — Several Towns Send no Delegates.

James Kearns, Dr. John Kapp, W. H. McIntyre, Hon. C. R. Whitman, Edward Duffy, Ann Arbor; P. G. Sukey, Pittsfield and Ann Arbor town; F. J. Hammond, Augusta; E. D. Fenn, Bridgewater and Lodi; William B. Osborne, Sharon and Freedom; A. D. English, Manchester; Philip Duffy, Northfield and Webster; Louis Klein, Sylvan; E. W. Wallace, Saline; John Nannery, Salem and Superior; George Coe, York; Daniel E. Quish, Seio; W. P. Beach, fourth ward of Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti town; James Taylor, Lyndon, Lima and Dexter; M. T. Woodruff, F. P. Bogardus, John P. Kirk, John Terns, Ypsilanti city.

These are the names of the delegates to the state convention elected by the Democratic county convention last Thursday. M. T. Woodruff, publisher of the Ypsilanti Sentinel, presided as chairman and M. J. Cavanaugh was secretary of the convention. It was at first decided by the referee wing of the party to call Mr. Hammond, one of the publishers of the Argus, to the chair, but the anti-referees, who seemed to outnumber the referees, said that while they recognized Mr. Hammond's ability to preside and while they did not question his democracy, still he figured with the Gormanites, which figuring did not go—this year at least. The referees were willing to allow the anti to name the chairmen if the referees would be allowed to frame a set of resolutions lauding Grover, Dickinson, Campau and Gorman, to which the anti again objected, saying that such resolutions would be vigorously fought and defeated on the floor of the convention. They said they were willing that the referees should praise Cleveland, but they must stop there. This was not what the referee wing wanted, so the resolutions were dropped, and Mr. Woodruff was decided upon for chairman. Everything went along smoothly until Sylvan and Superior were called upon to name a delegate. These towns were not represented, whereupon Mr. Duffy moved that Martin J. Cavanaugh represent those towns as a delegate. Capt. Manly opposed Mr. Cavanaugh's election in a rattling five minutes' speech, and won by Cavanaugh withdrawing his name. Mr. Hammond wanted to go to the state convention, but Edward Duffy carried off the plumb, and was elected. Duffy, who is the leader of the anti-Gormanites, was satisfied by having whipped the leader of the Gormanites, and desired to show his magnanimity by proposing Mr. Hammond as representative of some town which was not represented in the convention. Capt. Manly again took the floor and opposed the election of Hammond. The Capt. made an elegant speech, which brought forth thundering applause from the audience, and which plainly showed the referees that they were outnumbered three to one, at least. Hammond, who was as pale as a god, withdrew from the race, and the referees were completely whipped. A vote was then taken for candidates for temporary chairman. James Bach, while he did not care a great deal for the chairmanship, was, however, the candidate of the referees and received 40 votes, while Arthur Brown received 50, and about 30 votes scattering. So the full strength of the referees was 40 votes. This was a complete knock-down for the referee system in Washtenaw, and forebodes ill for Gorman's chances for a re-nomination. The hand-writing is on the wall, and is so plain that he ought to be able to decipher it with ease.

The anti-Gormanites were divided in their opinions on congressional favorites. Stearns and Morrow, of Lenawee, and Barkworth, of Jackson, seemed to lead in the race.

A gentleman by the name of Arnold occupied the sheriff's chair and occasionally took a walk in front of the audience. When he had an opinion to express—said that was frequently—he expressed it aloud. Of course it was a hot day, and the gentleman had been sipping a little too much Democratic soda. As a Democratic county-state convention, like the 4th of July, comes but once a year, of course the day should be appropriately celebrated in true Democratic style. So, from a Democratic standpoint, "he was all right."

A resolution was presented by F. G. Campbell endorsing Mr. Frank Howard for state treasurer on the ticket this fall.

When Mr. Woodruff took the chair he said he was thankful for the honor to preside over a convention of Washtenaw Democrats. He said that if he had thought that he was to preside as chairman of the convention, he would have come prepared with a speech. In the afternoon, however, he surprised everybody with a neat little speech. He gave the Republicans some quite severe jabs in the ribs, but he did not touch on the issues of the day. He said nothing about the low price of wool; he did not denounce protection; he said nothing about protection on sugar to please the South; he said nothing about the idle mills and factories. He did not "view with apprehension and alarm," etc., as Democratic speakers viewed the situation of the country in 1893. He was too wise to touch on the issues of the day. It would have caused a laugh in the convention and he knew it.

Arthur Brown was elected permanent chairman and John Duffy permanent secretary of the convention.

Adjourned.

Opinions of the Detroit Press.

[Evening News.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 22.—Dickinson appears to be a trifle ahead in Washtenaw, but things are badly mixed. The county committee was organized by the anti-Gorman people. Arthur Brown, county clerk and no friend of Postmaster Beakes, was made chairman, while John Duffy, son of Edward Duffy, Beakes' leading rival for the postoffice, was made secretary. Edward and Phillip Duffy are delegates to the state convention, and the majority of the delegation is anti-Gorman.

Only one postmaster came as a delegate to the county convention. Even S. W. Beakes, of Ann Arbor, appeared by Deputy.

[Free Press.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 21.—The Washtenaw county convention held today was largely attended, but two townships being unrepresented. There was no factional contention of any kind during the session.

WASHTENAW POPULISTS.

They Hold Their County Convention in This City Saturday.

The Populist County Convention to elect delegates to the state convention, which will be held in Lansing, July 4th, held its session in the court house on Saturday.

Hon. George A. Peters, of Seio, was elected chairman and Edwin Pierce, of Sharon, was chosen secretary of the convention.

Mr. Peters thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him by selecting him to preside over the convention. "This convention has been called today for the purpose of electing four delegates to the state convention, to reorganize the county committee and to appoint township and ward committees and to organize a central populist club at Ann Arbor," said Mr. Peters, "and it is necessary that this work should be done. The people are demanding reform, they are demanding bread, and they are demanding the wherewith to pay off the mortgage on their farms and on their homes. The time has arrived when the people must call a halt to the money power of the land in its system of destruction and ruin. General Jackson was the first man in the United States to cry 'Halt' to them; he declared war against them and defeated them. The Populist party is an organization whose aim is to legislate for the people and to secure the people's welfare and maintain it. Things are going from bad to worse. How do you like 50 cent wheat and 8 cent wool? Both the Democratic party and Republican party have brought about this state of affairs. Do you want them to continue? If so, continue to vote with the old parties, but if you wish to see better times, if you wish to live comfortably in a land of plenty which Almighty God has given us as our heritage and our home, join the ranks of the Populist party. The old parties join ranks when they legislate on monetary affairs, and those of you who read and think know this. The Republican party of John Sherman and the Democratic party of Grover Cleveland should be relegated to the rear, and, my friends, they will be." [Applause.]

Mr. Peters continued to talk in this strain for some time, which seemed to please the audience.

The following delegates were chosen to the state convention: C. D. Johnson, Dexter; Geo. A. Peters, Seio; Russell C. Reeves, Dexter; Emil Zinke, Freedom.

The following gentlemen will act as the county committee for the ensuing year: Geo. A. Peters, C. A. Bullard, E. A. Nordman, E. Zinke, and C. D. Johnson.

E. A. Nordman, of Lima, was called on for a speech, and responded in a happy mood. He began by saying that he concurred in the opinions expressed by the chair that the two old parties had outlived their usefulness. He would go a step farther than the chairman had gone in his statements. He would say, without fear of contradiction and, if contradicted, he was prepared to meet it, that the two old political parties were being controlled by the money barons of Lombard street of London and Wall street of New York. "We are told that Washington freed us from the thralldom of England. He did. We are told that Abraham Lincoln freed our land from the shackles of bondage. He did. We were told that Cleveland would at this point the audience began to smile) bless the laboring man by giving him plenty of work at higher wages. [Applause.] That he would give the tiller of the soil better prices for his wheat, for his produce and for his wool. [Loud cheers.] Has he done it? [Cheers.] I will let you answer that question, my friends. I notice some newspaper men here today. I am pleased to see them here. They are welcome guests and I hope they will treat our party with a little more consideration in the future than they have in the past. They neglect to make mention of the holding of caucuses and conventions and meetings of the Populist party and generally take pains to ridicule and condemn us."

A number of others spoke, after which the convention adjourned.

Where the Chicken Got the Hatchet.

[Grass Lake News.]

The arrogant and boastful local editor of the Ann Arbor Courier is complacent with pride over the circumstance that none of his ancestors were ever in jail. But it has been proven that one of them was once in congress and consequently this hypocritical braggart has to take a back seat.

Because the editor of the News has aesthetic tastes and admires all lovely objects, the catiff of THE ANN ARBOR REGISTER indulges in brutal guffaws. We shall not mind it. And as we pass along the highway of life we hope to smile with inner and outer joy as we view the flowery mead, the star-gemmed skies, a pretty face, or a big red boil on the neck of an enemy, perfectly oblivious of sneering laughter from 'tother side of the hedge. But hold! on second thought we will mind it, and give fair warning that we won't have our sacred feelings trifled with, if we have to give a job to every undertaker in Ann Arbor.

A Valuable Invention.

Mr. E. J. Knowlton, one of Ann Arbor's well known citizens, has recently secured letters patent on an invention on which he has been working for the past twenty years. Mr. Knowlton is known the world over as the manufacturer of portable rubber bath tubs. Years ago Mr. Knowlton conceived the idea that a substitute could be used for rubber in making sacks for his baths and one which would cost much less and be just as durable. If not more so, than rubber itself. Some five years ago he succeeded in compounding such a material and at once made a number of baths, using the substitute in place of rubber, and as an experimental test he placed these bath tubs into the homes of a few well-known families in this city where, during these years, they have been in use and have stood the test with remarkable success. In fact we found, upon examining one of these baths one day this week, that, although it had been in service for five years, it seemed fully as good as new. The compound which Mr. Knowlton has succeeded in making may be applied to any kind of fabric and makes the same entirely water proof and sufficiently strong to withstand great pressure. As it is only about one-half as expensive as rubber and will, we think, be found far more durable, its use must necessarily become very general. It can readily be substituted for rubber in the manufacture of all kinds of water-proof goods, and this alone opens up a wide and extremely profitable field for its use. Then, too, it can, doubtless, be made use of in the manufacture of all kinds of hose pipe. In this latter use alone the substitution of a material costing only one-half as much as rubber would be worth an immense fortune to any company. Various samples of fabrics coated with this compound have been submitted to Mr. Ottmar Eberbach, a well-known pharmacist, who has given the most rigid chemical tests. He gives the result of his experiment as follows:

ANN ARBOR, MICH., MAY 12, 1894.
The fabrics furnished us by Mr. E. J. Knowlton, treated by this process for making them water proof, with request to test them, in regard to their resistance to the action of various chemical salts, particularly with view of testing lasting qualities when used for baths containing chemical salts.
Some samples were taken out of the solutions, exposed to the air for several days, and again placed in the solutions for a week. After maceration for time mentioned samples were taken, worked, wrinkled and rubbed, then dried and again worked and wrinkled. On examination the goods we found to be perfectly sound and well coated, leaving them perfectly elastic and not in least impaired even after the lapse of several months.

OTTMAR EBERBACH,
Member of Michigan Board of Pharmacy.

Mr. Knowlton has already secured patents on his discovery in the United States, and proceedings are in process for the same in England, Germany, Austria and France. We understand that a number of capitalists have investigated the matter and made liberal offers for the patent. Mr. Knowlton, however, is in no haste to dispose of his interests in this invention, as he is fully aware of its great value.

MURDERED CARNOT.

THE PRESIDENT OF FRANCE
FATALLY STABBED.A Cowardly Crime Committed by an Italian During a Gala Day at Lyons, France
—Police Have a Hard Struggle to Protect the Assassin.

Paris cables: President Sadi Carnot, of the republic of France, was stabbed to death while driving through the streets of Lyons, the assassin being an Italian anarchist named Santo.

M. Carnot was visiting Lyons in connection with the international exhibition. Upon his arrival he was tendered a reception of the prefecture. After which he visited the exhibition. He proceeded to the Palais de Commerce, where a banquet was given in his honor. At 9:25 o'clock in the evening Carnot started for the theater, where a gala performance was to be given because of his presence. Several carriages were in the procession, the first one being occupied by the president. Half way down the street, which was lined with enthusiastic crowds of people who were loudly cheering, a man rushed out of the crowd and sprang upon the step of the president's landau under the pretext of presenting a petition.

Just at this moment M. Carnot was waving his right hand and saluting with his hat in his left hand in response to the ovation that was being given to him by the crowd. The people close to the carriage saw that the man standing on the step had a knife in his hand. By the glare of the electric lights they saw the bright blade gleam in the air as the assassin's arm descended, and then President Carnot was seen to fall back in his seat, his face deathly pale. One of his hands was pressed over his heart, where the steel had entered the body. M. Rivaud, prefect of Lyons, who was seated beside M. Carnot, immediately struck the assassin a blow full in the face, and knocked him from the step, thus preventing the man from again stabbing the president, which it was his evident intention to do.

Instantly cries of "Le president est assassiné," "Mort à l'assassin," were heard on every side, and the crowd in the vicinity of the carriage swelled to enormous proportions, every member of it seemingly intent on killing the assassin. He was grasped by a dozen hands, and his life would have then and there paid the forfeit of his crime had it not been for several sergeants de ville, who seized him and attempted to draw him away from his captors. This was impossible, as the infuriated populace were determined to lynch the man, and the efforts of the sergeants availed nothing beyond saving the man from instant death. The news spread with lightning-like rapidity and mounted guards were sent to the aid of the police, who were still struggling to preserve the life of the assassin.

With drawn sabers in their hands the guards rode down into the swirling crowd, heedless of whom their horses trampled upon. The crowd gave way before the horses, and at last the center of the mob was reached. Then a cordon was formed around the then almost exhausted policeman and their captive, and the march to the police station began. In the meantime physicians were hastily summoned to attend the president, who had almost immediately been conveyed to the prefecture. A careful examination was made of the wound and the doctors declared that the condition of M. Carnot was hopeless. When the announcement was made at the Grand theater, where the elite of Lyons had gathered to see the president, there was intense excitement. Women screamed, many fainted and men rushed out without their hats.

After examining President Carnot's wound all the physicians in attendance agreed that an operation was necessary, whereupon Dr. Ollier immediately probed the wound. While this was being done, M. Carnot came to his senses and said feebly but distinctly: "How you are hurting me." The doctor, however, continued to attend the wound, the outward bleeding of which had stopped. They knew, though, that the president's condition was extremely grave as they more than suspected internal hemorrhage had commenced.

Shortly after midnight the archbishop of Lyons was summoned to the bedside of the dying president to administer to him the last rites of the church and administer the sacrament, which he did at 12:30 o'clock.

Mr. Carnot remained conscious to the last. He realized that his life was rapidly ebbing, and twice he said "Je m'en vais." Dr. Poncet leaned over the bed on which the president was lying and said to him: "Your friends are here, Monsieur le President." M. Carnot replied: "I am grateful for their presence," and in less than a minute he gasped for breath, there was a convulsive shuddering of his body, and the president of France was dead.

The assassin is an Italian named Caesar Giovanni Santo. He speaks French badly and when questioned by Prefect Lepino, at the police station in Rue Molliere, he had only come to Lyons. He gave his age at 22 years. His replies were given coolly, but without any sign of bravado. He refused, however, to answer any of the many questions put to him regarding his motive, declaring that on this subject he would speak only before a tribunal.

When the populace learned that their president had been stabbed by an Italian, the feeling against every person of that nationality became fiendish. Every cafe and house owned or occupied by Italians was sacked and several of the people had narrow escapes with their lives.

M. Carnot's last speech was delivered at the banquet given in his honor. He dwelt upon the success of the exhibition, and said that the same heart beats in all French breasts when it is known that the honor, security or rights of the country are at stake. This same union of all Frenchmen formed a guarantee of the march towards progress and justice, to which it belonged to France to give an example to the world.

Henry Leonhardt was found dead near Forestville creek with a bullet hole in his left breast and a revolver close by. It is supposed to be suicide.

SMALLPOX.

The Terrible Disease Continues to Spread —Detroit's Careless Health Officials.

Since the smallpox became epidemic in Chicago—where there were over 1,350 cases—the disease has been creeping into various towns and cities in Michigan and a number of deaths have resulted.

Detroit has suffered more than any other locality owing to the neglect of her health commissioner to make prompt diagnosis of suspicious cases. The first case in Detroit was a colored woman employed as cook in a cheap restaurant who came in contact with some infected person from Chicago.

The second case was brought to the notice of the citizens by the death of a Miss Leonard, a waiter girl in the Merchant's hotel, a lodging house and hotel. This case was pronounced to be measles by a prominent physician and Health Commissioner McLeod refused to make an examination although informed that it was a very suspicious case. Yet after the girl's death he was induced to look at her and at once pronounced it a case of smallpox. A large number of people had been exposed for some time and many of them made good their escape before the place was finally quarantined. The citizens of Detroit were very much wrought up over the dilatoriness of the health commissioner and when, within a short time, five new cases were discovered in one day and all traced directly to the Merchant's hotel case, the feeling became decidedly warm and the health commissioner was urged to resign, but refused.

To cap the climax he absented himself from his office and one man with a well developed case of smallpox was waiting for four hours in the corridor of the Municipal building to see McLeod. The next day five more cases were discovered and then the health board and Mayor Pingree took it upon themselves to force McLeod from office and appoint a temporary successor. During all this time the patients were quarantined in the heart of the city within half a block of a school and a half dozen houses in various parts of the city quarantined and their inmates imprisoned. Two more cases were found the day McLeod was fired and several hundred people have been exposed.

A brother of the Leonard girl returned to his home at Newport, Monroe county, and was soon confined with the disease, and in a short time there were four cases in that town and no telling how many were exposed. Sheriff Kirchgessner went out and caused the churches, creamery, Adolph Menard's saloon and several other places to be closed, and put on a force of eight deputies to see that none who are known to have been exposed got out to endanger others. Mrs. Joseph Laduke, who lives in the heart of the village, is the latest victim. She was ill several days before it was announced that she had smallpox, and a relative who lived at the same house is said to have been peddling meat about the village at the time. Her husband, who is constable, took four tramps to jail at Monroe from Newport.

Ypsilanti's first case of smallpox was discovered by Dr. Batwell. The victim is John Harris, a Negro from Waterford. Batwell met Harris on the street and noticed symptoms of the disease. The patient is now quarantined in a brick tenement occupied by Negroes.

In the village of Clarenceville, Oakland county, 12 miles from Detroit, a case of smallpox was discovered by Health Officer Best, of Farmington. The case is that of a man who peddles fish from Detroit, who had been lying in a barn for two days. The health officer quarantined the village, put a fence around the house and placed toll bars across the road guarded to prevent people from going out and coming in.

A case of varioloid has appeared at Lenox, Grant Bailey, a drug clerk, is the victim. The health board has isolated the case, the character of which is unquestioned.

The state board of health report dated June 20 gives a total of 51 cases in Michigan since January 1 with 14 deaths.

DETROITERS DROWNED.

A Sunday Excursion Across Lake St. Clair Costs Three Lives.

A terrible catastrophe occurred on Lake St. Clair, which resulted in the drowning of Caleb E. Healy, the well-known inventor of the Healy motor, who resides at 975 Jefferson avenue, and Kittie and Maggie Ortwin, aged 25 and 23 respectively, daughters of Capt. Peter Ortwin, of engine company No. 7, all of Detroit, who were spending the day on the former's motor launch Ellen M. The two other occupants of the boat, Miss Birdie Rousseau, aged 17, and Miss Rose Hawley, aged 18, were saved by the crew of the propeller J. H. Pauly, commanded by Capt. Cooke, and coal-laden for Toledo. The little craft was literary swamped by the high sea which was running, and but for the timely assistance of the J. H. Pauly the whole five would have found a watery grave. Mr. Healy died at his post, while the Misses Ortwin seemed paralyzed with fear and they were unable to exert themselves. Each was solicitous of the other, and they died with one arm around the other's neck and with the other grasping the boat in a vain attempt to save themselves. Miss Rousseau and Miss Hawley were alive to the terrible danger that stared them in the face and they lost no time in jumping from the fast filling launch into the ready hands of the sailors who were straining every nerve to give assistance.

The twelfth annual convention of the Master Plumbers' National association was held in Detroit. The number in attendance was much larger than ever before, amounting to nearly 400 delegates, and nearly as many others interested in the proceedings.

Asahel Hale, of Traverse City, received a pension in 1863 and drew three semi-annual payments, after which he forgot that he had any right to draw a pension. In 1892 he applied again for a pension, and was denounced as a fraud, because he was believed to be dead. Asahel couldn't remember his pension, but he proved his identity, and Commissioner Lochren not only granted him the pension, for which he had made application, but granted him continuous pension from November, 1864, at the rate of $1 per month, and ordered that hereafter his pension shall be rated at $2 per month.

Roy McLees, aged 6, was caught under a rolling log while playing in a mill yard at Flint and received injuries that will prove fatal.

The state convention of coal miners called by President Adams met at Columbus, O., with about 60 delegates present. Nothing was accomplished. Henry Batton and William Choate were struck by lightning and instantly killed and Weston Warner and William Dixon fatally shocked at Lafayette, Tenn. Choate's hat, shoes and clothing were torn into shreds and the ground torn up where he stood. No marks were left upon the body.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

SENATE.—157th day.—Mr. Peffer addressed the Senate briefly in support of his resolution instructing the committee on postoffices and postroads to report back a postal savings bill. Mr. Anderson said he had introduced a postal savings bill based on the English system, but he did not favor the paternalistic scheme of Mr. Peffer, which contemplated making the government the banker of the people and the complete extinction of private financial institutions. No action was taken. Rapid progress was made with the tariff bill. The income tax on page 70 had been reached when the Senate adjourned. Only 61 pages of the bill, the income tax and the internal revenue features, remain undisposed of, and the end of the long debate seems close at hand. The remaining features of the free list were completed without friction, both sugar and wool, the great controversial items, contrary to expectation, not giving rise to debate. A yeas and nays vote was demanded on striking sugar from the free list, while the final struggle on free wool was postponed until the bill should be reported to the Senate. Salt was placed on the free list. Logs and lumber, including dressed lumber, were placed on the free list. Mr. Peffer gave notice of the intention to offer an amendment to graduate the income tax so that incomes in excess of $1,000 and below $10,000 subject to a tax of 1 per cent; between $10,000 and $25,000, 2 per cent; between $25,000 and $50,000, 3 per cent; between $50,000 and $100,000, 4 per cent; and $100,000 and over, 5 per cent. HOUSE.—The anti-option bill occupied the attention of the House all day.

SENATE.—158th day.—Among the bills passed was one to authorize a commission to draft a code of laws for the district of Alaska, and another to promote the efficiency of the navy. Mr. Hill, of New York, made the opening speech against the tariff bill, and delivered a carefully prepared argument. A sensational combat of words was indulged in by Mr. Allen and Mr. Chandler. Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, to oppose the income tax. Mr. Aldrich moved that the date on which the income tax should cease be January 1, 1900. The amendment was defeated and the report of the subcommittee on the tariff bill was heard during the tariff debate, but the question was not settled. HOUSE.—There was little interest manifested in the House, and several minor bills and resolutions were passed. There was some delay in taking up the anti-option bill and an agreement was entered into extending the time for debate for two hours on the closing day, to be consumed under the five-minute rule, after which Mr. Hatch will be allowed an hour for his closing speech. Several speeches were made bearing upon the bill. Mr. Pence, Populist, of Colorado, spoke on the silver question.

SENATE.—159th day.—Bills passed: The House bill to incorporate the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias was reported favorably and was immediately passed. Senate bill for the relief of Charles College, Missouri (being a payment for use of property during the war); Senate bill appropriating $40,000 for the investigation and tests of American timber by the forestry division of the agricultural department; Senate bill making first Monday in September of each year (Labor Day) a legal holiday. When the tariff bill was taken up Senator Kyle made a speech in favor of the income tax. Mr. Vest offered four additional amendments to the income tax section. One was one to reduce the exemption from $4,000 to $3,000; another exempted from the operation of the tax building and loan associations making loans only to their shareholders; another provides that in reckoning the profits of corporations for taxation actual operating expenses, losses and interest on fixed indebtedness shall be excluded. Mr. Teller and Mr. Allen supported the income tax while Mr. Sherman opposed it. Mr. Jarvis, Senator from New York, called for a vote on his first speech. The Senator picked out the Democratic income tax for special attack and took the good old-fashioned republican and monarchical position. He gave a very good impression on his colleagues as a public speaker. The income tax was a war measure, he said, necessitated by the exigencies of that great struggle. In order to meet the enormous drain upon the resources of the government, it was admitted to be simply a war measure enacted against the protest of the Democratic party, and there is no excuse for its existence in the peace time.

HOUSE.—The House went into committee of the whole on the anti-option bill. Mr. Hatch was then recognized, and was given an hour to close the debate on the bill, which was then passed, 149 to 87. Immediately after the passage of the bill the general deficiency appropriation bill was taken up, but no action taken. Pensions in the evening.

TARRED AND FEATHERED.

The Adjutant-General of Colorado Treated Most Atrociously by Masked Men.

Adj.-Gen. Tarsney was kidnapped from the Alamo Hotel, at Colorado Springs, a few minutes after midnight by masked men, taken to the suburbs in a hack and there tarred and feathered.

Tarsney was called to the telephone and as he was talking two masked men entered and forced him into a cab, which was driven off at a gallop. In 15 minutes Police Captain Gatherlight and Officers Harlan and Henry were riding furiously in the direction taken by the kidnappers, and their victim, Officer Harlan came up just as the hack was being deserted five miles out. The five masked men pointed their guns at him and compelled him to dismount. Gen. Tarsney was then led through the pasture to a point half a mile from the road and almost a mile from any building. He was compelled to disrobe and covered with a liberal coat of tar and feathers from his neck to his feet.

The next heard of Gen. Tarsney was at Palmer Lake, 25 miles from Colorado Springs, from where he wired Gov. Waite. A special train bearing his wife and daughters from Denver was sent to get the general and the train immediately started back. He was badly tarred and dazed, but not seriously injured.

Indignation meetings were held in Denver, Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek denouncing the outrage and several hundred dollars offered for the capture of the perpetrators. Gen. Tarsney is a brother of Congressman Tarsney, of Missouri and ex-Congressman Tarsney, of Michigan.

Five or Six Drowned.

A catboat was capsized by a sudden squall at the foot of Fifth-sixth street, Brooklyn. A pleasure party consisting of two men, two women and a boy and a 2-year-old girl, were thrown into the water. The accident was witnessed from the shore, and the Atlantic Yacht club's steam launch at once put out to the rescue. The men, the women and the boy sank, however, before assistance could be rendered them. The little girl was saved. One of the men had worked heroically to keep the little girl's head above water, and when she was taken from his grasp, his strength being spent, he sank before help could reach him.

Roy McLees, aged 6, was caught under a rolling log while playing in a mill yard at Flint and received injuries that will prove fatal.

The state convention of coal miners called by President Adams met at Columbus, O., with about 60 delegates present. Nothing was accomplished. Henry Batton and William Choate were struck by lightning and instantly killed and Weston Warner and William Dixon fatally shocked at Lafayette, Tenn. Choate's hat, shoes and clothing were torn into shreds and the ground torn up where he stood. No marks were left upon the body.

FACT AND FANCY.

In the parrot's beak both mandibles are movable—a peculiarity unknown in other species of birds.

The great Niagara tunnel, now complete, has cost about $3,000,000. It provides for the utilization of 120,000 horse power.

A potato, resembling in shape a pipe, is in the possession of a resident of La Center, Wash. The stem and bowl are nearly perfectly formed.

By mistake a Cape May, N. J. farmer lighted his pipe with a $5 bill, which he drew from his pocket instead of a piece of ordinary paper.

John Snow, tried for running an illicit distillery at Greensboro, N. C., and acquitted, has become mentally deranged from the effects of the fright.

A new law of Massachusetts imposes a fine of from $10 to $100 on consumers of bituminous coal in towns that do not consume three-fourths of their smoke.

Wilmington, Del., has the Old Swedes church founded in 1198. It has a bible given by Queen Anne and a communion service contributed by Swedish miners.

Andrew J. Corcoran of New York has finished the highest windmill tower in the world. It is located at St. James, L. I., and is 150 feet in height from the ground to the apex.

An Indian horse thief was discharged by a United States commissioner at Klamath, Ore., the other day, upon the interpretation of an old Indian custom, that one Indian may appropriate another's goods and chattels provided he afterwards makes satisfactory restitution. He proved that he had followed the unwritten Indian law.

The seventh annual convention of the National Republican league is in session at Denver.

WHAT is Democracy? It is this pure and simple: Protection to a few and destruction to many.

THE Clinton Republican nominates Senator George A. Steel, of St. John's, for state treasurer. THE REGISTER seconds the motion.

PRESIDENT CARNOT, of the French Republic, was stabbed and killed by an Italian anarchist at Lyons, France, on Sunday while on his way to the theatre.

It is said that whenever the editors of the Argus met a shorn sheep these days they—the editors, not the sheep—blush. They—the sheep—feel ashamed at the low price of wool.

CONGRESS blames the President and the President blames Congress. In the meantime the Republicans are sawing wood and carrying the elections.—Tucumseh Herald.

WHERE is, or rather, what has become of "My Policy?" Has it taken to the woods? Perhaps the Adrian Press can throw a little light on the subject. Perhaps it can't. Perhaps.

THE REGISTER will make the prediction that the Republicans of this State will elect twelve congressmen next November. Will any Democratic paper dispute this? Will the Adrian Press do it?

LET the Republicans in convention assembled at Grand Rapids July 31st place its best timber—and the woods are full of it—on the State ticket. Let all of the planks in our platform be broad and sound, planks upon which all true Americans can stand and feel secure.

THE jury in the Ellis trial at Mason failed to agree. Seven jurymen favored an acquittal and five conviction. It appears that politics played an important part in the jury room, as the jurymen who were for conviction are Republicans, while the remainder are Democrats.

BROTHER Smith, of the Argus, speaks of Ann Arbor in the highest terms of praise. He calls it an ideal place, and says the little city's scenic beauty is simply grand and inviting. Glad to hear that the brother is pleased with his new home, for we shall henceforth claim him as a citizen of Athens.

WE desire not to be misunderstood in the matter. Our price for publishing poetry in THE REGISTER is 10 cents a line for the first insertion and 5 cents a line for each subsequent insertion. Poets and poetesses will please cut this announcement out of the paper and paste it in their hats and bonnets to save trouble.

THERE promises to be a pretty little contest at Grand Rapids Thursday between Frank Howard, of Ann Arbor and Robert J. Whaley, of Flint, both of whom have been endorsed by their respective county conventions for state treasurer. Each is after the nomination as hot as if he really expected to be elected.—The Politician in Detroit Tribune.

LITTLE Girl: Papa, dear, what do the papers mean by Democratic soda and Democratic refreshments?

Papa, who is intently reading the Free Press: It is 8 o'clock, my dear, and time that little children should be in bed.

LITTLE Girl: All right, papa dear, I'll go. Good night.

Papa: Good night.

THE editor of the Ypsilanti Sentinel intimates that Bro. Pond of the Courier is crazy. In fact, he says so. Geo. must have said something that displeased Tully, or he wouldn't have said it. But then, Tully can be excused for the accusation for two potent reasons. One is the extreme hot weather, and the other is that calling another crazy is the only argument the Democratic editors have left now-a-days.

OUR sisters of the Ann Arbor Democrat and our late Governor Winans don't agree. The latter says his party hasn't one chance in a hundred of beating the Republicans this fall; and the former says, "The split in Michigan will certainly prevent the Republicans from electing a single state officer this year." Is the ex-governor "talking through his hat"? or are the editors talking through their bonnets?—Ypsilanti Commercial.

THE appointment of Mr. Thomas A. Bogle of the Washtenaw county bar to the responsible position of professor of the practice court in the department of law in the University of Michigan would be one that could not fail to give general satisfaction to students and citizens alike. Mr. Bogle is a polished gentleman, dignified and learned in the law. THE REGISTER hopes that his recommendation to the position will be confirmed by the law faculty, in whose hands the appointment lies.

THE Adrian Press dislikes to see THE REGISTER refer to Hon. James S. Gorman as Buffalo Jim. We presume that Mr. Gorman does not like it, either. We are sure, however, that he is not near as much offended at being dubbed Buffalo Jim as he was offended at the three-column editorial which the Press saw fit to write against the gentleman several months ago. In due time THE REGISTER will print extracts from the article.

EDWARD Smith, of Lenawee, Charles E. Hiscock's opponent in the electoral race in the Second District two years ago, when the infamous Miner bill was in force, is talked of for Congress this year on the Democratic ticket. Congressman Gorman told me not long ago that he did not expect to meet with much opposition in securing a renomination, but I fear that he is deceiving himself. There is a widespread opposition to him and I should not be surprised if it resulted in his defeat. It seems to be growing every day.—The Politician in Detroit Tribune.

MONDAY'S Detroit Tribune contained a two-column biographical sketch of Hon. Joe T. Jacobs, of this city, candidate for congress on the Republican ticket. The sketch begins by saying that public interest is now centered upon Mr. Jacobs because of his candidacy for congressional honors, and that by virtue of his nativity, the gentleman has an inherent right to a voice in the council of the nation, having been born in Ohio. The article is divided into four parts. 1. Mr. Jacobs as a candidate. 2. Mr. Jacobs as a soldier. 3. Mr. Jacobs as a business man. 4. Mr. Jacobs as a citizen. It concludes by saying that while giving time and personal supervision to so many different enterprises, Mr. Jacobs has found time to travel extensively, and besides visiting the West Indies and crossing the continent four times he has been in nearly every state and territory of the Union. He has been often in Washington and is familiar with the workings of Congress as well as the intricacies of local politics.

PRESIDENT Cleveland says that he is in favor of the largest possible use of silver as money consistent with the preservation of the parity of the two metals. The Adrian Press must have read this latest statement of Grover on the "parity" question, for it says in its issue of June 15:

Whenever you hear a man say that he is in favor of the use of both gold and silver for money, but on such terms as shall keep them at parity, set him down as a monometalist, a financial trickster, and an enemy of silver. Whenever gold and silver are alike a legal tender for all debts, preventing any discrimination, the parity exists, and money sharks can't disturb it. The man who says he is the friend of silver, but has a "parity" condition to his friendship, is a money liar, and the most dangerous enemy to silver that it finds anywhere. Behind the "parity" breastworks, lurk all the enemies of financial freedom in this country, and in the old world, fighting every effort, and every project, that makes silver a legal tender, and wrecking every plan to provide honest money by the unlimited coinage of silver and gold, as the finders of the metal may desire. Let the people beware of "parity" friends in money.

WM. Lambie, of Ypsilanti, had the kindness last week to write a beautiful poem for The Ypsilantian, and Brother Osband had the generosity to publish it, thereby greatly strengthening his chances for congressional honors. The poem in question is one of Lambie's sweetest productions. One line is a trochee of five feet, the next one is an anapaestic of three feet, another line is a lambic of five feet—a pentameter, we believe it is termed—and then we are honored with a dactylic line of about three square feet, all mixed up and shook up like an Ypsilanti cocktail. The poem is as sweet as a sweet potato about a year old. We shall take the liberty of copying a few sweet little lines from the poem, but beg of our readers a thousand pardons in advance for so doing, and sincerely hope that no one will shoot at us, or throw us out of a window, or kick us. Here they are, please:

Ypsilanti welcomes the Pioneers,
For all Washtenaw three hearty cheers
To those who came in early years,
The leaders who worked so true,
Who cleared the woods and drove the steers,
When our Michigan was new.

How does that strike you—the steer part especially? Here are a few more beautiful lines:

When the ax was swung and cow bells rang,
And the log house was bright with joy.

We think of lives we could not save,
Bodies now in the peaceful grave,
Sleeping in death by the Huron's wave,
Spirits now on the golden shore,
Who fought the battle of life so brave
But came back to earth no more.

Spirits fighting the battle of life, is good; lives which are bodies in a peaceful grave, is better, while the Huron's wave is best. Frequently the waves in the Huron are so low that cattle cannot get their feet wet. Perhaps this fact inspired the poet when he wrote of the "cow bells wrung" and "drove the steers."

Among the Politicians.

What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! How infinite in faculties! In form and moving how express and admirable! In action how like an angel; in apprehension, how like a god!

"When I was a boy it used to be said that gentlemen wore plug hats," said a Huron-st. politician to a company of gentlemen of leisure yesterday. "Now if that assertion is true—and perhaps it is—gentlemen are getting mighty scarce these days in the Athens of the West. Very few of the citizens of Athens now wear plug hats. Honorable Joe T. Jacobs occasionally wears a tile, ditto Hon. Benjamin F. Watts, ditto Hon. Jacob F. Schuh, while Hon. Gottlieb H. Wild wears one continually. Yes, gentlemen, the plug hat gentry is getting scarce."

"I was quite a little amused while riding about town one day last week with a prominent physician of this city and a friend of his from Chicago," said a gentleman of leisure to Hon. Ambrose Kearney and other down-town statesmen yesterday. "The doctor pointed to a house on a corner and said: 'That large, beautiful house on the corner is occupied by a widow. Her husband and she had just moved into it when the husband was taken sick and died. On the opposite corner also resides a widow, whose husband went to the other shore last year. Yonder large house is the property of a widow, and that large residence in the distance is the abode of a widow—'

"Well, well, I declare," put in the Chicagoan, "I would not like to come to this town if there is something in the air which kills off so many darling husbands!"

The doctor had not looked at the matter in the same light the Chicagoan had, and hereafter he will undoubtedly keep quiet on the subject of widows and beautiful residences in this town."

"I am in favor of the city owning its water works and its electric light plant," said a man about town to a gang of politicians in the court house on Thursday last. "The water works could now, I think, be purchased at a nominal figure and I know of a capitalist who will furnish the money at 4 per cent. The city would then receive better water, cheaper and also better service, and could lay aside $2,000 annually. The city could put in an electric plant very cheap now. Quite an item of expense could be saved in this way."

"Compared with other smaller cities in the state and county, Ann Arbor is not suffering a great deal from the hard times," said a gentleman of leisure to a number of politicians yesterday. "We have few, if any, vacant houses, no vacant stores and many pleasant and happy faces. Now, what is the cause of this state of affairs in Ann Arbor? There must be a reason for it. My reason is this. We have here very few manufacturing institutions. If we had, they would have shut down, the laborers would have been thrown out of employment, the meat, grocery, coal and rent bills would have remained unpaid and hard times would have followed as a matter of course. We don't want any more factories here than we have got. I would not appropriate a cent toward a manufacturing institution. On the contrary, I should oppose the project."

"I wonder why Ez Norris, Fred. Schmid and the better class of Democrats didn't attend the Democratic convention yesterday," said a politician to a gang of politicians and men about town on Friday. "Are they disgusted with matters and things, or what is the matter with them? The convention was a slim affair. Aside from Capt. Manly, Dr. Kapp, Duffy, Schuh, Whitman, Doty, Kearney, Hammond, Bach, John Robison and Osborne, of Sharon, Judge Babbitt, of Ypsilanti, and a few other notables, the convention was poorly represented. Several towns were not represented at all. Democracy is on the wane, gentlemen, Democracy is on the wane, and the Republicans will lick the Democrats out of their boots this year, sure."

"Say, gentlemen, I saw a good thing this morning and I enjoyed a good laugh over it, too," said a down-town politician to a company of gentlemen of leisure yesterday. "I saw one of our butchers driving his cart on which were two sheep, down Main-st. this morning. He stopped in front of the Argus office, and the editorial man of the paper, thinking the butcher wanted to see someone in the Argus office, came out and walked toward the butcher's cart. When he saw the sheep he turned about immediately and hid himself into his sanctum. He could not look the sheep square in the face, but he had the gall to write an editorial praising his party for putting wool on the free list. Such is Democracy!"

"Gentlemen, there goes Andrew J. Sawyer," said a Main-st. politician to a number of men about town in front of the Masonic temple a few days ago. "Wonder if Mr. Sawyer is really a candidate for congress? I haven't yet spoken to him about the matter. To tell the truth, gentlemen, Sawyer has more brains than the whole clique of them that have been mentioned for the position put together. What a power he would be in the halls of congress! How they would catch it if they tackled him when he was advocating a measure. I think before they got through with him, they'd think he would be good stuff to let alone. He is an elegant speaker, an able man and an honest man. I hope Sawyer is a candidate and receives the nomination. I wish I could vote twice when he runs."

"I think it would be well for the police to give bicycle riders a rest for a week and pay a little attention to unmuzzled dogs that are roaming about," said a gentleman of leisure to a number of down-town politicians yesterday. "A mad dog can do more harm in one hour than ninety-nine bicyclists can do in one month. But, then, I presume the police have their own ideas about the dog question; they care as little about it, probably, as our common council does about the street railway question."

"Jim Bach must feel greatly elated at the large amount of taffy he received from Watts, Whitman and others in the convention on Thursday," said a politician on Friday. "It was a boom for him for county clerk and it was neatly done. How the other candidates will like the idea, is an open question. I'll bet they don't like it a bit. But, then, the court house circle likes it and that is enough. They are the people!"

"I am sorry that Mr. Hammond, of the Argus, was snubbed in Thursday's convention," said a Democrat. "Mr. Hammond is an able man and a good Democrat, but we had to fight him in order to down the referees. So he must not feel slighted. We may have to do it again in the next convention; but after the congressional dispute is settled we shall take pleasure in complimenting him with positions."

"I wonder what's the matter with the professors and the Democrats this year," said a Main-st. statesman to a gang of politicians in Hon. E. B. Norris' law office on Saturday. "You know, gentlemen, in the last presidential election the Democrats called their campaign a campaign of education, because the professors of the universities generally espoused the free trade ideas of the Democrats, you know. The Democratic convention literary teemed with professors. Used to see Prof. Vaughan in the convention. Didn't see him in Thursday's convention. Used to see Dr. McLaughlin present. Didn't see him present Thursday. Used to see Prof. Cooley present. Didn't see him present Thursday. Used to see Prof. Hempl present. Didn't see him present Thursday. Used to see Dr. Conrad George present. Didn't see him present Thursday." [Here the politician took a breathing spell.] He then put the question to Mr. Norris, who did not reply, but busied himself intently reading the Free Press.

"In my opinion, and in the opinion of many others, Capt. Chas. H. Manly is the best impromptu speaker in Washtenaw county," said a politician to a number of down-town statesmen after Thursday's Democratic convention. "He is always ready, and can speak on any political subject. He never fails to carry an audience with him. There are few better speakers than the Captain anywhere. If there are, I should be pleased to see them."

"I notice that the Democrat in its last issue intimates that the Politicians' column in the Detroit Tribune is written by some individual in this city," said a politician to a company of men about town, gentlemen of leisure, down-town Statesmen, Honorables, Professors, deputy sheriffs, lawyers, constables, etc., etc., etc., in the court house a few days ago. "I wonder who it can be? I wonder if it isn't Junnie Beal—it would look just like him to do that. Then, again, it might be Charlie Hiscock, or George Pond, or Hon. Joe T. Jacobs, or, perhaps, Hon. Ezra B. Norris—but, then, he's a Democrat—let's see, perhaps it might be Mr. Smith, of the Argus—I wonder what his politics are—or it might be Judge Cheever, or Judge Harriman, or Judge Cooley, or President Angell, or somebody, or Mayor Darling, perhaps. But, you can't tell. Maybe it isn't. I guess the duck who writes the spicy politicians' column in the Trib lives in Detroit and writes his matter at the office of the paper. Bet you the cigars for the crowd he does."

"So John Duffy is secretary of the Democratic county committee, is he?" said a down-town Statesman a few days ago. "That was a wise move for the Democrats to make, to appoint the modest John. John counts his friends by the million, and he has more warm and admiring friends among the fair sex than anybody. The ladies admire him for his modesty and worship him for his gentlemanly bearing, and there is many a sweet beauty in the Athens who would like to capture John for her secretary for life. Here lies the point, gentlemen, here lies the point. If John cannot succeed in inducing a young man to vote the Democratic ticket he'll work the fellow's girl to get him to do it. John is not only an all-around politician, but he is also a lady politician and the ladies are taking a great interest in politics now-a-days, don't you know?"

"Every day when I read the Free Press I have to laugh," said a gentleman of leisure to a gang of Democratic politicians yesterday. "In its reports of Democratic conventions in the state to elect delegates to the state convention, it heads the reports with black letters like 'Harmonious Convention,' 'No Strife in this Convention,' 'Resolutions Adopted Indorsing the Administration,' 'United Democracy,' etc., etc. It makes me laugh. Then I read the Evening News, the Tribune and Journal I find that the biggest rows imaginable took place in those very conventions. The Free Press gives itself away by crying harmony in big, black letters. If there was harmony there would be no use in crying it, would there?"

"I notice that Hon. D. Cramer is writing political articles for the Detroit papers and signs himself 'D. Cramer, a Democratic mugwump,'" said a politician to a number of down-town statesmen yesterday. "That reminds me of the story of the drummer and the farmer who were riding on the M. C. between Jackson and Ann Arbor a few years ago when mugwumps were the subject of frequent conversations."

"What is a mugwump, I'd like to know?" inquired the farmer of the drummer.

"Don't you know what a mugwump is?" retorted the drummer. "Why a mugwump is a Republican who votes the Democratic ticket."

"And what is a Democrat who votes the Republican ticket?" asked the farmer.

"He's a d—n fool," replied the drummer.

"Evidently Mr. Cramer is a Democratic mugwump."

"There is nothing like climbing the ladder of fame, gentlemen, no there is nothing like it," said a politician to a number of gentlemen of leisure yesterday. Some men climb up, some men jump up. Take Art Brown, for instance—he's a jumper, sure. When I first saw Art, he was in a potato patch near Saline, picking potato bugs, I guess. The next I heard of him he brought a solid delegation of young men to the Democratic county convention for Fred. Howlett. Then I saw him deputy county clerk. Then I saw him county clerk, then I heard of his being admitted to the bar and now he is chairman of the Washtenaw Democracy. Say, if that isn't jumping up the ladder of fame, what is it? Talk about climbers, they're not in it with Art. I expect the next time I hear of Art he'll be in congress or a circuit judge."

Society News.

Miss Bessie Hopkins is at Bay View. Frank Dodsley is passing a few weeks in Detroit.

Hon. Chas. R. Whitman was in Washington last week.

A. E. Jennings, of Lincoln, Neb., was in the city on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Lyon, of Owosso, were in the city last week.

Misses Anna and Nellie Wetmore, are visiting Detroit friends.

Ed. G. Mingay, of Toronto, Ont., is visiting relatives and friends in the city.

Mrs. John Salisbury, of Owosso, visited her sister, who is very sick, last week.

Miss Helen Breitenbach, of Detroit, is spending commencement week in Ann Arbor.

Geo. Wahr will leave for Europe next Monday and expects to be gone about two months.

Geo. Haller was in Romeo on Monday, at which place he has a branch jewelry store.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bliss of this city visited their daughter, Mrs. A. Hill, in Detroit last week.

Walter L. Allen, of Grand Rapids, and of the '90 dent class, is in the city visiting his parents for a few days.

Herr VanWittenkind, who has been attending the U. of M. dental department, returned to Germany Thursday last.

Miss Margaret Forhan, of Saginaw, is the guest of Ann Arbor friends. She attended the senior reception Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. B. Phillips, who has been spending the past two months visiting friends and relatives in northern New York, returned home today.

On the Campus.

Prof. Jerome C. Knowlton, dean of the law department, has resigned the deanship. The resignation has not yet been accepted by the board of regents, but the position has been offered to Benton Hanchett, of Saginaw.

On the recommendation of the law faculty, the board of regents refused to grant diplomas to two law students, who last week went to Portage Lake in company with some town girls, broke into a summer cottage there and had a high old time generally.

The innovation of commencement week was the senior promenade on Monday evening. The west and south sides of the campus were illuminated with strings of Chinese lanterns. An orchestra was stationed at the entrance to the main building. The adjoining fraternity houses were illuminated. The grounds presented a very pretty picture, with their hundreds of students young ladies and their parents and friends, promenading in evening dress, enjoying the music and lights.

The law class day exercises held Monday were more than usually interesting and successful. President Minahan's address was appropriate to the occasion and was a splendid effort. Lott R. Herrick gave the class history, recalling to the minds of those present the various triumphs of the class. The orator of the class, James L. Poston, showed by the thought of his oration that the honor was well bestowed. He took for his subject "When the Shackles are Removed," and discussed the necessity for some opening being made for the men who serve terms in our prisons when they are liberated and all the world are suspicious of them. Daniel J. Buckley gave the class prophecy and a very amusing one it was. Victor O. Coltrane delivered the valedictory address, ending the exercises. Mr. Coltrane's address was in harmony with the other productions and consequently fine.

At the regents meeting Monday evening $300 was appropriated for cataloguing books in the libraries. The committee on buildings and grounds reported favorably on adding to the capacity of the law building to embrace a book room, seminary and librarian rooms. The job of re-roofing the museum was awarded to a Detroit firm for $4,750. Regent Barbour introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That henceforth in the selection of professors, instructors and other assistants for the university, that no distinction be made between men and women, but that the applicant best fitted for the position receive the appointment. Regent Dean and Prof. Petee were appointed as a committee to examine the records and books of the university. Dr. Arthur R. Cushing was made permanent professor of materia medica and therapeutics. Dr. W. A. Campbell was advanced to the position of assistant professor of anatomy, with same duties and salary as at present. Dr. W. F. Breakey was made permanent lecturer on dermatology. The dean of the law department recommended that T. A. Bogle be appointed professor of the practice court at a salary of $2,000; that E. F. Johnson be advanced to the position of assistant professor at a salary of $1,500; that Walter Smith, of Detroit, be appointed instructor of law at a salary of $800; that the enlargement of law library be considered at once. The salary of the hospital surgeon, which was $500 for one man, was divided and should be given to two men in the proportion of $200 and $300 respectively. The sum of $800 was appropriated for disinfecting, oiling and cleaning the hospital floors. A resolution was adopted providing that senior medical students must pay a fee of $5 for practical work in autopsies.

Open Air Meetings.

At the Michigan Central depot is lying the E. F. Goff evangelistic car. "Good News," having on board a party of six evangelists who are holding open air meetings every afternoon and evening at the court house square. So highly does the Michigan Central think of their work that they give them free transportation. Evangelist E. F. Goff is a fine Bible scholar, a singer of wit and wisdom and especially does he present Christ as the power for cleansing our city from the saloon, the gambling hell and the brothel, which are leading to death hundreds of our boys and girls and that, too, by the consent of our voters.

John Philip Quinn, for twenty-five years a gambler, was converted while in the penitentiary and for six years has led an anti-gambling crusade, and thirty thousand have signed his pledge not to handle cards, and hundreds of men have been converted. His celebrated book "The Fools of Fortune" exposes the fraud of the gambling fraternity and is doing wonders to stop this vice.

Charlton Edholm, of Chicago, Supt. of Press of the World's W. C. T. U. and author of the book, "The Traffic in Girls and Florence Critchton Missionaries," pleads for the erring girls and especially warns fathers and mothers that friends are making merchandise of their girls and are luring and snaring thousands of them with a life of shame. She earnestly pleads for woman suffrage, and prohibition of the saloon.

The meetings have resulted in many conversions.

Program for Sunday Evening Union Meetings.

The following is the program for the Sunday evening services during the coming summer:

July 1st—Presbyterian, Rev. W. L. Tedrow.
July 8th—Methodist, Y. M. C. A. Rally.
July 15th—Baptist, Rev. C. M. Cobern.
July 22d—Congregational, Rev. N. S. Burton.
July 29th—Presbyterian, Rev. J. W. Bradshaw.
August 5th—Baptist, Rev. J. M. Gelston.
August 12th—Methodist, Rev. C. A. Young.
August 19th—Congregational, Rev. W. L. Tedrow.
August 26th—Presbyterian, Rev. C. M. Cobern.
Sept. 2nd—Baptist, Rev. C. A. Young.
Sept. 9th—Methodist, Rev. J. W. Bradshaw.
Sept. 16th—Congregational, Rev. J. M. Gelston.
Sept. 23rd—Presbyterian, Rev. N. S. Burton.

At the last meeting of the Light Infantry Wm. Cooper was made temporary secretary and five new members were elected. W. F. Fisher was appointed fourth sergeant and August Dieterle fifth sergeant, by the captain. The corporals appointed are: Binder, Seabolt, Rentschler and Finnegan. The score at the one hundred-yard rifle range, by Gwinner and Cooper, possible 35, 6x8-bull's eye, resulted as follows: Sergeant Gwinner...3 5 5 2 4 3 3—25 Corp. Cooper...4 5 5 5 4 5 5—33

The company decided to accept the invitation of the mayor of Jackson to aid in celebrating the Fourth at that place.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in fine style by St. Patrick's Parish Northfield, at Smith's Grove, Whitmore Lake. Among the speakers will be Hon. Jno. J. Enright, Detroit, Attorney T. R. Shields, of Fowlerville, and others. The colored men's quartette, of Ann Arbor, who are really possessed of fine and cultured voices, will render some excellent comic and sentimental songs. The Whitmore Lake male quartette will also furnish some choruses. Mr. Wm. Reilly, of Detroit, will be very entertaining in his comic Dutch songs and recitations. Mr. Bruno St. James will sing in his usual sweet tenor strain. Miss Nora O'Brien will give a recitation and Mr. Thos. Condon, Detroit's well known songster, will charm the people with his sweet melodies. Jas. E. Harkins will sing comic songs. A good program and good time is assured all who attend. Dinner only 25 cents.

Permanent Good

Long and Discouraging Illness With Symptoms of Consumption

All Medicines Fail Except Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen:—Ten years ago, my wife's health began to fail. I consulted a physician, and for one year she remained under his care and took all the medicine prescribed, but still grew worse. We then consulted other physicians, and she doctored off and on for four years without any improvement. As her mother died of consumption, and I expected my wife would go the same way. However, feeble as my wife was and though

Given Up as Incurable

by the physician, I could not give up hope, and she still clung to life. Then we began to try different medicines. We found that of all the preparations taken, a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla had seemed to do her the most good, so she determined to take that medicine again. I bought six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and while taking this lot she seemed to get better. This was so encouraging, after so Long and Discouraging Illness, that she continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Her health has improved and she has ceased to complain. She is still taking the medicine, and feels so much better and stronger that we believe her to be in perfect health. Altogether, we have spent $36 for Hood's, a very small amount compared to the big bills in those four years, and considering the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has done her permanent good." JOHN L. NICHOLS, No. 228 Springfield Ave., Canton, O.

All are cordially invited.

Mr. Cook of the U. of M. gave a very interesting discourse in the M. E. church Sunday morning. Rev. Shier officiated in the evening.

The unveiling of the new chandelier, which was presented to the church by the Ladies' Aid society, was well attended and a good program was well rendered. Long may the society live and prosper.

THE REGISTER voting scheme is causing a lively hustle among the friends of some of the candidates for office. If you have a friend whom you would like to see nominated, get a few copies of the paper, clip out the ballots and have bona fide voters fill them out and either drop the ballots into the mail box on our office door or send them through the mail. You can, in no other way, so readily bring the name of any candidate prominently before the people. Don't delay until the friends of some other candidate have secured so many votes that you cannot make a good showing.

WHY "ARE HEELER & WILSON'S No. 9" SEWING MACHINES POPULAR? BECAUSE LADIES BUY THEM LIKE THEM AND TELL THEIR FRIENDS.

Many ladies have used our machines twenty to thirty years in their family work, and are still using the original machines we furnished them a generation ago. Many of our machines have run more than twenty years without repairs, other than needles. With proper care they never wear out, and seldom need repair.

We have built sewing machines for more than forty years and have constantly improved them. We build our machines on honor, and they are recognized everywhere as the most accurately fitted and finely finished sewing machines in the world. Our latest, the "No. 9," is the result of our long experience. In competition with the leading machines of the world, it received the Grand Prize at the Paris Exposition of 1889, as the best, other machines receiving only complimentary medals of gold, silver and bronze. The Grand Prize was what all sought for, and our machine was awarded it.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

WITH THE WITS.

"Say, pa," asked Freddy, "why is it that when you or Uncle George tell a story you always get laughed at and when I tell one I get a lickin'?"

Husband—I am just in the mood for reading something sensational and startling—something that will make my hair stand on end. Wife—Here is my last milliner's bill.

Husband, during a domestic difference—I don't know how it is that you have such a bad temper! Wife, with whom patience had ceased to be a virtue—It's because I've kept it too long—far too long! No wonder it's bad!

"Did you tell the hired girl that you couldn't put up with her work?" asked Mr. Slimmins at the dinner table. "Yes," "What did she say?" "She said that there was nothing keeping me here if I didn't like the place."

A young gentleman was passing an examination in physics. He was asked: "What planets were known to the ancients?" "Well, sir," he responded, "there were Venus and Jupiter, and—after a pause—"I think the earth, but I am not quite certain."

"Ah," remarked the man who wasn't minding his own business to the man digging a trench in the street, "my friend, you surely earn your living by the sweat of your brow." "I don't know about that," replied the man, as he never stopped his digging, "I get the same pay whether I sweat or not."

He met Brown, his lawyer, on the street. "Oh, by the way, Scroggins," said the latter, "I've got my little bill here for getting you out of insolvency. Want to look at it now?" "Ye-es," said Scroggins, hesitatingly, as he took and unfolded the modest slip of paper held out by the lawyer. Then a look of consternation overspread his face. "I say, Brown," he ejaculated, "I guess you had better put me back again."

At the revival meeting—Stranger—I should like to say a few words to-night. Leader—I don't know; have you had a career of crime, been a drunkard, or anything of that sort? Stranger—No, indeed; I can truly say that I have always lead a correct life. Leader—All very well, no doubt; but people won't care to listen to you. You'd better stay, however, and hear Bruiserboy, the reformed pugilist, and Mole, the saved sneak thief. Both of them are rattlers.

Gold while in circulation is handled less than any other medium. It is usually kept in vaults of banks for demands rarely made, and for this reason the loss by abrasion is about one-half of one per cent in any twenty years. In a twenty dollar gold piece the standard weight of which is 516 grains, the government allowance for loss by abrasion is 2.58 grains, but, except in cases where the coins have been tampered with by "sweaters," the loss rarely exceeds this limit.

XXXV. THE ENDOWMENT GRANTS AND THEIR ADMINISTRATION.

The endowment land-grants will in this paper be touched upon only in the briefest way that will make the subject intelligible. Of the earliest forms of the grants, for they were several times modified, I shall say nothing. In making grants to the territory of Michigan, trustees had either to be appointed to administer them, or else the administration had to be confided to some existing body of men. The latter course was taken and the trust was committed to the trustees of the Catholepistemiad, or, as it was more usually called, the College of Detroit.

As early as 1823 those who had the administration of the reservations became satisfied that their trust was not in the most desirable form, applied to congress for new legislation and in 1826 a bill was passed giving the territory two entire townships for a seminary of learning, with permission to choose the land in detached sections. Austin E. Wing and Dr. Brown were commissioned to select these lands. At the mouth of Swan Creek, in what is now the city of Toledo, the committee selected river lots 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 and 10, amounting to 916 acres, and accepted the same for two sections. The selection was confirmed by the general land office at Washington and the lots, had they been held a reasonable time would have yielded a million of dollars to the University fund. But the property was too tempting a bait to a company of speculators in Toledo, and a Mr. Oliver, acting for the body, succeeded in persuading the board of trustees to enter upon a series of exchanges by which they conveyed all their Toledo lots for other lands which in the end brought the University $17,000. A million of dollars at least was lost in this series of transactions.

In 1837 Michigan became one of the Union of states, and the care of the University lands passed from the trustees of the college of Detroit to a board of regents appointed by the Governor and Senate. Governor Mason was a young man of twenty-seven years, himself having no experience in educational work and he appointed twelve good men, indeed, but, like himself, inexperienced in the matters committed to their care and these, together with the judges of the supreme court and the lieutenant governor constituted the administrative power of the unborn university. I shall in this paper treat only the management of the land-grant.

By an act approved March 21st, 1837, the superintendent of public instruction was authorized to sell at auction so much of the university lands as should amount to the sum of $500,000, $20 an acre being fixed as the lowest rate at which any might be sold. The principal might stand for a number of years, bearing interest at 7 per cent., payable annually. Or, the money might be loaned to counties, not more than $15,000 to any one county. The sales made in the first year averaged $22.85 per acre, and the amount yielded was $150,447.90. But another kind of legislation soon followed. The legislature began to act as if the owner of the lands granted, rather than the trustee of the grant. They listened to the applications of purchasers, reduced the prices of lands which had been sold at public auction and in April, 1839, went so far as to pass an act which, had it gone into effect, would have substantially relinquished all these select lands to actual settlers at $1.25 per acre. Governor Mason saved the institution by his veto of this bill.

This loose kind of legislation continued more or less for about twenty years. I will cut this article short by the general statement that the result of the action of the old board of trustees in disposing of the Toledo lots and of the kind of legislative action hinted above was to reduce a fund which by judicious management would have exceeded $2,000,000 to a little more than one quarter of that amount.

Sweetener is one of the most delightful of common plants with which to decorate sitting rooms, for its fragrance, though very sweet, is pleasant. The leaves also, are excellent to fill in pillows with.

A low chair, made by sawing off the legs of a common kitchen chair until it is low enough to suit, with a cushion of dark calico, is a useful adjunct to the work, to sit in while waiting a few minutes for the biscuit or cake to bake. One can open the oven door without stooping to examine the article cooking.

A lamp shade easily made is produced by the transformation of a Japanese parasol. This feat of skilled workmanship is accomplished by removing the handle and all the sticks. This must be done very carefully so as not to tear the paper. It is then placed on a round of wire top and bottom, the hole at the top having been closed a trifle. This may be decorated in any way that may suggest itself to the maker.

CURRENT LEVITIES.

His Mother—You ought to feel ashamed of yourself, fighting little Johnny Naylor! Tommy—I do, mamma. He licked me.

Visitor—I suppose your daughter is busily preparing for her wedding? Mother—Yes, she is up in her room now destroying all her old letters.

Teacher—Now, remember, that in order to become a proficient vocalist you must have patience. Miss Flipskins—Yes, and so must the neighbors.

"The advantage of being an alderman," said the honorable gentleman from the 'Steenth ward, in a reflective mood, "is that you do a good business and don't have to advertise."

Mr. Tilden—Now you must tell me what you think your sister would like for a gift. Little Nettie—Oh, I guess a birthday would be nice; she hasn't had one for a long, long time.

Inventor—I have it now—just what a suffering world is waiting for. It's a new patent gun. Gun Dealer—What's the improvement? Inventor—Whenever it is pointed around by fools who don't know it is loaded, it will shoot backward.

"Great Scott! man, what are you doing with four alarm clocks in your room?" "I want to try and get a little sleep." "How can that help you?" "My wife and baby have gone for a visit, and everything is so blamed quiet I can't close my eyes."

Mrs. Chancel—Oh, Henry! I wish you had been to church this morning. Dr. Dives preached one of the loveliest sermons on "Love your neighbor," and the way his remarks made that spiteful, hateful Mrs. Gabbers squirm was something that would have done your heart good.

Dibbs, who has been waiting in his friend's studio—Ah! here you are at last. Your dog has been paying a good compliment to that bit of scene painting. I had to drive the little beggar off. Dauber, agreeably surprised—What was he doing? Dibbs—Oh, he mistook that river for real water and he started lapping it! By the by, what river does it represent? Dauber, savagely—River be hanged! That isn't a river, it's a prairie fire.

GRAINS OF GOLD.

Before we can do much good we must first be good.

Some fellows get very low down in getting up in the world.

Books are the windows through which the soul looks out.

You can always be happy if you are willing to rejoice with others.

Whatever sin has caused in the human race it may cause in you.

Some people never feel religious until they get in a tight place.

Selfishness cannot be made to know the meaning of true happiness.

The man who buries his talent might as well bury himself.

Religion that does not change a man's heart cannot change his life.

Lessons learned in the school of experience are remembered the longest.

You have found out what a man is when you have found out what he loves.

The man who quarrels with his lot in life helps the devil to make him miserable.

To give heartfelt praise to noble actions is, in some measure, making them our own.

The man who has the least in him is generally the one who talks the most about himself.

That which makes people dissatisfied with their condition is the chimerical idea they form of the happiness of others.

Our passions are like convulsion fits, which, though they make us stronger for the time, leave us the weaker ever after.

If a tenth part of the felicities that are enjoyed in the region of imagination could be imported into regions terrestrial, what a delightful thing it would be to awake each morning to see such a world once more!

WAYS THAT ARE DEVIOUS.

In Bowen, a hamlet in Powell county, Ky., the young men have a suicide club. Two bright youths, one of them engaged to be married, have killed themselves within two months without a shadow of excuse or a word of explanation.

James McClain owns a farm near Maysfield, Ky., which he has bought out of money made by tramping over different states, digging ginseng to sell. He laughs at the story of hard times, and asserts that ginseng digging is as profitable as ever.

"Fad parties" are the latest form of amusement among the people who devote a good deal of mental energy to their entertainment. Each guest is expected to bring with her something which represents her hobby, and to talk about it interestingly.

When a Londoner, who made a living by swallowing unusual articles of diet, died recently, an autopsy revealed the presence in his stomach of a bullet, 25 pieces of cork, 20 pieces of tinfoil, 18 inches of string, with a cork fastened to each end, and a piece of leather nine inches long, with hooks in it.

A colored woman boarded a car on the Louisville & Nashville road recently, depositing several large packages on a seat near the door. The train started and had proceeded a considerable distance from the station, when she suddenly threw up her hands and cried out: "De Lawd a-massy! I clean forgot and left my baby on de station platform. He ain't in dese packages!"

LITERARY NOTES.

"The Total Utility Standard of Deferred Payments," by Professor Edward A. Ross, Stanford University, recently published is an inquiry into the question as to what course of prices will do justice to a time contract calling for a money payment, and the question as to what is the just standard of deferred payments to which the money paid should conform. The question of bimetalism or monometalism comes up in the course of the argument and is decided in favor of the double standard.

"The Adaptation of Society to its Environment" is the subject of a paper by Dr. William Draper Lewis. The author maintains that the work of the economist is to point out the laws which effect the prosperity of a people. He classifies all the possible ways in which a society can be supposed to adapt itself to its environment.

"The Environs of Boston" is the attractive subject of an elaborate and picturesque paper by the Rev. Peter MacQueen, illustrated with over a score of views, in the July number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. Among the seasonable outdoor articles are "Salmon Fishing in Canada," "Roughriders from far Frontiers," and an account of Mr. Alfred de Cordova's trained Carrier Pigeons. The graphic war reminiscences of Joseph Becker, "Special for Leslie's," are continued. Among the short stories is a characteristic one by Beatrice Harraden, author of "Ships that Pass in the Night."—"Frank Leslie's Publishing House (Department B), 42-44 Bond St., N. Y. City."

The June Book Buyer contains interesting biographical sketches of several prominent literary people; among them Maarten Maartens, who occupies first place. There is also an attractive article on "Book Illustration" besides the usual departments which are full of entertaining note and comment.—Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, N. Y.

The mother of America's favorite boy hero, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, writes to the mothers of boys in the June issue of the Ladies' Home Journal upon "When He Decides," in which she points out to what extent mothers should influence their sons in regard to their choice of an occupation. W. Hamilton Gibson occupies an entire page with one of his out-of-door illustrations of "A Garden of Long Long Ago." The editor discusses with frank directness the question of social purity. A carefully-prepared article on the serving, canning and preserving of "The Berries of Summer," by Eliza R. Parker, will prove valuable to housekeepers generally, and "Milestones in a Married Life" is charmingly instructive on the subject of wedding anniversaries. Published by The Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, for Ten Cents per number.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Report has it that Wm. Bush, formerly a resident of this city, died in Chicago one day last week of small-pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew H. Clement gave a reception Monday evening to the Chequamegon and their musical friends.

Wm. Frank, jr., will leave for Washington, D. C., in a few days, where he will take a position in a jewelry store.

Ike Greenmann, of the Northside, was thrown out of a buggy while driving down Depot-st. Thursday and sustained severe injuries.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meyer died Sunday of scarlet fever. This makes the third death in that family in the past few weeks.

James Jones has returned from England after an absence of about two months. He says laboring men in England are paid about 75 cents per day.

Prof. T. C. Trueblood is attending the annual meeting of the National Education Association at Philadelphia, Pa. He is treasurer of the association.

The Sunday School of Trinity Lutheran church will give a children's service next Sunday morning at 10.30. An interesting program has been arranged for the occasion.

Harold, son of Geo. D. Dawson, of 39 Forest-ave., died on the 20th inst. of scarlet fever, aged 5 years, 7 months and 14 days. The remains were interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

The extremely warm weather on Sunday was followed at 3 o'clock by a terrific rain and wind storm which blew down trees and branches in all parts of the city. No damage was reported to buildings.

James Sage, of Lodi, while driving into the city on Saturday with a load of wood, was overcome by the heat and fell off his wagon, fracturing a shoulder and bruising himself about the head. He was taken to his home where he is convalescing.

The second convention of Disciples of Christ for the first district of Michigan was held in the Central Christian church in Detroit last week. Prof. H. L. Willett, Miss Harriet Miller and Pauline D. Barrows, of this city, took a prominent part in the proceedings of the convention.

University Hall was filled with a large audience Sunday evening to listen to the annual baccalaureate sermon delivered by President Angell to the students of the University of Michigan. Prof. Craig read a portion of scripture and offered a prayer, after which President Angell spoke on "The Cultivation of Character."

The many friends of Mr. Richard Apperson will doubtless be pleased to hear of his engagement to a Michigan belle. Mr. Apperson is a native of Kentucky and a member of the graduating class of the law department. We hope this union will be a strong link of the chain binding together the north and the south.

An old German by the name of Kaiser who has been working on the farm of Christian Nagel in Lodi, was on his way to the Seio church Sunday morning and was overcome by the heat and died about twelve o'clock. He was 65 years old and has no relatives in this part of the county. He leaves an estate valued at about $600.

Edward M. Wells, of THE REGISTER press rooms, who has been in Chicago where he had an operation performed on his neck, returned from there Friday last. When Ed was a child his clothes caught fire and he was severely burned about the neck, which left a large ugly scar. THE REGISTER hopes that Eddie will get along all right and soon be "as good as new."

Mrs. Martha Smith, wife of James Smith, of S. Division-st., died of blood poisoning on Sunday morning, aged 17 years, 4 months and two days. The funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, Rev. C. M. Coburn officiating. Her remains were interred in Forest Hill cemetery. Her little child, which was born on Thursday, died the following day. Mr. Smith has the sympathy of his neighbors and friends in his sad bereavement.

Dr. Herdman, of Ann Arbor, was called to this place this week to perform a peculiar surgical operation upon Frank Bowers, son of S. W. Bowers, who lives in the north part of the village. Frank has been suffering terribly from ulcerated teeth which became so bad that it affected one of his eyes and it was found upon examination that the bones of his face had become so badly affected that it was necessary to remove some pieces of them. He has suffered terribly, but we believe he is in a fair way to recover.—Livingston Democrat.

The large new residence of D. F. Schairer, now in process of construction, will be one of the largest and most commodious homes in this city of beautiful mansions. Its outward appearance will be all that can be desired, viewed from an architectural standpoint, and the arrangement of the rooms for light and convenience is the best we have yet seen.

We know a charming young lady in this city who refused the hand of a young Western millionaire but has accepted the hand of a young Ann Arborite who hasn't even the millionth part of a million. The y. l. informed us that she preferred love to money because it is not so easily acquired as money. Her young lady friends think she has made a mistake and say "O the foolish girl!"

The art recital given in Frieze memorial Hall Saturday evening, June 16, by the advanced pupils of Prof. Trueblood was a rare treat. The program opened with a piano solo by Miss Stark, in "The Catholic Psalm." Miss Gilbert of Hamilton, Ohio, appeared before an Ann Arbor audience for the first time. The selection was a difficult one and showed the remarkable range of her voice.

Services connected with the laying of the corner stone of the new Unitarian church in Kalamazoo were held on Monday afternoon and evening, with addresses by Dr. H. W. Thomas, Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of Chicago, and Rev. J. T. Sunderland, of this city. The new church will cost about $30,000 and will contain numerous rooms for industrial and free Kindergarten work, sewing schools, clubs, classes, charitable work, etc.

Miss Margaret E. Sharp died at 106 E. University-ave. Thursday morning. A few weeks ago, while walking down E. Liberty-st., she was struck on the head with a base ball, which resulted in softening of the brain, from which she died. Miss Sharp was employed in the telephone office and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She was the daughter of Walter Sharp, who died in the M. E. church in this city a few months ago.

The American institute of homeopathy, which held its annual session in Denver last week, adopted resolutions scoring the efforts which have been made by Dr. H. L. Obetz, of the University of Michigan, to secure the abandonment of a separate school of homeopathy in that institution and to have homeopathy taught in the general department of medicine. The resignation of Dr. Obetz from the faculty was called for without a dissenting voice.

The farmers of Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland and Livingston will celebrate their Farmers' picnic this year at Whitmore Lake August 18th. At a recent meeting of the executive committee, the secretary was instructed to invite the candidates for governor of the four political parties to address the tillers of the soil. The speakers will be introduced to the audience according to their ages—the oldest to speak first and so on to the youngest, who will speak last.

Mrs. Chas. Bingham, formerly Miss Libbie Kelley of this city, died at her home in Ann Arbor Monday of this week. She was about thirty-three years of age and was the daughter of Jas. Kelley and wife of this city, having been born and residing here the greater portion of her life. A husband and five children survive her. The funeral services were held in Ann Arbor yesterday and the remains interred there. She has many friends here who will regret to learn of her death.—Coldwater Republican.

The exercises of the twenty-fifth graduating class of the high school were held Friday morning in the presence of a large audience. Eighty-six graduated and received diplomas. Fred. J. Austin, Ann Arbor; Winifred Beman, Ann Arbor; Walter B. Curtiss, Salem; Josephine Daniels, Gregory; Ralph Farum, Ann Arbor; Genevieve E. Mills, Pittsfield; S. Louise McKenzie, Ann Arbor; Della Read, Shenandoah, Ia.; Joseph B. Scarborough, Flagstaff, Ariz.; and Louise P. Weinmann, Ann Arbor, read interesting papers. In the evening a well attended banquet was given by the high school alumni association.

Chas. D. Bingham, who had the misfortune to lose his wife last week, desires to express his sincere and heartfelt thanks to the friends and neighbors who showed their sympathy by many kind deeds during the sickness and death of his beloved wife, and he is especially grateful to Father Kelly for the words of consolation and hope spoken over her remains, and to the choir of St. Thomas' church for singing songs of praise at her burial. Mrs. Bingham leaves a husband and five children to mourn her loss. Mr. Bingham and his little ones have the sympathy of many in his sad affliction.

The recent letter from the Judge of Awards on Baking Powders at the Chicago World's Fair, exposing the fraudulent claim of a Chicago house that its baking powder had received the highest award for strength, purity, excellence, etc., is a scathing rebuke to those manufacturers of cheap baking powders who have no regard for the truth, but habitually seek, in their public announcements, to deceive consumers. The Judge of Awards states that no such award was given to the Chicago concern, and has notified it that it must cease publishing his name in connection with its false statements.

Blake has engaged an experienced picture frame gilder to spend next week in Ann Arbor to regild old frames. Here is a chance to make that old frame as good as it was the day you bought. See his adv. in another column.

Mid-Summer Sale!

BEGINS Saturday, June 30th—Ends
Saturday, July 14th. "Two weeks and a day."

Semi-annually we "clean up" our stock by closing out all goods of the season, that our stock may be fresh and clean the next year. Our customers reap a benefit by securing seasonable goods at half to three-quarters their regular selling prices. We reap a benefit by converting into cash thousands of yards of goods, which, but for these sales, would be on hand to spoil the freshness of our next season's offerings.

This Season's Sale begins Saturday morning, and for extent of offerings and for values supplied will eclipse any of our former "Semi-Annals," and you well know the exceedingly interesting character of some of them. Advertisements are poor and cheap if not lived up to by the firm advertising. We always do exactly as we advertise, and we know it pays to do so. Test us during this sale.

MILAN LEADER.

Last week we sent a special invitation to our Whittaker editor—Frank J. Hammond—and his wife to attend the Eastern Star social here Tuesday evening. He wrote us saying it would be inconvenient to do so. Tuesday morning we received the following from him which he offered as an apology for not accepting our invitation: "We had an Eastern Star social at our house Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It's a boy 8½ lbs." Rather a small excuse, but it goes.

YPSILANTI SENTINEL.

Wm. Deubel & Co. are shipping a car of flour to Ireland this week, the order being for some of their best make. The mills will soon shut down for repairs, to be ready for new wheat.

A raid was made on a notorious house in the third ward Saturday evening, by Marshal Ross, who found three inmates and several visitors, among the latter a young man who was recently held up and robbed. The visitors were hauled up before Justice Bogardus the same night and fined. The women were before the court yesterday.

MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE.

There seem to be some prospects now of a fine brick building being built to take the place of the old union hall building, corner of exchange place and railroad street.

Someone shot a woodcock on the Conklin farm in Bridgewater, Monday. The bird flew onto the railroad and dropped dead. The section men heard the report and saw the bird but do not say that they know who violated the law. Sportsmen had better be careful or they may get hauled up for shooting out of season.

SALINE OBSERVER.

Miss Kittie Sauer closed her seventh term of school in the Fosdick district yesterday. Exercises were held in the school house, after which a grand picnic with ice cream and cake was enjoyed.

The graduating class who go from our school to-day are: Mina E. Bordine, Mary A. Briggs, Kate C. Burkhart, Caroline L. Cullen, Ida Montonye, Clara L. Schmid, Agnes R. Sears, Lulu M. Valentine and Cora L. Young.

YPSILANTI COMMERCIAL.

Mrs. Thomas Dzirisicki, a Polish woman, died in Augusta Sunday evening, at the great age of 102 years. She had lived with her great-grand-niece, Mrs. Michael Keene of Augusta. The burial was from St. John's church in this city.

In spite of all the fatal results seen every year, little boys on our streets are snapping the poisonous paper caps on toy pistols. Parents! what are you thinking about? Your boy who receives a fragment of that burning fulminate in his hand will in all probability die of lock-jaw, as numbers do every year. And you can not be innocent of his death.

Hiding Their Money.

Some extraordinary but well-authenticated stories of the bank of France are related. One day a sheep ate up a hundred franc note belonging to a butcher. The butcher ran into the house of a friend, seized a gun, and shot the sheep. He had no sooner done this than the owner of the gun rushed up. "That was an expensive shot of yours for me," he said. "What do you mean?" asked the butcher. "Well," said the other, "I had seventy francs in bills hidden in the barrel of that gun!" The sheep's carcass was pretty thoroughly searched, and enough of the pieces of the notes recovered so that the bank redeemed them all.

Her Criticism.

A picture entitled "At the Bath," and representing two young women near a pool of water, one engaged in drawing off her stockings and the other her dress, was exhibited here lately. I stood near a party that was discussing it one day. One of the men said: "Yes, the picture is good. The coloring and technique are fine."

"That's true enough," said the woman, "but who in the world ever saw a woman take a dress off over her head?"

The argument was convincing. The picture was no longer discussed. The party moved on, and the man standing next to me said: "She's right, and the artist is certainly a man."

Spoke at Last.

The cruel injustice wounded her to the quick, but she repressed the words of protest that rose to her lips. She was patient. Suddenly, however, the storm that had been gathering in her heart broke in an uncontrollable tempest. She shrieked aloud. "Play ball!" she yelled. She had paid fifty cents admission, and while she was disposed to endure much in silence, when the center-fielder walked in to make a kick to the umpire she rebelled. — Detroit Tribune.

A New Musical Instrument.

A new musical instrument is the outcome of many years of hard thinking by a Swedish electrician and musician. There is a frame and on it are hung a score of tuned bells, a series of steel strings of necessary tension, a xylophone and a fraudulent bignole, made out of a bar of steel, and an electric current.

GROWING TALL.

Singular Effect of a Malady on a Massachusetts Man.

William Griffin, aged 25 years, a resident of Weymouth, is afflicted with a malady that makes him a puzzle to physicians. Three years ago he showed symptoms of pulmonary consumption. He went to Nantasket as a hotel clerk for the summer and grew fat on it. During the winter he was taken ill again and Dr. Tinkham was called. The young man at that time had all the appearances of being in the first stages of consumption, upon an examination it was found that his lungs were sound.

Dr. Tinkham then called Dr. Sheehan, who also found that Griffin's lungs were not affected. The medical men were unable to locate the disease, and the patient continued to decline. He has kept in the house nearly all the time since, except on some fine days, when he has walked out. For a year past he has not changed any, either for better or worse, and his ailment appears to be at a standstill. When he was first taken ill his height was about five feet ten inches, and at the present time he is six feet three inches tall.

Misquotations.

The other day, in the house of commons, Mr. W. Field delivered himself of the following sentence: "In the words of scripture, it was sound and fury, signifying nothing." It is greatly to the credit of the house that this was received with roars of laughter. Misquotations are always amusing. We have all heard of that mayor who said that a mayor should be like Caesar's wife—all things to all men.

A POSTPONED PROPOSAL.

The Lady Made the Mistake of Becoming too Womanly.

"I always like to talk to you, Sophronia," said the youth with a beetling brow and a touch of the dyspepsia. "I always like to talk to you, because, unlike other women, you have a soul above the mere frivolity of dress. You prefer to converse on philanthropy and poetry rather than dwell on ribbons and laces and dress patterns."

"I am sure you flatter me, Mr. Gushington," said Sophronia, as a beautiful blush suffused her features precisely at the right time, "but the compliment, coming from you, is highly appreciated," and she put such a sweet emphasis upon "you" that Mr. Gushington's courage was almost raised to the point of asking the question he had been trying to ask for over a year.

"Yes," he continued, in even a tender tone, "you are one of the very few women whose mind is fixed on higher things than raiment. Indeed, you and Miss Wordy, the great female lecturer on archaeology, are the only women I know who are absorbed in higher things than dress. By the way, I went to see her the other evening. She is a magnificent woman, and, as she stood up in all her intellectual dignity before her audience, I was profoundly impressed with her individuality."

"Do tell me about it?" said Miss Sophronia. "How did she wear her hair and what did she have on?"

Mr. Gushington once again postponed his great question, staggered out under the cold moonlight and mechanically wended his way to his lonely home. — Chicago Herald.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, glands in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, pains enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recommend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis. It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

THE LESSON SHE TAUGHT

WAS young and pretty, and an heiress; only child of Judge De Vere, of a famous Southern family. Of course, I was vain and spoiled; who would not be reared as I had been? But, I have never been guilty of a despicable action but once in my life, and all the remaining days of my existence will not be enough in which to prove my sorrow and remorse.

It was all on account of Eva Carroll's wedding. I was to be first bridesmaid, and Susie Parker was to be the second. My cousin, Frank Forest, was chosen for her attendant. At first there was no one selected for me; really, there was no one good enough, I thought, in all the big, old-fashioned Southern country town of Dunford. Why? I was Judge De Vere's only daughter! The very first in the land might be accounted my inferior. So I reasoned in my silly pride and arrogance, little dreaming of the devious ways through which Fate was guiding my feet.

The day appointed for the wedding was only a week distant; still no one had ventured to suggest a suitable attendant for me. Susie and I, together with a dozen friends, had come to the great old-fashioned country-house which was Eva's home, in the midst of a vast sugar plantation; and here we were to remain until after the wedding.

"But how can it come off at all," wailed Susie, madly, "if nobody is good enough to serve as best man?"

Laurence Perth was the name of the bridegroom. He was a stranger—a Northerner—and the friend who was to have been best man had at the last moment succumbed to our national scourge, la grippe, and Perth was at his wife's end for a substitute.

"Somebody entirely perfect—to stand with Edith," the bride-elect informed him.

To my intense astonishment and disgust, he announced his determination to ask Cecil Ray.

Cecil Ray indeed! Why he was almost a stranger in Dunford; and besides—was only a drawing master. He had taught a class for several months, and I was his least successful pupil. He had endeavored to guide me, to correct my crude work, and teach me something of his art, but I had unmercifully snubbed him; treated him coldly, insolently, till one day he had informed me that I was not well bred, and that until I was ready to mend my ways, he would dispense with my attendance at the drawing class.

Of course, Laurence Perth knew nothing of the feud between Ray and myself; and he had extended an invitation to the young man—who had completely captivated Perth's fancy—before Eva could explain the true state of the case. To our intense surprise, knowing his dislike for me, Cecil Ray consented. I was furious; but what could I do?

"I am tempted to withdraw altogether," I cried angrily, when the truth came out, "I cannot endure it; Mr. Perth must be out of my mind."

"Oh—please—please Edith, do not refuse!" pleaded Eva. "Just think, it will only be for a few moments, and then—you will be free. Do not let anything occur to mar the occasion—dear Edith, please!"

So, what could I do but consent? But I registered a mental vow to make

"CAN YOU EVER FORGIVE ME?"

Mr. Cecil Ray knew his place before I was done with him.

The days flew by, and to our dismay just before the wedding day we were visited by a fearful rainstorm; rain, rain, rain! It was too provoking. It was enough to make one wild. No cessation—no let up. The roads were speedily rendered impassable; the number of guests would necessarily be diminished; and, worse than all—to me—the flowers which I was to wear—pure white hyacinths—were at home in my father's conservatory—five long miles away. My dress would be nothing—my costume spoiled without them; so I argued. Nothing else would be suitable; no other flowers could possibly be worn with my pretty white lace dress. I was perverse, obstinate, ridiculous. I can see it all now, with a keen feeling of shame at my own silly pride and foolish vanity.

"But, my dear Edith," remonstrated

Susie Parker, "since you cannot obtain the hyacinths—for the roads are horrible, and there is the river to cross, and the bridge is dilapidated—you must give up and be patient. After all, since the weather is so dreadful, it will spoil the festivities, and only a few people will venture out. Do be reconciled, Edie dear, and wear something else—lilies, for instance."

"Just what you are going to wear," I pouted. "No, indeed. Sue, if I can not have my pretty white hyacinths—the gardener at home has raised them on purpose for this occasion—I don't want any other flower. Oh, if I knew of any one with enough spirit to ride over to my home and get me those hyacinths."

"What will you give in payment?" asked a low, musical voice, and, glancing up, I saw Cecil Ray standing near.

"Twenty-five dollars—cash," I cried.

"Do you know of any possible way to obtain them?"

"Yes; I will go."

"You?"

A tone of scorn in my voice. His deep, dark eyes flashed, the firm lips shut close together for an instant, then he replied:

"Even I, Miss De Vere. But I must stipulate my own terms—set my own price."

"Fifty dollars?" I suggested scornfully.

It was worth it to look the very fairest and sweetest at the wedding; ay, even to eclipse the fair bride.

His face grew pale, and his eyes flashed with anger.

"My own terms," he repeated; and all the spectators gathered around to witness the unique scene. "My terms are these."

His eyes were resting full upon my own; I felt my face grow pale with apprehension.

"I will ride to Judge De Vere's plantation," the sweet, low voice went on slowly, "and bring you the hyacinths, or lay my life down in the attempt. But in payment, I demand—a kiss."

Silence, dead silence, in the room; then I faced him, my head erect, my eyes blazing.

"Insolent! Audacious!" was all that I could say; for my voice failed me, and I burst into tears.

"Nonsense, Edith," cried Susie Parker, lightly, "what a fuss to make about a single kiss. I'll wager the day will come when you will be willing to kiss Cecil Ray," she added, in a whisper.

But, of course, I ignored her absurd insinuation. A little later, through the driving rain and howling wind, Cecil Ray rode away from the Carroll plantation upon his own big, black horse, Selim. I heard Laurence Perth and my cousin Frank discussing the matter in tones of unmingled contempt—for me.

"Of all conceived, vain, frivolous girls, my Cousin Edith De Vere takes the lead," I heard Frank exclaim, angrily; "here, for a silly whim of hers, a good man is about to risk his life. For Laurence, did you know that the river bridge is unsafe? He hardly got over it—yes, I watched him, expecting every moment to see the horse plunge through the rotten planks—and I am very anxious and uneasy over Ray's mad exploit. I thought he had more sense."

All that day I wandered about like an unquiet ghost. What if anything should happen—any evil befall Cecil Ray? I would be his murderer. Oh, how I suffered! Long years have passed since then, but I can recall it all now, every little pang.

To-morrow would be Eva's wedding-day. The sun set in a great sullen ball of fire, for the rain had ceased at last. Night came down, but still Cecil did not return. Alone in my room I was wrestling with an awful horror, and a strange, wild tumult filled my heart. I knew the truth at last. I realized past all doubting that I loved Cecil Ray, the poor drawing-master. When the black shades of night stole down over the earth, I wrapped myself in a water-proof cloak and went out upon the gallery. Tramp, tramp, came the sound of a horse's flying feet, and a moment later Selim appeared, all covered with foam and without his master.

With a wild shriek I fell to the floor unconscious. He was dead—the man I loved—and I had killed him.

I opened my eyes to find my head pillowed upon some one's breast, then I started up with a low moan:

"Cecil!" I faltered, "my God! I have killed him—and I love him!"

And then for the first time I became aware that it was Cecil himself who was holding me in his arms. I reached up and kissed him full upon the lips.

"Cecil!" I whispered, "can you ever forgive me?"

He strained me close to his heart, and in that embrace I read all—forgiveness, love, heaven itself. He had come down the river in a boat, first sending Selim home, knowing that the sagacious animal would find his way. But Cecil was safe, and I cared not for the flowers that he had brought me; I only wanted him. And we had been betrothed for weeks before I discovered that Cecil Ray was the only son of the governor of a neighboring state who had come to the country for his health, and with a determination to prove that he could be liked and sought as a friend, even where his true position was unknown. And I had thought to teach him a lesson, little dreaming that he would teach me the lesson of love.

Severe Rebuke.

"Minnie, you and Tessie mustn't talk about slapping each other's faces," said the eldest of the little girls, chidingly. "The neighbors'll think this is a grand opny company."

REV. FATHER CLANCE, Sec'y to the Rt. Rev. Bishop

Greenwich—I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic over it. The great sisters speak most encouragingly of their use in the Hospital under their care. I will do anything to speak a good word for the remedy to help others who are suffering.

Greenwich—Being almost entirely deaf for a number of years and getting no relief from many special cures which I tried, was induced by a friend to try Dr. Birney's Catarrh Powder for my deafness. Have recovered my hearing entirely so that I can now hear a watch tick plainly, it being held in inches from my ear. I look upon it as a positive cure for deafness and have recommended its use to many of my friends and can say I have never heard of a case where it has failed to relieve.

THE MECCA OF THE TOURIST, INVALID AND PLEASURE SEEKER.

Old Time Charms Combined With Modern Conveniences.

Are you seeking health? Or rest, or pleasure? Go at once to Hot Springs, Virginia, where the wonderful mineral springs will take away every vestige of ill-health; where the pure mountain air gives renewed vitality, and where the most beautiful scenery in the world awakens new hopes, new aspirations in the tired soul.

Besides the venerable hotels that have afforded comfort to so many generations, at this beautiful Virginia resort, there has been built a splendid new hotel, thus combining old time charms with modern conveniences.

Solid trains from Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis and Indianapolis, via the Big Four Route daily, connect with the F. V. Limited via the C. & O. Ry., leaving Cincinnati in the evening, reaching Hot Springs next morning. Through Palace Sleeping cars from St. Louis and Indianapolis. Dining cars entire route.

SCISSORS AND PASTE.

Mrs. Bertha Amador of New York is trying to get her husband back to her by a writ of habeas corpus.

There are 187 pounds of salt in a ton of water from the Dead sea. In the Atlantic the amount is eighty-one pounds to every ton.

The Central railroad of New Jersey has put into service a hospital car, the first of its kind in the world. It is stationed at Mauch Chunk.

Paris, in studying the subject of sewage disposal, proposes to buy large tracts of land in the valley of the Seine and establish filtration beds.

The negroes in Atlanta, Ga., are said to hold property valued at more than $1,000,000, all acquired since the war, and due to their own industry and frugality.

It is estimated that there are 10,000,000 bearing and non-bearing orange trees in Florida. California is credited with 6,000,000 and Arizona about 1,000,000.

In a eulogy of the church an Anglican clergyman recently described it as standing "with one foot firmly planted upon earth, and the other pointed toward heaven."

The biggest dog ever known was a St. Bernard named Plinlimmon, shown at an English dog show in 1866. He stood thirty-five inches high at the shoulder and weighed 214 pounds.

A museum now being built at Leyden, Netherlands, will be the largest in the world next to the British museum. Within its walls space will be provided for 80,000 stuffed birds.

Red brick are going out of fashion and a St. Louis gentleman announces that Philadelphia is responsible for the new order of things. Buff, gray and mottled bricks are the kinds now being ordered.

Health officers find that five germ diseases—consumption, diphtheria, typhoid fever, pneumonia and scarlet fever—are at present very destructive when neglected, but yield readily to the means of control now known.

Extract from an official order governing the Berlin streets: "As soon as darkness begins every vehicle is required to show a lighted lamp or lantern. Legally darkness begins with the lighting of the city gas lamps."

One of the amusements of a summer resort in the mountains of Vermont is gold mining. A little stream in the region carries down a considerable amount of gold, and it is the habit of summer visitors to carry shallow pans to the stream's bed, fill them with earth, and patiently go through the hand washing process of old California days. The gold is found along with magnetic sand at the bottom of the pan, and visitors display with pride perhaps ten cents' worth of gold as the result of half an hour's labor.

TRIVIAL TALKS.

"The editor has a peculiar gait." "Didn't know he had any at all—thought he climbed the fence."

Business Man, hurriedly—What do you want to get me to the Grand Central in five minutes? Cabman, thoughtfully—A new horse.

"There is one thing can be said of Brown—he always attends to his own business." "Yes, sir; that's why his last employer discharged him"

"Somers tells me he has been looking for comfortable quarters everywhere." "Jupiter! he never strikes me for anything less than a five."

"Cyrus she said, reluctantly, 'I don't think I would make a good wife for a poor man.' "Then you'd make a mighty poor wife for a good man."

Satan—Set him adrift on the lake of fire in a boat that constantly upsets. Asmodeus—What is his crime, my lord? Satan—When in life he used to think it funny to rock a boat.

A Liverpool man was so enraptured with a lady at a fancy ball that he offered her a £5 note to unmask. She accepted the money, saying: "Now your wife can pay the servant girl's back wages." It was his mother-in-law.

"I told my wife this morning that we'd have to economize," said the man who talks about his personal affairs. "I wish I dared tell mine that." "Why don't you?" "Because the last time I tried it she bought me a box of auction cigars."

Comic Opera Soprano—George, have you a paper there? Comic Opera Tenor—Yes. Comic Opera Soprano—Well, just turn over to the stage gossip, will you? Comic Opera Tenor—What for? Comic Opera Soprano—And find out whether we're going to be married or divorced next time.

BUSINESS BRIEFS.

According to the United States census, the average cost of steam power is $36 per horse-power per year.

A process by which oranges and lemons can be kept fresh for a year has been invented by a Charleston, S. C., genius.

The price of platinum has increased five-fold at the Ural mines within three years. This is due to the heavy demand for this metal for electrical purposes.

J. O. Hanthorn has a machine of his own invention at work in his Astoria cannery that washes 36,000 cans in ten hours. The best record for the old machines was 12,000.

San Francisco reports the arrival of the first tank steamer with 2,640 tons of petroleum from Payta, Peru. She is named Bawnmore, and her cargo amounts to a little less than 22,000 barrels.

A new industry has been started in this country, that of making glass brushes, such as are used by china decorators for burnishing the gilding on china after it comes from the kiln. These brushes are mostly imported from Bohemia.

CURRENT GOSSIP.

Madame Albini began learning music when she was only 4 years old. The last pure-blooded Iroquois Indian, named Teirafassriake, recently died in Canada.

The finest tomb in Great Britain is undoubtedly that of the duke of Hamilton in the grounds of Hamilton palace. It cost $180,000.

Gordon W. Lillie, or "Pawnee Bill," as he is known, is to furnish the Wild West show at the Antwerp exposition. He is under contract with King Leopold to do the work.

Rev. Dwight L. Moody is a poor man. Although he has made thousands of dollars he has saved none of it. The bulk of his earnings has been used for the support of his summer school.

A shoemaker at Haverhill, Mass., has received an order for a pair of shoes for the Princess May—the duchess of York—of England. The public will be interested to learn that May wears a No. 4.

Lars Kruse, who was drowned recently in Denmark, had saved several hundred persons from drowning. Eight kings had placed decorations on his breast in recognition of his bravery in saving lives, and a monument will be erected to his memory.

A granite monolith in the form of a Iona cross is to be erected to the memory of Tennyson on the highest crest of the down overlooking the western end of the Isle of Wight. It is to be known as the Tennyson beacon, and will be a land and sea mark in view of every ship that passes in and out of the Needles or under the island.

Admiral Ramsey, who has been promoted to the place made vacant by Admiral Benham's retirement, has been in the navy for almost forty-four years, and has held command rank since 1866. He has advanced five files in the past year and Admiral Walker is his immediate senior, while Commodore Skerritt is just below him. Admiral Ramsey is near the age of enforced retirement.

Bishop Littlejohn appropriately received as a gift upon his completing a quarter of a century in the Episcopal office an amethyst ring. A few New York jewelers keep or make amethyst rings with very large settings. They are usually called bishop's rings, and in the church of England, as well as in the Roman Catholic church, the ring is a part of the bishop's insignia of office.

Kate Field met George Eliot at Florence while she (Kate) was learning Latin of Walter Savage Landor, and her description of the personal appearance of the novelist is most interesting. "Her eyes were a light blue, mouth sensitive; she had high cheek bones and an ever-changing color; these, taken with her retiring manner, low stature and large frame, made her a person to be noted in a crowded room. Her literary work was laborious and painful."

DASHES OF HUMOR.

Friend—You'll be missed if you leave the stage. De Ranter—That's the reason I am going off. I'm tired of being hit.

"That young lady seems to be practicing her Delsarte lessons unconsciously." "Who? Miss Bithers? That isn't Delsarte. That's St. Vitus' dance."

"Haven't you made Mr. Bulger's portrait a good deal more than life size?" said one artist to another. "Perhaps. You see, that's as big as he thinks he is."

"Know anyone about here likely to give a fellow a week or a month's work?" "Well, I heard as the judge was givin' some blokes 'ard labor yesterday in the next township."

Mistress—You must really break off that dreadful habit, Babette, of always wanting to have the last word. Maid—But how am I to know, ma'am, that you have nothing more to say?

Irascible Old Gentleman, putting his head out of a four-wheeler that is crawling along at an unconscionable pace—I say, cabby, we're not going to a funeral. Cabby, promptly—No, and we ain't going to go bloomin' fire, either.

"Mamma," asked the high school girl, "may I study Browning?" "Why, yes, child," said her mother; "I am glad you have come to your senses at last. Just wait a minute and I'll get out the flour, butter, lard and eggs, and show you how to begin."
