Networking for Success November 16, 2016 10am-12pm

Have you ever felt a little “reluctant” when it comes to networking?

Greg Peters understands. A computer programmer by training, he was the original reluctant networker. Through study, practice, and lots of trial and error, he has been able to transform himself into a true networking professional, using the skills he learned to build a thriving Web development business.

Now, as the founder of The Reluctant Networker, LLC, Greg coaches individuals, trains staff, and presents to associations and other groups on how to get past their reluctance and start building better connections and stronger networks. He is a professional member of the National Speakers Association and the author of the audio program “Calm, Cool, and Connected at the Networking Event”.

Following the event professional headshots will be taken between 12-1pm.
This event is open to the public.

To RSVP email careerservices@aacil.org with your name and phone number.
