THE FLOOD OF YEARS.

By William Cullen Bryant.

A mighty hand, from an exhausted urn, pours forth the never-ending flood of years.

From the mountain's top, the rushing waves bear all before them.

And there, as if by magic, they are met by rocks and foams and fill the air with roar of mingled notes.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

REACHING THE FOOT OF A ROCKY MOUND.

By William Cullen Bryant.

Reaching the foot of a rocky mound, Grouard told us to halt while he took observations.

By the time we had moved about four miles from the bivouac, we observed Grouard's late bivouac.

From the mountain's top, the rushing waves bear all before them.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.

And they who sit, they who stand, they who hurry to and fro, they who stand and they who hurry to and fro.
