At 9:20 he left for the barn to look after his horses, and his wife directed their little son, a lad of 11 years of age, to follow his father and see that he did not have one of his former violent turns. In a moment the boy came running back to the house with the cry that his father had hanged himself. Assistance was at once summoned, and the body, from which life had already passed, was cut down.

Mr. Ross was a man 65 years of age and for many years was a resident of Ann Arbor. He was a dealer in flour and feed on N. Fourth ave., and also became interested in the furniture business. After his illness three years ago he gave up business until last year when he removed to Ypsilanti and attempted to build up a branch route for the Ann Arbor Sanitary Milk Co. He was not as successful in this undertaking as he had hoped, however, and brooding over these financial difficulies is thought to have been partly instrumental in the return of his brain disorder. He leaves a wife, but no children, the little boy who lived in the family being the son of Clifford Hand who is serving in Jackson prison on the charge of having murdered Nightwatchman Pulver of Ypsilanti.

WHAT THE COUNTY PAYS.

An Answer to Ouestions That is Often Asked-No Small Salaries Paid by the County-Better Pay Than Servants for Business Firms

The question is often asked and more often wondered at as to what the several county offices pay the incumbents. The following will give a good idea

The best office is that of sheriff. His fees from the service of papers in the circuit court cases fatten up the job to Washington street. the extent that $5,000 a year is considered a very low estimate as to what the office is worth. It is a job well

It isg enerally supposed that the office as that of sheriff, and usually there is as much of a scramble for the nomination. But county clerk is not the paying office that it was formerly, and it is stated that it is not now worth more than $2,200 per year, and the clerk's hire has to be deducted from that to for something better, he should con-

the best county position outside of saw just what you want the other day," sheriff. His salary is $1,800 per year this, the office is a "four year" one, which is a particular advantage espec-young attorneys who desire to establish a county reputation in their profession. The salary is $1,000 per year and the board of supervisors allow $600 per year for the prosecutor's attention to justice court cases. He also is allowed by law $5 attorney fee in divorce cases in which there is a minor child-This will bring his stipend up to $1,700

The register of deeds will average about $2,000 per year out of his fees for recording papers, but it must be remembered that he has to pay his clerk's salary out of that.

The county treasurer is allowed $1000 a year by the board. Then he gets $5 on every saloonkeeper's license, and has other sources of revenue besides, such as fees for the collection of unpaid taxes. This will bring his emoluments up to at least $1,800 a year, and it is little enough for an officer who has to give $200,000 bond.

The best that a circuit court commissioner can do in Ann Arbor in the fees coming into his office is $350 per year while the Ypsilanti commissioner drops from that figure about $100.

EVERY FARMER WANTS FREE DELIVERY.

Pittsfield Farmers Sign a Petition for it-That and Dr. Nichols' Petition Sent to Congressman Smith.

Henry De Pue, who lives about three miles south of this city, on the Saline road, has circulated a petition among the farmers sotuh and west of his home for free rural delivery.

He took a 25 mile route and secured the names of all but five farmers for this improvement of the mail service. Tne farmers who are interested in this petition represent $4,500,000 of property, and live in a thickly settled community. The petition has been forwarded to Congressman Smith and, together with Dr. Nichols' petition for free rural delivery east of this city, makes two problems for the congressman to solve.

WILL THE NOTE STICK.

Commissioners in a Quandary-Do not Know Just What to Do.

A most peculiar question has arisen in the probate court.

Twelve years ago John L. Smith, of Saline, gave his wife a note for $1,300. The note drew 10 per cent interest. In 1888 an endorsement of $75 was made on it. The year following two indorsements appear. One is for $5 for four bushels of wheat and the other is '2 pounds of butter, 2 dozen eggs, 2 bushels of wheat." Last year the simple word "ten" appears on an endorsement. Mr. Smith died in December and he and his wife lived together up to the time of his demise.

What puzzles the commissioners on claims, Mr. Smith having filed the note against the estate, is whether she could keep the note alive by these kind of indorsements. They are inclined to believe that the note is outlawed.

A Transaction in Desks.

A passion for old furniture generally communicates itself to the collector's friends. Thus of a young lawyer in Worcester, who has good taste in antiques, the Gazette records that his enthusiasm has infected many persons -sometimes with saddening results. It was no more than natural that when the lawyer's friend, the professor, sold his desk, which was of ancient design but of doubtful age, and began looking sult the young lawyer. The man of The office of judge of probate is about law was delightfully sympathetic. "I he said, "but I'm afraid it's gone now. I'll keep my eye out for the next few days." "Well, if you see anything really good," said the professor, "buy it and hold it for me. It is not safe to let a bargain go too long. Only let me know as soon as you can, so that be a great favor." "Not at all," said The office of prosecuting attorney is the lawyer. "It's a pleasure to buy a quite a profitable one, especially to good thing, even if you are not to keep it yourself." In a day or two the professor received a joyful note. The young lawyer's mother had found just what the professor wanted-a beauty, one of those rare old bits that they cannot counterfeit, and such a bargain, only ten dollars. The professor was charmed. He immediately sent his check to the young lawyer, with an enthusiastic note of thanks and a request to send up the desk. He was in the hall when it arrived. He tore off the sacking and inspected his prize. It was his old desk that he had sold a few days before for eight dollars and Poorly Paid Church Singers.

Those who imagine that all is ease, comfort, and big pay for church singers in New York may have to revise their opinions. According to a musical person who ought to know, church choirs there are poorly paid, if paid at all, and concerts are only for those who have made a name. SULTAN'S GIFTS TO UNCLE SAM Sent to President Van Buren-Caused No End of Trouble.

On the seventh day of the month of Schawwai, in the year 1254 of the Hegira-which is the Arabian way of writing Dec. 25, 1839-the sultan of Oman, whose name was Seyyid Saooid, bin sultan, bin ahmend, addressed a gracious letter to "his excellency, Martin Van Buren, president of the United States of America," in which he informed the president that he had sent him by the royal ship Sultanee a few trifles as a token of friendship and good feeling, says the Ladies' Home Journal. These trifles consisted of two Arabian horses and their groom, one bottle of attar of roses, two pieces of gold, five demijohns of rose water, one Persian carpet, one gold ornament with a silk tassel, four camel's-hair shawls, one gold-mounted sword, two large pearls, one bottle of diamonds, one gold snuffbox studded with precious stones and one box of mixed pearls and diamonds. Under the constitution the president is prohibited from accepting a personal gift from any foreign state or power, and as the sultan's gifts had arrived in New York and the commander of the Sultanee would not leave the country without presenting his master's offerings, an embarrassing complication was the outcome. The matter was finally referred to congress, and after three months of correspondence, red tape, diplomacy and legislation the sultan's Christmas presents were finally accepted, and then the president was put to the trouble of selling the horses, the shawls and the rose-water, while Uncle Sam was given the further trouble of finding a suitable place to store the remaining gifts, and was afterward put to great expense in capturing the thief who carried off the en tire collection in a bag, and was only caught after a long chase.

DOROTHY DREW.

Dorothy Drew, Gladstone's famous grandchild, whose loving companionship added so much to the happiness of his later years, is the subject of a very interesting sketch in The Young Woman. We learn from it that before her 4th year her political views had become decidedly radical; to her mind the house of lords was a most reprehensible institution, and the house of commons was the mainstay of the nation. When the house of lords was spoken of in her presence as the "upper house," she would retort: "You mean the house of commons!" She visted the latter during her 3d year, and for a time thought herself in church. The frequent rising and sitting of the members soon undeceived her, however, and from these movements and the oratorical gesticulations of the speakers, she fancied herself in a gymnasium—an impression derived from a previous visit to such a place. For some time after this the commons was "the place where granddad goes to do his 'nastics," or, on occasions, "the place where granddad goes to do the very long corridor to put on her new white frock and her silk gloves, and how a grand servant all dressed in red came to say that the queen was waiting. 'The Indian man whom the queen likes very much" was at the door, and the next moment Dorothy stood before the great queen whom her But Dorothy thought nothing of the vastness of the empire, or of the length of the reign which all the world was celebrating. It was nothing to her that the kindly gray-haired lady before her was mistress of one-quarter of the whole human race. To Dorothy she was just another woman like grandand Dorothy courtesied and kissed her and told her her name was "Dorsie," that she called Mr. Gladstone "grandpapa," that they all had pet names at the castle, and so on and so on; and many interesting pet names were revealed on both sides. "The queen put on her glasses and asked me to go to the other side of the room, so that she could see me better," Dorothy explains, "and then she took a little jewel-case and said, 'This is for you.' I opened it and saw a darling little brooch, with a diamond V and a diamond R and a turquoise I, and a little crown at the top made of red enamel. I courtesied and kissed her hand and said, 'Thank you very much.' She looked very nice and kind, and I liked her very much.' Then the queen kissed the little debutante again, and Dorothy and her mother returned to town." Kipling, who is numbered among the celebrities who have sought Dorothy's acquaintance, tells an amusing story of their meeting. They had been in the grounds surrounding Hawarden for some time together, when Dorothy's mother appeared, saying:

Her visit to Queen Victoria was a momentous episode in her young life, and from the article above mentioned we quote the narrative of her delightful experiences:

"Now, Dorothy, I hope you have not been wearying Mr. Kipling." "Oh, no; not a bit," was the frankly unconventional reply. "Mr. Kipling has been wearying me!"

ANNAPOLIS CADETS.

Now on Their Summer Trip in Foreign

One of the most pleasant things about being an Annapolis cadet is the chance they have of going on summer cruises. The second class men are now aboard an old-fashioned sailing vessel, such as was used by our navy before we had steam warships. These young men are required to do the work of common sailors; in fact, they do everything there is to be done on the boat. They started in June, and will return in September. They stop for a week or so at Plymouth, England, and arrangements have been made for them to spend a few days in London. Then they sail for Lisbon, Portugal, and the boys are wondering how Spain's neighbors will receive them. After that they go to Gibraltar, and then home again. Of course there is a good deal of fun to be got out of the trip, and a great deal to see; but it is a part of their four years' course at the naval academy, and they have to work hard scrubbing decks and taking in sails, and the slightest disobedience is punished. Before they left this country they stopped off Hampton Roads for a few days and went through a lot of drilling, including the "deserting of the ship." In this drill the crew puts provisions in the small boats, launch them and row away toward land, just as they would have to do if the ship took fire or were in a sinking condition.

A QUEEN'S CHARITY.

Portugal's Sovereign Has Taken Great

Interest in Hospitals. We hear less about Portugal than about Spain at any time, and of late have heard less than usual. The queen of Portugal is a sovereign deserving a long mark for her interest in hospitals and hygiene, and also in the welfare of the children of poverty. At Alcantara she founded, in 1893, a dispensary Pcculiarly for meeting the demands of childish invalids, as pleasantly situated as possible, and spaciously planned, combining a diet-kitchen, consultation rooms, surgical halls and much of the departmental work of a hospital. Almost every day she herself goes to the establishment and takes a personal share in the labors of charity-now waiting in the kitchen distributions, and again assisting in the surgery. Several well known women of her court are equally practical. The general charge of it is committed to a religious order, a favorite of the queen's, but the eminent Portuguese physician, Dr. Silva Carvalho, heads the staff of medical workers. In one year (1895) there were given in the building, 8,559 consultations, 63,704 rations from the diet-kitchen, 32,521 bandages, 76,480 prescriptions and 470 vaccinations. The milk and vegetables are furnished gratis by the queen, and the medical supplies are also defrayed by her. Fifteen hundred babies were treated in one twelvemonth. It is said there is not any royal charity of the sort in Europe so efficiently managed, with the additional active co-operation of the founder.-Harper's Weekly.

TERMS: One Dollar per Year in Advance. $1.50 if not paid until after one year.

Fifteen Cents per year additional to abscribers outside of Washtenaw County. Fifty Cents addition to Foreign Countries.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1899.

LAST evening was certainly the greatest event Gen. Alger ever experienced-or ever will experiencein his life.

PINGREE'S speech at the Alger reception was burdened with a wail at the "great dangers from the freedom of the press." Surely not the most appropriate thing to introduce into a speech of that kind.

THE next street that should be paved is south State. At least that portion between Huron and Williams. That part of the street is used almost as much as any street in the city and is always in bad condition in wet weather.

THE state officials resident in Washtenaw county and a couple of personal friends each would more than cover the number of Washtenaw people who attended the Alger reception last evening. It is said that some of the officials even forgot to obey orders and attend!

THE Alger reception was certainly shrewdly planned so far as the hour was concerned. It was just after six p. m., when the shops, factories, stores and other business places close. As a result the attendance of people on the street was quadrupled. It seemed that fully three people out of four carried dinner pails and waited out of curiosity to see the parade.

IT is reported that there has been discovered, accidentally, a process by which potatoes may be kept from sprouting or decaying in the spring. It is stated that potatoes treated by this process are preserved sound and wholesome for many weeks in the spring, and that the expense is but nominal. This is something that should interest the farmers in this

"LET love be without dissimulation," is from holy print, we believe. It certainly did not come from the spirit that prevailed to any very alarming extent among the state officials who obeyed orders and attended the Alger reception last night. Such people are waiting to see whether Alger or McMillan is half a century acted as censor of the half a century acted as censor of the Mackinac and Les Cheneaux islands.

Master Burtron Hessler to be in the lead in the future and are only too ready to flop, if they see the wind turning McMillan-ward.

LET's see, was there not something in the press about there going to be five hundred people from Washtenaw county who would attend the Alger reception last night. That was the gist of certain interviews given to reporters. THE REGISTER would be glad to publish the names of all who went from this county. Fifty would more than cover them! If Ping only knew this, he would wail at the danger to the press of false interviews.

THERE is a lot of kicking about the brick which have been purchased for the Washington street paving job. It does not however compare with the opposition that was made to the brick used on the Maio street contract. Those brick were used notwithstanding the kick made and, so far, seem to be giving the best of satisfaction. The brick piled along Washington street.

A well-known American writer at present residing in England, who has done some notable work as special corredone some notable work as special correspondent, recently received, according to the Bookman, a startling offer from a well-known New York journal. He was to proceed at once to Devil's island, rescue Dreyfus, and bring him to New York. The payment was fixed at $5,000, to be increased to $15,000 if the expedition were successful and $25,000 expenses. The offer was refused.

Literary gossip has it that a popular novelist in England has just received $35,000 "on account" for his next book. The total takings represented by this very considerable advance are not calculated to make us believe that authorship is, comparatively, a poorly paid field of intellectual work. In the central part of Porto Rico large fields of tobacco are cutlivated. Sugar cane grows twelve feet high and is as thick as one's arm. Coffee grows on the mountains, vegetables of all kinds are plentiful and the flowers we raise in greenhouses grow wild. There are no greenhouses grow wild.

There seems to be growing a state for the old wide bracelet, which was so hideous. Plain gold necklets are also coming into favor and a double-headed serpent in flexible dull gold, with an immense pearl for a pendant, is worn instead of the usual riviere of diamonds.

Trust Paris for originating costly things. A little gem for the writing desk just put on the market is a glass barrel banded with gold and gems. It is filled with small shot, in which stand four pens, the handles of gold, silver and lapis-lazuli, each thickly incrusted with precious stones.

Attractive Women.

Why is one woman attractive and another not? The most admirable and attractive thing about an attractive woman is her womanliness. Everybody admires a womanly waman. She must have health, of course, because without it she would lose the brightness of her eyes, the fullness of her cheeks and he vivacity. Real health must mean that a woman is really a woman. That she is strong and perfect in a sexual way. as well as in every other. That she is capable of performing perfectly the duties of maternity. Some are born with what is called "constitutional weakness." Those who do not enjoy perfect health, need only take the pro per precautions and the proper remedy to become perfectly well and strong Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription wil cure any derangement of the distinctly feminine organism.

BUTTON CHATTER.

One woman owns a handsome set of large turquoise buttons set in antique gold, oblong shape. These were reproductions of Etruscan work and were worn to fasten a blue alpaca bodice over a side vest of choice lace. Though this was the only trimming on the dress it was such that no one could see without being struck by it.

The oldest buttons in existence are those which were discovered at Mycene by Schliemann and those found in the tomb of Childeric I. Louis XIV. possessed the costilest ones ever made. Twenty-four of them were sent to him by Montarsy, each containing a diamond valued at $27,606, and he had several other sets besides almost as valuable.

For several years now the button has been cast aside and hooks and eyes as dress-fasteners have reigned. But this season manufacturers are turning ou buttons of all designs by the thousands Insignificant as buttons are, without them the present perfection in dress would never have come about and we would still be wearing loose, flowing

Very choice buttons can now often be picked up in the old curiosity shops in Paris. Some beauties procured from these sources were worn the other day by a well-known society lady; each was an exquisite portrait painted on enamel of Marie Antoinette, Mme. Recamier, Queen Elizabeth and other celebrated and beautiful women. They were set in brilliants and worn with a handsome bro-cade of the empire style and lovely old The effect was simply charming.

WHEN COMPANY COMES.

How the Country Hostess May Entertain

Most Agreeably.
"Begin to enjoy yourself when your guests arrive in fact, before they arrive," is Mrs. John B. Sims' advice in the Ladies' Home Journal, "Do not try to serve such an elaborate dinner that the work of getting it ready will draw so upon your physical powers that they will be strained to their utmost endurance. When your visitors arrive greet them with a hearty handshake; make them feel that you are ready for their coming; speak of the pleasure that you hope the day may bring; compliment them on their good appearance; notice the neckwear, the dainty handkerchief; be thoroughly interested in each and every one. When the time comes for you to prepare the dinner and place it upon the table leave your guests as gracefully as possible. If the dinner be not too elaborate and the mental atmosphere be clear and bright your friends will come again. 'Eat to live' and not 'Live to eat' should be the motto of every household."

A Newspaper for Beggars. One of the queerest newspapers published in Paris is a daily journal, got up especially for beggars. The mendicants of Paris have their labor union, and labor dues in the same way as an ordinary trade. Only a limited number of hektograph copies of the journal are issued, and these are distributed among the various district headquarters of the metropolis. It contains tips for all sorts of mendicants. There are complete lists of the baptisms, weddings and funerals to take place each day, so that the beggar knows where to go if he wants to ply his trade successfully. For the advantage of begging letter writers, a special column is set apart for noting the arrivals and departures of persons of known charitable tendencies If the philanthropist millionaire should be surprised on returning to Paris that pleas for assistance at once begin to pour in upon him, he will be able to ascribe this phenomenon to the kind offices of the Beggars' Journal.

A Strawberry Possibility. An exceedingly pretty strawberry dessert as well as a delicious one is called strawberry fromage. Here is the recipe: Soak an ounce of gela...1 in a half pint of cold water half an hour. Press a quart of clean, rich strawberries through a flour sieve fine enough to prevent the seeds from going through; add one cup of pulverized sugar, a few drops of cochineal, to give a bright color, and the gelatin just melted over the tea kettle. Stir until it begins to thicken, having the pan containing the mixture within another pan of chopped ice. As it thickens, beat in rapidly one pint of whipped cream. Line a mold with lady fingers, fill with the fromage; cover and pack in ice and rock salt for two hours, when it will be found frozen and ready

American Refuses a Drink.

A man who lately came over from America told the writer that on board the steamer one of the passengers went up to another in the smokingroom and asked him to have a drink with him. The man thus invited continued reading a newspaper and made no reply. The other man again asked him to drink with him. No answer. A third invitation was then given in these words:

'Sir, I have asked you in as friendly a way as possible to drink with me, and each time you went on with your reading, and had not the civility to an swer me. Now I ask you for the third time if you will drink wine, whisky, or anything else with me?"

The man then put aside his paper and answered quietly: "Do you see that glass, sir? Well, if I were to take "Do you see even a quarter of it, I could not leave off until I had drank all the liquor on poard. This is why I would not drink with you."

All present admired the man's self-control and learned a striking lesson on the danger of putting temptation in

APPARENT AT ONCE,

It is easy for any one to under-stand that Alabastine, the base of which is a cement that when applied to any clean solid surface goes through a process of setting and grows hard with age, should be durable, that is, not rub and scale off, but admit of recoating from time to time without having to wash and scrape off its old coats before renewing. It is equally plain that all kalsomines are the reverse of this, being manufactured from whiting, chalks, clays, etc., for a base, and being stuck on the wall with glue, which when exposed to the air, moisture, etc., soon decays, and the rubbing and scaling then commences, leaving the walls in a terrible condition.

On account of this bad repute, manufacturers of kalsomines many brand their products with some arbi trary name, but the contents of the package still remain a kalsomine. Alabastine is for sale by druggists and paint dealers everywhere.

FROM THE FROG.

One May Get Some Valuable Lessons In Swimming.

Washington Star: "A swimmer, no matter whether he is a beginner or an expert, cannot improve upon the advice of his great-grandfather, which is to go to a brook or swamp and study the manner and methods of the frog," remarked an ex-champion of the New York Athletic club to a writer for the Star recently. "The most expert swimmers in the world are tyros compared to the laziest bullfrogs. The difficulty with all swimmers is that they spoil the effect of the stroke by the recovery. When a frog starts off he draws his legs carefully and slowly up under him until he is in the position of a man sitting on his haunches. Then he suddenly gives a mighty spring in the water, kicking his legs out, behind him, but almost directly crosswise. After the kicks his legs are slowly drawn together by his motion through the water until they hang out behind him in a perfectly rigid form. Every toe of his web feet is held out as straight as an arrow and then nothing retards his motion through the water. Then again he slowly and carefully draws his legs in and repeats the performance. You will notice that in drawing the legs up to his body for a second kick the frog recedes a little. This is owing to the action of the upper leg on the water, and it corresponds exactly with the similar movement on the part of a man. The first thing a frog does is to give his body a good start through the water, and he holds himself in such a way that he gets the whole value of the stroke. A man starts out with just such a kick, but after he has gone two or three feet he will begin to swing his hands forward or draw up his legs in such a fashion that they offset the whole value of his work. He stops his own body half way before the effect of the stroke has spent itself."

Unpopular Souvenirs.

Washington Post: That makes me think, by the way, of a costly mistake a theatrical man I know made last winter. The mistake is stored in one of the Washington theaters this very minute, and there is a trunkful of it. Some of it is blue and some of it is yellow, and some of it is shell pink. but all of it is silk with silver buckles meant to be worn where Bobby Shafto. in the old song, wore his, and there are several hundred pairs of it. Theythe pairs-were intended to be presented to the women in the audience on the ocasion of the one hundred and fiftieth performance of a certain opera the theatrical man manages, and when the appointed time was come, and the glittering things were piled on tables in the theater lobby, only three women in the house paused to take their choice. As souvenirs-well, the manager simply couldn't give the things away, and they are gathering tarnish in the trunk here now, for he left them in disgust at this point in his tour The matinee girl is willing to accept clocks and pictures and spoons and goodness only knows what eles as souvenirs, but there are things she draws the line at.

That Game of Golf. Last Saturday a man missed a drive at golf and smashed the young lady who stood behind him in the mouth and knocked out all her front teeth; and then when she was being rapidly driven to the doctor's by another man, the horse ran away and upset her and broke the man's leg and severely injured her besides, as 'an Irishman would say. Happening on Saturday as it did, this has nothing to do with the ever, in a showy and dramatic way, what true golfites have always contended, the importance of learning to hit the ball .- New York Commercial Advertiser.

Stout Lighthouse Made of Bamboo. Japan has a new lighthouse made of bamboo which is said to resist the waves better than any kind of wood.

OWL-EYED MONKEY.

At the National Zoological gardens in Washington has just been received a tarsier from the Philippines. The tarsier may best be described as having a face like an owl, and a body, limbs, and tail like those of a monkey. His sitting height is about that of a squirrel. As his enormous optics would lead one to suppose, he cuts capers in the night and sleeps in the day time, concealed usually in abandoned clearings, where new growth has sprung up to a height of 20 feet or more. Very often he sleeps in a standing posture, grasping the lower stem of a small tree with his long and slen der fingers and toes. During his nightly wanderings he utters a squeak like that of a monkey. During the day the pupils of his eyes contract to fine lines, but after dark expand until they fill most of the irises.

Heads Long and Short.

An interesting comparison of the relative merits and numbers of longheaded and bullet-headed people, scientifically known as dollchocephals and brachycephals, is made by Dr. John Beddoe in the last number of Science Progress. To refer to a man as long-headed is a compliment which has a real anthropological basis.

There is good evidence that, as a rule, long heads are intellectually superior to round heads and tend to rise toward the higher social strata. Numerous measurements of students at Cambridge have shown that first-class men are longer headed than secondclass men, and they again than the simple-pass men and the failures. But though the long-headed men of the blonde type apparently have the advantage of intellect, their superiority is against them in the long run. Thus, Dr. Beddoe points out, the great Greek race, which was long-headed and largely blond, has now but few and doubtful representatives; the nobler strains of the Irish people perished or emigrated in the seventeenth century, and at the present time in the cities of France and central Europe the long heads seem to melt away to give place to fresh strains of short-headed peasant blood.

The fittest, who survives, is therefore the quiet, unambitious, commonplace thick head, who remains at home and tempts no dangers. It may be that when wars have ceased to be and there are no more regions to explore and perhaps fewer scientific realms to conquer, this may be the happiest, as well as the fittest-that is, the best adapted class of man.

IRONICAL IFS.

If love made the world go round there would be fewer revolutions.

If a man is given his daily bread he kicks because it isn't buttered.

If some men fall to get their just deserts they have cause for rejoicing.

If a girl tells a young man she can out her skates on without help it's fool-ish for him to waste any more time in that direction.

FATAL AS WAR.

More Lives Are Lost Through Common Colds than Are Taken in Battle-How to Prevent and Cure Them.

People need to be often reminded of the great danger that lurks in the common cold. In this climate the sudden changes of temperature and mois ture in the air make it easy to "catch cold." The symptoms of a cold are well known. Its results include half the diseases that afflict mankind. If a cold settles on the outer covering of the lungs it becomes pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs, or lung fever, and in many cases carries off the strongest man to his grave within a week. If a cold falls upon the inner covering of the lungs it is pleurisy with its knife-like pains. If a cold settles on the lungs and is not quickly cured the dreaded consumption will have another victim. A cold will so often and so quickly bring on a fatal malady that there never was "a slight cold." Every cold is a menace against your health and life and should have immediate care. The very best remedy made to cure colds is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. If this grand medicine were always kept in every home it would save tens of thousands of lives yearly. It cures obstinate Coughs, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Pneumonia, Hemorrhage, La Grippe, Lung Fever, Asthma, Hay Fever, Croup, Whooping Cough, and other bronchial troubles. Read how it saved the life of Mr. A. C. Thomas, a farmer of Marysville, Texas. He was very low with hemorrhage of the lungs and had lost much blood. He had tried many remedies, but kept getting worse until he thought he had but a shor time to live. He then began to use D1 King's New Discovery, and five bottles wholly cured him. As this supreme throat and lung cure has no equal never take a substitute. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Money back if not cured. A trial bottle free. At all druggists.

66 For three years I suffered from heart disease. Could not lie on my left side, had dizzy spells, and at times my heart would skip a beat. Physicians and proprietary medi-cines failed to do me any good, but three bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure made me a healthy man. J. J. Vanderree, Cornell, III. 99

POPULAR SOUTHERN GIRL.

A Typical Southerner, She Is the Idel of the Soldiers.

Miss Nina W. Randolph, the subject of our sketch, is a daughter of Norman V. Randolph, a typical southern fighter, whose daring and enthusiasm led him to join Mosby's rangers, and to serve under the command of that general throughout his picturesque campaign. He is now the president of Lee camp, the Confederate Soldiers' home in Richmond.

Mrs Randolph is a daughter of that brilliant young lawyer, William B. Reed, who espoused the cause of Jefferson Davis when the leader of the lost cause was a prisoner at Fortress Monroe. With such a father and a mother it is not strange that the young girl who is thus honored by her state is both beautiful and intelligent. a magnificent horsewoman and a crack shot. She is a tall brunette, with a clear, creamy complexion distinctly a southern woman's heritage, and she dresses in perfect taste. The old soldiers adore her and she returns to the m full meed of tender pride and ho nor.

At Close of Day.

Our dinner hour has grown later and later and just now in the east the fashionable hour for dining is 8 instead of 7 o'clock, and those who cling to the 6 o'clock meal are as hopelessly behind time as it is possible to be. For a large and formal dinner 8:30 o'clock is usually the hour mentioned, and even then it is not so correct to arrive on time as to be fifteen minutes late.

Another custom being adopted is, on entering the drawing room, announced by the mald or footman, to merely bow or shake hands with the hostess and then pass in with no exchange of remarks. This is because other guests are coming behind you to be welcomed and besides dinner will soon be announced. The host, who in most affairs is reduced to insignificance, rises in importance on dinner nights, for he wanders among the guests and does the talking while his wife stands at the entrance to the room.

Men do not linger in the dining room over their coffee, wines and cigars. The present mode is the English one. Coffee and wines are served in the drawing room or else the men escort the ladies from the table and then stroll after their host to the billiard or smoking room to dally with cigars a few moments. For no one stays after dinner longer than balf an hour or more. In New York, when a dinner begins at 8:30 the guests order their carriages not later than 10:30 or 11

The Story of a Kiss.

The London Daily Mail tells this pretty story of a kiss sold at auction: A fascinating actress, whose name need not be mentioned, being anxious to assist a certain charity in the provinces, offered a kiss to be put up at auction. The bidding was brisk and had advanced in three leaps from two guineas to 30, when without further parley the round sum of £800 was offered. There being no higher bid, the kiss was knocked down by the auctioneer to a colonel in one of our line regiments, who came forward to meet the blushing young lady.

But to the surprise of all present, the colonel introduced a dear little fair-haired boy, explained that it was his grandson's fifth birthday, and that he had acquired the kiss as a birthday gift, for him. Whereupon Miss torik the child in her arms and discharged her debt with interest. The charity, a local one, in which the colonel took a keen interest, was the richer by £800 for the granddad's generous whim.

But a little bird whispered afterward that at the colonel's dinner party that night he had one also "on the strict Q.

Harem Thrown Open.

The Princess Nazli, who has made a sensation at Cairo by holding a reception in the precincts of her harem, is well known in England and America. Though a Moslem, she some years ago abandoned the customary veil in which all Moslem women shroud their faces, and for years she has enjoyed more freedom than is usual with the women of Moslem countries. The step she has now taken is, however, more startling than anything she has done before; for the harem has always from the remotest antiquity been sacred to women; no man, save the husband and master, being allowed to enter. Princess Nazli is the first woman to break the seclusion of the harem and to throw it open for the reception of her invited guests in crowds. The princess, who is still beautiful, is a niece of the late Ismail Pasha, and is married to Halil Sherif Pasha, former ministers of foreign affairs at Constantinople-a man deeply versed in eastern and European politics.

Annie Russell has signed a contract with Charles Frohman, by the provivisions of which she will continue to be starred under his direction for several years to come. The previously existing agreement between them was for this season only, and its renewal appears to demonstrate that it has been quite satisfactory in its outcome on both sides. Sir Henry Irving has definitely arranged to produce M. Sardou's new play, "Robespierre," at the Lyceum in London, in April, before his American tour. A Belgian journal states that the first continental performance of "Robespierre" will take place at Brussels. It is not expected, however, that the play will be rehearsed until some months after the Lyceum production.

The newest thing in the way of theatrical companies in Germany is one composed entirely of members of the fair sex, under the direction of the well-known composer and theatrical director, Gothoo Gruneke. With this original ensemble, which is to be known by the name of Soubretlen company, Herr Gruneke will give performances of operettas, burlesques and musical ballets in all the larger towns of the fatherland, commencing his series of engagements shortly in Berlin.

"Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air."

There is no greater irony than a recom-mendation of change of climate to those whose circumstances make change of climate impossible. How many a sufferer in such a case has wistfully watched the flight of the south-seeking birds, and cried with the Psalmist, "Oh that I had wings." But suppose you can fit the lungs to the climate instead of fitting the climate to the lungs. That is what has been found possible by those who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discourse. covery. 'I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to you preparing such grand remedies, for chronic seases especially, which the doctors failed to tech." writes I. B. Staples, Esq., of Barclay, age Co., Kans. "I am a railroad agent, and Osage Co., Kans. "I am a railroad agent, and four years ago my work keeping me in a warm room and stepping out frequently into the cold air gave me brouchitis, which became chronic and deep seated. Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air, but, fortunately for me, a friend also advised me to try pr. Pierce's medicines. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken the first bottle I was better, and after taking about four bottles my cough was entirely gone. This was a year ago last winter; and again last winter I took about three bottles to prevent a return of the trouble. I have found no necessity for seeking another climate."

MAY BE CANCER

MOST VIOLENT CASES HAVE

The greatest care should be given to any little sore, pimple or scratch which shows no disposition to heal under ordinates any treatment. No one can tell how soon these will develop into Cancer of the worst type. So many people die from Cancer simply because they do not know just what the disease is; they naturally turn themselves over to the doctors, and are forced to submit to a cruel and dangerous operation—the only treatment which the doctors know for Cancer. The disease promptly returns, however, and is even more violent and destructive than before. Cancer is a deadly poison in the blood, and an operation, plaster, or other external treatment can have no effect whatever upon it. The cure must come from within—the last vestige of poison must be eradicated.

Mr. Wm. Walpole, of Walshtown, S. D., says: "A little blotch about the size of a pea came under my left eye, gradually growing larger, from which shooting pains at intervals ran in all directions. I became greatly alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it Cancer, and advised that it be cut out, but this I could not consent to. I read in my local paper of a cure effected by S. S., and decided to try it. It acted like a charm, the Cancer becoming at first irritated, and then discharging S. S., and decided to try it. It acted like a charm, the Cancer becoming at first irritated, and then discharging very freely. This gradually grew less and then discontinued altogether, leaving a small scab which soon dropped off, and now only a healthy little scar remains where what threatened to destroy my life once held full sway."

A CLEVER GIRL.

How She Fooled the Other Girls Neatly and Completely.

The girl of my heart came home to attend a cousin's wedding on Thursday of last week and she staved in town for two days before going back to school for the commencement which will make her a sophomore, says the Washington Post. It wouldn't be fair to tell The only Transcontinental Line Passing the name of her school, but it's an excellent one, where the fashions of the men's college are followed, even to the possession of a college yell and the practicing of hazing. The girl of my heart was hazed last fall. She did not faint when the girls touched her arm with a bit of ice and said they were branding her with an iron. She endured every ordeal so smilingly that the girls at last determined to do something perfectly dreadful. They marched her through dark halls, blindfolded as she was, opened a closet door in the physical laboratory, snatched the Sandage from her eyes, pushed her he locked the door and left her shricking in the arms of a skeleton. Now, a skeleton to her is no more terrifying than a hoopskirt, but she saw an opportunity to amuse herself. She is one of the cleverest amateur actresses Washington possesses. She let down her hair and tangled it about her face. Her gown was an old one, so she sacrificed it and tore it to tatters. Then she waited. Presently she heard Don't Ruin Your Health the girls returning. She began to croon softly to herself a weird song. The girls opened the door. She took no notice of them, but went on lavishing kisses on the grinning skull, laugh-Finally one of them whispered: "Girls, she's raving mad." That was the cue for the girl of my heart. She raved; she tore her hair; she shricked when they tried to draw her away from the skeleton; she laughed; she flung herself about, and finally danced out into the outer room, moaning in a bloodcurdling way. The girls dared not even breathe. They were ghastly. They clung to each other and shuddered. The girl of my heart-danced to the door, caught up a knife from a table, waved it with a hideous scream and sprang at them. Then, as they huddled together in a perfect agony of fright, she dropped the knife and opened the door, "Well, girls," she said, drawlingly, "I hope you've enjoyed the fun; I'm sure I have." Then she disappeared, and a dozen crest-Dean & Co. have put in a bill against fallen girls, too frightened to dare to go into hysterics, too much relieved to be angry, stole quietly away. 1-ey are clever girls at that college, but the girl of my heart is bell wether of the
