U. S. FIGURES FINELY.

CUT DON STARK'S PENSION TO $30.00 PER MONTH.

Should Have $36.00-But by a Little Trick in Measuring the Ratio is Reduced-Not a Fair

Don Stark, Ann Arbor's hero of the fight of Agusdores, last week received his pension] allowance, and it looks as if the government had cheated him out of $6 per month.

It seems that on the loss of an arm, it depends upon the amount of amputatian as to the amount of pension. If the arm is amputated at the elbow, or if the "stub" below the elbow is less than one-third the length of the forearm, the pensioner is allowed $36 per month. If what remains of the forearm is greater than one-third of the original length, all he is to receive is $30 per month.

The pension board here examined Don Stark and recommended an allowance of $36 per month, and he is justly entitled to it. The government did not seem satisfied, and requested Stark to be examined by the board at Howell. That board took the measurement, and the only way they could make it out that Stark had enough of his arm left below the elbow was to measure from the point of the elbow to the middle of the lapping on the amputation. The Howell board reported that he had "three inches of arm" below the elbow, and in this manner the government has only allowed him $30 per month.

WIFE SHOOTS HUSBAND

FORMER STUDENT RECEIVES FATAL SHOT.

Louis W. Holladay, a Former Student of the U. of M. Shot by his Wife in St. Louis-Married an Ann Arbor Girl-But it was a Later Wife Who Shot Him.

St. Louis, July 17 .- Mrs. Louis W. Holladay, who shot her husband Friday night at their home in North Market st., near the city limits, is under arrest at the Sixth district police station, pending the outcome of his wound. Holladay is at the Missouri Baptist sanitarium. The physicians say that his recovery is very doubtful.

Mrs. Holladay says she fired the shot more to frighten than to kill her husband, who she claims, .had threatened to kill somebody, and from the manner in which he threatened her she supposed she was to be the victim. The police have not notified the parents of Holladay who live in Chicago, but the young man's acquaintances expect that Supervisor Beach in Way of Building Road his mother will read of the shooting in the newspapers and come to his bed side.

Mrs. Holladay was a Miss Annie James, of Florissant, a suburb of St. Louis. She was a variety actress, her stage name being Annie Sylvester. It is said that since she married Holladay in 1898 she has returned to the stage once or twice for self-support.

Holladay was formerly a student in the law school here and was quite wellknown in Ann Arbor. His first wife was Miss Susie Clark, a daughter of Chas. Clark. It is said that Holladay became a morphine fiend and that his first wife secured a divorce on that account and heavy alimony. Later he married his present wife who last week fired the shot that will, in all probability end his life, if it has not already done so.

Frederick Nauren, a cigarmaker, was walking along the track about 11 o'clock. The car rushed upon him and he appeared dazed and unable to avoid the collision. His body was thrown into the ditch at the side of the road, and when the car was stopped it was found that Nauren was unconscious. His badly mutilated body was placed on board the car, No. 12, and Dr. Henry, of Delray, who happened to be in the vicinity, found that his skull was fractured, his arms broken and his body a mass of cuts and bruises. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital. He died at that institution should be the st. 1200 died at that institution are the st. died at that institution about 11:30 with or without his consent. o'clock. NEW HOMOEOPATHIC COLLEGE IN DETROIT ONLY A START.

Detroit Tribune Thinks a Great Institution will Grow from this Small Seed-Detroit Evidently Longs for a Great University.

The following from a recent Issue of The Detroit Tribune shows that Detroit is looking for great things as the result of the recent organization of a new homoeopathic college there. That paper certainly takes a very roseate view of the outlook: "It seem to be pretty well settled that Detroit is to have a homoeopathic college, and that next fall will see the actual initiation of this enterprise. Some sort of connection will be made with Grace hospital, so that the college clinic may get the advantage from the start. A building is contemplated at the corner of Willis and Woodward aves., and this will bring the college and the hospitol very close together.

"Apart from its value to the school of medicine that has pined in loneliness so long at Ann Arbor, this is one more step in the direction of the Detroit university which we have long believed will make its appearance sooner or later. The old question of debate regarding the relative suitableness of city or country as a seat of learning has been finding its answer in favor of the city. Nearly every large city in the union now has its various colleges and schools, and some even have their independent universities, and all this has come about through the operation of natural laws. If all the educational interests of Datroit were to be brought within a single management, we should already have here a university of respectable proportions. With one of the world's best know universities within a few miles of us, two of the learned professions are taught here under complete college equipments, and it is only a question of time when the arts and sciences will find homes here. By a perfectly natural process of evolution, the Detroit university is slowly growing. In the course of time some man of wealth will lay the foundation upon which all these scattered interests will be brought together, and thea Detroit will stand with Chicago, San Francisco and other cities in the possession of its great institution of learning."

ELECTRIC ROAD TO DEXTER THISEFALL

The only thing that has prevented the Ann Arbor & Jackson Electric Road from being built this yoar is one

That man is Supervioor Beach of Lima.

He is blocking the construction of the entire length of the road west of Dexter, but, fortunately, has nothing to say as to that portion of the road between Dexter and this city, and those who have control of the franchises between these two points, announce that the road will be built as far as Dexter late this fall or early next spring.

Supervisor Beach lives on the Territorial road running between this city and Chelsea and it is his dream to get the line built on the road in front of his farm. If this were done both Dexter and Chelsea would have to be left in the cold and the road proceed to Jackson without touching these places. Mr. Beach will not give his sanction to a franchise for the line between Dexter and Chelsea on the north road, run-Another fatal accident occurred on ning through Lima and is blocking its construction in this way.

When the road is built between Ann Arbor and Dexter there will be a loud clamor of the farmers on the north road and west of Dexter for its exten-sion, and either Mr. Beach will be com pelled to submit to their wishes, or he will find that when next spring's elec-tion comes on there will be a fight put up against him that is liable to side tract the encore of his present position of supervisor. He lives in a township which is very close politically, and he has no votes to throw away.

From Chelsea on to Jackson the franchises are secured and run for five years. It is doubtful if Beach can hold his job for that length of time, and the entire line will be built sooner or later, with a without his correct.

SMALL POX SCARE.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH FEARS EPIDEM-

Savs it Prevails in Many Places in Indiana-It's Very Likely to Come to Michigan-Ad-Evises Michigan People to be Vaccinated.

The following from the State Board of Health should interest Michigan

The secretary called attention to the fact that small-pox was widespread throughout the United States, and at the end of June there were many cases in Indiana, it being present in 22 counties. The danger from the spread of this disease seems to be great, and the Board believed that every effort should be made to prevent its spread when introduced into Michigan. The disease in other localities is comparitively mild, but a mild case of small-pox is liable at any time to cause severe cases. Then again the disease is more prevalent and the mortality is much greater in the winter. The Board believed that the citizens of Michigan should take this occasion to be vaccinated and thus make themselvss proof against contracting the disease. Successful vaccination is an absolute prevention and all those not having been successfully vaccinated within the past five years should be vaccinated as soon as practicable with reliable virus. With reliable virus there is preatically no danger from vaccination. The Board authorized the publication of a Teacher's Bulletin on the Restriction and Prevention of small-pox, Vaccination and Re-Vaccination.

HENRY A. CORNWELL DEAD

ONE OF WASHTENAW'S PROMINENT MAN-UFACTURERS.

Died Last Thursday Night-For Many Years Had Vast Paper Mill Interests in This

The death of Henry A. Cornwell, the last of the famous Cornwell Brothers who established the vast paper milling interests in Ann Arbor, Geddes, Ypsilants. Fosters and Jackson, occurred at his home on N. Division st. last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

A week before the demise he was stricken with paralysis and did not recover consciousness thereafter.

Mr. Cornwell was born in Barry, Genessee County, New York, on March 27, 1823, making his age 76 years. Mrs. Snyder, of Ypsilanti, is the only one left of the family. He was a direct descendant of Sergeant William Cornwell, an English Puritan emigrant to Massachusetts Bay in 1633.

The milling interests were first instituted by the Cornwells in 1852 and they have been the means of bringing many thousands of dollars here to be be distributed among their numerous employees for services performed. The benefit of the mills to this community cannot be estimated.

The deceased was reserved in nature and enjoyed the respect and high regard of everybody. In fact, it would be difficult to find a man who had been in business as long as Henry Cornwell and who had a less number of enemies. He was one of the directors of the First National Bank for a number of years. He leaves a widow and five children. The latter are Mrs. James Deubel, of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Fred Stimson, Miss Genevieve Cornwell, Frank Cornwell and Harriet Cornwell.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. J. B. Scott, of Durand, Mich. was recently brought to the University hospital here as a severe sufferer from gall stones. The bile, instead of passing out the regular channels, was turned into the system and was slowly poisoning it. She suffered severely from colic, and an operation became

Last Thursday Drs. Darling and Spitzley performed it and an unusual gall stone formation was removed. It consisted of one large stone the size of a walnut and almost innumerable small ones. An estimate of the number was asked for and those in charge of the case agreed that 40,000 would be a light figure for it. There were at least six large tablespoons full and the average in size was that of a very small rice grain.

The patient is now getting along nicely and is certain of recovery from the difficult operation.

and pansy velvet. Fancy grenadines for ball gowns are decidedly pretty and modish, yet inexpensive. A light quality of satin makes an excellent foundation lining.

Tridescent spangles as a garniture for evening gowns are exceedingly fashion-able. Jetted effects are seen on elegant house gowns, velvet waists, capes, etc.

Leaf-green and dark violet are combined in one of the odd new plaided materials. With this pattern are shown green velvet, violet liberty silk, and narrow-jetted black lace as trimming.

WHY?

Why isn't a wrinkle a nick of time? Why isn't a pony of brandy a fiery steed?

Why are beads of perspiration the jewels of toil? Why does the walking delegate usually ride in a parlor car? Why does a lawsuit invariably wear out at the pockets first?

Why does a man like to be mistaken for more than he really is? Why are the affairs of others always so interesting to most people?

Why shouldn't a wheel-barrow come under the head of garden truck?

Why isn't it superstitious to pick up pins at the end of a bowley alley? Why would the average man rather be charged with malice than with making a blunder?

Why does the man who reiterates with emphasis that he will never do a thing always do it if you give him time enough?

BER OF ANIMALS.

At Least That's What They Claim .- Al- The Peculiar Manner in Which Nature Has Provided Them With Facilities For Transporting Their Young.

The kangaroo is the best known example of a living baby carriage. But it is not at all necessary to go as far but we find a good deal of unselfish- as Australia to find an animal which ness in that respect in our line of busi- carries its young in precisely the same ness. Our customers rarely ever shop way that the kangaroo does. Our for themselves. They buy for friends, opossum is provided with a pouch exactly as the kangaroo is, and the moment its babies are born it puts them little curls they wear at the nape of into the pouch and keeps them there until they are better able to take care

Somewhat the same plan is adopted They almost invariably match their by the beautiful little fish called the own hair and buy the curls for a sea-horse, from its remarkable resemblance to our horse. Only the father "It is the same way with frizzes and does the work in this case, and carries,

There is even a bird which carries not fly.

Dogs, cats and other animals of the with an embarrassed air, and stood same kind, pick up their babies in looking thoughtfully down at the hair- their teeth; but there are some aniyoung literally in their mouths.

Some snakes will at any alarm receive their broods in their mouths. And an unpleasant sight it is, too, to see a number of hissing, wriggling little reptiles disappearing into the gapng mouth of the parent snake.

There is a fish, too, called the chromspaterfamilias, which does the same thing. The father-fish, in the first place, stuffs his gills full of eggs, and afterward, when the little fish are finally hatched, they swim in and out of the devoted father's mouth at their pleasure. Many animals carry their babies on their backs, and this is particularly the case with water animals, or those that pass part of the time in the water. The hippopotamus does so, and the stupid-looking little ball of pink flesh looks extremely odd as it rides about in this way. The walrus, too, often carries its often it carries it under its flipper in a very human-like fashion. The latter plan, of using the flipper like an arm, is also practiced by the whale in carrying its young. Several of the water-birds carry their young on their backs, and a prettier sight can hardly be imagined than a water-fowl sailing about with its dainty, downy brood snuggling together on its back. One bird, at least -the guillemot-takes her solitary baby on her back, and flies through the alr with it.

In South America, what is known as Merian's opossum-a first cousin of our opossum-has a very comical way of carrying its young. The whole family may be having a frolic among the branches of a tree, when suddenly the watchful mother will sound an alarm, and stand quite still, with her long tail laid along her back. The little ones at once scamper to her and scramble up on her back, at the same time curling their little tails tightly around hers. And there they stand, half on one side, and half on the other, while the mother runs away to a place

The Surinam toad, however, takes the heaviest burden on her back, or, more properly, - her back. After she has laid her eggs, her husband deposits them snugly in the cavities with which her back is plentifully pitted. There the eggs hatch into tadpoles, and the tadpoles turn into toads before they are ready to leave their snug quarters. -Golden Days.

Children sometimes astonish their elders with their acuteness of reasoning. Don't put the little ones off too suddenly, or tell them some plausible story when they come with their questions, but give them a chance, as did the sensible grandfather in the follow-

"Only think, grandpa, what Uncle Robert says?"

"What does he say, my dear?" "Why, he says the moon is made out of green cheese. It isn't at all, is it?" "Well, child, suppose you find out for yourself?"

"How can I, grandpa?" "Get your bible and see what it

"Where shall I begin?" "Begin at the beginning."

The child sat down to read the bible. Before she got more than half through the second chapter of Genesis, and had read about the creation of the stars and the animals, she came back to her grandfather, her eyes all bright with the excitement of discovery. "I've found it, grandpa! It isn't

The more people can be made to think about such things the stronger the sentiment is sure to grow against the hasty marriages which so frequently result in divorce. It will drive all divorced people to civil officials for marriage ceremonies so that the more self-respecting will seek ministerial service. This will, of necessity, bring the service of the civil official into disrepute. As a result the American citizen, who loves to stand high socially, if nothing else, will hesitate to place himself in a position where, should he want to marry again, he will be obliged to undergo the ignoring of the service of a civil official. This will cause him to consider more carefully the step before he marries in the first place. This would prevent many marriages of the kind that result in divorces.

WHATEVER may be the faults in detail of the Dingley Tariff law, under its operations the customs receipts have shown a steady and persistent increase as compared with receipts under the Wilson-Gorman Free-Trade measure.

The ery of the Free-Traders was that the effect of high Protective duties designed to stimulate home industry, substantially prohibitive and to inresults would not be helpful to American wage earners. > The decision of the state railroad crossing board that in passing the Ann Arbor railroad the Ypsilanti & Saline electric line must go by overhead crossing may result in a heavy expense to the latter road if a satisfactory agreement cannot be made with property owners in the vicinity of the junction. The Ann Arbor road crosses the highway on its surface level, but a short distance to the north it is bounded by high banks, so that an overhead crossing may be constructed with very moderate expense. The land lays so that it will be necessary to buy from three farmers a piece amounting to about seven acres, a small strip coming from each of the estates. While the property owners have not yet been made a formal offer by the company, and have not themselves stated terms, it is believed that no difficulty will be experienced in arriving at a satisfactory agreement.

I sat, sore-hearted, in my room
And heard the city's roar
And all the ways were lost in gloom
That had been clear before—
The lofty castles I had planned
Were strewn in dust around me and Despair scratched at my door.

But higher than the sullen roar
That rose up from the street—
In tones I'd never heard before,
A woman's tones and sweet—
There came at length a song of cheer
And through the murky atmosphere
A sunbeam sought my feet.

And she and I may never meet And she may never know

How that she made despair retreat

And won a heart from woe!

So ye that strive in doing well

And grieve that no outcroppings show
May still be blessing—who can tell?—

For it is often so.—S. E. Kiser.

A Song.

Sing me a sweet, low song of night
Before the moon is risen,
A song that tells of the star's delight
Escaped from day's bright prison.
A song that croons with the cricket's voice,
That sleeps with the shadowed trees,
A song that shall bid my heart rejoice
At its tender mysteries!

And when the song is ended, love,
Bend down your head unto me,
Whisper the word that was born above
Ere the moon had swayed the sea.
Ere the oldest star began to shine,
Or the farthest sun to burn,
The oldest of words, O heart of mine,
Yet newest, and sweet to learn!

AN ANCIENT CASTLE.

Said to Be the Oldest Inhabited House in Britain.

Dunrobin castle, the Scottish ancestral seat of the duke of Sutherland, is alone among regal residences in Great Britain in being visible, in certain atmospheric conditions, at a distance of between thirty and forty miles, and those who have witnessed, from the coast at Lossiemouth, the stately edifice, far across the waters, sparkling in the rays of the setting sun, are not likely to forget the spectacle. According to tradition, Dunrobin was first reared by Robert, second earl of Sutherland, in 1097; hence its name-the dum, or hill, of Robin. In old charters the name is spelled in various ways and no data exist to determine its exact age.

To the castle belongs the distinction at all events, of being, in its western portion, one of the oldest inhabited houses, if not the oldest, in Britain. A portion of every year is spent by the ducal family at Dunrobin, where the duke and duchess are extremely popular, both with their neighbors and their tenants. For a time the young Leveson-Gowers were regular attendants at the board school of the burg of Golspie, in which the duchess of Sutherland takes a practical interest.

The castle contains many interesting apartments, chief, perhaps, being the queen's rooms, specially built for her majesty, who visited Dunrobin in 1872. In the dining room there is Winterhalter's painting of the queen, presented by her majesty shortly after her visit, and close to it hangs the picture, "The Court of Old Dunrobin," a copy of one of the Duchess Elizabeth's paintings. The library contains a unique collection of Scottish historical books, Norse sagas, German literature and many old manuscripts. The famous "Orkney" portrait of Queen Mary has a place here and there are numerous busts of several royal personages. There are half-length portraits of William Prince of Orange, of George Buchanan and Daniel Defoe, the latter of whom, when on a tour through Britain, received the hospitality of Dunrobin, and penned, it is said, a part of one of his stories in the cas-

The Terrible Turk. The new Turkish minister is a terror to Washington society. He is one of those foreigners who come to America full of curiosity concerning this people, and with no hesitation about exercising it. Usually the American women of Washington are willing to satisfy this curiosity, and can hold their own against the questioning. But this new Turk is altogether unspeakable in a social sense. He attended an official function a few evenings since, and was introduced to a woman in full reception dress, a little fuller than usual, perhaps. The Turk exchanged the ordinary commonplaces, for he talks the language of the country to which he is accredited. Gradually his attention became riveted upon the woman's costume in such a manner that she was embarrassed and raised her fan in front of her. At length the minister in his earnest way, pointing

I love her in the evening, 'neath the radiance of the moon.

I love her when she's singing, and I love her when she's laughing, and I love her when she's driving, and I love her when she weeps.

I love her when she withing, and I love her when she walks, and I love her walks, and I love her walks, and I love her walks, and I shook his head in a depreciating way, and began to tell how different it was in his country. The woman made her escape as quickly as possible. Not many evenings afterward the minister was at another official reception. He was presented to a well known society woman, and began:

"Are you married?" The woman answered in the affirmative, with a smile. "May I ask how long you have been married?"

The woman said that she had entered the state of matrimony some ten years ago.

"How many children have you?" was the next question. The woman replied, with a slight manifestation of embarrassment, that The minister stopped to think for a full half minute, and with a puzzled look resumed: "In my country-"

The woman fled, and what the minister was going to say will never be known. But no member of Washington society will now risk an introduction to the terrible Turk, if she can help herself .- St. Louis Globe-Demo-

No Ugliness in Nature. No natural object can be ugly, repulsive, uninstructive or unentertaining if we see it as it is and have knowledge of its place and purpose. It may lack what artists call the elements of grace; its colors may be dingy, but then how soon we tire of too pronounced brilliancy. The ugliest weed, on the other hand, is not always ugly. Think of the brilliant beetle or gay butterfly that may rest upon it. A turtle rooting in the mud of a ditch, itself the color of the soiled water that surrounds it, is so beautifully adapted to its home and habits that we forget the lack of pleasing color and are impressed with the more suggestive beauty of adaptation. We must center a thought upon the object before us-a serious, prolonged, truth-desiring thought-and there and then only will the symmetry of nature's handiwork become apparent. Such recognition on our part repays us as fully as floods of color delight the unthinking eye .-Lippincott's.

WOMEN IN CIGAR STORES

THEY ARE DAZZLERS AND MAKE MEN PAY DEARLY.

A Branch of Trade the Girls Have Invaded and in Which They Are Said to Be Very Successful.

It is one necessary trait in a man of business, under the present system of competition, to study men's weaknesses and profit by them. The man who owns the cigar store is not outside the class that must pry into the crannles and weak spots under a man's hat, and the cigar men of this city have just about taken the gauge of weak humanity here.

Make a tour of the cigar stands of this city and note the number of pretty girls behind the counters. All of them are pretty enough to stagger a chappie, and some of them dazzle a stald business man so that he hasn't mind enough left to start his cigar after having met them eye to eye. It is for their dazzling qualities they are selected, and the reason for it is this: Mr. Alexander Hooter wants a cigar he enters the lair of the divinity and is bewildered so that when he places a half a dollar on the counter in exchange for the 5-cent cigar and gets back three cents, he doesn't say a word, but pockets his short change and gapes himself out on the streets. It he discovers his loss afterward he won't go back because it is a pretty

There is an angel of nicotine on Walnut street who has blond hair and an infinite assortment of plaid waists. Many a chapple has paid her 15 cents for a poor old pale clgar which sells three for 10 cents. She smiles at them and they simply forget; they would submit to anything from her plump and rosy hands.

There is another on Wyandotte street who wears her hair like a Houdan hen, and she is the chief corker of the set. No matter how staid the smoker may be, it behooves him to get the right change ready before he buys a cigar from her.

The siren business was not in the game compared to the girl cigar clerks of Kansas City, and to the coming novelist it is suggested that that old simile be dropped and "as alluring as a cigar maiden" be used in its stead .-Kansas City Times.

The six children of the emperor and empress of Germany are all nice looking and well grown, the little daughter being the apple of her father's eye. They are brought up in an exceedingly simple way and worship their mother and father. The empress is indeed a model mother and wife; she wears a housewifely apron, makes her own coffee and pours it out like any other German frau. She, in her turn, was brought up with strict simplicity, as were all her brothers and sisters. Their schoolroom life was regularity itself, and holidays were very few and far between. Each child was the recipient of a limited amount of pocket money, of which their royal mother insisted on a strict account being kept.

The baby boys had their heads shaven and their little sisters had their hair stiffened and polished and dressed as though for a great function, with little bird-cages and fringes of beads and paper atop. A novel style of baby headgear was a halo of stiff pompons that rose above its little wearer's somber eyes. Some of the bales wore a huge rosette of silk on each temple, and one little maid had a mane of black silk cue strings depending from the back of her head. Even the complexions of the babies were carefully done up, and not only were the eyebrows penciled but the smooth little yellow cheeks and the tiny mouths were colored with beautiful pink rouge, put on quite freely, in the usual Chinese manner.

shoes. Knitted or crocheted socks are Much Care and Attention Is Necessary to Make It Grow Beautiful and Have It Remain So.

Surely a luxurious head of hair is gloves, if she buys a good pair, and one of woman's chief attractions. A good many women start with this possession and yet how very rarely does the average woman retain the tresses of her youth when once past

> To begin with, people know very little about the art of brushing their hair. It is woefully neglected. They certainly brush it and comb it through sufficiently to be able to do it up tidfly, but no more. Now, the hair should be brushed for at least a quarter of an hour, night and morning, and this is not easy to do for one's self, particularly if one's tresses be thick and long.. Those, therefore who cannot afford the luxury of a maid should persuade an elder or a young sister, as the case may be, to lend their services in this matter, doing for them the same office in return.

The hygiene of the head is an allimportant matter, for, of course, the skin must be kept clean and in good condition. Some skins require a quantity of grease or the hair is apt to get dry and brittle. A dry head wants continual applications of greasy washes, mixed occasionally with a certain amount of stimulants, while the ends of the hair need constant cutting and singeing. Such hair often turns gray very prematurely, especially with the constant use of irons, which is now a necessity, owing to fashion's love of waving. But it may be, to a certain extent, averted by close attention and continual greasing. The possessors of greasy heads have to be just as careful, for nothing is more repulsive, particularly when the hair is dark, but a stimulating wash will keep it in very good condition with fairly frequent washing.

It is as essential to go to a really reliable specialist for advice on the hair as it is to go to a good dentist or a doctor. If we get anything the matter with our skin we go to a skin spe cialist, but with out hair in a weak state we persistently try various lotions which may not be in the least suitable and which probably will do much harm. There are many really good hair tonics, but it is as well to know first the particular kind which suits us. There is no doubt that the waving of the hair, which has been in fashion for the last three years, has done a great deal to damage the hair, particularly when attempted by amateurs, who invariably use the irons while they are too hot. Happily the waving is now much looser and lighter than of yore and consequently does not require such hot frons as it did a year ago.

If Ann Arbor People are not Convinced by Local Testimony, They Differ from Other People.

Facts are stubborn; Some may be disputed

None can be disproved. A fact is always hedged about with proof; has to stand the test of investigation or it drifts to the realm of doubt. Investigate closely the following. The closer the scrutiny the more convincing the results. Ann Arbor citizen speaks here; speaks from experience and conviction:

Mrs. John Kuebler, of 212 Miller avenue, says: "I caught a severe cold which settled in my back and kidneys and brought on an attack of lumbago or backache. There was a constant heavy, dull aching pain across my loins. It was painful for me to stoop or lift anything. I could not rest com-fortably at night and always felt tired and unrefreshed in the mornings. Having seen Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and recommended highly I went to Eberbach & Son's drug store and got a box. I did not take all of them before I was cured.'

Last Day of the International Y. P. S. C. E. Convention.

THE CLOSE OF A BUSY WEEK.

Rev. C. N. Howard Points Out the Peril to the Country from the Rum Traffic - Necessity for Increase in Mission Work.

Detroit, July 11.-The closing day of the International Christian Endeavor convention was the busiest day of a great gatherings. The tendencies of the '99 gathering along educational and other practical lines have caused this convention to be called the educational convention. Its general trend is conceded to have been to broaden as well as inspire the young people, rather than to have led them toward narrow night? There are a dozen things I forms of spirituality or intolerant re- | can go into when I have more time. ligious views.

The last quiet hour early morning service was largely attended. Missions was the topic in both the great tents at the morning meetings; foreign | shedmissions in Tent Endeavor, home missions in Tent Williston. In the former meeting the foreign missionaries present were introduced to the great audience by "Father Endeavorer" Clark. The first address was by Rev. Dr. A. McLean of Cincinnati. His topic was "The Great Need of Missions." urging the strong necessity for increased work in this line he said: 'Nineteen centuries have passed since Christ was born, and only one-third of the race is even nominally Christian. Nine per cent of all the people on the globe are Protestant, 15 per cent are Catholic and 7 per cent are Greek. At present there are more than 1,000,000-000 souls without the gospel. Not only so, but the non-Christian part of the population is increasing at an appalling rate. There are 250,000,000 more in this class than there were a century ago."

One of the principal addresses in Tent Williston was by Rev. C. N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., entitled "Our Country's Greatest Peril." In the course of his remarks he pointed out the necessity for a combination of all good citizens to fight the increasing power of the saloon element in the great cities of our country. He concluded: "The brewers' national organ says: 'If we find that one political party is against us, we must support the other. Self protection must be our only guide. Beer first and then politicians.' That is good gospel for us, First right, then politics. First God, then politicians. On such a platform as that the Christian citizens of America could shake the throne of perdi-

The closing feature in Tent Endeavor was an address by Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York, on "The Great Blessing of Missions."

The sentiment of the home mission rally in Tent Williston, as proposed by Rev. Dr. Hill of Massachusetts, was the Greek proverb, "They bearing furnishing.

Many home missionaries from western states and territories were presented. Rev. Dr. W. W. Body of St. Louis delivered an address on "Our Country's Many Problems." He discussed the two questions of immigration and the race problem. For the solving of the immigration problem he proposed three remedies-to maintain American ideals at their highest point by an aroused public sentiment, to legislate against the admittance of the pauper and vicious classes of Europe, and to bring to bear a combined and quickened Christianity upon the stranger within our gates. As to the race problem, the speaker said that in his judgment the government made a great mistake, which it will not be apt Sent on inspection to responsible parties to repeat in the Philippines, when it put in the hands of the negro all the Weight_6 Pounds. privileges and franchises of the freest government on the globe. "There are two sides to this race problem," said Dr. Boyd. "There is not a white man in the north who, if his wife or daughter were assaulted, would not rush summarily to vengeance. But that does not excuse though it may palliate the diabolical crime of lynching, and the hour is at hand when decisive steps must be taken to abolish it. Christianity must settle this question; legislation cannot do it," Rev. Charles E. Jefferson of New York spoke upon "Our Country's One Salvation."

> Won't Recognize Union. Lisbon, Ohio, July 11.-The skilled workmen in the local tin mill went out on a strike this morning for the recognition of the union. As a result every department of the plant is stopped and 800 men are idle. A branch of the Amalgamated Association was organized, although the mill had been paying the scale. The trust manager in charge of the mill announced that it would never be run as a union mill and in view of the strike it is probable that the plant will be abandoned.

That great medicine for the stomach and blood, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, is most effective in cleansing the complexion and healing diseases which defile and deface the skin. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and expels from the system the lurking poisons which defile the blood and through it deface the skin.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main St., Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

THE AGED NEWSBOY.

"Grandpa" Burton and the Good He Did by Kindness.

Among the beneficiaries of the Helping Hand Mission in Kansas City, Mo. as in similar institutions elsewhere, some have become workers of mercy more interesting, and possibly more useful to the poor, because of their own poverty.

One of these devoted souls probably never knew that he was a missionary. He was a "newsboy" more than seventy years old, and his humility would own no higher title. Every day, with his weak voice and thin hands, he tried as best he could to peddle copies of the city papers in the streets, sometimes in cold and storm, against which he was too slenderly clad. And some of the passers-by who saw him, but had not heard him, stopped to buy the me but to go under an operationing district was up before the council papers out of pity for his white hair and trembling steps.

But in the evening, in the Mission rooms, the old man seemed to find his real work. There was his home. No wanderer could approach that shelter without meeting him and feeling the warmth of a Christian wel-

During the prayer services he was always on duty, usher, janitor, prompter,-it did not matter what,-inviting the backward, finding the places in the hymn-books or Bibles, and smiling his own joy into saddened faces.

"Grandpa" Burton was the name the boys gave him. All the children of the neighborhood respected and loved him, for he was the peacemaker in their quarrels, and was continually doing little kindly acts for them. By the older and more hardened his gentle piety was sincerely felt, and his presence and words strengthened the penitent and restored hope to the hope less. To a writer in the Epworth Herald those who best knew him said, 'Nobody ever heard Grandpa Burton give expression to weariness, bitterness, envy or discouragement."

Familiar forms vanish every year from places where good is done, but few were ever more missed and mourned than "The Aged Newsboy" when the Helping Hand saw him no more. It is not so very long since the good old man died suddenly at the mission, and his coffin, followed by a train of sober-faced boys, was borne to the cemetery where the reverence of his many friends had purchased for him a resting-place.

In a pocket of his threadbare vest, folded in a worn leaf, with a sprig of evergreen, this text was found, copied in a fine feminine hand

"Be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your

Relic of a long ago tenderness the faded writing may or may not have been. For him the inspiration of that text could outlive memory. It was his

Botanical Wonders.

A plant that will furnish you with a toothpick or a pint of water; that has no leaves and yet sometimes weighs a ton; that can live without moisture and blooms in the night; that sometimes is seventy feet high and again measures a couple of inches-surely the cactus is entitled to be called the wonder of all the growing things o earth.

Sixty years ago there was a craze for the cactus only rivaled by the tulip mania of history. Some one has called the cactus the vegetable camel of the desert, for it thrives on the stony, arid plains of Texas, New Mexico and California.

One cactus furnishes the Indians boilers in which to cook their food, and so plentiful are they that in moving from place to place the Indians never carry away the green boilers, being sure of finding new ones at their next stopping place. It is shaped like a squat cylinder and has a hard shell filled with a pulpy mass easy to remove. It is so hard and green that the fire does not scorch it.

The "old man cactus" is hoary-headed and looks like a shock of gray hair. The curious thing about it is that it is hoary only when young, losing its odd look as it ages.

Value of Letter Writing.

The value of the ability to write o good letter was accentuated a few weeks ago at the opening of a leading college. "Give this applicant," said the dean, "the best room available, and set her at my own table. I should be proud to have written her note myself; it lifts her out of the impersonality of one of the new girls into a young woman I shall welcome as a Another example of epistolary triumph comes from a recent biographer of Carlyle. The author's library had been papered and furnished to his entire satisfaction, but on the third day a young lady next door began to practice on her pianoforte. Another upheaval, involving the tearing down of a partition and the building of a new chimney, to fit up a new library in a distant part of the house seemed inevitable. Suddenly Carlyle snatched a paper and wrote so seductive a note to the young stranger that she readily agreed to play until after two o'clock in the afternoon. It is reported that letter-writing is out of fashion. This is a mistake. The neat, well-phased and charming letter has its place in society to-day, and confers distinction upon its author.

Mrs. Rosa Gaum Writes to Mrs. Pinkham About it. She Says:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-I take pleasure in writing you a few lines to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done me. I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me; it has, indeed, helped me wonderfully.

For years I was troubled with an ovarian tumor, each year growing worse, until at last I was compelled to consult with a physician. He said nothing could be done for In speaking with a friend of mine about it, she recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, saying she knew it would cure me. I then sent for your medicine, and after taking three bottles of it, the tumor disappeared. Oh! you do not know how much good your medicine has done me. I shall recommend it to all suffer-

Adrian Pressisms.

Geo. Burkhart is the newly appointed postmaster at Saline. We hope the office will be well conducted by Fred.

Chas. Clark. of Ann Arbor says he will lose 2,500 peach trees this year. They blossomed nicely, but since have all died. He has peach trees to burn, Three Washtenaw county farmers lately sold their wool crop, that they had harvested each year for seven years. They had 30,000 pounds. If they had sold each year, put the money at interest at 6 per cent and saved the extra cost of insurance, they would have been better off by $100 each.

What's the matter over in Washtenaw county? Either the schools fitting pupils for teachers are slighting the work, or the boys and girls are degenerating, or the county examiners are putting on style and elevating the standard, for at the last public examination but 11 of the 40 candidates were able to pass examination. Something wrong about this, in the county having the Normal school, the University of Michigan and Billy Judson.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win the race. A man with a wieght on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy, and his blood luggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, billiousness, and lassitude. Constipa-tion can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pel lets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the 'Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.
