

The University Appropriations.

The Legislature having completed its labors and adjourned, we are able to give our readers a definite statement of the appropriations made in aid of the University; appropriations needed and welcome, though most of them were made without the solicitation of the University authorities, but in accordance with a conviction that the best interests of the State require that no retrograde steps be taken at the University. The appropriations may be tabularized as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes University of Michigan, Michigan State Normal School, Michigan Agricultural College, etc.

The appropriation to pay the interest-bearing warrants, drawn for the extension of the laboratory, was made upon the free and unqualified recommendation of Governor Bagley, such recommendation being a cheerful surprise to regents and faculty.

The Mining School appropriation grew out of a like voluntary recommendation. The bill provides for three professors: one of mining engineering, one of metallurgy, and one of architecture and architectural design, and appropriate $8,000 a year, for two years, for the salaries of such professors and necessary assistants. The other $5,000 is for models and apparatus. This appropriation is very meager, yet once inaugurated this eminently useful and practical department of the University will not be permitted to wait either building or apparatus.

The appropriation for a College of Homeopathy (a permanent one) is a happy settlement of the long-venez question. The school is to be organized as an independent department of the University, and neither the new nor the old school will be answerable for the heresies of the other. Each medical bill will stand upon its own bottom. We have always fought mixing big and little pills, and have always favored an independent school. The present medical faculty accept the situation gracefully, and see no difficulty in carrying out the design of the Legislature.

The appropriation for a Dental School came in response to the urgent petitions or demands of the dentists of the State. A first class dental school will be the result.

The Hospital appropriation ($5,000 for a building and $2,500 for equipment) is a godsend to the afflicted of the State, as well as an aid to the medical department. The hospital (so-called) which has been in operation in one of the old dwelling houses for two or three years, has done a good work with very small means. A single item: one hundred and twenty-five patients have been operated upon for cataract of the eye, the operation being successful with very few exceptions—so many blind men made to see, and so many unproductive persons made producers. This appropriation was coupled with a condition that Ann Arbor give $4,000 for the same purpose. The preliminary steps have already been taken to comply with the conditions, a committee having been appointed at the Council meeting on Monday evening last, in response to a petition representing a large share of the tax valuation of the city, and early action will be taken. We are confident that no large number of the tax-payers will dissent, and that the liberality and wisdom of the Legislature will be met by a speedy appropriation of the required $4,000. The tax voted or loan authorized, home capitalists will advance the money, and the hospital may be completed in time for the next term.

The $5,000 water appropriation was made in response to the request of the regents, who had tired of paying bills for hauling river water, and despaired of our city building water works. The delay of our city, caused by petty jealousies and discords, loses the best prospective customer, and we fear postpones water works for a series of years. —It is perhaps not out of place to name a few of the persons to whom the University is indebted for the appropriations above discussed, and which promise a new era of prosperity for the University: Governor Bagley; Senator White, who took a special interest in the school of mines; Senator Thomas, of the Committee on University; Senator Boies, of the Finance Committee. In the House, Representatives Taylor, Hulbert, Walker, and others, rendered efficient aid. The mining school bill was Mr. Hulbert's.

While we congratulate the general public on the fact that Mr. Pierpont, the new Attorney-General, is a much better lawyer than his predecessor, Mr. Williams, aide of Oregon, who was so mildly eulogized by Senator Christianity, we are yet sorry to say that we have not the most implicit belief in his independence, and have both suspicions and fears that he will pander a little too much to the wishes of the President. He is essentially a place hunter, and will not be likely to condemn in very strong terms measures that his superior may set his heart upon. He is got up more for dress parade and showy occasions than for solid work, and whether the law he may deal out will be sound or not will depend more upon the object in view than upon the text books or close study thereof or reasoning therefrom. Though thankful for most any change, a man of a different character would have given better promise of a return to the lines marked out by the constitution.

In their respective charges to the grand juries, Judges Brooks and Dick of North Carolina, have recently declared the criminal features of the Civil Rights act unconstitutional, as no law could say that men and women are socially equal.

The Condition of the South.

Hon. W. D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, the well-known Radical member, who left Washington shortly after the adjournment of Congress for Florida, with a view to recruit his health, has returned to Philadelphia. In an interview with a representative of the New York World he related some of his personal observations while traveling through the South. Although he spent the most of the time he was absent in Florida, he traveled extensively through Georgia, North Carolina, and Virginia, keeping, as he says, his eyes and ears open to ascertain for himself the condition of affairs in the South. He mingled freely with the people, black and white, questioning them upon their condition, their wants and their expectations. As a result of his observations and researches, Judge Kelly says that he found every part of the South visited by him extremely depressed. The financial legislation of the last Congress, he says, is driving the South into insolvency, and not until its repeal by a new Congress will there be any recuperation in that section.

Touching the outrage business, Judge Kelley states that the reports which have been made are not only gross exaggerations, but in many cases deliberate falsehoods. "In all my fourteen years in Congress," said Mr. Kelley, "the only vote I regret having given was that for the Force bill last session." So far as he could ascertain, there was no occasion for such a measure in the South. He conversed with negroes of every grade, and the universal testimony is that where a colored man is industrious, minds his own business, and avoids whisky, he is not only prosperous, but rapidly accumulating property.

ALL is not lovely in the National Grange. The State and local Granges will not pay their dues to the National, head central organization. Of the two thousand Granges of the Patrons of Husbandry in the State of Iowa, more than eleven hundred are in arrears. As the dues are not heavy, the fact of so many Granges neglecting to pay would indicate that the farmers have found the higher chapter of the organization an expensive and useless incubance. The farmer who works dialikes to pay from his earnings the salary of a side-walk farmer, whose only duty is to help dictate how the sub-organizations should be managed. His idea is that the county and State Granges are entirely competent to take care of themselves. He sees no reason why he should plow and dig to support a central organization, which can be of no use unless the farmers propose to make themselves a separate political power, a thing which the more sensible of them are very strenuously insisting that the farmers have no wish or intention to do. A majority of the local Granges throughout the country are still loyal to their obligations, and there is no probability that the National Grange will be discontinued for a time at least.

DURING the year or more preceding the last general election, the Democratic press of the State charged the party in power with so manipulating the legislation of the State as to keep enormously heavy balances in the treasury, to the detriment of tax-payers and for the benefit of nobody save State officers and pet bankers. The only reply was that the large balance (continuously over or near a million dollars) belonged to the sinking fund, and that the sinking fund was a constitutional fund and could not be diverted. But it was discovered during the last session that over $400,000 had been placed in the sinking fund by legislation not required by the Constitution, and a law was passed transferring the same to the general fund. This law will reduce the State tax for the current year nearly half a million dollars, for which the tax-payers may thank Democratic groglers.

THE prospects of getting the Michigan log product of the winter to the mills is not such as to be particularly relating to the lumber manufacturers, who find themselves with few logs to begin the spring cutting. It is stated that a large proportion of the logs out are still piled up in the streams, and cannot be floated out without a fresher, the gradual melting of the winter's snow and continued dry weather having kept the water insufficient to float out the logs. This condition extends to all the smaller streams and tributaries, and as a consequence the Michigan lumbermen are spoken of as decidedly blue.

THE Legislature adjourned on Thursday last, after a session of one hundred and nineteen days, one day less than the last regular session. There have been 299 bills and 33 joint resolutions introduced into the senate, and 566 bills and 39 joint resolutions introduced into the house. Among the important financial bills passed, is one transferring a portion of the sinking fund to the general fund, reducing the amount of funds in the treasury, and also the amount to be raised by direct tax for State purposes.

There will be no direct taxation levied for general expenses in Michigan during the next two years. For this relief the people are unquestionably indebted to the surplus expense which was made last fall. It was then strenuously insisted by opposition journals that the surplus could be put far better use than that of being loaned out at a low rate of interest to favored banks. The Legislature, at the session just closed, showed itself to be of the same opinion; and by the transfer of a large portion of the surplus to the general fund the large and heretofore almost useless balance will be made of good service during the next two years. The change in the policy of the State in this matter was forced upon the dominant party, and it felt that it could no longer persist in exporting money from the people when there was no real necessity for it. The surplus was made in great part available after the people had ascertained that it was very expensive, impolitic and unprofitable to maintain it in all its magnitude.—Detroit Free Press.

A GRATIFYING statement from Washington is that the Secretary of the Treasury confidently anticipates $20,000,000 gold surplus in the Treasury before July 1st.

Meeting of the Superintendents of Schools.

Pursuant to a call privately issued, there was a meeting of the Township Superintendents of Schools of Washtenaw county, in the court house at Ann Arbor, on Thursday, April 23rd, for the purpose of discussing the maintenance and promoting the efficiency of the public schools under their charge.

The following Superintendents were present: G. S. Wheeler, of Salem; W. G. Doty, of Manchester; M. J. McMahon, of Sharon; W. A. Millard, of Ann Arbor; W. E. Dupue, of Sylvan; W. A. Jones, of Dexter; Thomas Flynn, of Freedom; E. Smith of Lima; E. F. Case, of Pittsford; A. McMillan, of Scio; W. R. Waldron of Webster; E. C. Warner, of Ypsilanti; G. S. Rawson, of Bridgewater; E. T. Gibney, of Northfield.

A letter from Hon. J. Webster Childs, of Augusta, was read, endorsing the object of the meeting and expressing regret at not being able to be present, on account of necessary attendance on the State Board of Agriculture.

The meeting was called to order about 11 o'clock by G. S. Wheeler, and organized by choosing W. G. Millard chairman and G. S. Rawson secretary.

After some remarks by the chairman, stating the object of the meeting, G. S. Wheeler was called upon and made some earnest remarks, indicating his interest in the cause of education, and proposing a number of topics for the consideration of the meeting. Having agreed that it was important that the standard of qualification of teachers should be uniform throughout the county, the examination for a third grade certificate was taken up.

After discussion, it was agreed that the examinations for that grade should include orthography, spelling, reading, dictation and written arithmetic, geography, grammar and penmanship; that the standing required should be at least 75 per cent, on a scale of 100, and the actual standing of the teacher be marked on the certificate.

For a second grade certificate, it was agreed that there should be added to the above named branches elementary algebra and United States history, and at the discretion of the Superintendent, science of government and physiology, and that to receive a third grade certificate on a scale of 100 be required.

For a first grade certificate it was agreed that the examinations should include, in addition to the branches of the third and second grades, penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, Business Arithmetic, Single and Double Entry Book-keeping, Grammar, Plain and Fancy Penmanship, and the principles of the Metric System.

The program of the student in Book-keeping is greatly facilitated by the use of a new chart entitled "Book-keeping at One View," just published by the Michigan State Normal School. Call at the rooms during school hours, or address, C. E. POND, Ann Arbor, Mich. 14687.

One of the committees of four was appointed to prepare a uniform series of questions to be used at the examinations of teachers throughout the county. Messrs. G. S. Wheeler, W. G. Doty, E. C. Warner, and A. McMillan were constituted the committee.

The committee were instructed to procure the printing of the questions, and also suitable blanks for the use of the Superintendents.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Millard, Dupue and Rawson, was appointed to correspond with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction in regard to holding a State Teachers' Institute in Washtenaw county this fall, and to make the necessary arrangements.

Messrs. McMahon, Flynn and Smith were designated as an executive committee, with power to call another convention of the Superintendents in the fall. Adjourned.

HE BECAME THE ODDS WERE GREAT.

A son of the fabled, says an exchange, went into Barney Galligan's saloon the other day and called for a drink. Barney observed how blooming he was with the "rosy" already, and shook his head, saying: "You have had enough."

"Enough of what, I guess?" asked the other. "Enough to drink," Barney is running my "rosy" for you or I!" "You are, and you are running it in the ground."

"I bade you ten dollars that I am a liar," said he, slapping his hand down on the bar.

"There is no bet there," said Barney, smiling. "Give us a drink."

"No, you are drunk now," said the other. "You are running it in the ground."

"I bade you ten dollars that I am a liar," said he, slapping his hand down on the bar.

"There is no bet there," said Barney, smiling. "Give us a drink."
