Mayor's Message

To the Honorable, the Common Council.

Gentlemen:—

It is apparently a custom of some years standing for the mayor, upon beginning a term of office, to send a message to the common council. In the past these messages have embodied recommendations dealing with the detailed tasks of the various city departments. They have been lengthy documents, but as far as I have been able to determine, for the most part without significance to the Council.

Section 46 of the city charter has this to say of the mayor's duties, "The mayor . . . shall from time to time give to the common Council information, in writing concerning the affairs of the corporation." If the mayor's message is to be construed as a serious attempt to give information to the council, then, it seems to me, questions of detail might better wait until the mayor has had an opportunity of studying the problems, about which he thinks his recommendations might aid the council in its work.

Accordingly I shall not try to present any suggestions for the various departments of the city at this time. If suggestions can be of any help to the council later on, they will be forthcoming. For the present I propose to limit this message to a brief survey of a few of the chief problems which the city now has under consideration, or will be compelled to meet in the near future.

Sewage Disposal

It is becoming increasingly evident that this city cannot much longer avoid a serious consideration of the problem of sewage disposal. What the city will have to do and when it will have to act, are matters that still remain to be decided. But we do know that sometime soon the city will be forced to construct elaborate and expensive facilities for avoiding pollution of the Huron river. Let us therefore continue to study this question so that when the time comes for us to solve it, we will not be forced into hasty or unconsiderate action.

Water Supply

Another of the vexing problems which we are called upon to solve is that of an adequate water supply. The most widely supported suggestion is that a filtration plant be installed and water be taken from the Huron river. There seems to be considerable objection to this plan on the part of many citizens who dislike river water. And there seems to be an insistent demand that we direct our energies in two directions: 1. Toward a further investigation of an increased supply from the Steere farm or vicinity, and tapping of the old Washington Station supply at the west end of the basin, outside of the city, also other possible sources of supply in or about Ann Arbor. 2. Toward a canvass of the wishes of the citizens in an attempt to learn what kind of water, whether natural or filtered, they prefer. Many people have decided opinions on the water question; it would seem to be advisable that opportunity be offered for their expression.

Economy

With the threat of at least two large expenditures hanging over us, it behooves as administrators of the city's funds, to be as economical as possible in our ordinary running expenses. If we cannot find means of reducing expenses, we can at least strive desperately to keep them from rising. Ann Arbor is a growing city, and the problem of economy is one with which every growing city must wrestle. Too often high taxes are entirely excused on the grounds that the city is developing. In some cases this is a legitimate reason for increasing expenses. But let us not use this as a cloak for inefficiency or extravagance or unnecessary outlay of any sort.

False Economy

In our endeavor to economize we must be careful, of course, not to carry the virtue to an excess. And particularly, we must be careful that our economies are true economies and not merely a concealment of expenditure under other headings.

Nor in our zeal to be economical, must we overlook a cardinal principle of good business, that of dealing in city affairs with responsible concerns. It has been brought to my attention that many foreign concerns come to the city, and though they fulfill the minimum terms of their contracts, manage to clear out leaving numerous unpaid bills behind them. This is poor economy for the city. We will do well to deal with firms that have a reputation for reliability; and of no one can we be better able to judge than our own townsmen.

Bus Service

A slightly different policy might well be followed in our dealings with the holder of the local street transportation franchise. The transportation system is not as extensive or as adequately serviced as many citizens of Ann Arbor would like. At the same time, we are aware, there are serious difficulties to be surmounted in putting the Ann Arbor transportation system on a profitable basis.

The committee in whose hands this problem rests will not have an easy task. On the one hand it must take into consideration the many demands made for service; on the other it must be alert to discover how many of these varied demands are justified.

In our dealings with this problem we will do well to avoid coercion in any form. If the committee finds that bus service can, and should, be improved, let us sit down amicably with the company and settle our differences as business differences must always be solved—by free and open discussion. If we are reasonable, there is at least the presumption that the Peoples Motor Coach Company will be equally reasonable. For as rational business men they realize that we, their customers, must be kept satisfied.

Education and Industry

The position of Ann Arbor is unique in that in addition to having the usual responsibilities for the welfare of its citizens, it has an added responsibility to the University and the State for the welfare of 10,000 students. Not having the duties or the age of citizens, for the most part, they have not yet the sense of responsibility that we are accustomed to demand of residents. We must co-operate with the University, therefore, in providing a proper environment. And we believe that the University will co-operate with us in respecting the rights of citizens which it may find, from time to time, at variance with its own aims.

As for the question of so regulating industry that Ann Arbor will provide a pleasant seat for the University community, that is something largely beyond the control of the organs of government. To be sure, through the operation of the zoning ordinance, the location of factories can be controlled. But the important task of encouraging only the right kind of industry to settle here must rest in the hands of our unofficial business bodies. There, as private citizens, we ought to do all that we can to assist the University, for we realize that in serving the University, we are benefitting the whole community.

Cooperation

I have by no means exhausted the list of problems which we will have to face during the next few years. The curb market, street widening, automobile parking are just a few of the host of lesser questions which now confront us. Each of them will require patience, cooperation, and thought. Primarily they will be your responsibilities, for in the final analysis, it is the council which makes the decisions by which the city machinery is set going. But they will want the best efforts of us all.

If it is within my ability to supplement your activities on behalf of the city or to aid the various departments, boards, and committees, I shall certainly do what I can to help. There is no reason why the relation between these bodies and the mayor's office should not be one of complete cooperation. Only in this way can we accomplish the many things that will be required of us.

Respectfully submitted,
EDWARD W. STAEBLER,
Mayor.

To the Honorable, the Common Council:

Re: State Housing Law Board of Appeals.

Gentlemen—At the suggestion of the City Engineer, and at the request of a representative group of architects and engineers of the City of Ann Arbor, and in accordance with the powers conferred by section 118 of the State Housing Law, I hereby appoint as a Board of Appeals to fulfill the duties prescribed in section 118 and with powers enumerated therein, the following seven men.
