The Legislative Committee on the Three Mgn Arrested on the Charge of Murdering James Richards Tried to Prove an Alibi but Falled-Strong Evidence Agalust Them.

Three young men of Plymouth, Wm. Larkins, Ed. Lyons, and Rupert Jones, were arrested last Saturday, by Marshall Peterson, on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of James Richards. Deputy Sheriffs Eldert and Sweet assisted in bringing them to this city where they have been lodged in ber revolver was found on his person. The bullet found in the wall in the year's Freshmen class as compared with room where Richards was murdered came from a 44 caliber revolver. Some time last year Larkins was married to a Miss Smith, who lived on the farm adjoining the Richard's farm. At this place Larkins spent a great deal of his time and probably learned a considerable about the habits of Richards. It is claimed that on the day before the murder Larkins shot off his revolver dispose of the greatest quantity twice and it is believed that he was of goods. testing the weapon's condition. Larkin's wife said that he had a dark lantern, but it has since disappeared.

Larkins follows the occupation of a The Masonic Ball which was held at drover. Lyons has been employed in the rooms of the two masonic fratern- a gun factory at Plymounth, while few trinkets.

The men have been put under a sethe hotel, but the hotel clerk was up until after mid night, and he says they The Chequamegon and the Minnis did not stop at his place. They tell the same story about stopping at the hotels mouth, but the saloon-keepers assert that they were perfectly sober, though they bought a quart of whiskey to take with them. The time the men left Plymouth was about 9:30 chlock p m. They claim they started for the above towns because they were drunk.

Since the arrest Marshal Peterson has been getting evidence against them, He and Prosecuting Attorney Circuit Court Jurors For The March Kirk were in Plymouth yesterday looking up the case and thay returned fully convinced that they have the right men. They have positive evidence that the men did not go to Farmington, Novi, or guilty of the murder. One of the men seems to be weakening, and it would not surprise the officers if he made a confession. He has been taken to Ypsilanti, so that the other two men will not exert any influence over him.

The complaint was formerly made against the three men, this morning, by Marshall Peterson. The case was brought before Justice Gibson, but the crowd being so large it was adjourned over into the court room. Frank E. Jones and Seth C. Randall appeared for the defendants, and Prosecuting Attorney Kirk for the People. The defendants wished to go right on with the examination, but the prosecution wanted the case adjourned until March. After considerable talking it was adjourned until the 9th of March. The case is exciting great interest, but it must be said that the young men do not look much like murderers. EUROPEAN POWERS HAVE A HARD TASK.

Foreign Offices at the Various Capitals Keep Wrtchful Eyes on the Situation in Crete-Turkish Government Becoming Impatient.

Constantinople, Feb. 15.—There is a disposition in official circas nere to hold the powers responsibes for anything that may happen in Crete.

The sultan has been prevailed upor by the ambassadors to reirain from sending re-enforcements of troops to Crete and he has also been resured that the powers have decided not to permit the landing of Greek troops in Crete Therefore the whole matter is in the hands of the powers and the sultan's entourage at least is inclined to believe that the powers may have a falling out as to the disposition to be made of the insurgent island.

The council of ministers, it is semiofficially announced, has decided that Turkey will remain passive pending the efforts of the powers to prevent direct Greek intervention in Crete, but, it is further stated, if the powers are unsuccessful in those efforts the Turkish government will be compelled to begin military operations on the Thessalia frontier, or, in other words, Turkey will deciare war against Greece and promptly invade that country.

This is no rumor from diplomatic circles. The decision of the porte on the subject has been formally and officially communicated to the different embassies and the Turks are in ear-

There is no doubt, however, that the willingness of the sultan to apparently bow to the will of the powers in the present Cretan crisis was largely due to the impoverished state of the Turkamount would be needed to send an army corps to Crete and this money is not yet forthcoming.

MOTHER-LOVE IN SNAKES.

Naturalist.

Even the cold-blooded and clammy snake evinces maternal affection, and I am fortunately able to produce evidence corroborative of this statement that is fresh in my memory. On March 29, while seated on my front porch, I noticed one of my dogs, a yearling puppy, acting in a peculiar way on my lawn. He was circling around a small circumscribed spot, every now and then thrusting his nose towards the ground, and then quickly jumping back. On approaching the animal I discovher last year's brood of young. The day was very warm, the sun shining clear and bright, and these creatures had emerged from their den or nest in the ground, a foot or so away from the spot where they were lying, and were sunning themselves. When they observed me they made an attempt to regain their nest; I killed two of them, however, before they could enter. had read somewhere that if a snake's young were taken and their bodies dragged along the ground, the mother snake would follow the trail, and, if she found them alive, would conduct them back to the nest. I took the two which I had killed and, after dragging them along the turf, deposited them on the pavement some fifty feet from the den; I then resumed my seat or the porch and awaited developments. In a short while the mother snake emerged from the nest and, after crawling about for a second or two, struck the trail and at once followed it to the pavement and her dead young Fortunately I had a witness in the person of my iceman, who was delivering ice at the time, and who was dumbfounded at beholding such high intelligence in a creature so low in the scale of animal life. I killed the old snake (for these snakes-garden moccasins-become harmful after the third year, eating young birds, etc.) and ten of her progeny, leaving two pairs to carry on and perpetuate the race .-Home Magazine.

They were after ward invited by the senior member of the firm to lunch with him. Colonel M was also of the party. It happened that the first food placed on the table was a dish of fried potatoes, and as the manufacturer enthusiastically explained his business to his guests he unthinkingly took a piece of potate from the dish with his fingers and at A second and third piece followed The Japanese listened politely, bu Colonel M. observed that they werclosely watching their host's method of eating. The colonel has a keer sense of humor, and he at once decided that he would follow his friend's example and see what the others would do. He did so, and instantly both Japanese made a dive for the dish, and thus they sat eating potatoes with their fingers, presenting, it is to be feared the appearance of four men who had had nothing to eat for a long while and expected never to get anything again. Will it be surprising if in a future Japanese book on America this breach of good manners shall find a place as an American custom?

who has any pride in the progress of the commonwealth, who parts reluctantly with his 16 cents on the $1,000 for the support of the University of Michigan? Is there one, when he comes to see and understand what an insignificant sum it is that he is called upon to contribute to the maintenance of one of the foremost and best known educational institutions in the land?

And if the actual necessities of the university call for something more than the revenue derived from the one-sixth mill tax, would the average farmer be justified in filing a vehement protest?

Let us all be sensible about this. The University of Michigan belongs to the people of Michigan. It is not sustained by rich endowments. It depends and must depend upon the goodwill and generosity of the state. The university is worth to Michigan much more than it costs to sustain it and keep it in the very front rank of American universities and colleges. SENATOR WHEELER SPEAKS.

Nearly Broken Down in Health—Dr. Greene's Nervura Saved Him.

Spring Is the Best Time of Year to Get Well. Everybody Needs Now This Grandest of Spring Medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

SENATOR CHARLES WILLARD WHEELER

Spring is the best time to get well. People need a spring medicine to purify the blood and strengthen the nerves. The best spring medicine the world has ever known is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the people's great remedy, the sure cure on which the people know they can always depend to get back their lost health, the medicine which makes the sick well, and keeps the system in sound and perfect strength and vigor. It is the remedy above all others to take now, for thousands upon thousands of people always use it during the spring months to get their systems in perfect condition, and people always use it during the spring months to get their systems in perfect condition, and pure blood, strong nerves and robust and vigorous health in all cases follow its use.

Hon. C. W. Wheeler of Irasburgh, Vt., widely known and highly honored, who has been Representative in the Vermont Legislature, Senator, and for 16 years Treasurer of Irasburgh, pays the highest tribute to the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura. He says—: "I have been for about eight years in a condition which seemed to me to be approaching nervous breaking down, or nervous prostration. I used to be able to work night and day aimost, but found my strength began to be less. I heeded the note of alarm and tried to find re-inforcement in Dr. Greene's Nervura. Before I began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I had a very bad headache twice a week, which used me up entirely, so that I could not work at all, but since I began the use of the Nervura. I have not had them at all. If I felt them coming on, a dose of Dr. Greene's Nervura drove them entirely away. I think it has been very beneficial to me in my nervous condition. That sore feeling which I had in my head (which always came on by overwork been very beneficial to me in my nervous condition. That sore feeling which I had in my head (which always came on by overwork and prostrated me) has not appeared at all since I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy." CIRL LIFE IN MEXICO, the Has Considerable Freedom, but It From the Boston Herald: Mexican home life is unique; it differs very escentially from the domestic life of the Angle-Saxon race, for it is founded on respect for parents. The influence of the Catholic church is powerful in maintaining a high grade of family behavior. There is a sweetness and a charm about a well-ordered Mexican home which is a revelation to northern people who have imbibed a false idea of matters here. The women of the best Mexican families are naturally of a gentle disposition, but they command obedience, and rarely spoil their sons, whom they idolize. There are exceptions, but they are not enough to break down the general social discipline. As for the girls, no reputable Mexican father or mother would allow for a moment the thought of permitting a girl of any age to be on the streets after dark unless accompanied by an older person, a trusted servant or elder. brother. So, even among girls of the humbler class, there is no street strolling in the evening. They may, in warm weather, go to the alameda, or public park, where there is a band concert, but always under escort. They may go to a tertulia, or evening party, but with some competent person. They may dance, mildly flirt, on such occasions, but they are always under the watchful eye of a relative. There is plenty of proper freedom for young girls, and a larger liberty in the cities than formerly, but they are not allowed to run about without an escort, and a very careful eye is kept upon them by parents and relatives, even to distant male cousins. Such a thing as a young girl, or young woman, of any character or family, being upon the street at night, alone and unattended, is unknown. Your daughter goes to visit a friend in the afternoon and stays to tea; then the gentleman and lady of the house, the gentleman alone, or an old servant, brings her home. So the streets of this big town are never the scene of foolish, flighty girls being followed and "picked up" by strangers. And as for men who insult young girls and women, the remedy is usually a sudden and fatal one. In milder cases the newspapers give minute descriptions of the "satyr" who has insulted a lady, and the public is asked to take warning. One fellow, who, in an interior city, made an insulting remark about a lady standing at a window, was conducted to the alameda, and, in view of the chief part of the town's best society, was held down on a stone bench and caned until he yelled for mercy, and was then ordered out of town on the next train. He went. In another city a male teacher, who was "too fresh" in his conduct toward young girl pupils, was waited on by a deputation of gertlemen and asked to favor the city by his permanent absence. He, too, went. The etiquette regarding the protection of women from molestation and insult is such as prevails in the southern states of the American union. There is no fooling on the streets, in the theaters and public places with respectable women. There is something left here of the old Spanish idea of the sacredness of womanhood, and the line is sharply drawn between honest women and the other kind.

SENATOR MORGAN OFFERS A RESOLUTION.

Alabama Statesman Contends the Clayton-Bulwer Agreement Is a Menace to Our Rights Respecting the Nicaragua Canal-Carroll Wright Reappointed.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Congress bids fair to adjourn without action on the bankruptcy bill. The measure will probably be buried in the same heap with the Nicaragua canal bill and the anti-scalping bill.

The chief opposition to the bankruptcy bill is that western and southern congressmen, led by Bailey of Texas, one of the brightest constitutional lawyers in the house, want "voluntary" bankruptcy only. The commercial interests, led by Judge Torrey, insist upon an involuntary law. Chicago business men have shown great interest in Judge Torrey's bill. The new congress will take up the bankruptey subject again, in all probability, for the present session is not likely to act in the short space of time left at its disposal.

They argue that Greece should not attempt to annex the island until she is assured of the support of some one of the great powers. They claim, further, that Europe is not prepared to sanction anything that might ward solution at this time.

M'GIFFIN'S SAD DEATH

AMERICAN NAVAL HERO COM-MITS SUICIDE.

Pain of His Wounds, Received at the the Illustrated American. If there are Insanity-His Long and Honorabl

New York, Feb. 12.-Capt. Philo Mc-Giffin, who commanded the Chinese ironclad Chen Yuen in the battle of the Yalu river in September, 1894, during the Chino-Japanese war, committed suicide early this morning in the postgraduate hospital to which he was recently admitted fo rtreatment. He shot himself over the right ear.

Capt. McGiffin left a note, in which he said he left his respects to the people and to his friends and regretted the act which he was about to commit. How the captain came in possession of the pistols is not yet known.

About the middle of January, Capt. McGiffin became insane and it was found necessary to have him confined in the hospital. He had had some sort of mental trouble for months before it developed into insanity and on his be ing removed to the hospital he was so violent that it was found necessary to President Arthur dined with judges of put him in a straight-jacket. At that time and since then Dr. Hammond attributed his condition to wounds he received in the battle of the Yalu river.

The brother of the dead man has been notified and it is probable that he will take charge of the remains and attend to the burial arrangements.

Philo N. McGiffin was born in Washington, Pa., in 1862. He was a son of Captain Norton McGiffin, who served risked. in the Mexican war with distinction and who was colonel of the Eightyeighth Pennsylvania Volunteers during the war of the rebellion. He graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis with high honors in 1882.

Capt. McGiffin was honorably discharged from the navy in 1884, owing to a reduction in the number of midshipmen. He entered the service of China during the Franco-Chinese war and was distinguished for gallantry, was sent to England to superintend the construction of ironclads, and, at the outbreak of hostilities with Japan, was put in command of the Chinese squadron. His part in the battle of the Yalu River is well known, and, although it was a defeat for the Chinese fleet, it accomplished its desired end in pre venting the landing of a Japanese force in the rear of the Chinese army.

Civil Trial for Scavel.

Washington, Feb. 12.-The state department has been notified that the Spanish authorities will accord Sylvester Scovel, the New York World correspondent arrested in Cuba, a trial before a civil tribunal. The trial, however, must take place originally in Santa Spiritus, as the law, like that of the United States, requires the proceedings to take place in the same province where the offense was committed. It is probable that in case the verdict is against Scovel in this trial an appeal will be entertained which will permit of the removal of the case to Havana.

WHITE HOUSE ETIQUETTE.

The Unwritten Laws Which Govern the President's Social Position.

When the President and his wife drive out the President sits on the right hand and his wife on the left, says Battle of Yalu River, Drove Him to others in the carriage, whether ladies or gentlemea, they must sit with their backs to the horses. When Mrs. Cleveland was first married she tried the experiment of placing her mother onposite the president and herself in the presidential landau, but the people laughed at it so immoderately and protessed to think Mrs. Folsom (as she was then) to be the maid, that it was peedily dropped. When the Presiient's wife drives alone she sits in the ight-hand corner—the place of honor. "he lady of the white house cannot set oot within those splendid houses in Washington whose flagstaffs mark the foreign embassy or legation. She could not go without the President, and as an embassy or legation is technically a part of the country it represents the President could not go-so that she ever sees the inside of a diplomatic house as long as she presides at the executive mansion. The President dines only at cabinet houses and his wife cannot dine anywhere without him. the Supreme court and with senators; but as he had no wife the whole system was very much simplified for him. The President's wife may, if she chooses, go to luncheons where there are no gentlemen, or to teas, both being regarded as strictly informal; but the danger of giving offense by accepting one invitation and declining another is so great that it is seldom or never

THE GUNS OF THE PURITANS.

Not the Blunderbusses Usually Reprosented by Artists.

One of the most remarkable facts to the investigator of our American antiquities is the almost total ignorance which prevails among even those who are otherwise well informed as to the weapons, more especially the firearms, with which our Puritan ancestors fought their wars with the Indians. One of the notions which seem firmly established is that the early settlers generally used the bell-muzzle blunderbuss. Almost every artist who draws a Thanksgiving or Christmas picture of a Puritan going to meeting gives him a gun with a muzzle like the end of a trumpet. Now the fact is that the bell-mouthed firearm was never a military arm among English-speak ing people at all, nor was such a well pon ever common, either in this con atry or in England, until about the middle of the last century, when it came into use for the defense of nouses against burglars, for stage coach guards, and similar purposes. blunderbusses which were common enough in the curiosity shops are almost without exception later than 1750, and many of them date from early in this century, A large, bell-mouthed gun was in use somewhat earlier on board naval and other armed ships, but this was a heavy piece, on a swivel and used very much as the howitzer was later.

The agents of the department secured information from 1,067 establishments of various kinds, located in thirty states and employing 148,367 persons. The complete data sought for, however, were obtained from only 391 establishments. These 391 establishments employed 64,560 persons in the former and 108,648 in the present period. Of this number in the first period 26,479 were males of 18 years of age or over, as against 43,195 in the second; and 4,175 males under 18 years of age, as against 7,540 in the second. In the first period 27,163 were females 18 years of age or over, and 6,743 females under 18 years of age, as against 45,162 and 12,751, respectively, in the present period.

From these figures it is seen that male employes 18 years of age or over increased in the present period over the former period 63.1 per cent, while female employes of the same age period increased 66,3 per cent. Male employes under 18 years of age increased 80.6 per cent, while female employes under 18 years of age increased 89.1 per cent. No pains was state convention of the Y. M. C. A., spared to make the map complete and reliable. It shows all incorporated towns, villages, and post-offices, railroads, streets, and highways, schools, churches, cemeteries, and streams; as well as the location of every farm in the county, The owners name is on each farm, also the number of acres and location of residence. The principal bicy-G. G. Stimson, W. B. Phillip, C. Wag- cle roads through the county are colored from one town to the other.

The map is gotten out in an entirely new form for county maps. It is printed on thin tough paper and folded within flexible covers of convenient size for the pocket. It thus takes up little room.

It is accompanied by a list of county officers, census tables, directory of resident farmers who own the land they occupy, together with their post-office addresses. The population of the county both foreign and native born is given according to the latest official census.

Altogether this map and directory is a very creditable issue and we bespeak for it a large sale throughout the county. The price is only 75 cents. Read the combined price of THE REGISTER Moore & Wetmore was an Ann Ar- and the map on the third page of this

The ice was beginning to break, and when about half way across the river the ice gave way and the three men and horses went down together. CONCERNING PRIDE.

Pride of Intelligence, Pride of Appearance and Many Other Sorts. I have been engaged upon a serious problem lately, but one which is seemingly so simple that every one should be able to solve it, says a writer in the New York Recorder. I have been their advice, but found no relief trying to define pride. What is pride, until I took Lydia E. Dr. Nichols is reported to be coming anyhow? Again, we have been taught all our have that tired feellives that nothing that is false can be real, and yet we are day by day brought the morning as much in contact with an existing condition as at night after a which we dominate false pride. Here hard day's work, and is a paradox surely. There are pride of birth, pride of being, pride of intelligence and pride of a thousand of other things of about equal importance, but the grouping of all of them brings me back to the original question, What is pride? We never deceive others until we first deceive ourselves. It would not appear necessary to misrepresent anything to a second or third person if it were not that we want to convince ourselves that the misrepresentation is the result of something which we should have accomplished or which we may yet do, and here we are influenced by that quality of conceit which dreads criticism and which is willing to humiliate itself for a word or two of praise. constant element in woman's love, in reality or in fiction, is doubt. Even with utmost confidence in the sincerity of the love she has engaged, few women do not, at times, harass themselves with the thought that perhaps the man only fancies that he loves her; that in the depth of his heart is buried some other love that may be quickened; that his love, now so ardent, may soon grow dim and gradually fade away. They seem never to permit such questioning to test the merit of the love they give. To the lover these doubts are never well defined, they come they are never well defined, they come for Luce and They are never well defined. are never well defined-they come only in the unexpected moods that so perplex all lovers. She is unhappy and she does not know why. She is despondent, but cannot define to herself cause for hopelessness. She is wounded, but is unconscious of what hurt her. She feels that her soul has gone out to her love; that she must have it back, but that if it is given back she must die. She is so happy and she is so sad. And the man, having no understanding of her conscienceness, simply berates himself for having at some time, somewhere, in some manner, done something to wound the sensitive nature of this dear girl. Or, not being able to find any solution of the trouble, he early comes to resolving every shade of difference through the broad general principle that all women have their moods; that such moods do not really betoken diminishment of affection; and that annoyances of this sort are part of the penalty that man has to pay for the happiness of love. In the matter of love men and women seem to be essentially different. Man always shows an abounding joy in being loved. It is never perfect happiness to woman unless she can mingle at times with the assurance a sweet, gentle melancholy, springing from doubts which, if called to answer, she would indignantly scorn and deny. So it seems ever to have been, and probably it will ever be, so long as this sweet influence, love, impels men and softens women. Perhaps this enhances the pleasure of love. So I climbed a rotten hemlock, the top of which had been blown off by the wind, and let myself down into the hollow; but I had no scener done this than I saw that there was no time to be lost in getting up again, for m; life wasn't worth a pinch of powder. I had lighted among a litter of bear's cubs, and, thinking I was their mamma come back from a foraging expedition with something nice for supper. they began to sniff about me and pat my legs with their paws. Then, findng their mistake, they set up a prodigious howl by way of signal to their Interesting parent that all was not right at home, that a guest had dropped in, and had better be positely asked to walk out again. Now, 1 knew that a lady bear with a select party of sons and daughters was not the pleasantest person possible te meet, so I didn't need a second notice the premises. It was no very easy matter, however, climbing inside of th tree, for there was very little hold for one's claws and I had not made my way above a yard or so when I saw the stars suddenly blotted out above a large object coming down right upon the top of me. It was the old she bear descending tail first, just as a man would come down a ladder. What was to be done? Escape was hopeless with the whole of the inside of the tree blocked up; and yet, if I was caught there, I knew I should be torn to pieces in five seconds. An awkward position, monsieur."

"Well," said I, "and what did you do, Baptiste?" "Why, there was only one thing to be done, monsieur, and that I did. My long hunting knife was, fortunately for me, in my belt. I whipped that out, and, apologizing for the liberty, I drove it half a dozen times into the bear's tail with such hearty will that she roared for mercy and began to make her way up the hemlock again as ast as her legs would carry her, thinking (for she didn't know of my presence there) that the cubs had gone mad during her absence and privately arranging to pay them off presently for the ugly trick they had played on her At the same moment I held tightly to the brute's shaggy hide as she a cend ed and was lifted as neatly out of the

When a person is losing flesh and wasting away there is cause for alarm. Nothing so worries a physician. Consumptives would never die if they could regain their usual weight. In fact there would be no consumption if there was no wasting of the system. The cause of this loss of flesh is a failure to properly digest the food eaten. Nine-tenths of all our diseases date back to some derangement of the stomach.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial will stop this wasting of the hody. It acts by causing the food we eat to be digested so as to do good. The Cordial contains food already digested and is a digester of foods as well.

FANNY KEMBLE.

A Disagreeable and Embittered Old

Woman, with No Trace of Beauty. As one looks back over a period of ten or twelve years on the people who have crossed one's path in that time, what a strangely confused mass of images appears! Some are of absorbing interest, others very much the reverse, but all alike, from sheer force of numbers, are blurred and indistinct, says a writer in Chambers' Journal. Tonight some of these passing figures have disentagled themselves from the crowd and become clear and vivid. Let me try to photograph them-it will only be a snapshot-before they fade into mists again. First I see a small and somewhat flerce old lady of a wonderful dignified presence. The scene is a mountain hotel high in the Alps; I can hear the waterfall behind it now and the tinkling of the cow-bells, and distinctly remember my fright on being presented to the aforesaid old lady the kind hostess with whom both she and I were staying, in these words,: "Mrs. Kemble, this young woman is a great friend of mine."

A pair of piercing eyes scanned my face and there was a terrible pause before a deep, tragic voice made the embarrassing reply: "Is she a good young woman?"

It was somewhat difficult to call up the right expression at such short no tice, but I looked as good as I could, and something else fortunately distracting her attention, my morals were not further gone into on that occasion. There was something regal, something of the stage queen in Fanny Kemble's appearance, and her entrance into the table d'hote room of an evening might, from its ceremonious dignity, have been that of a sovereign into the throne room. How she terrified all of us and how she snubbed us in turn, especially the old gentlemen of the party, until not one of them could be got to sit next to her at She hated all men, we were told, for the sake of the husband she had separated from long ago; any of the small courtesies of society offered by them were resented as insults, and railroad reports all trains on time. well do I recollect one of the most courteous of men saying to her one night at dinner: "Do you think, Mrs. Kemble, that we could get up a rubber of whist this evening?" and her cutting reply across the table: "I don't know if you can; I can't." She had a great fancy for bilberries and complained that we young people never thought it worth while to bring in any fruit except Alpine strawberries; so my brother and I, wishing to give the old lady a treat, gathered a great basketful and presented them to her; unfortunately she was not in a good mood that day, and we were well snubbed for our pains. Poor Fanny Kemble! The troubles of life had embittered her, but there was much that was lovable when she let her better nature have play, and I can recall unexpected softness at parting which gave a glimpse of the kind feeling within. She may have been pretty as a young woman, but there was no trace of the Harbor It would appear that there would be no great reason for surprise if we should read any morning in the newspapers that a silent and determined crowd of spectral figures disguised as Indians had broken overnight into the Boston public library under cover of electric light, dragged the Macmonnies "Bacchante" from its refuge, carried it in procession to the end of India wharf and intrusted it to the seclusion of the harbor, says Harper's Weekly. It begins to be fairly questionable whether anything since the stamp act has been offered to Boston which so many of her citizens don't want as the "Bacchante." The opposition does not seem to abate. The image's name has been cut down to two syllables for convenience of discussion and by that and other titles Mr. McKim's gift is denounced and berated in sundry of the public prints. The opposition includes all sorts of elements from President Eliot and Prof. Norton to the "friends of temperance" and the amalgamated methodist clergy. Dr. William Everett declares that the statue is pretty and that the expression is "wholly vulgar." He is solicitous, too, for the safety of the baby. Artists who write to papers say the image is much too small for the place and deride it on general grounds. School teachers and parents say it is naked and unsuited to the contemplation of children, and foes of rum say that it strikes the temperance agitation fairly between the eyes. Not the Heine fountain itself was more thoroughly looked in the mouth than this joyous "Bacchante."

CUBANS ARE ACTIVE.

Havana, via Key West, Feb. 12.-Advices from Manzanillo have been received to the effect that the insurgents recently attacked and entered Blanquzel, plundering the stores and burning the store buildings, as well as 126 private dwellings. The Cubans also pillaged the store at Venocia plantation and the stores at Cano, burning the buildings at the latter place. large number of houses were also destroyed. These advices report extraordinary activity on the part of a large number of insurgents in that district.

It is thought that there are more insurgents in that section than ever before, among them being many Cubans who were with Antonio Maceo in the province of Pinar del Rio. AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN TARIFF. Curious Arrangement Existing Between Two Branches.

Perhaps the statesmen who will presently be wrestling with so much fervor with the tariff question may with advantage to their own enlightenment tear a leaf from the history of the Austro-Hungarian tariff arrangement, which is one of the most peculiar in existence, says the New York Herald. Not long ago, it will be remembered, a strong protest against the existing treaty arose from the Hungarian side of the border. Austria and Hungary form two independent states, both enjoying home rule, but the common affairs of the federation are dealt with by common authorities and organs regulated by the constitution. The proportion in which each state has to contribute to the common expenses is settled by mutual agreement every ten years and there is no constitutional provision for the treaty of commerce. But in 1867, when the Hungarian constitution was restored, it was resolved by mutual consent to maintain the customs union and the commercial and economic unity which had existed under the absolutist regime. The treaty thus concluded forms the subject of pending negotiations for the renewal of the Ausgleich. As the privilege of the Austro-Hungarian bank expires at the same time as the customs and the commercial alliance, the question of the Ausgleich is complicated by the necessity of renewing the bank charter. Should the customs and commercial treaty be allowed to lapse the two states would recover their economic and fiscal liberty. If either of them chose to do so it could surround itself with custom houses and shut out the products of the other without affecting the political constitution of the monarchy, but of course such proceeding would be a severe trial to the dual system. The existing treaty expires at the end of this year. Neither country is satisfied with it, but both are willing to enter into negotiations for a new agreement, and no doubt an amicable a False Beard. In the trial of the three men accused of robbing the office of the Western Foundry Company of Chicago recently, the prosecuting attorney, Kickham Scanlan, proved himself to be a lightning change artist of dexterity and swiftness. The main points in the case of the prosecution hinged on the alleged disguise of two of the robbers by means of false beards. Attorney Scanlan in his examination of the foreman of the foundry, who was in charge of the office when the hold-up was committed, startled the court and the prisoners by suddenly turning around and facing the witness with a blond false beard attached to his face. The resemblance to the man who held up the foreman was remarkable, and he afterward testified that with the beard attachments he was sure that it was one of the prisoners who held the revolver to his face. The other robber was said to have worn a false black beard, and the attorney also faced the witness with his facial appearance biTiotory for the American Apple.

.... A "Guesswork" Tariff. A tariff formed on such guesswork as the ways and means committee is now receiving can have no permanency whatsoever. It will invite criticism and contention from the start, because it will be recognized that those who have been the claimants before the ways and means committee have been working for personal profit and not for the general welfare of the country. It is a realization of this truth, forced home by hard experiences in the past that has caused the Boston Associated Board of Trade, the Boston Merchants' Association and the Massachusetts State Board of Trade to recently take action-and in the recent past the National Association of Wool Manufacturers to do likewise-asking congress to have created a permanent non-partisan, scientific tariff commission, which shall replace the extravagant guesses and misstatements of interested petitioners for government bounty by a calm, clear, dispassionate analysis and presentation of the facts. It is not at all surprising, in view of the advantages which such a change of method would bring about, that the statement should be made, that at its approaching convention the National Board of Trade, representing business organizations all over the country, will strongly indores

the tariff commission proposition .-

A Bluff That Won-

The earl of March, who was known as "Old Q.," on one occasion was challenged to fight a duel by an Irish sportsman. Lord March appeared on the ground accompanied by a second, surgeon, and other witnesses. Great, however, was his surprise to see his opponent appear with a like retinue to his own, but increased by a third person who staggered under the weight of a polished oak coffin, which he deposited on the ground end up, with its lid facing Lord March and his party. Surprise gave place to terror when his tordship read the inscription-plate, engraved with his own name and title and the date and year of demise, which was the actual day as yet scarcely warm. The earl at once approached his facetious antagonist and upbraided him with so unseemly a joke, to which the Irishman replied: "Why, my dear fellow, you are of course aware that I never miss my man, and, as I find mvself in excellent trim for sport this morning, I have not a shadow of a doubt upon my mind that this open box will shortly be better calculated for you than your present dress." Lord March was so impressed by his antagonist's confident manner that a peace was patched up between them.-San Francisco Argonaut.

HAD THEIR NAMES CHANGED.

Shorter as Well as More Pronounceable Designations Were the Result.

Among the several hundred persons who had their names changed by the courts during the past year or eighteen months many evidently were actuated by the desire for a more pronounceable cognomen. That, doubtless, was why John Dreissigackerpreis had his name cut down to Ackerpreis. The same motive must have influenced Jona Leiser Berditchevesky when he got his name changed to Lewis Berdy. while Jacob Bernard is manifestly more easy to pronounce, as well as shorter, than Jacob Boguslaewski. Nicholas Schemenckenbecker also saves his name Nicholas S. Becker. Joseph Ostrezescewicz does the same by leaving out a syllable and calling himself Ostrewicz.

On the other hand, three persons named Brown have added to their familiar patronymic, and now call themselves Bruce-Brown. They will, perhaps, ask the courts some day to shorten that to Bruce. Isidor Lebansohn when he changed his name to Gordon may have had other reasons than euphony for the alteration .- New SISTER ANNE.

In 1345 a young society girl drifted into an Episcopal church. She was the daughter of wealthy parents, and her whole time was given up to dances and to the thoughtless dissipation of time indulged in by many society peo-That morning, little dreaming ple. that it was to be the most eventful day of her life, she laughed, dressed herself beyond criticism, went to the church and nonchalantly took her seat in her friend's pew.

The man who occupied the pulpit that day was the founder of Luke's hospital in New York. He was a devotee to charitable works, and his words were the expression of a large Christian experience. In his sermon that morning he drew a picture of Jephthah, the warrier, who in an agony of prayer for victory, promised to sacrifice the first thing met on his way home from a victorious battle-field. The awful sequel followed; the greeting of his daughter as she came outside the city walls with her attendant minstrels to welcome the victor, and the relentless fulfilment of the father's vow by the offering up of his dearest possession.

The spiritual application of this terrible drama made such an impression en the young society girl that she decided immediately to consecrate her life to the work of the church. In order that the renunciation might be complete she was ordained as a sister of the Holy Communion. Then her religious Wife began. She established as a first venture a school for abandoned girs. Very soon a dispensar followed. In a short time the cholens epidemic came, and the girl who once thought it her highest mission to lead a cotillion discovered that she was happier to lead a band of nurses. Wherever the scourge raged, there Sister Anne was to be found. She was absolutely without fear. No danger was too great, no loathsome work too hard for her. The sick blessed her, ily and forever, be made well, strong, and the dying looked their last into magnetic, full of new life and vigor, and the dying looked their last into her loving eyes.

After the epidemic passed, and there was no longer any need of dramatist heroism, she quietly gave the rest of her life to the Sisterhood of St. Luke's hospital. To be an every-day nurse, to have common drugger to religious or New York. have common drudgery, to relieve suffering that ranged through the whole gamut of misery, to bury herself in waheroic work-herein lay her womanly heroism. The sisterhood that she founded has now many thousands of members throughout the world. When she died at an advanced age her only request was that her ashes should be the streets on his begging tours. He placed beside those of the preacher who opened her eyes for the first time to the unselfish uses and the true value of this mortal life.

Such, in few words, is the story of a faithful and triumphant stewardship. To her the first step must have seemed a great sacrifice; but very soon the sacrifice was sublimated into contentment and joy. To all of us the secret of the way to make the best use of life is shown in some of the conditions and associations in which we are placed. The revelation of what we ought to do time now that he can legally write and what we can become greets us in plenty of time for a decisive choice. For the sake of a few slight, evanescent pleasures shall we allow the soul's opportunity for beneficent, godlike achievement to pass us forever by?

earnest supporters throughout the northern states and Canada and many fine dogs are kept for the sole purpose of driving the white fellows, says a contributor to Outing. Some hunters use native foxhounds and crossbreeds, such as are used to drive deer. Needless to say the man who regularly hunts deer and hares will keep certain hounds for each kind of work. Hounds schooled to drive hares are a nuisance on a deer hunt, owing to their tendency to follow the lesser game when the greater is wanted. Smart harriers are excellent for hares, but perhaps the best dogs for the purpose are goodsized beagles. These enterprising fellows are unexcelled as trailers and have fine voices, while they are just large enough to have the necessary speed. The very small beagles will trail enthusiastically and make fine music but they are comparatively slow. Moreover, their short underpinning is not the best pattern for work in deep snow, in which the cream of the hunting is usually to be had. The very small beagle is a dear little dog, true, quire the use of a spoon has been in- game and interesting, but he shows vented in Germany. The mustard is to best advantage on the trail of the

Rudolf of Austria

The new periodical of Paris, La Revue Artistique publishes a letter vouched for as genuine by the editor. which throws some light on the tragic former master, and is to receive $175,- death of Prince Rudolf of Austria at Meyerling seven years ago. The letter purports to have been written by the king of the Belgians from Strasburg, on the homeward journey from Vienna, to the count of Flanders, and bears date of February, 1889. The following is the critical passage: "It is impossible to describe the grief of curred in 1778, Voltaire predicted that our dear Stephanie. The queen and I spent four entire hours by her side on our arrival. It is of the utmost importance that the version of suicide should be asserted and maintained. It may seem difficult in the eyes of our catholic population that a family holding sentiments like those of the house of Hapsburg should put forward such a story. Suicide and madness were the only means for averting a neverto-be-forgotten scandal, the details of which I cannot intrust to a letter, but will relate to you fully on Saturday."
