A CITY LOCKUP.

A NEEDLESS EXPENSE TO THE CITY.

A Disagreement Between the County and City Officials Causes a Revival of Talk about a City Lockup—No Need of One Whatever—Prosecuting Atty. Randall Explains the Misunderstanding—Jail Plenty Large for Both City and County Prisoners.

A misunderstanding between the marshal and one of the deputy sheriffs in regard to the control of the young fellows who robbed James Harkins' store last week has caused a revival of the talk of a city lockup. Mayor Walker was approached last Saturday by a number of citizens and urged to call a special meeting of the council at once to take action in the matter. The Mayor's good judgment did not lead him to call a meeting as desired. He seemed to think that when those who were excited about the matter had time to cool off they would not be so anxious to load an additional and needless expense upon the city when taxes are already high enough. The assertion that the county officials refused to allow the city officials to have the two prisoners, held for the Harkins' robbery, was because the former were after the fees and were ready at every possible opportunity to take advantage of the fact that the city officials were obliged to use the county jail is shown to be absurd, at least in this case, by the following letter to the Times by Pros. Atty. Randall. It would be unfortunate if the council should be induced to go to the unnecessary expense of building a jail at the present time.

Believing that the Times would not intentionally do an injustice to any person, much less to an honest and efficient officer of this county, I take the liberty of replying to an article which appeared in the Times last evening entitled "The City Lockup Question."

I have read this article very carefully, for the purpose of discovering if it could be a single statement of truth in it, and am compelled to say that there is not a single true statement in the whole article from beginning to end, so far as it refers to Sheriff Judson.

I am personally acquainted with all the facts to which the article refers, and in order that your readers may know the truth in relation thereto, I wish to say that Mr. Judson had no knowledge of what took place in the case against Elliott Chester and James Blithman until the case was finally disposed of before Justice Pond.

Mr. Peterson did not ask Sheriff Judson for the custody of these boys, and the sheriff never refused Mr. Peterson the custody of them. Neither is it true that Mr. Judson violated any agreement that he had ever made, and if Mr. Peterson made the statements you ascribe to him, he made them knowing the time that they were false.

The facts in the case are these: As soon as Mr. Harkins discovered that a larceny had been committed in his store, he went immediately to the jail for the sheriff. Some of the officers returned with him to make the arrest. Before Mr. Harkins returned his brother-in-law arrested one of the boys and took him into the store. Mr. O'Mara arrested the other boy and placed them both in jail. Yesterday morning Mr. Harkins came to my office and asked for an order from me for a warrant for the arrest of those boys. I issued the order and gave it to Mr. Harkins. Mr. Harkins then, in my presence, requested Mr. Canfield to take charge of the case and remain in jail until it was disposed of. On account of this request the warrant was placed in the hand of Mr. Canfield. That is all there is of the matter. And in stating that Sheriff Judson has violated his agreement, or that he saw that he could make a dollar out of the county on account of these boys is entirely false and without the slightest foundation in fact.

SETH C. RANDALL.
Ann Arbor, Dec. 27, 1895.

Following this Marshal Peterson is it with a column letter. In it he makes charges of false statements, and misrepresentation on the part of Mr. Canfield, and claims that the prisoners are his, etc. The facts in the case seem to be that one of the prisoners was captured by a Mr. Andrews who turned him over to the first officer he met and that the second boy was taken by Mr. O'Mara, a city official, without a warrant and lodged in jail. When Mr. Harkins made complaint he told Canfield, a deputy sheriff, to attend to the matter. The result was a general mix-up as to who had the right to the prisoners. Each party, looking at the matter from a different standpoint, it in a different light and say hard things of the other fellow,—and in the meantime an effort is being made to induce the council to authorize the expenditure of several hundreds of dollars of the people's money to build a jail, when the jail is plenty large enough to serve both the city and the county, simply because the city and county officials persist in getting edge-at each other.

Walter C. Read, of Webster, son of the well-known John Reade, died last night at his late home. He was about fifty-two years of age. Funeral services were held last Sunday morning at the Congregational church in Webster.

ANN ARBOR HIGH SCHOOL.

LARGER THAN MANY MICHIGAN COLLEGES.

Some Facts About the High School That Will Interest Our Readers—A Steady Increase for Twenty-Five Years—Prof. Perry on His Twenty-Sixth Year—Increase in the Teaching Force From Six to Nineteen Teachers.

It is a common thing for people not to realize the real magnitude of those things which are situated in their midst and with which they are familiar. The Ann Arbor High School is no exception to this rule. We know that it will be a real surprise to many of our readers to learn that the attendance of non-resident pupils at our High School is larger than that at many of the so-called colleges in this and adjoining states and that its course of study is more complete and thorough than is the course in many of these same so-called colleges. Yet such is the fact, nevertheless.

For some time past we have been looking up some data in regard to our High School and give below some portions of it that we know will be interesting. We have before us a catalogue of the school in 1870-71. In that year Prof. Perry became the superintendent which position he has held ever since. At that time only the west part of the south half of the old building was constructed. As compared with the present structure it would make quite a contrast. At that date there were but six teachers in the High School and the total enrollment was three hundred and eighty. Since that time the number has reached as high as seven hundred and thirty-five, which was in 1893 when the highest number in the history of the school was recorded. In 1870 the Board of Education consisted of the following gentlemen: C. B. Cook, Abraham Sage, Ebenezer Wells, C. B. Grant, J. B. Gott, J. M. Wheeler, Philip Bach, C. B. Porter and Patrick Donovan. The teachers in the High School were, S. R. Winchell, principal; O. J. Campbell, Emil Baur, B. E. Nichols, Hannah A. Lord and Caroline Gott. The steady growth of the High School is shown by the following table taken from the records of the school.

Year.	Teachers.	Enrollment.	Non-resident pupils.	Graduates.
1870	6	308	170	35
1875	8	380	163	70
1880	9	449	245	73
1885	10	462	243	49
1890	13	644	317	84
1891	15	698	341	71
1892	16	705	348	95
1893	17	737	370	93
1894	18	665	260	86
1895	19	642	254	100

The enrollment so far this year is 580 which shows a decrease as compared with last year of 62. One curious thing in this connection is the fact that at the present date the enrollment of non-resident students is 24 more than it was a corresponding date last year. This indicates a decrease in the attendance of resident pupils in the High School this year of 86. Why there should be such a difference is one of the things that none of the people connected with the school can account for. There can be no question that the population in the city is constantly increasing, yet why the attendance of local pupils in the High School should suddenly drop off is a mystery. It would naturally seem that the increased number of High Schools in the state which have been admitted as diploma schools by the University would cause a falling off of the number of non-resident pupils but such has not been the case as the number who have come here to prepare for the University at our High School has steadily increased from year to year with but few exceptions, as is shown by the table above.

That the school has grown both in facilities for thorough work as well as in the number of pupils who attend is shown by the thoroughly equipped laboratories and superior methods of instruction adopted in every department. In this age of rapid advance in educational science the Ann Arbor High School has kept abreast of the times and continues in the lead of such institutions in the west.

The Act Valid.

The contention made by the Board of Regents that the failure of Gov. Rich to sign the bill for the removal of the Homeopathic School to Detroit within certain limit a invalidated the act was settled by the Supreme Court on Tuesday in a similar case taken up to that court from Detroit. As the cases are similar so far as the validity of the law goes, the Regents will have to find some other reasons for not removing the school to Detroit, if they still intend to make an effort to keep the University united. The claim that the Board of Regents is a constitutional body and therefore not subject to the dictates of the legislature may be one that would justify the Regents in refusing to transfer the department to Detroit. It is a questionable, however, if it would be good policy on the part of the Board of Regents to refuse to comply with the wishes of the legislature on such grounds. The relations of the University to the state legislature and its dependence upon it, make it inadvisable for the Regents to antagonize that department of our state government.

GENERAL MENTION.

BRIEFS GATHERED FROM THE WIRES.

Startling Reports Have Been Received from Cuba Telling of the Insurgents' Approach to Havana and How They Have Outgeneraled the Spaniards.

Recent dispatches from Havana and Tampa told of the rapid progress of the Cuban insurgents into the province of Matanzas in spite of all efforts of the Spanish troops. Later advices give the startling news that Gen. Maximo Gomez, at the head of the insurgent army—about 12,000 men of all arms, fairly supplied with artillery—turned the flank of Capt.-Gen. Martinez de Campos, in command of the Spanish forces at Colon, attempting to stop the advance of the enemy upon Havana, and were well to the westward of Colon, and threatening to pass Matanzas to the southward and strike directly at Havana. The receipt of this startling news has caused the greatest excitement in Havana. After the Cubans defeated the Spaniards at Ighara some three weeks ago they made a wonderful movement through Santa Clara, passing through the flower of the Spanish army, said to number about 5,000 men there. Campos made strenuous efforts to check them, but in spite of slight repulses the insurgents pressed onward and passing Placetas, Santa Clara, San Juan de Lasyeras, Racheulo and other towns, pushed for the frontier of Matanzas. Then came the news that the insurgents had entered the province of Matanzas at Palma Saia. Gen. Campos had changed his headquarters to Colon and commenced hurriedly concentrating his forces there, intending to compel Gen. Gomez to fight a pitched battle before passing that place. In a day or so the insurgents caused a scurry in Colon. Firing was heard at Ajuaica, about 15 miles from the place, and reinforcements were sent to the front from Colon; but, this turned out to be little more than an outpost affair, and while the Spanish troops were pushing for that point the main body of the enemy passed southward of Colon, near the line of the railroad and headed steadily for the frontier of the province of Havana, thus turning the flank of the captain-general who, with the bulk of the Spanish forces, was now well to the rear of the insurgent columns, but in a badly generalized condition.

Gomez next appeared at Jovellanos, well to the rear of Colon and commanding the railroads to Cardenas, Matanzas and Havana. The movement of the insurgents was an example of splendid generalship accomplished under the most trying circumstances and in the face of overwhelming numbers of Spanish troops commanded by the best officers of Spain. The Cubans were divided into three columns, one under Lacerete at J. Suarez, numbering over 2,000 men, another northward under Antonio Maceo, numbering over 3,000 men, and the center, the main body of the insurgents, numbering over 6,000 men, under Gen. Gomez. Ahead of these three columns was the vanguard of the insurgents, composed of 1,000 men and commanded by Gen. Perez. The insurgents burned the railroad stations, cut off telegraph communication and destroyed the railroads behind them, to prevent the advance of the Spaniards upon their rear. Gen. Campos moved his troops to Cardenas, between Matanzas and Havana, and engaged the insurgents in battle on the Coliseo plantation. After some hours of fighting the Cubans retreated and the Spaniards thought they had won a victory, but it soon became apparent that only a wing of the Cuban army had been fighting in order to check Campos until the main army pushed on southward. The loss on each side was about 100 men killed and many more wounded.

The insurgents marched rapidly, destroying plantations, railroads and bridges and in every way obstructing their rear. Campos hurried to Havana, and that city was thrown into great excitement. An effort was made to keep the news from the populace, but without success. All the troops which could be spared were sent to the front and all the marines and sailors who could be spared from the Spanish fleet have been landed at Havana and the former are now doing duty as artillery men wherever their services are needed. All the volunteers available are under arms and every male inhabitant, capable of active service, has been called upon to bear arms. Whether it is the intention of Gomez to attempt to capture Havana or merely a raid upon the plantations is not known positively, but sure it is that the insurgents are continually overcoming all obstacles and are gaining in numbers daily. It is said that the Spanish troops are suffering from climatic illness and poor food are almost disheartened.

The authorities at Havana made strong attempts to quiet the residents, evidently fearing an uprising of insurgent sympathizers within the city. They insisted that the insurgents were retreating into Santa Clara, but because Campos continued day and night to fortify the city the report was not believed, and later news from the Cuban armies showed the falsity of the statement. The three forces under Gomez in the south, Bandera in the north and Maceo in the center continued to harass the Spanish troops and maintained the strongest strategic positions.

DOINGS OF THE STATESMEN.

Eighteenth day—No session of the Senate. House.—The House responded to the appeal of the President, by passing a tariff bill, the operation of which is limited to two and half years, and which is designed to raise $40,000,000 for the relief of the treasury. The vote was on party lines with two exceptions. The Republicans all voted for the bill, except Hartman, of Montana, who did not vote, and the Democrats and Populists against it, save Newlands, Pop. Nev., who voted in favor of the measure. A special order under which the bill was brought to a vote after three and a half hours of debate was introduced in its character and compelled the members to adopt or reject it without opportunity of offering amendments of any kind. The debate itself was participated in by leaders on both sides. The Republicans contended that the first necessity of the treasury was revenue to supply the continued defense. Every speaker declared that the proposed measure was a Republican protection bill. It was, they claimed, an emergency revenue bill on protective lines. The Democrats took the position that there was no lack of revenue in the treasury and that the passage of a bill to increase taxation would in no wise help the situation nor furnish the relief desired by the President and the secretary of the treasury. The bill, as passed, repeats the present tariff law until Aug. 1, 1896, it restores to percent of the McKinley rates on wool and woollen lumber and carpets, and makes a horizontal increase of the present rates and other schedules to the rate of 1 percent. When the bill was put upon its passage it was passed, 203 to 81, the vote being taken by yeas and nays. There was no demonstration of any kind at the announcement of the vote. Mr. Cannon, the delegate from Utah, asked for immediate consideration of a joint resolution directing the secretary of the territory of Utah to turn over to the governor of Utah, upon the issuance of the executive proclamation admitting the territory as a state, all United States property in the hands of the secretary. The resolution was adopted, and then the House adjourned.

SEVENTEENTH day.—The bond question made its appearance when Mr. Hill, of New York, introduced the following: "Resolved, that any bonds hereafter issued under the laws now in force, for the redemption of the secretary, he made payable in United States gold coin of the present weight and fineness, or in standard silver dollars, at the option of the holders of such bonds, but no bond containing such option shall bear a rate of interest exceeding 3 per cent per annum payable quarterly. This resolution amended a bill introduced by Mr. Hill and Mr. Teller, of Colorado. In support of it Mr. Hill read a speech setting forth the difficulties of negotiation of any kind at the present time, and the law. Mr. Teller's reply to Mr. Hill was cutting, sarcastic and personal. He repudiated and protested against the efforts of the President and his "water" to defame the credit of the United States. He spoke of the recent visit to Washington of a great New York banker, who had been invited to participate in the "dishonorable or imbecile" bond transaction of last year. No final action on the Hill resolution was taken. A resolution was agreed to by the House that the committee recently failed to meet the speed requirements. Also a resolution for the formal transfer of the Utah administration from the territorial to the new state authorities. HOUSE.—The bond bill was the absorbing feature of the day. The bill, reported by the committee on the subject, was generally opposed by the Democrats and Populists. The silver men contended that the raids on the treasury could be stopped if the secretary would use his discretion to redeem notes in silver when the reserve was threatened. In the Republican ranks also there developed such bitter opposition to the bill as to result in a vote at once that the Republican members of the committee on ways and means incorporated in it an amendment specifically declaring that nothing in the act should be construed as a modification or repeal of the act of 1875 for the reissue of the greenbacks when redeemed, and the committee on rules extended the limit of debate one day, but declined to give opportunity to offer amendments. The margin of the day was a strong one, and from Mr. Johnson, Rep. Cal., appealing to his Republican colleagues to vote against the bill, and into the night. The principal speeches were made by Messrs. Dingley, of Maine, and Grosvenor, of Ohio, Republicans; and Messrs. Turner, of Ohio, and Patterson, of Tennessee, Democrats.

SEVENTEENTH day.—No session. HOUSE.—By a vote of 170 to 136 the bond bill reported by the ways and means committee was passed. The closing hours of the debate were lacking in spirit and there was practically no excitement until the vote was taken. The margin of 34 by which the first section of the bill against which the Republican opponents of the measure massed their opposition, was passed, showed that the friends of the measure had marshaled every available vote in its favor. As it was, 47 Republicans refused to act with the majority of their party. The Populists and Democrats, with the exception of Hutchinson, of Texas, who voted for the bill, presented an unbroken front against the bill. The bill, as passed, amends the act so as to require the reissue of a 4 per cent coin bonds redeemable after five years at the pleasure of the government and payable in the ways and means provided in the act of 1875 for the reissue of the greenbacks and that the bonds shall be offered to the public at the rate of 100 cents for 100 cents of the United States. The second section of the bill provides for the issue of 2-year per cent debt certificates in denominations of 20 and multiples thereof in amounts not exceeding $5,000,000 to meet temporary deficiencies.

SIXTEENTH day.—The principal event of the day was the reorganization of the Senate as a Republican body, giving the Republicans control of the committee. This was accomplished by the Populists who held the balance of power—refusing to vote on the organization, with the exception of Mr. Kyle, of South Dakota. Before the reorganization Henry Cabot Lodge, the senator from Massachusetts, who has made a brilliant reputation as an historical biographer, delivered an address on the Monroe doctrine. Although he operated in language, he took the ground that, unless we insisted that Venezuela's dispute with Great Britain should be referred to friendly arbitration we would surrender the essence, spirit and vital principle of the Monroe doctrine, which he contended was as essential to the safety and well-being of the republic as the balance of power was to the safety and welfare of European nations. Senator Paris introduced a bill providing that the capital stock shall consist of 1,000,000 shares at $100 each. Mr. Potter, of Kansas, presented resolutions from several U. S. A. R. posts in Kansas, offering their services to the United States in the event of war with Great Britain. Mr. Chandler, Rep. Conn., who had been waging war against the interstate commerce commission for not putting a stop to pooling arrangements, introduced a bill to enlarge the interstate commerce commission, and modify and increase the scope of its powers. The bill provides that the commission shall be composed of one member from each state and that the commission shall meet quarterly. The details of the commission are to be left to a committee of five, which shall be in constant session. These members of the commission are to receive the same remuneration now given the members of the commission, while the other members of the enlarged commission are to be paid by the time actually spent in the government service. Mr. Brice, of Ohio, offered resolutions instructing the secretary of war to make an examination of the physical and agricultural of the great lakes and report on the feasibility and cost of raising the level of the lakes by a series of dams. Mr. Chandler offered a resolution calling on the committee on naval affairs to inquire into the prices paid by the United States for armaments; as to whether they were reasonable, as to whether they were in excess of the prices charged foreign governments, as to whether the prices had been increased by reason of new patent processes and whether the navy department had expedited the granting to those patents and whether any officers of the United States were interested in those patent processes. Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, presented an amendment which he proposes to offer to the House bond bill. It provides that all the holders of the bill who is a citizen of the United States may tender the same to the secretary of the treasury and have it coined into silver dollars, the seigniorage to be the difference between the coinage value and the market price of the bullion in New York; for the cancellation of the bank notes of less than $10, directing the secretary of the treasury to coin the silver bullion in the treasury into silver dollars, to be used in redeeming the treasury notes issued for the purpose of purchasing silver bullion under the Sherman act, and for the redemption of the greenbacks in either gold or silver, and for the reissue according to the provisions of the act of 1878. HOUSE.—No session.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paragoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

Michigan Circuit Judges Meet.

The third annual meeting of the Michigan Circuit Judges' association was held at Grand Rapids with about 30 judges in attendance. In his annual address, President W. E. Grove made several suggestions as to what the courts wanted in the way of new or different laws—court criers appointed by the bench instead of by the sheriff; amending ex-parte divorce laws to give better protection to minor children; to abolish the difference between law and equity and adopt the code system. Judge Fred H. Aldrich, of Cadillac, read a paper on "The Right of the People in Criminal Cases." He commended the Michigan supreme court for deciding cases on the substance rather than on technicalities and urged that when the trial is regular but the sentence void, instead of discharging the prisoner entirely, he should be remanded to the trial judge for re-sentence. Judge J. H. McMahon, in his paper on "The Personal Factor in the Court," held that the must be a philosopher, a man of tact, judgment, honesty, strong character and sincerity, as well as of law and learning. Judge J. W. Donovan, of Detroit, furnished a paper which urged more control of cross-examinations by the court. Judge R. L. Corbett, of Traverse City, roared the present jury system as being far behind the times and said that a change was demanded to require a jury that can render a verdict on judgment without bias on the evidence advanced, instead of absolute ignorance of the case before them. Judge Burlingame, of Grand Rapids, opposed the large number of peremptory challenges in criminal cases and favored choosing jurors for a year. Judge Person, of Lansing, thought an intelligent juror with an opinion or an impression was better than an ignorant man who does not read the papers. Judge Maxwell, of Bay City, held that the present tax system is full of defects and is productive of dishonesty, favoritism and corruption. He said that the supervisors' system should be abolished and the assessment rolls be made under state direction. Judge S. B. Daboll, of St. Johns, urged a restriction of the number of appeals of minor civil cases. The paper of President Grove on the "Status of the Bench and Bar to Our American Civilization," was philosophical and discussed the prominent part of lawyers in the affairs of the nation from earliest colonial days to the present time. Splendid papers were those of Judge Rollin H. Person of Lansing, "How Far is the Trial Judge Responsible for Bad Verdicts," and of Dean H. H. Hutchins, of the U. of M. law department, "Preparation for the Bar Considered from a Professional Point of View."

The election of officers resulted: President, S. B. Daboll, of St. Johns; vice president, J. H. Palmer, of Big Rapids; secretary and treasurer, Fred H. Aldrich, of Cadillac. A banquet was the concluding feature of the convention.

The board of supervisors of Shiawassee county, by a unanimous vote, decided to submit the question of local option to the electors on Feb. 10.

The supreme court has decided that the state auditors cannot compromise with those officers who drew an increased salary under the illegal salaries amendment. They must sue for the full amount.

C. C. Potts, of Benton Harbor, philanthropist, who recently offered to erect a reformatory for fallen women, will be examined for insanity. Relatives ask that a guardian be placed in charge of his $15,000 estate.

A census bulletin issued by Secretary of State Gardner shows that Michigan has 42,544 union soldiers of the civil war; 41 veterans of the Mexican war; 148 confederates, and 359 U. S. veteran sailors and marines.

The dam of the Tobacco River Milling Co., and the Hubbell bridge, at Clare, were carried away by the freshet. The loss is about $6,000. Considerable damage has been done to the Ann Arbor railway road bed.

The Kalamazoo river went higher than at any time during the past 10 years. The accumulation of driftwood and the force of the current seriously threatened the bridges near Galesburg.

The notorious Arnold block at Battle Creek, in which Geo. Arnold was murdered, seems to be cursed. Fred Herr, a bartender, was found dying in a little room on the fourth floor. Suicide is the theory universally accepted.

Holland has a diphtheria scare.

Knights of the Grip Meet.

Commercial travelers are famous for their jollity and good nature, so when 600 of them gathered in Lansing from all parts of Michigan it can be imagined that there was a lively time. It was the occasion of the annual convention of the Michigan Knights of the Grip. They came with half a dozen bands of music and found the Capitol city splendidly decorated in their honor. Maj. J. W. Jacklin, of Detroit, presided over the business sessions. It was shown that the membership had been largely increased, it now being 1,181. The receipts for the year were: General fund, $2,331.43; trust fund, $3,338.58; disbursements, general, $1,568.14; trust, $6,000. At the annual banquet nearly 1,000 guests were present and the toasts were unusually brilliant. The street parade was large and interesting and the grand ball on the second evening closed two days of rare enjoyment.

Jan Smith, Fin Berry and Frank Baker stole a lot of flour and pork from the store of Thompson Bros. & Co., at Newaygo, but quarreled while dividing it. While digging a hole to bury a large stone near Concord Henry Mann and Chas. Kane had a narrow escape from death. The stone was split in two, but they did not know it and as they were digging under one side one half fell and buried them. Mann was helpless, but Kane dug himself out after two hours hard work and it then took another hour to release Mann. The latter is seriously injured, but Kane was scarcely scratched.

34 People Trampled to Death. In a senseless panic, caused by a defective gas burner and a foolish cry of fire, at the old Front street theater at Baltimore, 24 people were killed, two fatally injured and 10 more seriously hurt. The theater, which is the oldest in the city, was filled from pit to dome with people who had assembled to listen to Hebrew opera. The panic was caused by someone in the gallery trying fire as a theater employe lighted a tipless gas jet and the flame flared up. The vast crowds rushed for two exits, which opened upon separate stairways, but the stairways came together at a landing just above a single broad stairway. As the two streams met on the landing, being pushed by the frantic throngs behind, a collision occurred. Someone fell, others tripped over this prostrate form and in a moment nearly two score of people were being trampled under the feet of hundreds of insanely frightened men and women, with the result given above. There was no real danger of fire and only the foolish alarm caused the horror.

Outrages Continue About Hadjin. Boston: A letter just received says that the situation in Mardin, Central Turkey, is daily becoming more serious. Hadjin is encompassed by a large band of Kurds and Turks who have raided and sacked every village in the neighborhood. The government does nothing to put a stop to this work of murder and pillage. The Christians of this region, notwithstanding the treatment to which they have been subjected, offer no resistance, and in their conduct throughout have been most praiseworthy. The Val gives assurance that the missionaries shall be protected, and the consuls have warned him that they hold him responsible for their safety.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 2, 1895

Not a few of the republican papers of Michigan are urging that Gen. R. A. Alger shall head the Michigan delegation to the national convention. We heartily support the movement. Gen. Alger would be the proper man for the place and we believe he will be the one selected for the honor.

It is quite probable that the council will be asked at its next meeting to appropriate money to build a lockup for the use of the city. If those who are in favor of such a scheme will listen to what people are saying about high taxes they will think twice before urging the council to needlessly increase the city expenses simply because the county and city officers do not or will not agree. The county jail is plenty large enough for all city and county prisoners. Such being the case it is nonsense for the city to go to the expense of several hundred dollars to construct another jail. Except a few who will be directly benefitted by such an expenditure of the city's money, the large majority of the people in the city are bitterly opposed to the city going the expense of building a jail when there is plenty of room in the county jail. We believe that if the matter is brought before the council every alderman who votes for such a measure will feel the effects of it when the spring election takes place next April. Satisfactory arrangements can be made with the county for the use of the county jail at much less expense than the city can build a lockup. The proper thing for the council to do is to appoint a committee to make such an arrangement and then see to it that both county and city officials abide by it.

ANOTHER KENTUCKY HORROR.

The dreadful story of the shooting and burning of Mrs. West and Mr. Deveres at or near Lebanon, Ky., is but a practical reaffirmation of the inherent savagery of human nature. So far as the mere removal of the slain people from terrestrial to other scenes of action is concerned, little is to be regretted. Woman and man were of low, nearly of the lowest, type; lower, certainly, than all but the fiends who slew them. Had fever or cholera or any other form of natural death visited them their transition would not have been lamentable.

The man had maintained adulterous connection with the woman and in a quarrel had killed her husband. Almost immediately upon the death of the husband the paramour had moved himself and his family into the home and into the chamber of the deceased. The adulteress welcomed the adulterer, and the twain lived in the home once consecrated by lawful marriage. In a truly civilized community such actions would be suppressed by law. But in the neighborhood of Lebanon they aroused a mob, and a mob that was resolved to torture as well as to slay. No supplication, not that of the innocent child of the guilty man, not that of the guilty woman, who begged respite till her unborn babe should see the light, availed. Both were roasted to death.

In this close of the nineteenth century the United States is intersected by railways and by telegraph and telephone wires. It has schools by the hundred thousand, and churches by the ten thousand. It has citizens who will not eat meat lest some brute shall suffer pain that they may grow strong. And it has mobs that roast men alive.—Inter Ocean.

Don't Let Tea Stand.

If only one pot of tea can be made for a family taking their luncheon at different hours, every housewife should see to it that the tea does not stand with the tea grounds in it longer than from three to five or seven minutes. After that time pour the tea into another pot and throw the grounds away. If you have only one teapot, infuse the tea in some other vessel, pottery of some kind is best, and pour into the pot. In this way the injurious effects of the tannin which is drawn out of the leaves after a long infusion is avoided, and you save yourself, your friends, and family from becoming tea-maniacs.

She Was Lost.

"I am lost!" she exclaimed in a tone of terror. "Fear not, fair one," said the hero, who had not rescued anybody for three or four chapters, and was beginning to feel lonely. "I will protect you." "I don't want protection," she answered. "What I want is a map and a compass and a guide book. I have just come from Boston, and the streets here are so straight that I am utterly confused."

A BIG VERDICT.

WM. WHALIN GETS A VERDICT OF $10,150

William Whalin, of Jackson, Comes Out Ahead—He Was the Engineer on the Train That Caused the Wreck at Jackson During the World's Fair—The Jury Did not Believe Whalin Was to Blame and Gave him a Big Verdict—This Vindicates Whalin from the Charge of Negligence of Which the Coroner's Jury Charged Him.

The case of Whalin vs the Michigan Central railroad company which has been hanging fire for so many terms of court came to trial this term and went to the jury at five o'clock last Friday afternoon. The case was the only one growing out of the frightful wreck at Jackson during the World's Fair, the company having made a settlement with all the injured passengers and the relatives of those killed. The accident was one of the most horrible in recent railroad history. Whalin was the engineer upon a special excursion train and was running from Detroit to Jackson with a heavy load of excursionists. Upon arriving at Jackson he was unable to stop his train on account of the air brakes upon his train not working which caused him to dash into another excursion train standing at the station at Jackson. Whalin was seriously injured in the wreck. At the time it was generally believed that it was wholly due to his carelessness that the accident occurred and it was only due to the fact that he was terribly crippled that an excited mob did not either lynch him or do him great personal violence. The coroner's jury seems to have shared to a great extent the general feeling at the time and rendered a verdict which practically declared Whalin to be responsible for the horrible accident. Whalin finally brought suit for $25,000 damages. In the trial the plaintiff succeeded in satisfying the jury that he was in no manner to blame for the terrible affair, and after being out for about four hours returned a verdict for the plaintiff for ten thousand one-hundred and fifty dollars. The satisfaction of being vindicated from the responsibility of such a charge as Mr. Whalin has rested under for the past three years is certainly a great relief to him. It was due to the feeling that prevailed at Jackson at the time of accident, and which still prevailed to a considerable extent that his attorneys decided to have the trial held at some other place. On this account the matter was transferred to this circuit and Washtenaw will have to foot the bill.

From the Adrain Press.

Monroe keeps up with the procession—Tony Schwingenschlegel, (have a care how you tackle that), has sued the city for $10,000 damages, for injuries received by stepping into a hole in one of the streets or sidewalks, which he didn't observe, as he is a deaf mute. He didn't say a word to anyone at the time, but lay there till he could attract attention, and by the time he could write his name in full, he fainted away. His ankle was "unswungled" and he has been a cripple ever since.

The Salvation Army, of Ann Arbor, does business in all the precincts, and the council has just appointed, without expense to the city, W. W. Wallace as special policeman in and about the city to look after the interests of the recruits and members of the army. If you interfere with the soldiers at any time or place, W. W. W. will W up in an executive minute.

Washtenaw has 77 licensed saloons and they pay about as much tax for doing business as Lenawee pays for its share of the state tax this year, when it is doubled.

The Monroe dramatic club, last Friday evening, presented "Freezing a mother-in-law," and struck it rich. Every married man in the city but three, was present.

A Monroe lady has just published a cook book. The excessive death rate in that city, heretofore attributed to muskrat diet, now seems to have a practical solution.

cannot take it

Cod-liver oil helps and cures. Many believe they could be benefited if they could take it, but, after trying, acknowledge they cannot do it. They might as well say they cannot eat bread, after having taken of a few pieces which were heavy and sour. Physiologists tell us that cod-liver oil is more easily digested than cream, butter or other fats. The difficulty is with the preparation which has been used.

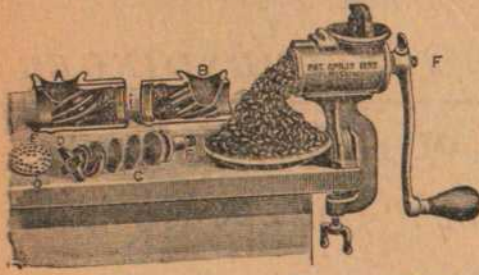

Scott's Emulsion

of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites is borne by the most delicate invalid because it is not disagreeable in taste; contains the purest oil; the oil is emulsified (or digested), avoiding the rising of gas from the stomach; and the oil is combined with the hypophosphites which are known for their power to strengthen digestion and give tone and vigor to the whole system.

FORGOTTEN TREASURE.

Unclaimed Deposits in California Savings Banks.

Interesting discoveries of lost heirs have just been made in the unclaimed bank deposit cases. The public administrator, Attorney Oscar D. Shuck, and the legal representatives of the various San Francisco savings banks, where $500,000 are unclaimed, have lately settled with a number of the heirs of depositors, but there are several hundred unclaimed deposits still in the banks. One of the most remarkable of the long list of abandoned deposits is that of Jeremiah Pendergast, to whose credit there are $12,000 at the Hibernia bank. His heirs are in Ireland. Very little is known of Pendergast, save that he was never a resident of San Francisco, though he was here for a short time about 1863, and probably as late as 1876. These facts are known, because the Empire hotel, which he gave as his residence, was opened in 1868 and closed in 1876. For many years there has been a search for Pendergast or his heirs, and Attorney Shuck has just located the heirs in Ireland, and has learned that the depositor was burned to death in his mining cabin more than twenty years ago. Pendergast was unmarried and lived in an isolated cabin, where he was burned to death in a fire which enveloped his home while he was asleep. In the remarkable case of Henry C. Benn, who left $2,400 in the Hibernia bank many years ago, there is no clew whatever. It is known that he once lived at the corner of Kearney and Jackson streets, but further than this there have been no tidings. The money awaits the coming of the owner. At the same bank there is a deposit of $1,600 in the name of William E. Crosten, who was a sailmaker in San Francisco in 1868. Shortly thereafter he quietly left the city and has never been heard from, though there are several persons here who knew him well and worked with him at Crawford's sail loft. If the depositor, who was born in Norway, is still living, he is 72 years of age. A search for his heirs has been in progress for years. A similar case is that of Charles N. Miles, supposed to have been a seaman. There are $2,500 to his credit at the Hibernia bank. He lived at the old United States hotel. Oscar McEarmen left $1,250 at the bank in 1872, refusing to give his address, and has never been heard from since, and about the same time P. D. Malloy left $1,200 at the same bank in the same manner, refusing to give any particulars about his residence. Thomas Standon, of 424 Powell street, but whose name does not appear in any of the old directories, left $1,000 at the Hibernia and has never been heard from since. John B. Casey, who was a carpenter for the Southern Pacific, also left $1,000 at the same bank and disappeared in an equally mysterious manner.

MADE AN IMPRESSION.

Waiter's Stupidity Paralyzes a Superior Effort.

Philadelphia Item: They sat at his favorite table in an uptown restaurant. Both were dressed in the height of fashion.

The attention of the guests in the dining-room had been attracted to the couple by the evident anxiety of the young man to make a favorable impression upon his fair companion.

He gave orders to the waiter with an air of self-styled superiority and his tone of voice was warranted to reach the ears of all present.

As the courses progressed the time for serving dessert came.

The young woman was heard to confess a weakness for huckleberry pie.

"Ah!" exclaimed the youth, "so funny, you know; I, too, am passionately fond of huckleberry pie! I have it almost every day here."

"I say, waiter," he called, at the same time snapping his fingers above the table, "bring me two portions of huckleberry pie."

The waiter executed the order with haste, and as he set the plates upon the table, the final act of the little drama that was being enjoyed by the persons at the other nearby tables began.

The young woman frowned, then blushed, and leaning over the table complained to the young man in a stage whisper that the powdered sugar had been omitted.

"How stupid!" he cried, as he beckoned the waiter again. "Brooks," he said to that functionary, "what is it that I always order with huckleberry pie and which you have invariably forgotten?"

"I know, sir," replied the waiter, after a moment's hesitation.

"Go at once, then, and bring it to Miss —," continued the youth.

By this time several new arrivals who had come in just in time to hear the last part of the conversation joined in watching the couple.

Everybody waited impatiently for the waiter's return.

In a few seconds he came back hurriedly, and walking to the young lady's side, laid beside her plate a—knife!

The young man's face was a study in chromatics of high tints as he saw the expressions of suppressed laughter about him.

He hastily paid the bill and left with his fair companion, who showed by her countenance that he had evidently made a lasting impression.

THE COUNTY HOUSE.

Has Two Christmas Day Celebrations.

On the 25th, a pleasant interchange of useful gifts between Matron and inmates occurred, followed by a dinner consisting of chicken fricasee, vegetables, cabbage salad, pickled cucumbers, hot biscuit, tea and coffee followed by grape pie, fried cakes and frosted cup cakes, all of which were heartily enjoyed by the large family, as well as your correspondent, who was invited to partake. But the day of days to be remembered was on Friday the 27th, when the ladies of St. Andrews' church trimmed an evergreen tree with presents. The tree was first covered with snow—(cotton) and strings of popcorn twined gracefully about among the dark, green branches, where small candles like fire-flies illuminated the pretty gifts. There were handkerchiefs bright and handkerchiefs white, to suit the taste of all, also aprons for the women, besides ribbons, jewelry and combs. We noticed three very pretty cups and saucers also a Japanese teapot, but couldn't get near enough to read the names. Bags of candy and peanuts were distributed to each one and all seemed to enjoy themselves. The doors were thrown open throughout the house, and the visitors were permitted to go wherever their fancy led them. We noticed an improvement in the various wards in the way of white spreads for every bed which gave the rooms a light, cheerful look. We learned that six of the old ladies had passed away since our last meeting a year ago, also several of the older men. At present the house does not seem to be overcrowded, probably owing to the mild weather of late, and although the past year has been a trying one on farmers, mechanics, and merchants, we are glad to see for ourselves that the county poor are comfortable in their warm home where extreme cleanliness prevails from garret to cellar.

EUGENIE LOST HER WAGER.

Boxed the Ears of a Royal Guard, but He Did Not Move.

Nothing could be more magnificent than the appearance of everything appertaining to the court on all public occasions. The balls, especially, in the various splendid rooms, particularly in the immense "Salle des Marechaux," were a sight not to be forgotten, from the first entrance, and ascent by the great staircase, adorned with flowers and shrubs, where on each step stood two of the "Cent-gardes" (the emperor's body-guard) as motionless as statues. Nothing was more remarkable than the drill which enabled these men on all occasions when on duty at the palace to remain without moving a muscle. The fatigue of this immobility is said to be so great that it could not be endured beyond a certain time; but it was so complete that to come suddenly on one of these guards in the palace was positively startling. It was scarcely possible to believe that they were alive. They were all remarkably fine men, sub-officers chosen out of various regiments, and when the war came they proved that they were not merely parade soldiers, for they figured among the best and bravest troops. One day the little prince, when a young child, in the hope of making the sentinel move, poured a whole bag of sweets into his boot, but without eliciting any sign of life from the military statue before him. This play of the child being mentioned in the presence of Col. Verly, who commanded the regiment, he declared that nothing could make one of his men move when on duty. The empress would not believe this assertion, and finally laid a wager that she would contrive to make one of the guards move. Col. Verly having accepted the wager, the empress went with him into the neighboring gallery, where they walked backward and forward before the sentinel, the empress trying by every means to attract his attention. The guard stood as if turned into stone. Col. Verly smiled. The empress, with her characteristic impetuosity, then went straight to the soldier, and, according to familiar speech, "boxed his ears." Not a muscle moved. The empress then acknowledged that Col. Verly had won the day, and sent a handsome compensation to the soldier, who proudly refused it, saying that he was sufficiently compensated by having had his sovereign lady's hand on his cheek!—"Life in the Tulleries Under the Second Empire."

A WONDERFUL ESCAPE.

Related by a Keeper of the Michigan State Prison at Jackson

(From the Jackson Citizen.)

Mr. A. E. Wing resides at 612 N. Jackson Street, Jackson, Mich. He is a keeper in the Michigan State Prison, a man of sterling integrity, and whose word is beyond dispute. He tells the following story of a wonderful escape, and the incidents connected with the dangerous position in which he was placed. He says, some months ago my attention was attracted by a swelling of my groins, which began to increase in size to such an extent that I was alarmed. It spread down my legs to my feet, and I was bloated from my waist down, so badly that I could not pull my pants, over my legs, and I had to open my shoes fully two inches before I could get them on. My face became puffed up; and my whole system seemed affected. I could hardly drag myself upstairs to unlock my men. I consulted a physician, one of the best in the city. He said the swelling was caused by an irritation of the kidneys, and I commenced treatment with him. But I seemed to be getting worse. I was strongly urged by a friend to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I finally consented. After the first week I commenced to see a change, and felt much better. This was encouraging, and I continued their use. I took five boxes in all, with the happy result that I was completely cured. I have never heard of any medicine which had such a pronounced and radical effect, and yet not affect the system generally and leave it in such a good condition. I feel better now than I ever did. After the effect was once established the swelling gradually disappeared until it was entirely gone. I regard Doan's Kidney Pills as a most wonderful agent in the curing of any form of kidney disorder.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. MOB HORROR IN KENTUCKY.

A gaily Couple Burned to Death in the Woman's Home.

At Lebanon, Ky., W. A. Devers, a widower with two daughters, having had his life threatened by T. J. West on the charge of intimacy with his wife, killed West three weeks ago and exonerated by the court. Devers then went with his daughter Carrie, 10 years old, to the house of Mrs. West and moved all his effects there. This caused excitement, which resulted in a mob of 25 masked men calling at the house at midnight and demanded to see Devers. Mrs. West came to the door and said she would give birth to a child and begged them in the name of humanity to go away. The mob fired shots in the air and the woman went into the house. Devers came to the window and expostulated, but was answered with a volley. Then Carrie Devers, came outside, and plead piteously to save her father. A pistol was thrust in her face, and half frightened to death, she ran to a Negro cabin half a mile away. The house was then fired and the mob saw through the windows the man and the woman battling the flames and fired at them. At last Devers ran out, his hair and clothing on fire and with his single revolver attacked the mob. He was soon riddled with bullets and left there a corpse. The woman was found in the fireplace, her legs and head almost burned off.

UNCLE SAM KICKS

Against the Turks Trying to Prevent Vessels Passing the Dardanelles.

A cable report from Constantinople that the United States has denied the right of Turkey to prevent the passage of warships through the Dardanelles, brings out the fact that this government has constantly declined to admit such a right, and while it has not recently had occasion to make an issue with Turkey upon this subject, ministers to that country have been cautioned to go no further than to recognize the exclusion as a usage and not as a right. President Pierce, in 1854, first laid down the doctrine that the government was determined to maintain the freedom of the seas and of the great natural channels of navigation, and to deny the right of a nation to treat one of the great maritime highways of nations as a close sea and prevent its navigation freely. In the case of Turkey Secretary Fish in 1871 and 1872 regarded the abstract right of the Turkish government to obstruct the Dardanelles as a serious question, but it was deemed expedient to acquiesce in the exclusion. There has been no recent reassertion of this doctrine.

2,500 Armenians Killed at Zeitoun.

Advices have been received and confirmed of the capture of the town of Zeitoun, 15 miles from Marash, which had been held by the insurgent Armenians for some time past, by the Turkish troops. It is added that the inhabitants of Zeitoun fled to the mountains. Constantinople: The most obstinate fighting preceded the capture of Zeitoun by the Turks. Semi-official advices say that the Armenians killed 2,500 killed, and that only 250 Turks were killed. The narrow pass between the hills, leading out of Zeitoun, is said to be crowded with Armenians, men, women and children, and it is feared they will be massacred. The ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Austria sent their dragomans to the Sultan's palace in order to make representations with the view of preventing the Armenians from being massacred. Little hope is felt that these representations will avail as it is the general belief that the survivors have already been killed.

Hawaiians Want Annexation.

The Chicago Times-Herald publishes an interview Miss Kate Field had with President Sanford R. Dole, of Hawaii, in which Mr. Dole said that the present administration of Hawaii was working for annexation with the United States: "As to the form of annexation that would best meet our requirements, it is difficult to say. A territorial form of government, unmodified from the form obtaining in the United States territories, would surely not be suitable. Probably the best course would be to gradually develop our present system, the federal authorities, of course, having from the beginning jurisdiction over custom houses, postoffices and federal courts. Our own government should not be limited by the United States laws concerning territories. A new system would have to be invented to suit our conditions."

THE MARKETS.

Table with columns: LIVE STOCK, GRAIN, ETC. Lists prices for various commodities like wheat, corn, and livestock across different cities.

Turks Slaughter 12,200 More People.

Constantinople: Advice from Beirut report that a severe fight has taken place between Turkish troops and the Druses near Suedich. According to the official report, the Druses lost 12,200 killed, while only 70 Turkish were killed and 500 wounded.

Cincinnati is after the Democratic national convention and a $50,000 guarantee fund has been raised.

Chicago brewers have raised the price of beer $1 per barrel and it is figured that this will push 2,000 small saloons out of existence.

"The Kindergarten for the Blind" is one of the noblest institutions in the vicinity of Boston. Its work is unique. The story of that work and of the founding of the school has never been told so well as by Dinah Sturgis in the Christmas number of the New England Magazine. It is a most appropriate article for Christmas, which is especially the children's season. It is beautifully illustrated and its pages will be turned with interest by old and young in a thousand homes. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

The Century for the Coming Year.

The Century Magazine celebrated its quarter-century in its November issue with an "Anniversary Number." In honor of the occasion it donned a new dress of type, with new headings, etc., and it appears in a new and artistic cover. Although The Century has reached an age that is unusual among American magazines, it continues to show the youthful vigor and enterprise that have always characterized it. The programme that has been arranged for the coming year contains a number of interesting features. Much has already been written concerning Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel, "Sir George Tressady," which has been secured for its pages. There was a very spirited bidding for this novel on the part of several prominent publishers, with the result that the author will probably realize from the serial and book rights of it one of the largest sums that has yet been given for a work of fiction in the English language. The history of a life in an English country-house, and also touches somewhat upon industrial questions. It began in the November number with an account of an English parliamentary election. It will be the leading feature in fiction for the coming twelve months, a series of articles on the great naval engagements of Nelson, by Captain Alfred T. Mahan, author of "Influence of Sea Power upon History"; a series of articles by George Kennan, author of "Siberia and the Exile System," on the Mountains and the Mountaineers of the Eastern Caucasus, describing a little-known people; articles by Henry M. Stanley, Prof. Sloane's "Life of Napoleon," with its wealth of illustration, will reach its most interesting part,—the rise of the conqueror to the height of his power, and his final overthrow and exile. In order that new subscribers may obtain the whole of this monumental work, the publishers have made a rate of $5.00 for which one can have a year's subscription from November, '95, and all of the numbers for the past twelve months, from the beginning of Prof. Sloane's history. 98

Harper's Bazar

The twenty-ninth year of HARPER'S BAZAR, beginning in January, 1896, finds it maintaining its deserved reputation both as a Fashion Journal and a weekly periodical for home reading.

Every week the BAZAR presents beautiful toilettes for various occasions, Sandoz, Baude, and Chapuis illustrate and engrave the newest designs from the finest models in Paris and Berlin. New York Fashions epitomizes current styles in New York. A fortnightly pattern-sheet supplement with diagrams and directions enables women to cut and make their own gowns, and is of great value to the professional modiste as well as to the amateur dress maker. Children's Clothing receives constant attention. Fashions for Men are described in full detail by a Boston author. Our Paris Letter, by Katharine DeForest, is a sprightly weekly recital of fashion, gossip, and social doings in Paris, given by a clever woman in an entertaining way.

Both the serials for 1896 are the work of American women. Mrs. Gerald by Maria Louise Pool, is a striking story of New England life. Mary E. Wilkins, in Jeome, a Poor Man, discusses the always interesting problems of the relations between labor and capital. Short stories will be written by the best authors.

Special Departments. Music, The Outdoor Woman, Personal, What We Are Doing, Women and Men report and discuss themes of immediate interest. Answers to Correspondents. Questions receive the personal attention of the editor, and are answered at the earliest practicable date after their receipt.

The Volumes of the BAZAR begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Scribner's for Christmas

Frank R. Stockton has a Christmas Love Story which bears a characteristic title.—"The Staying Power of Sir Rohan." Its illustrations are quaint and exactly suitable.

A thrilling Detective story by C. E. Carryll, entitled, "The River Syndicate," perhaps equalling Sherlock Holmes best work. Illustrated.

Joe Chandler Harris' characteristic tale of a faithful slave—"The Colonel's Nigger Dog."

Other Christmas stories are "A White Blot," by Henry Van Dyke, a poetic and imaginative tale of a picture (illustrated); "Herism of Landers," by A. S. Pier (illustrated); and "Hopper's Old Man," by R. C. V. Meyers.

Sentimental Tommy

By J. M. Barrie. Those who have read (and who has not?) "The Little Minister" and "A Window in Thrums" can anticipate what Mr. Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy" will be.

It is to be the chief serial in SCRIBNER'S for 1896, beginning in the January number.

Two Years for $4.50.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE costs $3.00 a year, but new subscribers can have all the numbers for 1895 and a year's subscription for 1896 for $4.50.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE is going to be better next year than ever. It is going to have new features. Its publishers are not satisfied with past successes. It purposes to more thoroughly deserve the confidence of the reading public.

The History Serial "Last Quarter Century in the United States"—will be continued. Just now it is approaching a period of absorbing interest to the present generation—the first administration of President Cleveland.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE ought to get careful consideration as a Christmas gift. The $4.50 offer ought to get double consideration.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, which is a sort of Eifel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

FOR FUTURE CAMPAIGNS. Effective Way for Women to Keep Personalities Out of Politics. "To what am I indebted for the honor of this call?" It was Mrs. Mary Ellen Ricketts who spoke. She held in her hand the card of Mrs. Samantha Jenkinson, which had just been laid on her desk by the office girl, for the card was followed almost instantly by the entrance of the person whose name it bore.

There was really no necessity for the use of the card, either, for the two had frequently met. Mrs. Ricketts was the candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket, while Mrs. Jenkinson was the Democratic nominee. Under the circumstances it was natural for her to be surprised at receiving a call from her opponent. "I came to see you on a small matter of business," replied the visitor. "Pray proceed." "I have learned from good authority that your managers are bent upon a campaign of personalities, and that they intend to give to the press certain slanderous gossip about me intended to injure my candidacy." The speaker paused, and Mrs. Ricketts said interrogatively: "Well?" "Well," echoed Mrs. Jenkinson, "we must keep personalities out of the campaign."

Lowell's Patriotism. The next year he was called to the service of his country whose foundation he had been celebrating in song. He was sent in 1777 as American minister to Spain, where another man of letters, Washington Irving, had preceded him half a century before. In 1880 he was transferred from Madrid to London. No American minister ever made himself more welcome among a foreign people than Lowell was among the British.

Thought She Was Watched. There was a correspondence in the papers some time ago about the cruelty of leaving servants alone in town houses while the family is away at the sea. A curious commentary on the matter has just been supplied by Evelyn's cook, says girl's gossip in Truth. Evelyn left her in town for a fortnight, quite alone, but told her she could have a friend to tea when she liked, and added: "My mother's cook is a very nice, superior woman, and I will ask her to come round and have a cup of tea with you."

Yesterday a man said to me "Where is that place they call Guadalajara?" "It is the capital of the State of Jalisco Mexico, and one of the largest cities in the Republic," said I, promptly. As good luck would have it, I had just got into it in the Rand McNally Railway Guide—Sav. I wouldn't be without that book. For sale by Moore and Wetmore.

CAIARRH SYMPTOMS.

A FEW POINTED QUESTIONS THAT WILL HELP EVERY MAN TO KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT HIMSELF. Have you frontal headache, watery eyes, snuffing or discharge from the nose, scabs in the nose, stopping up of the one or both nostrils, dropping from the back part of nose? Have you any or all these symptoms? If so, you have catarrh of the head.

Have you hoarseness, cough, pain in the chest, weak lungs, much spitting? If so, you have catarrh of the lungs. Have you indigestion, heaviness or pain after eating, changeable appetite, sore stomach, coated tongue? If so, you have catarrh of the stomach? Are you bilious, sallow skin, constipated or irregular bowels, heaviness in the right side, bad breath? If so, you have catarrh of liver.

Huxley and Gladstone. There was—perhaps there still is—in England a metaphysical club, of which Huxley and many other eminent persons were members. They met once a month to discourse of these high matters. Mr. Gladstone was one. There is no known object on which the great parliamentarian is not ready to enlarge with copious confidence.

World-wide dyspepsia is practically unknown, and that is the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, N. Y. These good people have been studying the subject of digestion for more than a hundred years, and that they understand it pretty thoroughly, is evidenced in the foregoing fact. Their Digestive Cordial is the safest and best remedy in cases of indigestion that we know of.

Sweet Facts About Air. The celebrated chemist of the sixteenth century who argued that it would be impossible for us to live on the earth's surface if the atmosphere should suddenly increase to twice its present thickness could not have been far wrong after all—that is, if the experiments of Dr. Arnott are to be taken as conclusive. In his observations on atmospheric pressure at the bottom of the deep mining shafts of Europe, Prof. Arnott has found that the change between the readings of a barometer at the bottom of a 4,000-foot shaft and one at the surface is great enough to warrant him in making the statement that air at the bottom of a shaft twenty miles deep would be as dense as water.

The Rolling Passion. The sufferer slowly raised his eyelids. "Where am I?" he asked. "You were run into by another bicyclist," answered the attendant. Later, when he was about to breathe his last, he asked in a touching manner: "What was the name of his machine?"—Exchange.

GLAVE IN MID AFRICA.

One of the Last Letters Written by the Brave Young Explorer. The October Century contains a tribute by Robert Howard Russell to the late E. J. Glave, who died in Africa while conducting an expedition to investigate the slave trade for the Century Magazine. The following letter is quoted, written from Lake Bangweolo: "There is no postoffice at above address. I must carry this letter myself for another 300 miles before I can despatch it. I am just now in a very wild part of Central Africa. I am traveling up between the Luapula river and the Bangweolo lake, toward Lake Moero. Upon reaching this I shall turn to the east again, and strike the south end of Tanganyika; thence I cannot say for certain, but I hope to descend the Congo and come out on the west coast. I have covered a lot of new ground, and got together a budget of manuscript, new, and I think of some value as throwing considerable light upon the slave trade. I have had splendid hunting—baggins lion, zebra, eland and all sorts of buck antelope. I have kept fifty men supplied with fresh meat for three months, besides feeding many a hungry native. My journey has thus far been most successful, in so far that I have not had the slightest trouble with any chief or his people. I have succeeded in making friends everywhere. My men, a rag-tag-and-bobtail lot, have behaved splendidly, but I am not out of the woods yet. I shall have a fine collection of photographs if I get out all right—some of considerable value. I feel confoundedly lonely at times without a white companion, and I have not spoken any English for months. My object all along has been to do a share toward the suppression of slavery, and the information I have gathered on this trip in regard to the subject will to some extent aid the cause. I should like to return to Africa, to this section of the continent, and take some active part in the suppression of slavery. I have now only four rifles besides my personal weapons; but with 300 rifles I could rid the whole land between Lake Nyassa and Bangweolo on the west of lawless slave raiders. With my present information, I know where the murderous crews could be hit the hardest. The cattle plague has played dreadful havoc among the domestic and wild animals throughout Central Africa. A year or two ago vast herds of buffalo roamed throughout the country I have traversed but I have not seen a single one. I have also been unfortunate in the failing to see a rhinoceros, although I have seen their tracks dozens of times, some quite fresh, which I followed, but with no success. Twice in the journey the grass has been covered with frost in the morning—very miserable for my poor blacks, with their bare feet and legs, and only flowing rags around their loins; but as soon as the sun is up the air becomes more genial. I have enjoyed remarkably good health, and I feel that I am as tough as piano wire. To be constantly among these native tribes is not a cheerful existence for a lone white man. They are a cruel, merciless lot, grasping in all their dealings, and absolutely untruthful; yet, withal, they are a poor, persecuted people, and when subjected to humane government they may be wonderfully improved."

Mr. Wm. Williams, Vicksburg, Mich. says: "I verily believe 'Africanus, Wheeler's Heart and Nerve Cure' to be the most reliable remedy for heart irregularities that has ever been given to the public. Sold by all druggists.

Sam's Ravages in Africa. Bishop Tugwell, of western Africa, has sounded a cry of alarm concerning the ravages of rum among the natives of western equatorial Africa. He says that gin and rum are being poured into that country in alarming quantities, and in some places where there is a rich trade in native products European manufacturers are hardly to be seen. They have been driven out by the traffic in strong drink. Its effects upon the people are disastrous in the last degree; in some cases it is actually destroying the excellent work of missions. He points out that the result must be the utter destruction, unless the traffic is checked, of the African races and of European commerce as well.

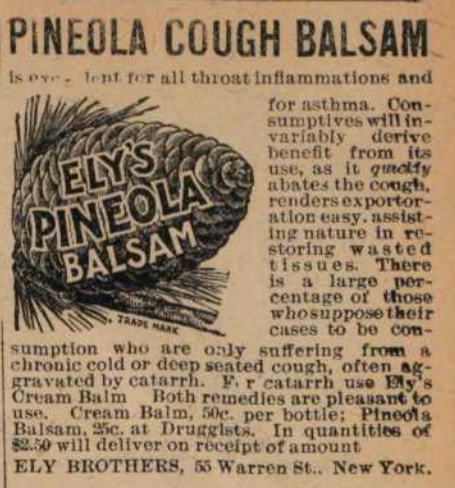

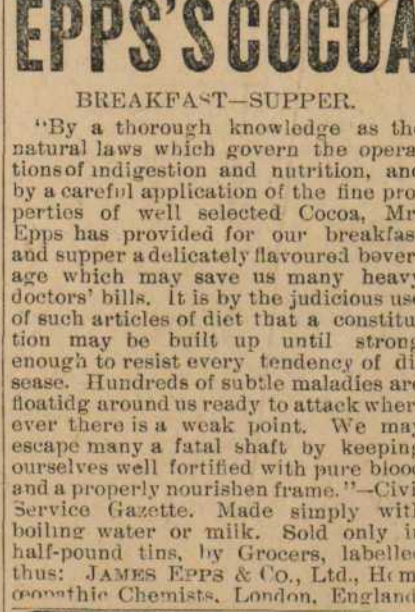

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria. Makes More Wrinkles. Mrs. Bibbs—This paper says that walking in the rain without an umbrella will remove wrinkles. Mr. Bibbs—Well, it won't, not if you are walking in the rain without an umbrella because your friend has stolen your umbrella.

Demand Creates Value. An advance of over 30 per cent in the price of raw silk has taken place during the past year. During the last fiscal year American manufacturers used 9,614,003 pounds of raw silk, and they are steadily supplanting foreigners in supplying the silk goods used in this country. In cases of burn, scalds, or any of the other accidental pains likely to come to the human body, Dr. Thomas Electric Oil gives almost instant relief.

Heart Hint. He (at 11 p. m.)—"Well, misery loves company, you know." She (repressing a yawn)—"Not at this hour, I think."—Detroit Free Press.

Heart Disease Cured By Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

Fainting, Weak or Hungry Spells, Irregular or Intermittent Pulse, Fluttering or Palpitation, Choking Sensation, Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Feet and Ankles, are symptoms of a diseased or Weak Heart. FORT WAYNE, IND., writes on Nov. 29, 1904: "I was afflicted for forty years with heart trouble and suffered untold agony. I had weak, hungry spells, and my heart would palpitate so hard, the pain would be so acute and torturing, that I became so weak and nervous I could not sleep. I was treated by several physicians without relief and gave up ever being well again. About two years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. One bottle of the Heart Cure stopped all heart troubles and the Restorative Balm did the rest, and now I sleep soundly and attend to my household and social duties without a care.
