ST. THOMAS CHURCH DEDICATED.

BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY LAST SUNDAY.

How the Church Was Consecrated—Beautiful Singing—Archbishop Ireland Preaches a Powerful Sermon.

Everything seemed to favor the dedication of the St. Thomas church Sunday and the event was all that could be desired. The weather was perfect and long before the time of the opening, crowds began to assemble near the church. Within the church was about half full. No decorations had been attempted except on the altar where were placed numberless yellow chrysanthemums.

At last the procession appeared and chanting marched through the crowd to the doors. At the head was the Right Reverend John S. Foley, D. D., of Detroit; next came twelve little boys and then a long line of well known bishops. Then with prayers and chants the procession moved around the exterior of the church, the bishop sprinkling the walls with holy water. Then the doors were thrown open and they marched slowly down the central aisle. After a prayer the march was continued around the interior of the church and these walls also consecrated. Then when all had taken their seats in front, the bishop consecrated the altar and finished the dedication. He was then clothed with official robes and the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass offered.

The singing was very beautiful. Hayden's Imperial Mass was rendered by a quartet and chorus under the direction of Prof. Renwick. The sermon of dedication was preached by Archbishop Ireland and was replete with the best thought of a wonderful mind. The archbishop is a very learned man, yet his sermon appeals to all; he is a powerful speaker, yet his style is plain and aims only to be direct. We quote the substance of the sermon:

The dedication of a church is the reaffirmation of the words of our Saviour, "Not by bread alone does man live, but by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God." Upward the temple lifts its spires and vaulted roof; upward we lift our thoughts and affections. "Not by bread alone," but of heaven and for heaven does man live. Ever will there be temples. Whether of the desert where there the savage has an altar of rock; or the oak forest of the Druid; or the storied temples of far away India. There will ever be temples because they stand for that which meets the unavoidable needs of the soul. Religion means the uniting of man with man but it also means the uniting of man with God. It is the lifting up of prayers and thanks; the drawing down of smiles and graces.

Universality is an argument for religion. It has finally been proved beyond a doubt that there is no people without religion. Now if religion was a passing fancy, a whim, this could not be explained. Nay, religion is a vital instinct. As Spencer says, "Religion is man's truest nature." The more religious a man is, the better his nature and the better the man. Religion, it is true, is not free from error but we start with the fact of man's need.

Of three chief elements entering into this question, let us first consider worship. Worship is the confession of dependence and the gratitude for favors. This is a necessary instinct of the soul. As the infant reaches out its little hand, so man lifts his hands in worship. The savage needs no philosophy or theology to know that there is a God. He sees him in the storm or the sun and worships.

Religion is definable as the theory of the original carnation. Now what the philosophers call a first cause, we call God. Science is the exposition of laws, but science cannot tell what controls those laws. What is beyond? We answer, God. Now if we know that God is, and that we are creatures of his power, shall we not worship? Temples will ever be built where man may worship his creator.

The second element is submission. There is implanted in every man's

A DOUBLE VICTORY.

Denton sat at his desk in one of the inner offices of the editorial rooms of the Morning Clarion, idly drumming with his pencil upon the loose papers that lay scattered in front of him, his eyes indolently fixed on the big clock-dial in the tower opposite his window. He sat thus for nearly an hour, deep in thought, and totally oblivious to all about him. It had been his intention when he took his seat to polish up his four-column Thanksgiving article preparatory to its being set up on the morrow, but the manuscript still lay untouched upon his desk.

In his thoughts he was again living over the delicious days of his August vacation at Cape May. It was during those days that he had met and fallen in love with Laura Gilday, and the young lady, much to her mother's anxiety, had been prompt to return his affection. Denton managed to return to the city on the same train with the ladies, and before their destination was reached he had communicated ways to Laura which would enable them to still meet occasionally in spite of the anticipated objection of her father, who had more than once plainly asserted his ideas respecting his daughter's matrimonial future. He had often declared that his daughter would wed none but a wealthy man, who could well afford her the luxurious surroundings to which she had been accustomed, and that when the proper time came, why—"He considered himself as being perfectly capable of selecting his own son-in-law!"

Boom! Boom! Boom! The clock in the tower was striking the noon hour. Denton threw down his pencil and arose. "Miss Forsythe," he said to the busy stenographer near him, "if Thompson comes in, tell him I've gone to lunch, please."

It was half past twelve when Denton joined Laura at their usual resting place, the cafe where Denton partook of his noon-day luncheon, and where Laura could drop in for a light repast after the fatigues of shopping. Seating himself opposite her and hurriedly giving his order to the attendant, he turned to Laura and eagerly asked: "Well, did he receive my letter?"

"HERE HE IS LAURA."

"Y-e-s," answered Laura, slowly, "I believe he did."

"Yes? And what did he say?"

"Well," said Laura reluctantly, "he said he had received a letter from that—that—oh, George, I cannot tell you just—"

"Never mind; go on; I can stand it!"

"Well, I won't repeat his exact words; but he said that he had received a letter from that 'confounded newspaper scribbler' asking permission to call on me, and then he—oh—oh—it was just dreadful the way he carried on! You know I cannot tell you all he—"

"You need not try," interrupted Denton, gloomily. "I understand. Well, I see he cannot be approached by the epistolary route at any rate. Does he still talk about our friend Knight, whom he has so thoughtfully selected for your future husband?"

"Continually! The idea of him wishing me to marry a man I have never even seen! Why, it's—it's—preposterous, that's what it is!"

"That is not the word for it, dearest, it is utterly idiotic! And it seems that your father also has never met young Knight, isn't that so?"

"Not since Mr. Knight was a little boy," answered Laura, "but I believe papa and the elder Mr. Knight had talked of such a union even before that!"

"Why the old—I beg your pardon—but really, Laura, it does seem so incredible of your father. Simply because the elder Knight was your father's college chum, and is now his New York broker and a wealthy and intimate friend, he coolly proposed a unity of the families without consulting you, who should be the most deeply concerned of all!"

"I know, George," sighed Laura, "but there is no convincing papa that he is ever wrong. In his eyes you are practically penniless, and Mr. Knight, you know, is very rich. But if papa could only see you, I'm sure he would like you."

"Possibly, and what about your mother?"

"You know she likes you, George—oh, I almost forgot—papa received a letter from Mr. Knight's father saying that George would—"

"George?" exclaimed Denton in surprise.

"Why, yes, didn't you know his name was George, too?"

"How should I? You never mentioned it," answered Denton, morosely. "I'll have mine changed at once!"

"You foolish boy! But, as I was saying, Mr. Knight wrote, that his son would be here Thanksgiving day; that he was a member of the Apollo Foot Ball Club, and—"

"What!"

"My goodness, what is the matter?"

"Never mind, go on—go on—" exclaimed Denton excitedly. "He is a member of the Apollo Foot Ball Club—what next?"

"Well, nothing much," answered Laura, "except that Mr. Knight said he hoped papa would meet his son, and ventured the belief that papa would be greatly surprised to find how much George had changed in the last fifteen years. The idea! I should think he would be considerably changed. He was only ten years old, I think, when papa saw him last—George!"

This last interjection was caused by her suddenly noticing that Denton was staring stupidly at an inoffensive water bottle and muttering unintelligibly to himself.

"George! what ever is the matter with you?"

Denton roused up. "Matter?" he repeated, excitedly, "Just this. The Apollo men are to play the Olympia Athletic Association eleven here Thanksgiving day, and—"

"The Olympia!" interrupted Laura, "Why, that is the association you belong to, isn't it?"

"Yes; but listen. Last night I met Harry Langel, the manager of the O. A. A. club, and he told me he was in receipt of a telegram from Furlong, the captain of the Apollo eleven, saying that Jennings and Seabury, two of their crack men had been disabled and that they would be obliged to appear with a patched-up team, and possibly would be forced to take in a local man. Well, if they do, Langel intends to speak for me, and if he—"

"DID HE RECEIVE MY LETTER?"

"But you don't play foot ball," suddenly interrupted Laura, who had been listening with interest to this recital, "How could you—"

"I know I don't, but I can!" warmly interposed Denton. "I played full-back on the college team for two seasons and I guess I haven't forgotten how during the last two years."

"But the training, and the signals?" persisted Laura.

"I'm always in training, little girl, and as for their signals, it is only the matter of a few hours' study to master them."

"But George, doesn't it seem odd that you should be playing against your friends? Some people might think that you—"

"That I would be liable to 'throw' the game, eh?" laughed Denton. "Well, I am simply a member of the association, not of the foot ball club. My only desire to get into a game, aside from the glory that lies in being on the winning side, is because I feel that the shaking up will do me good after my long inactivity, and as for 'throwing the game—well, we'll see if my playing will warrant such a suspicion. By Jove! I'm just dying to get back on the gridiron for one more game, and something tells me that the game Thursday will be a memorable one."

"But you might not play," exclaimed Laura, who was rapidly becoming swayed by Denton's enthusiasm.

"Oh, I'm certain I will, from what Langel tells me."

"And, just think, you will be playing with George Knight!"

"Well, there will be plenty of room and work for us both. You intend to be present, I suppose; you know the game is to be the society event of the season."

"Yes; all our set will be there. Papa bought a box some time ago, and now that he understands Mr. Knight is to play, he is more than anxious to go, and says mamma and I must accompany him. He was once considered quite a player himself, I believe, during his college days."

"So? But you did not answer my question; are you going?"

"Well, I didn't intend to at first, but I will now, of course."

"Then I shall look for you; and by the way Laura, should your mother recognize me on the field do not let her acquaint your father of the fact, if possible."

"Oh, she won't; she likes you too well to do or say anything that would injure your cause. You know she does not uphold papa in his designs, she simply respects his wishes."

MACK & CO.

During the conversation they had finished their luncheon, and now Denton arose and said, "And now if you wish, I will walk over to the elevated station with you. I have much to tell you on the way over."

Laura hastily collected her belongings and the two left the cafe.

Thanksgiving day dawned bright and clear. The foot ball field and its vicinity presents a most grand and awe-inspiring sight as the time draws near for the commencement of the great game; the nearest approach we can make in these modern days to the gladiatorial combats of glorious old Rome.

The first half had just been finished without either side scoring, when Wilson Gilday and his family entered the box and took their seats. Owing to Laura's efforts, Mr. Gilday had failed to secure a programme during their hasty entrance, and just as she was congratulating herself on her success thus far, she was startled to see her father lean over to one of the gentlemen in the adjoining box and request a glance at the programme the man held in his hand.

"Certainly," politely answered the man as he passed over the sheet. "But I understand that—"

"Thank you, thank you," interrupted Gilday in his brusque manner, as he rapidly turned the pages of the pamphlet. "Ah, here he is, Laura, 'Knight—right half back,' that's him,—and, by George! that is just the position I used to play, and I'll—"

"Pardon me, sir; but there has—" The man in the next box touched Gilday on the arm as he spoke, and was about to finish his sentence when the vigilant Laura suddenly pulled her father back into his seat and called his attention to the field.

A DOUBLE VICTORY.

The time had arrived for the opening of the second half, and as the teams lined up for a final struggle with the ball on Olympia's thirty-yard line, great swells of cheering roll back and across the field, increasing like the waves which tell of a storm coming from the sea.

HE STILL RETAINED THE BALL.

"They're off!" rings from thirty thousand throats as the signal is given and the ball started. With a savagery unparalleled the Apollo men hurl themselves upon their opponents; back and forth surge the trained and hardened athletes, and then suddenly the teams are mingled in a writhing mass of arms and legs.

"But you remained silent and let me make a fool of myself, eh?" Mrs. Gilday vouchsafed no reply, and her husband arose and looked towards the group of brawny players who were bearing Denton aloft on their shoulders and, surrounded by a shrieking mob of wildly enthusiastic admirers, were nearing the boxes.

"Mr. Denton, I am pleased to meet you, sir; and—er—we shall be delighted to have your company at dinner tomorrow evening, if possible, if you will kindly favor—" but his utterances are drowned in the cheers of the crowd surrounding them, and with a final pressure upon the brawny hand clasping his, he sinks back into his seat, while the cheering men, bearing their hero, pass on in their triumphant march.

Extract from the Morning Clarion's write-up of the game, on the following day: "The game throughout, and the second half in particular, was marked by a series of the most daring and brilliant plays ever seen on the local field, and the scene at the close of the second half, when Apollo scored a touchdown just as the bell rang, will ever be fresh in the memory of the thirty thousand spectators who witnessed it.

"RAH! RAH! RAH!" others. "Oh-oh, the confounded idiot! Well—that chump has lost the look—look at him—look at Knight—wow—good boy—he's got the ball—whoop—see him run—by jove, they've downed him! No, he's up again—good boy, George—only five yards now—see them fellows hanging on his back—wow—Oh, too bad, too bad, they've brought him down at last. It's all over now!" and Gilday dropped back breathless with excitement, just as Mrs. Gilday exclaimed, "Why, that is George—" but a shake of Laura's head halted her. "Course it is," snorted her husband, "and he'd have won the game too, if—wow, wow, look at him crawl—look—whoop—" Denton had been thrown within two feet of the goal line with a dozen men on top of him. He still retained the ball and now he began to wriggle out from under the struggling mass of forms towards the line so near him, and yet so infinitely distant. With painful slowness he draws nearer and nearer the goal line. The cheering has become deafening, and high above the cries about him, rings out Wilson Gilday's heavy voice: "Wow! wow! wow!—see that boy—only a foot now, George—and a minute to play—damn that referee if he rings the gong—now—whoop—another plunge—now—whoop—he's over, he's over! A touchdown—Rah for Knight—there goes the bell—let 'er ring now. Rah! rah! rah! Four to nothing—whoop—here they come with him on their shoulders, we must speak to him if possible, Laura, when they bring him around here. By George, isn't he a handsome, splendidly-built fellow! Just what I imagined him to be. Rah for Knight!"

worked his way out, and scored the only point made during the game. "Mr. Denton (who, by the way, will take charge of the Clarion city department next week) is well known in newspaper and athletic circles, and he may justly feel proud of the ovation tendered him at the close of yesterday's game."

From the Morning Clarion's society column a few weeks later: "Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Gilday announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura W., to Mr. George H. Denton. At home Wednesdays."

TOWERS OF SILENCE.

Strange Method of the Parsees in India of Disposing of Their Dead.

Near Bombay the Parsees have built huge structures called "Towers of Silence," in which the bodies of their dead are given over to the vultures. About these towers an awful, weird stillness always prevails. But the solemn silence of death is in all lands. Every year, in 100,000 American homes, the sorrow of a silence caused by that dread monster—Consumption—is known, but its frightful ravages would be almost wholly prevented and precious lives saved if Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption were kept in every home.

NEARLY Fifty-eight Years Old!!!

It's a long life, but devotion to routine retards prosperity of the American people has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by its experience of over half a century.

It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans. It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper. Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of The Ann Arbor Register (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake progressive family.

Just Think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.22 a year. Send all subscriptions to THE REGISTER, Ann Arbor Mich.

FILIPINOS' LAST COUNCIL. HELD BY RETREATING LEADERS AT BAYAMBANG.

Manila, Nov. 27.—The insurgents have evacuated Mangalaren, province of Paganasan, leaving seven American and ninety-four Spanish prisoners, who escaped in the confusion of the Filipino retreat.

Manila, Nov. 27.—The last Filipino council of war was held by the retreating leaders at Bayambang on Nov. 13, in the house now occupied by Gen. MacArthur. It was attended by Aguinaldo, Pio del Pilar, Garcia, Alejandro and some members of the so-called cabinet.

Manila, Nov. 23.—The insurgents from the north are concentrating at Montalban and San Mateo, where it is expected they will make resistance to the American advances.

A reconnaissance made yesterday showed that 200 rebels are entrenched at San Mateo and others in the valley between there and Marquina, where the rebel outposts are stationed.

Manila, Nov. 22.—Gen. Young reports that Aguinaldo, with a party of 200, including some women and a few carts, passed Aringay, on the coast, between San Fabian and San Fernando, in the province of Union, on Friday, Nov. 17.

Gen. Young, with cavalry and Macabebes, is pursuing the Filipino leader. Manila, Nov. 20.—The American occupation of the country between Manila and Dagupan is proceeding with a rush.

Captain Leonbrant accomplished one of the most brilliant coups of the war. Reaching O'Donnell by a night march from Capas on Nov. 18, he surprised the insurgent force, numbering 200, and captured all of them with their arms, 10,000 rounds of ammunition, and four tons of subsistence.

One Filipino was killed, but there were no American casualties.

DEWEY'S SON GETS HOUSE. The Admiral is Much Put Out at the Criticisms.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—John R. McLean, chairman of the Dewey fund committee, announced today that papers transferring the Dewey home from Mrs. Dewey to the admiral's son, George Goodwin Dewey, had been drawn up and would be placed on record at once.

The transfer to Mrs. Dewey, made yesterday, caused indignation here, and the local papers this afternoon are filled with letters of protest. Admiral Dewey tonight talked fully with a reporter, whom he received at his residence. The admiral expressed the keenest regret, indignation, sorrow, and resentment at the manner in which the information that he had decided his home to his wife had been received by the American people.

HOW MAINE WAS BLOWN UP. Gun-Cotton Was the Explosive Used—Further Light Expected.

Havana, Nov. 27.—It is believed officials of the United States government, after months of secret investigation, have discovered the explosive used in blowing up the warship Maine in Havana harbor on the Feb. 15, 1898.

Seven hundred pounds of it were used.

The gun-cotton was the property of the Spanish government. It was sent from Barcelona, Spain, to Admiral Manterola, the admiral commanding the port of Havana, a month before the destruction of the Maine.

Six cases, each containing 350 pounds of gun-cotton, were received at Havana. The contents of two of the boxes, 700 pounds, were either stolen from the magazine where the stuff was stored or taken away with the knowledge of the officials in charge.

For a New House Committee. Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—At the caucus of house republicans to be held on the eve of the opening of congress a proposition will be submitted to add a new committee, to which would be referred all bills relating to laws intended to be enacted for Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba, and the Philippines.

Took a Sealisk Sack. Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 27.—Geo. W. Miller's residence was burglarized and a $150 sealisk sack and $1 stolen.

BIG BATTLE AT GRAS PAN. METHUEN WINS VICTORY AT A HEAVY LOSS.

The Fight Continues Four Hours—Boers Have Thirty-One Killed—British Sustain Loss of Naval Officers.

London, Nov. 27.—Gen. Lord Methuen's force, advancing to the relief of Kimberley, again met the Boer army at Gras Pan, ten miles north of Belmont, Saturday, and a desperate battle lasting many hours ensued.

The estimates of casualties are still incomplete, but it is known that thirty-one Boers were killed and forty-eight wounded, while many prisoners were taken.

Orange River, Cape Colony, Nov. 25.—In all 107 wounded, including several Boers, have arrived here from Belmont. One of the Boers, a boy of 17 years, was compelled to take up arms with his father, who is also a prisoner. A wounded Boer said that 20 men were selected from each Boer section to pick off the British officers.

New York, Nov. 24.—A special cable to the Tribune from London says: "Long after midnight an official dispatch was received at the war office bringing the news of a battle fought by General Lord Methuen at Belmont with the Free Staters, the result being a complete victory for the Kimberley relief column."

General Methuen found the Boers strongly entrenched and provided with plenty of guns. The ground they chose to defend was cleverly selected, and in driving them from the position the British troops had to carry three ridges in succession, which seems almost a repetition of the battle of Elandsbaai.

"The last ridge was carried at the point of the bayonet after the defenders had been shaken with shrapnel." "The British losses as officially reported were three officers killed and 22 wounded, including General Fetherstonhaugh, 56 men killed, 130 wounded, and 22 missing. The Boers lost heavily and 40 prisoners were taken, besides a great quantity of stores."

Durban, Nov. 23.—Owing to the proximity of the Boers to Pietermaritzburg it has been necessary to alter the defenses of Durban. All accounts point conclusively to a determined rush of the Boers towards Pietermaritzburg with a very large force. Seven thousand men with guns, are reported 25 miles from Howick.

Mool River, Nov. 23.—At 1:30 this afternoon the Boers opened fire suddenly with howitzers at four-mile range, having planted the guns from a position at Henderson farm.

The shooting appeared to be accurate and shells from the howitzers landed in the British camp but did no damage. The British artillery took up a position overlooking the Boer camp, but could not get the range. They opened fire upon a party of 200 Boers advancing under cover of the howitzers, who retired at once.

Long the Foe of Dewey. Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—The "state secrets" of the Spanish-American war are coming to light gradually. Secretary Long is said to have violently opposed Dewey's selection as commander of Asiatic squadron, and hampered him in several ways, although he now claims the contrary.

JUDGING from the recent reports from Kentucky, Goebel is about to be abbreviated to "Go."

AS the case becomes better known, it appears that Mr. Roberts has no liking for Mormonism in theory, but is several times wedded to it in practice.

THE exports of $815,000,000 of Merchandise in a single year during the Dingley tariff, establish a record which confounds the entire free-trade contingent.

VOTING machines have been adopted in several of the western states. In the east, notably in New York, report has been current for some time that "machine" voting is now in vogue.

IT would be well for Mr. Roberts of Utah and his adherents to bear in mind that the opposition is not to him personally, but to the odious practice of the alleged faith which he represents.

WITH every puff of smoke from a factory smokestack, and every toot of a locomotive whistle proclaiming the country's prosperity, it would seem as though the calamity shouters would need a new issue next year.

MR. BRYAN'S interesting managers at Chicago this week figured out a majority in the electoral college. This indicates an early revival of the rainbow chasing enterprise of which the Bryanites have succeeded in establishing a monopoly.

MR. REED sees disaster for the Republican party unless a gold standard is definitely established by Congress at the coming session, all of which goes to show that Mr. Reed still has some interest in politics even though he is a New York lawyer.

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT ROBERTS of Utah has declared his intention of not resigning and of "fighting it out." Unless appearances are deceiving, Mr. Roberts will encounter a catastrophe as complete as that which overtook the bull that attempted to resist a locomotive.

Now General Wheeler declares that he will remain in the Philippines. There is no longer reason to doubt that the gallant old cavalry leader prefers Luzon swamps and Tagalog bullets, to the awful routine of the Congressional session.

ADMIRAL DEWEY has no doubt learned that while the American people are both great and generous, they still keep an eye on their beneficiaries and are just a trifle inclined to boss even so domestic a question as the presenting of one's own house to a beloved wife.

IT will be interesting to watch the Democratic press its effort to demonstrate that Governor Roosevelt is the logical successor to Mr. Hobart on next year's Republican ticket. But the gallant Rough Rider is looking higher than the Vice Presidency, and his ambition will probably be gratified in time.

FORMER President Cleveland amid the quitude of Princeton, is devoting himself to domestic duties most assiduously, finding relaxation occasionally, it is said, by penning an imaginary pension veto, thus to keep his hand in should Presidential nomination fighting come his way a fourth time.

JOHN R. McLEAN'S experience as a Democratic nominee in Ohio at the recent election, appears not to have dampened his ardor for political preferment, as it is now announced that he will be Mr. Bryan's running mate next year. It would be safe to wager that Mr. Bryan will demand that McLean's campaign contributions be made in gold.

J. F. Senuh will have a special Holiday price on sewing machines. He is in Chicago this week, to purchase the largest stock ever brought to this city. See add next week.

D. Y. & A. A. IN TROUBLE.

YPSILANTI MERCHANTS WANT A BETTER RATE.

Committee Falls in its Demands.—Sub-Mileage Books.—A Suit Pending.

Ypsilanti is having a hard time with the D. Y. & A. A. It will be remembered that the table published in the Register some time ago showed that the fares from towns between Detroit and Ypsilanti to the latter place were much higher than they were toward the former. The council committee, Aids, Yost, Dawson and Moore went to Detroit Thursday and interviewed President Hawkes but their efforts availed nothing.

The first request they made was that fare through Ypsilanti be made 5 cents. This was flatly refused but, as a counter proposition, Mr. Hawkes, said that he would divide the 1,000-mile mileage books into quarters which would sell for $2.50 each. This would probably secure much of the trade of those farmers living on the street car line but would still leave out the floating trade. The real trouble seems to the committee to be that the fare through Ypsilanti is 10 cents and they will try to change this.

R. N. Francisco Sues D. Y. & A. A.

Roberts Francisco, of Wayne, has commenced suit against the D. Y. & A. A. for charging 30 cents from Wayne and only 25 to Detroit. He was a member of the council when the road was built and says that this rate of fare had no sanction. If the rate agreed upon through townships, fixes the fare—the franchise says that the rate must not exceed 1 1/2 cents per mile—he may succeed. At least the suit will prove interesting.

NEW NORMAL PRESIDENT.

DR. LEONARD APPOINTED UNANIMOUSLY.

Fine Collection for the Normal.—Hero of Normal Fire Rewarded.—Leave of Absence.

The state board of education met Friday and decided many interesting points in relation to the Normal. Dr. Albert Leonard, of Syracuse university was chosen president by a unanimous vote. He will probably accept, although it is said that a strong effort will be made to keep him at Syracuse. His salary will be $4000. Dr. Leonard was born on an Ohio farm, 41 years ago. He graduated from the Ohio state university and immediately was engaged as instructor. After seven years there, he took up public school work and was superintendent of different schools for some time. For the past few years he has been dean of the literary department of Syracuse university and is recognized as well up in the list of educational lights of today.

Prof. Hoyt was granted a year's leave of absence which he will spend in Germany. Minor White was appointed extra assistant in the conservatory.

The offer of the Kent Scientific Institute, whereby the Normal will have a zoological and mineralogical collection for three years, was gratefully accepted. The Kent Institute has no place in which to keep this collection at present but they stipulate that it shall be returned if they request it at the end of three years. The collection is valued at $30,000.

Rex Baell, the student who saved the Normal from fire has been granted free privileges of the college as long as he attends.

The board have accepted the city's offer to insure the buildings. The policy for $50,000 will be payable to the state board on condition the buildings shall be replaced at Ypsilanti if burned.

Causes of Loss of Hair

Dr. Sabouraud, the eminent French Dermatologist, says that 98 per cent of hair losses are the results of microbes and the neglect of dandruff. The antiseptic action of preparations kills microbes and removes dandruff. Their constant use for a period will, by acting directly on the hair bulbs, furnish nourishment, vitality and growing power to the impoverished roots and hair shafts, resulting in complete restoration.

CAMPUS NOTES.

The seniors have decided to wear the cap and gown as usual.

The co-eds will soon issue a woman's edition of the U. of M. Daily.

The date of the next faculty concert of the School of Music is December 7.

A concert for children will be given at the University School of Music Friday afternoon, December 24, at 4:15.

The senior laws went to Ypsilanti and while the team won the game, their colleagues yelled and flirted with the Normalites.

The reports of the game with Wisconsin will be received at the Athens theatre. The doors are open at 10. Admission, 25 cents.

The Woman's League gave a costume ball at their gymnasium Saturday night. Every conceivable character even to Hobson was present and the affair was extremely successful.

The laws won in the debate on the municipal ownership of street railways. The team to meet Chicago is A. M. Cloud, M. H. Carmody and G. A. Ollinger. Prizes of $75, $50, and $30 respectively were awarded.

Professor Clark, head of the department of philosophy of Trinity College, Toronto, will lecture before the Philosophical Society of the University of Michigan Friday, December 15. The title of the address is the Formation of Public Opinion. The meeting will be held in the lecture room of Tappan Hall at 4:15 p.m.

A class in Public School Music has been organized in the School of Music and is under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Clements. This course is intended to give those desiring to do such work a thorough preparation and those who complete the work satisfactory will be given a certificate. The class meets Tuesdays and Fridays at 4.00 o'clock.

The course of six lectures on teaching arranged by the appointment committee of the University of Michigan will be opened early in December by President Angell, who will take for his subject Teaching as a Calling for University and College Students. He will be followed in January by Professor Hixdale in a lecture entitled The Pedagogical Principles entering into the Teacher's Preparation; In February Professor Mechem of the law department will speak upon the Teacher's Legal Status. The remaining three lectures of the course will be announced later.

YPSILANTI LOCALS.

Miss Helen Bovee is about to visit in Washington for some time.

Frank Weir is expecting to patent a holder to use while filling bags.

Wm. Loudon has gone to Missouri where he will spend the winter with his sister.

The Cherry Hill creamery building is completed but the machinery has not yet arrived.

Timothy Thompson of Augusta. is on trial today for stealing 14 bushels of corn from Lewis Brooks.

Margaret Parks will sue Wm. Dushbiber for $3000 in the Ann Arbor courts Assault and battery is the charge.

J. E. Warner will be at Kief & Meenwell's grocery Friday and Saturday, Jan. 5 and 6, and Wednesday, the 10th, to collect township taxes.

Miss Minnie Davis of Ypsilanti and Frank Sanderland of Ann Arbor were married at the home of the bride's sister Wednesday. They will live in Ann Arbor.

The high school boys were finally defeated in football by Pontiac. The game was a first class exhibition for both sides. Pontiac's wonderful backs did the work.

Prof. Bradley M. Thompson of the university law school will lecture at the Episcopal Church next Sunday evening. His subject will be on the enlargement of church responsibility in view of our recent policy of expansion.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Shannon Comedy company will hold the boards. The company is rapidly coming into prominence and Miss Virginia Goodwin is admittedly one of the cleverest of young actresses. Popular prices will prevail.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free

LINCOLN CARTER'S NEW PLAY.

"Remember the Maine" at Athens Saturday Night.—Shannon Comedy Co. Next Week.

Lincoln J. Carter has a world wide fame as a past master of stage mechanism—to read the list of scenic effects in one play alone would tend to prove this. In the new-stirring and powerful American play written by Mr. Carter; he has devised and executed the following life like effects.

The entrance of the battleship Maine into Havana Harbor; The explosion of the Maine; The old wine vault with its falling foundation; the destruction of a Spanish fort by an American shell; and to top off this list nothing less than Dewey's destruction of the Spanish fleet and the bombardment of Manila. Most managers are satisfied with one effect to a play and here are five in one play alone, and done as only this master hand of effects for the stage can do them.

Mr. Seabolt has indeed secured a fine attraction and will undoubtedly be well repaid for his trouble. The company will be here Saturday night only.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

W. C. T. U. Having Some Interesting Gatherings—Talked About the National Convention The rooms were crowded again Thursday at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Doag, county president, made the devotional hour a very sacred one. The report of committee work was given, and Mrs. Betsy Lee stated to the union the new work she is taking up among the colored people. The new work is under direction of the county organization, but must be carried on by our own city and Ypsilanti, since these are the only resident districts of colored people in the county. A vote of thanks and good wishes was given to Mr. Lee for the work she has already done and is now taking up.

The ladies from Dexter, Mrs. Standard and her daughter, who were to give a report of the national convention at Seattle, were unavoidably prevented from attending, and Mrs. Worden, Mrs. Voorhees and Miss Wood-Allen hastily prepared a report from the printed ones which they had at hand. So heartily did they enter in to the spirit of it, that it was hard to believe that these reports were only gleaned from what others had seen and heard. It was indeed a grand congress of rare women. One feature which omens well for the future is the deference which the convention received. It was welcomed by the state, represented by Gov. Rogers, and the city by the mayor, as well as by churches and organizations. It was also entertained as the guest of the city one day after the session closed.

HOW IT USED TO SOUND.

Karl Harriman's Verses On the "The Old School Bell."—Does This Appeal to Your Memories?

Karl Harriman printed these verses in the Detroit Free Press the other day. Whatever may be their poetical value, they certainly have a pretty sound and, like the poetry which is most popular today, appeal strongly to the average reader.

I. In my reverie I hear it As I heard it of yore. When a boy I hastened onward, Ere the closing of the door; Tho' its tones are now the sweeter Tempered softer in the knell— In my memory—and the clanging Of the Old School Bell I can hear its rattling ding, I can hear its booming dong— And again I hear it sing— "Come Along! Come Along!" II.

And I note the clattering rattle Of the clapper as it swings, And I sink into the musing That the memory of it brings— Faces gone, and hands that touched me Hearts that slumber in the dell, Gain are near me, at the clanging Of the Old School Bell, I can hear its rattling ding, I can hear its booming dong— And again I hear it sing— "Come Along! Come Along!" III.

'Tis the dearest privilege granted That we're given eyes to see, Back the years that Time has offered Unto you and unto me— But the fondest recollection That is drawn from Boyhood's well Is the memory of the clanging Of the Old School Bell, I can hear its rattling ding, I can hear its booming dong— And again I hear it sing— "Come Along! Come Along!"

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

The Y. W. C. A. rooms were crowded Sunday afternoon to listen to Miss Inouye, who gave a delightful talk on Japan. This was very fortunate for the Round the World club, who are studying Japan this month. Most of them were present among the most eager listeners.

The quartette furnished beautiful music and we venture to suspect that two young men were not ill-pleased that they came to sing and remained to listen.

The chairman of the Membership Committee has been looking up the record for payment of dues, and find it a pretty good one. The unpaid dues are thus divided. In May, three, in June and July, each one. A very few later ones have been deferred for a little, and there are twelve which fall due in November. Some of these have not as yet been paid. Please look up the date of your joining and if the committee does not wait upon you and you should pay this month, leave the dollar at the rooms. The committee is anxious to come to the quarterly meeting, Dec. 11th and be able to report all dues paid up to date.

No English class this week. New books are needed for our library. If any of our friends have books which are suited to our needs, and will send them to us, we shall be very glad to see that they are read by those who will get most enjoyment and good from them. Helpful stories, books which be of use in the classes, magazines containing illustrated articles which will be of interest to the Round the World Club—anything of this nature will be acceptance. They can be left at the rooms any afternoon, or better, come to a Sunday meeting and give them to the member of the library committee who is there that day.

An' one we all admire: An' we can hear the poet sing His praise an' never tire: But take it w'en th' frosts hev cum An' all the trees are bare, An' 'n' bashful snowflakes fust are seen In th' November air; 'Tain't eagles then we'er thinkin' 'bout, Nor birds that sweetly warble; We want that dear, ol' fashioned fowl, Th' turkey with his gobble; 'Tis then we're ready to declare, In plainest prose or rhyme, Th' turkey is our favorite bird

Summer Table Decorations.
The favorite summer table decoration is of water lilies. They last well, suggest summer and rusticity, and look charming and pretty arranged in crystal bowls or in low china or silver dishes. In arranging water lilies for evening decorations, the sepals should be turned back with the fingers, as their strong natural tendency to close up at night is not always overcome even by electric light, says the New York Commercial Advertiser.

Shallow glass dishes or low bowls filled with wet sand or moss form the foundations of many of the most effective table pieces; by keeping the compartments of the decoration low and the taller portion free and open, there is little or no obstruction to the diners' view of one another. Wires are not essential in this form of decoration if use is made of the small molds of rough terra-cotta that are now sold for the purpose. These are perforated with holes, into which the flowers are to be inserted, the mold being put inside. As it is of porous clay, it retains moisture, keeping the flowers fresh, as well as holding them firmly in position. Roses of many shades, from white, with palest pink or yellow on the petals, to deep yellow and crimson, make beautiful centerpieces, the pale tints arranged above the solid colors. Solid blocks of ice, cut in peaks or pyramids, set in bowls deep enough to allow of melting without overflowing, are novel. They can be made most decorative by the use of roses, ferns and asparagus vine. A block of ice set in a recess and surrounded by ferns is almost as effective in reducing the temperature of a warm room as an electric fan.

Tommy Explains.
"I don't see," said Flossie, throwing a torpedo on the ground with a bang, "how they manage to blow up a big ship with one of these things?" "Oh, your girls can't expect to understand such things," said Tommy in a superior manner. "Of course the torpedoes they use are about 100 times as big, and they use a derrick to lift them and drop them on the ship."—Harper's Bazar.

When a man falls headlong from a roof, we think only of the hazardous character of his employment. It does not occur to us that thousands of men at sea or on land are hourly climbing to dizzy heights without a fear and without a fall, and that the real danger is not in the employment but in the weakening of the nerves and giving way of the muscles. That danger is just as great to the man on the sidewalk or in the office as to the man on the roof. When the organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased the blood becomes impoverished, and nerves and muscles grow weak for lack of nutrition. More fatal diseases probably begin with "weak stomach" than with any other cause. The first symptom of disordered stomach calls for prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a vegetable medicine, absolutely non-alcoholic and non-narcotic, and is unequalled for the strength it gives to blood, nerves and muscles.

TRUE POETRY.
"When the frost is on the pumpkin,"
"When the chestnut's in the burr,"
"When the bluish is on the apple,"
"When the cat is on the purr,"
All of these are pat expressions, But for true poetic chime, When the roast is on, the turkey Takes the cake Thanksgiving time.

THE PURITAN.
Some of the Advantages We Possess Over Our Progenitors.
The Puritans didn't live in a condition of financial affluence. True, they had the home market all to themselves, but they were too busy to sit on a box, whittle, and evolve theories in political economy. And as they were all of one opinion, there was no opportunity for discussion.

Their first winter has gone down in history as a period of monetary and dietary depression. The times were hard; so hard that the minutes rattled like buck shot as they fell. The people kept up their courage with hopes of hiring out to the Indians when the spring work opened up, but the red man was down on the pauper labor of Europe.

The Puritan was a believer in the stern, and uncomfortable doctrine of foreordination. He believed that even the day of his death had been selected from the beginning, and nothing could change it. Yet, he carried his gun to church. This was not to prevent his being compelled to die before his destined time, but to use in case he met an Indian whose time had come. He came over after religious freedom. He found it and used it very extensively. In fact, he had exhausted the supply by the time the Quakers began to appear. Still, we must not lose sympathy for the Puritan. With witches, Indians and the devil, his life was more beset, while laying the foundations of his rich commonwealth, in which today the lowest ward heeler toils not; neither does he spin, yet the diamond in his shirt stud outshines Colocanda's gems, while over all his being reigns supreme the royal soul of malt and hops. What progress!—W. G. Brooks.

A SONG OF THE SEASON.
Oh, nearest love, and dearest love
Oh all the loves of men,
The fields to-night are wide and white—
As wide and white as when
A year ago, across the snow,
You came into my ken,
Most tender love, most slender love,
Oh all the loves of men!
And we have braved the winds of March,
And plucked the rose of June,
And watched through screens of rustling larch
The red October moon;

And we have seen the summer's pride,
That hears the thrushes call,
Have welcomed spring, and grieved beside
The deathbed of the fall:
But more than these we love the breeze
That chill and bracing blows,
And whispers yet of when we met,
And laughs across the snows,
So cling to me, and sing to me,
As close and sweet as then,
Oh, purest love, and surest love
Oh all the loves of men!

Why We Are Thankful.
Cheerfulness rules the hour. The whole world is talking Turkey. So far as the American people are concerned no Thanksgiving Day in many years has found them with more or greater causes for grateful rejoicing. The mighty machinery of industry, trade and commerce is once more moving with new and daily augmenting energy. The business skies are clearing in all quarters, and the sunshine of prosperity floods the land. Party spirit is at a low ebb, and we are apparently on the threshold of "era of good feeling," in which all classes of the people will share the blessings that flow from fixed and normal conditions of business.

He Objected.
Farmer Cornanoats (excitedly).—"What do ye mean by calling me a coward?"
Editor—"I didn't."
Farmer C. (showing paper).—"Here it is. Mr. Cornanoats, a scarred veteran of the war— Now, look here, I wa'n't scared a bit, and I want you to take it back!"

Looking at the Turkey.
Freddie.—"Is that the gobbler, pa?"
Pa.—"Yes."
Freddie.—"Where are the goblets, pa?"

Young Turkey.—"I notice you haven't eaten enough to feed a bird lately? Are you sick or do you think this is Lent?"
Old Turkey.—"I have reasons of my own."

NEVER TOO OLD TO BE CURED.

S. S. S. is a Great Blessing to Old People. It Gives Them New Blood and Life.

Age does not necessarily mean feebleness and ill health, and nearly all of the sickness among older people can be avoided. Most elderly people are very susceptible to illness, but it is wholly unnecessary. By keeping their blood pure they can fortify themselves so as to escape three-fourths of the ailments from which they suffer so generally. S. S. S., thoroughly removing all waste accumulations, and imparting new strength and life to the whole body. It increases the appetite, builds up the energies, and sends new life-giving blood throughout the entire system.

Mrs. Sarah Pike, 477 Broadway, South Boston, writes: "I am seventy years old, and had not enjoyed good health for twenty years. I was sick in different ways, and in addition, had Eczema terribly on one of my legs. The doctor said that on account of my age, I would never be well again. I took a dozen bottles of S. S. S. and it cured me completely, and I am happy to say that I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Mr. J. W. Loving, of Colquitt, Ga., says: "For eighteen years I suffered tortures from a fiery eruption on my skin. I tried almost every known remedy, but they failed one by one, and I was told that my age, which is sixty-six, was against me, and that I could never hope to be well again. I finally took S. S. S., and it cleansed my blood thoroughly, and now I am in perfect health."

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD is the only remedy which can build up and strengthen old people, because it is the only one which is guaranteed free from potash, mercury, arsenic and other damaging minerals. It is made from roots and herbs, and has no chemicals whatever in it. S. S. S. cures the worst cases of Scrofula, Cancer, Eczema, Rheumatism, Tetter, Open Sores, Chronic Ulcers, Boils, or any other disease of the blood. Books on these diseases will be sent free by Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"I suffered for months from severe throat. Electric Oil cured me in twenty-four hours." M.S. GIST, Hawesville, Ky.

Didn't Like His Luncheon.

The heroine of all this is a beautiful cloak model, and the story—romance, comedy, tragedy, or whatever you choose to call it—is told by the heavy villain himself, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. The latter is a gentleman of persuasive manners and much wealth. He is the cloak model's employer, and he does not tell this part of himself but tried for something like a year to induce the lovely creature to accept an invitation to luncheon. She finally accepted (he tells that part) and was dully escorted by him to a restaurant noted for its swell company and its ruinous prices. The lady promptly proved that her looks were superior to her manners. (Her host tells that.) She swallowed her soup from the end of the spoon, with a sound like the exhaust pipe of a bathtub. In the consumption of her entire she performed the feats of an Asiatik swordswallower; she conveyed her salad to her mouth with her fingers and drank her coffee from the saucer. Before she had time to eat the lemon from the finger bowl her employer was ready to quit the tells that, too, and later he asked his friends, tearfully, if it was not a shame so lovely a girl should have had such a vile bringing-up.

A New and Superbly Illustrated LIFE OF CROMWELL

By the Right Hon. John Morley, M. P.

The conductors of the Century take a special pleasure in presenting this as the leading historical series of the magazine in 1900. No man is more competent than John Morley, who was selected by Mr. Gladstone's family to write the biography of Cromwell, to write Cromwell in the spirit of the end of the century.

ERNEST SETON-THOMPSON'S
"Biography of a Grizzly" — the longest and most important work of the author of "Wild Animals I Have Known."

PARIS, ILLUSTRATED BY CASTAIGNE.

Danger Signals!

Do you take cold with every change in the weather? Does your throat feel raw? And do sharp pains dart through your chest?

Don't you know these are danger signals which point to pneumonia, bronchitis, or consumption itself? If you are ailing and have lost flesh lately, they are certainly danger signals. The question for you to decide is, "Have I the vitality to throw off these diseases?"

Don't wait to try SCOTT'S EMULSION "as a last resort." There is no remedy equal to it for fortifying the system. Prevention is easy.

Scott's Emulsion
prevents consumption and hosts of other diseases which attack the weak and those with poor blood. SCOTT'S EMULSION is the one standard remedy for inflamed throats and lungs, for colds, bronchitis and consumption. It is a food medicine of remarkable power. A food, because it nourishes the body; and a medicine, because it corrects diseased conditions.

Output of the Klondike.

No one will ever know exactly how much gold was taken from the Klondike fields the past season. Since the English government imposed a royalty, the miners have adopted all sorts of ruses to evade the law. It is rather difficult to dodge taxes, but it is more difficult to dodge a bad cold and the grip at this time of year. When the system is weakened by such attacks, and the blood becomes thin and impoverished, the best medicine to take is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This remedy builds up the system. Besides regulating digestion, it overcomes constipation. It is good for the kidneys and liver, too, stimulating these organs into the proper performance of their functions. Nothing is so good for malaria heart a conscience. This conscience is not only the feeling of righteousness; it is the knowledge that there is a ruler over all. The savage has not been found who is not thus ethical. Does not this point to a great protector? This protector is the maker and maintainer of laws of physical and moral existence. We may violate these laws but the hand of God will be upon us. Temples will ever be built in honor of this ruler.

ST. THOMAS CHURCH DEDICATED.

The third element is hope. The longing for supreme happiness can never die out. Man lives for this end. But will this thirst never be satisfied? Must our longing be in vain? Men have tried everything and found nothing. Ah, there must be an answer somewhere and where else than in immortality where God can fill the soul? Temples will ever be built where weary man can come for hope.

Religion is the result of these elements. It is what lifts man up to God and returns him full of hope. It makes him capable of civilization, it gives him nobility and a motive for well doing. Build temples that you may be inspired. Let none say, "It is enough to build temples of education and of industry;" you may have the cultured animal but you will not have the deified man.

"I congratulate you on your choice. I congratulate you on your idea that is conveyed by the cross on the spire. This is its beauty; greater than symmetry of architecture; greater than all its massive grandeur is the fact that the cross is above. This is its beauty."

In the evening Bishop Maes officiated at pontifical vespers and Right Reverend Monsignor Conaty, D. D., Washington, D. C., preached.

He spoke on the text, "Other foundation can no man lay but that which is laid which is Christ Jesus," and the sermon was on the Holy Catholic Church. He showed how dogma and creed are necessary and traced their course through the scriptures. He closed with the words:

"Man outside of the church is seeking after truth and passing the great teacher. Society is sick and forgetting the great physician. Humanity is by the wayside, looking anxiously for the Samaritan. Philosophy has asked of science to find that which will satisfy. Oh, let us come to Christ and ask of the great teacher, and Christ shall give us hope.
