

A GHASTLY FIND.

A PARENT KICKS ON TEACHERS SMOKING.

The Gwinner-Cole Concert—All Danger From Cyclones Removed—Dr. Martin's Narrow Escape—Education of the Blind—Free Newspaper Postage—Items From the Campus—Election of G. A. R. Officers.

Need Free Beds.
Nine weeks ago, Ernest Lyon, a little boy of 8 years, who was born with a cataract over one eye and had lost the other by accident, was brought here for treatment. His father, who is a poor man, has exhausted all his means to keep the boy at the hospital until he could be cured, but his money gave out two weeks ago. At this juncture two students took him and have kept him up to the present time. The boy is being greatly helped, and some of our good people are making an effort to raise the means to pay the necessary expense at the hospital until the little unfortunate is restored to sight. Already some of our business men have given liberally to aid the little fellow. Messrs. Wadhams, Ryan & Reule contributing a pair of pants and an overcoat. THE REGISTER hopes that when you are called upon you will contribute something. Mr. Sturgeon, of the Ann Arbor Organ Co., will receive contributions and see that they are properly applied. It would be well if the Regents could see their way clear to use some of the $5,000 surplus in the hospital fund to help endow a few free beds at the hospitals.

About High School Teacher's Smoking.

[To the Editor of THE REGISTER.]

We are glad to see that some one has backbone enough to speak out against the habit of allowing teachers of our children in the High School to smoke. Let others speak, fathers and mothers, and continue it until the board of education acts, and says, either quit forever the use of tobacco in any of its forms, privately or publicly, or hand in our resignations. These teachers are our employees, and it is time our action was taken on this matter. We presume that no father even if he uses the obnoxious weed desires his son to acquire the same pernicious habit and certainly no mother does. Let there be persistent concerted action. Who is the next one to protest?

New Cyclone Signal.

You can now dig a cyclone cellar and have positive assurance that you will be given plenty of time to get into it before you are suddenly snatched from mother earth and pitched over into an adjoining county. The Weather Bureau has arranged to throttle the cyclone, so to speak, at least so far as its avidity for human gore is concerned, by displaying signals to notify the unsuspecting whenever one of these twisters is gyrating around in the neighborhood. So if you are afraid of the genus cyclone, just keep your eye peeled and when you see two red flags with black centers or two black flags with red borders, one above the other, make a bee line for that "cyclone cellar" and, if you reach there before the cyclone does, stay there until free trade increases the price of wool and you will be safe.

A Narrow Escape.

Dr. J. N. Martin was taken seriously ill last week with blood poisoning resulting from an operation which he performed upon a patient some time before. He was affected in the lymphatic glands in the pit of one of his arms. The doctor grew worse until Sunday when it was deemed necessary to perform an operation in order to save his life. Doctors Nancrede and Lynds removed the glands affected and the patient is now considerably better. The operation will probably result in slightly stiffening the doctor's arm for a short time, but his friends will be glad to know that he is likely to entirely recover at an early day.

Struck An Old Graveyard.

The workmen on the sewer made an unexpected find on S. State-st. yesterday. Just in front of Sheehan's bookstore the diggers unearthed an old fashioned coffin containing the skeleton of a man. Most of the bones and the skull were in a fair state of preservation. From the hair, and the coffin in which the body had been buried, it was evidently the remains of some early settler, and not an Indian as some thought. It is likely that the body was buried there by some of the earliest pioneers, before there had been any regular cemetery located.

The Education of the Blind.

The Midland Republican of Dec. 7, says:

"Samples of cookies and biscuit, made by girls totally blind, can be seen at the Republican office. These samples are from some that were taken Tuesday from the school for the Blind (at Lansing) to Adrian for exhibition in connection with the convention there of the State Board of Corrections and Charities. A hammock and various samples of needle work made by the children at the school, were exhibited, also a book of raised point letter (Braille) which was stereotyped and printed at the school, and best of all, four of the children were there, two girls and two boys, who read from the books and the stereotypes with their fingers, played the piano, sang, wrote Braille from dictation, gave recitations, etc., arousing great interest in those who saw and heard them. They were under the immediate care of Supt. Church and a lady teacher and remained through the entire convention, also visiting the Industrial Home for girls. The children enjoyed the change from school routine immensely and sat with great patience through the long sessions, in which some most valuable papers and discussions were given.

Hon. L. C. Storrs, Secretary of the State Board of Corrections and Charities says that the School for the Blind was never in better condition than now."

This school is a state institution and is located at Lansing. Blind children are boarded and taught free of charge. Further information may be obtained by addressing the Superintendent of the School for the Blind, Lansing, Mich. Any person knowing of a blind child, or one so nearly blind as to be unable to learn in the public schools should encourage the parents or guardian to have such child sent to the school at Lansing.

Unity Club Concert.

A large and appreciative audience filled the Unitarian church Saturday, evening to listen to the concert given by Miss Fannie E. Gwinner, pianist, of Iowa College, Grinnell, Ia. She was assisted by Mr. R. G. Cole organ, and Mr. E. A. Emery, baritone, both of the same college, and also Mr. E. N. Bilbie, violin, of Ann Arbor. Though Miss Gwinner has often been heard here in the concert hall, we have seldom heard her play with such fine tone-coloring, such finish and repose as on Saturday evening. She played Mr. Cole's Novelette and Intermezzo with feeling and exquisite taste which elicited warmest applause. Mr. Emery's rich baritone voice at once found a host of friends and his first solo was heartily encored. His ballad singing shows the possession of a real artistic nature. Mr. Bilbie's violin playing was thoroughly appreciated, especially the second number. Mr. Cole's March Fantasia, which he played himself, is a composition full of beauties which will bear hearing often. Mr. Cole is director of the Iowa College Conservatory, in which Miss Gwinner has charge of the piano department, and is making for himself an enviable reputation as composer and teacher.

Free Newspaper Postage.

The intimation on the part of Postmaster-General Bissell that it will soon be practicable to carry newspapers and periodicals in the mails from the office of publication to subscribers free of postage will be received with popular acclaim.

The improvements in printing and in paper making of recent years have wonderfully cheapened the cost of newspapers and books. But the taste for reading grows by what it feeds on, and the more the people have the more they want. Free postage, by still further cheapening the cost of distribution, would give a spur to the spread of intelligence, which would manifest itself in a larger and clearer understanding of the responsibilities and duties of citizenship. Every year the newspaper is becoming a more and more important factor in the life of the nation. In making the pathway clear before it, the government would undoubtedly be consulting the general welfare.—Commercial Union.

Will Compromise

The bitter feelings which have been engendered between Palladium and non-Palladium frats and the independents have been partly allayed by the former inviting the two latter to erect booths in the Gym at the time of the so called "Junior Hop." This, it is generally believed, will heal the breach that has been made among the fraternities and go a long way towards aiding them in again being able to gain control of senior class affairs which they have not had for the past five or six years. The invitation which has also been extended to the independents will also tend to lessen the feeling of antagonism to the fraternities and possibly make the latter some votes when class elections are close. The move on the part of the Palladium frats was a shrewd one and may be fraught with important results in senior class affairs in the future.

Campus.

The U. of M. Daily is taking a vacation. It will resume again when college opens.

Newberry Hall contains an album with the photographs of all the ex-presidents of the society, and other prominent officials.

The little pipe organ in the University chapel has been moved out of the corner it has occupied so long in order to make room for a stairway to the hall above.

The laws do not like the name "To-Wit" and will name their annual "Res Gestae." Now they will find it necessary to "explain" to the average junior aw just what that means.

Among the prizes offered by the Castalian this year will be one by MacMillan & Co., of N. Y., for the best poem. It will consist of that company's "Globe Edition of the Great English Poets." There are fourteen fine volumes in the set.

The Students' Christian Association will give a social this evening to those students who remain in town during the holidays. There are not many of them, but those here will be glad of something to break the lonesome monotony.

The next S. C. A. Bulletin will contain a letter from Oscar Roberts, '94 lit., detailing his work, and the general status of things. Mr. Roberts was sent out as missionary by the S. C. A. and reached Zangi, about 70 miles north of the equator, Nov. 15.

Prof. Spaulding, who has been studying in Europe during the past two years, writes from Boston that he will probably spend the holidays in Ann Arbor. He has been in Boston for the past six weeks revising his text-book on "Introduction to Botany."

Prof. Stanley announces that the vesper services will begin with the second semester. They will be largely musical, but it will be the aim to make them of educational value as well. They will be held twice a week at 4:15 p. m. Prof. Stanley proposes to have a chorus of the best voices in college, which will put two hours practice a week upon the music for the services. It is his plan to present a course which will illustrate the development of sacred music. The choral practice will be made a regular chorus in the college work, and two hours credit will be given for it.—U. of M. Daily.

The December Inlander came out last Friday. It is one of more than usual merit. The leading articles are: "A Prelude," by T. P. Hickey. "A Walk with a Fatalist," by Louis A. Strauss.

John R. Effinger, jr., writes "At 67 Rue Des Saints-Peres."

Miss Grace Millard writes a very amusing story of a Palladium hop man who was "Locken In" during the Palladium hop.

"Santa Claus not a Myth," by Frank P. Daniels.

The poems are by Miss Maud Elaine Caldwell and Messrs. Tied and Bowman.

S. C. Falkenburg, a contractor, of Detroit, was in the city today looking over the Cook House with the view of developing plans for an addition to the house.

It is the intention of the proprietor, A. L. Nowlin, of Ypsilanti, to build to the south of the present building a sufficient distance so that the lower part of the addition will be made into two stores. The upper part will be finished off for rooms, making about fifty new ones. Baths, water closets and all modern improvements will be put in. The dining room will be placed in the second story, when the improvements are made and will be about 30x40 feet in dimensions. When completed it will be a model hostelry. Work will be begun, Mr. Falkenburg says, in the spring.—Courier.

G. A. R. Election.

At a regular meeting of Welch Post, G. A. R., held at their hall last Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected for the next year.

STATE NEWS NOTES.

A CHAPTER OF THE DOINGS OF MICHIGANDERS.

State Live Stock Breeders' Convention at Lansing - The Government Park at Mackinac Island Will Not be Sold - A Priest Falls - Briefs.

Michigan Live Stock Breeders. The fourth annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Breeders of Improved Live Stock was held at Lansing, and the meeting was attended by about 75 members.

Mackinac Island Park Will Not be Sold. Washington: Senator McMillan is now satisfied that neither the house nor senate committees will act favorably on Secretary of War Lamont's recommendation for selling the government park at Mackinac Island.

A Priest Violates His Holy Orders. Rev. Fr. Dupasquier, of Garden Delta county, is wanted for the alleged seduction of Eva Chaquette, aged 14. The girl's parents have issued a warrant for the arrest of the priest, who skipped. Fr. Dupasquier is about 30 years of age and a Frenchman by birth.

Lost a Leg. Charles Slater attempted to board a westbound train at Lapeer, and was swung under the wheels which passed over one leg below the knee. He was of a rather unruly disposition, and had trouble with his father. It is said that he was running away.

MICHIGAN HAPPENINGS.

Berrien county wants to be made a judicial circuit by itself.

The Saginaw Y. M. C. A. has bought a site for a new building.

Virtie Herrick, aged 12, was killed in a runaway accident at Freeport.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bennett, of Port Huron, are $40,000 ahead by the death of a relative in England.

Wm. Sharkey, working on Howlett's farm, near Pontiac, was kicked in the abdomen by a horse. He cannot live.

During the past year the river at Detroit has claimed 41 victims, 13 less than last year and one less than in 1892.

Ludwig Granzo, who came down with small-pox at Royal Oak, is dead. Granzo was 74 years old. This is the second death in his family.

John Ellis, aged 70, was thrown from a load of cornstalks at Monroe and had the muscles torn from his back bone, and he may die.

Burglars climbed around Marshal Eldred's residence at Monroe, entered Dan Duval's saloon and stole about $20 in money, cigars and whisky.

Charles Dohn, 18 years of age, was struck by a falling limb near Crystal and was injured so badly that he died. His father was killed in the same way five years ago.

Charles Zein, a lad arrested on a charge of assault and battery, escaped from the county jail at Negaunee. He got out through a ventilator leading from the corridor to the basement.

The Swiss council of state has granted the concession asked for to build a railroad up the Jungfrau mountain. The capital has been subscribed in America and in England.

An attempt was made to ditch a D. L. & N. train. Several spikes and ties were removed two miles north of Ithaca. The engine and baggage car left the rails, but no one was injured.

Mathias Zeigler, a farmer near Unionville was instantly killed while hauling wood. The horses became frightened and Mr. Zeigler was thrown from the wagon and his neck broken.

A C. & G. T. excursion train loaded with Canadians bound for Winnipeg, was wrecked at Schoolcraft. No passengers were hurt, but the baggage man was badly injured and the engine and baggage car demolished.

Thomas Gibson is an eccentric old man at Jackson who frequently amuses himself at night by shouting "fire," "murder," or "robbers," as it happens to suit him. He has been fined $10 for working off a joke of that sort.

Willie Moore, the 15-year-old son of Geo. E. Moore, near Big Rapids, was almost instantly killed by a lodged limb falling from a tree his father was cutting down, crushing his skull. The father was also knocked down and seriously injured by the limb.

John Hens attempted a criminal assault upon Mrs. Martha Williams in John Ball park, Grand Rapids, and her screams brought an athletic young grocer wagon driver to her assistance. The young man captured the villain unassisted, loaded him into his wagon and landed him in jail. Hens is 40 years old and has a family.

Some heartless wretch attempted a wholesale poisoning of live stock on George D. Brennstuhl's farm, near Ionia, by putting pink green in the spring where the stock was watered. Two or three animals died and traces of the poison were easily detected in the drinking place.

The small-pox epidemic is at an end at St. Johns. The city had twelve cases and three deaths.

A. G. VanHees, of Zeeland, has been elected president of the South Ottawa and West Allegan agricultural society.

Hiram Wright, one of the founders of Boyne Falls, and a veteran who drew $72 per month pension for blindness, is dead.

Diphtheria continues to thrive in West Lay City. There have been three deaths this month and there are now 10 cases in the city.

Charles Swanson fell under the wheels in jumping off a moving car at Tustin. His right arm was cut off at the elbow. He may not survive.

Hon. W. R. Burt says that there is no truth in the report that the C. S. & M. railroad is to pass under the management of the Ann Arbor road.

Seven unoccupied buildings have recently been burned at Alma. Citizens fear the fire bug will soon turn his attention to more valuable buildings.

The trustees of St. Johns will ask the legislature for a city charter. St. Johns has a population of 3,500 and of 250 villages in the state only three are larger.

Jessie Pratt, 75 years of age, of Lansing, was very despondent since the death of his wife and he took a large quantity of gum opium with fatal results.

A. McMillan, retiring commander of U. S. Grant post G. A. R., of Bay City, has been appointed aide-de-camp on the staff of the commander-in-chief, Thomas G. Lawler.

In the Michigan supreme court issues were framed for a jury to pass upon the case brought by the state to collect from Bay County $131,000 back taxes claimed to be unpaid.

George Randall, foreman of the car repairers at the Grand Rapids & Indiana yards, fell from the top of a coach into a pit filled with dead steam. He was fatally scalded.

Joseph Atzenhoffer, for 15 years Michigan Central car inspector at Jackson, became suddenly violently insane and attacked his wife and daughter threatening them both.

The Methodists of Lapeer thought they could remodel their old church, but have decided that they will put $6,000 into a new structure. It has also been decided to secure a new site.

Bell Wardell, aged four years, was badly burned while playing around a bonfire at Dimondale. His uncle, Chuck Darling, was also severely burned while trying to rescue the child.

Mrs. Julius Gunther, of St. Clair, was seriously injured at Port Huron. Her horse became frightened at a passing load of hay and ran away. She was thrown out and her left arm was broken.

The ladies of Port Austin have an improvement society which devotes its entire time to improving the appearance of the town. Their latest benefaction was the stringing up of a lot of lamps about the town.

The Kirby-Car lumber company has contracted with the St. Paul railroad people to haul 8,000,000 feet of logs from Ontonagon county to Menominee. This is all timber scorched by the fires last summer.

The annual reunion of the old Third Michigan infantry was held at Grand Rapids with a large attendance. Ben Gilden, of Grand Rapids, was elected president. George E. Judd, secretary, and Fred Shriver, treasurer.

The ladies of Port Huron worked for charity by issuing the Port Huron Times, and from extra advertising and street sales of the paper netted $700 in one day. They issued an 18-page paper, furnishing all the matter in it.

The supervisors of Eaton county by a vote of 19 to 1 decided that the petitions for the resubmission of local option were either faulty or fraudulent and refused to call an election. There was talk of prosecuting those who made false affidavits in the matter.

John S. Monteith died at his home in Martin township, Allegan county, on October 31 last. Poisoning was suspected, and the body has been disinterred and the stomach, liver and kidneys sent to Ann Arbor for analysis. Monteith was rich and leaves a widow.

South Haven voted on the question of bonding the city for $10,000 for an electric light plant instead of renting of someone else, as now. There was a small majority in favor of bonding, but the charter requires a two-thirds majority. It will doubtless be tried again.

Wm. Wickwire, who was recently shot by a masked man at his home near Climax, has identified Michael Callahan as the man he quarrelled with at Climax the day he was shot. Callahan had denied being in Climax on that day, and also swore that he never talked with Wickwire.

While Miner Collins was standing by the shaft in the sawmill of Eugene Allen, at Paw Paw, his overcoat caught and commenced to wind him up, and before the mill could be stopped it tore all his clothing off except one boot and sock and part of his undershirt sleeve and terribly bruised his body. He died in great distress.

While the Michigan Central train from the north was running nearly 40 miles an hour between Oakley and Owosso, a prisoner who was being taken from West Branch to Ionia to serve a four-years' sentence, threw himself from an open window and nearly escaped, receiving no injuries excepting those caused by the glass in the window. When the train was finally stopped he was nearly a mile away, but was finally overtaken.

Early in the session of the state legislature the members from Jackson county will present a bill requiring the state to return its convicts to the place where they were convicted, and not to turn them loose at the door of the prison at the expiration of their respective sentences. While this law will be urged in behalf of Jackson it also applies to the House of Correction in Detroit, the prisons at Marquette and Ionia and the industrial schools as well. The city of Jackson has suffered serious annoyance, expense and financial loss from the present practice during many years, and it is growing more unbearable every day.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

SENATE.—Fourteenth day.—Another resolution providing for union with Canada was introduced by Mr. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, who stated that he would do anything in his power at any time to further the consummation of such union. Senator Hill delivered a speech on his proposition for a rule to close debate, which was listened to with close attention by many Senators. Mr. Turpie continued his speech in denunciation of the Nicaragua canal bill, stating that it appeared to him to have every indication of a gorgeous bubble. An urgent deficiency bill, appropriating $100,000 for public printing and binding, was passed. HOUSE.—Immediately after the call of committees for reports, Mr. Springer, of the banking and currency committee, moved that the House go into the committee of the whole for the consideration of the Carlisle currency bill. His motion prevailed, and Mr. Richardson (Dem., Ind.), in charge of the opposition to the measure, gave notice that at the proper time he would offer a substitute. Mr. Springer delivered the opening speech in favor of the bill. He declared that the committee had given the subject the most careful consideration, and he stated that the recommendations of the President and the secretary of the treasury, had called before it some of the ablest financiers in the country, and the result presented a bill which was a pending bill as a measure of financial reform. He did not pretend to say that the bill represented the views of individual members of the committee. It was a compromise and as such harmonized fairly the views of all. Mr. Springer proceeded to detail at length the scheme of the bill, reviewing much of the ground which has already been printed. While Mr. Springer was discussing the provision looking to ultimate redemption, the speaker of the House, Mr. Carlisle, interrupted him, and the speaker of the House, Mr. Carlisle, interrupted him, and the speaker of the House, Mr. Carlisle, interrupted him.

THE HOTTEST BATTLE YET.

Japanese Defeat the Chinese Only After Fierce Hand-to-Hand Fighting. Yokohama: Gen. Vasura (Japanese) attacked Gen. Lung's position seven miles west of Hai Cheng. The position was defended by 10,000 Chinese, who were routed after four assaults. The Japanese force consisted of four regiments of infantry and five batteries of artillery. The fighting was stubborn, the combatants meeting hand-to-hand. The fight was the fiercest that has yet taken place. The Chinese loss is estimated at 500 killed or wounded. The Japanese also suffered severely. London: A dispatch from Kiobe, Japan, says that thousands of Tongkoo haks defeated the Korean garrison of 300 soldiers at U-bana, O., and then burned their houses. The inhabitants of the town fled. It reported that a number of Chinese were among the Tonghaks. A Japanese paper gives a summary of the losses of the Japanese and Chinese armies up to Nov. 3, exclusive of the battles at Fung Wang Chang, Kin Chan, Tallewan and at Port Arthur. This shows that the Japanese lost about 330 killed, 832 wounded, while the Chinese lost 4,000 killed and 4,500 wounded and 1,500 of them were made captives. The Japanese have also taken 235 cannon, other arms, 43,000,660 cartridges, besides enough ammunition to last a month, firing with 20,000 rifles; 3,400 tents, 1,000 horses, 3,000,000 taels worth of gold and silver, 11,905 Amie coins, 2,413 Koku of rice, 5,755 Koku of unpolished rice, and in addition sufficient food to last an army of 20,000 men three days. The Chinese have lost 13 vessels, a torpedo boat, five men-of-war and one of their war vessels captured, which makes a total tonnage of 9,850 tons. The number killed and wounded on the Japanese side at Port Arthur is estimated at over 400, while those of the enemy is estimated at 9,000.

China Sends Peace Envoys to Japan.

Washington: Minister Denby cabled the state department that the Chinese government has appointed two peace commissioners, Chang Yin Huan and Shao, who will proceed at once on their mission from Peking to the Japanese capital. Both stand high in Chinese authority. There is some speculation as to whether an armistice will be declared pending the consummation of a treaty of peace. Such a course is usual in the case of wars between civilized countries, but there is reason to believe that the Japanese are indisposed to trust the Chinese in the smallest degree. All such matters as the amount of the war indemnity to be paid by the defeated country, the guarantee of the independence of Korea, the occupation of Port Arthur and the island of Formosa, have heretofore been left untouched for the discussion of the peace commissioners, and the sole efforts of the United States ministers have been directed to bringing the principals together to discuss terms of peace.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

NEW YORK.—Dun's weekly trade review says: For the large exports and imports, the indication would be more encouraging. Some increase is seen in orders given to manufacturing works, though the force actually at work diminishes. The holiday trade was rather poor at most points, partly owing to mild weather. There is distinctly more confidence shown about the future demand for industrial products, though prices are not better. Money continues to accumulate in New York City and there is no enlargement in the legitimate demand for commercial loans, though some offerings of paper, apparently to prepare for the winter settlements, have a credit remark. Prices of agricultural products do not improve. Larger orders for manufactured products have appeared, and yet, except in boots and shoes, the general tendency of prices is downward. The failures for the past week were 319 in the United States, against 244 last year, and 96 in Canada, against 37 last year.

The ministerial association at Saginaw declares saloons and houses of ill-fame are run in open violation of the law and demands that the law be enforced, that police commissioners do their duty that Chief of Police Kain be removed and a man take his place who will enforce the law, and that actions against saloons and dive keepers be commenced within seven days under penalty of action being taken to present evidence to Gov. Kich.

Edward Rose, wife murderer, was found guilty of murder in the second degree at U-bana, O., and immediately sentenced for life. Rose killed his wife, Sunday, July 2.

A dispatch from Kiobe, Japan, says that the Korean government has announced that the Chinese will be allowed to reside only in the treaty ports of Korea.

The Portuguese government has decided to construct a navy, and with this object in view the sum of £120,000 yearly will be provided for 20 years. United States builders may tender.

A BIG SERVANT GIRL.

Experience of a Clubman Who Was Fond of Practical Joking. A certain clubman, who attempted to play a practical joke, was non-plussed in a very unexpected way. He says: "I am very particular about fastening the doors and windows of my house. I do not intend to leave them open at night as an invitation to burglars to enter. You see, I was robbed once in that way last year, and I never mean to be again; so when I go to bed I like to be sure that every door and window is securely fastened."

"Last winter my wife engaged a big, strong country girl, and the newcomer was very careless about the doors at night. On two or three occasions I came down stairs to find a window up or the back door unlocked. I cautioned her, but it did no good. I therefore determined to frighten her. I got some false whiskers, and one night about 11 o'clock I crept down the back stairs to the kitchen, where she was. She had turned down the gas, and was in her chair by the fire fast asleep, as I could tell by her breathing, but the moment I struck a match she woke. "I expected a great yelling and screaming, but nothing of the sort took place. She bounced out of her seat with a 'you villain!' on her lips, seized a chair by the back, and before I had made a move she hit me over the head, forcing me to my knees. I tried to get up, tried to explain who I was, but in vain. Before I could get out of the room she struck me again, and it was only after I had tumbled up the back stairs that she gave the alarm. Then she came up to my room, rapped at the door and coolly announced: "Mr. —, please get up. I've killed a burglar."

Nocturnal creatures assume night activity for some other reason than that they cannot see by day or that they see better by night. The bat sees admirably in the brightest sunlight, as any one knows who has ever tested one by poking a stick at it. It will open its mouth and make an angry grab at the stick, when it is not angry by several inches. Professor Bolles says it is the same with the owl. They see perfectly in bright sunlight, and better at night than most creatures.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Randolph K. Fellows and Emily H. his wife and Peyton V. Fellows and Rosetta H., his wife, to Warren Kimble, W. H. Webb and Mrs. D. B. Morgan, as trustees of the First Universalist Church of Manchester, Michigan, and to their successors in office, dated December 24th, 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan on the 7th day of January, 1886, in Libe 66 of mortgages, on page 158, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due the date of this notice the sum of Seven Hundred Dollars and an attorney's fee of twenty-five dollars, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statutes in such cases made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the twelfth day of February, A. D. 1895, at one o'clock in the afternoon, we shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the Court House, in the City of Ann Arbor, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the said County of Washtenaw is holden) the premises described in said mortgage to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with seven per cent. interest, and all legal costs, the premises being described in said mortgage as the undivided two-fifths and the undivided two-thirds of land situated in the township of Sharon, in the County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit:—The north east quarter of the south east quarter of section number thirty-two of said township. Dated, Nov. 5th, 1894. WARREN KIMBLE, SARAH E. JAYNES, EMILY E. FARREL, Trustees of said Church, Mortgagees. A. J. WATERS, Attorney for Mortgagees. (50)

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Robert Geraghty and Mary E. Geraghty to Benjamin W. Waite, dated the 19th day of April A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty one, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan on the 23rd day of April A. D. 1881, in Liber sixty one of mortgages on page three and which said mortgage was duly assigned by deed of assignment by the said Benjamin W. Waite by executor to Benjamin W. Waite on the 24th day of June, 1892, which said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in said County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan in Liber 11 of Assignments of Mortgages on page 398 and which said mortgage was further assigned by deed of assignment by said Benjamin W. Waite to Andrew J. Sawyer on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1893, which last said assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in said County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, in Liber 12 of Assignments of Mortgages on page 27. By which said default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative and no suit or proceeding in law having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof and the sum of $2,461.35 at the date of this notice being claimed to be due on said mortgage, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described or some part thereof, at public vendue on the 31st day of December, 1894, at noon of said day, at the north front door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor in said County. The premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to-wit: The east fifty rods in width off of and from the east half of the south east quarter of Section number seventeen. Also the east half of the north east quarter (except the east thirty rods in width thereof) of Section number twenty, all in township number one south of range number five east containing one hundred and twenty acres more or less. Dated, October 4th, 1894. A. J. SAWYER, Assignee of Mortgagee. BENJAMIN W. WAITE, Atty. in Person. (44)

THE ENGLISH IDIOM.

Amusing Linguistic Experiences of a French Visitor.

A recent French visitor in this country was M. X., a man too talented and too well known to permit of the use of his name in this connection, for this is to set forth some of the difficulties he experienced in pursuit of the English idiom. Indefatigable in zeal, when literal translation failed him he resorted to logic, and when this led him into error, as it inevitably did, he depended solely upon his memory and would often pause in search for a fitting phrase, says the Chicago Times.

He witnessed a play that was a success and the players were called before the curtain for applause. One actress in particular was applauded. "She comes in for the lion's share," said to a friend M. X.

M. X. understood and later attempted to use the same descriptive, but his memory failing, resorted to translation. "And zis actresse—she come on for ze part of ze lion."

"Was it a trained animal show?" asked the listener. On another occasion he was speaking of a call he had made on a friend, who, he said, lived in a "flats house."

"Flat house, you mean," he was corrected. "Mais non," he persisted, having thought the matter out. "Flat house—zat ees flat on ze top. But flats house—zat has ze flats ees eet. And zat ees where he lives."

Politics interested him. "Zey tell me," he said, "zat to obtain an appointment in zis office one must haf un drag. Non—zat ees not zee word; non drag—ah! I haf eet! Un pull! Zat ees necessaire."

It was when he ventured into American slang, however, that he found himself at sea without oars, sail or rudder. Some gamin had been rude to him on the street, and in describing the matter, he said: "And I gave him a good cooking."

"What? A cooking?" "I do not tink zat ees what I gave him," he admitted, puzzled.

"A basting, perhaps," was suggested. "You thrashed him." "Oh non. I did not put hands on heem."

"Perhaps you scolded him—gave him a roasting?" His face brightened. "Ah, zat I did, parfaitment. I gave heem a good rroasting."

When he went back to France he was pained to leave his American friends, who had become dear to him. He declared that he would never miss an opportunity to see them.

"Eef ever I may see you again, I will do so, even eef I must come from a very long deestance off. Or, as you Americans say so charrmingly—even eef I must come from away back. Zat shall be my pleasure—to come from away back."

Do you cook? If so, Prof. Bress has som thing to say to you on page eleven of his week's issue.

THE LYING CURE.

A Man Who Has Spent a For-une For Remedies.

Did you ever hear of a man paying thousands of dollars to have himself cured of the habit of lying and exaggeration? You will probably reply that you know a great many men who ought to be cured, but it is scarcely probable that you could cite a case where the liar or exaggerator realized his own weakness, and was making sincere efforts at a great pecuniary sacrifice to be rid of his peculiarity.

Drs. Dolger and McMurray, of Chicago arrived in New York recently for the purpose of consulting several eminent physicians on the strange mental condition of the patient whose cure they undertook about three months ago. Thus far they have made very little progress.

"The gentleman in whom we are deeply interested," said Dr. McMurray, "is a wealthy business man of St. Louis. He is a man of temperate habits, does not use tobacco in any form and is not addicted to opium or any other drug. That he is mentally sound is evidenced by the fact that he has by his own exertions built up a big business, and is now worth perhaps $500,000. He is 45 years of age and acknowledges that he has had a passion for lying ever since he can remember. Without any apparent motive he has frequently grieved and shocked his family by telling of the death of some dear friend or relative when no such death took place. Time and time again he has magnified a street fight between two brawlers into a riot of serious proportions. Threatened collisions between vehicles he has related as having taken place with fatal results, and in any and every way where a lie or an exaggeration can be substituted for the truth he will do it.

"Singularly enough this habit does not enter into his business relations. His word is as good as his bond, and he never deceives an associate or a customer in the most trifling detail. In the ordinary affairs of life outside of business he finds it impossible to speak the exact truth, and no one knows his weakness better than himself. He says he is impelled by some terrible power to distort the facts whenever he attempts to tell of any incident or experience, and he cannot resist. The man has no delusions or hallucinations, such as you would find in an insane man. On the contrary, he is severely practical, and regards his own case as an unfortunate and unexplainable affliction. We consider it an extremely interesting one from an anthropological standpoint, and we shall take great pleasure in—"

"Well, by Jove," interrupted Dr. Dolger, who had been looking at some papers in his wallet. "Here is—"

COST OF A KISS.

He Had to Start over Again for Merely Asking One.

The police court reports in the London papers sometimes quote the price of a kiss, which usually ranges from half a crown to half a sovereign, according to the temperament of the magistrate. How ridiculously cheap this is will be seen from the following account of the cost of merely asking for a kiss, which has been sent to me from India:

Probably you will hardly credit the story, but it is quite true, and though the names are withheld by the Allahabad paper which gives the facts, the parties are well known. An officer of the Madras medical service was holding one of the most desirable civil surgeoncies in the province, and there he received a visit from a civilian and his wife. While driving with the lady in a dogcart the doctor asked her for a kiss. It was very wrong, especially as there was a native servant sitting behind the couple, and he met with the stern repulse his impudence and imprudence invited. This exemplary woman afterward wrote to the doctor that she had told her husband of his conduct.

The doctor then wrote an abject apology, which the husband submitted to the Madras government. Without being allowed to say a word on his own behalf, the doctor was forthwith advised to resign the service to avoid dismissal. Since then the Madras government has been induced to modify its decision. The offender is graciously permitted to serve the further nine months necessary to qualify him for the lowest scale of pension, but he has been transferred from his civil surgeoncy back to military service and packed off to a remote station in Upper Burma.

A RELIC OF SLAVERY.

The Bond Required Before Negroes Could Travel on Railroads.

It may not be generally known to those who came on the stage of existence subsequent to the war that slaves were transported on the railroads subject to such conditions as appear in the following document, which was preserved by Robert Morris of Kentucky. As a relic of antebellum days it will be interesting alike to old and young:

"Whereas, The president and directors of the Louisville and Nashville railroad on the 1st day of August, 1860, passed the following resolution: 'The transportation of persons of color over the road and the liability incurred being under consideration; resolved that no person of color be taken in the cars for passage over any part of the road or its branches without the execution of an obligation, signed by a responsible party or parties, to indemnify and save the company harmless, and the superintendent print forms, to be kept at the different depots, and give full instructions to the agents and conductors and have this resolution fully carried into effect.' Now this instrument witnesseth that the undersigned obligate themselves to pay the Louisville and Nashville railroad company all costs and damages which said company shall incur for taking at our instance the following slave (colored person) over their road, to-wit: A negro girl named Milly, about fourteen years old, the property of Craig Middleton, of Henry county, Kentucky. As witness our hands this 24th day of December, 1860.

"OSSIAN DRANE, Principal. "John Neely, Surety."

THROUGH THE FLOOR.

Drop of a Fat Negress Made Darkies Think of Judgment Day.

A New York colored Baptist church was the scene of a rather amusing contretemps at a recent service. As is always the case the house was crowded. The services had progressed to that point where several of the brethren and sisters were disposed to give expression to their feelings in fervent amens.

All at once a 300-pound sister bobbed up about the center of the building with a shout and began to pray. In a jiffy the floor went down and for fifteen seconds pandemonium reigned. Darkies piled out of windows and doors like they had been shot out of a gun. One old brother declared, "For the Lawd, thought judgment done come!"

The 300-pound sister stopped her shouting and crawled out of the debris of the broken down floor, looking somewhat sheepish and surprised.

The Bishop's Instances.

Bishop Wilmer of Louisiana once had a talk with a Baptist minister, who insisted that there were several places in the bible where immersion was unquestionably referred to. "Yes," replied the bishop; "I recall two such instances, where there can be no doubt as to the mode: one is where Pharaoh and his host were immersed in the sea and the other where the Gadarene pigs were drowned in the deep."

"Where Are the Rich?" Not long ago, a London preacher indulged in a little bit of sarcasm over a small collection. He did it very neatly in a preface to his sermon on the following Sunday. "Brethren," he said, "our collection last Sunday was a very small one. When I look at this congregation, I say to myself, 'Where are the poor?' But as I looked at the collection when we counted it, I exclaimed, 'Where are the rich?'"

PERILS OF THE SAHARA.

Chief Among them Is the Terrible Samum or Sandstorm.

Writing of the mis-conceptions that exist about the almost unknown land of the desert, a traveler says: And now to the sandstorms! Is the samum, as it is called, really a poison that brings destruction to man and beast? Just as we discriminate between a wind and a storm, just so the Sahara has sandwinds and sandstorms. Nachtigal, the great explorer, relates that during a visit at Mursuk the air was so filled with sand and dust that everything on the oasis, the green in the gardens, the palms, etc., was changed to a dirty grayish color, and such a veil of dust covered the heavens that the sun appeared as a mere white speck, whose rays were so broken that the entire surroundings were in a constant twilight. This was the result of a sandwind. The samum, or sandstorm, makes its appearance in a quite different manner. About an hour, or even more, before it reaches you, heavy yellow clouds of sand appear on the horizon. The atmosphere is heavy and charged with electricity. A tired feeling befalls man and beast, and the camels become unruly. They are forced to lie down with their heads with the wind. Men and women cover themselves with their clothes, doing their best to have their faces well concealed.

The samum generally lasts from ten to thirty minutes, and is frequently accompanied by a very heavy rain fall. A samum with such a heavy down-pour was encountered by Rohlf on Easter Monday, April 12, 1879. The wind changed to a terrible hurricane. Rohlf had his tent, which was the largest of the caravan, taken down and crawled under the canvas, awaiting the "bride of the desert," as the Bedouin calls the samum. The storm became fiercer and fiercer, thick clouds, of which you could not tell whether they were sand or masses of steam, circled with terrific velocity over the heads of the travelers; a cannonade of thunder vibrated the earth. Once in a while you heard the cracking of a palm as the storm broke it in two. Then the storm lifted the tentlike a balloon, and to make the confusion perfect the rain came down in such a volume that a few seconds sufficed to drench to the skin. Then as if by magic, it became wonderfully still and the glorious sun appeared again in the purest and bluest of ethers and, its powerful tropical rays soon dried everything.

Without a doubt the samum is one of the worst plagues of the desert; it weakens man and beast, and the sand and dust that is driven before it forces its way through the smallest crevices and thickest covers and permeates mouth, nose and eyes, but not in such quantities that it cannot be got rid of with the greatest ease. The very finest sand even forces its way into watches, but none of it will suffocate man or animal, though one sometimes fears that it may. A samum ever so severe might cover a whole caravan with a heavy pall of dust and sand, but it would never throw up such mountains of dust as to bury a whole caravan. This is only one of the many fables of the desert. These sandstorms may, it is true, become dangerous to travelers, but in a quite different manner. The stock of water of a caravan is generally carried in goatskins. They are not particularly good reservoirs, however, for they soon allow an enormous quantity of their contents to evaporate, a result of the extraordinary heat that a sandstorm brings with it. This evaporation, now and then, takes such proportions that a whole caravan might die of thirst, especially when the hot sandstorm has dried up all the springs and pools on the way.

EVENTS OF GENERAL INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE.

Turkish Troops Burn and Pillage 34 Villages in Armenia and Commit Awful Cruelties and Kill Men, Women and Children—English Consul Arrested.

More Massacres in Armenia.

Berlin: The Cologne Gazette published a letter from Armenia telling of fresh horrors there, including 23 villages laid in ashes, 11 other villages pillaged and 40 priests massacred.

Four Turkish garrisons, altogether about 60,000 men, were sent against the Armenians. The attack began on August 18. The Turks were repulsed at first. The massacres began September 5. Those Armenians who submitted unconditionally were bound to stakes and then their limbs were cut off with saws. In other cases the victims were disemboweled and their eyes gouged out. Children were thrown into burning oil and women were tortured and burned to death. The troops plundered and burned the churches. Among those who fell victims to the savagery of the soldiers were 40 priests, who were brutally massacred.

The British consul at Erzeroum was prevented from going to the scenes of the atrocities on the ground that it was not safe for any Armenian, he being an Armenian, to approach the places where the troubles had occurred. This did not deter him from making an attempt to learn the truth, but as he was trying to approach one of the devastated villages he was arrested.

New York's Rotten Police System.

New York: The extent of the corruption in the police force of America's largest city was shown when Capt. M. C. Schmittberger, in command of the "Tenderloin" district, told his story on the witness stand to the Lexow investigation committee. His tale in substance was that the entire police system, with the exception of Supt. Byrne and a few others, was putrescent, that blackmail, intimidation, extortion, bribery and corruption existed everywhere. His charges implicated Inspectors Williams and McAvoy, ex-Inspector Steers, Police Commissioners James B. Martin and John C. Sheehan, Captains Price, Gannin and Mearns, ex-Capt. John Gunster and Wardmen Dunlay, Robert Vail and James Gannon. He testified that a man looking for promotion had to depend upon his "political pull" rather than his record. Appointments were made for cash only, one captain paying $15,000 for his commission. The captain's salaries and perquisites were about $1,000 per month.

New K. of P. Organized.

About 25 delegates, representing as many lodges of Knights of Pythias, met at Buffalo and formed the "Improved Order of Knights of Pythias." This convention is the outgrowth of trouble that ensued after the grand lodge at Washington, in August, decreed that the work of subordinate lodges must all be done in English. Those lodges which had used a German ritual for many years seceded. The convention elected officers: Past supreme commander, Charles H. Klee, New York; supreme commander, Geo. Seidensticker, Indiana; supreme vice-commander, Conrad Kromer, New York; supreme prelate, William Brakhagen, District of Columbia; supreme recording and corresponding scribe, Oscar Schloemann, Michigan; supreme treasurer, F. W. Rossberg, New York; supreme sergeant-at-arms, Oscar Breden, Michigan.

Coal Miners Controversy in Ohio.

The finding of the board of arbitration appointed to close the Massillon, O., mining controversy, is a complete victory for the operators. The board presents an unanimous report abolishing the heretofore existing differential of 15 cents and placing Massillon district on the same basis as the Hocking Valley—60 cents. The verdict has created the great excitement and is a great disappointment to the miners, who confidently expected at least 65 cents, as they had before offered that price as a compromise before the submission of the question to the board of arbitration. It is believed that the miners will not return to work, notwithstanding the decision of the board of arbitration.

Murderous, Thieving Will in Ohio.

David Moffatt and Will Giles, of Clyde, O., are victims of a gang of tramps, who had possession of a box car on a Lake Shore train. Moffatt, who had been spending the evening with a young lady at Fremont, started to return to his home on the freight, as the last passenger train had gone. He was stripped of his suit of clothes and shoes, a diamond ring and pin and a sum of money taken, and he was thrown from the moving train. When near Norwalk the tramps attempted to rob Giles, who was a brakeman on the train. He resisted and was shot down. He is in a precarious condition.

G. A. R. National Encampment.

The executive council of the G. A. R. at its meeting at Louisville, Ky., decided that the twenty-ninth encampment of the G. A. R. would be held there during the week beginning Sept. 8. The dedication of the Chattanooga battlefield occurs Sept. 19 and many of those who go to the encampment will wish to attend the dedication also and can combine the trips.

While temporarily insane from an attack of the grip Jacob Resdach, of Cincinnati, walked to the center of the suspension bridge, leaped into the Ohio river and was drowned.

Louis Shink, a Dayton, O., German, aged 50, with family, being out of work and money, crawled into the attic at home and shot himself dead, but was not found until after a long search. He held a revolver in his hand.

The epidemic of malignant diphtheria which raged at Ashtabula, O., so fatally, has been brought under control. Several apparently hopeless cases were treated with the anti-toxine remedy and the result was very gratifying. Out of half a dozen cases treated with the new remedy all but one are recovering.

Fire started in the law office of Geo. D. Barden, at Lake Odessa, and before it could be controlled it burned the bank, postoffice and four other business places. The loss is $8,000, partially covered by insurance.

The La Grange mill dam above Dowagiac went out releasing 600 acres of water. The flood did little damage to the town, but the loss of the dam owner, P. D. Beckwith, is large.

Lumbermen are greatly discouraged on account of lack of snow. The Manistee Lumber company has 5,000,000 feet on skids and were obliged to let most of their men go. Other companies will be obliged to follow suit unless snow comes soon.

Judge Padgham, of Allegan, does not take kindly to the arrest of the sheriff and deputies of that county for alleged interference with a United States officer. He calls it contempt of court and has ordered the prosecuting attorney to investigate the affair fully.

The T. A. A. & N. M. railway company, having purchased a branch of the D., L. & N. between Alma and Ithaca, a party of surveyors is at work mapping out a new line through Alma. When the connections are made it will be used as the main line of the Ann Arbor, and will shorten the road about four miles.

Sadie Mitchell purchased a can of kerosene at Lansing, but was given a can of gasoline by the grocer. When she attempted to light a lamp filled with the stuff an explosion took place, in which the girl had her hands badly burned. Her sister Ada threw a blanket about her and extinguished the flames.

John Schuster, a farmer living 10 miles from Detroit, was overcome by smoke and burned to death while trying to rescue his cows from a burning barn. His body was a black, charred mass when taken from the ruins. Schuster was a fairly well-to-do German farmer, about 58 years old. He had lived on the same farm 25 years.

A report comes from Bay City to the effect that the new owners of the D., R. C. & A. railroad, which runs from Alger to Alpena, will expend the road along the shore of Lake Huron into West Bay City, and will also push it north to Cheboygan. It will thus become a strong rival of the Michigan Central for northern tourist business.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clisbe celebrated their golden anniversary of their wedding at Quincy. Mr. Clisbe is the oldest pioneer in the country and has been married three times. He has lived half a century with his third wife. The family consists of eight children, 20 grandchildren and several great grandchildren. The family has never suffered a death.

While Austin Potts, of Galesburg, was saving raddles for a thrashing machine a spark from the engine ignited the straw work of a temporary structure used as a stable and almost instantly the entire building was in flames. Fear he would lose his team, Mr. Potts rushed into the flames and was horribly burned about the head and hands. The horses were burned to death.

The furniture manufacturers of the state held a session at Grand Rapids, with about 20 in attendance to discuss ways of means to secure desired legislation to stop the manufacture of furniture in the prisons. A committee was appointed to outline a plan of campaign: George H. Hummer, Holland; D. M. Estey, Owosso; George A. Davis, Grand Rapids; George E. Wasely, Detroit; E. W. Wait, Sturgis.

The question of permanent headquarters for the Michigan department G. A. R. is now being discussed, and will in all probability come before the next encampment for action. The two points favored are Lansing and the Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids. Asst.-Adjt.-Gen. Bennett would make not only the headquarters permanent, but the office of assistant adjutant-general a permanent one during good behavior.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Pattengill says there are in Michigan 677,676 children of school age, with 455,598 enrolled; number of pupils in select schools 41,717. There are 7,960 school houses in the state, worth nearly $16,000,000.

Weak Mothers Scott's Emulsion. This is the most nourishing food known to science. It enriches the mother's milk and gives her strength. It also makes babies fat and gives more nourishment to growing children than all the rest of the food they eat.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS Edited by ALBERT SHAW. IT WAS in April, 1891, that the first number of the American Review of Reviews was printed. The new idea of giving the best that was in the other magazines in addition to its own brilliant, original articles, took America by storm, as it had taken England—though the magazine itself was not at all a reprint of the English edition. It was most largely with American affairs, and is edited with perfect independence, in its own office.

If all wives and mothers could fully realize how apt each one is at all times to be bereft of the protector and support of themselves and their children, they would be more fully able to appreciate the real benefits of a life insurance policy. As an investment it is as safe and profitable as a savings bank while in case of accident or fatal illness the return is much larger. Persuade your husband to lay by something in a life insurance policy and be protected in case of misfortune which sickness or accident may bring. A policy in the old reliable New York Life Insurance Company is unequalled for protection and investment.

THE 'POMPAÑO.

He Is a Frisky Jumper as Well as Delicious Food Fish.

One of the most delicious food fishes of the semi-tropics is the pompano, says the New York Sun. In size and shape he is not unlike the flounder, he swims edgewise instead of flat on his belly. In color his scales are gray, white, grayish blue and golden yellow, and when he leaps from the water, as he frequently does, the glinting of the golden scales in the sunlight forms a beautiful sight. A traveler just returned from Lake Worth, on the lower coast of Florida, writes: "As we approached the mouth of the canal the fish appeared to be more numerous, and they made long jumps into the air all about us. They were chiefly mullet and pompano, and once I counted five in the air at the same time."

"Before we reached the dredgeboat, six miles from the foot of the lake, we had four pompano, all of which had jumped from the water and landed accidentally in the bottom of our boat. One of them struck our boatman, Ben Able, in the breast, and the blow was of sufficient force to nearly wind him for a minute. Since ice factories have been established along the Indian river and on Lake Worth pompano are shipped to the Northern markets in large quantities. They run throughout the year, but make the best eating during the winter months."

John Boyd Thacher is laconic and decisive in his statements. During the lively campaign just closed in New York, this marked him especially as chairman of the Democratic State Committee. It was equally true of him as chairman of the Executive Committee on Awards at the World's Fair. This is the positive and sententious way in which he verifies in an official letter, the honors won by Dr. Price's Baking Powder: "I herewith enclose you an official copy of your award, which in due time will be inscribed in the diploma and forwarded." Thus the question respecting the award, raised by the envious New York rival, is settled beyond cavil. This same rival by the way is widely advertising an award for itself. The official records prove this claim wholly false as they show the New York Wholly false was not so much as an exhibitor at the World's Fair.

A SOLDIER COMPOSER. Haunted by a Bothersome Melody During an Army's March.

Benvenuto Coronaro, the composer of "Festa Marina," in one of the Italian musical papers. He was serving once in the army, and was ordered to take part in a long march, says the New York Tribune. On the way, a melody came to him. He could not get rid of it. He heard it above the "toots" of the trumpets and the beat of the drums. The soldiers themselves seemed to be marching to the rhythm; it would not leave him.

Suddenly, the fear possessed him that he might forget the melody; it was necessary to write it down. Taking courage he drew his notebook from his pocket and began to write. Of course he lost his place in the ranks, and the sergeant hurried toward him.

"Are you crazy?" he asked. "Take your place in the company at once!" "But I cannot," cried Coronaro. "I must write this down," and he began to whistle the tune in the face of the under officer.

"That was too much," said the composer. "He drew his sword, and was about to strike me with the back when the captain appeared. The sergeant made a report, while I continued to write."

"What are you writing?" thundered the captain. I handed him the notebook, which he read quickly.

"The man is to continue writing," he went on. "But if that piece (and he pointed to the sheet of paper in my hand) is not played by the regimental band to-morrow morning, he will be put in prison for eight days." He then put spurs to his horse and disappeared.

THE WALRUS ON LAND. He Is as Helpless as a Canal-Boat Would Be.

As might be expected, a walrus is about as helpless on land as a canal-boat. It is with no little difficulty and much hitching and foundering that he drags his huge bulk upon a sandy shore even with the boosting that he gets from behind by the breakers as they roll in and dash against him. His hind flippers are of little use on land, and on sand or pebbles, where his front flippers do not hold well, the labor of floundering forward is so great that he never stirs beyond the edge of the water, and usually lies with his body half awash, with the salt spray dashing over him like torrents of rain. On solid rock or ice he gets along much better, and once a herd will spread several rods back from the water's edge.

The females and younger walrus have far less development of neck to encumber them, according to St. Nicholas, and therefore enjoy more freedom of motion than the old males, who actually seem a great burden unto themselves. These creatures are strictly social in their habits and always go in herds, whether traveling, feeding, fighting, or resting ashore. In the days before the slaughter of all living creatures became a ruling passion in the breast of man the Pacific species inhabited the whole of Behring sea and straits in herds which often contained thousands and even tens of thousands of individuals.

SPEED VS. SAFETY.

A Sea-Captain Tells How He Must Make Quick Time.

A passenger on one of the European liners made a jocosse remark to the captain one night as they were chatting familiarly on deck.

"You sea-captains," he said, "are the only absolute sovereigns now left in the world. When the ship leaves port your will is law. Every one on board recognizes your supreme authority. From your decisions there are no appeals. Every life is in your keeping. You are sea-kings indeed."

"No, you are bondmen of the company managers," was the bluff old captain's reply. "We are under obligations to make fast runs, yet never to take any risks. It is no longer possible for the captain of a first-class liner to exercise discretion."

"Why, on my last run across the Atlantic," he continued, rapidly warming up, "I had bad weather nearly all the way. When the wind was not blowing a gale there was dense fog, and I didn't dare to run at full speed. The ship was thirty-six hours behind time in reaching New York."

The captain and the passenger were intimate friends and talked without restraint.

"I went to the main office," the captain continued, "and was received coldly by the manager. He told me that I had made a very poor run. I tried to explain how bad the weather had been, but he listened impatiently. He reminded me that other ships leaving England on the same day had arrived much earlier, although they must have had similar weather. He said that the day of cautious, old-fashioned captains had gone by. The reputation of a ship for speed must be maintained, and captains must be brisk and wide-awake, or their usefulness would be at an end."

"You may have noticed," the captain added after a pause, "that we have been running at full speed all day in a propping fog. Your king has been in the fog for the year which he received, and he hasn't known a comfortable moment until the fog lifted an hour ago."

"So you see that the kings of the sea are the managers' bondmen. If they are cautious and avoid risks, they are considered sleepy and slow. If they are venturesome and the ship goes wrong, then they are condemned as foolhardy. That's the tyranny of the sea, even if we are kings on deck."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one-hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

SURE SIGNS.

The Young Man Turns the Tables on a Clairvoyant.

"That is a sure sign of death," said an elderly lady, who affected extreme girlishness, addressing a young man and his wife, a petite brunet, by the way, as they were standing near the south entrance of the soldiers' home. The remark was occasioned by hearing a passing horse utter a mournful neigh. The young man replied that he thought the only sure sign of death was the presence of craps on the doorknob. "I never knew it to fail," said the elderly party, "and I have been a clairvoyant for nearly ten years."

She then informed the young man and his wife, whom she evidently mistook for brother and sister, that her place of business was on Princeton street. "Now, you have a happy future before you," she said to him; "you will marry a tall, light-haired girl with lots of money." The young man turned to his wife and winked the other eye, says the Washington Post.

"Your sister, here," she continued, "will have lots of trouble before she marries, but she must be brave and all will be well. Now, come down to my house and I will tell you many things of most vital importance concerning both your futures."

"You certainly are wonderful," said the young man; "but I, too, am a fortune teller."

"You?"

"Yes, I can tell anyone's fortune by merely looking at the palms of their hands. Give me your hand and I'll show you."

He took her hand and scrutinized it closely, remarking on certain lines and the interpretation of them.

"Lots of trouble here—and you are married—yes, a dark man. You expect lots of money some day." Then he stopped, and, looking her squarely in the face, said: "I find a line here that I hesitate to tell you about; you might be offended if I told you what it meant."

"No; tell me what it means," said she, her curiosity fully aroused.

"Well," said he, "if you are sure you will not be angry I'll tell you. The one near the index finger, says that you are much given to the habit of lying, because this young lady is my wife, and we have been married."

But no more was heard by the fortune teller, as she quickly withdrew her hand and walked angrily away.

MONKEY AND DOG.

Gave Up Part of His Supper for the Sake of Using the Other as a Steed.

Jeremiah's (the monkey's) greatest and most remarkable feat was stealing a dog, says the Spectator. The animal was not a valuable one, for it was only a common black pariah, or village dog; but though Jeremiah did not display much taste for canine beauty he was a good judge of canine character, for Kalu was the sweetest-tempered of Kalu and play-fellows to him. When Jeremiah's master was moving from one station to another, the monkey, then quite a young thing, was sent to march with the syces and the horses and a new English dogcart.

It was thought that in the latter Jeremiah might ride, as his tender years seemed to unfit him for a long march. However, he had not gone far before two buttons were twisted off the cushions, a hole bitten in the cloth and the monkey's little hand busily engaged in drawing out handfuls of the stuffing. Jeremiah was therefore condemned to walk, and a very weary little monkey, dusty and thirsty, arrived at the end of the long day's march. And apparently—for one can only guess at the process of an animal's mind—Jeremiah thought it over, and decided it was not good enough.

He was well and amply supplied with food, and it was noticed that he chose a black dog out of the crowds that hung about the camp and offered it part of his evening meal. The next day the dog followed the march, and the monkey, beguiling him within reach of his chain, jumped on his back, a proceeding the dog in no way resented. Every day the same thing was repeated, and Jeremiah rode the whole of the remaining eighty miles, the syces being highly delighted at his sharpness. At night Jeremiah fed Kalu with a part of his own supper and slept curled up near his friend. The two had a game of play in the mornings, and as soon as the march began Jeremiah, apparently to the mounted satisfaction of the dog, puffed his steed as a matter of course.

A Man is Best Known by His Reputation.

So are Dr. Kermott's Mandrake Pills. The best evidence of the value of them is the fact that they have been used over thirty years. If you have a tired and languid feeling, or sick-headache, or bowel difficulty, or indigestion, try them. They will cure you. Price, 25c.

In Our Dreams.

The professor of psychology was conversing with Mr. Higgins, the grocer, as that worthy man was wrapping up five pounds of coffee for the professor.

"Did you ever notice, Mr. Higgins," remarked the professor, "that what occurs to you in dreams never seems to be at all strange or out of the ordinary?"

"Come to think of it, professor," replied Mr. Higgins, "I have, but I never give it much study. Now that you mention it, I recollect several dreams that I have had that seemed to be all right enough until I woke up and got to thinking about them."

"Ah," beamed the professor, "that is interesting. Tell me about them." "Well," and Mr. Higgins shoved the wrapped-up coffee across the counter to the professor, "they didn't amount to no great deal, I guess. I only dreamed that my wife couldn't talk."

About Knives.

A cheap Pocket-knife can be bought at every Store, but it is not the kind you want.

One dollar is the lowest price that a really good knife can be sold for. This amount is placed in this paper to advertise the very best Pocket-knife ever sold. It is J. C. TIDMARSH'S Sheffield Steel Knife.

Never buy a knife only because it looks well. If blades are not the best Sheffield steel they will soon bend, no matter how they will look. Still, you want a fine-looking knife.

The United States law provides that only samples to agents and to the trade will be admitted free of duty. You can, therefore, see the advantage that I have in sending samples to agents over those who deal in Sheffield goods in America.

I am an advertising agent; I am entrusted with a certain amount to spend advertising these knives (the best value ever seen in America at One Dollar each). Now, the knife is its own best advertisement.

Imagine a Pocket-knife (3 1/2 inches long) with the most beautifully-grained ivory handle—genuine African Ivory—and with two blades of the very best Sheffield steel that will last a lifetime and cut like a razor. The tips of the handles are heavily plated with sterling silver. And then a very nice chamois leather case goes with each knife. Now, would it not be easy work selling this knife at One Dollar each? I know it would, for it looks as if it were worth two dollars.

And so it is if you compare it with the value offered in the ordinary Store.

Is not this knife its own best advertisement?

You can make $4 per day selling these knives. This is a genuine and straightforward statement. This is counting that you show it to only twelve buyers every day. And every one that sees it will say it is good value for $1. The knives are sold to you at $8 per dozen; you sell them at $1 each.

I determined to use large sum of advertising money entrusted to me in sending out free samples to those who promise to act as agents for the sale of these knives.

I will send you a free sample, but you must sign the promise at the foot of this column, and make a deposit to show that in asking for the knife you are acting in good faith.

The deposit that I ask of you is 44 cents, about half the wholesale cost of the knife, and less than one-third what you would have to pay for a knife like it, if you bought one.

Send the money by a Postal Order or one-cent stamps for 44c., and put a five-cent stamp on the letter, which must not weigh more than one-half ounce.

The deposit of 44 cents will be placed to your credit, and will be deducted from your first order at the dozen rate.

I am an advertising agent, contractor and publisher with one of the largest Advertising businesses in the world, and I absolutely guarantee to send, postage paid and duty free, the knife described above free to anyone who signs the promise below, and sends it with the deposit as stated.

Let me advise you not to part with your sample, even if you should lose a sale at $1 by refusing, as it will take time to replace it. I could not send you another even if you sent the full $1. After the sample they can only be supplied to you by the dozen as there is duty on them to be paid.

Any English Banker can give you information about my high standing, or write to the publisher of this paper, who knows that I do a large and straightforward advertising business, and that I do exactly as I say.

I have taken this first one answering paper for three years! The first one answering this advertisement after this number of the paper has come out will, if he likes, have his name printed in this space as agent for these knives.

The Editor of the Springfield (Ohio) New Era writes, in his paper of June 29, 1894:—"I have received a sample knife from Mr. Sears, and am very much pleased with it. He is the owner of a very large advertising business in London, and is, I believe, perfectly responsible and straightforward."

Sign your name and address to the following, cut it out and send it with Postal Order or stamps for 44 cents, and you will receive by return of post the beautiful knife as described above.

F. W. SEARS, ADVERTISING AGENT AND CONTRACTOR, WHOLESALE KNIFE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT, 138 FLEET STREET, LONDON.

DEAR SIR,—I faithfully promise on my and honor to show the Sample Knife you have promised to send me to one or more of my friends, thereby constituting myself an agent. This will make me "in the trade" as far as Pocket-cutlery is concerned. By this promise I am entitled to a sample of your beautiful Dollar Pocket-knife with chamois leather case, to be sent me post-paid and duty free. I also enclose 44 cents Postal Order or stamps, which please hold for me until I send you an order at the dozen rate.

An Unknown Advertiser.
One of the funniest advertisements I have ever seen is that which surmounts a building in New York. It is an immense hand in the form of an inverted index. The forefinger is jointed, and by means of steam or electricity it keeps beckoning in the most natural manner, mutely inviting all who ride or walk across Brooklyn bridge to call and see him. What's the advertiser's name? Blamed if I know.—Boot and Shoe Recorder.

A Herald of the Infant Year.
Clip the last thirty years or more from the century, and the segment will represent the term of the unbounded popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The opening of the year, 1895, will be signalized by the appearance of a fresh Almanac of the Bitters, in which the uses, derivation and action of this world-famous medicine will be lucidly set forth. Everybody should read it. The calendar and astronomical calculations to be found in this brochure are always astonishingly accurate, and the statistics, illustrations, humor and other reading matter rich in interest and full of profit. The Hostetter Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., publish it themselves. They employ more than sixty hands in the mechanical work, and more than eleven months in the year are consumed in its preparation. It can be obtained, without cost, of all druggists and country dealers, and is printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish.

The True and the False.
"Then you are another's," he hissed. She sat silent, as one benumbed. "Confess!" he thundered. "You are another's." She shivered. "Partially," she faltered. "This hair—" She pressed her hand to her brow. "And the upper teeth I wear are borrowed. The rest is yours. I swear it."—Detroit Tribune

For Sale.
A $21.00 Humphrey's Homoeopathic Medicine Case for family use, will be sold at a bargain at John Moore's Drug Store. It is something every family ought to have. Here is a bargain for the first purchaser who applies. It will be sold at a big discount. 40ft

Mush and Milk Surprise Parties.
Mush and milk surprise parties are popular in some eastern localities. Those who make the party swoop down upon the subject of the surprise with a box of corn meal and a jug of molasses. The mush is set to boil, the molasses is turned into taffy and abundantly pulled, cakes are baked, apples pared, and the mush is eaten along with fresh milk and rich cream. The mush and milk surprise furnishes a maximum of fun for a minimum of expenditure.

A Large Waist.
Is not generally considered a necessary adjunct to the grace, beauty or symmetry of the womanly form. Within the body, however, is a great waste made necessary, according to the condition of things—continually in process and requiring the perfect action of all bodily functions to absorb or dispel the refuse. When there is irregularity or inaction, ladies who value a clean, pure, healthy body will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the only remedy for woman which being once used is always in favor.

To those about to become mothers, it is a priceless boon, for it lessens the pains and perils of childbirth, shortens labor, promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child and shortens the period of confinement.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness, constipation, sick headache, indigestion or dyspepsia, and kindred diseases.

Literature of the Day.
Rosewater and romance are generally supposed to be already pretty closely related, but an ingenious mind has contrived to unite them in yet another bond which is as novel as it is audacious. Italian literateurs were recently invited by a German perfumer, who does a large business in Italy, to supply him with a number of short stories, the most important condition being that the writers should introduce, "in the most delicate manner possible," the essential merits of the German perfumes. Over a thousand manuscripts have been sent in, and some of them are reported to be from the pens of well-known literary men, such as Signor Mantegazza.

Wines for Debilitated Females.
Physicians have used Speer's wine, and having applied to it the strictest test known to chemistry, they do not hesitate to pronounce it a pure wine of medium strength, and recommend it to be of great advantage to the aged and infirm, also low and typhoid fevers. Speer's wine will be found very superior.

Curlett's Heave Remedy is a sure cure for Heaves in the earlier stages, and warranted to relieve in advanced stages. Guaranteed to cure Coughs and Colds.

Chas. Dwyer, ex-Sheriff of Washtenaw Co., Mich., says, "I cured two different horses two different years of Heaves in early stages by use of Curlett's Heave Remedy."

J. M. Allen, proprietor of the Dexter Leader says, "I have used Curlett's Thrush Remedy with perfect satisfaction, having permanently cured a very bad case of that disease with his Thrush Remedy."

Curlett's Thrush Remedy is a sure cure for Thrush and all rotting away diseases of the feet of stock. One application cures ringworm on man or cracked hoofs. Applied once a day grows them out.

Curlett's Pinworm Remedy, for a man or beast, is a compound that effectually removes these troublesome parasites, which are such a great annoyance to stock. If bowels are bound up, one or two doses will put them in proper condition.

Their Occupation Gone.
A class of men afflicted by the hard times in London and Paris is the army of professional promoters. The hotels where Americans most do congregate are thronged with these men, who in other days have been prosperous and cut a dash socially, politically or in a business way, but who now have a difficulty in making both ends meet. These men, some bravely keeping up appearances, but others reduced to the shabby-genteel stage, eagerly scan the passenger lists of arriving steamers from America and descend upon the acquaintance and associates of former days, anxious to offer their services in return for anything from a loan of £10 to a good square meal.

Notice to Applicants for Certificates.
Teachers' examination for Washtenaw county will be held as follows at Ann Arbor:
Special March, 8 and 9.
Regular last Thursday and Friday of March.
Special April, 26 and 27.

One Way to Be Happy.
Is at all times to attend to the comforts of your family. Should any one of them catch a slight Cold or Cough, prepare yourself and call at once on John Moore druggist sole agent, and get a bottle of Otto's Cure, the great German Remedy. Free. We give it away to prove that we have a sure Cure for Coughs, Colic, Asthma, Consumption, and all diseases of the throat and lungs. Large sizes 50c.

The second was despondent. "The other fellows have agreed to our terms," he faltered. The pugilist was obviously disconcerted, but his buoyant, courageous nature at once asserted itself. "There is yet a chance," he exclaimed, joyfully "the governor of the state, you know." Thus despair was eventually compelled to take flight.

From Sire to Son.
As a family Medicine Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves passes from sire to son as a legacy. If you have Kidney, Liver or Blood disorder do not delay, but get a free sample package of this remedy at once. If you have Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Rheumatism, etc., this grand specific will cure you. John Moore, the leading druggist, is sole agent, and is distributing samples free to the afflicted. Large packages 50c.

A Great Battle.
Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

A Consideration.
"I know," said the suitor to the fair one's father, "that my resources are limited. But if I marry your daughter your expenses will be diminished."

Communion Wine.
Mr. Alfred Speer, the celebrated wine grower of New Jersey preserves the unfermented Juice of the grape for Sacramental use. It has been adopted, and its use sanctioned by the prominent divines of this country. It is also used by Invalids with remarkably good effect. For sale by druggists.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicate flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Relief in Six Hours.
Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by John Moore, Druggist Ann Arbor.

Electric Sunstrokes.
It is now claimed that there is such a thing as electric sunstroke. The workers around electrical furnaces in which metal aluminum is produced suffer from them. The intense light causes painful conjunctions, which cannot be wholly prevented by wearing deep-colored glasses.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

JOHN WANNAMAKER, State St. Music Store.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one-hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

rosebush 1,000 Years Old.
The oldest known specimen of rosebush in the world is at Hildersheim, Hanover. It was planted more than 1,000 years ago by Charlemagne in commemoration of a visit made to him by the ambassador of the Caliph Haroun-al-Rashid. In the year 818 a coffin-shaped vault was built around its sacred roots, and a few years later a cathedral was built near by, so close, indeed, that the vines were trained along its stony walls. In the year 1146 the cathedral was destroyed by fire, but the vine survived and still flourishes. At present it is twenty-six feet high and covers 300 square feet of the cathedral wall. The main stem, however, after over 1,000 years' growth, is only two inches in diameter, but it is said to be "as hard as ivory."

Mr. Wm. Williams, Vicksburg, Mich., says: "I verily believe" Adironda, Wheeler's Heart and Nerve Cure, to be the most reliable remedy for heart irregularities that has ever been given to the public. Sold by druggists.

When Disraeli first set eyes on Mr. Bigger in the house of commons, he said to his fidus Achates: "What is that?" "That sir is the honorable member for So-and-So." "Really!" replied the other; "I thought it was a leprechaun," which is a small but malignant species of Irish fairy.—Argonaut.

The second was despondent. "The other fellows have agreed to our terms," he faltered. The pugilist was obviously disconcerted, but his buoyant, courageous nature at once asserted itself. "There is yet a chance," he exclaimed, joyfully "the governor of the state, you know." Thus despair was eventually compelled to take flight.

From Sire to Son.
As a family Medicine Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves passes from sire to son as a legacy. If you have Kidney, Liver or Blood disorder do not delay, but get a free sample package of this remedy at once. If you have Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Rheumatism, etc., this grand specific will cure you. John Moore, the leading druggist, is sole agent, and is distributing samples free to the afflicted. Large packages 50c.

A Great Battle.
Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

A Consideration.
"I know," said the suitor to the fair one's father, "that my resources are limited. But if I marry your daughter your expenses will be diminished."

PATHOS OF THE SEA.

A Death Grip in the Water Between Two Friends.

In all the long list of Gloucester fishermen who were lost during the past year there was no death that affected the fisherfolk so much as that of James McLean. McLean was known all over the town as a 'genial, good-hearted fellow, ready to do a turn for a brother fisherman. He had a pleasant little home in one of those weather-beaten houses that line the rock-ribbed streets that limp crookedly down to the water front. McLean had six children ranging for all the world like steps of stairs. He signed with Captain Greenlow, of the schooner Fortuna. He had for dory mate Abram Brow, a bright young fellow who had been married shortly before to a Gloucester girl. The schooner had been spread with bunting in honor of the day.

In a few days the schooner was ordered away and McLean hastened to join, while Brow left his bride of a fortnight for the first time. A cold northeaster was blowing, with snow squalls, but the schooner made fair weather of it. At 7:30 that very evening, however, she struck on the outer bar, a quarter of a mile east of the Race point light.

Not a man of the crew of twenty-three but that saw that a break up was only a question of time. One by one the four dories were put overboard. The first two got away, and then Brow, McLean and Anderson put theirs into the water. All had taken their positions and were ready to push off when a mountain sea, frothy and boiling, rushed down and drove the boat against the stick of the anchor. The side of the dory crushed like a lady's fan. McLean noticed what was coming and had only time to give one convulsive cry of warning before he found himself in the water, fighting toward a piece of wreckage. The one idea of all was to get back to the schooner. Anderson managed to get to the obstay, and from there he was hauled aboard. Brow and McLean were further out, where the water was yeasty white with the fury of the storm.

Poor Brow, unable to swim, had grabbed hold of McLean, and, deaf to all words of wisdom, he grabbed him by the shoulders. The shipmates powerless to help, could only watch the terrible struggle. They tried to persuade Brow to let go his hold. They threw ropes to him and even succeeded in laying one across him, but he seemed powerless to help himself. With tears in their eyes they continued begging and praying.

All the time McLean had been clinging to the bit of boat with a grip of iron. He was drawing in a terrible lottery where a blank meant death. The strain was too much, the red hands grew white in that biting winter air, then they turned blue, and the clinched fingers released their hold one by one till by the sheer weight alone the board slipped from his hand and he went down, with Brow clinging to him, and there were two widows in Gloucester town. The rest of the crew was saved.

THEY LOVED NOISE.

Eminent Literary Workers Who Did Not Care for Seclusion.

All that concerns the men and women who give distinction to their day is of interest to those who admire, criticize and perhaps envy their achievements. A special and legitimate curiosity is felt in reference to the conditions under which success is won. Glimpses are occasionally given into the methods of eminent toilers and a wonderful variety is revealed, says Chambers' Journal. It is at least plain that no guide book to great performances—the anxious author can have his choice of several—will determine the point where exactly the best results are to be obtained. One man's help is another's hindrance. Many famous writers, for instance, have only been able to perfect their thoughts in silence and seclusion. But there have also been those who could work in the midst of babel and defy distraction. Jane Austen, whose unpretentious canvases are full of some of the most lifelike portraits in fiction, was never in the habit of seeking solitude to compose. She wrote sitting in the family circle and under perpetual risk of interruption. It was the same with a successful novelist, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe who rote her best-known story on a plain pine table by the aid of an evening lamp in a tiny wooden house in Maine. About her were gathered children of various ages, conning their lessons or at play, and never guessing what a treasure mine of excitement was coming into existence for other young people in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." A large part of the "Roman History" of Dr. Arnold was composed under similar circumstances. Dean Stanley has sketched the Rugby study, where Arnold sat at his work, "with no attempt at seclusion, conversation going on around him—his children playing in the room—his frequent guests, whether friends or former pupils, coming in or out at will." Thomas Lovell Beddoes, a poet of luxuriant fancy and true genius, though much neglected, also found a stimulus to the creative faculty of his muse in working in playful and even noisy company. Such cases recall the story of the learned man of Padua, who assured Montaigne that he actually needed to be hemmed in by uproar before he could proceed to study.

Czar and Czarowitz.

The word czar is not derived from the Caesars of Rome. It signified king among the ancient Scythians and was in use among them long before Rome was known to these barbarians of the North. The title czarowitz among the Tartars signifies prince or son of the czar.

MET DEATH IN THE ALPS.

How Two Darling Climbers, Tied Together, Were Dashed to Death.

The latest victims of ambition to climb the Matterhorn were Andreas Seiler, a tourist, and Johann Biener, a guide. They belonged to a party of five and, being a little more venturesome, had gone ahead. One of the surviving three tells of the accident as follows.

The others were only five minutes ahead, and we had reached a difficult spot and were standing in steps cut at the top of a small patch of ice, at an angle of fifty degrees and close to rock, when Mooser called out, "Beware of stones." We pressed close to the rock and listened, when the two (Seiler and Biener) shot past us. We were all three close together, and Mooser could have touched them with his ax. They were tied together. Seiler passed close to us, his back downward, his head well bent up, as if he were preparing for a sudden shock. Biener flew far out against the blue sky and the rope was stretched tightly between them. They fell on to the Glacier du Lion, and when the bodies were recovered they were still tied together. With both the crown of the head was cut away as though it had been done by a sharp instrument. Seiler's watch was crushed and his left boot was missing, although the foot was uninjured. How the accident happened will never be known, as no one saw them slip. I am inclined to think that Seiler was climbing at the same time as Biener, instead of waiting until he had a firm hold, and that the former slipped, jerking Biener off his feet. I am strengthened in this belief by the position of the two as I saw them fly past.

STRAUSS AND HIS DOG.

When Johann Strauss visited Boston at the time of the Gilmore jubilee the "Blue Danube" waltzes were as well known in this country as "Yankee Doodle," and so when the composer was found to be a handsome and dapper little man, with lovely blue eyes and a mass of wavy black hair that was almost as extravagantly long as Paderewski's, the Boston musical women went wild over him. Strauss was a great dog-fancier at that time, and was accompanied by a magnificent black retriever. Toward the last of the concert days, some enthusiastic young woman sprung the idea of getting a lock of Strauss' hair for her locket. The fashion grew into a fad, and Johann promised every applicant a memento. And in due time the locks were distributed—many hundreds of them—each one accompanied by the compliments of the waltz king. Enough hair had been cut off and distributed to make Strauss look as though he had been sand-papered. Yet when he left Boston for New York his locks were as bushy and profuse as ever. It was remarked, however, that when Johann's beautiful black-haired dog was put into the baggage-car, the poor creature looked like a shorn poodle.

NOW GIRLS, DON'T WORRY.

Your Best Defense is Your Voice and Your Hairpins.

The Woman's Cycle association of New York held a meeting to discuss the question whether women cyclists ought to carry policemen's whistles, knives or revolvers. If they will take John Smith's advice they will carry neither. A woman's scream is far more protection to her than a policeman's whistle would be, for it attracts more attention, can be heard farther and she is not so apt to forget to use it in emergencies. There is not one woman in a thousand who could deal an effective blow with a knife against an enemy who was watching and prepared to resist, so that weapon would be useless. As to revolvers, ordinarily the person, woman or man, who carries one, runs ten times more danger of shooting herself or some friend with it than she would incur from highwaymen or similar villains, if she went without one. There are some people who are justified by peculiar circumstances in carrying revolvers, but the everyday bicyclist is not.

Odd Names of French Streets.

The French have peculiar notions on the naming of streets, and some curious examples have come to my notice during the last month. When at Chateaudun viewing the president of the republic and his men at the recent maneuvers I noticed the following names of streets: The Drunken Butcher, the Sow That Cuts Along, All Devils, Love's alley and the Street Ah! Ah! Some of these names also exist at Mans, and I am told that at Boulogne-sur-Mer there is a street with the name Listen if It Rains. In this latter town there is also Tin Pot street, Arm of Gold street, and even the Fleas' Market.

Sad Ingratitude.

"I dare say, Mrs. Ticklowell, observed the intimate friend, "that the pretty little niece from North Carolina whom you have generously adopted will be a great comfort to you, now that your own children have married and gone out from the protecting shadow of the parental roof-tree." "I—I fear not, Mr. How-james," answered the Boston mother, with deep sadness. "To some extent I have persuaded her not to use the word 'without' for 'unless,' but if I cannot cure her of the habit of saying 'it looks like it is going to rain,' I shall quite despair of her future!"
