HEAT AND COLD.

Ten Miles Below Us Is Fire, Ten Miles Above Us Is Frigid Air.

Beneath the peninsula of Lower Michigan there are brines and sheets of mineral water lying in basin form, and very rich in salt, bromides, etc., and of great medical and commercial value. They have been reached by numerous wells which run down to about 3,000 feet near the center of the basin, as at Alma and Bay City. The water comes up from the bottom of these wells hot (over 90 degrees), showing a decidedly more rapid increase in temperature than in the copper mines. But the famous Comstock lode, where fabulous wealth lured the miners on, showed perhaps the most rapid increase in temperature that man has ever dared to face. It was, however, doubtless due to the action of hot waters rising from still greater depths-probably the same waters that deposited the silver ores, still at work. In the mines of this region the miners, naked as sav-ages, reeking with perspiration, drinkng pailful after pailful of ice water (twenty tons of ice, or, in another case, ninety-five pounds per man, were used each day), could labor but ten minutes at the drift (in imminent danger of being scalded by striking a stream of hot water) before being overcome by heat and reeling to a cooler place. Fainting, delirium, even death have been the ef-fect of the reaction on coming to the surface. Verily the Cuban proverb that a Yankee would be found to go af-ter a sack of coffee though it were at the gates of hell, was not far from the literal truth

However the rate of increase of temperature may vary, all indications thus agree that less than ten miles below us a red heat is attained and within twenty a white heat. Think of it! Ten miles below us it is red hot. Ten miles above we have the pitiless cold, far below zero, of interplanetary space. To what a narrow zone of delicately balanced temperature is life confined?

INJURED BY RATTLESNAKES.

Town in Florida.

For a week a reign of terror has existed here, owing to the invasion of the town by an army of rattlesnakes, says Tavarez (Fla.) dispatch to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. The reptiles are of all ages and sizes and have practically taken possession of the town. No woman or child dares venture out of doors, and when the men go out their legs are incased in stout leather leggings which reach to the thighs and are armed with clubs with which to dispatch the serpents. The advance guard of this army of rattlers appeared just a week ago, and since then the snakes have come in such numbers that it is estimated that there are now 1,000 within the corporate limits of the town. Last Sunday as Mayor Yorke and his family were going to church they met the advance guard. It consisted of two old rattlers about five feet long, each with twelve rattles and a button, and a dozen smaller reptiles. The mayor and his family beat a retreat, and the city's magistrate called for neighbors to assist him in dispatching the reptiles. This brood was killed, but before it was done shouts from different quarters of the town announced the approach of more snakes. Since then the men have been busy killing the reptiles. It is said that 400 snakes have been killed and still the town is full of them. Their warning rattle is heard at all hours and on all sides. The dogs made a gallant fight against the reptilian army, but nearly all have been bitten and are dead. Sev eral horses have also died of snake bites. there have been several narrow escapes. Mrs. Sallie Jacobs had the most remarkable escape. While washing linen in the yard she put her 2-year-old baby in a dry-goods box near by. Soon Mrs Jacobs heard the baby laughing and look-ing around was horrified to see an immense rattler coiled behind the box. The mother rushed for the baby and the snake struck at her, fastening its fangs in her clothing. Her screams brought her husband, who killed the rattler. The snakes came from a hammock at the foot of St. Clair Abrams avenue. The council has voted an appropriation, and the hammock will be cleared and the home of the snakes destroyed.

CLASSIFICATION OF PLANTS.

Linnaus First Saw the Necessity of Bringing All Descriptions Together. Linnaeus saw the necessity of bringing together all the descriptions of plants already existing, and of wording them in such a way that, without losing anything essential in the description and the second essential in the description. tion, they should occupy the smallest possible space. Such a condensed de-scription is now known as a diagnosis. When he had accumulated a considerable number of diagnoses he saw that it was difficult to find one's way through them, and he set about arranging them after some of the most striking characteristics which did not necessarily indicate relationship, but were simply as a means of classification and recognition. He took for this first the number of stamens, bringing all plants with one stamen in the flower together, all with two, three, four, five, ten, etc., into their several classes, in this way creating the groups of the Monandra, The fourteenth annual convention of the Young People Society of Christian Endeavor which was held at Boston and was attended by 50,000 young people was preceded by meetings of the board of trustees to settle several important questions, the first being the offer of H H. Kohlsaat, of the Chicago Times-Herald, of $5,000 a year for three years toward the expenses Decandra, Polyandra, etc. Having done He saw that further subdivision could take place, and that there were a great many plants which, though evidently all be distinct. So he resolved to give every plant two names, the first one being the genus name, here Ranunculus, the second one expressing some property of that particular kind of Ranunculus, and thus indicating the species. Thus he found, for example, that one buttercup had an acrid taste, and he called it the acrid buttercup-in Latin, Ranunculus acris; that another one always grew on marshy places; he called it the marsh buttercup-in Latin, Ranunculus palustris, etc.

The hay crop is almost a fail-tre and the potato crop will also fail disorder the mental activities. In addition to this, the confinement in the bad air of court rooms brings new sources of poisoning, particularly deficient oxidation, which of itself is sufficient to derange the normal brain functions. The crowded rooms at hotels are either overheated and badly ventilated or cold and noisy. The time for retiring and rising varies, and the usual habits of the juryman are changed in every respect. His accustomed food, and exercise, and his manner of think-ing and the subject of his thoughts, all are broken up. He is asked to follow an intricate chain of reasoning, and discriminate the errors, and told that this is true and that is true, and that the law should lead him to some other point. He is flattered, and his pride is roused to do the best he can. He grows more incapacitated dally as the evidence accumulates and his system becomes deranged. Then, in despair, he will suddenly form some conclusion, guided by a fancy for some attorney or some remark by the judge.

For a Healthy Existence.-That's Why the Kidneys so often Fail.

Nature has provided a certain amount of work for every organ of the human body; overtax them and disease eventually follows. There is not one portion of our organism that is so overworked as the kidneys; on them is placed the important function of filtering the blood of the impurities which naturally form in the regular action of life and digestion. kidneys are consequently termed the sew-crage of the system; clog up this sewer, and the blood becomes tainted with poisonous uric acid, which brings on disease in many forms. The back is the first to show this stoppage. From there comes the warning note; it should be heeded, and the kidneys receive prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills will right the action of the kidneys quickly, relieve the back of pains and aches, and cure all troubles of kidneys and bladder. Read the following:

Mr. Wm. Nelson is a well-known business man of Kalamazoo, he resides at 822

Portage Street, and his business is that of a grain buyer. He says:
"For five years I have suffered from an inability to urinate, which resulted from what was said to be a stoppage of the bladder. During these years I have taken min-eral and electric baths and used other means in expectancy of getting better, but they all proved unavailing. Some months ago I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I had heard highly recommended, and I can now say that the flattering reports were not greater than they deserved. I got better right along, and I am free from any wouble now. I feel better than I have done for three years past. If Doan's Kidney Pills were well known all over they would do an immense amount of good."

THE service of the water company this summer is worthy of commendatime. This has been, so far, the dryest season since the water works were put in vet thus far, we have not heard a single complaint as to quantity or qual-My of the supply.

THE conviction of Dr. Seaman in Detroit for the murder of Emily Hall was a victory for justice of which the people of the state may well feel proud. It is to be hoped that the Supreme Court will not interfere with The verdict of the jury.

EVEN the colleges have caught the ground swell. Yale this year will gradmate 204 Republicans, 40 Democrats and six Probibitionists. Formerly most college graduates were Free Traders and therefore naturally inclined toward The Democratic party, though they were quite likely to drift into the Republican camp after a little practical experience. But Free-Trade dosen't "go" now, even with college boys .-Times, Troy, N. Y.

COLONEL William B. Thompson recently gave his opinion of the Gorman-Tariff in clear, terse terms. "I think," raid he, "it was a barefaced sacrife o The general interests for the personal; of business at large for political rewards and preferments. And I am Irom West Virginia, and, like Mr. Wilson of that state, was in the Confederate Army." Col. Thompson, who speaks thus, is president of the National Lead Company, which has thirty-Ewe large productive concerns throughout the country, with plants worth, in the aggregate, $24,000,000, and stocks of raw material and finished stuff worth $4,500,000. His company disburses mil-Mions of dollars annually for labor, and by the production of lead and linseed coil adds greatly to the public wealth. The opinions of such a man should have due weight with Free-traders who are sincerely in quest of light on the Tariff question.

RETURNING BUSINESS PROS PERITY.

By a unanmous vote of the council, Monday night, the printing of the proceedings of the common council for the next year was given to THE REGISTER and Democrat. He said that he had looked through two Ann Arbor papers for a time table but had failed to find one of the Asnely plug road, and had as a result missed his train. Hereafter he would go around by Detroit. He said that if the road did not want his patronage he was not obliged to patronize it. The law courses given in the University Summer School are having their full share of students. This is the first year that any law classes have been organized and the number in attendance has justified the offering of law courses during the summer. The three instructors have students enrolled as follews: Prof. Hughes, 16; Prof. Smith, 9; and Prof. Dwyer, 6. Prof. Hughes courses are especially popular. He is giving work in Practical Business Law and also in Domestic Relations. The attendance this, the first year, shows that there is a demand for law courses. It is certain therefore that this branch will be made a permant feature of the Summer School.

Commissioner of Schools. MACK & SCHMID'S BUSINESS CHANGE.

The impression conveyed to a certain extent in Saturday's papers that the firm of Mack & Schmid had dissolved partnership is an erroneous one. The old firm continues at the old stand and although Mr. Schmid has sold his interest in the store to Walter C. Mack there will be no change there as Mr-Schmid has not idenified himself with Walter C. Mack, consequently the policy Ann Arbor, July 15th, '95. of the business will remain as heretofore. The firm name of the store will now be

MACK & COMPANY.

As regards Mr. Koch's deal that is not fully cosummated. When completed the proper announcement will be made. According to the provisions of their contract Mr. Koch is given until August 20th to reduce his stock to a given point. To expedite matters there will be a final sale of furniture. carpets, draperies, etc., and prices will be made to reduce this stock so that the new company may begin as soon as possible with a new stock of goods.

Mr. Koch is obliged to go to some health resort as advised by his doctor for a month or more during which time the cleaning out sale will take place. The building will be remodeled at once so that the cleaning out of many goods is absolutely necessary.

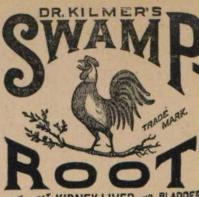

The report that the above change means a department store is wrong. The dry goods store will be devoted to goods usually kept in a dry goods store and the furniture store to goods pertaining to furniture, carpets, draperies and other household furnishings.

O. E. WAGNER, Principal. GENIUS, WORK AND DISEASE

Their Relations to One Another Clearly Defined.

Genius, say some, is but a capacity for hard work. This is not the whole truth, says the New Science Review There must be work in accordance with law. The miner who aigs for gold on the seashore will never find it, though he dig so laboriously, but if he study gold and the geologic strata in which it lives he has begun to put himself into harmony with law. Mere work, unless properly directed, is like riding a hobby-horse-there is energy and motion, but no progress.

For years Napoleon was living in miniature the battles he was to fight, analyzing strategic moves and positions, and training his mind to thus grasp a new situation on the instant. Von Moltke studied the military topography of all Europe, and with marvel-ous foresight thought out how to win. His victory was no triumph of mere fortune or special inspiration. It was but the logical outcome of his trained mind, and a trained mind ever lights the torch of its own inspiration. Leonardo da Vinci always carried in his girdle his sketch-book in his walks in Florence constantly looking for picturesque faces. "In the silence of the night," he would counsel himself, "recall the ideas of the things you have studied. Design in your spirit the contours and outlines of the figures you have seen during the day." There is a theory held by scientists that genius comes from disease. Disease, insanity, depravity and other failings often do occur as consequences due to overconcentration or misuse of powers, but they do not create genius any more than the vultures of the plains create the carcass upon which they feed. The genius, too, being of finer mental material, is more likely to show a flaw, as Dresden china reveals a mar not noticeable in a red clay flower pot. In support of this disease theory the most insignificant, commonplace ailments of ordinary humanity, when found in genius, are magnified and exaggerated. The weaknesses thus pointed out are, it is worth noting, usually shown in the part of mind or of body where the genius was not exercised.

Held the Wrong Hand.

A charming young woman who lives on the West Side and her young man found the Summit street cars packed to the doors last Friday evening when they started for the Auditorium, says the Kansas City Star. Nothing daunted, Miss West Side sought a place upon the step of the piatform. She had barely room for one foot, and as the car lurched and heeled she clung to Charlie's big, strong hand. Occasionally under the cover of the darkness, she squeezed it tenderly, because-well, because she and Charlie are engaged. And so she held on to the hand for many blocks.

"Charlie," said she, "aren't you about worn out holding me on the car with your one poor, tired hand?"

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves.

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

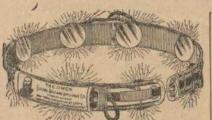

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

About eight employes were sleeping on the fourth and or top floor and about 100 horses were stabled in the basement. The building was an old one and a firetrap of the worst kind. The fire department worked most heroically to save the men and horses and adjoining save the men and horses and adjoining property. Two men were taken out on ladders and one employe who succeeded in reaching a window fell from the fourth story to the sidewalk and was probably fatally injured. He was identified as John Cummings, of Jackson. At 4:30 a. m. the firemen had controlled the fire and on the fourth floor found the bodies of six men. floor found the bodies of six men who had been suffocated. Of the 100 horses about 25 were rescued by the firemen and the others were found in their stalls in a terrible state of fright, but not badly injured. The floor above them was supported by heavy iron girders and this alone saved them from the falling timbers. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

Mackinac Park Commission Organized. The first meeting of the commission appointed to assume charge of the Mackinac Island state park, was called to order by Gov. Rich, and the following officers were chosen: T. W. Ferry, president; Peter White, vice-president; Editor Wm. Clark, of Lansing, secretary; A. I. Stephens, treasurer. George T. Arnold was designated as acting superintendent. It was decided to advance rentals to $100 for front and $50 for back lots. Regulations were adopted prohibiting the sale of liquor. Authority to lease the officers' quarters and barracks was conferred and Jas. F. Keightley was given a 30-year franchise to operate elephones and an electric light plant.

A Glgantle Swindle, with Bogus Bonds. Z. T. Lewis, of Urbana, O., is a fugitive for justice. He was a bond broker and operated on a large scale. He handled immense quantities of county and municipal bonds and was considered perfectly reliable. Recently suspicons became aroused among Dayton bankers and an investigation showed that they held $50,000 of bogus bonds received from Lewis as security showed that they held $50,000 of bogus bonds received from Lewis as security on loans. When this become known stories of bogus bonds came pouring in from all directions, but Lewis had made his escape and is supposed to be in South America. At least $100,000 worth of worthless paper is reported and it is hard to tell how much the $3,000,000 worth of collaterals he has put out the past year is forged. put out the past year is forged.

13 Killed in a Wreck in Quebec.

A terrible accident occurred at 3 a. m. at Craig's Road station, on the Grand Trunk railway, near Levis, Que. Grand Trunk railway, near Levis, Que. A very large pilgrimage was on the way to the shrine of St. Anna de Beaupre. There were two sections of the train, one running a few minutes behind the other. The first section was standing at the Craig's Road station taking water when the second station taking water when the second section, passing the semaphore, dashed into the rear Pullman coach of the first section, smashing it to kindling wood. The Pullman coach was telescoped into the first-class cars of the first section. The officials of the Grand Trunk railway report that the number killed is 13, and that 29 were injured.

France and Brazil May go to War. Washington: The strained relations between France and Brazil over the French Guiana boundary appear to be-come more complicated daily. The subject is analogous to the British-Venezuelan trouble, in which the U. S. has taken a hand, and in the opinion has taken a hand, and in the opinion of officials here, the French contest with Brazil is rapidly assuming an aggravated aspect which may again call for the attention of the U. S., as the Monroe doctrine applies to one no less than to the other. An armed conflict has occurred in the disputed territory between French soldiers and Brazilians.

A Desperate Robber Killed.

In western desperado style, a man supposed to be C. E. Cole, assaulted and attempted to rob P. G. McGloin in his saloon in the heart of the business district of Chicago. After seriously wounding McGloin the thief escaped and made the most remarkable race for liberty ever seen in e streets of Chicago. After firing ato the mob that pursued him, and seriously wounding three citizens, he was run down and killed by Officer Rosenthal directly opposite the entrance of the Auditorium. Auditorium

A Co'ony for Old Soldiers.

P. H. Fitzgerald, of Indianapolis, has gone to Georgia, to close the purchase of the land for the old soldiers' colony. He said he had $125,000 in bank with which to begin business. The colony has taken options on 125,000 acres of land in Irwin and Wilcox counties. Georgia Mr. Fitzersald counties, Georgia. Mr. Fitzgerald says that he thinks he will secure 30,000 acres now and that money from the subscribers to the colony scheme will come on until the entire $350,000 necessary to take up all the land is available.

Motorman Killed; Others Injured. An electric car running between East Liverpool and Wellsville, O., got beyond the control of the motorman and plunged over a bridge into a run, falling thirty feet. The motorman was killed and several passengers were fatally injured.

REVIEW OF TRADE,

Dun's says: A business flood so strong and rapid that the conservative fear it may do harm is out of season in July. But the seasons this year lap over and crowd each other. May frosts and frights, it is now evident, kept back much business that would naturally have been linished before mids mmer and the delayed accumulation of one season gets in the way of shorts to begin another on time. But the volume of business, however it may be measured, is remarkably large for the month, even in a yood year. The exaggerated fears about crops have passed, the syndicate is believed both able and determined to protect the treasury and the time draws near when the marketing of new crops will turn into a national balance if speculation does not hinder. The latest news indicates an enormous crop of corn, much the largest grown, if the weather favors. The rapid rise in prices of iron has brought into operation many additional works and there is a rush to buy before prices advance further. Influential manufacturers are sending out warnings that the rise may easily do mischief. As the sales of wool are about four times the weekly consumption it is obvious that the market is sessentially speculative, but the rise has set the country ablase so that western holders are asking even higher prices than heretofore. But buying by most manufacturers is already affected and at the prices now asked for wool

The Employers' Aid fund of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, at Calumet was organized in 1877. It seems, says the Star, that the artist has a friend who is an undertaker and who at that time was badly in need of assistance. It seems that the undertaker had accidentally spilled a fluid upon the face of a body he was preparing for burial, and on account of his carelessness the fluid had acted upon the skin and turned it black in many places. The undertaker realized that something must be done, and that very soon. It would be out of the question for the family to learn of the accident. Law Providing for a Minimum Sentence for Good Convicts. One of the recently enacted statutes of the State of Massachusetts is known as the undeterminate sentence law, and was passed for the benefit of penitent criminals, in the belief that such consideration of that class of malefactors would be conducive to the welfare of society. This law applies only to offenses punishable by sentences to the state prison. Its advocates urge that valuable lives may be saved from utter wreck by giving a young man or woman who has fallen under temptation a chance to try again. They urge that the interests of society and those of penitent criminals lie in the same direction; that the state and the individual will both be advantaged by giving the latter an opportunity to repair past errors. It is admitted that great care and circumspection will be required to so enforce this law as to make it a public benefaction, but its friends are pledged to use their best endeavors toward making the new departure a success.

THE FIRST LOCOMOTIVE

Built by Oliver Evans, Who Couldn't Lay Up Money.

The real inventor of the locomotive never realized a cent from his invention, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. His name was Cliver Evans. He was born in Delaware in 1756 and spent all his life perfecting inventions which were destined to bring him nothing but more poverty. He was the original inventor of the high-pressure engine used in locomotives, the only kind that zould be employed to advantage in this form of transportation, but realized nothing for his idea. His application of the notion to both land and water power was somewhat novel. In 1804 the municipality of Philadelphia called What is the action of Pe.ru-na? EDIBLE DOGS.

Bright-Red Canines Which Are a Delicacy in China.

The Chinese "chouchou," or edible dog, resembles greatly the Pomeranian muzzle quite pointed, though less so than the Pomeranian. The ear is short, erect and pointed forward, a little ounded at the tip. The eyes are small and black, the body short and thick The "chouchou" has rough, thick hair and a curled tail. There are two varie ties; one has long hair, which is the higher esteemed-the dish of the rich the other has short, thick hair. There are three different colors, one entirely a bright red; this is the aristocratic variety. The others are of different shades of a dark tawny, with a black muzzle and of a light tawny color with a clear muzzle. This last is the commonest kind. A general characteristic of this cace is that the tongue is bluish black. This color is not natural, however; the pupples have red tongues, which begin three weeks. It is rare that one of them is born with a black tongue. The "chouhous" are rare in Europe. In France M. Waldeck Rousseau, the statesman and lawyer, is about the only person who owns one. M. Rousseau, by the way, Is said to possess the only Slamese cats in Europe. In England the Prince of Wales has three pairs of "chouchous" in his magnificent kennels in Sandringham. One of these dogs, Joss, is now quite old, being about sixteen years of age. After having been a favorite of the Princess of Wales he is now relegated to a corner on account of his infirmities. Plumpie, who is another of the same race, has replaced him in the Princess' affections and accompanies her on all her journeys. The other two dogs of this specles owned by the Prince of Wales are Box and Fox, a pair entirely a brownish red, with black muzzles, and Buzz and Fuzz, who are of the tawny breed, with lighter muzzles. It is generally believed that the comestible dogs of the Chinese is the common variety with purple skin entirely devoid of hair except a little about the head, but these blue dogs of China-incorrectly so called, since they are encountered elsewhere in Asia and Turkey-are only a species which suffer from a hereditary skin disease. The manner of preparing these dogs for the table is the same as in vogue in the case of suckling pigs, and in China there is no formal dinner or grand banquet without a as the piece de resistance, decked out in the same way as pigs are on European tables or American free-lunch counters

A Cat Saves Life. By the remarkable sagacity of their cat, a Rhode Island man, with his wife and son, escaped death by asphxiation from coal gas. The sitting-room door was left open, and in some way the damper in the pipe was closed, so that in an hour the house was full of gas. The man was awakened by the cat pawing his face. He sat up in bed, and found himself suffering from a fearful headache; so he gave the cat an impatient shove and lay down again to The cat again jumped on the bed and was again repulsed. For the third time the cat pawed his face, and then he arose and became conscious of the death-dealing odor. He threw open the windows and doors, ran to the telephone and summoned a doctor, who was six hours bringing to consciousness the wife and son. That cat is now the heroine of the family and is sure of a good home so long as she lives,-Golden Days.

DEAD COMES TO LIFE

Reparkable Case of Suspended Animation Reported From New Jersey.

There is an excited but happy father and mother in Pittsgrove, N. J., and a wondering child and a number of astonished neighbors, says the New York Advertiser. The parents are happy because their baby was given back to them apparently from the dead. Nobody is wondering its mother clasps it to her breast and cries over it half a dozen times a day, and the neighbors are astonished to think that a doctor and experienced nurse should lay the child out for burial when it was alive. The case is a cemarkable one of suspended animation. To all appearances the child died, and then, after being unconscious nearly twelve hours, it came back to life. The child belongs to Louis Erdner. Early Tuesday morning it was taken sick and a physician was summoned. The doctor treated the little one, but after a time pronounced it dead. The body was laid on a cot and covered with a sheet. The mother then sent word to her husband, who was at work a couple of miles from home. On his way to the house in the evening Erdner stopped at the office of Undertaker Evans and engaged him to care for the body. The father selected the coffin and made all the arrangements for the funeral. About two hours later the undertaker with an ice box, arrived at the house, Instead of finding a grief-stricken family the undertaker found an excited but joyful one. Shortly after the return of the father the child, which had previously been cold, showed signs of life and again became warm. doctor was summoned in haste, and he with but little effort restored the child. It was weak and pale all night, but yesterday it seemed to recover all of its health and was crawling about the rooms as though nothing unusual had happened.

Help! Help!! Help!!!

There is urgent need of help in the north-west, the help of men to s .ve the abundant grain crops now in the fields of Minnesota and North Dakota, the only kind of help these States have ever needed. Harvesters, threshing manearly every locality. Never was there a neavier stand of grain. The Great Northern and other railways report a large increase in business in view of rood times which seem again well esablished in the northwest. The crop n sight is the phenomenal abundance of 1891 when the harvest was great but not properly cared for, good weather not awaiting the convenience of the farmers, and the result was that hunireds of acres of as fine grain as ever grew went to waste uncut or in the shock, there not being men enough to handle it before unusually heavy fall rains came on. The farmer of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota intends to profit by the severe lesson of that year and leave nothing undone that can be done to realize the full benefit of this year's work, but he must have assistance. To afford this assistance will give men an admirable chance to visit the North-west and pay their way by working in the fields, and by so doing it becomes a mutual benefit to all concerned. It may or may not rain, but history repeats itself and forewarned is forearmed.

Brains in the Finger Tips.

It may not be so generally known that recent post-mortem examinations of the bodies of the blind reveal the fact that in the nerves at the ends of the fingers well-defined cells of gray matter had formed, identical in sub-

It proves that a man can think not alone in his head, but all over his body, and especially in the great nerve centers like the solar plexus, and the nerve ends on the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet. NO ELOPEMENT.

The Girl's Mother Nipped The Plans.

The plan to elope had already been laid and everything was ready but the crossing to Jefferson and having the eremony performed, says a Louisville The young couple who had planned the elopement was destined to meet with an insurpassable obstacle on the day that the wedding was to take only 18 years of age, while the girl is only 16. Miss Mamie Wagner, a pretty little girl from Harrodsburg, has for some time been visiting the family of Mr. James Van Arsdale 320 Twentyninth street, and a short while ago she became acquainted with August Hermes, a young man living in this city. They formed a great attachment or one another. After a short courtship the young man proposed to the girl, and, although her mother was in Harrodsburg and knew nothing of the affair, she accepted the proposal and Sunday was set for the wedding day. Hermes' family and several friends were making the necessary preparations and everything was smooth sailing for a time. Mr. Van Arsdale, however, began thinking over the matter and decided that it would not be right for him to allow the girl to marry while in his keeping, so he telegraphed to her mother. Mrs. Wagner arrived and in a few words she expressed her views on the question. They were not altogether favorable to the plans of the young couple. The mother thought that the matter was settled, but she was badly mistaken. While the family were at the breakfast table the girl thought she would make one more attempt to marry Hermes, and, slipping out of the house she proceeded to the home of the young man. In a short time the mother noticed that her daughter was missing. She started toward the Hermes residence and on the way met Patrolman Puley, to whom she told her story. The policerian accompanied the woman to the house of the Hermes. The girl still declared that she would marry the boy, and it was decided that the best thing that could be done was to take her to the police station. While there the policeman told her that if she would not go with her mother the law would have to take its course. TALE OF A RESENTFUL CAT

Story That the Reader May Think Requires an Affidavit.

Blossom is a big gray cat. She has been in the family for seven years and her mistress thinks she was fully 10 years old when she came uninvited and took possession. Her charms make her welcome and visitors, as a rule, pet her to her heart's satisfaction. Still, she shows her loyalty to her mistress by many feline felicities, says the Boston Transcript. One day a young man came for a short visit. He was an inveterate tease. As there was no one else for a victim, he took Blosssom in hand in spite of pleadings and protestations. Her ears were greeted with the strange terms, "old rascal," "scapegrace," 'tramp," and kindred names, till the astounded cat did not know what had come to her. Her pretty ways disappeared, she fled from his approach, and hid whenever she could until he was out of the house. One morning she was missing for some hours, and was places. A loud cry from the chambersom had revenged herself on the visitor's nightshirt, which lay in tatters earded. on the floor. Pussy was scolded and every one was cautioned to keep the door shut. In vain! The cat would find her way in and hide till the chambermaid was through for the day, and then the claws went to work, first on the visitor's clothes, if any could be found, and then on the pillow cases. The young man tried to soothe her feelings, but she would have none of him, and he was glad to cut short his visit. Blossom quickly recovered her isual demeanor and has never been known to destrey anything from that

He kept turning around just as I did, and when I had been clear around I had only brushed one side of him and one leg of his pantaloons. A MUMMY ADVENTURE.

Strange Experience of a French Archaeol-

A French archaeologist, traveling among the Andes in search of knowledge and specimens, had a great desire to explore some of the caves in the sides of the precipices. They were doubtless ancient tombs and would probably yield him a treasure. He se lected a favorable spot therefore, rigged a sort of chair or seat between two leather cords, and engaged two Indians to let him down from the brow of the precipice. "A descent of 300 feet made in this way," he tells us, "Is extraordinarily long."

However, he reached the cave in safety, and on forcing a passage into it was rewarded by finding two skulls and a mummy—"thoroughly dry," he says, "and pretty solid." He passed a string through the eyeholes of the sku!!s and attached them to his belt. Then he took the mummy in his arms and signaled to the Indians to draw him up. With his heels he defended himself against the jutting rocks and in a few minutes was almost on a level with the top. The Indians knew nothing about his load. Just then the yellow skull of one of their ancestors appeared before their eyes and the idiots gave a start of surprise. The Frenchman thought they must have let go the

"It was the affair of a second," writes. "What passes in the brain of a man at such an instant is indescribable, I did not drop a yard, but I experienced all the horror of a man in rapidly falling through space. My hands let go the mummy, and while covered with a cold sweat, I was helped over the edge of the cliff by the Indians the mummy bounded from rock to rock and landed in bits at the bottom of the chasm.'

He overwhele ad the Indians with invectives, but to no purpose. Such dead men, they assured him, if disturbed in their sepulchers, had the habit of kissing the Indians, who perished infallibly under their deadly breath. One of the two declared that his own father had died in that way. The other assured the Frenchman that at the moment when the head of the mummy showed above the edge of the rocks it opened its mouth. If it had not luckily fallen into the abyss it would have cursed

W. T. Williams, Jr., and his bride of a week have left their Los Angeles home an a novel trip around the world. They left without luggage or money or food, with nothing but the clothes on their backs and a few things in their pockets, says San Francisco Examirer. Mr. Witliams is a son of District Attorney W. T. Williams. Like his father, he is a big, stalwart man, capable of withstanding all sorts of hardships. Some ten days ago he surprised his friends by announc-ing his intention of getting married, and about a week ago turned up with a lovely bride and spent his honeymoon at the Russ House. The story now goes that he made a wager of $5,000 with his uncle that his wife had courage enough to un-dertake a journey about the world without either of them having any money or luggage. The condition was imposed that not more than two years should be occupied in the trip, and that the travelers must not receive any help from friends, but must earn every cent they get from the time of departure until their return. The conditions were promptly agreed to, and as no particular preparations were necessary it was decided to commence the long journey ANN ARBOR, MICH. at once. RACING AT THE AQUARIUM.

Go-as-You-Please Contest Among Flourders and a Blackfish.

In one of the ponds at the aquarium at Castle Garden there are, with a few other fish, four middling-sized flounders, about a dozen white perch and a small blackfish, says the New York Sun. They get pretty tired of flying around doing nothing and every now and then start up and swim a sort of go-as-you-please race round and round the pool, keeping it up for an hour or more at a time. Usually the biggest flounder starts off and the three others follow. The flounders are often seen in the order of their size, strung out in single file and at pretty uniform distances apart. The big flounder is the quickest swimmer of the lot and occasionally gains a lap on his smaller companions. Very soon the white perch get interested, and they join in, following or swimming with the flounders. Though smaller than the flounders they are the quicker swimmers, and they are not at all overawed by the flounders' superior size; they swim ahead to win, every time, and occasionally they gain a lap. They may seem to be following with the smaller flounders, but all the time they are slowly gaining on them and pass them one after another, and finally, swerving a little, they pass the head flounder. Then they keep on until they come up with the other end of the procession again, and once more for a time seem to be a part of it. After awhile the blackfish appears, coming, perhaps, from the middle of the pool, and swinging his side fins slowly back and forth, as a single sculler might his oars when coming up to the scratch. After reaching the procession he starts swimming around the pool in the other direction But he doesn't keep this up long. The flounders and the white perch don't care a snap which way he swims and they turn out for him mighty little and he soon tires of it, turns and swims with the rest, and then he makes a better showing, for he is a quicker and more powerful swimmer than any of them and he easily goes to the front. But as at first he had perversely started in the wrong direction, now he mars his victory by occasionally cutting across one end of the pool and joining the procession nearer the head than he belongs, the flounders and the white perch all following the whole course. The blackfish tires of it all pretty soon and withdraws altogether but the flounders and the white perch keep right along.

BODIES AS MEDICINE.

The Chinese Have a Firm Bellef in Their Efficacy.

That belief the Chinese have in the remedial qualities of substances forming a part of the human body seems o be irradicable, says the New York Times. Thinking that Europeans still held the same ideas led as much as anything else to the Tien-Tsin massacres of twenty-five years ago. Prehistoric man drank from a human skull, believing that the uncanny goblet had a certain potency. Not so long ago the skull of a suicide was used in Caithness as a drinking-cup for the cure of epilepsy. Cases have been cited where supersti ious people, within the last thirty years have dug up bodies so as to possess themselves of skulls for the same purpose. As late as 1678 in the official pharmacopoela of London College of Physicians mention is made of the skull of a man who had died a "violent death." For centuries in the past, for the manufacture of certain quack nostrums, aotably an ointment, ground skulls were used. The medical books of Nuremberg of 200 years ago always cite mumia-or the embalmed flesh of mummies-as a sovereign cure for certain diseases. The Egyptian mummy was a specific for one other. Excluding all the other strange substances employed in early medicine, there is a trace of cannibalism in the use of these mummled substances. It has been shown that cannibalism does not arise in all cases from hunger, but that to eat human flesh is a religious rite and favored by the gods. In some remote manner it has something to do with sacrifice. Describing superstitions, the fact is cited that to-day Irish peasants belief that the water thus becomes cura

DRESSMAKERS' BILLS.

A French Story with a Moral for Extravagant Wives.

Following the dispute of Mrs. Cooper Hewitt and her milliner comes the story of a frantic discussion in Paris as to whether a man is responsible for the bills his wife may run up at her dressmaker's, says the New York World. It has always been supposed that in such a ease as this the unfortunate husband would have to open his pocketbook wide and pay the amount even though his neart-strings tugged. But the Paris courts have said no to this, and there is a wild stir in consequence throughout the entire world of bodice, skirt and coat designers. The story is a simple one. A certain Parisian manufacturer had a spouse who, while exemplary in every other respect, had for two years been running up a dressmaker's bill and paying nothing on account. The bill finally assumed the amazing proportions of $2,200. The husband meanwhile was in complete ignorance of her extravagance, and his first intimation of it was upon presentation of the bill. Assuming the mastery of his household, and bidding defiance to the world at large, he contested the claim, with the result that the Court of Appeal cut down the bill to 1,200, and decided that was all he should pay. The arguments of the French judiciary were that the husband was not bound if his wife's expenditure was out of proportion to his means and out of proportion to the circle in which they both lived. The crucial point in the case was that during these two years the dressmaker had made neither in-quiry of nor referred to him. Defending a Friend,
