THE ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1876. NUMBER 1593.

WELCOME TO THE NATIONS.

By R. W. STODARD. Welcome, a thousand welcome! Our emotion demands a speech we have not; I demand a welcome to the nations.

THE MADE BELLE.

It was a sultry day in late July. The sun shone brightly on the water of the air that waited impatiently for the fulfillment of the promise, that lay broad and legible along the western horizon, of a coming thunderstorm.

A BAD INDIAN.

The Career of the Blood-thirsty Sitting Bull. Delegate McGinnis of Montana Territory, who has carefully studied the Indian question, makes the following statement in regard to the career of the Sioux trouble and the character and strength of Sitting Bull the chief and leader of the Sioux.

THE AMERICAN CENTENNIAL.

What the London Times Has to Say About It—The "Thunderer" Makes Up for Queen Vic's Neglect to Recognize the Occasion. The Emperor of Germany, the Czar of Russia, and the King of Italy, all sent letters to President Grant, referring in a complimentary manner to the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the United States of America.

GARNER'S WATERY GRAVE.

Capitulating a Pleasure Yacht in New York Harbor—An Inexplicable Sailing-Master Causes the Drowning of Seven Master Leaders. Mr. Wm. T. Garner, a rich cotton-planter of New York, with a valued number of invited guests, went out for a sail in his own yacht, the Mohawk, in New York harbor, one afternoon recently.

Who ever heard of a belle that hadn't metal in her?

"Nonsense! but I tell you there's a good deal of metal in her." "Of course," said Sam, "but I tell you there's a good deal of metal in her."

Population of Turkey.

During the International Exhibition of 1875 at Vienna a society was formed for the collection of statistics relative to the East. This society issues a monthly journal, and from its pages the Paris Journal reproduces some facts about the population of Turkey which will be of interest at the present time.

England and Our Indian War.

In the British House of Commons, on the 21st of July, Sir Edward Watkin asked the Indian Secretary for the Colonial Department if he could give any information regarding the condition of the Indian States.

A Prison that Has Kept the Gallows Busy.

The last report of the Warden and Directors of the Connecticut State Prison shows 252 convicts in that institution, of whom 121 were received within the past year.
