BECHER AND MOUTON.

How splendid Becher's people stand by him! He received 1,300 calls yesterday—300 more than last year, whose New Year fell on a much pleasanter day.

It speaks volumes for the affectionate fidelity of the human race that so many good men and women have followed him up and down the rugged edge of remorse and despair, lived with him in the cave of gloom, seen him on his knees before Theodore Tilton, and read his passionate self-accusation without losing confidence in him.

Frank Moulton is popular with his friends, too. I saw him a moment yesterday, making calls, red-headed, breezy, agreeable as ever, and he is getting rich; and Mrs. Moulton that, "slice of the day of judgment," is the center of a large and admiring social circle.

And Tilton lectures to big audiences, and Bowen's Independent stands at the head of religious newspapers; and Leonard Bacon, the Mephistopheles of the whole affair, flourishes in New Haven. So, hurrah for everybody!

Now Burt was not a person to be alarmed without good cause; so, with more composure than might be supposed, he sat down on a coffin and took account of his chances.

He had a loaded revolver in his pocket. He took it out, thinking whether it would not be better to use it and end his life. For, even if he should escape, with his present habits, he could be sure of the door lock when he was in a tomb, with the door locked, and with a very poor prospect, so far as he could see, of getting out. The place was close and noisome to the last degree, and even if not suffocated, he might have to wait there to wait for the post-mortem examination, or something of that sort.

But this idea was too improbable for him to entertain long; and there was even less probability that he had been invited for a joke.

Then he thought more matches, and tried the door. It was a heavy iron door, and securely bolted; for he could not move it.

Then he shouted for help till he made himself hoarse; but the echo of his own voice, rebounded through the pent-up air, and put in there to wait for the post-mortem examination, or something of that sort.

While I was writing the above paragraph Frank Carpenter came in. I asked him who it was that Becher had called to last week before a Sunday-school, when he said that he had received a mysterious letter from a man who had once been his friend, and who he did not see each other all day.

"Why," said Carpenter, "that was Moulton. I dined with Frank the other day and he told me about it. They had a party, and he was very drunk, and he said that he had received a letter from a man who had once been his friend, and who he did not see each other all day."

LEWIS AND CLARK.

Death of the Last Survivor of the Surveying Party that First Penetrated the Northwest Territory.

(Charlotteville Va. Cor. New York.) Capt. Tom Lewis, nearly 90 years old, was found frozen to death last night in the public road in Albemarle county.

He was found in a snow-drift, and the county and it is supposed that he had gone out to cut some wood. Capt. Lewis had had an eventful life, and was famous as the last survivor of the Lewis and Clark expedition to explore the Missouri river.

Merrivether Lewis, the oldest son of Mrs. Marks, of Louisa Hill, by her former marriage with Col. William Lewis, of the Revolutionary army, was Private Secretary to President Jefferson shortly after the purchase of the Louisiana Territory. He had permission from the President of selecting his aid and companion, and he chose Lieut. Clark, of the regular army.

The company was organized with about thirty private soldiers, and commanded by Capt. Lewis and Clark. Capt. Lewis also took along one of his slaves, a youth of 17, named Tom. Tom was remarkably black, and neither comely in person nor attractive in manner.

Tom was Capt. Lewis's favorite body-servant, and struck by his master to the last. Capt. Lewis often told how Tom had saved his life after the expedition had crossed the Rocky mountains, and was about to descend the Columbia river. Lewis was in the wilderness, with no companion save Tom, who had been struck by his master to the last.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

FOR BOILS.—The skin of a boiled egg is the most efficacious remedy that can be applied to a boil.

Peel it carefully, wet and apply it to the part affected by a raw or open ulcer, and relieve the soreness in a few hours. Simple but efficacious.

CLUB LIFE IN NEW YORK. In the vestibule of the Union Club, says the New York Times, sits installed a porter, who opens and shuts the doors, receives all letters for the various members except those brought by the postman, and sees that no improper person enters the sacred edifice; from the interior of the vestibule a small waiting-room branches off to the right, devoted to the reception of visitors.

On the first or ground floor are spacious reading and smoking rooms, the bar, the office, and the cloak-room. On the second floor, the billiard-room, card-room, and library. On the third floor, the public and private dining-rooms, all luxuriously fitted up with a single eye to comfort, and without any attempt at elaborate embellishment.

The kitchen is above the dining-room on the fourth floor. This arrangement does away with the unpleasant odor of cooking, which so often permeates houses where the kitchen is in the basement.

An elevator running from the ground floor to the dining-room is constantly in operation. The card-room is frequented by a small portion, even of those members who take all their meals at the club and make it their home.

LECTURES TO LADIES.

Mrs. E. B. Lyman of N. Y. City, who has before visited this city, wishes the ARGUS to give notice to the citizens of Ann Arbor, that she will arrive in this city some day next week and deliver a course of lectures on "Health Topics." The place and time at which the lectures will be given, will be announced by circular. Of this lady, whom we hear favorably mentioned by citizens of Ann Arbor, the Evening Wisconsin of Milwaukee, speaks: Mrs. E. B. Lyman has just concluded an extensive series of lectures to the ladies of this city on Physiology, Anatomy and Hygiene. Her lectures were attended by over five hundred ladies, and the verdict of the ladies is that her lectures are the best of the kind ever given in this city. Every lecture was beautifully and impressively illustrated by means of manikin, models, skeleton, charts and oil paintings. We wish her good speed in her worthy endeavor to benefit her sex. CHARTER THINKING. EDITOR OF ARGUS: Report is current that somebody with an eye on the future—an "ax to grind"—will ask the Legislature to so amend the charter of this city as to consolidate the offices of Recorder and Treasurer. Such a proposition is preposterous. The Recorder who draws the warrants should not be the Treasurer to pay them. The one-officer is a necessary check upon the other. Of course no Legislature will grant that ax. A better amendment, and one based on the best of reasons, would be one which would take duties from the Recorder rather than impose more upon him. That officers should not be a member of the council and should not be ex-officio Mayor in the absence of that official. Or such is the opinion of Q. SCIO. DEXTER, Jan. 14. —T. E. Ewing has returned for a short visit with his friends in this place. —The ice that is being gathered this winter is better than it has ever been before in this place. —Our elevators and ware houses are full to overflowing waiting for cars which for some reason can't be got at. —Our band has removed into a new room, and now horns of some kind can be heard at almost any hour of the day. —Mr. H. P. Sutton, a young gentleman from this place left town this week to travel with a dramatic association as cornetist. —R. P. Copeland and Wm. Warner dissolved co-partnership on Jan. 4, B. C. Whitaker taking Copeland's place under the new firm name of Warner & Whitaker. —On Friday evening last five couples went from here to Ann Arbor to hear Camilla Urso and her famous troupe. They came back more than satisfied and high in the praises of the great violinist. —D. B. Blanchard, our hotel man, hired the Uncle Tom's Cabin Combination to play for him on Saturday evening of last week. They played the Hidden Hand and did so well for Mr. B. that he is way up in the clouds. —On Friday evening, Jan. 10, a reception was given to the new leader of our town band, at the house of Mr. B. J. Sutton, at which time the band showed their appreciation of Mr. Sutton's efforts as band teacher in a handsome gold-headed cane. They had a splendid time and all went home feeling good. VICINITY. —Battle Creek entertained 170 tramps in December. —A party from Adrian and Tecumseh will start for Florida, Jan. 21. —Battle Creek is excited over the question of who shall be postmaster. —Judge of Probate, Hon. Chas. Dickey of Calhoun county, died Sunday evening. —A great anti-secret society convention was to have been held at Adrian last week, but it flattened out too thin to be visible. —The Calhoun County Farmers' Mutual fire insurance company has a membership of 2,475, and has an insurance of $6,115,540 on farm buildings in that county. —The Supreme Court has granted a new trial to Mervin D. Palmer and George H. Carver, the two white wire clothes line dealers who were each sentenced to five years in State Prison, from Adrian in December, 1877. —C. R. and Barton Hough, the Adrian men convicted of grain crookedness, and yet in jail at Adrian, their sentence of thirty days expiring the 16th. It is said that the wife of C. R. Hough is endeavoring to raise the money to pay her husband's fine, and is sanguine of success. It is thought by some that Barton will "work out" his fine. MARRIED.
