

A STRANGE WILL.

A FORMER ANN ARBOR LADY WILLS HER BODY

To be Dissected—Died in Greeley, Colorado—Mrs. Marsh, Formerly Miss Eastman, of This City, is the Woman—Gave All Her Property to the U. of M.—Wanted Her Remains to Come Here to the Homeopathic Department—Decided it Was too far to Send It.

A strange story comes from Greeley, Colorado, of a former Ann Arbor lady. Many of our older citizens will remember Miss Anna E. P. Eastman who came to Ann Arbor with her mother some 40 years ago. Miss Eastman went to Detroit in 1860 and taught in the schools until 1868. She then returned to Ann Arbor and taught in the city schools until 1877. She then entered the Homeopathic department and graduated in 1879. She and her mother then removed to Greeley, Colorado, where Miss Eastman soon married Dr. Marsh, of that city.

The following, from a recent issue of The Daily News of Denver, Col. will be read with interest by Ann Arbor people:

"In the dissecting room of the State University, Stout and Eighteenth-sts., upon a wooden slab, reclines a ghastly figure. To a person unaccustomed to gruesome sights the spectacle revealed upon opening the Stout-st. door of the institution will cause a shudder to run over the body. The mortal remains of Mrs. Annie E. Marsh, late a physician and wife of Dr. Marsh, of Greeley, lie stretched out full length upon a board while the head of the form is sawed in two horizontally, the upper five inches of the skull snapped exactly like a half gourd, reposing by the inanimate form.

"According to the terms of a will, Mrs. Marsh bequeathed her remains to the medical students of Denver to be utilized for scientific purposes. The State University has just come into possession of the cadaver and the students will immediately begin the work of dissection. After a thorough examination of the different parts of the body the skeleton will be carried under the direction of Dr. Burnham and the portions thereof articulated.

"The late Mrs. Marsh was a native of Michigan. Her father occupied a prominent Presbyterian pulpit and she was brought up according to the Presbyterian form of belief. In younger days Mrs. Marsh, whose name at that time was Eastman, was educated as a teacher in the public schools of Michigan, and taught in the different institutions for several terms.

"Later she took up the study of medicine at the Ann Arbor, Michigan, University, and soon after graduated with high honors in the homeopathic department. In the year 1879 Miss Eastman came to Denver and at once began the practice of medicine. A year later she met and married Dr. Marsh, the well known practitioner of Greeley. Soon after the wedding ceremony the pair took up their abode at Greeley and practiced together at that place up to within the last two weeks. About one year ago Mrs. Marsh executed a will by the terms of which her property, which she had accumulated while in Colorado was bequeathed to the Ann Arbor University, with the exception of her residence at Greeley. Her possessions included lands in Colorado, Phoenix, Ariz., and in the East, besides considerable property and notes of great value. The Michigan University, however, was the sole devisee, outside of her husband, of her entire estate. A very singular clause was inserted in the will. It provided that after death the remains were to be sent to the homeopathic department of the Ann Arbor University, for the purpose of enlightening the minds of the students of the human body. She expressly stated that her strange action in thus disposing of her mortal remains was for the purpose of aiding science in her researches.

"Soon after signing the will, the idea of conveying the remains to Ann Arbor met with disfavor, owing to the distance and the expense attached to it. She therefore told her husband, some time before her death that her body was to be sent to Denver for dissection and cremation instead of to Michigan. If the students of this city do not utilize the remains for the advancement of science, she gave it as her express wish that her remains should be cremated.

Secretary Wade states that the University has received no information as to Mrs. Marsh having willed any property to the U. of M. further than the information as given above. He is of the opinion, however, that there is some foundation for the report. As to the extent of Mrs. Marsh's gift to the University there is, of course, no means of knowing.

Sudden Death of E. & G. Gidley.

Tuesday evening's News contained the following notice of the sudden death from heart failure of Mr. E. B. Gidley, of Grand Rapids, Mich., formerly of this city, also of the sudden death of his wife's sister from the same cause while on the way to Grand Rapids to attend the funeral.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 3.—Edwin B. Gidley, formerly a well-known Ann Arbor lawyer, had an attack of heart failure in the U. M. C. A. rooms Sunday night and died on the way home. In the morning a telegram announcing his death was sent to his wife's sister, Mrs. Frank Smith, of Brighton. Mrs. Smith died of heart disease in the depot, waiting for the train to Grand Rapids.

A GREAT CONCERT.

The Aeolian to be Attached to the Columbian Organ.

Tomorrow night there will be given a novel concert at University Hall. It will be upon the Columbian Organ played by means of the Aeolian attached to it. The concert will be given by the Farrand and Votey Co. who built the organ. In their announcement of the concert they make the following statement concerning the Aeolian attachment.

The Aeolian Attachment, which can be applied to Electric organs built by the Farrand & Votey Organ Co., consists of an air-tight box about two feet long and one foot square; within this box is placed a device for making electrical contacts through the medium of a small roll of perforated paper only ten inches wide, and yet which comprises the full compass of the organ key board. This box is attached to the organ by cables (one for each manual and pedal), of 61 small copper wires connected to the main Junction plate of the instrument, and interferes in no way with its operation by means of the keys.

The roll of paper is placed in a box, a door with glass panel closed, the closing of which operates to open a small valve admitting compressed air conducted by a flexible tube from the bellows, to the chamber in which the roll is placed. A small pneumatic motor is then started, which causes the paper to be drawn along over a channel board containing as many channels as there are keys to the organ. As the perforations in the paper communicate with the corresponding channel, or channels, in the board, compressed air is admitted, which, through the medium of a very small pneumatic, makes an electrical contact thereby producing the same result, as far as sounding the pipes is concerned, as would the depressing of the keys.

The program which will be rendered on this occasion is given below and as is evident will show the capacity of the attachment.

PART I.

1. Fugue in G minor, J. S. Bach.
2. Overture, "Rienzi," R. Wagner.
3. Scenes Pittoresques, Marche. Air du Ballet, Angelus, Fete Boehme, J. Massenet.
4. Murillo—Allegro de Concert, Terschak.
5. Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2, F. Liszt.
6. Scherzo, "Midsummer Night's Dream," Mendelssohn.
7. Overture, "Flying Dutchman," R. Wagner.

PART II.

1. First Orchestral Suite, Allegro, Adagio, Scherzo, Allegro Final, C. W. Henrick.
2. Funeral March and Chant Seraphic, Alex. Guilmant.
3. Henry VIII Music Intermezzo, Graceful Dance, E. German.
4. Overture, "Tannhauser," R. Wagner.
5. Les Preludes, F. Liszt.
6. Fantasia Brilliant—Themes from "Faust," Sidney Smith.
7. Jubilee Overture, C. M. v. Weber.

After the regular Programme has been rendered, those of the audience who desire to do so are invited to inspect the instrument and to ask any special selection they may desire to hear. The price of admission to the concert has been fixed at 50c.

Grand Army Evening.

The Grand Army entertainment at the Unitarian Church Monday evening was largely attended. The program was arranged and the entertainment was under the direction of Captain Wm. K. Childs. Mr. Saunders account of his experience in rebel prisons was graphic and interesting to those who heard him, but unfortunately his voice did not fill the house and many were unable to hear at all. Col. Dean gave a clear and forceable description of the Purpose of the Grand Army Organization which must have impressed the audience with a high opinion of its merits.

The poem, "A Michigan home during the war" was very finely read by Mr. Childs and "We are Coming Father Abraham 300,000 More" by Mrs. Ticknor. The music by the Unitarian Church choir was very fine, especially the song entitled "Tenting on the old Camp Ground." Great credit is due to Welen Post of the Grand Army for its interest in, and to Captain Childs for his management of the affair.

Death of Mrs. Childs.

Mrs. Hannah F. Childs, widow of the late Hon. Aaron Childs, died at her residence in Augusta, on Wednesday night, Feb. 26th, after a protracted illness of more than ten years.

She came with her husband from New England at an early day in the States history. Five children survive her, Col. J. W. Childs, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Robert Campbell and W. K. Childs, of this city, E. M. Childs and Miss Alma C. Childs, of Augusta.

Herson, Capt. L. E. Childs, died a few years since from the effect of a wound received at the battle Chicamunga. Her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Osborn, of Grand Rapids, about the same time was a woman marked refinement and integrity, beloved by all who knew her. A devoted Christian and charitable even to self sacrifice.

Not only was Mrs. Childs strongly endeared with the puritanic traits of her ancestors, but also that of patriotism, her grandfather having participated in the war of the revolution, and three of her sons in the war of the Rebellion. She was eighty-one years of age, and she leaves a large circle of friends to mourn her loss.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

A Leap Year Party the Social Event of the Season.

Last Saturday was a red letter day for the ladies of the U. of M., and for the fund being raised for the ladies' gym. Between three and four hundred couples were in attendance. The ladies had arranged every detail of the affair in an admirable manner and, at the same time, had curtailed every possible expense in order to net as large an amount as possible for the gym. The chaperons, twenty-two in number, represented the Board of Regents and the great social lights of the faculty. Although playing in a new role they acted their parts admirably, contributing much to the success of the affair. They were Regents Dean, Cook, Cocker and Barbour, and Professors D'Ooge, M. E. Cooley, Denison, Prescott, Knowlton, Rofe, Walters, Hudson, Pattengill, Fitzgerald, Copeland, McLaughlin, Pettee, de Pont, Patterson, Stanley, Hall and Nancrede. The only ones who were permitted to indulge in the luxury of hacks were the chaperons whose patent leathers were too delicate to be permitted to touch the ground. Free music was furnished by the Chequamegon, free decorating was done by Stabler, free hacks for the chaperons were furnished by Holmes and Robinson. Dancing was begun at about half-past two and continued until six o'clock. The programs, which were hand-painted affairs, contained twenty regular and five extras. Special arrangements were made for those who did not care to dance, card tables and social games being provided. The net proceeds, which will go to swell the fund for the woman's gym, will be about $600.

NEW QUARTERS.

The Ann Arbor Light Infantry to Have a New Armory

The Light Infantry has decided upon an important move in regard to its location in the future. It has recently leased the Palace Rink, and will entirely remodel it for the especial use of the company.

The outside front of the building will be changed some and painted. Inside, the south end will be partitioned off 28 feet from the front and divided into a hallway 10x28 feet running from the present entrance to the drill hall, passing the doors leading to the officers' room, next to the drill room, which will be 22x16 feet, and the non-commissioned officers' room 22x12 feet. The privates' room 28x28, will be located in the southwest corner. These rooms are to be used during parties for ladies' and gentlemen's cloak and dressing rooms, and all are to be provided with the necessary conveniences for such use.

The drill room, 102x60 feet, will be finished off in a neat tint a balcony 4x 104 feet, will run along the west side with stairways at each end. All the work is to be plain and practical—nothing elaborate, but strictly conforming to its uses, and will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000.

This is a change that the needs of the company demanded long ago, but which they have never been able heretofore to make. The drill hall which will be possible in the rink will enable the company to go through many evolutions which heretofore they have never been able to practice. It is expected that the opening to be given by the company upon its removal to its new quarters will take place on the evening of April 8.

To The Teachers And School Officers of Michigan.

In order to awaken an interest in the beautifying of rural school grounds, the State Agricultural College offers to the first ten school districts in each county to aid in instilling in the pupils a love of flowers and regard for the appearance of the grounds about the schoolhouses, as we believe that it will not only aid in cultivating in them a love of the beautiful, but it will be a means of interesting them in the work of the school room.

They will be selected with reference to their adaptability for the purpose and will be accompanied by directions for their planting and care.

We urge all persons interested in the schools, or in the welfare of the children to aid in instilling in the pupils a love of flowers and regard for the appearance of the grounds about the schoolhouses, as we believe that it will not only aid in cultivating in them a love of the beautiful, but it will be a means of interesting them in the work of the school room.

Applications should be made as promptly as possible, as we cannot promise to honor any received after the first of April. The seeds with full directions will be sent about April 15.

Gentlemen:—After suffering for a number of years from catarrh and trying almost every cure I could hear of, I was persuaded to try your catarrh remedy, and I am glad to say that after taking two bottles I was entirely cured, I would cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering from catarrh as I am sure it will cure others.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. W. DAKE.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Dear Sirs:—I was troubled with catarrh for a number of years. I tried physicians and different remedies without getting permanent relief. Warner's Catarrh Remedy was recommended to me by one who was cured of chronic catarrh with your medicine. The first bottle I took stopped the dropping in my throat, and I must admit that three bottles positively cured me of catarrh of the head and stomach. In conclusion I will say that I most cheerfully recommend Warner's Catarrh Remedy to all who may be troubled with catarrh in any form. BENJAMIN GLASSFORD.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:—Having had catarrh for over twenty-five years, and spent several hundred dollars with the best physicians, and different remedies, without getting permanent relief, after taking two months treatment with your catarrh remedy, can state that I now feel perfectly well, and I most cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering with that dreaded disease in any form. Yours, very respectfully,
PUSEY W. MOORE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 28, 1894.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:—My experience with Warner's Catarrh Remedy has been so satisfactory that I most cheerfully recommend its use to anyone who needs a throat application or has catarrhal trouble.

Yours truly,
F. T. McOMBER.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 12, 1894.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:—I wish to state that I have been bothered for several years with a bronchial catarrh which has been a constant annoyance in speaking and singing. I was so bad last summer that my voice almost failed me. I could not use my voice in singing, and only in moderate speaking for some time. I have used a great deal of medicine, and several remedies warranted specifics for the trouble, but found no relief until I used your remedy. I can now use my voice for singing and anticipate a complete cure through the use of your remedy. You have my permission to refer in the matter as you may see fit. Very truly yours,

CHAS. W. MELLOR.

266 N. College Ave.

Ann Arbor, Mich., September 23, 1895.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:—Your catarrh cure is all right, as my son has tried it and it has helped him wonderfully, and I feel sure it will cure him by the time he takes another bottle.

Respectfully,
JAMES B. WILLIS.

The Washtenaw Evening Times says of Mr. Warner and his remedy:—

"C. C. Warner is having splendid success with his new catarrh remedy, and though he has done practically no advertising at all reports that the sale is increasing so rapidly that he expects to soon be obliged to rent a building for the sole purpose of manufacturing the remedy. The Times congratulates Mr. Warner on his success, which is well deserved. The remedy is certainly a good one for there are numbers of well-known and prominent people right here in Ann Arbor who have been cured of long standing cases of catarrh. They are so well pleased with their cure that they give Mr. Warner considerable very valuable advertising by telling of the efficacy of Mr. Warner's remedy in their cases. Among those who have been cured of catarrh here may be mentioned, F. T. McOmber and C. W. Mellor. Mr. Mellor's case was an especially bad one it compelling him to give up his singing last year. The Times hopes to see Mr. Warner succeed in building up a fine business, for the good character of his remedy certainly deserves to bring him success."

Now the important question is, Have You the Catarrh? The time to Cure it is RIGHT NOW and, if you will believe your neighbors, whom you know are honest, you will use WARNER'S CATARRH REMEDY because it cures. For Sale by all Druggists. Manufactured by WARNER CATARRH CURE CO., Ann Arbor, Michigan.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

[OFFICIAL.]

COUNCIL CHAMBER,
Ann Arbor, March 2nd, 1896.

Regular session.
Called to order by President Hiscock.
Roll called. Quorum present.
Absent, Ald. Coon, Cady.
The journal of February 17th, 1896, was approved.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE MAYOR.

Ann Arbor, Mich.,
February 18, 1896.

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor:

Gentlemen:—The resolution passed by your honorable body at your last session ordering the printing of the report of the Board of Public Works in pamphlet form and placing the distribution of the same in the hands of said board I hereby disapprove of, for the following reasons:

Such publication is not warranted by the city charter, which on page 75, Section 41, prescribes the manner in which such reports shall be published, namely, in the official newspaper of the city.

I consider the report to be in no shape to be presented to your honorable body, much less to be published and presented to the public who know nothing of the inside workings of the board. It is sadly misleading and unreliable. It has the appearance of unloading onto the common council the accumulations of a year's mismanagement.

I call your attention to the third section on page three, which reads as follows: "It has always been customary for the board to clean the streets, clear the sidewalks of snow and purchase gravel from cellars when the same could be obtained cheaply, without an express order from the council in each particular case. This board has followed that custom in those matters, although in so doing we have since discovered that we exceeded our authority. All other expenditures have been at your special direction." Is your honorable body ready to approve this section and allow the board, after a year of alleged reckless squandering of the people's money, to unload the whole responsibility and place it upon you? I would advise the striking of this section from the report and not allow such a charge to go into print, much less to be distributed broadcast by the party unloading.

Your honorable body is informed by this report that individuals have encroached upon lands belonging to the city and recommends that the necessary steps be taken to enforce "in a systematic and effective manner the recovery of said lands." Why do they not state where these lands are, and why they blocked the City Attorney in his efforts to open these streets, when he made the effort last season? This section should be stricken out.

I fail to see in what way the people are to be benefited by publishing the board's eulogy of its employees. Gentlemen, I cannot believe that your honorable body has ever been to blame for all the blunders of the last year, that you are to blame for the present condition of our streets and the spending of all this money we hear so much about, but after all if this board and its employees are the embodiment of perfection, as all this gush on pages 29 and 31 would indicate, then it must be so.

I also call your attention to that part of an article under the heading "Brick Sidewalks" on page five of the report, which reads as follows: "Great care was exercised in the selection of these brick to secure suitable material at a minimum cost. Out of some 15 or 20 samples and bids submitted the Athens Paving Blocks, manufactured at Athens, Ohio, was selected. This brick was not only the cheapest per square yard offered, but was the only brick we could secure under a guarantee of not more than one per cent. of absorption of moisture in 24 hours, and not more than 12 per cent. of abrasion."

Now, gentlemen, this may be a very fine thing for the Athens Paving Block Co., and coming in the manner and from the source it does would be an advertisement for them worth a great deal of money, but while it would work a great benefit to the Athens company what about the 15 or 20 firms manufacturing equally as good paving blocks, who also sent in their bids and samples? It looks to me as though the city was asked to advertise the Athens Paving Block Co.

I am in favor of publishing in the official papers of the city the reports of the various boards so far as the same are of interest to the citizens, but am not willing to spend any money in printing personal eulogies of the employees of the city government. Their good works should speak for themselves.

I am not in favor of publishing this report in pamphlet form.

W. E. WALKER, Mayor.

Filed February 20th, 1896.

Glen V. Mills,
Clerk.

Whereupon the resolution failed to pass over the veto of the Mayor as follows:

A communication from D. McGregor offering to put a fire alarm system in the city of Ann Arbor was read and referred to the Fire Department Committee.

NEWSY NOTES OF PEOPLE AND THINGS OF MICHIGAN.

Port Huron Suffers a Heavy Loss by Fire

Michigan Foresters' Convention at Lansing—Republican Convention Date Changed.

Michigan Foresters.

Every subordinate court in the state was represented at the annual meeting of the Michigan High Court of Foresters at Lansing. In his annual address, the high chief ranger, Lee E. Joslyn, of Bay City, stated that the membership had increased from 863 in 1890 to 9,010 Jan. 1, 1896. The net increase last year was 1,117. Secretary Chambers reported 217 subordinate courts in the state, 21 having been instituted, five suspended and two consolidated during the year. The receipts were $9,068.33, and balance $1,923.41, the largest for three years. The amount paid Michigan beneficiaries last year was $59,500. The election resulted in the victory for the so-called administration ticket as follows: High chief ranger, Lee E. Joslyn, of Bay City; vice ranger, M. M. Callaghan, of Reed City; secretary, John Chambers, of Port Huron; treasurer, O. A. Taggett, of Caro; physician, O. H. Moon, of Howell; organizer, A. A. Weeks, of Grand Rapids; counselor, J. L. Starkweather, of Romeo; auditors, John A. Bailey, of Detroit, and W. A. Oldfield, of Port Sanilac.

Royal Templars of Temperance.

The fifteenth meeting, but the first biennial session, of the Michigan grand council, Royal Templars of Temperance, was held at Detroit. Grand Councilor L. W. Robinson, of Battle Creek, reported a membership of about 1,000 in Michigan and 50,000 in the United States. The treasurer stated that there was a balance of $450 on hand. During the year there were six deaths among the Michigan membership. In sick benefits $150 was paid out. Officers elected: Grand councilor, L. D. Randall, Grand Rapids; grand vice councilor, Mrs. E. E. Knapp, Howell; grand chaplain, Mrs. L. E. Brown, Greenville; grand secretary, Miss Josie M. Bishop, Battle Creek; grand treasurer, G. W. Howe, Port Huron; grand herald, G. W. Hazen, Jackson; grand guard, Z. W. Gooding, Belding; grand sentinel, B. S. Colvin, Grand Rapids; grand medical examiner, Dr. O. H. Lau, Detroit; representative to supreme council, L. W. Robinson, of Battle Creek.

Three Children Burned to Death.

Theodore Rose, a farmer near Lambertville, left his home for his daily work. Shortly afterwards his wife locked up the house to go and visit her mother who lived some 40 rods distant, leaving her three little children alone. While they were talking the mother looked out of the window and to her horror discovered her home in flames. The poor woman ran as fast as she could to save her children but when she arrived the house was a mass of flame with the roof falling in. Neighbors and other were attracted to the scene but owing to the intense heat nothing could be done to save the little ones. The parents were distracted their way to the burning building. The youngest child was only 9 months old and the eldest but 5 years.

Young Mosher Charged With Embezzling

Pursuant to expectations, Alfred Mosher, Jr., was arrested at Bay City on the charge of embezzlement, preferred by Bertram P. Whedon. Police Justice Kelley fixed the bail at $3,000, which was furnished immediately. Mosher appears to treat the charges very lightly, and expects to show that his handling of the money was without any criminal intent. Whedon and Mosher have been fast friends for 10 years. They were almost inseparable, being associated in business deals and society functions. Their wives were very intimate, and their falling out was caused by Mosher filing mortgages without securing Whedon, whose firm was obliged to file a mortgage a short time ago as a result of Mosher & Co.'s failure.

$100,000 Fire at Port Huron.

Fire started in the basement of the Bryce block at Port Huron and caused a loss of $100,000. The flames were confined to one block, owing to the energetic efforts of the firemen. Meisel & Bro., dry goods dealers, are the principal losers. Their loss will aggregate $60,000, with an insurance of $40,000. M. G. Young, shoe dealer, lost $7,000; insured. The Port Huron Guards had $2,000 worth of property in the basement, insured for $1,500. The block which was owned by Harvey Bush, was valued at $20,000; insurance, $15,000. The third floor of the block was occupied as living rooms by A. Morgan, photographer. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were almost suffocated.

Some Owosso Factories in Trouble.

When the Ann Arbor road was built Owosso gave the company several acres of valuable land, some of which was used as sites for shops and the remainder was released by the company to various institutions, one condition of the lease being that the firms should do a certain amount of shipping over the Ann Arbor line each month. The conditions in some of these contracts have not been fulfilled, and the consequence the Owosso Electric Co., the Owosso Lumber & Fuel Co., and the general produce firm of Aiken & Whelan have all been notified to vacate at once. The Owosso Electric Co. have an expensive plant.

Allen Clark, an aged Van Buren county farmer, fell from his sleigh at Decatur and received fatal injuries.

Evart Takken, a blacksmith at Holland, was crushed to death beneath a wagon which fell while he was repairing it.

THE Review of Reviews for Feb. contains an article which, in compass of two pages, makes perhaps the most telling and effective exposure of the recent Turkish massacres that has yet been attempted in the English language.

THE BELLIGERENCY OF CUBA.

THE recognition of the Cuban patriots as belligerents will have the effect of a notification to General Weyler that his policy of treating his opponents as bandits will be regarded with marked disfavor by the United States.

It will have the further effect of making an open market in the United States for the sale of provisions and munitions of war to the Cubans on precisely the same terms as to the Spaniards.

The resolutions before Congress are not easily misunderstood. They express a desire for the continuance of friendly relations between Spain and the United States, but they express with equal plainness a desire that Cuba shall be governed by officers chosen by Cubans.

The local union has decided to take up the course of study arranged by the Michigan W. C. T. U. It comprises lessons on the Bible, Civil Government, Scientific Temperance Instruction and History.

Miss Willard and Miss Anna Gordon's tour through the southern states will mark a new era in the opening out of the white ribbon work among the Southerners. We are watching their progress with interest, and hoping to have them in Ann Arbor in April.

VALUE OF PHOTOGRAPHY.

Photography has broadened in usefulness. It goes to the bone now. But a still more important discovery is by a woman; she determined that her husband should know how he looked when drunk. He found a photo by his plate one morning studied it long and hard, put it in his breast pocket and has not been drunk since.

THE MOTHER'S FRIEND.

The "Mother's Friend," published by Dr. Mary Wood-Allen in Ann Arbor, which came into existence a year ago as the official organ of the purity department of the W. C. T. U., has grown larger and better, and now has changed its name to "The New Crusade."

BEER!

In one of Chicago's Sunday-schools recently a young lady teacher was laboring with a score of youngsters of the male persuasion and was having rather a hard time in keeping track of them. She found it next to impossible to fix their mischievous minds on the lesson and was compelled to resort to a rambling, story-telling kind of talk to keep them half way in order.

AN UGLY CHAIN.

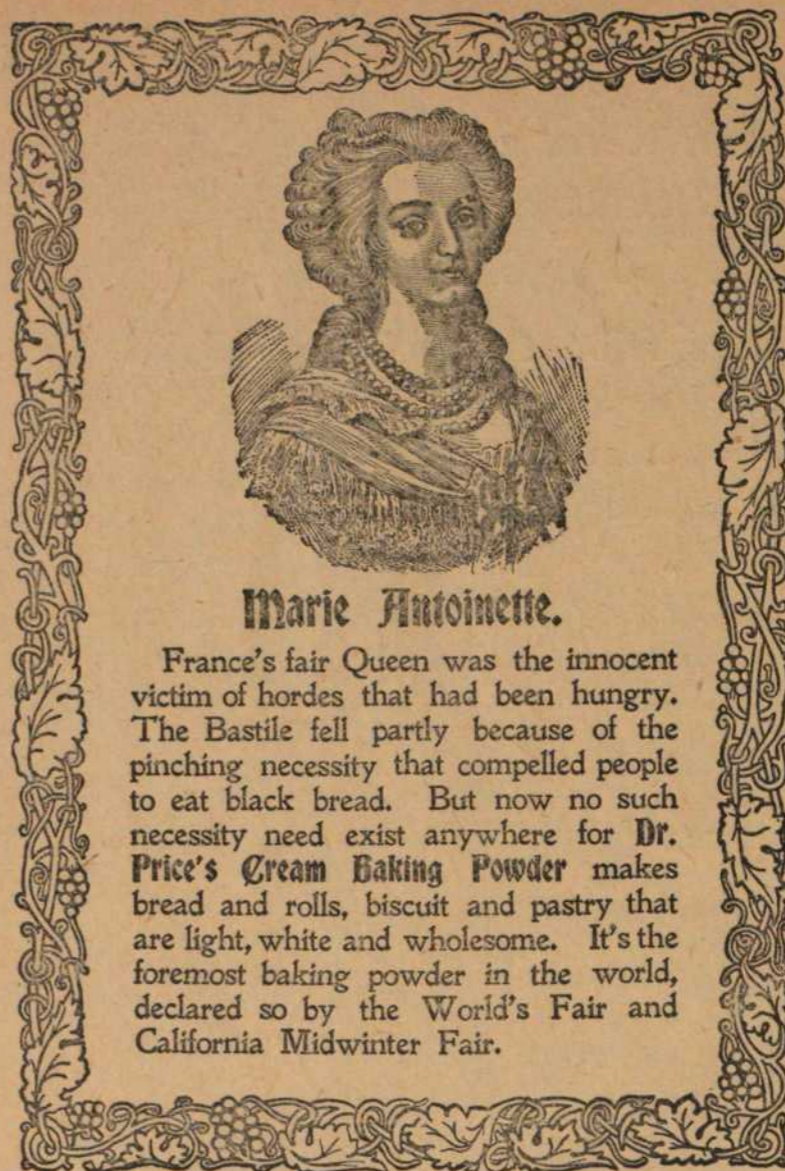

There are no more forceful utterances apropos of the great cause than those of Col. George W. Bain. In a public lecture he said: "Take out every saloon and put a school in its place, take out every brewery and put a W. C. T. U. in its place, take out every distillery and put a church in its place and this would soon be the wealthiest and most prosperous nation on the face of the earth."

THE WAX CANDLE.

Did you ever think how beautiful a thing is a wax candle when lighted? You have seen it standing in a quiet room at twilight, or maybe, upon a church altar. You have noticed how it throws its light softly and steadily through the dark, and even down through its own pure, white body of wax, until it has silently shined itself all away for others.

But did you ever turn a lighted wax candle upside down? If you have, you know it becomes a very different thing. The light is no longer steady and clear; it flashes and sputters, and the wax flows down and feeds the flame, making furrows as it flows. A foul smoke rises and blackens the fair white wax, and the flame—self-destructed—soon flickers and goes out. This also is a picture of life, but of a life inverted, out of God's order.

Marie Antoinette.

France's fair Queen was the innocent victim of hordes that had been hungry. The Bastille fell partly because of the pinching necessity that compelled people to eat black bread. But now no such necessity need exist anywhere for Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder makes bread and rolls, biscuit and pastry that are light, white and wholesome.

Valuable Maps

Messrs. Rand, McNally & Co., of Chicago, the famous map firm, have issued a wall map of this great State, which should be in every home, office and school-room.

This map illustrates the complete system of United States Land Survey, and by a special process of Relief Line engraving presents all the details without confusion.

Each County is clearly shown by different colors and the names printed in large clear type.

Each County Seat is distinctly shown by a special character and the name printed in conspicuous type.

Each Railroad System is correctly represented and named.

The location of every railroad station, post office, and town is plainly designated and can be readily located; as all section lines are clearly delineated, and the township and range numbers are printed in the plainest possible manner.

Rivers, creeks, small lakes, and innumerable details are clearly and correctly located. Taken all in all it is a marvel of beauty.

Notwithstanding the great cost of production the price is as moderate as could be expected. The prices are $2.00 for the paper back wall map, or $3.00 for the cloth back, at which rates they are sent postpaid.

The same firm issues another map which is worth mentioning. It is 66 inches long and 46 inches from top to bottom. One side shows the largest United States map ever printed on one sheet.

The other side shows a similar map of the World. Each of these maps is sold for $5.00 when put up on cloth back, but this one map will be supplied for $2.50 postpaid.

We advise any of our readers who want the best that can be had to write for one or both maps.

Anyone who wants profitable work should write to this firm for agents terms. Good canvassers earn from $15.00 to $35.00 per week.

THE PROMISED LAND.

Why the Tourist, Traveler and Student should visit Utah.

There are two reasons, either one of which ought to be conclusive with every American citizen.

First:—The trip from Denver to Utah via Rio Grande Western, "Great Salt Lake Route," is the grandest to be found anywhere on the continent.

Second:—You should go because, when you have made this wonderful trip, you will find Utah at the end of it.

Utah, one of the world's famous spots and a land of gold, silver, copper, iron and coal; of lofty mountains and fertile valleys; of vineyards, fruits and flowers.

The man who stands idly by and sees the life fading out of his wife's face, sees her health going, sees her becoming old and faded and wrinkled when she should still be in the perfect enjoyment of vigorous, useful health, is either less than a man or else does not know of the one remedy which will bring her back to health and strength. Most women do not understand their own bodies, or the things that make them well or sick. The most frequent cause of sickness in women is the cause last looked for. A woman will go to a doctor when she has a severe cold, or some acute digestive disturbance, but she hesitates and procrastinates when the trouble is with the distinctly feminine organism. And yet the latter is infinitely more serious. It is the most serious sickness that any woman can have. It is the most dreadful—the most dangerous. Its consequences are always serious, and serious right at the beginning because it is debilitating. It saps the life and strength and works on the nerves to such an extent that the whole body is disturbed. Appetite leaves, the color goes from the face and hollows sink into the cheeks. Irritability succeeds good temper and fretfulness takes the place of contentment. Little by little life becomes more and more miserable. The woman is killing herself with neglect just as surely as if she were taking deadly poison. Perhaps her husband cannot persuade her to go to her doctor, because she naturally dreads the inevitable examinations and "local treatments." He can persuade her, if she needs persuasion, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This truly wonderful medicine has cured hundreds of women after the best physicians have failed. It has been in constant use and tested every day for 30 years. It isn't an experiment, there are no chances about it. It is a certain and infallible cure for all derangements peculiar to women. Those who care to know all about it, and to receive the best medical work ever prepared for the general public are invited to send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only and receive a copy of Dr. Pierce's thousand page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser." TEACHERS—Teach your little ones to sing.

Teachers are requested to read the paper of Mrs. Emma Thomas teacher of music in Detroit Public Schools headed, "Music as an Aid to School Government," found elsewhere in this issue and show same to school officers—also write for booklet by Miss Lucy Cole, teacher of music in Ann Arbor Schools, entitled, "How We Teach the Little Ones to Sing."—(FREE.)

We believe music and singing should be taught in every school. That it can be successfully done, and is beneficial to the scholars, is proven by its having been made a feature in the schools of Germany and England for years.

We have in the past and shall in the future offer valuable prizes to those teachers and schools which show sufficient interest in this work to take it up.—Teachers, investigate this subject. You will be surprised at the eagerness and delight manifested by the pupils and more than compensated by the increased interest and zest shown by scholars in their other work.

This is no new idea. The study of music is a recognized feature in all city schools. Why need our district schools be behind in this most beautiful branch of education?

GLIMPSES OF THE DOING OF THE BUSY WORLD.

Dr. Jameson Receives an Ovation at His Trial at London—Cuban Filibusters Fare Badly at the Hands of Uncle Sam.

Rousing Reception to Dr. Jameson.

A great crowd greeted Dr. Jameson, the leader of the Transvaal raid, when he was arraigned at the Bow street police court, London, on a charge of "warring against a friendly state." Fourteen of Dr. Jameson's closest followers had to answer the same charge. Dr. Jameson's entrance to the court was a signal for a remarkable scene. Evidently everyone in the court room was of one mind in sympathizing with him. All were his friends, and all rose and uncovered upon his appearance, giving him hearty cheers. It was in vain that the court officers sought to quell the demonstration. It was evident that, although he was on trial as a criminal, he is in the popular eye a hero and his raid into the Transvaal, far from being viewed as a piratical enterprise, is looked upon as a chivalrous and knightly adventure to succor hard-pressed friends and fellow-countrymen.

After the preliminaries of the hearing Sir John Bridge, chief magistrate, spoke of the seriousness of the charge against the men, but admitted them to £2,000 bail each on their personal recognizance. As Jameson and his men left the building they were given a wild ovation by a waiting mob numbering thousands.

Rebellion in Nicaragua.

The flag of rebellion has once more been raised in Nicaragua and reports received from the north show that the whole district north of Lake Managua is in open rebellion against President Zelaya. Martial law has been proclaimed and the impressing of men into the army is being pushed rapidly. All mail and telegraphic communication between Managua and the disturbed districts have been stopped. Details of the condition of affairs are therefore meagre.

The substance of the demands of the Leonists is a complete revision of the constitution, giving further and more popular representation, and that the constitution in future should contain provisions making it impossible for a dictatorship to be declared.

United States Minister Baker has cabled to Washington requesting that the United States gun vessel Alert be dispatched to Corinto in order to protect the property of the United States citizens.

Cuban Filibusters Captured.

The iron steamer Bermuda, flying the British flag, was boarded and seized by revenue officers off Liberty Island in New York harbor. The Bermuda had been under the watch of Spanish spies for some time under suspicion of carrying a Cuban filibuster expedition. There was evidence that she was preparing for sea and at 11 p. m., just after a large party of Cubans had gone aboard, the revenue cutters Hudson steamed alongside and a boarding party arrested all on the Bermuda. No resistance was offered. Every man was seized. Among the captives was Gen. Garcia's son and several other prominent Cubans. Four bags of gold were seized by the marines and a great quantity of arms and ammunitions.

A. C. Gonzalez, a New York lawyer, connected with the Cuban junta, estimated that the expedition had cost about $100,000. The Cubans, he said, were by no means discouraged however.

3,000 More Armenians Slaughtered.

London: The Anglo-Armenian association has received a telegram from Constantinople which says that 3,000 Armenians have been massacred at Arabkir, and that the widows and orphans of those killed are in terrible distress from cold and hunger. The dispatch also says that the Armenians of Sivas and Cesarea are in daily fear of massacre. Forced conversions to Islamism are general throughout the Asiatic provinces.

London: The Daily News has a dispatch from Constantinople which says that on the first day of the Ramadan festival, the Turks surrounded the Armenian quarter in Marsovan and ordered the Armenians to accept Islam. Five hundred of them agreed to do so, but 150 recalcitrants were killed.

The Chronicle has a dispatch from Constantinople which says that a fresh series of massacres is reported in the Sivas and Kharput districts.

Two Bank Robbers Lynched.

Two heavily armed desperados entered the City National bank at Wichita Falls, Ark., and demanded all the money. Cashier Frank Dorsey attempted resistance and the robbers opened fire killing Dorsey and wounding bookkeeper Langford. Then grabbing a few hundred dollars they galloped away, but citizens pursued and surrounded them in a thicket. After a hot chase the desperados were captured and taken to jail guarded by a strong force of rangers. The rangers were called away by a ruse and a big mob battered the jail doors down and took possession of the prisoners. They were taken to an improvised scaffold in front of the bank and hung. They were identified as Foster Crawford and Younger Lewis, "the kid," cattle thieves and general desperado. The latter died game, but Crawford, an older man, wilted.

The Columbus, Lima & Milwaukee railroad, which was abandoned after 42 miles of roadway had been graded from Chicago to Defiance, O., may be revived by Chicago capitalists and built from Columbus to Bay City via Adrian, with a branch to Detroit, and another to Saugatuck to connect with Milwaukee by steamer. This will connect Michigan with the Ohio and West Virginia coal fields and give the Pennsylvania and B. & O. railroads entrance to Detroit.

A Mechanical Horror.

Here is a description of a most remarkable clock belonging to a Hindoo prince. Near the dial of an ordinary looking clock is a large gong hung on poles, while underneath, scattered on the ground, is a pile of artificial human skulls, ribs, legs and arms, the whole number of bones in the pile being equal to the number of bones in twelve human skeletons. When the hands of the clock indicate the hour of 1 the number of bones needed to form a complete human skeleton come together with a snap. By some mechanical contrivance the skeleton springs up, seizes a mallet, and, walking up to the gong, strikes one blow. This finished, it returns to the pile and again falls to pieces. At 2 o'clock two skeletons get up and strike, while at the hours of noon and midnight the entire heap springs up in the shape of twelve skeletons and strikes, each one after the other, a blow on the gong and then falls to pieces as before.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy, and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are: sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the month, dizziness, biliousness, and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

Ready Wit.

A professor was waiting for a train at a railway station and, having nothing better with which to take up his mind, began chaffing the half-witted fellow who did odd jobs about the place. "I say, Jamy," said the professor in a tone intended to reach the ears of the bystanders, "were you ever at college?" "No, sir," answered Jamy, "but I've been at school."

"Indeed!" said the witty professor. "And who had the honor to be your schoolmaster?" "Maister Black."

"Why," said the wit, "he was my schoolmaster, too!"

"Do tell me!" exclaimed Jamy. "Man, who'd 'a' thought old Black could have turned out two like us?"—Scottish Nights.

Point Scored by Hungarian Women. Women in Hungary will henceforth be allowed to enter the Budapest University and become doctors and apothecaries or study in the philosophical faculty. Business Like. The beggars of Paris are an enterprising body and treat their occupation, if so it may be called, with amusing seriousness. They have a regular directory of benefactors in two editions—a large and small one. These books give the names of persons known to be benevolent, also their religion and political faith; also the hour at which they may be found at home, etc. The "religious racket" is very remunerative. It seems. An old ragpicker at Clichy lately confessed that last winter her child was baptized twelve times in protestant churches and ten times in Catholic ones; each time the mother received one franc and a new dress. When epidemics are raging the beggar asks for contributions on the plea that his or her offspring is down with diphtheria, croup, etc., and many people quickly respond in order to get rid of what they believe to be a very dangerous class of people.

Marvelous Cures.

In a Portland hotel the other evening the conversation turned to the subject of faith cures, magnetic healing, and the laying on of hands. One gentleman related his experience at the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, near Quebec. He vividly pictured the great army of crutches, splints, bandages and the like that were cast aside by the afflicted after experiencing the marvelous cures. "Why, gentlemen," said the narrator, "the blind were made to see, the halt were healed, and the paralytic threw away his wooden support." "I don't doubt it," said a gentleman present. "I was in Canada a few years ago and witnessed the cures made by a magnetic and faith physician there. Why, the main hall of this place was filled with humps that he prayed off the backs of hunchbacks. Each hump was labeled with the owner's residence and date."—Portland Advertiser.

Gov. Morrill on Prohibition.

Governor Morrill of Kansas says he has come to the conclusion that prohibition is not the best system for making people temperate, and he does not think that prohibition ever will prohibit. But he is not opposed to prohibition. He says it has done a great work for temperance in Kansas, but it doesn't prohibit. He thinks State control of the liquor traffic would settle the problem and abolish the saloon. So long as people want liquor they will get it in some way, he says, and he believes the temperance people could accomplish more by moral suasion and co-operation with the State than through prohibition.

Baritone and Tenor.

Recent experiments on the continent of Europe have demonstrated the possibility of a baritone becoming a tenor, by the simple action of inhalations upon the vocal chords. In the case reported the baritone went through a course of inhalations, beginning with benzoin, going to caffeine and chloroform, and ending with curacao. On the other hand, it is said, the voice is deepened by inhalations of volatilized Norwegian tar.

OUT OF HIS WAY

But is Being Led Back.

Editor Stowe of the Michigan Tradesman climbs on the Food Commissioner for his comments on the price of Postum Cereal. Postum was shown by the Commissioner's report to be highly nutritious, but he claimed it was sold for too much money. In his public retraction he states that "no account was taken of the cost of manufacture or the skill and knowledge required in its preparation and many other items of expense necessary to advertise and put the same upon the market." The Chairman of the Postum Cereal Co., of Battle Creek offered to furnish the Commissioner and his state analyst with the Cereals that Postum is made of, and then offered them $1000.00 if they could make it. He stated that a year had been consumed in systematic experiments to produce a choice and delicious beverage of the pure grains, and no fear was entertained that any one could copy the methods employed in treating the grains by various forms of cooking to give the result.

Epicures, who are denied berry coffee because of the serious effects of their health, demand a palatable grain coffee, and Postum seems to fill the need.

Editor Stowe says:

In the name of common fairness and ordinary decency, the Tradesman feels disposed to call a halt. The Food Commissioner was created for the purpose of detecting and punishing adulterations in food. Nothing in the law which created the office authorizes the Commissioner to go out of his way to take up the cause of the consumer against the manufacturer, or take up the cause of one manufacturer against another manufacturer, solely on the ground of economy. Unless the articles are adulterated or sophisticated in such a way as to cheapen them in point of food value, the Commissioner has no business to interfere, and the fact that he does so interfere discloses very plainly, the fact, which the Tradesman has maintained all along, that Mr. Storrs is not a proper person to hold the position of Food Commissioner and that his administration of the office will not only bring disrepute upon him but upon the State as a whole.

There is a principle at stake which Mr. Storrs ought not to and must not, violate, and the Tradesman will be very much mistaken if his action in the premises is not universally condemned by people who love fair play and believe that the man who invests money in a trade mark and in printers' ink, in creating a demand for a meritorious article, has an investment which is just as sacred as though his property were in lands and chattels.

Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives.

The reason people waste away is because either they don't get enough to eat, or they don't digest what they do eat.

If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is made from herbs, barks and the juices of fruit, by the well-known Shakers at Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers.

Shaker Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives (who were really dyspeptics), by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food, thus giving them nourishment and new strength.

Nantucket is famous for auctions. They are held in the public square. Meat auctions, furniture auctions; there are few things one cannot buy at auction if one bids one's time. Whenever an old home is broken up or a resident leaves the island, the unwanted effects are closed out at auction for whatever they will bring. At the last one a refrigerator was put up. "Too late; the season's over!" shouted someone in the crowd. "But there'll be another, and perhaps a hot one," said the auctioneer. "But one may die before that," said the other. "Well," replied the auctioneer, "if you die you'll be sorry that you hadn't bought a refrigerator and taken it along with you."

FAMOUS NATURAL CURIOSITY.

Vermont Has a Well Where Ice Forms at All Seasons.

From the St. Louis Republic: One of the most famous natural curiosities in the United States, the wonderful "frozen well" at Brandon, Vt., is the work of man played upon by a freak of nature. The well was dug in the year 1858, and has been a noted wonder since the first fifteen feet of the excavation was made. It was started in gravel, which extended to a depth of ten feet, where a four-foot bed of sticky yellow clay was encountered. After this clay stratum had been pierced and the total depth of the well was pronounced to be fourteen feet, a deposit of solidly frozen gravel was struck. Work which was done on the well during the next three or four weeks revealed the fact that this glacial deposit was exactly fifteen and a half feet in thickness. After the excavation had been extended through the frozen gravel a layer of sand (unfrozen) was revealed, and it was in this that water was found. A "basin" was then dug out (which gave the well a total depth of thirty-five and a half feet), and the hole was then walled up. Since that time water in this peculiar well has never been more nor less than two feet in depth, and this is always frozen over with a sheet of ice of greater or less thickness. During the summer of 1895 the temperature at the bottom of "Brandon's Frozen Well" was phenomenally low, so low, in fact, that ice at one time formed to the depth of twenty-two inches on the two-foot sheet of water. At all times of the year there is ice from four to eight inches thick on the walls of the well where they come into contact with the frozen stratum.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Look after the Back: A Fall, a Strain, a Constant Sitting or Stooping Position Brings Backache—Do You Know This Means the Kidneys are Affected?

How few people realize when their back begins to ache that it is a warning provided by nature to tell you that the kidneys are not working properly. You have a severe fall, you strain yourself lifting or perhaps you are compelled to maintain a sitting or stooping position for long intervals at a time, your back begins to ache, then your head, you become listless, tired and weary, but do you understand the real cause? We think not, else you would not use plasters and liniment on the back, which only relieve but do not reach the cause. If you would rid yourself of the pain and cure the root of the trouble, at the same time save many years of suffering and perhaps life itself, you will take a kidney remedy that has been tried and proven that it will cure.

Mr. John Robson of 661 Russell Street, Detroit, says: "As a result of exposure during the war I have suffered ever since with rheumatism and kidney trouble. Pains would start in my hip and go around to my back. Highly colored urine denoted kidney disorder. The pain in my back was often so bad I had to give up work until the severity of the attack passed away. I have used many liniments and other things, but received very little relief. Some time ago I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and they have worked a wonderful change in me. My back is all right now and I owe it all to the almost magical influence of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Mr. Robson was a member of the Fifty-first Illinois Regiment, which served through the war with honor and distinction. Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers—price, 50 cents. PROOF AGAINST BULLETS.

Several Veterans Could Not Kill a Prisoner Condemned to Death.

Mexico dispatch to the San Francisco Examiner: The remarkable case of a patient in the San Pablo hospital is attracting attention all over the world. The man was condemned to death some weeks ago in the state of Guanajuato for stealing a large can of kerosene oil. Why so severe a penalty was imposed for so trifling an offense is not stated. When the day of execution arrived he was led out into the suburbs and placed before a brick wall. A squad of state troops was stationed a few paces off. At the word "Fire!" they poured a volley into the poor unfortunate. Then two soldiers advanced until they were standing just over his prostrate figure, and in this position with their revolvers they tried to fire more bullets into the man's brain. The soldiers returned to the garrison, leaving the body to be carried by the prison wagon. When they were well out of sight the man who had been shot struggled to his feet, and, gaining strength from fear, fled. He turned his face toward this city and tramped on and on through his long journey till he reached the capital. Here he was admitted to the San Pablo hospital, where he finally told his story. The narrative was corroborated by three rifle bullets in his body and by a pistol bullet in the skull. It was further substantiated by a claim made by the authorities of Guanajuato to have their ex-prisoner restored to them, that they might make another effort to vindicate the dignity of the law. The prisoner himself pleads to be kept in the capital. He contends that his health has been so impaired of late that his constitution would not support another execution. He urges, moreover, that though he may be getting well again in Mexico city, as far as Guanajuato is concerned he is to all intents and purposes dead. The public appears to concur with the strange patient in his views.

"I contracted a severe cold from wet and an exposure. Bronchitis followed. Doctors failed to relieve me. Several of the members of my family had died of consumption, and I thought I was doomed." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup brought instant relief and perfect cure." M. Unger, Union Corner, Northumberland Co., Pa.

Evolution of the Trained Nurse.
 These are the days of diligent search for the meaning of things, and of reasons for their existence. No new thing rises above the horizon of human observation that is not challenged to give an account of itself; how it came to be and what right it has to be.
 Whatever opinions are held or ignored regarding a First Cause and the ultimate destiny of this material Universe there is nevertheless a steadily growing unanimity of belief among observing and thinking men and women that the Universe exhibits a unity in its diversity, an harmonious adjustment of part to part that leaves no place for accidental happenings.
 It is also becoming a dominate belief in all intelligent minds that what we now see in a stage of development, comparatively advanced, no matter in what department of knowledge we glance, that development has resulted from a gradual process of expansion or unfolding, according to natural law, of that which previously existed only in germ.

The illustration of growth which we have before us each season as the seed is cast into the ground, "first the blade then the ear" and later on "the full corn in the ear" has wider application than the boundaries of the vegetable kingdom. It is a plan of progress whose field of operation is as wide as the Universe itself and its working is exhibited in every order of creation of which the mind of man is cognizant.
 Evolution as the plan according to which the world and all that is therein, is fulfilling its destiny, is a doctrine at the present time all but universally admitted.
 Man, himself, presents no exception to this method of advancement. In the growth of his physical nature it is unmistakable and can be readily demonstrated. He is subject to the same law of development that we see exhibited in plants, and in animals of lower order. In the evolution of this department of man's being it seems quite probable that the world has already beneited the highest type to which he can attain. Man as a perfect animal has no doubt been realized over and over again. But, in its mental and spiritual unfolding, the nature of man is yet in its infancy, and, if the plan of evolution, is to be trusted to expand their fullest possibilities these germ potentialities in his nature (and in the development of these we have no reason to believe the method changes) then, as his function and capacities expand along these lines, in obedience to precedent, we must look to see increase of structure, attend as an indispensable requisite the more highly elaborated function.

As knowledge increases and the sense of duty become clear to adapt that knowledge to the betterment of man's condition, new labors arise proportionately, occupations of a new order multiply, and it takes many to do, what once was rightly thought to be but the work of one.
 With this acknowledgment by way of preface, to the all but universal way of evolutionary method, we are prepared to inquire, somewhat in particular, as to the origin, nature and function of this comparatively recent product of its busy activities—a product that has received our sanction as well as that of others, and has come to stay—The Trained Nurse.
 Whence came she?
 We may say and say truly that the trained nurse is a natural result of that process of development which works toward greater refinement and exactness in detail and is the necessary accompaniment of progress. In the division of labor, which must of necessity take place, if all discoveries of value in sanitary, medical and surgical science are to be adapted to practical life, the physician has found his one body and his one pair of hands insufficient to meet all demands. While he must still be the store-house of all that science and art has revealed as helpful in preventing or arresting disease, or relieving suffering, and must be the moving spirit and guiding hand in its application, yet the imitations of human capacity compel him to call to his aid those to whom the routine of his methods is made known and who, by relieving him of the burden of details, make it possible for him to extend to each of many invalids the most helpful attention that knowledge and skill can furnish. In reality therefore the trained nurse and physician are parts of one body. He is the head, she is the hands. Out of his necessities for greater capacity to do what he has discovered needs to be done, her existence has been created. This is her raison d'être. If we ignore this fundamental relationship between physician and nurse, her presence among us cannot be satisfactorily explained. Severed from his purpose or unresponsive to his will she is an obstruction and an offense, and is to him as a blind eye or paralyzed arm. Being in their proper relationship, one body, they must be fitly joined together, acting in harmony, each aiding the other to effect more happy accomplishment of that which neither singly could do, or at least do so well. If the nurse will ever remember that it is her part to supplement not to supplant the physician in his attendance upon his patient, to study his wishes and express them in her conduct, she will give evidence by so doing that she fully apprehends the genesis of her being, and cannot go far astray from pleasing both physician and patient. With this rational conception of the origin of the trained nurse—that she is involved from the physician's faculties and is an expansion of what exists in him at least in germ—the physician has no right to expect from her what he does not possess in himself. In disposition he must be all that he would have her express. Only lack of time for details and want of skill acquired in the practice of some of them, furnished a sufficient reason for the physician relegating these, his natural duties to the nurse. It is not presumed that she should be required to furnish anything in her service, different in kind, from that which he would give if the nature of the case demanded or could receive his personal attention in every particular. If cleanliness, neatness, orderliness, and thoughtful attention to all things that add to the comfort of the patient are expected of the nurse, they must exist primarily in the physician. If gentleness, tenderness, consideration and sympathy are regarded as part of the proper equipment of the nurse, they should never be wanting in the physician. If self-sacrifice, devotion to duty, singleness of aim—and that aim the welfare of the patient—are in her what are most sought for and most deserving of approval then these are qualities which she would not fail to find in him whose hand-maid and disciple she is and out of whose functions her functions are evolved.

 Nor will the trained nurse look in vain to those sources of her existence for abundant expression of every quality of mind and heart that are needful to construct for herself a perfect ideal.
 The biography of the representative physician, could it ever be fully and faithfully written, would give such examples of unselfish devotion to duty, such unostentatious heroism in braving death, and such unequalled zeal in the pursuit of truth that would prove helpful in relieving the sufferings of his fellowmen, and such constant and untiring efforts in their behalf, that she who read would be filled with enthusiastic admiration of his life and deem herself honored by such a noble ancestor.

Now let us for a moment inquire what are the peculiar functions of the physician that most naturally fall within the sphere of the nurse's duties and, wherein is her individuality exercised?
 She is the medium through which the patient receives all that is deemed necessary and helpful to his comfort and restoration. The routine of attention to diet, medicines, baths, poultices and dressings is within her province. In the administration of these she but follows explicit directions and is allowed but little discretion. The real test of her fitness lies in the skill with which she brings into action the resources of her nature in so performing these duties as to secure from them the desired result. While in the division of labor between her and the physician hers is the work of the hands, and not of the head, yet the hands must be influenced and guided both by the head and heart, and this is her head and her heart, and it is for her to see to it that they are both in harmony with the purpose for which she is chosen. Oftentimes more heart than head is needed to enable the nurse to perform successfully her part, but the demands upon her are so various that neither can be dispensed with.

Everyone knows how much the success of a physician in healing his sick depends upon the feelings which his conduct and manners inspire. They are more than medicine. It is this sphere of influence so important in the physician, that, in the new order of things is largely assumed by the nurse, and when the physician yields to her that important function unless, by that arrangement, the good which it should accomplish is made more constant and effectual there is nothing gained by either his patient or himself.
 But the true nurse is here of inestimable value. We all have our ideal of what the true nurse is. She is the quintessence of all that is angelic. If not absolutely perfect in fact and figure, in manner and deportment she must be faultless. She performs each and every task within the sphere of her duties—no matter how loathsome they are—with promptness and undisturbed serenity. No length of weary watching brings a murmur of complaint. No querulous word or unreasoning act of the sick one awakens a shadow of reproach. Whatever the commotion about her, the anguish, the turmoil, the worldly anxieties, struggles and temptations, she lives in an atmosphere of perfect peace. She is the exemplar of a state where the spiritual has gained ascendancy over the temporal and all sordid aims and ambitions have been laid aside. Of course, this conception is not often realized; ideals seldom are, and yet the world is not surprised, when in the conduct of the nurse, such qualities of mind and heart are exhibited. They seem quite the proper thing in that field of labor. It may be thought by some that we have no more reason to be looking for a larger share of the higher virtues in humanity when clothed in a white muslin cap and blue gingham dress than adorned with silk and laces. But we do, and our sanction for it lies in this, that the functions of the nurse are those which, when rightly apprehended and discharged exhibit to the world, more than other occupations, the divine side of human nature. She is a chosen instrument for bringing to the soul of the sufferer a consciousness of things above and beyond the ordinary conduct of his fellows and awakening him to a knowledge of the existence of forces which, were they given free exercise within himself, would lift him to higher places of thought and action, where much of the mental and bodily misery which now afflict us are unknown. Our own poet, the physicians poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, has in rare verse given emphasis to the quality and value of this element of the physician's art, which in modern times is left to its expression so largely to the nurse.

To give the draught that cools the lips that burn,
 To fan the brow, the weary frame to turn—
 Kindness unthought by our grave M. D's,
 But nature's graduate whom she schools to please—

Wins back more sufferers with her voice and smile
 Then all the trumpety in the druggist's pile.
 Each look, each movement, every word and tone,
 Should tell the patient you are all his own,
 Not the mere artist purchased to attend—
 But the warm, ready, self-forgetting friend,
 Whose genial service in itself combines
 The best of tonics, cordials, anodynes.
 Such is the service that from day to day
 Sheds o'er sick chambers its benignant ray.

An occupation which furnishes, to more than an ordinary degree, the opportunities for grand and noble action is in no manner made less worthy or honorable when those, who presume to engage in it, fail to exhibit such action. Rather does the universal knowledge of what qualities of mind and heart such work demands throw into bold relief the defects in the conduct of those who fall short of its accomplishment.

It was this sharp contrast between the nature of what often is or rather was with spirit that gave the reforming spirit of Dickens his opportunity to create such characters as Sairey Gamp and Betsy Prig and hold them up as fit objects for righteous indignation. Selfishness and brutality were made more hideous by causing them to stalk forth and take the place of tenderness and compassion. Self-seeking has no place in the functions of the nurse. The civilized world has advanced too far in giving and expecting unselfish devotion to the welfare of the helpless or unfortunate, to tolerate or find enjoyment and profit in their misfortune, or to rejoice, openly, in the continuance of them. Let us hope that even Dickens in his zeal, to correct abuses, rather overdid the mark and makes things appear even worse than they were, when he represents Mrs. Gamp as expressing her well-wishes for her boon companion, Mrs. Prig, on the occasion of their separation, in the following words: "Wishin' you lots of sickness, my darlin' creatur, 'nd good places. It won't be long, I hope, afore we works together, off and on, again, Betsy; and may our next meetin' be at a large family's where they takes it reg'lar, one from another, turn and turn about, and has it business-like." But it is nevertheless true that the animal propensities of our human nature are prone to assert themselves in every breast, no matter in what calling we are employed, unless they are held rigorously in check. And heaven bestowed gifts of opportunity neglecting or misused react upon the one who has been offered them and verily she has her reward for such neglect, both in the meager turns of heart content, and the contempt of all mankind.
 But we need not be discouraged. The expansion into higher and better things goes steadily on. The evolution of the trained nurse has made substantial progress since the days of Sairey Gamp. The form is no longer without the substance. Everywhere, almost, throughout the civilized world she is now known and welcomed as an essential factor. On the field of battle amid the wounded and the dying, in the pestilence stricken camp, in the quiet seclusion of hospital wards or the still more obscure dwellings of the poor or hovels of the destitute; where the mother's heart is wrung with anguish, warily watching the couch of her stricken child, or the feverish sufferer tossed on his bed of pain—there has she found her mission and amply demonstrated its need and yet her fitness to supply it. Her gentle, patient ministrations and her soothing words have brought comfort, peace and consolation. Her very presence has put new courage into the heart nigh unto death and has revived the wavering faith.

That nurse has but a poor conception of the greatness of her calling who limits its field of action to the material service she can render. It is the spirit that quickeneth all that she does and a right spirit may glorify and clothe each duty with ten-fold potency for good.
 He whose eyes are opened to discern the sign of the times will see, that love to all mankind is something more than sentiment. Rather is it a tremendous power destined to play more than a passive part in the future of the world's history. The fearless and resolute conduct of Clara Barton and her Red Cross followers, demonstrates the superiority of self sacrifice and devotion to the needy, as working forces in the plan of human destiny. Whatever may be the outcome of her brave attempt to carry relief to the perishing Armenians, she will at least call the civilized world to witness that the saving of human life and protection of the helpless and the innocent, are objects far more worthy of the attention of great nations, than the selfish advantage that each may gain by using such wholesale butchery as an excuse for dividing the tyrant's territory among themselves.
 I would have you gain some glimpses of the grandeur of your calling and the privileges it opens to you and while you faithfully labor in seeming obscurity I would bid you remember that it is not so much what is done but how it is done that determines the issue.

One may have all the dietetic knowledge that is needful to meet the requirements of the most refractory digestions, and understand and apply all the mysteries of antiseptics; she may be punctilious in keeping the records of her cases to the most trivial details and yet fail to sound the depth of human sympathy or awaken the healing forces that there abide.
 I would not wish to be understood as belittling the importance of any instruction you have received but only as emphasizing the fact that it is the benevolent spirit with which your acquirements are put into practice that will determine most of all your fitness for the occupation upon which you are now about to enter; and the success that will attend your efforts. This above all others, is the element in the physician's germ potentialities out of which the trained nurse must be evolved if she would fulfill the purpose of her being.

I confess to a feeling somewhat akin to jealousy when I consider upon what part of the physician's nature you have fixed your claims, and what of his duties and privilege you have assumed in this compulsory division of labor that progress demands. It would seem that you have taken the better part and have left him that which brings no real reward, no adequate compensation for the time and labor he expends and sacrifice he endures.

 Worldly riches and honors fall but sparingly upon him who consecrates his life to relieve the sufferings of his fellowmen. The world delights to honor those whose business it is to take life rather than those who seek to save it.
 He who has brewed a new brand of ale and has amassed much wealth in the sale of it, as we have recently witnessed, raised to knighthood speedily, while he who with infinite patience and at much personal peril discovers a fluid that saves multitudes of lives and perhaps for all time wards off the dangers of a disease is begrudged the most trifling public honor. But at this I am not complaining. It is as it should be and I for one would not have it otherwise. The duties of a physician rightly understood and faithfully discharged can find in houses, lands or titles no adequate compensation. The rewards in store for him are of a different order. His fields of labor properly cultivated yields to him a harvest of possessions such as gold cannot purchase nor Emporers bestow.
 The Queen of England has in her dominion, many an obscure subject whose every day and night is spent in just such self-forgetful service as weelum MacLure, the general practitioner of Drumtochty gave to the humble peasant that sought his aid. But with all her power to distribute gifts of honors what one could she have conferred upon MacLure that would have filled his heart with such exuberance of joy that it could find fit expression only in a grotesque attempt, with his stiff and ungainly body, to dance the Highland Fling in an open field at the dawn of day. And yet this ludicrous exhibition of over-powering delight was caused by the victory gained after a long night's fight with death. Saunders, the shepherd, lay sick with a fever. The London doctor at Lord Kilspindie's Shooting Lodge looked in on his way from the moor and declared it impossible for Saunders to live through the night. "I give him six hours more or less, it is only a question of time," said the oracle as he rode away. But MacLure declined to accept the verdict as final. With all respect to the learned man's opinion he felt that he, himself, was the better able to estimate the resisting force of the sick man's constitution, and yet willing hands and watchful eye must needs be MacLure's own, for there was none others equal to the emergency. So he said to his friend Drumshugh, "The doctors in the toone hae nurses an' a' kinds o' handy apparatus, but you an' me 'll need tae be nurse the nicht an' use sic' things as we hev." And so the whole night through they carried cool water from the distant spring and with tubs beside the bed they bathed him, till the flickering strength revived and the morning showed the danger past.

You have all tasted of the joy which such service brings and you know full well that this world has nothing in its coffers or its title deeds that can compare with it. And if in admitting you to share with us the sorrows and sadness, the weariness and the privations of the physician's life you should take from us this our only source of real contentment, you would be robbing us indeed, and we would be paying far too dearly for the help you render. But as I look into the future, interpreted by the past, and review the force marshalling on the field I can readily discern that there will be ample opportunity provided for all who engage in the humane work of preventing and relieving human suffering to gather full measure of these imperishable joys. For in the evolution toward a higher order of attainments there is no crowding. Of this, it may be truly said there is both room and rich reward at the top.

THIEVES AT THE OPERA.

Immaculately Dressed and Attended by Beautiful Women.

"Strange as it may seem," said one of Chief O'Brien's new detectives, as he lounged against a pillar in front of the Metropolitan opera house, talking to a New York Herald man, "New York thieves of the higher class have a weakness for grand opera, both for business and pleasure. You doubtless remember when Inspector McLaughlin walked down the aisle two years ago and tapped a woman on the shoulder. She was a notorious thief and she followed him without a word. Since then several thieves have been arrested in the lobby and around the entrance and several have even got past us and have sat out the performance. Look at this. It is a sample of the work done by the opera house thieves."

The detective pulled from his pocket a crumpled advertisement. It was as follows: "If blue kersey overcoat taken from dress circle of Metropolitan opera house Monday night is returned, $25 will be paid and no questions asked."

"I was one of the men detailed here on the opening night," continued the detective. "Personally, I hustled several thieves away; but as there was no charge against them beyond their general bad character they could not be arrested."

"After the opera was over, I stood just at the door to watch the crowd coming out. What was my surprise to see one of the best-known thieves in New York come out with a beautifully dressed woman on his arm. She wore a long pink and ermine opera cloak and big diamonds and his crush hat was simply immense. He looked at me coolly, handed the woman into a carriage and whirled away."

"I saw him next day in Sixth avenue and called to him. 'What do you want?' he inquired. 'There is nothing against me. Hasn't a man a right to enjoy himself?' I warned him against enjoying himself around the Metropolitan opera house, and let him go. There are very many diamonds around the Metropolitan and they are a great temptation to the average thief."

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

A NOBLE LIFE SPENT FOR AND WITH SUFFERING WOMEN. A Life's Work Perpetuated through a Faithful Daughter, and Records of Priceless Value.

What a vast amount of misery and suffering has been prevented by the clear-headed foresight of one noble woman! She had struggled, labored, and sacrificed for the welfare of her sex. The eyes of the women of the world were upon her.

As she recalled the past, and tried to penetrate the future, a smile of supreme satisfaction passed over her honest face as she remembered that her life's work would be perpetuated. The room in which she sat contained hundreds of volumes of records; and, turning to her daughter, she said, 'My daughter, this room, as you well know, contains the records of my life's work, in which for many years you have so diligently assisted me.'

By earnest application you have compassed my methods; and it is a happiness to think that when I leave, the glorious work will, through you, go on. 'The mission is a noble one. Do as I have done: never permit a woman's appeal to go unheeded. 'These records tell of every case ever submitted to me; and it is my wish that the facts they contain shall in time prove a much-needed education to the women of the world.' Thus did Lydia E. Pinkham hand over to her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, what may be termed the salvation of her sex; and that wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which all druggists consider as standard as flour, goes on redeeming hundreds of women from the fearful consequences of female diseases.

THEY KNOW.

Opinions of Some Skillful Chicago Physicians.

The new article now being used in place of coffee has made many friends and it may interest these friends and others to know the opinion of some of the known physicians of Chicago on the subject. The following are extracts from their letters, now on file in the office of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at Battle Creek, Mich.:

Dr. G. E. Bass, So. Chicago, Ill. 'I have tried Postum Cereal and was well enough pleased that I would like to use more of it. Kindly inform me where it can be obtained in this locality.'

Dr. Almond Brooks, 21 Quincy St., Chicago, Ill. 'The test I have made Postum Cereal makes me think I can use it in practice as a substitute for coffee, the use of which I daily prohibit.'

Dr. Wm. Bohart, Emerald Ave., and 43rd St., Chicago, Ill. 'Your Postum Cereal I have tried and like it very much.'

Dr. Joseph P. Cobb, 'The Clinique,' 3156 Indiana Ave., Chicago. 'Your sample of Postum Cereal is received and brewed. It is pleasant, and when a substitute for coffee is desired, will, I believe, be of value.'

Dr. Archibald Church, attending physician to St. Luke's Hospital: Professor of Nervous Diseases, Chicago Polyclinic & Home for Crippled Children, Pullman Bldg., Chicago. 'I have made a trial of Postum Cereal and think it will serve admirably as a substitute for coffee for those who are accustomed to use sugar in that beverage.'

Dr. Wesley A. Dunn, Editor of 'Medical Current,' 'Marshall Field Bldg., Chicago. 'I am highly pleased with it.'

Dr. Albert P. Hedges, 1381 N. Clark St., Chicago. 'It is a long needed article.'

Dr. J. B. S. King, Prof. Chemistry & Toxicology, 240 Wabash Ave., Chicago. 'Will be glad to adopt Postum Cereal for my children as a daily beverage.'

Dr. H. P. Merriman, 2239 Michigan Ave., Chicago. 'I have tried the Postum Cereal, and am pleased with it.'

Dr. J. R. Pennington, Chicago Summer School of Medicine, 103 State St., Chicago. 'The Postum Cereal is received, brewed and used up. I like it very much. The only criticism I have to offer is that it did not last long enough.'

Dr. H. W. Pierson, 'Medical Advance,' 6351 Stewart Ave., Chicago. 'We know of your Postum Cereal and are very much pleased with it. Decidedly opposed to the use of both tea and coffee.'

Dr. E. Schoene, 1176 Milwaukee Ave., Chicago. 'I am very much pleased with Postum Cereal. It is a delicious drink, and I think preferable to all similar products, such as Health Coffee, Malt, etc.'

Dr. Henry Venne, 99 Blue Island Ave., Chicago. 'The Postum Cereal has been tested and found to be excellent.'

It may be remembered that the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., will send a package sufficient for 50 cups by mail for 25c. If it cannot be had of a convenient grocer or druggist.

Sensitiveness. Just as a stylishly dressed woman, particularly inclined to emponpoint, was about to set foot on the step of a Chestnut street car at Ninth street yesterday the conductor bawled out a mighty 'Move up front, please!'

The woman took this as a deliberate insult, meaning that room would be necessary on account of her bulk. 'I won't get on your car, now,' she cried. 'I've got your number, and you'll learn not to insult ladies.'—Philadelphia Call.

DARK DAYS FOR BURNS.

His Hatred for Farming—An Unfortunate Choice.

As it is always darkest before the dawn, the year which was the most critical in Burns' life, and which was destined to give birth to his better fortune, opened with peculiar and unmitigated dreariness, says the Fortnightly Review. The Kilmarnock edition of 1786 appeared while the poet was 'skulking from covert to covert' to avoid the jail, with which Jean Armour's father threatened him; his raison d'etre was the earning of sufficient money to pay his passage to Jamaica. Having 'pocketed, all expenses deducted, nearly 20 pounds,' Burns took a final farewell of his friends. Indeed—

'My chest was on my way to Greenock when a letter from Mr. Blacklock (of Edinburgh) to a friend of mine overthrew all my schemes by opening up new prospects to my poetic ambition.'

His fame was, in fact, spreading rapidly. Farm laborers and servant girls expended their hard earned wages on the purchase of his poems, and the name of 'The Ayrshire Plowman' began to be noised among members of wealthier and more cultivated circles. The first person to extend him the right hand of fellowship was Dugald Stewart; the second was Mrs. Dunlop. Their friendship came with all the charms of a novelty, which is yet not strange, but supplies a long-felt though indefinable need, while, in the latter case, Burns' proud and independent soul was gratified by the knowledge that the obligation was not all on his side; but that Mrs. Dunlop and her friends had reason to be indebted to the poet's spells.

After two winters spent in Edinburgh, which seem to have given the poet more disappointment and disgust than gratification, Burns married 'his Jean,' and settled at Ellisland, an upland farm on the Dalswinton estate, six miles from Dumfries. To this Ellisland period, i. e., from 1788 to 1791, most of the unpublished letters to Mrs. Dunlop belong. They are chiefly interesting as indicating Burns' real views on his excise post and his distaste to farming. There were bad times in the eighteenth as in the nineteenth century; and in a letter of March 25, 1789, we hear Burns raising the farmers' customary complaint:

'Madam, I had two plans of life before me—the excise and farming. I thought by the glimmering of my own prudence the excise was the most eligible scheme, but all my great friends, and particularly you, were decidedly, and therefore decided me, for farming. My master, Mr. Miller, out of a real, though mistaken benevolence, sought me industriously out to set me in this farm, as he said, to give me a lease which would make me comfortable and easy. * * * I was a stranger to the country, the farm, the soil, and so ventured on a bargain that, instead of being comfortable, is and will be a very hard bargain, if at all practicable. I am sorry to tell you this, madam, but it is a damning truth.'

His Lip Gone.

M. M. Nicholson, who lives at the corner of Curran and Anderson Sts., Atlanta, Ga., had a cancer for years. It first appeared on his lip and resembled a fever blister, but spread rapidly and soon began to destroy the flesh. His father and uncle had died from Cancer, and he sought the best medical aid in different cities, but it seemed impossible to check the disease. Several operations were performed but the cancer always returned. This continued for years until the partition in his nose and his entire upper lip were eaten away. All treatment having proved futile, he looked upon death as the only relief.

'Some one recommended S.S.S.,' he says, 'and a few bottles afforded some relief; this encouraged I continued it, and it was not long before the progress of the disease seemed checked. I persevered in its use, and remarkable as it may seem, I am completely cured, and feel like I have new life. S.S.S. is the most remarkable remedy in the world, and everyone will agree that the cure was a wonderful one.'

A Real Blood Remedy.

Cancer is in the blood and it is folly to expect an operation to cure it. S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is a real remedy for every disease of the blood.

If You Have a Sick Child This is Surely a Message of Hope.

This is the best of news for parents of weakly or sickly children. It is a fact that our people have heretofore not had the same opportunity for having their children who suffer from chronic or lingering complaints treated and cured by eminent specialists in children's diseases as do the residents of the great cities where such skilled physicians reside. In other words our people have been debarred from seeking a cure for their children by the great physicians, owing to the cost of travel to the large city and the high fees charged by such physicians.

Here therefore, is the chance for the cure of the child of our community which should not be lost. Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th-St., New York City, who is beyond doubt the most successful specialist in curing diseases of children, offers to give free consultation by mail in all cases of children's complaints. Parents have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene by letter, describing their children's diseases and he will, after carefully considering the symptoms, write a letter fully explaining the trouble, telling everything about their complaint so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails your children. He will also give his advice, founded upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating such cases, as to just what to do to effect a cure. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best-known physician and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and has discovered many other most valuable remedies. Write to him about your child, for this is a chance of cure which you may never have again.

ROYAL WOMAN CYCLER.

American Society Women Think the Princess Letizia Is Not Loud. It is only last year that the Princess Letizia was severely reprimanded by King Humbert and Queen Margherita for "disgraceful conduct," says the Washington Times. Her disgraceful conduct consisted in riding through the streets of Milan on a bicycle, wearing a costume which, as described by the amazed Milanese, consisted of a bolero jacket and a Bersagliere hat, a short skirt—a very short skirt—worn over black silk tights and with high kid boots upon the princess' feet. When this was reported to the king and queen they were much incensed, and the Princess Letizia was sent into retirement and disgrace. Yet how much can take place in a few months!

Commenting on this, Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger says that such has been the change in ideas concerning women's bicycling costumes that it is doubtful whether the Princess Letizia would now be considered as having disgraced herself by wearing such a dress. None the less, Mrs. Cruger does not approve of the lavish display of the princess and probably few other ladies would. Still her offense would not be considered a venial one. Mrs. Cruger recommends for bicycling a scant skirt, and does not approve of the gaiters or leggings, which, she says, "greatly increase the size of her ankle."

She goes on: "A black silk stocking and black kid boots, four or five inches higher than the ordinary walking one, a gown somewhat narrow, reaching half-way between the ankle and the heel, made of some dark cloth, its body cut with extreme severity, is best. It may be relieved by a skirt front of pique or chiffon." There is no doubt that there is a marked difference between the costume of Mrs. Cruger and that of the Princess Letizia.

Good News. No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities, as Otto's Cure. Thousands of bottles of this great German remedy are being distributed free of charge, by druggists in this country, to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia and All Throat and Lung diseases, giving the people proof that Otto's Cure will cure them, and that it is the grandest triumph of medical science. Workman and the Sabbath. At the recent Episcopal church conference at Norwich, Eng., the strongest advocate of a strict religious observance of the Sunday laws was a workingman, who challenged those speakers who advocated a modified observance of Sunday to produce the workingmen who would defend the modern inroads upon the keeping of a Sunday as a day of rest.

DISPOSAL OF WASTE.

Millions of Gallons of Grease and Refuse to Be Saved.

In not a few of our great cities the development of industries and manufactures has been accompanied by the serious pollution of neighboring streams. The city of Providence, R. I., has for this reason had under consideration for the past five years the question of the disposal of manufacturers' waste. A joint special committee was appointed by the city council to look into the matter and this committee has finally made its report, with the introduction of a resolution directing the city solicitor to apply to the general assembly at its next session for the passage of such legislation as will prohibit the pollution of the rivers by emptying into them any waste, grease, acids, dye stuffs, sewage, ashes or other refuse or waste substances, liquids or materials. The committee is of the opinion that the problem can be readily solved without serious inconvenience or great financial outlay to the manufacturers and without imposing additional burden upon the taxpayers of the city. When the committee was confronted with the amount of material which is daily thrown into the rivers it was amazed. It was found that 6,000,000 gallons of manufacturers' refuse are turned into these rivers daily, as well as about 50,000 pounds of grease, and the quantity of logwood, acids and other substances that is emptied in it is far in excess of what is generally supposed. The consumption of raw wool in the Olneyville manufacturing district is from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 pounds a year.

There is a loss of about 50 per cent in the process of washing and preparing the wool for use in the mills. It is the waste from this that forms the principal annoying source of river-pollution. The fatty matters floating down the stream lodge in the bed of the river and, becoming decomposed, escape in the form of gases, as shown by the bubbles upon the surface of the water, which cannot add to the health of the community. With a plant of sufficient size it would be possible to obtain the entire amount of grease scoured from the wool washings. There are in this country several large mills recovering from their wool-washing liquors enough grease and other valuable matters to more than pay the cost of purification. —Exchange.

Beware of Counterfeiters

Who infest the market and are the means of robbing sick people of their money, and what is of still greater consequence of not unfrequently aggravating the complaints under which they labor. It is an act of duty we owe to society to warn the people against these dangerous frauds. A little care on the part of the purchaser will protect them from imposition by bearing in mind these facts: Never buy where it is offered in bulk, (in kegs or jugs) as the genuine Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are sold only in bottles having the handsome steel plate label displaying the combat between St. George and the Dragon, and having at the bottom a miniature note of hand for one cent, bearing a facsimile of the signature of the president of the company. Over the cork is a metallic cap, on which is impressed the name of the article, together with a medallion head in the center. Any person selling the counterfeit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters we shall not hesitate to bring to justice, as we never fail to convict.

A MOURNFUL WHISTLE.

The Engineer's Story of Loss of Life That It Commemorates. "Did you notice that peculiar whistle?" asked the section foreman, who was returning to his home in Wilmington.

There did not appear to be anything unusual about it to the ear of the Star man and he asked what way it differed from the other signals. "Well, it was made in an open part of the road, not near a town or crossing, and was a very mournful whistle. There is a story that goes with that whistle. Jim Watson, an engineer of this train, ever since the night his engine crushed out a man at that spot, has made that sigh when he goes by there. It was on a foggy night, as I have heard Jim say, and the headlight only showed a big white bank of mist which he couldn't see through.

"He had an uneasy feeling like men have sometimes when something disastrous is going to happen and that made him unusually alert. It was on a part of the road where the trains are scheduled up to a high rate of speed and Jim had her going at a lively pace. The feeling that there was something wrong could not be shaken off and he cursed the fog that shut out the track ahead. "Suddenly a figure shot into the light, Jim saw for an instant her eyes full of terror and then the train swept on with horrible persistence. Jim slowed up and went back. He and the fireman threw what was left of the cow off the track. The owner of the animal afterward sued the company for damages and Jim had to pay $28 for it. He never did like to part with his money and the incident made such an impression on him that every time he passes the spot where the death occurred he blows a low, mournful whistle."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Chas Root, Cedar Springs, Mich., was told by physicians that they could do nothing for her. After taking two bottles of "Achloron" she was able to do her own work and ride to town to do her shopping. Sold by all druggists.

Achota, a Model Village

Mrs. Lyman Abbott enthusiastically discusses in her "Just Among Ourselves" department of Ladies' Home Journal, the new town of Achota near Niagara Falls, New York. She says: "One of the adjuncts of the great 'Power Company's' works at Niagara is the ready-made village of Achota. It has not grown up as most towns and villages do, with a house set here and there according to the good—or bad—judgment of the owner, and with lanes and roads more or less smooth and level—generally less—winding hither and yon, perhaps first made by the home-coming cows at night; it is so that the streets of Boston are charged with originating. Achota was begun below the foundations. The ground itself was redeemed by skillful engineering from a sickly, malarial 'flat,' without natural drainage, exposed to the overflow of too sluggish, but often enormously expanded, streams. The fields were either wet, sticky and heavy or, under a scorching sun, baked and seamed with numerous cracks. Its finely-macadamized streets, well-trimmed grass-plots, gardens, and shade trees now have a basis of suitable soil, made so by an elaborate network of tiles laid at a depth of from four to six feet. Upon this well-prepared ground are built and rented cheaply houses of various sizes, with the best modern appliances for household convenience. As the 'Company' still owns all the land and the houses it can maintain perfect order and cleanliness out-of-doors, and, by wise regulations, has made it possible to keep the inside of the houses wholesome."

The Road Man of Texas.

One of the features and a most valuable medium to the isolated settlers of the Lone Star State is the Road Man. Equipped with a team of wiry mustangs, and wagon, whose capacious interior is filled with the many necessities of pioneer life—from the tiny rattle for the baby to the calico for the dress, canned fruits, etc., and last, but not least, medicines most needed by the dwellers whose neighbors are often miles away. The road man is shrewd and knows a good thing when he sees it and how to profit by it. Mr. J. G. Lincoln is a road man and he writes under the date of Feb. 16, '96, "I had the good fortune to come into possession of a package of your Catarrh Balm, and although I have been troubled with catarrh for several years, I can say that it cured me. I think it is the greatest catarrh medicine out. I am a road man. Since using your remedy I have told several people where I travel and those would buy it if I had it. At what price can you sell it to me in quantity—My Sunday point is Paris, Texas, for the next two Sundays." Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm is endorsed by all who give it trial and its worth is becoming known far and wide. Sample sent for 50c stamp, or a full sized package for 50c. Pretzinger Bros., Chemists Dayton, Ohio.

A Railroad on Leaves.

A railroad running across a lake on palm leaves, some of them twenty-five feet long, is certainly unusual. Such a railroad has just been completed on the wonderful Pitch lake of Trinidad. This lake is situated near the village of La Brea, on the Gulf of Paria. At first sight it appears to be an expanse of still water frequently interrupted by clumps of trees and shrubs. On approaching it it is found to consist of mineral pitch containing numbers of crevices filled with water. The surface is not slippery nor sticky and will bear any weight.—Philadelphia Press.
