ST. THOMAS' THE SCENE OF MOST IMPOS-ING CEREMONIES.

Beautiful Edifice-Description of Interior-Some Noted Mon Who Will be Present.

After Sunday no one will be heard to say, when he sees the St. Thomas church, "What a pity such a beautiful church should not be in use!" It has indeed waited a long time for dedication but the event will be all the more satisfactory from the assurance that it will be done as it deserves and will incur no debt,

The unstituted admiration which the exterior of the church calls forth will be only increased by the beauty of the interior. Here the finish is white. The ceiling overhead is the Roman style, vaulted, and lends an air of an output of 500 barrels and would emgrandeur and magnificance, especially ploy 150 men, many of whom would with the great span which carries the central dome. Fourteen granite columns with English-Gothic capitals southern Michigan during the last few both the oratorical and the debating support the celling trusses. On each side of the church runs a heavy 'rieze factories, each with a daily output of studded with electric lights. The 500 to 1000 barrels and men are in defixtures for the lights are twisted black mand all the time. iron work and are very ornamental.

The woodwork is all of quarter sawed oak and has a dark antique finish. The pews are massive, to correspond with the general plac, yet simple and each has a Greek cross carved in the top part.

The, windows will be extremely beautiful. The front rosette window will represent Raphael's St. Cecelia; the cast, Murillo's Immaculate Conception, and the west, the Ecce Homo. The chancel windows will picture the Nativity, Crucifixion, Ascension, St. Edward and St. Joseph. These windows are all donations.

The three altars are of pure white Vermont marble. The main altar is 16 feethigh. The organ is also finished in white giving the front of the church not compete with the M. C. under a pure appearance seeming more holy than the work of human hands.

The Register published the program of dedication some time since. Space would not admit of a full list of the dignitaries who will be present and the rites to be performed, Suffice it to owners along the proposed line from say it will be one of the grandest ceremooles ever seen in Michigan. It looks as if a new industry might be Dental Department-Larger Campus Neededput on Washtenaw's already long list. The firm of Webb, Crane & West, of Ypsilanti have been looking over the county for beds of marl out of which to make cement, and say that they have found one which contains 90 per cent. calcium carbonate, the desirable element. They refuse to divulge the location but say that their options include lands to the extent of 250 acres and that the conditions are ideal.

Mr. Webb has been in Detroit and received favorable support there as well as in Saline. The plan which they have been considering would have have to be skilled workmen. This industry has gained much headway in years. Branch county has four such contests in which our students have

ELECTRIC CARS MUST RUN SLOW.

Huron 'St. Paving Given an Impetus-Sidewalks Again-Other Matters.

When the council met last night Aldermen Weeks, Exinger and Howell were theonly absent ones. The others went right to business and the first thing that they ran up against was the speed rate of the D. Y. & A. A. Ald. Coon proposed to let the cars run 15 miles per hour. This immediately caused a warm discussion. Ald. Brown even thought that the electric line canthese conditions. The resolution was finally lost after a tie vote.

Debating Triumphs-Summer School-A New Department.

The occupancy of so large a part of the campus by our present buildings and by those that are soon to be added, calls attention to the importance of securing lots adjacent to sur present property. It is much to be regratted that purchases were not made years ago. But no one then foresaw the present development of the university. We should avoid the mistakes of our predecessors, and as soon as our means will permit us, should procure desirable property near us.

Our Debating Triumphs.

I am happy to say that this university has made an honorable record in been engaged. In seven of the nine oratorical contests with western universities its representatives have taken the first place. Of nine debates with the University of Wisconsin, the Northwestern University, the University of Chicago and the University of Pennsylvania, it has been successful in six.

Growth of Dentistry.

The dental department has as usual had as many students as it could accommodate and is steadily growing. It has received official information that its diploma is recognized in Holland as it is in some other European countries. The variety and amount of work required to meet the standard of training desired by the faculty are so great that in the opinion of some, three years hardly suffice. Apparently we must soon choose between raising the requirements for admission, the extension of the course, the refusal of applicants for addmission, and the enlargement of our build ing. It seems impossible to find proper accommodations for larger claims in the present quarters. Cheaper Summer School.

There is good reason to believe that reduction of one-third in the fees would so largely increase our numbers that possibly our total receipts would not be diminished. If this should prove to be the fact, we should be making the school much more useful by a wider diffusion of its blessings. As our aim is to reach and help as many as possible by the school, I trust the board may give careful consideration to the question whether the fee students would probably attend the summer session. The large attendance Christian Temperance Union held at of graduates at the summer schools of the universities which induce their leading professors to teach in them, indicates a real demand on their part for such instruction.

Famous Organist To-morrow Evening-His Great Successes.

The second numder of the choral union course will be given to-morrow evening by the well known organist, Charence Eddy.

For many years Clarence Eddy has been the acknowledged chief among American organists. By his brilliant and wonderfully successful concert work in Europe in recent years he has established himself pre-eminently among the organ virtuosos of the world. His work in this country is far to well known to require any comment here, his every appearance having added to the high favor in which he was already universally held. In Europe he has not only been enthusiastically welcomed and applauded by the public, but has gained the friendly recognition of the greatest composers and interpreters of organ music. He is one of the faw who have been able to withstand severe Europeau criticism. After a most trying ordeal he remains a favor- spirited discussion followed. ite among the people of Europe. Governor Brady on Alaska-He Says Without Doubt Wonderful New Discoveries Will Be Made

On American Soil.

Governor Brady says reports of gold liscoveries are coming in from all parts of the territory. He expects to see magnificent fortunes made in Alaska in the next few years. But few know the perils of the Klondike. Fearful cold and exposure make throat, chest and lung troubles common and dangerous. Consumption lurks behind a cough; Pneumonia back of a cold. The agonies of Bronchitis, the pangs of La Grippe, the anguish of Asthma and the distress of Lung Fever are common in this region. Every gold seeker should take with him a medicine that is quick and certain in ts cure of these diseases. One has taken the lead in America, because for wenty-five years it has shown a wonderful power over these maladies. This supreme remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery. It's a life-saver wherever used. Thousands of American families would as soon be without flour or sugar in the house as without this medicine. It has cured people of Consumption, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, La Grippe and Hemorrhage whom doctors had told they must die. It stops the most obstinate coughs. It won't let a cold get a start.

Read how it saved the life of Calvin Lockwood, of Fowlerville, Mich. He says: "Two years ago I was attacked with a severe Cold which brought on the worst form of Bronchitis. So bad was it that I entirely lost my speech. I tried all the best physicians here and at Lansing, but without avail. They all pronounced Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 16.—Another case of smallpox has developed in the total Dr. Vincial New Discovery and greatly to my surprise I began to get better, and after using two bottles I have 'cheated the grave' and am sound and well. It is surely a life-saver." All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle, refund the money if it don't benefit and give a trial bottle free to any sufferer.

THE LILAC IN ENGLAND.

Early Record of This Fragrant Flower in Cromwell's Time.

The lilac came into England in the days of King Harry. In the inventory of Nonsuch Palace gardens made by Cromwell's orders we find "six lillaches, trees which have no fruit but a pleasant smelle." The lilac was known as the pipe-bush, the pipe and blue-pipe tree, the pipe-privet, as well as lillach and lillache.

Gerard's experience with the white lac was to be nearly smothered in sweets. He found it "of a most pleasante and sweete smelle, but in my judgment too sweete, troubling and molesting the head in a very strange manner. I once gathered the flowers and laid them in my chamber windowe, whiche smelled more strongly after they had been together a few bours, with such a pinticke (?) and unacquainted savour that they awaked me from sleepe, so that I could not take rest till I had cast them out from my chamber."

The lilac variety he also found of 'an exceedingly sweete savour and sent, but not so strongly as the former. The flowers," he goes on, "are of an exceedingly blewe colour, compacted of many small flowers, in the forme of a bunch of grapes."

That the lilac came so late into England explains its absence from the garden of English poetry. Probably it was long before it came from being a denizen of palace gardens to being the dear, homely cottage lilac we know to-day.

If the old poets had known the lilac as we know it, they must surely have sometimes given their mistresses lilac eyes. But in the days when the garden was made, the color lilac had hardly emerged from the purple, and it was left to the eighteenth century to garb its beauty in the delicious fresh "laylock" which must have wonderfully framed powdered hair and brilliant heeks.

An old name for the lilac was lilyoak, a mispronounciation evidently. In Devonshire and Cornwall it was known as Mayflower, and has been heard of as May-lily. In Cornwall the white lilac is sometimes Prince's Feather, and in Somersetshire Soldier's Feather-an association with its somewhat plume-like form. It shares with hawthorn the name of May, and eccentric titles for it are ducks' bills and oysters, these corruptions, no doubt, of some sweet title.

The name of pipe-tree derives "because his stalkes, when the pith is aken out thereof, are hollow like a pipe. In both England and Scotland it is thought unlucky to bring the lilac, especially white lilac, into the house. It presages death, and is often laid upon coffins. If a lover should give his lass lilac, it is of bad omen for the engagement.-Pall Mall Gazette.

Andrew Carnegie's New Home.

COULD NOT BE RELIED ON. flad No Business Coming Back After Sermon Was Deliverod.

The author of "Little Journeys to the Homes of American Statesmen" tells a story of the civil war, when the days dragged gloomily, and when grief was likely to overtake any who had boys in the ranks. He says:

"One night the postmaster was reading aloud the names of the killed at Gettysburg and he ran right on to the name of a youth he knew. The boy's father sat there on a nail-keg, chewing a straw. The postmaster, for his sake, tried to shuffle over the name and hurry on to the next.

"Hi!" said the father, "Wha-what's that you said?"

There was nothing to do but to face the issue, and the postmaster replied, with forced calmness:

"Killed-Snyder, Hiram."

The boy's father stood up with a jerk. Then he sat down. Then he stood up again, staggered to the door, and fumbled for the latch like a blind

"God help him!" said the postmaster, wiping his eyes with his red hankerchief; "he's gone to tell the old woman.

The minister preached a funeral sermon for the boy, and on the little pyramid that marked the family lot in the burying-ground they carved the inscription:

"Killed in honorable battle, Hiram Snyder, aged 19."

Not long afterward, strange, yellow bearded men in faded blue began to arrive. Great welcome was given them and many a big gathering was held in their honor. At one such ghost appeared, a lank, saffron ghost, ragged as a scarecrow, wearing the cape of a cavalryman's overcoat, with no coat beneath.

The apparition was a youth of about 20, with a downy beard all over his face, and a countenance well mellowed with coal soot, as if he had ridden several days on top of a freight car near the engine. The ghost was

Hiram Snyder. We forgave him the shock of surprise he had caused us, all except the minister who had preached his funeral sermon. Years afterward I heard that minister remark, in a solemn and aggrieved tone:

"Hiram Snyder is a man who can not be relied upon!"-Youth's Companion.

THE VOLUNTEER'S DREAM.

As Much Excitement As if He Had Been in Actual Battle.

They were talking of dreams, when the volunteer who was shot through the hip at San Juan spoke up.

"It is strange," said he, "how the real and the unreal are sometimes connected in dreams. I had an experience down at Tampa, while we were waiting for orders to go to Cuba, which was remarkable in its way. One night, after trying for several hours to go to sleep in my tent, I went outside to see if there were a breath of fresh air to be had. Near the tent there was a rough bench, which had been built by some of the boys to serve as a table for card playing. It was about three feet from the ground and was just wide enough for a man to lie down on.

"I walked over to the bench, and, stretching out on it, was soon asleep. I dreamed that I was standing in a Spanish camp surrounded by hundreds of excited Spaniards, who were insisting that I be shot at once for a spy. I was perfectly cool and had a supreme indifference about my fate. They took me over to a stake driven in the ground and tied me up to it. Theu they wheeled up an enormous cannon to within 50 feet of where I stood and almed it straight at me. I saw the gunner seized the lanyard and look around at the officer in charge for the command to fire. Then I closed my Real Estate for Sale.

of the ancient kindness between the inhabitants of this miniature city and its neighbors, the Barons of Skibo, have hastened to bestow the freedom of the burg on the new laird. Already the American millionaire has worked wonders. Vast additions to the castle are in progress, and before long it will surpass every other northern residence in its magnificent and princely proportions. But one cannot readily forgive him for cutting down so many of the huge trees which for generations have been the pride and glory of the estate. A weird ban has for the last century and a half attached to the lands of Skibo, and it remains to be seen whether the evil spell will now be broken. It is a tale of cruel wrong done to the original possessors-the Murrays of Pulrossle and the Grays of Skibo, who for centuries owned the lands now incorporated into one estate. They were both deprived of their ancestral inheritance by foul means and thus a curse was brought upon the place. The Douls, who ousted the Grays, gave place to the Mackays, who in turn were succeeded by the Gordons, Dempsters, Sopper-Dempsters, Chirnsides, and Sutherlands Against the latter's protests the estate passed into the hands of Mr. Carnegie. ## Strange Case Fasting.

It is the prevailing impression, fostered by the practice of men like Suc-cl and Dr. Tanner, that in order to endure a long fast a man must absolutely refrain from physical exercise and devote his whole attention to caring for himself, says Leslie's Weekly. Mr. Milton Rathbun, a merchant of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has proved that this is a fallacy, so far as it applies to his own case at least. He recently went twenty-eight days without nourishment without letting up for a moment on the daily routine of his business. Mr. Rathbun is 52 years of age, a prosperous and wealthy man, with nothing unusual or cranky in his make-up or ways of life. He fasted simply because he wanted to reduce his weight, fearing that its gradual increase might bring on apoplexy. He succeeded in his efforts. He weighed 210 pounds when he stopped eating; when he resumed at the end of twenty-eight days he tipped the scales at 168 pounds-a loss of forty-two pounds of flesh.

A singular fact in Mr. Rathbun's experiment was that after the firsi twenty-four hours he experienced no sense of hunger at all, and had no unpleasant sensations of any kind. He slept and worked in the regular way, his mind clear and his strength unabated to the end. He drank coplous-ly of water during the period, but took nothing else. When he began to eat again he took only a little food at first, increasing the amount gradually until within a few days he was Helena, Moor. After using E'y's Cream Balm six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrb. Leave to his former routine of diet. yes. The next moment there was a tremendous roar.

"The cannon ball struck me squarely on the side of the right hip, and I flew up into the air. I woke to find myself on the ground where I had rolled from the bench. There was a sharp pain in my right hip, and, looking out into the open space beyond the tent, I saw that the morning gun had just been fired. The smoke was still hanging over the cannon. The pain in my hip was caused by its coming in contact with a stake driven in the ground near the bench.

Was Not on Exhibition.

The Italian poet laureate, Carducci, is also professor of Italian literature in the University of Bologna, and in this character was, the other day, delivering his usual lecture. Into the lecture room presently walked Signor Bertesi, a well-known Roman deputy, and began to listen and to stare at the poet with the most intense interest. Carduccl, irritated, exclaimed that he declined to be placed on a par with famous tenors and dancing girls, who could be stared at with impunity, and ordered his students to turn the inquisitive deputy out of the lecture hall, a request which was executed with the greatest promptness and perhaps unnecessary enthusiasm. The outraged representative of the nation immediately sent an insulting epistle to Carducci, who returned it, however. Carduccl being too old to fight a duel the deputy has had to calm his rage.

A GREAT MONEY SAVER.

Alabastine, the permanent wall coating, can be cleaned better than paper. The plain coating is more easily re-coated than a painted wall could be cleaned, but it pays to clean Alabastine decorations, friezes, etc.; the plain coats are easily renewed. Send for particulars about cleaning, to the Alabastine Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

The work in applying Alabastine. with a brush is about as much as to hang wall paper, but the cost of material averages only about 1/2 cent to 1 cent per y. d for plain work. Decorative Alabastine work costs about the same as paper decorating of the same grade, including friezes, etc. Fresco-ing in Alabastine costs less than in other water colors and hardens with Alabastining costs much less age. than to paint walls and forms a permanent foundation for oil painting, but is much better alone.

WINONA, STARE CO., IND. During the winter I and my family of six were taken with la grippe. The disease was very prevalent at that time in the village where I resided, nearly everyone being sick with it. Our doctors treated it as best they could, but were very unsuccessful in the treatment of it. As soon as my family were taken sick I went to the drugstore and bought six bottles of Pe-ru-na, and we all took it according to the directions given on the bottle; and although our cases seemed to be more than usually violent in the outset, yet our recovery was prompt, and we were all well much sooner than those who were treated by the regular physicians. Many people died of this lagrippe during this epidemic, and few if any, were sick so short a time as myself and family. After we were all well we had one bottle of Pe-ru-na left. C. T. Hatfield.

The count of Jefferson County (Louisville) was completed today. It gives Taylor 3,449 plurality, which, with Goebel's plurality in the State of 1,027, gives Taylor a net plurality of 2,422. Two precincts were thrown out in Louisville by Goebelites today.

Goebel has announced that he will abide by the action of the State Board of Election Commissioners, although he confidently says:

"I will be the next governor of Kentucky.

This statement has caused the Re-publicans to begin marshaling their volunteers, while Governor Bradley is getting the militia of the State ready for service. The governor stoutly de-clares that Goebel will not be seated if the troops can prevent it.

Heavy Losses on Apples.

Chicago, Nov. 20 .- The warm weather be tween Oct. 10-Nov. 1 caused Water street commission men to lose $200,000 on apples. The winter consignments re ceived from Michigan, New York, and Indiana were so badly "cooked" that even cold storage could not save them from decay. From 30 to 50 per cent of the consignments are a loss. Most of the apples cost from $2 to $2.50 a bar-

A STRANGE STORY.

Foretold idvent of Lupton by Over Thirty Days.

Here is a yarn that has been picked up by the Society for Psychical Re-search. Dr. R. W. Felkin, who had accompanied Emin Pasha on a tour through Uganda, and adjacent terri-tory, is responsible for it. He says that some time last year his party had got back to Lado, about 1,000 miles south of Khartonm, and that he had been without letters from Europe for a year. Naturally he was impatient for tidings. In that part of Africa he had often come across wizards, who pretended to transform themselves into lions or other animals at night and to travel immense distances in this guise. They also assert that they acquire information at such times about stolen cattle and other lost property. Dr. Felkin says that, although he has no explanation to offer in regard to these alleged feats, he had a chance to verify one of their stories.

do a man came to his tent, evidently in great excitement, and said that the local mission of these remedies can be orchased at all drug stores and at A One morning after his arrival at Lalocal wizard, or "m'logo," had been roaming about the country the night before in the form of a jackal. During his rambles the "m'logo" had vis-ited Meschera-el-Rek, fully 550 miles away, between Lado and Khartoum. The wizard declared that two steamers had just arrived at this point and had brought mails. He also described minutely the appearance of an English officer accompaning the boats.

Dr. Felkin ridiculed the story, but Emin Pasha took the thing more seriously. He directed that the wizard be brought before him and questioned the fellow.

- "Where dld you go last night?"
- "I was at Meschera-el-Kek."
- "What were you doing there?"
- "I went to see some friends." "What did you see?"
- "I saw two steamers arriving from Khartonni." "Oh, this is nonsense! You could not possibly have been at Meschera-el-Kek.

"I was there," the wizard replied emphatically. And with the steamers was an Englishman, a short man with a big beard.

"Well, what was his mission?" "He says that the great pasha at Khartoum had sent him, and he has some papers for you. He is starting overland tomorrow, bringing the papers with him, and he will be here about 30 days from now."

Dr. Felkin says that 32 days later the Englishman did arrive at Lado, and that he brought letters from the party. The newcomer was Lupton

On a Coolie Ship.

We were half through our lunch in the saloon, when we heard some horrible yells and cries of "Ta! ta!" (Fight! fight!) "Hullo!" the captain said, "another jolly row downstairs. You stay where you are; you'll find a loaded revolver in my room for use if any one attempts to molest you." So. lighting his pipe and calling his deg, a fierce-looking English bull, he went on deck to see what was the matter, says Chambers Journal. Broken basins and lumps of firewood were flying in all directions and knives were drawn-great ugly-looking things The captain elbowed his way among the coolies, giving first one and then another a dig in the ribs. One fearful looking coulle, whom they had just doctored, almed a blow at him with a broken basin; but the dog was too quick for him and brought the fellow down on his back and held him there. The two principal offenders were caught, their heads banged together until they were brought to quietness, then an explanation asked. Of course, every one wanted to talk and explain at once, but the captain held up his hand until there was silence, then called one man after another and heard what each had to say, through an interpreter. The row was caused by one man wanting to light his pipe at an opium smoker's lamp. The most trivial things cause mostviolent fights. I said to the captain when it was "Are you not afraid?"

Longthening Life.

As long as the world has existed mankind has been searching ways to lengthen life. The Egyptian method was to swallow frequent draughts of sudorific and emetic properties. The common salutation of the ancient Egyptian was not "How do you do?" but "How do you perspire?"

Manyelixers were metallic talismans worn to counteract the powers of evil. One brilliant idea was the transfusion of blood from a healthy young person to the veins of one old and feeble. Mes merism has been used, the idea being that on awakening from sleep one took up life where it had been laid aside. The toughening process whereby one was made accustomed to all kinds of weather has been thought a good way of prolonging life.

Sensible people nowadays think the best elixir of life is fresh air, sunshine, the right kind of food and a good temper. And perhaps they are the wisest of all.

In looks and bearing he is every inch a king, and as he stood by the throne chair in his own splendid chapel awaiting the arrival of his bride, dressed in full uniform, his breast adorned with glittering decorations, his crimson robe, ermine-trimmed, upheld by two little boys of high rank attired in page suits of red and white velvet (the Tongan national colors), one could not realize that all this was happening on an island belonging to a group which many readers have supposed to be still lingering in heathenism and beyond the pale of civilization.

Quite a flutter of excitement passed over the assembled guests as Lavinia entered the church, leaning upon the arm of her father, Kubu, minister of police. She was exquisitely attired In white satin trimmed profusely with Honiton lace, and from her shoulders fell the train, composed of silver and white brocade, fully five yards in length, which was held by her six bridesmaids dressed in white silk. The bride's trousseau was made in Syd-ney and is very elaborate. King George is just 24 years and his queen is 19.

Native dress consists of a vala, or a kllt, composed of tapa, a piece of native cloth, worn alike by both sexes, men covering their bodies with a shirt, while a kofu (or short Mother Hubbard) to the knees completes the women's attire. It Has Braved the Storms of Over Four Hundred Years.

There has just been removed from the spire of St. Sidwell's church, in Excter, a vane with a history more than usually interesting. Its career began more than four centuries ago. It was in 1484 that Bishop Courtenay of Exeter heard that a great bell at Llandaff might be acquired, and having a passion in that direction, he journeyed to the South Wales towa and managed to secure the monster in exchange for five smaller ones. He successfully removed it to Exeter and had it hoisted to the top of the northern tower of the cathedral. The tower, however, had not been designed to accommodate such a campanological giant, and room could only be found for it then by removing a portion of the roof. To protect his treasure the bishop erected over the tower a spire of oak, covered with lead, and he surmounted this by a rane, the conspicuous feature of which was a representation of a roester in copper.

Its extreme length was two feet ine inches and height two feet six aches, while it was eight inches thick in the center, being cast hollow. The chanticleer remained in this lofty podition for 28 years, discharging the useful duty of telling the residents of the "Ever Faithful" city which way the wind blew. During that long spell of service it looked down on some strange and moving sights, for the pe riod covered by its lofty exertions was rich in history-making incidents. In 1752 the spire was taken down and the Peter bell was lowered into the tower far enough to allow the original level of the roof to be reverted to. The spire was re-erected on the tower of St. Sidwell's parish church-a tower, by the way, which also has a history. It has on more prison, especially during the rebellious there.

For 60 years the old copper rooster rested from its labors in the cathedral store, but in 1812 it was mounted on the St. Sidwell's spire, and there it continued until a few days ago, when it was removed preparatory to the demolition of the spire, which had been ound to be in a dangerous testimony of those who have been cured by it and know of its virtues by experience.

He had been scolded by his mother for some childish misdemeanor and in a passion threatened that he would set fire to the house; this threat he carried into effect, and the fire that was kindled by the little boy raged for two hours and utterly destroyed fifty-seven houses. #### Boyish Patriotism.

One day an examiner was listening to a class of Irish boys in London as they repeated Macaulay's "Horatius." "Would three soldiers nowadays," he asked, "be likely to hold a bridge against a whole army?" "No, sir," the boys answered.

"Would three Englishmen, for example?" he continued.

"No, sir," said the class. "Would three Scotchmen?" They again dissented.

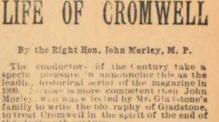

"Would three Irishmen?" "Please, sir," shouted one excitable little fellow, "one Irishman would do It!"-Cornhill Magazine.

A Fishing Adventure.

One afternoon, about 3:30 o'clock, while fishing for tarpon, 1 received a terrible blow on the back of the head, which threw me out of the boat into the water and almost stunned me, says Forest and Stream. I was pulled back by my guide into the boat, which was floating full of water, and found, lying full length in it, a porpoise about nine feet long, which robably weighed over 500 pounds. Of course this fish never struck me, ir he would have broken me to pieces What happened was, he jumped high in the air, as they frequently do, and landed head first, at my feet in the stern of the boat, knocking a hole through the ceiling and bottom of the boat and stunning himself. The blow I received was caused by his body falling upon me.

The nearest rowboat was several hundred yards off, and as we feared ment and smash the boat to pieces with his tail, my guide, Santa Armeda, tried to push the porpoise over the edge of the boat, but was unable to do so, owing to the fish's weight. Rather than take the consequences of what might happen if the porpulse came to before we were taken out of the boat. we slipped into the water and rolled the boat over, losing everything in the boat, but glad to do so, as it included the porpolse. We then turned the boat right side up and crawled into its inide, which, although full of water, floated and supported, and especially protected us from the possibility of being bitten by sharks, of which there are a great many large ones in the pass. I have heard that these sharks will not tackle a man, but it is my opinion that a shark which can tackle and swallow a tarpon would not hesitate much at a man. I did not intend taking any risks, and was very glad to find myself inside the boat again. Very soon afterward a rowboat came to our help, taking us on board and rowing us ashore. Of course I got no more fishing that trip; my neck felt almost broken and all the muscles of the neck and back were terribly strained and sore.

A Naughty Boy. Luckily it is seldom indeed that a naughty child does as much damage

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from onefourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.
