NEW ST. THOMAS CHURCH.

CORNER STONE TO BE LAID SUN-DAY. MAY 30.

Elaborate Exercises in Honor of the Event. Corner Stone to be Laid by the Right Reverend Bishop Rademacher, of Fort Wayne, Ind.-Sermon to be Preached by Rev. Father Morrissey, of Notre Dame University. -Excursions Coming From Several Places.

Two weeks from next Sunday, May 30, will be a great day for the members of St. Thomas Catholic Church in Ann Arbor. For many years they have looked forward to and longed for the day when they might worship in the magnificent new church which for so long has been planned for and for which every member has denied himself that the building fund might be augmented. The fruition of their hopes is now soon to be realized. The structure is being rapidly pushed forward and by May 30 it will be ready for the corner stone. In honor of this occasion elaborate arrangements are being made. The Right Reverend Bishop Rademacher, of Fort Wayne, Ind., will formally lay the stone. He is a prominent man in Catholic circles, and his remarks on that occasion will be listened to with great interest.

The special sermon for the occasion will be delivered by Rev. Father Morrissey, of Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind. Father Morrissey is a man of unusual ability, and will, of course, deliver an address of great power. It is understood that a large number of people from out of the city will attend the exercises. It is announced that an excursion from Toledo and possibly from a number of other points will be run to Ann Arbor on that day. The military companies from St. Johns, of Detroit, will also be invited and will, no doubt, attend. It is quite probable there will be several thousands of visitors here on that day. There certainly will be a large attendance if the weather is at all favorable. The new church, which will be the largest in the city, will be a magnificent structure, being built in an imposing style, from field stone, there being used in the building some of the finest specimens of these stone ever brought to the city.

The Lyra Concert.

Last Thursday evening occurred the second concert of the Lyra Maennachor under the direction of Prof. Kempf. A good program consisting of chorus, singing, solos, and orchestral music was given. The hall was comfortably filled with the friends and members of the society.

The program, though rather long, was well rendered, especially the sing ing of Mrs. Kempf, Freddie Daley, and Mr. Spitzly, each receiving an encore. These soloists are always sure of an enthusiastic reception, wherever they sing.

One of the features of the concert was the appearance of a new orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Kempf. Fifteen or twenty of the better players in the city have been practicing to-

It affords me great pleasure to be able to give before this assembly a brief account of the history and purposes of those followers of Christ who have always insisted upon wearing only the most catholic and Scriptural names, and are, therefore, known simply as disciples or Christians.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

In the early days of this century the mutual strifes and jealousies of the va-rious sects and sub-sects of the Church in America ran high. Great evil was wrought among the people of God, and much harm was done to the cause of Christ A recompilien of the write of Christ. A recognition of the evils of division, and a growing belief in the possibility of a union of all Christians, such as existed in the early days of the Christ tool, tool such as existed in the early days of the Church, took possession of several able and devout ministers of the gospel and soon brought them forward as staunch advocates of Christian union. These men lived in different parts of the coun-try and belonged to various denomina-tions. Unknown to one another, these apostles of union worked at the problem apostles of union worked at the problem as best they could, and, without any concerted action, the simultaneous movements inaugurated by them began to assume like form.

It was, perhaps, in Pennsylvania that the most significant of all these efforts took its rise. The importance of the attempt there made to restore the lost unity of Christendom is not due to any weight attached to it at that time, nor is it now recented as the most is it now regarded as the most mo-mentous of all similar enterprises because of any greater earnestness of pur-pose on the part of its leaders. But pose on the part of its leaders. But the prime movers there were men of such intellectual power and spiritual in-sight as to tower above the leaders in other states. Thus they attracted the at-tention of the workers in Vermont, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina and elsewhere, and finally brought them all together for concerted action in the cause they had all espoused. The leader in Pennsylvania was Thomas Campbell, an able and honored minister of the Presbyterian body known at that Campbell, an able and honored minister of the Presbyterian body known at that time as Seceders. In the year 1809, about the time he was led to put forth his plea for union, he was joined in this country by his son, Alexander, who had recently completed his studies in the University of Glasgow. The plea at once charmed the young man, and, so, father and son devoted their lives to a reform movement within the Church that was destined to assume vast pro-portions in years to come. By force of circumstances and of natural ability if was Alexander Campbell who soon be-came the most conspicuous figure in the new undertaking, just as Luther had new undertaking, just as Luther had been brought into the position of great-est prominence in the Protestant refor-mation of the sixteenth century.

Thomas Campbell, in accordance with the directions of his Presbytery, had, in 1808, visited some scattered members of the Presbyterian fold in western Pennsylvania. Finding the people without regular religious services and divided into various sub-sects of Presbyterian-ment with which the Church of Christ of this city is identified. From this small beginning the movement has attained a marvelous growth. Considerably less than a century has elapsed since the trumpet blast was sounded that called together from the many warring sects of the land those who were willing to plead for the union of all Christians upon the basis of the simple teaching of the New Testament. In that time the advocates of this plea have increased from a mere handful to more than a million, in the United States alone.⁴ The astonishing growth is now going on at a rate far surpassing that of any other well-known religious body in the coun-try." Michigan Alumnus.

The May number of this publication came out the latter part of last week. It is, as usual, well edited. As a frontispiece, the number contains an excellent haft-tone of Pres. Angell. This is followed by a brief summary of Pres. Angell's busy life, with an announcement of his appointment as Minister to Turkey. Following this is a short article ont he "University Alumni Fund," by Ralph Stone, lit., '92. A brief statement concerning Alumni societies of different colleges shows how these societies in other schools differ from ours.

"The Outlook in Athletics" is the title of a short article by J. A. LeRoy, lit., '96. Under the head of editorial notes, mention is made of the appointment of Dean Hutchins, of the Law department, as acting president, in he absence of Pres. Angell. Several pages are devoted to University, Campus and Alumni news. Under the heading "The University of Michigan in Congress" a brief account of several prominent graduates now in the national legislature is given.

ism, he had suggested that they all lay aside their differences and meet as breth-ren around the Lord's table to observe the Lord's supper. When this came to the cars of the Presbytery they examined into the case and severely censured the preacher for having invited to the com-munion service Presbyterian Christians who were not of the Seceder sect. This manifestation of party spirit aroused the of sectarianism.

From this point he was led to begin to preach and to plead for Christian liberty and Christian union. He maintained that these things were possible if all would accept and follow the simple teaching of the New Testament. Soon there were gathered together from various denominations many who sympa-thized with the views of the preacher These persons did not withdraw from heir respective churches, nor was it pro posed by any to form another sect. the movement. Meanwhile the work grew. The workers in different states, all having been led to deplore the evils of division and to plead for the primitive simplic-ity and union of the apostolic Church, were soon forced out of the denomina-tions to which they belonged. By 1828 they had learned of the existence and common aims of one another. Being animated by the same spirit they soon ioined forces. Many differences of opinjoined forces. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES.

With this brief glance at the history and progress of the disciples, we are now prepared to learn what are their teachings, and how their theories have worked out in practice. The doctrinal position of the movement was decided by its purpose. Its purpose was to find a ground upon which all Christians could unite without disloyalty to the great Head of the Church. Naturally, the effort was directed mainly towards Protestant Christians. Without excep-Protestant Christians. Without excep-tion they were committed, in theory at least, to the aphorism of Chillingworth, "The Bible, and the Bible alone, is the religion of Protestants." Furthermore, it was apparent to all that the Church of the New Testament was a unit, and that it divides group out of departure from ts divisions grew out of departures from New Testament teaching and practice. The leaders of the movement followed a very simple course of reasoning: "The Church has fallen into division and strife by a departure from apostolic stand-ards, therefore, the way to restore its primitive unity is to return to the teaching and practice of the apostles. Every thing not sanctioned by the New Testa-thing not sanctioned by the New Testa-ment, about which there has been dis-sension, should be laid aside. The Church is already committed to the Bible as its rule of faith and practice, therefore, it should find no objection to this as a basis of union." Early in this work, Thomas Campbell had laid down for the guidance of all who had joined him in his plea, this simple rule: "Where the Scriptures speak, we speak; and where the Scrip-tures are silent, we are silent." This was soon accepted as the watch-word of the new cause. Twenty-five years later, the new cause. Twenty-five years later, when the movement had already attained a wonderful growth, Alexander Camp-bell said, concerning this and similar declarations of principles: "On this bot-tom we put to sea with scarcely hands enough to man the ship." When the rule was adopted none realized how re-volutionary it was to prove. All were loyal members of churches that had Continued on page four.

MICHIGAN'S LEGISLATORS.

After facing what looked like certain defeat Rep. Edgar, who is a physician and chairman of the House committee on public health, won a big victory by carrying through the House committee of the whole his substitute for the medical league measure. There was a lobby of 15 persons on the floor working against Dr. Edgar's substitute, but it was finally agreed to with a few amendments, and now provides that the governor must appoint a board of six members, non-sectarian. This board shall examine all applicants for admission to the practice of medicine. Anyone possessing a certificate or diploma from any Michigan college which has a 24 months' course of study must be admitted to practice without examination. There is also a proviso in the bill, against which Mr. Edgar fought, exempting nurses or anyone who practices the art of healing without drugs or medicine (Christian scientists, faith curists, magnetic healers, etc.) from the provisions of the bill. The House passed the uniform text book bill; also a bill providing for an appeal and a jury trial in the circuit court from the decision of the probate judge. This bill is made retroactive for two years. President Dunstan of the Senate ruled to be out of order the concurrent resolution to appropriate $7,500 for a Michgan exhibit at the Tennessee centenaial exposition at Nashville and was sustained, and that killed it. The Senate committee on the U. of M. reported without recommendation the bill for the removal of the homeopathic school to Detroit and it was placed upon the general order. A resolution for final adjournment on May 25 was promptly tabled by the Senate. The Senate passed the bill appropriating $5,000 for the state board of health to provide for teaching in the public schools methods for the restriction of dangerous and communicable diseases; also the bill compelling cities of 10,000 to employ police matrons. Among a batch of appointments sent to the Senate were those of ex-Mayor T. C. Brooks, of Jackson, as a member of the board of control of the Jackson state prison and C. D. Danaher, of Newberry, as a member of the board of control of the upper peninsula hospital for the insane, both of which were laid on the table.

Gov. Pingree sent to both nouses an exhaustive message on the subject of taxation of railroads. The governor claims that instead of the railroads of Michigan paying into the state treasury $741,408.77 a year they should pay $2,267,523. All other kinds of property are paying increased assessments and there is no reason why railroads should not do the same. The governor also gets in a drive at the express companies and shows that in 1895 in Michigan they paid $2,742.34 in taxes, when, if the assessments had been made in proportion to those in Indiana they would have paid $37,258.93. The governor says that the laws and system of taxation of railroads is wrong and gives them every opportunity to defraud the state, but that he does not charge them with fraud. In conclusion he said: 'One thing is certain, that Michigan s not receiving from railroad companies any such returns as is received by other states no more favorably situated. We get in Michigan less than three-quarters of a million of dollars. Our adjoining sister state of Indiana gets more than two and a quarter millions, although we have 1,336 miles of railroad in Muchigan in excess of the mileage of Indiana, and although our manufactures and commerce are greater than that of Indiana. Taxation in Michigan has become a question of paramount importance. It amounts in many cases to confiscation. It demands the earnest thought and honest action of those entrusted by the people with the management of their attairs." In the Senate the message was received in silence and referred to the committee on state affairs. There was not much demonstration in the House, but 5,000 copies were ordered printed. Dr. Edgar's hard work in the House for his substitute for the medical league bill came to naught, as it was defeated, failing by 11 votes to receive the necessary two-thirds vote. There was a fishy odor in the House during a four hours' fight between the state fish commission and the commercial fishermen of the state and each side won a point. The commercial fishermen killed the bill providing; a license system for fishormen, and the fish commission passed the bill establishing a closed season for whitefish and lake trout during November and December, and enlarging the meshes of the nets to be used. Other bills passed by the House: Providing for police matrons in cities of 10,000 population; amending the dog tax law so that money derived from dog taxes shall remain in the school district where it is collected; making it of a manual training and normal school. The Senate unanimously passed the Merriam bill to increase the specific taxes on railroad earnings. The Senate also adopted a resolution to adjourn May 31. The retroactive bill, providing for appeals from probate judges to circuit courts with a jury trial, in cases of persons adjudged insane, was also passed by the Senate

The un-certainty attending tariff legislation restricts speculative ventures, and there is little interest manifest in the gen eral security list, about the only stocks ductuating enough to incite active trading being those which the tariff directly affects. Why Increase the Coal Duty?

Under the existing tariff bituminous coal pays 40 cents a ton. The Dingley bill proposes to make this 75 cents. In 1895-6 the imports of bituminous coal into the United States were 1,243,835 compulsory upon the city of Detroit to tons. The exports were 2,246,284. The figures for Canada were: Imported from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, etc. 123,404 tons; from Quebec, Ontario, etc., 39,987; from British Columbia, 627,257; exports to these three divisions respectively, 413 tons, 1,671,302 and 3,094. Canada now proposes in case the Dingley rate is imposed to retaliate by a high duty on our cola, which will certainly not stimulate exports. Here is an export business worth twice as Urinary Diseases much as the corresponding import busines, and it is proposed to run the risk Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on of ruining the former for the sake of screwing $350,000 taxes out of the latter, and this on the plea of receiving ter, and this on the plea of reviving American industry. Can any sane ma American industry. Can any sane man fail to see that, even assuming that imports do not fall off, it is hardly worth while for the sake of a paltry $350,000 to tempt Canada into ruining an established business nearly twice as large as that which is to yield the tax?

The realization of this danger renders short sellers cautious and contributes to the urgent demand that arises whenever the market becomes strong on damage reports. Exports are again increasing, and the demand for domes-tic milling is sufficient to keep spot wheat at a premium over the July future.

The market for coarse grains re-nains comparatively dull and uninter-esting, although there is a noticeable feeling of bearishness in corn when ever wheat weakens. This is due to the favorable progression of corn planting in the central west and the pros-pects of increased receipts as the roads mprove and farmers finish their work Exports although liberal are somewhat smaller, and the foreign demand is likely to abate moderately as the necessity for supplies for stock feeding abroad becomes less urgent. The prospect. however, is favorable for a fair demand through the summer months in consequence of curtailment of supplies from Argentina. There exists a good cash demand for oats, which contributes to the speculative strength noticeable whenever wheat becomes excited and higher. The knowledge that interior supplies are large handicaps the market and keeps the demand for futures rather light

In provisions packers are the chief operators, seemingly being inclined to buy on all moderate breaks. Outside trade is in moderate volume and the market rules comparatively steady.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada shows the following changes for the week: Wheat decreased 2,550,000 bu, corn decreased 1,935,000 bu and oats decreased 827,000 issue $150,000 in b onds for the erection | wi

Threats of a Revolution at Athens-Demonstration Against King George New Ministry Formed.

Dispatches from Athens says that the reverses to the Greek army on the frontier and the charges made by ex-Premier Ralli of incompetence and cowardice on the part of the army's leaders have caused tremendous excitement. Popular feeling points to a revolution in favor of a republic and it is openly declared that King George may be deposed if not assassinated. Large meetings were held in Constitution square and other places, and fiery harangues delivered by well-known orators in denunciation of "those who would betray Greece." The fall of the ministry is regarded as certain. Over 500 men forced their way into the gunsmith's shops, armed themselves with rifles and revolvers, and paraded the streets. Numerous disorderly outbreaks also occurred at Piracus, the port of Athens. The people invaded the cafes and smashed portraits of the king.

Cabinet Crisis-New Ministry Formed. The public clamor in Athens became so strong that King George sent for Premier Delyanis and after a long conference demanded his resignation which was given on the spot. The opposition leaders were then called in and the king entrusted them with the formation of a new cabinet which was announced shortly afterward with M. Ralli as premier and minister of marine, and M. Tsamavos as minister of Demetrius Ralli, the new premier, was the leader of the opposition to the retiring cabinet. He has been minister of justice and minister of the interior and is widely known. As soon as the legislative chamber approves the new cabinet the premier and minister of war will start for Pharsala.

The public tension is much relieved by the change of ministers and it is now believed that all sericus danger of internal disorder is removed.

LARGEST CROWD EVER SEEN IN LAKE ODESSA.

(From Detroit Evening News.) LAKE ODESSA, Mich., May 1, 97.—The Plano Mfg. Co. delivered three carloads of their famous Jones Lever Binders and Mowers to farmers at this place today. After the farmers had loaded their machines into their wagons, they formed into line and, headed by a brass band, paraded all of the principal streets, after which they were invited to dinner for them selves and families by the Plano Mfg. Co.'s genial agent, C. W. Houghtalin Never in the history of Lake Odessa was there such a crowd in town; the streets were simply inadequate to hold the people, called there by this demonstration.

$3,000,000 Fire in Pittsburg.

The greatest fire that has visited Pittsburg since the memorable one of 1845, started in the immense wholesale grocery establishment of Thomas C. Jenkins, on Pennsylvania avenue and Liberty street. Three large blocks extending from Liberty to Pennsylvania avenue, and from Fifth street to Sixth street, were reduced to smoldering ruins.

The loss will exceed $3,000,000 and is well covered by insurance. Among the buildings destroyed are Jenkins' wholesale grocery establishment, Horne's six-story dry goods establishment, Horne's office building, the Duquesne theater and the Methodist Book concern.

TARIFF ON CUTLERY.

rageously High Duties.

One of the worst schedules in the Dingley bill is that relating to cutlery -especially pocket cutlery. The duties on pocketknives range from 100 per cent to 300 per cent above present duties and are nearly double those in the McKinley bill. Why, you will ask, are these duties so extraordinarily high? And why are they allowed to remain there? Both questions are easily answered. It is unnecessary here to go into details. Before McKinley's nomination one of the five or six large manufacturers of pocket cutlery, who was prominent in the trust, which raised prices an average of about 35 per cent under the McKinley bill, began to hustle for McKinley. He is said to have raised a large sum of money by passing the hat among the 20 or 25 cutlery manufactur-T'S. Just how the money was spent is hot known. It is probable, however, that several McKinley delegates to St. Louis owed their presence there to this fund. The hat passer himself was one of the very few delegates from New York who was for McKinley first, last and all the time. He was one of Hanna's most trusted lieutenants. One of the two favors which he is said to have asked as compensation for his valuable services was the fixing of the cutlery schedule. This privilege, being an ordinary and expected one under the proection system, was readily granted by the power behind the throne. This is probably the whole story. It explains ully why the duties are there and why they will stay there.

Below is given in detail some of the effects of the proposed duties as applied o importations for the last fiscal year. Of course, but few knives will be imported under such exorbitant duties. PROPOSED SCHEDULE.

"The proposed tariff on lumber," the Boston Transcript (Rep.) says, "is simply a measure to pick the pockets and crush the industry of a large, useful and influential class of American citizens. It is uneconomic, unscientific suicidal. The statements upon which this schedule was made up are shown to have been insidious ad misleading. The result will be to strip the country not of an annually recurring income but of its white pine principal, which at present rates is within ten years of exhaustion, and also to ruin a large class of business men in this country who deserve better things. It does not seem possible that men claiming to represent the people will permit such a measure to have the force of law. If they do, it will cease to be folly and become iniquity."

Protecting the Few Woolgrowers.

Suppose the Dingley duties on wool would give the woolgrowers all the protection claimed and that the price of wool would actually go up the full amount of the duty, which, of course, is absurd. What would be the effect upon the country at large?

Mr. Edward Atkinson, statistician, estimates the annual wool product at $55,000,000 out of a total of $13,200,-000,000 produced by all the workers of importations, duty would be 1421/2 per the country and the persons dependent on the wool industry at 300,000 out of a total population of 73,000,000. The wool duty then means that out of every 240 persons 239 are to be "held up" for the benefit of the other one. This is a sample of what protection does. Of course more than 300,000 persons may sometimes raise a few sheep but the interests of these others are more those of the consumer than of the sheep raiser, and they would lose more because of increased cost of woolens than they would gain by the increased price of wool.

The protective tariff system is a farce when considered in connection with the farmer or the workingman. Will they ever fully appreciate it?

An Odio us Tax.

The tin plate makers wish to boom their business by increasing the duty on imported tin plate, to the injury of the canning industry and other industrics that flourish by reason of cheap tin plate. Another blow is struck at business by abolishing the rebate on exported tin cans. Now canned goods exported in cans made of imported tin are allowed a drawback of the duty paid, and thus an export business has been built up in canned fruits, oysters, vegetables, petroleum, et 3. Over 4,000, 000 tin cans are sent abroad annually, containing oil which competes with that of Russia, When Rn ssia can buy tin plate at $2.70 a box, wh ile we have to pay $3.50 for it, it is evide at that our competition will lie rendere d difficult. names, creeds, officers or ordinances that found no sanction in the Scriptures. Soon, however, they found where a rigid adherence to their principles would lead them. Slowly, and, at first, sadly, they saw that much which had been made dignifies the position of woman in the institution. Miss Brownell will rank as among the professors and will lecture. Her title as warden is in imitation of n that they were resigning none of the Master's commands, and that all else hindered rather than helped His cause. As Alexander Campbell said later: "The application of the principle already stat-ed trimmed us so naked that we strongly inclined to suspect its fallacy, and had well-nigh abandoned it as a deceitful speculation. Time, however, that great acher, and experience, that great critic have fully assured us that the principle is a salutary one; and that, although we seemingly lose much by its application our loss consists only of barren opin ions, fruitless speculations, and useless traditions, that only cumber the ground and check the Word, so that it is in good measure unfruitful."

From this it may be seen that the dis-ciples reached their doctrinal conclusions inductively. They did not set out with a system of doctrine made by 7,240 through Seattle. This shows an themselves, or accepted from councils or schools of the past, for which they sought proof in the Bible. They simply began by saying:"We will teach nothing as a matter of faith, and as binding upon Christians for which we cannot find a 'thus saith the Lord.'" No doctrine or practice was accepted merely because was already recognized by the religious world, nor was any new position taken simply for the sake of novelty or variety. It is maintained by the disciples that upon all points of teaching and practice they occupy ground that i sanctioned by the New Testament.

When the movement was in its in fancy there were not wanting those who questioned its "orthodoxy" and charged its leaders with denying the divinity of lesus and the personality of the Holy Spirit, and teaching "water regenera-tion." But time and success have changed all that. It is almost superfluous now to pause to state that we are in accord with all evangelical bodies believing in the inspiration of the Bible, the divinity of Jesus, the personality of the Spirit, the necessity of a new birth in order to enter the king dom of God, and of a life of true godli ness in order to final salvation, and all other great cardinal doctrines of Chris tianity

HAVE THE DISCIPLES BEEN TRUE TO THEIR TEACH-ING?

Since the time that the movement as-sumed any definite proportions it has kept constantly before the world this earnest plea: "The union of the Church of Christ by a return to apostolic Chris-tianity." The question arises, has it consistent with its principles?

What are the signs and marks of an postolic church as portrayed in the New Testament? Aside from its extraordinary officers, such as apostles and prophets, and its miraculous gifts-all plainly temporary and impossible of reproduction at the present time-the following characteristics may be noted as belonging to such a church. The church ore no human and divisive name, but was known as the "Church of Christ" or the "Church of God."1 The individual members of such a church were called simply disciples or Christians." There was no human creed of many articles to which applicants for membership were obliged to subscribe. All such were asked to make only that divinely re-vealed confession made by Peter in Caesarea, and endorsed by the Head of the Church.³ In order to have remission of sins and the gift of the Holy Spirit, all were uniformly required to do three things specified by Christ in His commission and proclaimed as conditions of pardon by His apostles and evangelists to believe, to repent and to be baptized.4 There was no relating of experience, no demand for unusual feelings or strange visions, no voting into the Church. All who made a simple confes sion of Christ and obeyed Him in the ordinance of baptism were thereby con-stituted members of the Church.⁵ Baptism and the Lord's supper were the two ordinances of the Church. Both were reasonable and spiritual and grandly simple." The Lord's supper was ob-served the first day of every week in loving remembrance of the Savior who or members. Those presenting them selves for membership are required to subscribe only to that simple, scrip-tural creed, "I believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of the living God." The vew Testament is our only rule of faith and practice-we have no "discior rules of Church polity. We preach the gospel as Peter did to the Pentecostians and Philip to the Ethi-opian officer. If men believe it, and, conscious of their lost condition, ask what they shall do, we answer in the language of Peter: "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." If any man, hearing the Gospel, says as did the treasurer of Queen Candace, "What doth hinder me to be baptized?" we baptize him upon as imple terms as did Philip, even though we may never have seen him before and may never see him again. We never baptize infants, since the New Testament authorizes nothing but believer's baptism. We never practice sprinkling or pouring for baptism, but always immerse. Here we adhere to the "one baptism," which is recognized as valid by Christians generally, withf-out regard to creed, to the action which alone will harmonize with the statements of the New Testament respecting the ordinance, with the invariable meaning of the original word used by Christ and His apostles, and with the united testimony of all competent schol-ars concerning the practice of the primitive Church. THE TRUE BASIS OF CHRIS-TIAN UNION.

In all this we claim there is held forth to the Christian world a divinely rescribed remedy for the healing of all the divisions of Christendom. The Church is not divided over the names Christian and disciple. It is the denominational names that all Christians can never agree upon. Among true follow-ers of Christ there is no controversy bout the sublime creed of the New Testament. Only when human creeds are introduced as tests of fellowship are introduced as tests of renowship does hopeless strife begin. All agree that faith, repentance and baptism are required by God's Word in order to enter the Church. Concerning many things that may or may not accompany conversion, and with regard to expedients for judging the genuineness of faith, there is irreconcilable difference of opinion. With practically one voice, the scripturalness of believer's baptism is proclaimed. From the time that uncriptural, infant's baptism was introduced, many centuries ago, it has always occasioned unseemly discord. No one can question the validity of immersion as Christian baptism. Disagreement comes when other actions are substituted for this Biblical form.

Hence, in the face of the world's great need of a united Church, we take our stand upon this apostolic and New Testament platform. We plead that all Christians do as we have done in casting aside all things divisive, that there may once more be "one Lord, one faith, one baptism," and that the prayer of our blessed Lord may be answered: Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they may all be one; as thou, Father, art in Me, and I in Thee, that they also may be one in

A GROWING DESIRE FOR UNION.

The writer just quoted also under tands the growing desire for union for he gives utterance to the following words: "There has grown up a strong and general aspiration for religious un ion. It is a growing hunger of man's spiritual nature which will never rest but will become more ravenous until A marked evidence of the truth of this statement was furnished several years ago when John G. Wooley, the great temperance orator, expressed before the Cincinnati Methodist Conference this sentiment and was loudly ap plauded by ministers and laymen: "Juda ism lifted the world out of the bed o the Nile up to a place where Egypt's cats and paltry purring gods could not survive or follow. Catholicism lifted it again up into the foothills of Europe. The Reformation mounted another rise; Methodism was up from that, and the rrepressible crystallization of young Christian life into unsectarian working union is up from Methodism, and th highest thing in sight." Other and still more hopeful signs of this growing de-sire are found in the great movements of the day that draw together for united effort in Christian worship and work the lovers of Christ of every name and creed.

THE ONLY WAY TO ACCOM-PLISH UNION.

But all this will accomplish little unil the denominations seriously set themselves to the task of finding a basis o union that all can stand upon without sacrificing their loyalty to Christ. Mani festly the Roman Catholic plan for un ion by a wholesale return to "Mothe Church" can never be accepted. And it is just as apparent that the somewhat popular scheme of a loose confederacy of denominations, all retaining their d visive peculiarities, but agreeing to liv at peace with one another, "as far as in them lies," would better matters in no respect even were it possible. What i needed is to recognize a proper stand ard and to conform to it at any cost of long cherished traditions and theories. No one, however, is so foolish as t desire union at the expense of loyalty to the Head of the Church. If it could be purchased thus it would be at too dear a price. What alone will suffice is for every sect to hold to all that is plainly required by the divine Lawgiver, and to cast aside everything divisive that is a mere matter of opinion or expediency Those who have faith in Jesus Chris and render heartfelt obedience to Hi commandments should thereby be drawn together in one body wherein is granted the largest liberty in all things not nullifying God's Word or jeopardiz ing the harmony of God's children. Professor C. S. Henry, in his notes or the chapter in Guizot's "History of Civilization" that treats of the Reforma-tion, says: "Admitting the right of in-dividual judgment to be absolutely independent of all human authority, and all punishment for religious opinions to be absurd and monstrous, has man, o the other hand, a right to oppose his individual judgment to divine authority, and arbitrarily to reject the historical evidence by which the divine decision of any article of faith is established? On this point let the student recur to the remarks of Guizot. The Reformation fell into a double error. On the one side it did not know or respect all the rights of human thought; at the very moment that it was demanding these rights for itself, it was violating them towards others. On the other side, it was unable to estimate the rights of authority in mat-ters of reason. I do not speak of that coercive authority which ought to have no rights at all in such matters, but of that kind of authority which is purely and acts solely by its influence upon the mind. In most reformed coun tries, something is wanting to complete the proper organization of intellectual society, and to the regular action of old and general opinions. What is due to and required by traditional belief, has not been reconciled with what is due to and required by freedom of thinking; and the cause of this undoubtedly is, that the Reformation did not fully comprehend and accept its own principles and effects.' This, perhaps, is the most important passage in the lecture for the student's meditation, and indicates a profound insight on the author's part into the great problem which it was the mission of the Reformation to solve; but certain that heresies and schisms are which, as the author too truly says, is of all others the greatest scandals, yea, yet to be solved." Here is food for thought. Is it not obvious that the present sad state of dis-membered Christendom has resulted from the two opposite evils here pointed out? Failure to respect the rights of human judgment and failure to obey the commands of divine authority have been the fruitful sources of all this confusion. What division is there in the Church to-day that has not resulted either from to-day that has not resulted either from a disregard of the plain requirements of the Bible, on the one hand, or of the rights of human opinion, on the other? Unless all history is unreliable and all rules of Biblical exegesis are untrust-worthy, the Church has many times been guilty of changing or disregarding some of the plainest commands of dibeen guilty of changing or disregarding some of the plainest commands of di-vine authority; and the church of the present is guilty of perpetuating and de-fending that folly. So also have the rights of private judgment been trans-gressed to the confusion of the Church whenever one party has driven out another party because of its difference of opinion on non-essential points. If even the Church is restored to its integrity i must be through a proper recognition of the authority of its supreme Head as revealed in the New Testament, and a just regard for or indifference to all mere matters of human opinion. If the Bible is an intelligible book there should be no difficulty in agreeing upon the purport of its great central commands—the things that lie at the foundation of Christianity. If these laws are binding upon Christ's followers, then all should obey them. Doing this, organic unity is sure to result. There has been great progress along these lines since our plea was first put forth. Many unscriptural customs are falling into disuse, formidable creeds are becoming dead-letters, party lines are not so clearly defined as formerly. There is every reason to believe that the broad-est liberty of opinion will soon be pos-sible in all denominations. But there is danger that this liberty will run to license and that the voice of divine au-thority will be more and more disregarded. Now, therefore, is the time for the Church to right itself and take its stand where the apostles left it. It is for this that we have pleaded through long years of good report and of evil report. We profess not to infallibility, but we claim to keep moving forward with our faces towards the light. If any one will point out an unscriptural practice among us that is a barrier to union with any of God's people, we stand pledged to prompt reformation. And our plea, in the name of our com-mon Master and for the sake of our common mission, is that all Christians accept this apostolic platform of union or show to the world "a more excellent

It has been a happy privilege to speak upon this theme in a union meeting of Christian workers, and in this city where most delightful fraternal feelings exist among all the followers of Christ. I have sought to let candor and courtesy go hand in hand through this presentation of views. While setting forth the teaching and practice of the people I represent, I have endeavored to serve the good cause in which they have long been enlisted and towards which all earnest Christians are more and more turning their attention. May the day not be far distant when no man will need to give the reasons why he belongs to any division of God's family, but when all shall dwell together as one body "forbearing one another in love, endeavor-ing to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

All are conscious of many failures in such matters, for no church has ever measured up to its sublime possibilities in holy living. What we claim is, that we are doing our best to present to the world a reproduction of apostolic teaching and practice, well knowing that this can in way hinder our attainments in the eauties of the inner life. Early in our history all human names us; that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Me." In this we ask not that any come to us, but that all come to the faith and practice of the New Testament.

THE EVILS OF DIVISION.

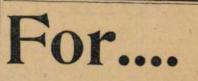

The sin of sectarianism is no longer apologized for as it once was. The clearest, truest aspiration of God's noblest workers to-day, irrespective of denominational affiliation, is for a Church glorious in its purity and invincible in its unity. With reference to the evils of division there is no room for two opinions. Says Lord Bacon: "It is nore than corruption of manners

When atheists and profane persons do hear of so many discordant and contrary opinions in religion it doth avert them from the Church, and maketh them to sit down in the chair of the scorners." In criticism of the Church Professor Huxley once remarked: "I verily believe that the great good that has been effected in the world by Christianity has been largely counteracted by the pestilent doctrine, on which all the churches have insisted, that the honest disbelief in their more or less astonishing creeds is a moral offense. The claim has been made that the "higher critics," by teaching the world that the Bible is fragmentary and contradictory, are preparing men to accept the conclusion concerning it adopted by Thomas Paine: "My belief in the per-fection of the Deity will not permit me to believe the book to believe that a book so manifestly obscure, disorderly, and contradictory can be His work," When we see more than a hundred and fifty sects of Christians, all claiming to follow the plain teaching of the Bible, and yet all of them teaching and practicing different things, may it not be charged that the Church is teaching the world to believe that a book so obscure that its earnest students cannot understand it alike, or so con-tradictory that those faithfully following it are led to opposing conclusions, or so unauthoritative that its commands ordinances may be changed or disregarded, cannot be inspired of God? Philip Schaff, the great Church his-torian, was undoubtedly right in declar-ing: "These divisions promote jealouses, antagonisms and interferences at home, and on mission fields abroad, at home, and on mission helds abroad, at the expense of our common Christian-ity." Equally clear is the testimony of G. P. Candlin, an able missionary to China, who, in his address on "Religious Unity." before the World's Parliament of Religions, remarked: "It is idle to bemoan the past, but it is the part of wis-dom to learn its lessons, and surely one of the lessons God is loudly teaching us o-day is that to have larger measure of

REGENTS MEET.

Prof. Griffin Resigns.

The regents met Wednesday at 10 o'clock and again at 2:30 in the afternoon. President Angell presided over the meeting as Professor Hutchins has not yet entered upon his duties as acting president.

Professor Wheeler, of the Agricultural College, was thanked for seeds given toward the botanical garden. A vote of thanks was also extended to the Maharajah of Jeypore, India, for drawings of some Indian buildings which he has presented to the University.

The most important action was a change in the engineering courses made on the recommendation of Prof. Green e. The courses will be extended so that 130 hours will be required for graduation instead of 120 hours, as now. More English and Mathematics will be introduced. In the course in Mechanical Engineering only four hours will be elective while in the Civil and Electrical courses the elective work will amount to eleven hours. Three new instructors were asked for in the department, one of which will be engaged for the coming year. The additional English required will throw seventyfive more students into the English classes of the literary department and a new instructor will be needed there. In the afternoon the following appointments were made to positions in the Homeopathic hospital: L. H. Stewart, house surgeon; Mrs. Ella K. Chamberlin, Matron and Principal of Training School; Miss Mattie Wilson, head nurse.

Prof. Griffin, of the law department, submitted his resignation to take place next October.

It was a clean game with the exception that the Ohio first basenan tripped Butler and prevented him from reaching second or third. This caused some anger on the part of the spectators and the offender was roasted. Sheehan pitched for Michigan and did well. Not a run was made off of him until the fifth inning when the visitors began to get their eyes on the ball. McGee caught well and will probably be behind the bat in the three games played on the western trip. The men

> Mr. Peck, the benefactor of the League was to have presided at the contest but was unable to be present. The audience gathered at 8 o'clock but no orators appeared until 8:35. This was owing to an unpleasant series of protest against the judges. Iowa and Wisconsin both made protess in the morning but these were settled and all seemed lovely when at the last minute Northwestern objected to Mr. Head, arguing that he was predisposed in Michigan's favor. After some dispute and half an hour's delay however the contest began.

Ames was applauded to the echo. Shouts, clapping hands and the college yell, all lent their share. Washington was also given plenty of applause and was something of a favorite with the audience. His oration was good and his manner pleasant and had he pos-sessed the delivery that Ames displayed he would have made a close contest for first. Wild, the winner of second place, had a good production and was marked nearly as high as Ames.

When the result was announced Michigan men went wild and Ames was nore of a hero than he was when he von the preliminaries.

He said if I would get two or three bottles and try them, and if it did not do my wife any good that he would pay for the med-icine. I went to the drug store (Mr. Clawber's on Elm Street), and bought a bottle. The first and second did not seem to have much effect but the third seemed to work like a charm. Trim the bottom off evenly all around, and in the neck fasten a circular piece of thin wire by folding over the tissue paper and pasting it down firmly. Now provide two crosspieces of wire, which may be hooked to the circular piece, as shown in the pic-ture. Where these pieces cross fasten a bit of soft cotton.

His Honor Without Stain.

Old Philadelphians cherish many anecdotes of the noted men in the Quaker city in colonial days. One of these has a sig-nificance that is worthy of consideration. There was a famous grammar school in Philadelphia to which the boys of well to Philadelphia to which the boys of Well to do parents were sent to be trained in "the humanitids." The examinations were se-vere, and the lads who failed felt them-selves somewhat disgraced in the eyes of the whole town. Many of the pupils se-cretly used translations or were helped by scholarly friends in their studies.

There is a tradition that me boy, Charles Thomson, refused to avail himself of any help or dishonest trick. He was slow to learn and timid. His classmates insisted that he appeared at an u ajust disadvantage for these reasons at examinations and urged him to use "ponies" and cribs. "No," he said. "It is a pity if I do not learn Greek, but it is worse if I learn to

He failed and was sent down to a lower class for the next term.

Charles Thomson was never perhaps first in his class at school, but among the good and noble men who helped to form the republic he stood in the foremost rank as a man whose honor was stainless. He was long secretary of congress, and on disputed points his simple statement outweighed the oaths of noisy disputants. Even the In-dians recognized the quality of the man and received him into their nation, giving him a name which signified "He who cannot lie ?

cape. The anthority quoted adds: If a soil is hard packed, it needs breaking and then thorough erushing; pulverization of the surface of an unplowed field by a disk harrow is insufficient. Living as I do where these harrows have been the chief dependence in preparing land for wheat, I am sure that yields have been lessened in many cases by the compactness of the seed bed below the surface. Plants were stunted and frozen out when pulverization of the soil to a depth of six inches would have saved them. These harrows are all right in their place, but their place is in ordinarily loose soils and not in compact clays, where so many are inclined to use them to escape clods.

There are numerous styles of cutting harrows. I do not propose to recommend any particular make, but some are constructed on a faulty principle. As we know, all draw hard. But some harrows are much more wearing on a team than others. Many manufacturers have made the mistake of attaching the gang rods to the pole, thus cauving a downward pull on the pole. They un-dertake to counteract this effect by placing the doubletrees under the pole and claim that in this way the weight is kept off the top of the horses' necks. It may be in some cases, but I have never seen a harrow constructed in this way that did not let the weight come on the horses' necks when turning at a corner, and this sinks the collars, lets the draft come on the point of the shoulders, and the team is not only wearied by the hard turning, but shoulders are bruised. The rational way is to have the pole for guidance only, having it attached to the harrow independently of the gang rods and have the doubletrees attached direct to the frame. No weight can then come on top of the horses' shoulders, and the hitch is similar to that of a breaking plow. The pole should be so attached that no tilt of the harrow can put any weight upon it.

DISK OK CUTTING HARROWS.

Facts Concerning These Implements Faults of Some Harrows.

The cutting harrows have reduced the cost of preparing land for seeding very materially. They save the use of the breaking plow to a considerable extent, and leave a finer and firmer seed bed than is often possible after the ground has been broken in the old way. Soils differ so in texture that no general rules may be laid down, but a contributor to The Farm and Fireside calls attention to the fact that these harrows are far better adapted for use in naturally locse than tight soils, though they are being use I in clays oftentimes, to escape the clo ds that would result from Breaking the land. In the slays and clay loams they make a fine surface, giving the ground . a very superificial preparation, and the soil a few inches below the surface is left in bad condition for good crop res ilts. GREEKS FORCED TO ABANDON PHARSALA.

Defeat the Turks With Terrible Loss at Velestino, but Superior Numbers Compel a Retreat to Dokomos-Powers Will Now Intervene.

The Greek armies at Pharsala and Velestino under Crown Prince Constantine and Gen. Smolenski, respectively, were attacked by the Turkish forces under Edhem Pasha and a terrible battle resulted. At the close of the first day's fight. Crown Prince Constantine telegraphed: "With God's help our side has conquered. The Turks attacked our advance posts at 2 o'clock. Their movements indicated an intention to cut off our left wing. and later they attacked our front. Our advance posts retreated, as they were fighting against very superior numbers, and took up a position in front of our right wing. An artillery duel ensued along the extensive line. The enemy's infantry advanced in perfect order at three points and in large numbers, but they were speedily checked by our infantry. We maintain all our positions intact the Turks being completely repulsed, and the engagement will certainly be continued to-morrow."

Other dispatches say: The fighting was the most desperate, and the losses on both sides were heavy, there being 1,000 Greeks and 6,000 Turks slain. But the close of the day showed the superior numbers of the Turks had enibled them to partially outflank the Greeks, and Crown Prince Constantine therefore decided to make a virtue of necessity and gave orders for the evacuation of Pharsala and a retreat to Dokomos.

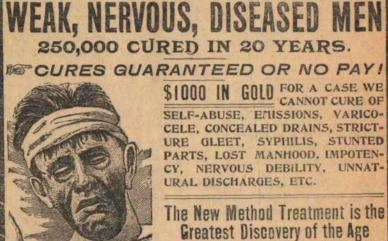

It was not a stampede, but an orderly and well executed military movement, which began as soon as darkness settled down, and was continued until the last man, all the arms, artillery and ammunition had left the place Before the first gray streaks of dawn showed in the east the Greeks had begun the preparations to defend the heights of Domokos. Incessant skirmishing had been kept up by the outlying forces to mask the retreat, but as soon as the Turks discovered the situation they took possession of Pharsala without opposition.

The railroad between Velesting and Pharsala was cut by the Turks, thus shutting off communication between the Greek armies, cutting off the base of supplies for Velestino, which forced Gen. Smolenski to commence a retreat from that point to Armyros.

The powers have decided to intervene, and the ministers of Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Austria and Italy will hand a collective note to both the Greek and Turkish governments calling upon them to cease hostilities on the distinct assurance that the powers will undertake the final solution of pending difficulties.

The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations. House.-The session was occupied by a partisan discussion of the House dilatory action in holding only semi-weekly sessions. There are some points at which the talk became rather warm, but nothing of particular interest was developed. Just before adjournment Mr. King of Itah, offered a resolution for the annexation of Hawaii to the United States as soon as Hawaii cedes her territory to Uncle Sam.

SENATE .- 37th day.-Senator Morgan's Cuban resolution was discussed at considerable length. For the first time since the debate began the opposition sentiment expressed itself. speeches were not of a kind to stimuate the galleries to applause, being in the main calm and dispassionate reviews of the situation in Cuba. A resolution was agreed to requesting the secretary of war for information as to the steps taken to locate a deep-water harbor at Port Los Angeles or San Pedro, Cal., in accordance with the report of a commission. Mr. Simpson, of Kansas, pursued his tactics of attempting to harass the majority with points of no quorum, but without success. Mr. Lacey criticised the Senate proviston restoring to the public domain the reservation created by the order of President Cleveland last February. He thought the order should simply be suspended pending an examination. Mr. Knowles, Populist, of North Dasota, and Mr. Hartman, of Montana, supported the Senate amendments for the unqualified suspension of Mr. Eleveland's order and the restoration of the lands to the public domain. The latter characterized the order as the "prating shot of the greatest enemy the American people ever had."

YPSILANTI SENTINEL.

Five of the six press feeders at the Scharf tag, label and box factory walk-ed out, Saturday, in consequence of changes made in the schedule price for mark. The Commany, formerly, paid much cheaper than the Michigan Bell rates. The Company formerly paid work. these young men by the week, but found the output unsatisfactory and established a schedule for piece work, which, after a week's trial, they deemed it necessary to revise, and the walk out was the result. Secretary Sullivan says it is not the intention of the factory to reduce wages, but to prevent waste of time and secure a maximum output for the wages paid. The schedule is to a large extent experimental, and subject to such changes as would net the hands about the same wages.

It has been a source of interest and wonder to Arctic explorers to find such quantities of singing birds within the Arctic circle. They are abundant beyond belief. But the immense crop of cranberies crowberries, and cloudberries that ripen in the northern swamps account for the presence of the birds.

GAMBLING ON THE AVENUE.

He Was Credited with Being the Most

Desperate Player in Gotham. From the New York World: Midnight on Eighth avenue. The roar of the Saturday night traffic had ceased, and only here and there a fakir lingered with the hope of catching some belated customer.

In a spacious and brilliantly lighted room, shaded by a cigar store in front. sat two men deeply absorbed in cards. The elder of the two had the hard. inscrutable features that belonged to the professional gambler, and the heavy chain and Alaskan diamond pin proved him a successful one.

The other was two or three years younger-almost a youth in yearsand showed by his delicately moulded face and nervous manner that the scene was strange to him.

"What do you do?" said the elder in hard tones, as he saw the younger hesitate.

"I'll open it for ten," said the youth, with the nervous excitement of one who held two pair.

"Ten better," said the elder, with the air of one who is running a bluff.

The youth's face grew deathly pale as he slid in five whites and a red, and his hand trembled when he saw the

the same hard tones as before. "I chip," faltered the youth.

"Raise you ten," said the elder.

"What have you got?" asked the. elder, bending upon his antagonist a pair of piercing eyes.

"A queen full." "Four deuces here," said the elder,

One Man Has Started Out to Capture Tt.

Black Point key, Florida, is now known as Snake key from the fact that a huge Brazilian boa has had control of the island, much to the terror of the guides who go there and the few inhabitants of the close-by islands, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The story is that several years ago a steamer with a circus on board foundered off the island. The snake was then possibly 10 feet long, but reliable persons state that it is now 30 feet long and of generous proportions otherwise Indian guides are afraid to go there since last fall, when two of their number were killed by some mysterious thing, and the snake was blamed for it. Several other persons who ventured to land have disappeared and tourists now cannot get guides to go there to explore the island, which is 0. It is a further coincidence that the about fifty acres in extent and thickly late Bishop E. R. Ames was born in grown with low shrubs. W. Ralston, agent for the Smithsonian institution snake department, has undertaken for the East Coast Railway Company to capture the "serpent." He states that he has no fear of his ability to catch it. He has reliable reports of its existence and thinks it is there sure enough. He says that he will prepare a huge canvas bag, 4 by 7 by 50 feet, and will manage with bait to attract the serpent in. When once it begins to crawl in it will continue going.

"After I get him once headed for the bag he's my meat," said Mr. Ralston confidently. Ralston is an expert with serpents, handling all kinds with utter fearlessness.

Indians' Names for Torpedo Boats.

A lady has made to Secretary Long the sensible suggestion that instead of giving the names of our great admirals to our diminutive war craft, the torpedo boats, the latter should bear the names of Indian chiefs or tribes that have achieved fame in our national history. During the civil war this was the custom, but the names have disappeared with the ships which they designated.

THEY ARE SPLITTING HAIRS.

An Ohio Schoolma'am Who Stirred Up Trouble.

The privilege of parting one's hair as one deems best is liable to break up a school in a little town on the Ohio. Last fall the board of education of that town employed a young woman for principal. She is a woman of advanced ideas and polished college education. Weekly she has given lectures to her pupils on various subjects of interest. Recently her lecture dealt on personal adornment, cleanliness and neatness, says the Sioux City Times. She gave particular attention to the proper method of combing the hair. She denounced the habit of the young men and boys parting their hair in the middle and was particularly severe in denouncing femininity in boys. The boys paid strict attention to it, so much so that one of the older ones called a meeting. It was then decided that every boy should come to school with his hair parted in the middle, under penalty of a thrashing for any one who failed. That afternoon the boys came to school and each had his hair parted in the middle as carefully as possible-many, indeed, having parted it who had not combed it before in months. The teacher thought she would get even with them for this little diversion, so she went into the hallway and called the boys out one at a time and made them part their hair on the side. This work was kept up for the whole outfit. Of course no lessons were heard that afternoon. At first few people in the town cared how their sons parted their hair. Now, however, many believe that the school teacher has infringed upon the personal liberties of the great American citizen. They have consequently told their boys to part their hair as they pleased. Recently the principal was surprised to see all the members of the school appear with hair parted in the middle by the express order of their parents. The teacher was greatly incensed and she insists that she will run her school as she deems best.

one which which will no doubt prove interesting to naturalists, has just occurred in the neighborhood of Jedburgh, Scotland. While one of the foresters in the employ of the Marquis of Lothian was returning from work he observed a wild duck fly from a large larch tree. On close examination he observed a common brown owl looking down from what appeared to be a nest in the cleft of the tree about thirty feet from the ground, and apparently at the place from which the duck had just flown. Curiosity prompted him to climb to the place, which he did with some difficulty. The owl on his approach flew off, and to his surprise he found in the nest two eggs-an owl's and a wild duck's. It is not uncommon for both owls and wild ducks to build their nests high up on trees, but it is surely uncommon for one nest to be appropriated by both birds.

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's wa mp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention THE REGISTER and send your full post-office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

PAPER BAGS AND HARD TIMES. One Industry That Thrives on Conditions That Wreck Others.

The manufacture of paper bags is an industry which depends largely on its prosperity to a prevailing condition of hard times, says an exchange. The more stringent the financial pressure becomes, the more paper bags are used. In the grocery store customers will come in who, instead of ordering a bushel of potatoes, will order a quart of potatoes and carry them home in a paper bag. Groceries of all kinds are purchased in small quantities, and the paper bag is used almost exclusively to do up, not only groceries, but fruit, vegetables and candies. A customer in hard times will drop in and buy half a pound of tea. In a few days he will come again and buy another half pound. In good times he would have bought a couple of pounds, and one bag would have wrapped it up. It is so with all kinds of groceries and everything purchasable for which bags can be used, and the only real complaint which will be found coming from the paper bag manufacturers will be on the occasion of prosperous times coming on us again. The paper bag mills are doing a thriving business now, and until the growing evidences of prosperity culminates in a general resumption of business activity throughout the country, they will not lack for a constant and large demand for their goods. But when the mechanic begins to buy potatoes by the bushel, apples by the peck, coffee by five-pound packages and flour by the barrel, then the paper bag will hide its diminished head and prosperity be with us once more.

The journey to Tcheliabinsk, the actual terminal point, consumes from 200 to 250 hours. Sharp-Shooting Fish.

-There are several families of very proficient sharpshooters among the lower animals; the most expert, however, of them all is to be found in a family of fishes genera of which are found in several localities, both of the Old and the New World. These fishes are wonderful marksmen, and seldom fail to bring down the object at which they aim. Their weapons are their long, peculiarly shaped muzzles, and their bullets are drops of water. The fish, after sighting its quarry, slowly swims to a favorable postion within range; it then rises to the surface, protrudes its muzzle, and, taking rapid aim, sip! fires its water bullet and knocks its prey into the river. The struggling insect is gobbled down instanter, and the fish then proceeds in search of other game.

According to L'Electricien, of Paris, a Russian scientist has invented a telephone far superior to anything hitherto used. With it a man may talk to more than one of his friends at a time, provided they are all in the same room, for it is not necessary to stand near the receiver in order to hear the sound. The voice issues from a metallic funnel, and may be heard has other advantages. Sounds transmitted through it lose very little of their intensity by reason of distance. In experiments made between Moscow and Rostof, a distance of eight hundred and seventy miles, speech, songs and music could be clearly heard. A sarge number of official people were present at the experiments, and the new telephone.

OUR TALKED-ABOUT NAVY.

Admiral Bunce Criticised and Defended on Common-Sense Principles.

Admiral Bunce's latest and some what disastrous cruise with the North Atlantic squadron has stirred up a great deal of quiet but earnest critihere in Washington, says the Star of that city. Some of the admiral's critics are incensed at what they consider his foolhardiness and talk of the necessity of a court of inquiry if not a courtmartial. Their position is that Bunce is trying to attract the attention of the country by posing in the character of a rough old sea dog-to make it appear he is a sort of modern Jack Bunsby, so far as sea-going qualitles go. These critics maintain that it was little less than criminal for the commander of the North Atlantic squadron to take his ships out in this season in the face of storm signals, particularly when there was no necessity for the rash movement. They point out that this is the second time Admiral Bunce has put to sea in the face of storm signals. In the first instance, which occurred last summer, the battleship Indiana fared badly and one of her junior officers lost a leg in the unfortunate result. In the latest instance the fleet fared worse, both in the loss of men and damage to vessels. But the hardy admiral is not without admirers who justify his course in the face of these criticisms. One of the latter said of the matter: "What are warships for if not to go to sea at any and all times? There has been no little criticism indulged in of late from within and without the navy, both as to the character of the modern vessels of our navy and the ability of their commanders. It has been intimated that it was a serious question whether many of our ships were seaworthy in the fullest sense and a few unfortunate mishaps have furnished subjects for criticism of the sea-going accomplishments of officers of rank. Actmiral Bunce has demonstrated that both criticisms are unfounded. He has demonstrated the seaworthiness of his fleet and the ability of his commanding officers to successfully weather the severest gales. It is true the demonstation has cost life and some minor damage to one or two of his vessels, but in the opinion of many of us the good accomplished is commensurate with the sacrifice. Officers, men and their countrymen will feel greater confidence in each other from the result. If our navy was of such a character that it was available only during the calm of a midsummer the people who pay for its maintenance would feel that they had been making investments in nautical gold bricks." A nother matter which the result of the cruise has brought prominently for ward is the utility of the vessels of the monitor type. The reports all ind icate that the Amp'aitrite weathered the gale as well as the stanchest ships of the fleet. F'riends of this type of ! vessel claim that this latest severe thist goes far to disprove the claim that the monitor class is not available i m a heavy seaway. When this clain , is successfully disproved by a few me are similar tests, they argue that it is o aly a question of time till the adoption 1 of the monitor type as the most desi rable warship for the defense of our co: ast, as well as the protection of our flag : on the high seas. While their original . cost and regular maintenance are or dy about one-halt of that of the battle ship type, such as the Indiana and he r class, the smaller craft is really mos t available for our defenses. A PEEP INTO AFRICA.

Marco Polo's Account of the Natives and the Animals.

The eastern coast of Africa was an unknown region in Marco Polo's day, and when he had traveled so far to the southern end of Asia that he began to get glimpses of Africa, he could not believe that he heard reports from the eastern side of that continent-of which he already knew something, as t formed the southern border of the Mediterranean Sea. So he speaks of Madagascar (which he calls Madeigascar and Zanzibar (which he calls Zanghibar) as though they were parts of India. If we remember that Marco was the first writer, European or Asiatic, to mention Madagascar by that name, and almost the first to give the world any information concerning that unknown land, we may excuse the fact that his geography is sometimes mixed. But his descriptions of the people and the animals of eastern Africa are pretty accurate, as may be seen:

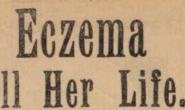

They are all black, their hair is as black at pepper, and so frizzly that even with water you can scarcely straighten it. And their mouths are so large, their noses so turned up, their lips so thick, their eyes so big and blood-shot, that they look like very devils; they are in fact so hideously ugly that the world has nothing to show more horrible.

There are also lions that are black and quite different from ours. And their sheep are all exactly alike in color; the body all white and the head black; no other kind of sheep is found there, you may rest assured. They have also many giraffes. This is a cism among naval officers stationed beautiful creature, and I must give you a description of it. Its body is short and somewhat sloped to the rear, for its hind legs are short, while the fore legs and the neck are both very long, Gz. and thus its head stands about three paces from the ground. The head is small, and the animal is not at all mischievous. Its color is all red and white in round spots, and it is really a beautiful object. The women of this island are the ugliest in the world, with their great mouths and big eyes and thick noses. The people live on rice and flesh and milk and dates; and they make wine of dates and of rice and of good spices and sugar. There is 2 great deal of trade, and many merchants and vessels go thither .-- ("The True Story of Marco Polo," by Noah Brooks, in St. Nicholas.

Dinners at the White House.

Ex-President Harrison asserts that state dinners cannot be wholly divested of the repression and stiffness which are the accompaniments of all state affairs. "There is no opportunity for general conversation," he writes in the Ladies' Home Journal, "and the chef and your neighbor at table have your fate in their hands. But there are many other dinners and luncheons to which the elect and the congruous come; and twenty such, sented about the round table in the private dining-room, make a goodly and a heartsome company. These are the dinners that endure the supreme test-you think well of your host and of the company when you wake up."

Mr. E. D. Jenkins, of Lithonia, Ga., says that his daughter, Ida, inherited a severe case of Eczema, which the usual mercury and potash remedies failed to relieve. Year by year she was treated with various medicines, external applications and internal remedies, without result. Her sufferings were intense, and her condition grew steadily worse. All the so-called blood remedies did not seem to reach the disease at all until S. S.S. was given, when an improvement was at once noticed. The medicine was continueed with favorable results, and now she is cured sound and well, her skin is perfectly clear and pure and she has been saved from what threatened to blight her life forever. S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) cures Eczema, Scrofula, Cancer, Rheu-matism, or any other blood trouble. It is a real blood remedy and always cures even after all else fails.

TO RELIEVE THE PRESIDENT.

A Plan to Prevent Office-Seekers from Annoying the Chief Executive.

Ex-President Harrison gives a penpicture of "A Day With the President at His Desk" in the Ladies' Home Journal. A feature that he treats with directness relates to the President's interuptions from callers and officeseekers. It is a rare good fortune," he writes, during the early months of an administration if the President gets one wholly uninterrupted hour at his desk each day. The President's time is so broken into bits that he is often driven to late night work or to set up a deak in his bedroom when preparing a message or other paper requiring unbroken attention. Thoughtlessness is the root of all this. 'I want only five minutes,' and if he were the only one it could be spared, but his double is at his heels, and the urgent public business is postponed or done at night with a jaded mined. It may be said that ultimately visitors should be excluded, and so they should, but thoughtfulness on their part would be a cure without a smart." Regarding the officeseekers' persistency in having personal interviews with the President, Gen. Harrison asserts that they advance their cause but little if at all. "But the feeling that something is or may be gained by a personal interview prevails, and for the first year and a half of an administration the President spends from four to six hours of each day talking about things he will not upon for months, while the things that ought to be done presently are hurtfully postponed.

MAKING A KING'S BED.

in Ye Olden Time It Was a Job Which Called for a Bracer Later.

Everyone knows the famous tale of the princess who could not sleep because under her many mattresses a pea was lodged. In reality the ancient royalties were just as fussy, to judge from the strange rules of etiquette which surrounded the most trivial objects. They could never appear in public without ceremonies of all kinds and ceremonies were used in the baking of pies and in the making of beds. The following is a true account of the way his majesty Henry VII. of England had his royal bed made. It is taken from an old manuscript, and it is certainly amusing: "The curtains must be drawn and a gentleman usher must hold the curtains together; then must two squires of the body stand at the bed's head and two yeomen of the crown at the bed's head, and two yeomen of the crown at the bed's feet and all the stuff laid safe at the bed's feet on a carpet till the contents of the pailhasse were remade. Then a yeoman to leap upon the bed and roll him up and down and array the litter; then to lay down the canvas again, then the feather bed, and beat it well, and make it even and smooth. Then take the fustian (under blanket) and cast it upon the bed without any wrinkles, and the sheet in the same wise." The sheet is now stroked smooth, tucked under the feather bed, and over it is laid "t'other stuff," that is to say, the upper sheet, blankets and fustian and the covering of marten's fur and ermine. A sheet of Rennes was laid on the spot destined for the pillows, and a large rug of ermine was placed over the bed and the bedclothes were brought up to the edge of the pillow and neatly turned down. Finally "a yeoman was required to beat the pillows and throw them up to the squires to lay them on the bed head as pleaseth the king's grace." No wonder that squires and gentlemen and yeomen retired after these efforts, and, as the chronicles assure us, had a good drink.

Witty and Good.

The second wife of Dr. Edward Hodges, long the organist of Trinity Church, New York, was a Miss Moore, of New York, a woman of fine mind and fascinating conversation. Like many a devoted wife, she had to remember that before her marriage she had laughed a little at the man who was to be her husband. She was at once attracted by his appearance and his dress, and yet her first comment upon him was a ruthless one. She had storms from which the more formidmet him at the gate of her cousin, Dr. Clement Moore.

She frequently milks a cow herself, and can do it as well as any servant in the place. But the chief pleasure of the actress is in her chicken yard. Very many people have been to call at the ranch on a summer's day and have found madame and her husband sitting out in their hen-yard watching their flocks and feeding the hens from the hand. She gathers the eggs from the nest daily, mixes mealy compounds for the sickly and ailing birds, and pulls alfalfa for them to peck it. The hens from the Modjeska ranch have won many a prize at the chicken shows and agricultural fairs in Los Angeles and Santa Ana, and the prizes are among the treasures of the house.

Poe and His "Raven."

A story of Poe and his poem "The Raven" is given in the "Forum" by Mr. Joel Benton as having been told to him by William Ross Wallace, an almost forgotten American poet, the author of "The Sword of Bunker Hill." Wallace and Poe read their poems to each other, and, according to Wallace's story, when they met one day: "Wallace," said Poe, "I have just written the greatest poem that ever was written.' "Have you?" said Wallace. "That is a fine achievement." "Would you like to hear it?" said Poe. "Most certainly," said Wallace. Thereupon Poe began to read the verses in his impressive and captivating way. When he had finished it he turned to Wallace for his approval of them-when Wallace said: "Poe-they are fine; un-commonly fine." "Fine!" said Poe, contemptuously. "Is that all you can say for this poem? I tell you it's the greatest poem that was ever written." And then they separated-not, however, before Wallace had tried to placate, with somewhat more pronounced praise, the pettish poet.

Senate Kills the Arbitration Treaty. The final consideration in the United States senate of the arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, and refusal of that body to ratify the treaty, by a vote of 43 to 26, was marked by a spirited debate in-troduced by Senator Mills, of Texas, who made a strong appeal against ratifying the agreement. He asserted that as amended the document was most objectionable, not to say contradictory, in term, and that under it England justly could claim that questions of territorial rights were still included within the scope of the treaty. Under such circumstances, he asked, what was to prevent England from purchasing the island of Cuba or any other American territory, and in case of objection on the part of the United States insisting upon the reference of the dispute to arbitration. He spoke By securing a county agency for our Reversible Wall Map of the United States and the World. The largest one sheet map published; six feet long; eleven beautiful colors. It is so attractive that it almost sells itself. of the conduct of England in connection with the Graeco-Turkish war and implored the Senate to protect the United States against the proposed alliance. The speech made a visible impression and the opinion was general that the treaty should be amended so as to remedy the inconsistencies, but this required unanimous consent and Senator Carter objected. The latter said that there could be no doubt of the partiality of the government, and the people of the United States towards the settlement of disputes by arbitration, and that for this reason there never would be any difficulty in securing an agreement for arbitration of any specific dispute with any nation, but it was not necessary for our people to tie themselves in an agreement of uncertain scope and purport, especially with a country which has shown itself so completely out of sympathy with the feelings of the people of the United States in the position England had taken in European affairs.

SNUBBING IS DANGEROUS.

Gracious Manners Involve No Obligation and Cost Nothing.

Aside from the question of right and wrong it is exceedingly bad policy to snub or offend any one unnecessarily. The most obscure person might have it in his power on some occasion to retaliate, whereas, on the other hand, a careless act of kindness is often seed sown in productive soil that will spring up and bear fruit in the most unexpected manner, says the New York Tribune. The old fable of the mouse and the lion, wherein the former liberated Two Irishmen who had been hearing the king of the beasts from the net peated and in this country especially, where the wheel of fortune is continually turning, it is never safe to assume superiority. Gracious manners involve no obligations and it costs so little to be friendly that it is surprising how many people are gratuitously rude and disagreeable, particularly among the set which calls itself "smart," but it is very noticeable that those born and bred in the best circles have much more gracious manners than the mushrooms of society, who fail to see that their indifference to the feelings of others is in opposition to the first principles of "noblesse oblige." "Yes, I admit she is pushing," said

A Church Underground.

A church under ground is a novelty in ecclesiastical structures. There is one to be found in Brighton, England. A chapel-of-ease was required for St. Paul's church, and a plot of land was purchased. Everything was ready for building when an adjoining establishment claimed right of ancient lights. The church authorities could not build up, so they built down. And thus was built the Church of the Resurrection. All the services are conducted by artificial light .. It is situated between a brewery on one side and three public houses on the other.

THE WHIPPING POST.

One Stood in Philadelphia and in Most Other American Cities.

Prior to our revolution a whipping post stood in Philadelphia at the southeast corner of Third and Market streets, says the Cosmopolitan. They were also to be found in most other American cities at that time. The pillory, which usually accompanied the whipping of criminals, was regarded as a species of public entertainment. The rabble evinced such pleasure in pelting the culprits with eggs, vegetables and clods that Watson, in his historical annals of Philadelphia, declares that, inasmuch as these punishments were inflicted only on market days, the price of eggs was then systematically higher than common. Two centuries ago these punishments were frequently accompanied by the barbarity of slitting the nostrils or clipping the ears of the worst offenders. Afterward the sheriff usually held up the excised fragments of the ears to the gaze and vociferous appliause of the multitude. We have no record indicating that nose or ear splitting ever prevailed in America, but instead thereof the pitiless pelting of the offenders with mud or eggs was a universal custom bequeath ed to us by old England and practiced until the date of the revolutionary war The penalty of whipping was also a salient feature in the blue laws of New England, as many miserable quak ers abundantly discovered whose zeal had improvidently led them into these colonies. So strong was the prejuclice against quakerism that they were punished by the cat-o'-nine- tails, while the victims were dragged at the rear of a cart from township to itownship. It was also deerned the only argument that could be used with slaves or white offenders of the lowest class which could be hoped to impress upon them a proper sense of their transg ressions. To simply imprison an indolent slave for a larceny was rather a rew.u d than a penalty for his crime and left no conscientious reproaches upon .bit : torpid ature.
