

Magical Meadow

There once was a little girl named Jenny. Jenny called out, "Mom, I'm going in the backyard." "Okay! Come back before dinner!" yelled Jenny's mom. "Alright!" hollered Jenny. Jenny went outside and locked the back door. She hummed cheerfully as she skipped into the woods which was in her backyard. She carried her basket outside and she filled it with blueberries. She walked deeper into the woods and saw a meadow! She picked flowers for her mom, and a squirrel bounded over and handed her a nut.

Just then, she heard something! "Fairies!" she whispered as she hid behind a bush. "Lily, can you pass me those strawberries over there?" said a fairy with an orange dress. "No problem Pumpkin! I just wish we had some blueberries." said another fairy with a lilac dress. "I know." said Pumpkin.

Suddenly, Lily said, "Who are you?" Jenny realized that the fairy was talking to her! "My name is Jenny." said Jenny slowly, slightly scared. "Hello Jenny, don't be afraid. My name is Lily, and this is my friend Pumpkin." replied Lily, pointing at the fairy with the orange dress. "Hi, Pumpkin." said Jenny. "Do you want to help decorate our cake?" asked Pumpkin. "It's the Annual Fairy Festival!" "Sure!" answered Jenny. Pumpkin grabbed some sprinkles and started decorating the cake. Jenny picked up her basket of blueberries and handed them to Lily and said, "Here. You can have them, I can pick more!" "Really? Thanks!" replied Lily.

Just then, a leopard spang out of nowhere! The leopard growled, taking one step at a time and slowly walked toward them. "SPLAT!" The leopard stepped on the cake! But the leopard did not care. "NO! Not the cake!" yelled Pumpkin. The leopard leaped toward Pumpkin. Jenny gathered all her courage, grabbed a stick nearby, and hit one of the leopard's legs. Lily and Pumpkin watched in amazement. The leopard fell down, unconscious.

"Amazing! That was awesome!" cried Lily and Pumpkin! "It's an honor to do this, we present you a necklace, in memory of us! It stands for Honesty, Loyalty, KinDness, Generosity, and Courage. Jenny put on her necklace, and they danced, and sang, and ate some cupcakes Lily had made just in case.

Suddenly, Jenny felt dizzy. It was as if she were falling and falling and falling and falling and-OOF! "Huh? What's going on?" mumbled Jenny. She was lying down in the middle of the meadow! "Must've been a dream." Jenny said to herself. Her neck was itchy so she reached to itch her neck and-the necklace, she was wearing the necklace! Jenny smiled to herself, she would always remember her amazing adventure.

"Jenny, dinnerime!" called her mom. "Coming Mom!" Jenny called back.
