The Better Land.

By Mrs. HEMANS.

"I hear thee speak of the better land, 'Tis there that grows beyond sunny skies; Or midst the forest islands of glittering seas, Where fragrant flowers perfume the breeze, And strange, bright birds on their starry wings Bear rich hues of all glorious things?"

DREAMLAND.

By JULIA KAVANAGH.

There is an old, a very old and beautiful simile which we are all familiar with. It is that of a man who knows of his first venture upon it, or to which special poet or philosopher it belongs. In truth it is so true that neither dead nor living would care to claim it. I confess I like it as if it were my own. It is simply this: Life is a mountain up which the traveler must climb. The path is rugged and sharp, but the summit must be reached. In youth we are all familiar with it. We begin to suspect that down hill may be like up hill, worse perhaps, and we know that a pure morning, and a glorious day lie beyond it, but we also know that to reach these we must pass through the night, and who has found no heart, however brave, whom the thought did not appear. It is amazing how limited is the number of men and women who fear death. A week ago I was in a village by the seaside. Cholera suddenly appeared amongst us, and, monster-like, it packed up and fled, some in the grey morning, some in the night, some in the weather, etc., etc., summoned them all away, and cholera had nothing to do with their departure. Beit so. I confess I felt extremely uneasy, and though I took my usual way to bed, I could not do with less—I, too, left, only I never denied my motive for doing so; to that bravery, such as it is, I lay claim. But to return to my simile. For the last few years I have been on the top of a mountain; that is to say, I know exactly the down-hill road which lies before me, and take no delight in the prospect. Far pleasanter do I find it to look back upon the road, how sunny was the early hours of that long ascent. No wonder that in all autobiography so large a space is given to childhood. Its few years generally fill pages, whereas lines are often made to comprise the rest of life. I can remember as was the case with me, the loss of a tame bird, and if you are at all tender-hearted, made you shed foolish tears there, tells you a breath that he married a charming girl, lost her at the end of seven years, and took a second wife when he was out of mourning. I believe that is one of the reasons why I shun reading all such productions unless they relate to great public events, dramas of history, and so forth. They sadden me terribly; I like novels a great deal better.

such views of life to little men and women, I cannot say.

Now, a giggling schoolgirl reads this, I know what she thinks of me, I know she thinks she is not and never could be so foolish. That may be, child; you live in a wis- age than was mine, and as you are a young lady who talks slang and scorns romance; but I will tell you what you do and what I never did. You build your little castle in the air about Mr. Johnson. He half-sequestered his hand last night, and forthwith you are arrayed in white, and the orange-blossom nods on your brow, and you are spending your honeymoon by the lakes. My dear child, better dream of seeing Ar- rigo of Joan of Arc herself that this. You see when dreams belong wholly to Dreamland they lose half their mischievous power. Of course they are very foolish, and a terrible loss of time, but no sooner did my card read, "lead to nothing. The dream which weaves itself around reality, in which, with time, reality gets so blended that the dreamer cannot well tell which is which, is purely and simply pestiferous." Dear John, he reminded me of that time in his last letter; the letter he wrote to me the night before his ship was lost on the Irish coast. Oh! how strange and dreary it was to read, "Do you remember the worst of Dreamland is that no one takes it to you. To it of your own accord, and its boundaries are so fine that they are crossed before you know anything about it. Some people have never visited that country, they say, but I deny it. Dreamland is the future is to go to Dreamland straight."

FASHION NOTES.

Many new skirt decorations, and prettiness, are now appearing. The second steps of silk are adapted to the season by a lessening in weight. Most of the shades are dense and dark, and significant of the quiet taste continuing for expensive costumes which are to appear on the promenade. Borders, plums, and the most delicate and airy, invisible green are elegant and pure in tone. That with the coolest effect is the warm sapphire-blue, and these with warmest aspect are now of garnet, so tempered, however, as not to be too dark for the season. The opulent and the well-to-do are wearing rich and elaborate dresses in more than one change of dressing attire for street wear. The prevailing tone is a soft, delicate, and distinguished by straight edges and shiny contrasts of surfaces. Decorative art affords a plentiful array of resources for the elaboration of spring robes and mantles. The principal shapes in hats for ladies are the Tallman, Pompadour and Etelke. The Fuller especially is a very neat hat for young misses. We omitted to mention in our former paper a superb model for a trained prince costume, so much in favor for wedding receptions during the brilliant Easter season. THE NEW PARASOLS.—A writer in the New York Home Journal thus describes the new style of parasols: "The new styles are made with sixteen ribs, beneath which the silk is stretched below instead of above, leaving them exposed to the view. They are gilded, and in this way many effective and stylish contrasts are introduced. The styles are ornamented with prettily, and often more pronounced than those to which we have been accustomed, most of the new ideas finding representation, as in the examples of more antique and satin. Quiet tones of color are not however excluded, but the introduction of fanciful materials brings about a larger opportunity for choice than has hitherto been practicable. The most coveted will be especially adapted to use at summer resorts, are made of bandanna silks; these, as the name would imply, being copied after the bright mixtures of color which prevail in what is familiar parlance, we call "negro handkerchiefs." They are lined with plain silks in fashionable shades, and this is placed inside the ribs. The ends of all these new parasols are finished by a low, plain top. Eighteen inches is the size. The entire weight is searched for woods of light weight which may be utilized for the handles of parasols. The olive wood is especially favored, as it is an unobtrusive and pleasant to the eye. The signature for the one purpose; its straight slender twigs extend from heavy limbs, which being cut from a heading easily fashioned into those ornamental designs so much employed. Birds' heads are a favorite device this season, and the choice lies among parrots, pheasants, swans, chickens, ducks and other varieties of the feathered tribes. Harper's Bazar says a pretty round hat for a young lady, for early spring wear is made of white straw, and has a large square crown, with a wide brim that is split in the middle of the back and turned up on revers. The brim is faced with shirred blue silk of the new grand armo shade.

Around the outside, and not to pain. A woman's weepings—Tears. Hard case.—That of an oyster. Taking partners.—Gold for paper. Coins of vantage.—Gold for paper. Suites to the sweet.—Bridal trousseaux. When boys take the rod meekly.—At fishing-time. Beer fills a bottle, and the bottle may a bier. Who ever heard a fly blow or saw a fly wheeling. Though it has an eye, a needle cannot possibly "see the point." Grass gets its dew—about the only thing in this world that does. A blundering Dubuque printer calmly alludes to an attorney-at-law. It does not always follow that a man's bare assertion is the naked truth. For penny-aliners.—A balloon ascent should always be described in inflated language. A man's good fortune often turns his head; his bad fortune often averts the heads of his friends. Miss Otis Tootle a beautiful and accomplished belle of St. Joe, Mo., has had her name changed to Mrs. Frank Parrin. A grave-digger buried a man named Button, and brought in the following bill to his widow: "To making one Button hole, 85."

Nettie the Nailer.

"Come, Charlie, I want you to drive a few nails in the shed for me," said Nettie to her brother the other day. Charlie was splitting wood at the time, and the father overhearing the request, John, said to his father, "Why not drive them yourself?" "Because I can't," she replied. "Why, McCarthy says there's no such word in the book. Come here and I'll show you how to drive the nail." With hammer in one hand and nails in the other he went into the shed, drove a few into the door, and then gave the remainder to Nettie. She found it an easy thing to drive the nails, and felt quite proud of her accomplishment in the mechanical art. "I have completed the work," the father said. "Now, my girl, that lesson makes you independent. Some of these days I'll teach you how to drive a horse, swing a knife and write, too, with one cutting your fingers. Don't you let the doors creak on their hinges for the want of an oiled feather; or the little children's shoes get hard in the winter time for want of a little grease. And as for you, Nettie, I wish you would take care of your little seven-year-old brother, 'you ought to learn how to make a bed, sweep a room, or sew on a button. A little cooking will do you good, and you'll be glad to see my mother told me when I was a boy that I could beat any boy making a pot of coffee. EXTRA ANNOUNCEMENT!

My assortment of Goods, specially adapted for the Spring and Summer seasons, is now complete in every department. All the latest novelties are received as soon as issued, and my prices are, as usual, the most favorable in the city, for goods of similar quality, my invariable rule being never to be undersold. Ladies, therefore, should never fail to visit my store at least three times a week, as special bargains will always be found. I shall commence on Thursday, April 17th, a Special Sale of Silks, Dress Goods, and Ladies' Cotton Underwear, and assure the Ladies generally that their advantage will be consulted by a visit. Ladies, do not purchase a yard of Silk until you have examined my remarkable qualities and Low Prices. You will find that in Silks and Dress Goods, as in everything else we offer, the best value for the least money. I do not advertise to sell goods 20 per cent. cheaper than my neighbors, but will give you the best goods and choicest styles at from 5 to 10 per cent. cheaper, which I can do, as my expenses are less and I pay cash for all goods, which saves me fully 5 per cent. Everybody invited to call and see the largest, finest, and cheapest stock of Dry Goods ever shown in Ann Arbor.

JOHN N. GOTT, CHEAP CASH DRY GOODS HOUSE.

I WANT YOU

E. O. Weinert has purchased a tract of land in Texas and will remove there in the fall. He has just returned from there and is well pleased with the country.

David Gordon while out shooting one day last week shot a large white swan measuring when his wings were spread 7 feet from tip to tip. Ashley Van Duzer will set it up for him.

A poor degraded wretch giving his name as D. Allen and his home at Rochester N. Y. was arrested here on Saturday last, accused of stealing cigars from Mandt and Wallace and trading them for whiskey, eggs, garden seeds and other articles such as he could lay his hands on went in the same way. He was arraigned before Justice Gilbert plead guilty and sentenced to the county jail for four days.

An entertainment to consist of music and recitations, will be given this evening at the residence of Col. Burleigh, for the benefit of the Young Ladies Work Society of St. Andrew's Church. Admission 25 cents. Mr. W. H. Meek, the fine elocutionist, has kindly consented to assist by giving several of his very interesting recitations. Entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Easter services at the Unitarian church Sunday morning was largely attended and highly enjoyed by all present. To flowers and music an additional interest was added by the presence and participation of the Sunday School in the services of the hour. After a sermon by the pastor on the liberal idea of the Church, its ordinances and festivals, conversion and Church membership, eighteen persons united with the society.

ROBERT AT DUNDUE.—On Thursday night of last week, the depot at Dundue was broken into by thieves who carried several trunks belonging to L. E. Crandall, a merchant of that village, outside, and rifled them of their contents. The trunks contained household effects, tools, and the silver ware of the family. Mr. Cr.'s loss is estimated at $200. Fredrick Schuler, a young lady destined for Ann Arbor to work in the family of attorney Cramer, lost about $35 in wearing apparel, which was a trunk lying at the depot awaiting arrival of a train to this city.

NOTICE.—There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Washington county Pioneer Society held at their rooms in the Court house, on Saturday April 26, 1879 at 10 o'clock a. m. The University.

O. L. Mathews, law '78, expects to locate either in this or an adjoining county.

Mr. G. F. Weeks, law '80, will spend the coming vacation in the office of Judge Cooley.

William Robert Edgar, a graduate of the law department, class '71, died at Hutchinson, Kansas, March 8.

John R. Russell, of Detroit, of the senior class of the University, was on Saturday elected a Chronicle editor, vice W. F. Bryan, resigned.

Gilmore's Band received from the Student's Lecture Association $400.—Nothing was lost from the entertainment as the association cleared expenses.

Frank Garrison, of the class of '78, died suddenly in Albany a few days since. This is the second death in this class since the June commencement.

The Treasury Department is taking steps, to ascertain the facts in relation to the ownership of the Beal-Steen collection, with a view to determining whether it was entitled to entry duty free.

Out of 800 patients that have been treated in the hospital since October only two cases of death have been recorded. This is all the more flattering as many of the patients sent here are such as have been disposed of by the physicians who sent them.

We have recently received numerous and flattering solicitations from our "hosts of friends" to go down to Ann Arbor as a Regent. But we have concluded upon reflection, and a good deal of it, that, as our health is indifferent, and there is an unpleasant squabble over University matters, and also for several reasons, we will not undertake those arduous duties just at present. But our friends are entitled to our most cordial thanks, all the same.—Geo. Sanford in Lansing Journal.

The Students' Athletic Association has been incorporated, the period of incorporation being thirty years. The articles provide that all moneys raised by donation or fees shall be paid to and kept by Johnson W. Knight, Cashier of the First National Bank. The whole management of the funds thus raised is to be placed in the hands of a Board of Directors, to consist of the following: President Angell, Judge Cooley, Dr. Palmer, dean of the Medical Faculty, Prof. Moses Coit Tyler, ex-Gov. Felch and ex-Gov. Bagley.

Psi Upsilon Society of the University has completed negotiations for a site for a temple. The land is situated directly opposite the south-west corner of the Campus, on State St., and is one of the most available in the city. It is said to have cost $2,500. Work on the temple of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Society has commenced, and the building will probably be ready for occupancy by commencement time, when a grand reunion of the society will take place, and the building be dedicated.

Not many days ago Dr. Stowell, of the physiological laboratory of the University, received some specimens of a child's muscle with the request that he examine them for trichina. The child was a girl about 3 1/2 years old and lived in Iowa. She died after an illness of six weeks. Doctor Barnes, of that place, who diagnosed the case, thought that these were symptoms of trichina and the specimens were accordingly sent to Ann Arbor for examination. Dr. Stowell found two small pieces of muscle suspected of containing trichina, and after soaking them in distilled water for twelve hours he examined them with a three-quarter inch objective, when he readily found the parasites, which were numerous and plain to be seen.

DETROIT Throat & Lung Institute. MERRILL BLOOM, corner of Woodward and Jefferson aves., Detroit, Mich.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D., Prop'r. Who personally examines patients at the Institute, and who has had the most successful results in the treatment of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs, through the system of Inhalation, and the use of the most modern and perfect internal treatment.

To those who have wist they are pleased to "linger colds" we would say unhesitatingly, that you should follow the course of treatment from that pleasant delusion, that without prompt and earnest efforts in a rational and proper manner, you will never follow the course of recovery from your suffering in that "sleep which knows no waking."

Dr. J. H. Williams, M. D., has been successful in the treatment of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs, through the system of Inhalation, and the use of the most modern and perfect internal treatment.
